JESTER AND RAINEY IN RUN-OFF

New Decontrol Board Of Price Control Is Named By Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman named the men of "judgment and fairness" who will form the decontrol board set up under the new Price Control Act. Roy L. Thompson, chairman. He is a Southern banker and economics professor and has been president of the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans. George H. Mead. He is a Middle Western industrialist, organizer and board chairman of the Mead Pulp & Paper Co. of Dayton, Ohio. He was chairman of the industrial advisory board under the NRA and later an industry member of the War Labor Board.

21 Nations Open Peace Convention In Paris Monday

PARIS (AP)—Top diplomats and a sprinkling of military experts from 21 nations will meet in the sprawling Luxembourg Palace at 8 a. m. (CST) Monday to open debate on peace treaties to shape the future of 83,000,000 inhabitants of five former enemy countries. Convoiced by the United States, Russia, Britain, and France, the Paris peace conference offers 17 invited nations the chance to make recommendations—but recommendations only—on pacts with Italy, Rumania, Finland, Hungary and Bulgaria.

The treaties already have been drafted by the foreign ministers of the four major powers. Among other details, the pacts would limit the former Axis satellites to armies totaling 495,000 men for all five, and would exact total reparations of more than $1,000,000,000.

By comparison with the 1919 Versailles peace parley after World War I, the importance of the Paris conference is limited by two major factors:

Treaties Are Prepared
1. Treaties already have been prepared, whereas 27 years ago 32 nations participated actively in writing the original pacts. Final treaties will not be concluded here, but by the United States, Russia, Britain and France after this conference.

2. The treaty with Germany—another European adversary of the Allies—has not been prepared and will not be discussed formally by the 1500 delegates expected to attend. It will be written at a subsequent international conference.

Among the leading delegates are U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov; Prime Minister Clement Attlee, substituting for the ailing British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin; French President and Foreign Minister delegates are: Australian Minister of External Affairs H. V. Evatt; Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk; New Zealand Finance Minister Walter Nash and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Diplomatic informants say the conference, while in many respects a mere formality, "will be as important as the Big Four want it to be."

House Passes Bill To Give States Title To Tidewater Areas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Saturday passed and sent to the White House a Senate-approved bill giving states clear title to tidewater areas often rich in oil deposits.

The roll call vote was 188 to 67. No Texans voted against the bill.

The measure renounces federal claims, raised in recent years, to the submerged lands along the coasts and inland navigable waterways.

Speculation started immediately as to whether President Truman would sign or veto the legislation. Senate Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky declared last Monday, when the Senate passed the bill 44 to 34, that he hoped it would be rejected by Truman.

Chinese Will Reject Truce

NANKING (AP)—A new Communist—proposed unconditional truce for China, which apparently carried the blessings of U. S. Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart, faced flat rejection Saturday by the National government.

The government will reject unconditional cessation of hostilities unless an agreement for reorganizing China's armies and restoring communications is effected at the same time. Minister of Information Peng Hsueh-pei told a press conference in Shanghai.

The spokesman's statement came shortly after Ambassador Stuart declared it "useless to discuss permanent unification of China and other political questions until we are able to end the fighting."

Geron is the incumbent. Incomplete returns from 10 of the 13 counties showed Elliott had 6,178 votes to Geron's 2,767. Midland County gave Elliott 2,308 votes and Geron 628.

In a telephone conversation, Elliott expressed appreciation to Midland voters for the big majority.

Police Are Hampered In Mob Inquiry

By BENNETT DELOACH, MONROE, GA. (AP)—

The head of the Georgia State Police told newsmen he had been hampered in his investigation of the massacre of four negroes near here Thursday because "the best people in town won't talk about this."

"They have an idea who it is," the police head said. "We've been out on things like this before, but never anything like this."

In Atlanta, Gov. Ellis Arnall announced he was offering rewards totaling more than $10,000 for a solution of the mob killing of two negro farm hands and their wives.

Grimly, he said "I am directing the Georgia Bureau of Investigation to keep its investigators in Walton County until the guilty parties have been identified and turned over to law enforcement officers."

Meanwhile, preparations for the burial of Roger Malcolm, his wife George Dorsey and his wife, victims of the lynching, were attracting scores of visitors to the funeral parlor.

Grand Dragon Samuel Green of the Ku Klux Klan said his organization "had nothing to do" with the mob action, but that he expected Arnall "will try to pin it on us."

Close-Range Inspection Of Fleet Impossible

ABOARD USS MT. MCKINLEY (AP)—Bikini Lagoon was so dangerously radioactive Sunday, three full days after the atomic bomb explosion, that no one was permitted to make close-range inspection of the damaged target fleet.

Only fast-moving patrol boats made quick dashes to the edges of the invisible radiation "walls" which hemmed in the targets.

To the list of apparently damaged ships was added the battleship Nevada, which was seen to be listing.

Latest unofficial opinion in the joint task force concluded that none of the four wounded battleships, Nevada, New York, Pennsylvania or the Japanese Nagato, was now in danger of sinking.

Rainey Confident Of Success In Run-off Primary

AUSTIN (AP)—Dr. Homer P. Rainey Saturday night expressed confidence he would win the Democratic nomination for governor in the forthcoming run-off.

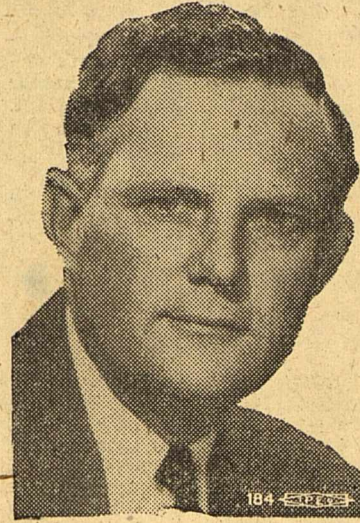

"The people of Texas have indicated clearly they want an honest and courageous state government and they are prepared to do battle for it," he said.

"The job which has been so magnificently begun will result in a triumphant victory for our cause on August 24."

Two Cruisers Added To Wounded List

ABOARD USS MT. MCKINLEY (AP)—The chief of construction of the Navy Bureau of Ships added the cruisers Pensacola and Salt Lake City to the list of target vessels damaged by Wednesday's underwater atomic bomb—but removed the Battleship New York from the wounded list.

Keith, Johnson And Dozier Win Midland County Offices

Three Midland County officials apparently failed to win renomination in Saturday's Democratic Primary, unofficial returns from all five voting boxes indicated Saturday night.

Clifford C. Keith, on the unofficial count, had 1,569 votes for county judge compared with 1,477 for E. H. Barron, the incumbent.

Mrs. Lucile Johnson had 1,672 votes for county clerk against 1,386 for Mrs. Susie G. Noble, the incumbent. Mrs. Minnie Dozier received 2,036 votes for county treasurer, defeating Miss Lois Patterson, the incumbent.

In the race for nomination for commissioner of Precinct No. 1, J. C. Roberts, the incumbent, apparently will go into a runoff next month with Sherwood O'Neal. Roberts got 1,264 votes, O'Neal 1,024 and Charles J. Aiken 499.

In the constable race W. C. Durham got 1,445 votes to W. H. Westcott's 1,084.

Daniel, Culberson, Shivers Are Leaders In Other Contests

The first runoff since 1934 was indicated in the Texas governor's race early Sunday with late returns from the Texas Election Bureau showing Beauford Jester and Homer P. Rainey leading the 12-man race.

Jester was far in the lead with almost 40 per cent of the total vote cast up to midnight. He had taken an early lead and held it.

The votes in the governor's race, 96 counties out of 254 reporting but with only five complete: Jester 58,652, Rainey 35,168, Grover Sellers 22,047, Jerry Sadler 16,658 and John Lee Smith 14,043. Casa March was next with 2,883. Votes for others in the race were in the hundreds at midnight.

Senator Tom Connally won easily for reelection, without a runoff. He polled 84,201 votes, far more than the needed majority over his four opponents.

Closest race was that for attorney general, where Price Daniel led Pat Neff Jr., 72,483 to 69,980. This was a two-man race, and the winner will have no runoff.

The contest for lieutenant governor was a see-saw affair from the first, with Jo Ed Winfree taking an early lead on votes from his home area, then losing it later to Allan Shivers and Boyce House. At midnight, Shivers led with 49,055, House was second with 46,429, and Winfree third with 21,051. Shivers, in the lead, had only 34.7 per cent of the vote and a runoff was indicated.

Although only 160,000 of the state's potential 1,800,000 votes had been counted at a late hour Saturday night, the Texas Election Bureau said it was a "definite trend." In most races, it had held firmly through the night.

Other Races
Railroad Commissioner—Olin Culberson 74,266, Mac Coker 26,422, Ike Lyons 7,325.

Treasurer—Jesse James 74,692, Clarence Williams 33,157.

The negro vote was heavy. There was no disturbance of any kind reported.

In Houston, M. L. O. Andrews, chairman of the Harris County Democratic Committee, said the negroes seemed to be voting as an "absolute machine."

Carries Ector County
The Texas Election Bureau said that according to incomplete returns from the 11th District, Rainey had shown a lead in only four counties. Partial reports showed a decisive lead in Hutchinson County and narrow margins in Archer, Houston and Ector.

In congressional races, the position at midnight was: State Senator L. J. Sulak, LaGrange, recaptured the lead for congressman from the Ninth District from Rep. Joseph J. Mansfield. Returns from the Texas Election Bureau gave Sulak 1,900 votes to 1,564 for Mansfield.

Rep. Lyndon Johnson of the 10th District claimed an "overwhelming victory" in his congressional race with Hardy Hollers.

Returns compiled by the Austin American at 11 p. m. gave Johnson 26,176 to 9,945 votes for Hollers.

In the Third District, Rep. Lindworth held his lead over his two war veteran opponents. The election bureau returns showed Beckworth 13,217, Roberts 8,049 and Meredith 5,919.

Voting was heavy from the start. A record turnout was predicted freely, as hot, clear weather prevailed.

The candidates themselves cast their ballots early.

All other candidates combined received only five votes. These same 1,735 votes went solidly to Tom Connally for senator, Olin Culberson for railroad commissioner, J. E. McDonald for agriculture commissioner, Jesse James for treasurer, George H. Sheppard for comptroller, and John H. Sharp for supreme court. In many of

Negroes Vote In Midland County

A larger-than-expected negro vote was polled in Midland County Saturday as members of the race voted for the first time in history a Democratic Primary in Midland County.

The heaviest voting of negroes was noted at the Precinct No. 5 poll in the City-County Auditorium where about 25 negroes marked their ballots. No protests occurred.

