Canteen Warns Of Spurious Solicitors

Junior Canteen officials Monday reported that persons not authorized to represent the youth program have been soliciting money from Midland citizens and business firms purportedly for the benefit of the canteen. The solicitors are reported to be youths.

The canteen recently conducted a tag day campaign, but has not since been contacting citizens for donations. Authorized solicitors for the canteen wear badges when they are seeking funds, and drives of this nature are given advance publicity. Miss Sonja Post, director, said.

Geologists To Hear Residue Study Reports

A special luncheon meeting of the Midland Geological Society will be held Tuesday in the Scharbauer Hotel, when reports of the present status of insoluble residue studies will be heard.

A conference for the standardization of terminology for insoluble residues now is underway here. The meeting was called by Dr. H. A. Ireland of the Midland office of the Standard Oil Company of Texas. Invitations have been extended to men in the Central and Southwest United States who have been active in residue study, and visitors are expected from Denver, Rollo, Mo., Tulsa, Norman, Wichita Falls, Austin and other points.

Speakers on the luncheon program will include Dr. Leo Hendricks of the State Bureau of Economic Geology; Dr. Ireland, Lloyd Hazeltine of Wichita Falls, and W. D. Ham of the Oklahoma Geological Survey.

Difficult To Differentiate Ir-Residue

Ir-Residue materials are the materials left when well samples are dissolved in hydrochloric acid. It is difficult to differentiate many limestone well cuttings because of the similarity of appearance but the residues of limestone such as chert, sand grains, shale fragments, pyrite and other minerals the diagnostic for identification and correlation of beds. The use of residues is particularly applicable to the recognition and sub-division of the Ellenburger and Siluro-Devonian beds in Texas, especially in West Texas, and has been used for beds of equivalent age in Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois.

Soviets, Yanks Work To Solve Shooting Of Two Americans

VIENNA —(P)—Russian and American investigators, working in close cooperation, were near to a solution Monday of the shooting of two American military policemen Saturday night.

The Americans, both recovering in an Army hospital, were shot when they attempted to stop a stolen American jeep in which three Russian soldiers were riding.

Russian police and investigators have worked with the American provost marshal on the case from the beginning. A number of Russians were still under questioning Monday and one of the occupants of the stolen jeep was in custody.

The two Americans were shot when they pulled their jeep beside the stolen jeep. A Russian reached out and fired at close range, hitting both soldiers in the face.

Eisenhower Credits Air Power, Teamwork, Invincibility Of Spirit As Causes Of Victory

WASHINGTON —(P)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower recorded in his final report Monday as supreme Allied commander in Europe that he was kept in the dark about Russia's grand strategy until four months before V-E Day.

Then Marshall Stalin came through with full plans for the Red Army's final offensive, which became one jaw of a vise that crushed the German war machine "to a degree never before experienced in the history of modern armies."

Eisenhower's belatedly published 123-page detailed report to the combined chiefs of staff covered the fateful 11 months from D-Day in Normandy to the German surrender. It was released by the War Department, which said only minor details were deleted for security reasons.

In the present Army chief of staff recorded briefly his difficulties of coordination with the Red Army while lauding the teamwork of the Western Allies. The United States and Great Britain, he said, fought as "one nation."

Aside from teamwork, Eisenhower concluded that the victory was due to Allied might and "invincibility of spirit" and to miscalculations by Hitler and Field Marshal von Rundstedt, the Nazi commander in the west.

In Eisenhower's judgment, three battles were decisive in liberating Europe:

1. The battle of the Normandy beaches, where the foe was revealed as a stubborn fighter but beset by difficulties of supply and communications resulting largely from the Allied hammering from the air. "Completely misled" by Allied diversionary operations, von Rundstedt held the bulk of his forces in the Pas-De-Calais opposite England, waiting for a second assault which never came.
2. The battle of the Falaise pocket, where the enemy "showed

Waiting is tough on us, too

For months we've been hoping to present each and every one of you with the new Packards you've ordered, and have been waiting for so patiently.