Most of the negroes brought mimeograph sheets with the names of one candidate beside each office. Others brought written-out lists of candidates. Some had only the first names.

When questioned about where he got one of the mimeograph sheets, one negro man said, "I typed it."

Most of the negroes asked election officials to show them how to mark the ballot, and a few wrote notes next to names scratched out, saying such things as he or she "done me wrong." One negro man puzzled over his ballot 15 or 20 minutes, then turned it in blank. Another tore his up, not knowing that was against voting regulations.

The mimeograph sheet carried the names of most of the present county officials, and listed Dr. Homer P. Rainey for governor.

Li Li-San Stands As Trotsky Of Chinese

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The nearest thing to a Leon Trotsky in Chinese Communism is a short, agratic, florid-faced man in his fifties named Li Li-San.

His name may become well-known, because like Trotsky he lost out in a bitter party row years ago—but unlike Trotsky, he has gone back.

That is, he has gone back as far as Manchuria, where Associated Press Correspondent John Rodrick found him the other day in Harbin. Li was using another name, but readily admitted he was the one-time radical tough guy of Chinese Communism.

He may have changed, as he seems to be getting along all right with Communist Commander Lin Biao, but he arrived from Russia not long ago and already his influence seems apparent in Manchuria, says Rodrick.

Li was educated in France and was one of the founders of the Chinese Communist Party along with Mao Tse-Tung, the present Stalin of China.

How close he is to the Kremlin remains to be seen.

Los Angeles, which covers 451,867 square miles, is the largest city area in the world.

United Nations Military Staff Is Marking Time

NEW YORK — (AP) — The United Nations military staff committee, potentially one of the most powerful groups in world history, apparently is marking time with a sharp eye on global developments.

Charged with setting up an international land, sea and air force, the committee operates in such strict secrecy that after six months of sessions here virtually nothing is known of the progress, if any, made by the generals and admirals.

The chiefs of staff of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China have seats on the committee.

The security council, its parent body, still awaits reports from the committee.

This much is known:

Much of the committee's time is spent arguing over words which have a shade different meaning when translated to another language.

Apparently nothing much is going to come out of the committee until the peace treaty conferences in Paris end.

Butter Goes Begging In Dallas Markets

DALLAS — (AP) — Butter went begging at 79, 80 and 85 cents per pound in Dallas Saturday and bacon was a slow seller at 69 cents per pound.

Meat and dairy counters were piled high.

"We can get all the butter we want," said William Clark, grocer, "but women simply aren't buying it at 79 cents a pound."

Clark said that suppliers were asking ten cents over the old OPA prices after the subsidy had been figured in.

Cleomargarine was scarce and high, too. The wholesale price had risen from 32 to 40 cents per pound.

Sirloin steaks were selling at 52 and 54 cents per pound, salt pork and ground hamburger, 40 cents.

Pro-Rainey Forces Win Austin Battle

AUSTIN — (AP) — Pro-Rainey forces seized control of the Ward 2-C Precinct convention here Saturday night after a brief, sharp struggle involving key personalities in the continuing fight among Texas Democrats.

Spearheading the faction friendly to Dr. Homer P. Rainey was Herman Jones, who led the pro-Roosevelt faction to the Chicago convention in 1944. Lead-off man for the opposition was Charles E. Simmons, who was deposed as secretary of the state executive committee when pro-Roosevelt Democrats took control of the party machinery in the Dallas convention in September, 1944.

The battle in Rainey's home election ward could be interpreted as a foretaste of what may happen in county conventions next Saturday, and in the state convention Sept. 10.

The pro-Rainey group took the reins on a 55 to 38 test vote.

USO Completes Campaign Plans

$100,000,000 Cancer Control Bill Beaten

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A $100,000,000 cancer control program was turned down by the House Saturday.

Rental Housing To Be Encouraged

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rent ceilings on new construction will be set at levels designed to encourage rental housing on a large scale although efforts will be made to keep rentals in line with veterans' needs, the Federal Housing Administration announced Saturday.

Wilson W. Wyatt, national housing expediter, and Raymond M. Foley, FHA commissioner, said in a joint statement:

"Under an agreement concluded with the Office of Price Administration rent ceilings on new construction no longer must be held within 20 per cent of ceiling rents for comparable existing housing."

Their statement added that this will allow the FHA more freedom of action in meeting difficult production problems in high cost areas. The $99 per month top limit for rentals will continue under the veterans emergency housing program, Wyatt and Foley noted.

Duval County Wins First Place Honors

DALLAS — (AP) — Duval County, as usual, was one of the first to report to the Texas Election Bureau, and also as usual was almost solid in its voting.

Grover Sellers swept the county with 1,735 votes for governor. Only five votes were cast for other candidates for governor, Jerry Sadler and John Lee Smith both receiving two votes and Homer P. Rainey one.

AUSTIN — (AP) — Advance sale of 1946 University of Texas Football tickets is already 650 per cent greater than in 1945. Longhorn athletic officials reported Saturday.

All records for advance sales have been broken, with the Texas-Texas A. and M. Thanksgiving Day game setting up the greatest demand for tickets, Business Manager Ed Ollie said.

Officials estimated that 100,000 people want to see the Turkey Day battle which will be played in Memorial Stadium at Austin.

HAIR LOSES LUSTER WHEN DUNKED IN CHLORINATED WATER

By ALICIA HART NEA Staff Writer

Back—and praises be—are rubber bathing caps, which again give you head covers that resist seepage of salt or chlorinated water. Doused in either kind of water, hair takes on a harsh coating and loses its luster fast.

If you aren't lucky enough to snag one of the limited supply of rubber caps, there are ways by which you can fortify other caps for protection when you swim.

A strip of chamolis or flannel cloth, for instance, wrapped around your head and secured with a snap fastener can be used under any type of cap to repel water.

If, in spite of taking precautions, you come out of a half-galmer with hair as drippy as seaweed, take a springboard bow, and beat it for the shampoo basin.

Hair which has grown brittle from overuses of chlorine or salt should have a hot oil treatment once a week to restore lost luster.

State Elections

these races, opponents failed to receive a single vote. Only exception in Duval's voting was in the lieutenant governor's race, where Allan Shivers received 1411, and Boyce House 350.

Connolly Has Good Lead

Senator Tom Connolly, as expected, took an early commanding lead and increased it with later returns. His election over four minor candidates seemed assured without a runoff.

Homer P. Rainey and his wife had to stand in line for five minutes in Austin before they could cast their ballots at a fire station voting box across the street from their home.

In Corsicana, Beauford Jester cast ballot number 835 shortly after noon in the Navarro County courthouse.

Grover Sellers, after voting at Sulphur Springs 15 minutes before the polls opened, returned to his farm home and aided in balling hay.

Jerry Sadler, who had to cancel part of his speaking engagements in the past two weeks because of the illness of his wife, was in Austin.

Voting Is Orderly

Voting progressed throughout the day in orderly fashion.

At Tyler, District Attorney Craven Baird said he and a city policeman had seized approximately 400 printed "unofficial" ballots, mimeograph forms and printed approved lists of state, congressional, county and precinct candidates from a Tyler negro church and barber shop.

Baird said negroes were showing other negroes how to mark ballots.

Arab Head Rejects Palestine Division

LONDON — (AP) — The Arab executive in Palestine Saturday night rejected any partition of Palestine, and asserted that it would not meet with Jews in any conference, as suggested by Britain.

Jewish spokesman also denounced the idea of dividing Palestine into federally-governed Arab and Jewish provinces, proposed by the British-American cabinet committee and advanced by Britain as a basis for negotiations.

The British Foreign Office, disclosing Britain's acceptance of the proposal as a basis of negotiations, announced invitations to a conference had been sent to the seven Arab League states.

But a Jewish leader in London denounced the projected conference as an attempt to avoid having the Palestine issue raised before the United Nations.

Colonel Says Request Was Received For MPs

SHREVEPORT — (AP) — Five Barksdale military policemen, sent to Marshall, Texas, Saturday at the request of an officer of the National Guard, had "nothing to do" with the state election and were withdrawn as soon as citizens protested, Col. Victor H. Strahm, commanding officer of the field, said.

The MPs were sent on a "purely routine mission," said Strahm, to assist local officials in maintaining discipline among any Barksdale soldiers who might have been present. The MP patrol was requested, Strahm said, by an officer of the Texas National Guard named Bryant, whom Strahm believes to hold the rank of major.

Telephoned Saturday morning by Millard Coker of Marshall, who reported local residents could not understand presence of the patrol, Colonel Strahm immediately recalled the men.

"I recalled them immediately," said Strahm, "and they are back here now."

Military Police At Polls In Marshall

MARSHALL, TEXAS — (AP) — The Marshall News-Messenger said Saturday that military police, armed with pistols and clubs were seen around polling places here during the morning but were recalled shortly before noon after citizens had filed unofficial protests.

The military policemen were reported by the newspaper to have been from Barksdale Field at Shreveport. The protests were filed with commanding officers at that place.

Rep. Wright Patman advised the News-Messenger by telephone from Washington that he would "go to the bottom end" of the appearance of the military police at the polls.

This might be YOUR LUCKY DAY!

If you've been shopping for furniture lately, it's quite possible that you have acquired one of those cases of decorating blues that afflict enthusiastic homemakers when they can't find just the things they want ... or even a reasonable facsimile. We ask you not to despair, because there is a brighter side. True, we do not have the vast selection of fine home furnishings now that we would like to offer you. But we do have many lovely things for your home; our back orders are beginning to arrive daily; scarce merchandise is slowly coming back ... and we are doing our best to get the furniture you want as soon as possible. In the meantime, we ask your patience and invite you to keep coming in.

The item you couldn't find yesterday might be here now. Today might be your lucky day!

Time Grows Short In City League With Scouts And Reporter In Lead

Time is growing short in the city softball league, but no major issues are expected to be settled in this week's play. The Oil Scouts and The Reporter-Telegram are out in front of the Red and Blue circuits respectively.

One game, the Oil Scouts vs. MAAF scheduled Tuesday night,

Scouts Trim Jakes 4 To 1 In Clutch Game Of Red Loop

The Oil Scouts softball club Friday night won one of the best games unreel this season on Barney Grafia diamond, dropping the JayCees, 4 to 1, to increase its lead in the Red circuit of the city league.

It was probably the last big contest in the city softball setup until the playoffs. From here on out in the Red loop it largely will be a battle between the other clubs to determine which will play the Oil Scouts in the circuit Shauennessy at the end of the season.

The victory Friday put the Scouts out in front with six wins and one loss for a .857 percentage as compared to four wins and two defeats for the JayCees, who have a .667 standing.