Last fall, the outlook was good. Packard was confident it would double its pre-war output in 1946. (The factory is equipped to turn out far more than that.)

Look what has happened!

Then came material shortages. Parts shortages. For reasons completely beyond its own control, Packard was able to keep its assembly line moving only nine days in the first quarter of this year.

In the meantime...

Our friends have kept calling us up and asking, "Hey! Where's that new Packard I ordered weeks ago?" Many of these are old friends—Packard owners since 'way back.

But to make life more complicated, everybody seems to want one of these grand new Packards. Over 65% of the people out to buy new Packards are now driving some other make.

Honest, it's gotten so we hate to answer the telephone or look our friends in the face. But...

Your patience will pay off!

One of these days, the shortage of parts and materials is bound to ease up. And when it does, those twin-assembly lines at Packard will really roll.

Anyway, you can depend on this:

As fast as the factory ships cars to us, we'll do everything we can to deliver yours at the earliest possible moment.

So, we hope you'll be patient a little longer. We're doing the best we can, and so are the folks at the factory!

The Challenge Of Russia

Two authors of widely different political backgrounds and temperaments have recently and separately reached a common conclusion about Russia. They are Max Eastman, self-styled radical and former admirer and defender of the Soviet system, and John Foster Dulles, Republican, international lawyer, and expert on foreign affairs. Their conclusion is that Russia is embarked upon a long-range policy of world domination.

Dulles bases his opinion on Russia's domestic policy and her visible course of expansion in the last seven years. Eastman quotes from Prime Minister Stalin's book, "Problems of Leninism," from other Soviet writings, and from speeches by Stalin and other Russian leaders.

The approach of each writer differs from that of the other. Eastman stresses the copious record of Soviet commitment to world revolution. Dulles feels that today the Kremlin's emphasis is less on revolution than on "security."

But both seem to agree, out of their mutually broad and intimate experience with Russian thought, that the Soviet Union considers democratic capitalism a dangerous, implacable enemy that must be overcome, and believes that the Soviet Union will not be safe until the Soviet political ideal is dominant and unchallenged throughout the world.

The logic of both authors seems sound. Their evidence can be read or beheld. Perhaps, then, it is time that the American government and the American people stop generating so much oratorical heat and start facing facts and making concerted, intelligent plans for averting a crisis.

The government may at length have decided where its course lies. But the people have not. And it is up to the United States, as one of the world's strongest nations, to oppose Russia's world plans.

Too many of us waste too much hatred on Russia. We give way to hot, exasperated, impotent rage at the inconsistencies of Russia's professed democracy and at the inflammatory actions of Russia's Communist followers in this country. But fuming and spluttering will get us nowhere.

Russian policy is what it is, and we might as well accept it. Hatred and anger might better be hardened into a determination to face the facts, accept the challenge, and prevent the ultimate showdown.