Jay Hart, a very fine ball player normally, playing second base for the JayCees, was the goat of the game. Jay made two errors in a row in the fourth inning that allowed the first Oil Scout run. Bart was over-anxious and misgued two ground-hit balls. And McKinney, a demon on the sacks, romped in with a score.

Up to then only one hit had been made in the ball game. It was a single by Straughan of the Scouts in the first frame. Crow had the JayCees hitless until the sixth inning when Watts hit to center field.

Both Twirl Good Ball Both Crow and Henderson twirled good ball. Crow set the Jakes down with two hits and struck out eight. Henderson was cuffed for six blows.

The Scouts led the game in the sixth inning when they added two runs to the one they got in the fourth, scoring on hits by Fowler and Straughan and an error by the Jakes. They got more runs in the seventh when Fowler, Pyeatt and Crow got hits.

In the last half of the seventh, the JayCees tried to stoke up a fire. Henderson hit a triple uncored when Taylor, next up, hit a long one to the outfield. It was dropped but Taylor was caught in third trying to stretch the hit. Holster, first up, had grounded out to the pitcher. Barber then grounded out to the pitcher and that was the ball game.

Triplicate Wins Hollywood Gold Cup

INGLEWOOD, CALIF. — (AP) — Triplicate, charging like a real champion in the stretch, won the $100,000-added Hollywood Gold Cup here from Chicago after winning Saturday before 50,421 cheering race fans. The time of 2:00 2/5 tied the gold cup and track record.

Honeymoon, L. B. Mayer entry with Be Faithful, ran second, and Historian, the big horse flown out here from Chicago after winning the Arlington Handicap last week, was third. Autocrat was fourth.

Washington Rallies To Beat Cleveland, 3-2

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Washington Nationals steadied after permitting two Cleveland runs in the first inning to gain their second straight one-run victory over the Indians, 3 to 2, Saturday. Relief Pitcher Walt Masterson was credited with the victory.

The score: R H E Washington 100 000 110-3 8 3 Cleveland 200 000 000-2 9 1 Hudson, Masterson and Early; Embree, Karakauskas, and Hegan.

Newhouse Wins 20th Game At A's Expense

DETROIT — (AP) — Hal Newhouse, the Detroit Tigers' talented left-handed pitcher, entered the majestic circle of 20-game winners for the third year in a row Saturday by whipping the Philadelphia Athletics 4 to 2 for his eighth straight triumph.

The score: R H E Philadelphia 000 000 020-2 8 1 Detroit 000 001 30x-4 8 0 Harris, Griffith and Desautels; Newhouse and Tebbets.

York Ties Record Of Homers With Bases Full

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Rudy York, clouting Boston Red Sox first baseman, equalled the major league record for home runs with the bases filled in one game by clouting his 12th and 13th round-trippers of the season in the second and fifth innings Saturday night against the St. Louis Browns.

York's feat tied the mark set May 24, 1936, by Tony Lazzeri of the New York Yankees and equaled on July 4, 1939, by Jim Tabor, then with the Red Sox and now with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Red Sox slugger also drove home two tallies in the first frame with a double to give him 10 runs batted home and a chance to better the mark of 12 runs driven in for one game which Jim Bottomly of the St. Louis Cardinals set on Sept. 16, 1924.

Red Sox Maul Browns, 13-4

ST. LOUIS — (AP) — Rudy York's two home runs with the bases filled, equalling the major league record, featured an old fashioned slugger's feat Saturday as the Boston Red Sox maulled the St. Louis Browns 13 to 4.

The score: R H E Cleveland 450 040 000-13 15 9 St. Louis 000 303 000-6 8 1 C. Wagner, Johnson, H. Wagner; Muncie, Shirley, Ferens, Kinder and Mancuso, Helf.

Dodgers Increase Lead With Double Win Over Pirates

BROOKLYN — (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers increased their National League lead over the St. Louis Cardinals by taking both ends of their doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates by identical 4-3 scores.

After Ben Stanky had driven in the winning run in the ninth of the opener, he collaborated with Dick Whitman to win the nightcap. Each scored once and drove in a teammate to account for all Brooklyn runs.

Mighty Assault Finishes Last At Arlington As Dude Upsets Field

CHICAGO — (AP) — Mighty Assault, reigning 3-year-old champion and leading money winner, finished absolutely last in a six-horse field Saturday as The Dude scored an astounding upset victory in the $95,650 Arlington classic.

A throng of 45,000 witnessed The Dude's triumph which brought home, with stunning effect, the fable that Arlington Park is the graveyard of champions.

The winner, purchased only a year ago at a selling price for $4,000, is owned by Mrs. Al Gaal.

DOWN SPORTSLANE TANNER LAINE

A Quannah sandlot pitcher the other day broke his arm pitching, threw it slap-dab out of joint and chipped the bone.

Thought maybe we ought to warn Clay Henderson, Dopey Crow and A. T. Pierce, city softball mounds-men.

Henderson throws a double wind-up dipsey-doodler ball. Crow flings a double-clutch one. Pierce seldom halves the plate with his hot curver. He is always nipping the corners.

Which is the best of these three softball fingers? We wouldn't say just yet. All three are mighty good. Pierce has the best control and has won most games. Henderson is the fastest. Crow is the money tesser, and that's what counts.

Whatever is your opinion, it is pitching which has made the difference in softball here this summer. Teams with good pitching have been up there in the running. A good tosser to City Bus, Mackey Motors, or any of the clubs would have told a different story. Right?

Sure would like to help Midland Tennis Club get its wish of 50 paid-up members, and get started on its project for renovating the courts and building new ones. How about it, racket wielders of Midland? The club needs you and needs some cash. Give us a buzz at the newspaper here if you are interested and we will refer you to the club.

Coaches Barnes Milan, Earl Glassie and Albra Nooncaster get away to the big Texas Coaching School early in August. Some of the high athletes may slip along too. Midland still is after a good Junior High coach, the Dallas YMCA having hiked the ante for Dave McCoy, former SMU boy, who was almost on the dotted line for Midland. Look for Nooncaster to be helping out with the coaching chores around here next fall. He has one of the best grid tutoring records in Texas.

Speaking of grid: Mike Brum-below, the old CPU who says he is now a dishwasher at the Ranch House, is liable to be breaking some of his and Freels' and Jones' crockery these early fall Saturday afternoons when his mind harks back to the day when Brumbelow says college football will be entertaining this fall but a team may be hot one Saturday and cold the next with returning vets having lost some of their coordination but not spirit. He says Texas has the best balanced outlook.

ROUND UP THE STRAYS ... The Legion Girls softball team which beat Midland here a couple of Saturdays back is the best girls team in West Texas, according to many ... Fans are clamoring for a race around the softball bases between Bo Mitchell of R-T and Donk Pysatt of the Oil Scouts ... Time allotted—one week ... It was a break but night Friday with the Oil Scouts swinging so hard they broke three clubs and on two occasions the willows went out as far as the JayCee outfield ... Dewitt Carr was mighty happy when the Scouts beat the JayCees Friday ... New bowling leagues will be organized here at Plamor for the winter season ... Both gals and boys brackets will be formed ... Still some clamor for a munny golf course ... J. W. McMillen hands us a Tulane sked and we will publish it soon ... Mc reports Bill Richards (Midland) and J. W. Thompson (Odessa), two West Tex stars he got for the Green Wave, are well satisfied down New Orleans way ... The two are visiting at home now ... W. C. Filler, Midland High end a few seasons back, is going to Texas Tech ... E. G. (Docie) Foster, aggressive guard at Hardin-Simmons, has the letter-men scared pink he will be in there instead of them ... And we bet he is ... He was one of the best MHS ever seasoned ... Jay Francis, Mister Midland Football himself, may try Tulsa, even just at his age ... That's the spur jingles today.

Babe Didrickson Has Trouble At Chicago

CHICAGO — (AP) — Favored Babe Didrickson Zaharias faltered for a third-round 83, seven over par, but still maintained the lead in the All-America Women's Open Tournament Saturday with a 54-hole total of 236.

Four strokes behind in second place with 240 was veteran Betty Jameson, San Antonio, professional.

New Orleans, La. For the Dude's victory, Mrs. Gaal collected $76,850, richest prize in classic history.

Assault trailed the field, two and one quarter lengths in back of Lord Boswell in fifth place. James C. Stone's Sgt. Spence, a 45 to 1 shot, finished second and John Marsch's Mighty Story, third.

Jockey Melvin Duhon, a 21 year old lad from Kaplan, La., got The Dude out in the lead before the pack hit the first turn and made a one-horse race of it all the way. The Dude led at one time on the back stretch by six lengths.

WINS BY LENGTH AND HALF At the finish, The Dude was a length and a half ahead of Sgt. Spence, with Mighty Story two and a half lengths behind. Then came Hal Price Headley's Athena, only filly in the race, Lord Boswell and finally the defeated champion, Assault, with $339,720 piled up in winning six of seven stakes, including the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes this year, is the highest 3 year old money winner in turf history.

The Dude went to the post at odds of 6 1/2 to 1, paying $15.00, $6.80 and $6.00. Sgt. Spence ridden by Jockey Bobbie Campbell, paid $30.20 and $15, and Mighty Story $9.80 to show.

The crowd wrapped $360,178 on the classic, a betting record for one race in Illinois. The sum of $191,395 was wagered on Assault, with $100,250 being bet to win, $38,655 to place and $52,490 to show.

Assault went to the post favorite at odds of 7 to 10. The Dude ran the mile and a quarter in 2:02 3/5 over a fast track.

Assault made but one brief challenge, holding third place momentarily as the horses passed the three quarter mile marker. From then on, however, Jockey Warren Mehrtens failed to get him going and he faded fast. Mehrtens who was aboard him in all his triumphs said he had no excuses.

Phils Shut Out Cubs, Then Vice Versa

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Shut out 8 to 0 in the opener, the Chicago Cubs jumped on four Philadelphia Phil pitchers in the nightcap for 15 hits to win, 9 to 0, before an estimated 18,000. The Cubs scored five runs in the fourth inning of the nightcap on a double by Bill Nicholson, four singles and a walk.

The score: R H E Chicago 000 000 000-8 4 1 Philadelphia 016 000 10x-8 15 0 Darow, Bauns and McCullough, Livingston; Raffensberger and Sem-livink.

Second game: R H E Chicago 001 512 000-9 15 0 Philadelphia 000 000 000-8 0 0 Bithorn and McCullough; T. Hughes, Mullen, Karl, Scanz, and Hemsley.

Herman Barron Heads All-American Field

CHICAGO — (AP) — Determined Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., bolstered his bid for the $10,500 top prize in the $50,975 All-American Open Golf Tourney Saturday with a three-under-par 69 for a 54-hole lead of three strokes.

Barron's total was 208, eight under par.

Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., moved into the runner-up spot with 211 as he also banded a third-round 69.

Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion in the early thirties, slowed to par 72 for a 54-hole count of 212, four strokes off the pace.

Rookie Stars As Yanks Defeat White Sox, 10-4

CHICAGO — (AP) — Led by Rookie First Baseman Steve Souchock, who blasted out four hits including a home run and triple, the New York Yankees pounded three Chicago pitchers for 16 hits and an easy 10-4 decision Saturday.

The score: R H E New York 020 134 000-10 16 2 Chicago 202 000 000-4 6 1 Queen, Gettel and Niarho; Merrett, Hollingsworth, Paphis and G. Dickey.

American Girl Upsets Mate For French Title

PARIS — (AP) — Marcel Bernard, stockbroker and one-time schoolboy champion, kept the French men's singles tennis title in France Saturday. But the women's crown that Suzanne Lenglen once wore went to an American—and it wasn't Pauline Betz, favorite and Wimbledon champion.

Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, brought down her Los Angeles rival's hopes of winning at Wimbledon, Roland Garros Stadium and Forest Hills in her first postwar campaign. Miss Osborne won by 1-6, 9-6, 7-5.

In dual of left-handers, Bernard defeated Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia for the men's title, 3-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

Two Wildcats In Winkler And One In Fisher Indicate Oil Fields; Crockett Test Credited With Ellenburger Show

By JAMES C. WATSON, Oil Editor
Discovery of two new oil fields in Southeast Winkler County, and one in Southeast Fisher County, appeared to be assured Saturday by wildcat projects in those areas.

A Northeast Crockett County prospecter was unofficially reported to have found some signs of oil in the top of the Ellenburger. A wildcat has been staked in Northeast Crane County to drill to 10,800 feet to explore the lower Ordovician.

Ralph Lowe No. 1 Sealy-Smith, in Central-Southeast Winkler, two and one-half miles west of closest production from the Tubb-Permian, in the North Monahans field, which is at about 5,100 feet, ran a one-hour drillstem test in the Holt at 5,026-75 feet.

Gas, estimated at between 50,000 and 75,000 cubic feet per day, showed at surface in nine minutes after the tool was opened.

Recovery, when the drill pipe was broken down, was 720 feet of clean oil and 180 feet of salty sulphur water.

The project was drilling ahead below 5,145 feet, in soft lime, and is slated to go on to around 6,500 feet to explore the Tubb section.

Had Other Shows
This wildcat recovered 350 feet of oil and gas cut mud with no water, in a one-hour test at 4,765-92 feet. Operator figures there is at least 100 feet of streaks of pay in the Holt zone above the point at which the water came in. Many interested operators think the project can be completed as a fair producer from the shows it has already encountered above the water zone.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 8 Sealy-Smith, also in Southeast Winkler County, and about one and one-quarter miles south of the nearest producer from the Tubb in the North Monahans field, also has discovered a new and shallower pay for that area.

In a 4 1/2 hour test at 5,181-5,224 feet, gas showed at surface in five minutes. Oil started flowing in 50 minutes and flowed at an estimated rate of 20 barrels per hour for ten minutes before the tool was closed.

The drill pipe unloaded oil three times while being pulled. There were no indications of formation water during the test. Operator was to come ahead to explore for more pay section.

Will Run Casing
Skelly Oil Company No. 1 D. O. Huddleston, Southeast Fisher County wildcat, three miles west of the nearest production in the Noodle Creek field, and in southwest quarter of section 11, block 19, TP survey, was bottomed at 4,405 feet, in the Palo Pinto lime, topped at 4,371 feet, on an elevation of 1,854 feet, and was to run oil string and attempt to complete from saturated zone already penetrated.

Operator ran a three-hour drillstem test at 4,377-4,405 feet, using a 5/8-inch bottom hole choke. Gas came to surface in two minutes. Maximum gas volume was 238,000 cubic feet per day.

Oil flowed to the top of the drill pipe in 47 minutes and flowed to bits for the remainder of the test at an estimated rate of 20 barrels per hour. When the drill pipe was broken down recovery was 300 feet of oil and 65 feet of drilling mud. There were no signs of water.

Flowing pressure ranged from 200 pounds to 400 pounds. After a 20-minute shut-in, bottom hole pressure was 1,850 pounds.

Supposed To Be Ellenburger
Stanolind No. 1-GG University, in southwest corner of section 12, block 39, University survey, in Northeast Crockett County, about 12 miles southeast of the Barnhart field, was reported by unofficial sources, to be coming below 7,985 feet. It was understood to be in the Ellenburger.

A core was taken at 7,980-85 feet. That specimen had some fractures and some bleeding oil, according to informed, but unofficial observers. Top of the Ellenburger was supposed to have been in the neighborhood of 7,980 feet.

Gulf Oil Corporation has filed application with the Railroad Commission to drill No. 1-HH Texas (University), at 10,800-foot wildcat, to test the Ellenburger, starting by July 30.

The project is in Central-Northeast Crane County, and 1,980 feet from east and 2,054 feet from north lines of section 3, block 31, University survey.

North Of Block 31
It is about four and one-half miles north of approximately one-half mile east of the discovery well in the East 31 field, which produces from both the Devonian and from the Ellenburger.

The exploration is on a block of 1,600 acres bought by Gulf at a recent University of Texas lands sale, for a bonus of $422,000.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Helen Cunningham, et al, in northeast corner of section 7, block A-24, psi survey, and approximately one mile northwest of closest production from the lower Permian in the Doss field, in South Gaines County, flowed at the rate of 12 1/2 barrels of oil per hour, after the interval at 7,000-60 feet, had been treated. 1,000 gallons of acid. The test was taken after the load area residue from the acid had been swabbed out and the well kicked off to flowing.

Operator was preparing to perforate and test in a lower zone. Total depth is at 7,135 feet.

Clois Drilling Company No. 1 Roots estate, in southeast quarter of section 17, block 118, T&STL survey, in Central Permian County, about six miles east of Fort Stockton, was making hole below 2,775 feet in lime.

Water Show Developed
A drillstem test was taken for one hour at 2,711-71 feet. Gas, estimated at 25,000 cubic feet per day, showed at surface in 20 minutes after the tool was opened. Recovery was 1,080 feet of salt water. No shows of oil or gas were reported from the investigation.

Humble No. 2-G. H. Cowden, East Crane County wildcat, in section 29, block X, CCSD&RGNG survey, was making hole below 9,390 feet, in a lime, thought to be Ellenburger. A drillstem test was taken at 9,930-65 feet, for 30 minutes.

Recovery was 25 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of any sort of petroleum.

Humble No. 1-B G. H. Cowden, in section 14, block X, CCSD&RGNG survey, and also in East Crane, was swabbing out wash water, on perforated section at 8,006-8,262 feet in the Devonian. No shows of oil or gas have been developed so far, according to operator reports.

Makes Pipe Line Oil
The Texas Company No. 1-P State (University), North-Southwest Andrews County wildcat discovery from the Tubb-Permian, in northwest quarter of section 15, block 12, University survey, about six miles northwest of the Martin field, swabbed 1 1/2 barrels of pipe line oil in 20 hours, from perforated section at 7,170-7,250 feet, where a total of 11,000 gallons of acid had been injected. No water was reported from the well, and swabbing was continuing.

Humble No. 1 Turner, East Midland County wildcat, about 12 miles southeast of Midland, and in W. T. Holcombe survey, of block 27, T-2-S, had reached 3,910 feet, in anhydrite and was drilling ahead. It is contracted to go to around 11,500 feet.

Stanolind and Westbrook-Thompson No. 35-A Hendrick, West-Central Winkler County wildcat, four miles west of Kermit, and in section 33, block 26, psi survey, cored to 13,347 feet, through silty, sandy lime of the Joins, middle Ordovician section and was coring ahead. Top of Ellenburger is expected at any time.

High On Woodford
American Republics Corporation No. 1 TXL, West Ector County wildcat, in southeast quarter of section 7, block 45, TP survey, T-1-S, one-half mile southeast of J. W. Murchison No. 1 Fraser, discovery for a small production of oil from the Devonian, along with some water, had reached 8,275 feet in Woodford shale, and was making hole slowly, while trying to mill out a lost bit core.

Top of the Woodford was at 8,190 feet, on an elevation of 3,053 feet. On that pick the American Republics project is correlated by some geologists to be 98 feet high to the Murchison discovery. The Devonian is expected at about 8,390 feet.

E. E. Fogelson and Cosden Petroleum Corporation No. 1-D-C University, Ellenburger wildcat in the Penwell shallow field in Northwest Ector, and in northwest quarter of section 1, block 35, University survey, had penetrated below 8,110 feet in the Silurian, and was continuing. Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Finson, West Andrews County prospecter, in northwest quarter of section 13, block A-40, psi survey, and one mile southwest of same company's No. 1 Nelson, Ellenburger discovery, had reached 9,938 feet in an unidentified lime, and was drilling ahead.

Good Devonian Well
Gulf No. 2-D-Z University, 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 42, block 13, University survey, and one-quarter of a mile south of the closest Devonian prospecter, on the south side of the 20 Fullerton field, in Northwest Andrews County, completed for a 24-hour flowing production of 950 barrels of oil, natural, from pay above total depth at 8,752 feet, in the Devonian.

This exploration had shown for commercial production from the Tubb and Wolfcamp zones of the Permian, as well as from the section in which it completed.

At the time the Wolfcamp section was tested, some geologists thought it was Pennsylvanian, but a thorough examination of fossils in that horizon identified it as Wolfcamp, basal Permian.

Shell No. 1 Clark, North Glasscock County wildcat, in section 5, block 32, TP survey, T-4-S, and eight miles north of Garden City, had progressed below 8,919 feet in shale and lime, and was drilling ahead to 10,000 feet, or oil or water in the Ellenburger.

A Bad Fishing Job
Ray Albaugh No. 1-Sutton, South-Central Lynn County prospecter in section 22, block H. EL survey, seven and one-half miles northwest of O'Donnell, was still bottomed at 5,628 feet in lime, trying to cut off an wash-out stuck drill pipe.

It was understood that operator plans to continue the recovery effort for a few more days, and if the fish is not gotten out, the hole will be abandoned.

The Oil Pusher

By JAMES C. WATSON, Oil Editor

MOST PURCHASERS HAVE MET PRICE INCREASE

—Practically all crude oil purchasers had met the 25 cents per barrel increase Saturday, which was first announced Thursday by Humble Oil & Refining Company.

—The Atlantic Refining Company, Sinclair Prairie Oil Company and Magnolia Petroleum Company announced new price schedules Friday. Shell Oil Company, Inc., and Gulf Refining Company were awaiting instructions from eastern headquarters—but they were expected to announce the raise at any time.