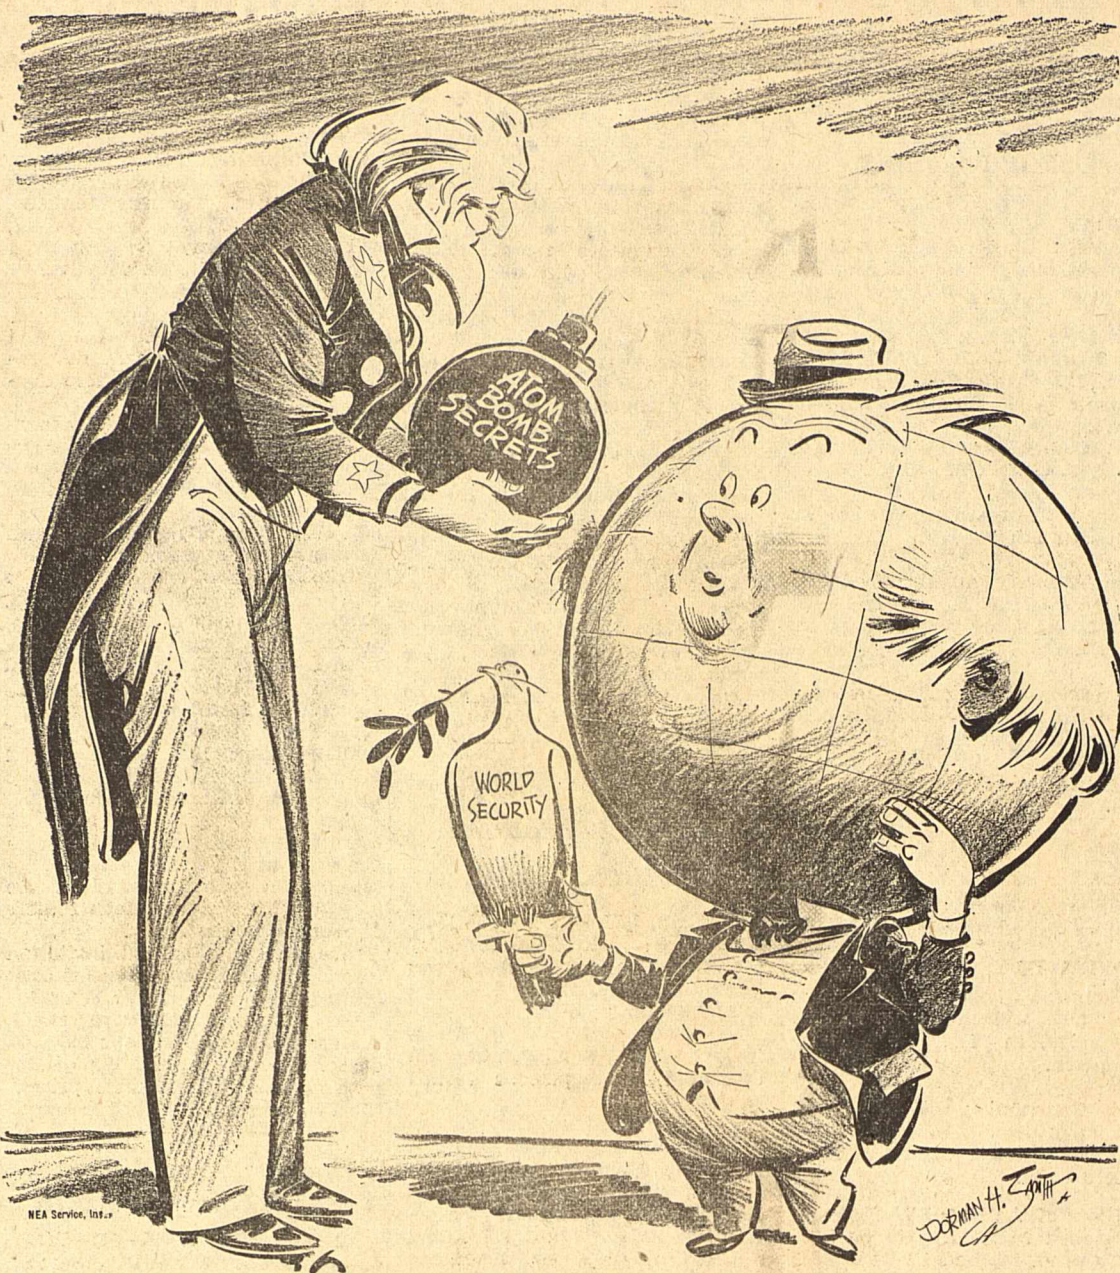

Since communism spreads through hunger, discontent, confusion and apathy, the American people need to get together and get going. We must change our selfish thinking, put our house in order, compose industrial strife, and do something about the more glaring inequities of our social system. If we cannot feed the hungry of other lands through humanitarianism, then we must do it through cold-blooded practicality.

Domestic and international problems no longer exist separately. Millionaires, anti-Communist labor leaders, all who cherish American democracy must form a solid front and maintain our moral, economic and military strength. We must prove to the world by example that our way of life is best. We must be tolerant of other political systems, but we must be strong enough to insist on tolerance in return.

For only when a world political policy of live-and-let-live is established will the United Nations really be able to start functioning effectively. Only then will the prospect of lasting peace really be bright.