—Magnolia deviated from the posting of other companies in West Texas in its new schedule, which calls for an increase of 18 cents for Fullerton and Unions pool, including Clear Fork, Siluro-Devonian and Ellenburger production. Elsewhere Magnolia raised prices 25 cents per barrel, except 28 cents in the Panhandle, 20 cents for the Rognon pool and 30 cents for Rodessa and Southern Louisiana oil.

—Atlantic and Sinclair Prairie announced a flat increase of 25 cents per barrel where the firms purchase crude.

—Magnolia's new price for Fullerton oil, was on account of that concern having had a 13 cents per barrel premium for that area for several months.

—Under the old postings, West Texas has a price of 80 cents for 20 gravity and below, with a two cent differential upward to $1.22 for 40 and above. Under the new schedule the price range is from $1.05 to $1.47.

FULLERTON PROSPECTS ARE HIGHLIGHTED
—Prospects for the Fullerton field in Northwest Andrews County developing good production from several zones below the Permian formation, were highlighted in an article in the July 27 issue of The Oil and Gas Journal.

—The publication had this to say: "The pre-Permian prospects of the Fullerton field were substantially enhanced by the results of Fullerton Oil Company No. 342-A Wildcat, in southwest quarter of northwest quarter of section 16, block A-32, psi survey. Although this is the second Ellenburger producer in the field proper, it is the numerous good tests in formations above the Ellenburger that indicate that pre-Permian production may include several pays, and possibly cover a fairly extensive area."

COPIES OF PRE-PERMIAN SECTION NOW AVAILABLE
—Officials of the West Texas Geological Society announced that copies of the recently issued pre-Permian columnar section of the West Texas Central Basin Platform, can be secured for a small charge from Ronald K. DeFord, at Argo Oil Corporation, in Midland.

DEMAND FOR PETROLEUM HIGHER THAN EXPECTED
—Demand for petroleum products has been materially higher this year than generally expected, and for the year as a whole will be only 2.2 per cent less than the all-time record of 1945 and 19.8 per cent greater than in 1941. These estimates are offered in the midyear review and forecast number of The Oil Weekly, dated July 29.

—Total demand will average 5,233,000 barrels daily for 1946, compared with 5,348,000 daily in 1945 and 4,369,000 daily in 1941, the magazine estimated, with the aid of revised forecasts by government and oil company economists.

—Domestic demand, constituting over 90 per cent of total demand, will exceed earlier forecasts and average 4,773,000 barrels daily, only 1.5 per cent less than the 4,843,000 daily of 1945 and 17.2 per cent more than the 4,071,000 daily for 1941.

New Buses Added By City Lines
Midland citizens rode in new buses Saturday as City Bus Lines installed three new vehicles on the city routes.

The three 1946, all-steel, 34-passenger buses were delivered here from Dallas by Ivan Irwin, president of Midland City Bus Lines, and J. R. Fair, both of Dallas.

The buses are the same as those used in larger cities, a company representative pointed out.

Smiling Halsey once cracked he would not count Allied victory until he "rode the Japanese emperor's white horse in the streets of Tokyo."

Armed Band Raids Detention Barracks Holding 376 Jews
JERUSALEM—(AP)—An armed band made an unsuccessful attack Saturday night on the military detention barracks in Jerusalem where police are believed to be holding 376 Jews arrested in a roundup of suspects following the dynamiting of the King David Hotel.

Shots were exchanged between sentries and the attackers, and British troops and police immediately threw a cordon around the entire Talbich quarter. Soldiers were under "shoot on sight" orders.

The attack followed by five days the dynamiting of the King David Hotel, headquarters of the Palestine government and the British military establishment, in which the toll has now risen to 80 dead and 25 missing.

It could not be learned immediately whether there had been any casualties in the exchange of shots or whether any arrests had been made.

Chancellor's Lea Wildcat Is Being Watched By Many

HOBBS, N. M.—C. W. Chancellor No. 1 State, Central Lea County wildcat, between the Maljamar and the Vacuum fields, and at center of northwest quarter of southeast quarter of section 27-17s-33e, was being watched by many operators with interests in the adjacent areas at the end of the week.

That project had a show of oil and gas at 4,377-81 feet, in lime, and at last report had penetrated below 4,389 feet, and was continuing to make hole.

It is about two miles east of nearest production in the Maljamar field, and about three miles west of the closest oil well on the west side of the Vacuum field.

Coats and Foster of Lubbock were drilling below 3,638 feet in lime on their No. 1 H. S. Record, old shallow dry hole on the west side of production in the Eunice-Monument field, in East-Central Lea County.

Deepening Dry Hole
This project, located 1,650 feet from north and east lines of section 15-20s-36e, is being deepened from 1,301 feet, to which point it had been drilled by Guy H. Hooper, and abandoned in 1940.

The exploration is about 1,900 feet west of closest production on the west side of the Eunice-Monument field. The owners expect to encounter that zone around 3,675 feet and they will start coring at about that level.

Early last week some sources reported that Coats and Foster had taken over the old Hooper No. 1 Record and were to drill it to around 6,500 feet to test for production in the Yeso, lower Permian.

Operator representatives reveal that such a report was in error and that present contract is to test the Eunice-Monument pay. It is indicated that in the event that zone is barren, an effort might be made to carry it deeper.

Three New Producers
Three new oil wells have either been completed, or have shown for flowing production from the lower Permian, on the north side of the Drinkard field, in the vicinity of Eunice, in East-Central Lea County.

Repollo Oil Company, (Sinclair Prairie), No. 1-367 State, 660 from south and west lines of section 36-21s-37e, and on the northeast side of the area heretofore proven for Yeso production in the Drinkard region, completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 198 barrels of oil, from pay at 6,460-6,500 feet, which had been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 3-B Hardison, 2,015 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 34-21s-37e, and also on the northeast side of the Drinkard field, tested for a production of about 12 barrels of oil per hour from perforated interval at 6,459-6,595 feet, after treating with a total of 9,000 gallons of acid. The well is in course of completion.

Missed Ellenburger
Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 12 Brunson-Argo, 1,909 feet from north and 589 feet from east lines of section 9-22s-37e, and on the southeast side of the Brunson field, tested for a production of about 10 1/2 barrels of oil in 24 hours, through a three-quarter-inch tubing choke, with gas-oil ratio of 563-1. The oil was cut with one per cent basic sediment.

Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Owen, at center of northwest quarter of northwest quarter of section 3-22s-37e, three-quarters of a mile southwest of nearest production from the Yeso in the Eunice district, was bottomed at 6,600 feet. It had shown for commercial production.

At last report the operator was trying to cement off a gas section in the top of the pay, in order to cut down the gas-oil ratio, and when that was accomplished, was to complete the extender.

Top Not Yet Called
Tide Water Associated Oil Company No. 2 Clifton, on northwest side of Brunson field, and 660 feet from south and 810 feet from west lines of section 4-22s-37e, had been drilled by lost tools below 8,078 feet, in Ellenburger lime. That formation had been entered in the last 100 feet, but operator had not reported official pick for the top of the horizon.

Repollo Oil Company No. 1 Simmons, East-Central Lea County wildcat, about two miles east and slightly north of Eunice, and in southeast quarter of section 25-21s-37e, was making hole below 7,888 feet, in a lime and chert section. It had drilled through streak of igneous material, and then had gone back into the lime formation. Identity of the current horizon has not been reported.

DeKaib Agricultural Association, Inc., No. 1 Lewis, Central Chaves County wildcat, about 15 miles northeast of Roswell, and in section 13-10s-25e, is shut down on a total depth of 5,650 feet in granite.

Unofficial sources report that operator is slated to plug back to around 1,200 feet and test a section above that level which had some indications of production. Those shows were said to have been rather light.

Attorney Reports Heirens Ready To Confess Slayings

CHICAGO—(AP)—William Heirens, his attorney announced Saturday, is ready to formally confess three of the most lurid crimes in Chicago's history—the mutilation slaying of six-year-old Suzanne Degnan, a 33-year-old former WAVE and a 43-year-old widow.

Asked his position if he is offered a confession in consideration of a life imprisonment recommendation, State's Attorney William J. Tuohy said, "I will consider it."

Malachy Coghlan, one of five defense counsel, said the strapping, 17-year-old University of Chicago student and wrestling enthusiast would place before Tuohy on Tuesday complete details of these three killings.

The kidnap-slaying and dismemberment last January 7 of the golden-haired Degnan girl, youngest of two daughters of a Chicago OPA executive.

Lipstick Murder in December
The shooting and fatal stabbing of Frances Brown, an ex-WAVE in Chicago's mysterious "lipstick murder" last December 10.

The fatal throat slaying on June 3, 1945, of Mrs. Josephine Ross, widow whose body, the head nearly severed, was found by her daughter.

"The defense feels the time has come for Heirens to make known by confession to the state's attorney the facts of the various crimes charged against him," said Coghlan.

The defense announcement—a move aimed at saving the youth from a possible penalty of death in the electric chair—came less than a day after Heirens had discussed the slayings with his parents and attorneys.

Previously the bushy-haired Heirens, whose record of juvenile delinquency started when he was 13 years old, had denied all reports he had made any confession. Similar denials had been made by Tuohy and the youth's lawyers.

The youth's attorneys announced earlier they would seek a mental examination for him.

Artesia, had reached 1,075 feet in red beds and anhydrite and was re-cementing cavities in which it had been losing circulation of drilling fluid. It is to resume drilling as soon as the cavities can be eliminated.

In the Chaves County section of the Caprock field, and on the southwest side of the pool, Malco Refiners, Inc., No. 3-F Maxwell State, 1,980 feet from south and 680 feet from east lines of section 1-13s-31e, is reported to have been tested for a settled daily production of around 1,200 barrels per day, from red sand pay at 3,034-44 feet.

This well had flowed 504 barrels of oil in one hour, after it had been shut in for some time, prior to the official completion test, and that flow had caused many operators to get the idea that it had made an initial production test at the rate of 12,069 barrels per day.