It is estimated a cow moves its jaws about 41,000 times a day—and doesn't say a thing to hurt anybody.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Last year 40 players competed in the intercollegiate golf championship, at Columbus, Ohio. This week at Princeton, N. J., 49 schools have entered 160 golfers and by the time they finish taking Springdale court apart you may find some contenders for the national amateur title. . . . Tex Coulter, who couldn't represent West Point in any big track meet this spring because of scholastic deficiencies, will not get a fling at the AAU shot put title this week for the same reason. . . . Incidentally, the Giants' Steve Owen claims that three years of pro football would make Coulter the greatest tackle of all time. . . . If Tex goes through with his plan to become a wingman at Georgia Tech, you can say plenty of opposing backs will come to a bad end.

TUESDAY, JUNE 25, 1946, FROM 8:00 P. M. TO 10:30 P. M.

NO MERCHANDISE WILL BE SOLD BEFORE WEDNESDAY MORNING

The formal opening on Tuesday night will not be for the purpose of selling merchandise. Its purpose is to acquaint you with the location, the arrangement of the building, the general type of merchandise now in stock (to be expanded and enlarged as market conditions allow), and to give you a cordial welcome to the store — both at the time of the formal opening and at later times when we can be of greater service to you. You have a cordial invitation to be our guests at the opening — and as a token of our appreciation for your interest there will be flowers for all the ladies and smokes for all the men. We look forward with pleasure to seeing you Tuesday night.

GOOD QUALITY MERCHANDISE AND REASONABLE PRICES WILL PREVAIL

It will be our policy in buying furniture to be placed in the homes of the people of Midland and the surrounding region to make every conscientious effort to determine your wishes and needs and to place our orders with manufacturers and wholesale houses in keeping with your desires. We have excellent buying connections, and even though all of the items most wanted now will not be immediately available in adequate quantities, you may be fully confident that your needs will be anticipated and that the merchandise you want will be available here when it is available anywhere in this trade territory. Our experience is at your command.

 IN the big gymnasium, Sally encountered Dora Bronson, and the two had a strenuous bout with the medicine ball after which they flung themselves side by side on an exercise mat. They were panting a little and lay for a few minutes relaxed and quiet.
 "Did you hear about Marion Phillips in 315, Sally?" Dora, who was never silent long, asked.
 "No, Marion Phillips—the actress? Is she here in Lanton, Dora?"
 "She sure is—in 315. Stomach ulcer. Pretty bad, I guess. Ripped. They've had to give her three transfusions already. Imagine dieting the rest of your life. Some fun!"
 Sally laughed and rolled over on her stomach. "To hear you talk one would imagine you were a glutton."
 "Which I am, darling," Dora said, kicking up her heels. "I'm disgracefully plebeian in my tastes, Sally. I quite frankly like to eat. After all, it's one of the few pleasures I can enjoy without comment. If I dance there are dozens who do it better. If I sing—and heavens knows I can't—people stop their ears. I'm a fair nurse but there are hundreds better. I'm certainly not ornamental but can I eat! Oh, brother!"
 Sally laughed again as she flung an arm about the younger girl. "You're a darling, Dora Bronson," she said, drawing the other close to her. "You're sweet and wholesome and lovely and I don't care who disagrees. And to some lucky man you will one day be the loveliest creature in the world."
 THE eyes of plain little Dora Bronson were bright as she gazed at the ceiling of the big gymnasium. "Do you really believe that, Sally?" she asked softly. "They—they always seem to pass me by—the really desirable ones. It's—it's sort of discouraging."