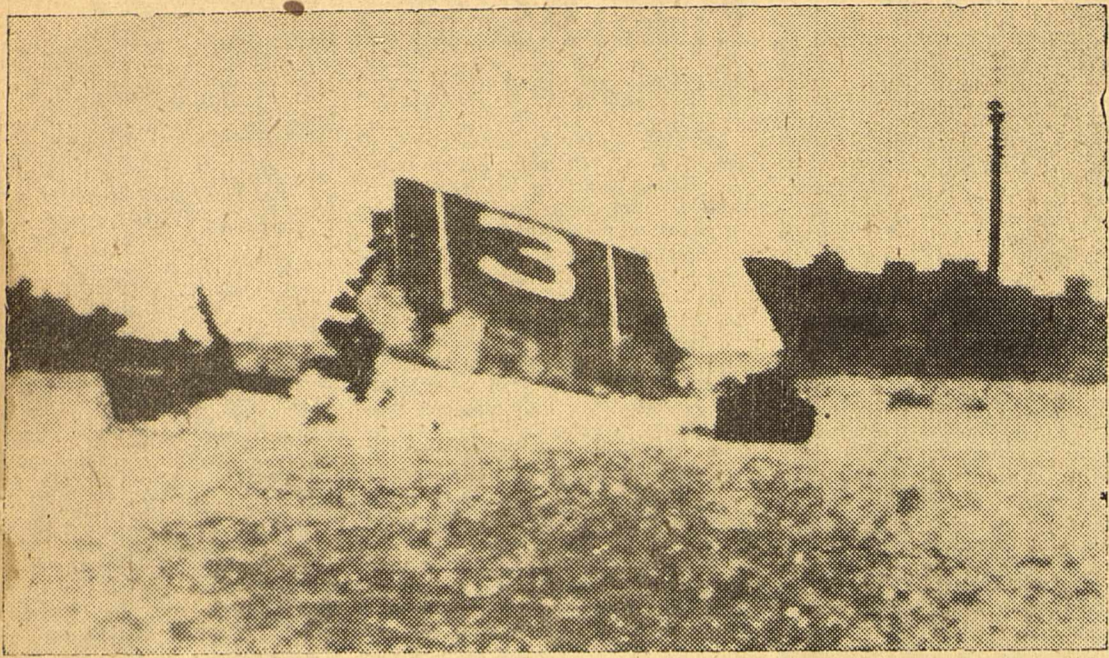

Only For One Hour
Informed sources reveal that the development did not test at that rate on a full 24-hour gauge, and that it only flowed 504 barrels of oil for one hour, and after that flow was shut in on account of all available storage being filled.

Union Oil Company of California No. 1-A McMillen, South-Central Otero County wildcat, in 9-25s-13e, had progressed under 5,651 feet in lime, and was going ahead, at last report.

Drilling in DeBaca
The Federal, Northeast DeBaca County prospecter to 7,000 feet, about 13 miles east of Fort Sumner, and in section 31-3n-28e, had penetrated below 4,114 feet in shale and anhydrite, and was continuing.

Richfield Oil Corporation No. 1 Drought-Booth, McKinley County exploration, in section 9-25s-13e, and on the southeast side of the San Juan Basin in Northwest New Mexico, had reached 6,746 feet in lime and shale of the Pennsylvanian and was drilling ahead. That formation had been encountered at about 6,100 feet. No shows of production have been reported from any section of the prospecter.

'Politicks Is Too Dirty For Women' Said Early Day Midland Voters

By TANNER LAINE

Midland's up-to-the-minute election Saturday was a far cry from the elections of pioneer Midland. In "those days" there was only one place to vote and it was the courthouse. Gatekeepers let voters in by ones and twos through the gate and to the courthouse to vote.

The old timers say they counted the people in like cattle. Everything was cattle-minded around Midland then anyway. Robert E. Estes, surveyor, probably held office in Midland County longer than anyone ever has. He helped wear out two courthouses, as it were, and started on a third, as county surveyor. He still lives in Midland.

The first courthouse was a wooden two-story affair and not more than 50 people ever had occasion to use it. The late Joe Knowles was judge for years and years. Maggie Dear-doff was the first county clerk. Theo Ray was sheriff. Dan Shipley and John Allison were deputy sheriffs.

Traveled on Horseback Electioneering was not done by radio, newspaper, printed cards and other devices of today. Some of these methods just plain weren't here. But the candidates got the word around, by horseback, by wagon trip, by walking.

In the early elections the voters did not come inside the building but voted through an open window. Women did not vote. Old timers said, "politicks is too dirty for women".

Election day was gala in early Midland but the saloons were not open. It was against the law to sell liquor on election day. That still goes.

The people came in from the ranches in wagons, buggies and on horseback. Law and order were strictly maintained.

"Back Biting" Bob Estes, the old surveyor, used to kid Prof. W. W. Lackey, old time Midland teacher, saying: "Prof. I got you beat staying in office, ha, ha."

They didn't call it mudslinging in those days. There wasn't much of such. It was called "back biting". Old Judge Rathborn's newspaper, printed in a wooden building, carried the election results in big type.

There was no hurried count of the vote over the state and there was not the efficiency of the present day gathering of results. Vote

Gertrude Stein Dies In Paris

PARIS—(P)—Gertrude Stein, 72, the beloved but puzzling American writer who opened her heart and her home to hundreds of American soldiers during World War II, died Saturday night in the American hospital at Neuilly, a Paris suburb. There had been no earlier reports that Miss Stein was ill and hospital officials declined to state the nature of her illness or how long she had been confined to the hospital.

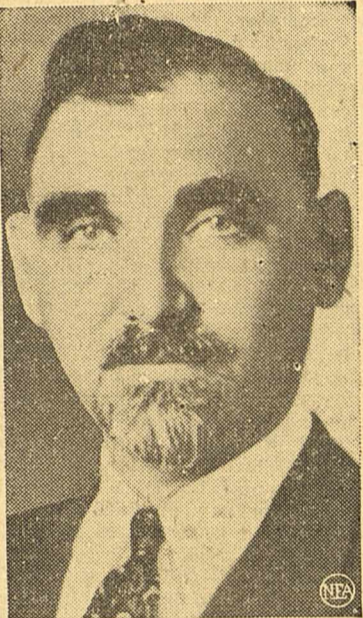

A native of Allegheny, Pa., Miss Stein published more than 20 books and other works—most of them so abstruse as to verge and sentence structure as to leave even professional critics in a quandary. Such typical phrases as "a rose is a rose is a rose" and "pigeon on the grass alas" gained Miss Stein a world-wide—if head shaking—literary reputation.

Despite her famous close-cropped hair and peculiar literary style, Miss Stein was a simple, direct person who came as a fresh breath of America to the troops who sought her out.

Miss Stein's death came only a few days after the publication in the United States of her latest book, "Brewsie and Willie," in which she used many American GIs as characters.

She lived and struggled with the French people through two wars, winning a French decoration at the end of World War I for her work in behalf of the French wounded.

returns trickled in for a week or so. People just plain weren't in as big a hurry as they were in Midland Saturday to hear "who won".

Democrats Blast CIO Activities

Democrats of Precinct No. 5, Midland County in convention on the lawn of the City-County Auditorium Saturday evening adopted resolutions which denounced the invasion of state's rights by the Fair Employment Practices Committee, and also denounced the CIO Political Action Committee.

The Democrats also approved the fight of the Democratic Party to determine the qualifications of its own members, and pledged their delegates to adopt similar resolutions at the county convention on August 3.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman John P. Butler. Tom Sealy was elected permanent chairman of the convention and W. A. Yeager, secretary.

In upholding state's rights, the convention voted "to oppose the invasion of these rights through the efforts being made to re-establish the so-called Fair Employment Practices Committee... which we regard as un-American and un-Democratic."

The convention then condemned the CIO-Political Action Committee's efforts "to dominate Texas politics and opposed the spread by that committee of Communistic and un-American ideas."

Then in an obvious move backing the right of the states to require poll taxes, the convention, in a resolution, reaffirmed the right of the party to prescribe its own membership requirements.

The following were elected delegates to the Midland County Democratic Convention:

C. C. Harper, J. W. McMillen, James S. Noland, Tom Sealy, Hamilton McRae, Jack Wilkinson, Dave Henderson, Hal Peck, John P. Butler, J. M. Dearmond, Frank Cowden, J. P. Gibbins, Ernest Sidwell, J. R. Poor States May Get More U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Senate Finance Committee Saturday approved a plan by which the federal government would pay more to poor states than to prosperous states for old age assistance and aid to dependent children and the blind.

For the poorer states the proportion of federal money would be as high as two to one. It was written into a bill passed by the House to freeze Social Security payroll taxes at one per cent for employers and employees for another year, place 200,000 maritime workers under social security and make other changes in the welfare acts.

A special formula is provided for states where income is between 66 2/3 and 100 per cent of the national average. In these states, by preliminary estimates, the federal participation for the needy would be: Texas 62.

Bikini Lagoon Will Have Iron Bottom

ABOARD USS MT. MCKINLEY, BIKINI—(P)—Bikini Lagoon is destined to have an iron bottom, Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy indicated Saturday, with worthless atomic-bomb target ships to be scuttled after thorough examination.

Blandy, top commander of the unprecedented "Operation Crossroads" tests, said remaining small craft probably would be scuttled within the lagoon and that big ships would be disposed of at sea "with orthodox weapons."

In the useless big ship class is the former Japanese battleship Nagato. The Nagato still was listing and some observers believed she might yet sink.

Congress Slaps 'Unfinished' Labels On Many Of Truman's Pet Proposals

WASHINGTON—(P)—The 79th Congress slapped "unfinished" labels on many of President Truman's favorite legislative proposals Saturday and started heading home.

The House picked next Friday as the date for formal and final adjournment.

The Senate has yet to act on the resolution. Leaders foresaw possible difficulty in mustering a quorum next week. Many members already have left.

Behind them lies a record of cooperation with two Presidents—Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman—on the weighty problems of war, and of fierce bickering with both on major domestic issues.

Before them lie the November congressional elections which Republicans insist will give them control of the House of Representatives for the first time since Herbert Hoover was president. The Democrats express an opposite view.

Probably no congress saw or helped make more history than the 79th. During its tenure the nation's only four-term president died, the shooting phase of the world's worst war came to an end, and the nation started on the long and thorny road back to a peacetime basis.

Certainly few congresses ever have treated so coldly the legislative requests of a chief executive. President Truman got from Congress just about half the things he requested in more than a dozen messages to the lawmakers. The President's major fights were on labor legislation and price control, on both of which he sent to Congress vetoes that were sustained. He got nowhere at all on his proposals for universal military training and for merger of the armed forces. But he fared much better, after a prolonged fight, on his requests for extension of the draft law and for a loan of $3,750,000,000 to Great Britain.