 Sally gave her a little shake. "The right one won't pass you by, Dora. And don't tell me you have your eye on anyone already—at your age!"
 "In 21," the other stated belligerently. "I'm not getting any better looking as I get older either."
 Sally sprang to her feet. "Looks—looks—looks!" she stormed. "What are looks? Some of the very nicest people I know are plain on the surface but one forgets it after knowing them. And let me tell you something, you little goose. A man, if he's worth anything, doesn't care a noot if the girl he loves is beautiful in other men's eyes as long as she is lovely to him."
 Dora stared at her friend quizzically for a long moment. "And how, may I ask, do you happen to know so much about it? How does it happen that you speak with authority? From what I've heard about you from the others, you don't care for men—aren't the least bit interested in men. You've even gone so far as to take a vow of celibacy or something and intend devoting your life to good works."
 Sally's gray eyes clouded. "Is that all you heard about me, Dora? Didn't anyone ever tell you about Blair?" She thought fast. This was the time. The name rolled easily off her tongue ready-made. Where had she known or even heard of a man named Blair?
 Dora was startled. Her blue eyes were wide with interest. "Blair? Blair who?" she demanded.
 "BLAIR CANFIELD," Sally hoped she wouldn't forget

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
 America's Card Authority

After World War I there was a tremendous boom in bridge. Just before World War II some people thought that interest in bridge had dropped off, but that has gone by the wayside. From present indications bridge, especially tournament bridge, is headed for another terrific boom. Each week the American Contract Bridge League receives applications for new tournaments, while established tournaments are showing a 25 per cent to 50 per cent increase in attendance.
 Some of the country's finest players will combine a vacation and bridge at the Adirondack Tournament to be held July 3 to 7 at Adirondack Inn, Sacandaga Park N. Y. The New England delegation will include Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ansin of Brookline, Mass.

 Mrs. Ansin reasoned wisely on today's hand. She refused to win the first and second diamond trick, but won the third round and then knocked out the ace of hearts.
 South could not return a diamond and led back a spade, which Mrs. Ansin won with the jack. She knocked out the ace of clubs and thus made her contract.
 Some players would make the mistake of winning the first diamond, being sure of two diamond tricks. But Mrs. Ansin reasoned that South had to hold the two missing aces to justify his spade bid. When North refused to open a spade and led a diamond, a five-card diamond suit in his hand was probably indicated.
 If Mrs. Ansin had won the first diamond, North could have defeated the contract simply by staying off the second diamond and winning the third.

Phillies Win 17 Of Last 23 Tilts And Threaten National's First Division

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
Baseball fans, ever ready to cheer for the underdog, have switched their allegiance from Tom Yawkey's millionaire Boston Red Sox to Bob Carpenter's from-rags-to-riches Philadelphia Phillies, who threatened Monday to bolt the National League's second division where they've held an ironclad lease for 13 years.

Less than a month ago, the Phils—futile Phils then—were languishing in their familiar cellar abode with eight victories and 24 defeats. Philly fans were resigned to another eighth place club, which looked as if it might set a new record for games lost.

Americans Favored As Wimbledon Tennis Tournament Opens

LONDON—(AP)—A powerful United States tennis team Monday begins the defense of all five titles in the Wimbledon championships with a good chance of repeating the 1939 American grand slam—if they can repel the challenge of Dennis Pails of Australia.

Pails is seeded number one in men's singles ahead of Californian Jack Kramer who will have to beat him in the finals. With his countryman, Geoff Brown, Pails is top-seeded in the men's doubles.

Pails can be beaten. Pancho Segura, the Ecuador chatterbox, proved that Saturday in the London grass courts tournament in a three-set match.

None of the eight seeded men are threatened seriously in Monday's first round matches which see all 128 entrants in action on 16 courts.

The women's elimination begins Tuesday but there is no worry for the Americans there.

Pauline Betz and Margaret Osborne are favored to fight it out for the ladies' singles title in an all-California tangle. U. S. Champions Osborne and Louise Brough are considered certain to win the doubles title.

That leaves only the mixed doubles—the fifth event—where Louise Brough and Tom Brown are favored.

Since that date, May 29, the Phils—flaming Phils now—have won 17 of 23 and have climbed to sixth place, only one and a half notches away from fourth place—and the first division.

A standing-room-only crowd watched their favorites earn a victory and a tie in their double header with the Cincinnati Reds Sunday.