Jim McHargue Stumps State Against Rainey

Jim McHargue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul McHargue and a law student at the University of Texas, has been stumping the state against Dr. Homer P. Rainey, candidate for governor. With Ben Haden, president of the University of Texas Anti-Rainey for Governor Club, and Bob Bradley, vice president, McHargue, a club official, has been on a campaign tour the last ten days. Five addresses in as many cities or towns have been made by the trio each day. Courthouse lawns have been favorite locations for the speeches. The club, which has not endorsed any candidate, has more than 4,700 members, McHargue said. The trio, with loud speaker equipment, has been campaigning mainly in East and South Texas. Should Rainey be in the runoff election, the trio plans to campaign against him. Their tour has been financed by the club and the young men report they addressed an average of 100 persons at each point visited. They said more than 500 persons heard

Army Ups Quota For Recalls To Active Duty

EL PASO—The War Department has announced the increase in quotas, for recall to active duty, of 1,000 National Guard and Reserve officers of all grades for service with the Civil Affairs Division, and additional 40 for service with the Intelligence Division, 35 for service with Foreign Liquidation Commission, and 50 additional for service with Finance Department. This and previous authorizations make a total of 7,589 vacancies available to officers who have gone on inactive duty or terminal leave but who desire further active duty. War Department representatives indicated that this number may be increased in the near future.

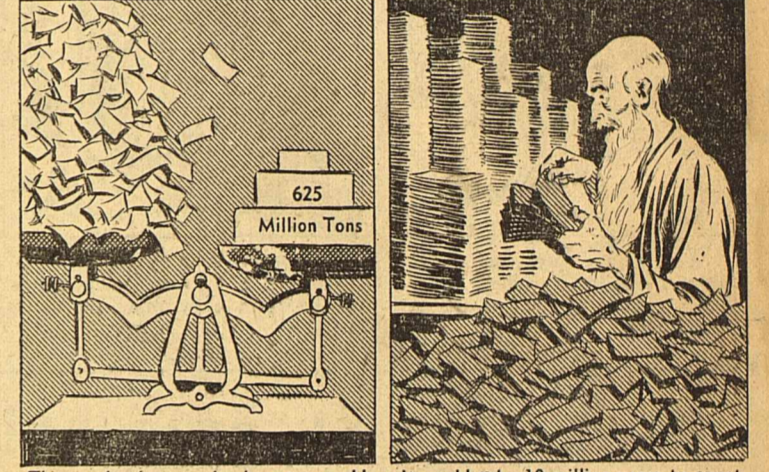

Although the War Department is authorized to recall officers to active duty without their consent during the emergency, it is desired to fill these vacancies with volunteers. Accordingly, quotas have been established to meet the needs of each of the branches of service whose personnel problems have been made acute by the rapid demobilization of the Army. Volunteers under this program may elect to serve for an unlimited length of time or for a 12, 18, or 24 month period. The War Department, recognizing that such volunteer officers should have some degree of assurance that their services will be utilized for the entire period for which they volunteer, plans for this policy to remain in effect until the Army obtains a permanent postwar status. At present, the War Department cannot foresee any circumstances which would cause separation of officers prior to the completion of their volunteer period.

The Army Ground Forces has a quota of 2,000 officers of the combat arms in the grade of captain and lieutenant only, and the Army Air Forces has an allotment of 150 non-pilot technical specialists. Officers desiring to volunteer for return to active duty must apply in writing to the Adjutant General, War Department, Washington, 25, D. C., and must meet the physical standards for overseas service. Application forms may be obtained at any Army installation, Army Recruiting Station, or Officers Reserve Corps Headquarters. In the event an officer on inactive status, desiring active duty, does not have a Reserve or National Guard Commission, he may apply for active duty providing he has applied for a Reserve Commission.

Lo, the Astronomical Pengo

A quadrillion one-pengo notes would pave a 10-lane highway to the sun.

The stack of paper bank notes would weigh 625 million tons. It would take 10 million years to count all these pengos.

Inflation-beset Hungary set a world bank note record with its new 1,000 trillion (one quadrillion) pengos bill. Newschart shows what would have happened if they'd issued 1,000,000,000,000,000 notes of one-pengo value. But there's a paper shortage, and besides, one quadrillion pengos are only worth between $2 and nothing at all.

Students To Meet In Prague In August To Create Organization For Furthering Peace

By ADELAIDE KERR AP Newsfeatures Writer
Look into a midtown New York office some morning and you will see two attractive college girls—one blonde, one brunette—bent over plans for a world student congress to be held in Prague August 17-31 to create a world student organization. The blonde is Alice Horton (Wellesley '45), chairman of the American preparatory committee of the congress and daughter of Dr. Douglas Horton, minister of the General Council of Congregational Churches, whose marriage to Mildred McAfee, president of Wellesley College and former head of the WAVES, took place last August.

The brunette is Jewel Lubin of Brooklyn, a scholarship student from Wisconsin University. She is executive secretary of the American delegation of 26 young Americans who will attend the congress, as representatives of youth organizations and universities. "This congress is going to work," said the girls during a brief pause in their preparatory work. "Students are convinced they have to do something. Besides creating an international students' organization and deciding its policies, we are going to study what student youth can do in the job of reconstruction and furthering world peace. Six Commissions "There will be six commissions studying different problems. For one thing, we shall study the problem of student exchange. "There is the question of curricula. We think students should have more to say about that. There are colleges where the courses in economics are far behind the times and where current history courses go only to World War I. We expect to have some outstanding speakers, including President Benes of Czechoslovakia." The idea for the congress was born in London last November, when students of 25 nations representing a number of leading student organizations assembled to discuss the student's role in the postwar world. Later, in Prague, 500 students from 51 countries met to celebrate the first free International Students' Day and discuss students' needs and rights in the postwar era. An international preparatory committee set the wheels in motion for the congress. Alice Horton attended both the London and Prague conferences and helped start the American preparatory committee which she now heads.

TAKING A LITTLE CHANCE CAN PUT YOU IN A BIG ACCIDENT!

Unless something is done, 19,500 farm residents may be killed and 1,800,000 more injured this year! A bad accident—months in bed—the loss of a whole year's crop—may be your fate if you are careless. For it is the little chances we take . . . little repairs we neglect to make . . . that cause big accidents. Inspect your farm and home for danger spots. Do you take the chances shown here? Watch yourself!

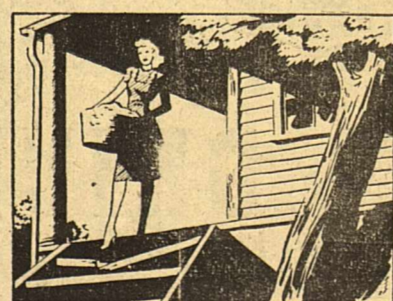

*National Safety Council estimate.

I sometimes take chances with machinery.
 I am never careless around machinery.
Do you leave safety shields off power shafts, gears and chains? Wear loose-fitting clothing that may catch in machinery? Operate the tractor on dangerous inclines or banks? Then tragedy may strike . . . for mishandled machinery and equipment are involved in 30% of fatal farm accidents.

I approach animals without warning.
 I'm always careful around animals.
Do you approach horses from behind without speaking and patting their flanks to warn them? Are you often forced to lead the bull around because you do not have a properly built, safe bull pen? Then, watch yourself . . . because one out of every four fatal farm accidents occurs in handling livestock.

I put off repairing broken steps.
 I keep stairways well repaired.
Do stairways in your home and barn need repairs? Do you have stairways cluttered with boxes, mops, brooms? Are they unlighted? Do you have ladder or hay-chute openings without handrails? These often cause falls . . . falls which account for 39% of all fatal accidents in farm homes!

Paris Peace Meet Really Inspection Of Big Four Plan

By RELMAN MORIN
PARIS —(AP)— On the record, the 21-nation conference which convenes in Paris July 29 probably will be designated as a "peace" conference, but this will be polite fiction. The meeting will resemble, more than anything else, an inspection tour of a new house.

The architects who built the house are going to show it to the people who have to live in it. The architects themselves are not very well satisfied with the structure. As for the prospective tenants, whether they like it or not, they probably won't be permitted to change it. They can complain but they can't actually order any alterations.

The architects, in this case, have been the foreign ministers of the United States, Russia, Britain and France.

For months, they have been designing the treaties of peace with five erstwhile enemy countries: Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland. The drafts are ready now, at least as ready as they ever will be.

To Study Drafts

So 17 other nations have been invited to send representatives to Paris to study them. They may not approve the treaties—and none of the four ministers approves them completely—but they can't order them out of existence. They can only suggest changes. Later, the Big Four may consider the suggestions, but they are under no compulsion to embody them in re-written drafts.

Hence, the Paris conference will not be another Versailles or a congress of Vienna. It is just a preview of peace—or perhaps of further trouble.

The complications go even further. Only those nations that were officially at war with Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland will review the proposed individual treaties. Italy is the only nation with which the whole 21 are concerned. In other cases, only 12 and 14 nations will study the drafts.

When it is all over the four ministers will go back to work on the final drafts. The other 17 nations will have been heard. While the final decisions will be made by the Big Four, the routes to these decisions will be mapped, in varying degrees, by what has been said and suggested and protested at Paris.

This will be the Paris peace conference, the new house that will be previewed. It probably will please nobody very much—but in politics as elsewhere, there's a housing shortage, too.

Soft Water Service Has Tenth Birthday

The Soft Water Service of Midland and Odessa announced Saturday the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Culligan Zeolite Company of Northbrook, Ill., and San Bernardino, Calif. This company is the parent organization supplying the materials used in this popular water softening service.

This comparatively young business was started in July of 1936 by Emmett J. Culligan, now head of the company. Culligan spent over 20 years previous to the founding of his own company with other manufacturers of zeolite, a water softening mineral. With very limited capital but with unlimited energy and imagination, he developed in Northbrook the Culligan system of solar drying. Previously, this synthetic gel-type mineral had been dried in huge indoor ovens.

During the war the Culligan Zeolite Company temporarily converted to the manufacture of silica gel. This latter is a synthetic mineral, similar to zeolite, that absorbs moisture instead of softening water. By absorbing moisture from the inside of a package, silica gel helps prevent rust and corrosion on materials used in overseas shipments. In recognition of their efforts in this field, the company was awarded the Army-Navy "E" award.

Culligan said the benefits of water softening have never been properly presented to all of the people of this country. It is his aim to bring perfect, filtered, softened water to every home in America without any investment or work on the part of the user. In only 10 years his company has done just this for close to 200,000 homes in over 1,000 communities.

The Midland Soft Water Service, operated by Steve Vaughan, was started in 1940. It occupies quarters at 1313 Tennessee Street.

It's Easy To Break Into Films—Or Is It?

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP)— So you want to break into the movies, eh? It's a cinch.

First of all, a friend inserts a note in a trade paper that you are testing for a role in the picturization of a comic strip. This surprises both you and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., who is going to produce the film. He sends for you.

"Hm-mm, a good likeness," he says, "how would you like to test for it tomorrow?" You gulp and agree.