Both contests were overtime duels, with the Phils winning the first game 5-4 on Jim Tabor's 12th-inning home run for their fourth in a row, and the second halted by Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law with the score tied at 3-3 at the end of 11 frames.

Red Sox Win Twice
The American League leading Red Sox appear to be back in their winning stride after their double rubbing of the Cleveland Indians 6-1 and 6-0.

The sweep enabled the Red Sox to increase their first place lead to seven games over the Yankees, although the Bronx Bombers defeated the Detroit Tigers 10-8 in 11 innings.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to two and a half games over the runner-up Cardinals by taking the rubber game of the three-game series with the Redbirds 4-2.

The third place Chicago Cubs emerged all even after a torrid slugfest with the New York Giants by winning the second game 9-4 after dropping the first, 15-10. In all, 55 hits were made by both sides, 16 for extra bases, including five home runs.

The Boston Braves moved into fourth place with a double victory over Pittsburgh, 4-3 and 4-0. Washington and St. Louis' Browns split a twin bill, exchanging 7-4 scores.

After absorbing an 8-1 lacing by the Chicago White Sox, the Philadelphia Athletics came back to win the second game, 6-1.

City Bus Shades Elder Chevrolet

City Bus beat Elder Chevrolet in a "photo-finish" exhibition softball game Sunday afternoon, 12 to 11.

It was a pitcher's battle that City Bus won in the last inning. Jones tossed for the Busmen; Flournoy for the Chevrolets.

City Bus came to bat one run behind in the last frame. Newman walked and stole second. Baze hit and scored Newman for the tying run. Then Maestro Petty came up and hit, scoring Baze with the winning tally.

Track Stars Begin To Arrive For National AAU

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — Texans looked forward Monday to the spectacle of a fellow able to run in the spike prints of this state's great Fred Wolcott.

Down here they figured there will never be another quite like Flynn Freddie, the blond blur of Rice, who left so many hurdlers records behind they can't even keep track of them. But from Baldwin-Wallace, a college in Ohio, comes Harrison Dillard, negro star. He has already tied Wolcott's world's 20-yard low hurdles mark at 22.5 and he is aiming at Freddie's 22.6 in the National AAU 200-meter hurdles.

The National AAU will be held here Friday and Saturday with Dillard entered in both the highs and lows and considered a sure shot to win them. He swept the hurdles in the National Collegiate meet last weekend at Minneapolis and in the lows wiped out a stadium mark held by Wolcott when he raced in with a time of 23 flat.

Records May Fall
Dillard and Herb McKenley, another negro star, will be the headliners of the AAU. McKenley, the Illinois comet, won both the 440 and 220-yard dashes at the NCAA. He's entered in the 400 and 200 meters here and will be trying for a world record in the former. He has done 440 in 46.2. The record for 400 meters is 46 flat.

The Midwest seems destined to dominate the AAU with such fellows as Dillard, McKenley; Bob Fitch, Minnesota's world-record smasher in the discus throw, and Bill Bangert, Purdue's muscle man, who will be a favorite in the shot put although he was beaten out in this event at the NCAA by Bernie Mayer of New York University.

The nation's great in track and field were rolling into San Antonio Monday, most of them coming direct from the NCAA. They want to get in early tests of the Alamo Stadium track where the big meet is to be held. There will be 600 to 700 here for the two divisions—the Junior class Friday night and the blue-ribbon senior division Saturday afternoon.

Shreveport Girl Wins Texas Tennis Tourney

DALLAS—(AP)—Helene McCarter of Shreveport, La., won the singles title of the Lone Star women's tennis tournament here Sunday with a 7-5, 6-3 defeat of Margaret Eby of Houston.

Nancy Armor, Dallas, won the girls' junior singles over Carolyn Craugh, Dallas, 6-1, 6-3.

The women's doubles title went to Bobby Gilchrist and Patt Torti, both of Dallas, who won 3-6, 6-3, 6-3 over Miss McCarter and Miss Eby.

Mary Cunningham and Daurice Vowell, both of El Paso, defeated Leota Spencer of Austin and Gloria Quinn of Dallas, 6-3, 6-3 to win the junior doubles.