You show up at Universal Studio bright and early (10:45 a. m.) in the morning. You are ushered onto what is menacingly titled the Phantom Stage ("Phantom of the Opera" was filmed there.) A man begins daubing your face with pancake makeup.

"Give him some freckles and make his mouth wider," Fairbanks instructs. "First time I ever put on freckles," says the makeup man: "I'm usually taking 'em off."

Your face a bright orange, you confer with the writer, John McClain, who is to provide your lines. He labors and comes forth with: "Why, grandma, what big red lips you have!"

Now you wait. And wait. Fairbanks is also making tests for "The Exile," which he is going to make for International.

Finally someone calls your name. You step before the camera and a battery of lights. A dozen men adjust their lights on you and the cameraman tries to get you in focus. Everything is ready. Fairbanks gives you some last-minute instructions.

A man places a board in front of your face and then takes it away. A voice says "action!" While your stomach imitates an electric fan, you gaze nonchalantly around the room and say, "Why, grandma, what big red lips you have!"

"Cut!" Fairbanks shakes your hand and says "Thanks." That's all there is to it. Except in my case, it was done strictly for this story. I think.

Russia To Rebuild Stalingrad Into Great City Dedicated To War Heroes

By REMBERT JAMES
STALINGRAD—(AP)—The planned economy of the Soviet Union is expected by Russian leaders to reach its peak in rebuilt Stalingrad 15 to 20 years hence.

It will be a city of steel workers' dwellings between wide rows of wide boulevards, a city of squares lined with statues and marble halls in the classic Greek and Roman manner glorifying heroes of the great patriotic war and the Socialist revolution.

Ninety-eight per cent destroyed during the winter of 1942-43, according to Soviet estimate, Stalingrad has only begun to rebuild. The main factories are working and 300,000 residents are back out of a prewar population of about 500,000. But the year living mostly in temporary houses. The real rebuilding must come later.

A group of foreign correspondents visiting Stalingrad toured the 40-mile length of the city, stretching along the high west bank of the Volga. They heard from the deputy city architect, Peter Buchlev, future plans for which billions of rubles were set aside after the designs had been approved by the state planning commission.

The plans envision a city of 800,000 persons occupying the same Volga. Three main boulevards will parallel the river.

The Square of Fallen Heroes, which is the present Central Square, will be ringed by buildings of the House of Soviets, the Pantheon of Fallen Fighters and other structures and sculptural groups, embellished with lawns and fountains.

Sword of Victory
The Stalingrad defense museum, the major building, will be erected on a new square near the Volga, Stalingrad officials said. This building eventually will house the great two-handed sword which was forged at the command of King George VI and presented by Winston Churchill to Generalissimo Stalin after the German surrender of Stalingrad.

Mamaev Hill, highest point in the city, will be crowned by a building housing the panorama of the defense of Stalingrad, set in a park extending to the river a mile away.

On an island in the Volga, opposite Mamaev Hill, will be erected a white column 250 feet tall topped by an electric beacon guide for ships.

"Right now we are building up our construction industry—we must have brick factories, lumberyards, trucks, tractors and all kinds of tools for rebuilding," Buchlev said.

"We are building plants to turn out 2,000 prefabricated houses yearly. By the end of 1946 we expect to have a 200,000,000 annual brick output, which is sufficient," he said.

"We are going to grind up bricks from other buildings and debris and reuse it as building material," Buchlev said it was planned that each resident eventually would have 10 square yards of living space. Residents will live in four or five-story apartment houses downtown, with the size of the buildings gradually diminishing so that near the outskirts dwellings will be the small single-family types.

He said there would be garage space in basements and district garages for overnight auto parking within a five-minute walk of any house in town. Nobody would live more than three-quarters of a mile from a school.

Post Office Inspectors Crack Down On 'Diploma Mills' Preying On Vets

By FRANK I. WELLES
WASHINGTON—(AP)—"This outfit's a phony," said the money order clerk in a small eastern post office. The ex-WAC, trying to send $25 to a "school" which promised a sure-fire job when she had finished its course, took back her money. Now a money order clerk is not usually supposed to butt into this business, but the one who did happened to be a close friend of the girl's family, and he had just heard from a visiting U. S. postal inspector that this particular racket was about to be busted under federal mail-fraud laws.

Roscoe E. Mague, general superintendent of the Post Office Inspection Service, tells the story to illustrate what he considers one of the most vicious "gyps" practiced against ex-service men and women. He hastens to add there are plenty of reliable, honest and authenticated correspondence schools extending themselves to aid veterans. He's after the frauds patterned after the old "diploma mills." They promise to find a veteran a high-paying job at the end of a course calculated to take just about all his separation and mustering-out pay and then tell him he flunked the examinations.

Large-Scale Fakery
Full figures are not available, but in just 89 of the 3,455 mail fraud cases handled last year more than $31,800,000 was filched from the public in all types of sharp practices. Mague says there has been a gradual—but so far not alarming—increase in mail-truck and mail-train holdups, another responsibility of his service. A registered mail sack is snatched here and there. The incidents are growing in number, Mague says, as unemployment grows and prices rise. He has alerted the inspectors against repetition of the bold forays which fol-

Undercover Men Fight Dope Ring Among Juveniles

By FRANK I. WELLES
AP Newsfeatures Writer
WASHINGTON—This is a story about a pretty young girl we'll call "Susie."
Agents of the Narcotics Bureau of the U. S. Treasury tell it. To emphasize the terrifying increase in use of illicit narcotics by teenagers, "Susie" was in a "five-joint." She was only 16.
"Have a cigaret?" . . . a smooth stranger asked when the band stopped.
"Reefers," Susie scowled. "Kid stuff! My gang uses the real thing now."

Agents say "reefers"—marijuana cigarettes—aren't enough for boys and girls like Susie these days. They have found them using five kinds of the old-time narcotics which almost disappeared from the market during war years.
Oriental Supply Revives
Import shipping from the Orient was nil then, and sources of illicit traffic were cut off. Now they are open. Much of the supply is coming into parts of Mexico where it is difficult for police to operate. Well-financed gangs are running it into Texas, New Mexico and California. Jobbers ship the raw product to New York for processing, and the peddler's product is smuggled back into consumer channels.

A narcotics agent told me that right now most of it is being found in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Buffalo, Rochester and Albany. He said practically all the dealers are musicians or ex-musicians of cheap popular dance orchestras and the jazz-hound type of individual.
That, he said, is how peddlers contact such girls as "Susie" and her boy friends. Arrests are especially difficult because the peddlers are inconspicuous, furtive, small operators and the rug-cutters are alerted to spot narcotics agents and signal the peddler.

Jive Dives The Center
The bureau, headed by H. J. Anslinger, pretty well knows the sources of supply for confirmed narcotics addicts. It seems the habit-forming peril of the traffic has moved from well-known criminal channels to these jive dives, where unrestrained youths think a "shumpy" or two will "send" them, and "hot thorns" in the bands use the stuff to stay "hot."

However, agents recently have arrested 26 peddlers in the Times Square, 52nd Street and Harlem areas of New York. They arrested 16 in Rochester and Buffalo.

In 1945 narcotics agents made 1,474 arrests and seized 5,052 ounces of narcotics and 4,550 ounces of bulk marijuana . . . even while there was a relative scarcity of the illicit products.

Luciano Mob Is Back
Now, they say, there is evidence that the old "Lucky" Luciano mob is back in operation in New York. They have obtained indictments against 30 narcotics vendors in the East in the last month.

The undercover men who posed as addicts and bought from such seasoned narcotics traffickers were almost killed by vendors when police closed in for the arrests.

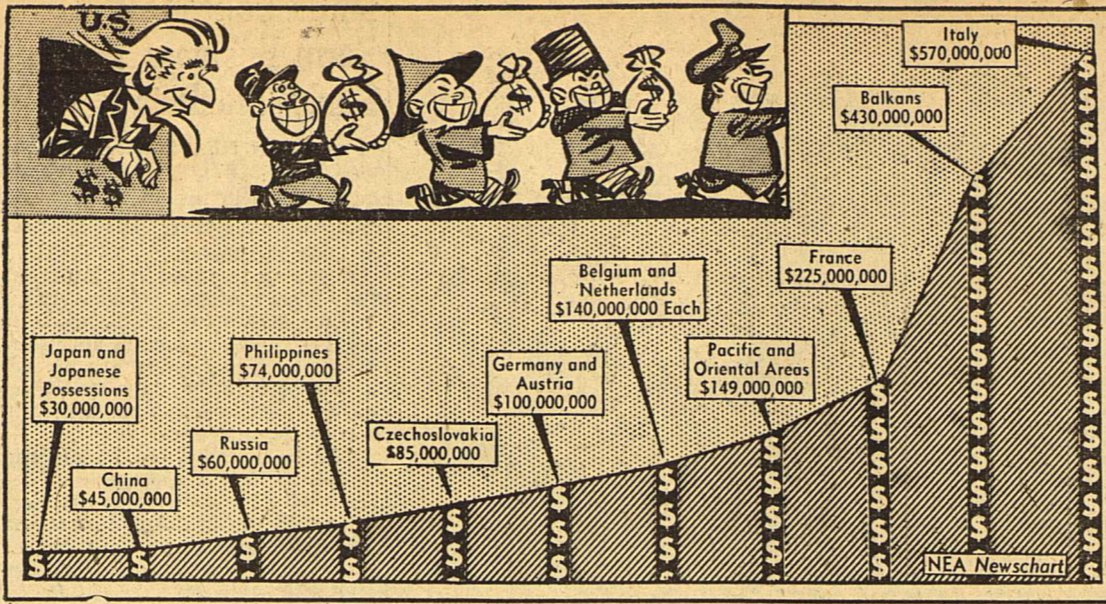

For 40 years the United States has led a world movement to limit narcotics to medicinal needs. There have been repeated attempts to enforce international control agreements. It seems there now is over-production of opium in war-improvised Oriental countries. The U. S., being the world's richest country, is the sales target.

Horse meat is as safe as beef for human consumption.

lowed World War I, such as Gerald Chapman's stickup of a mail truck for a million dollars in New York. Mague says post office burglaries are starting up again but that so far most of them are by small fry hoodlums . . . nothing like in the early 20's, when burglars got the biggest haul in all postal history, $250,000 in stamps from the Pawtucket, R. I., post office. They were captured and sentenced to 10 years in jail.

Check Thefts
"Sniping" of government checks from mailboxes is giving postal inspectors their biggest headache. Thefts have risen from 969 in 1944 and 1,546 in 1945 to what looks like something near 2,000 in 1946. At first it was carried on principally by blacksheep boys and girls who seemed satisfied with just enough to finance a night in a jive dive. Now, Mague says, there is evidence that older and wiser heads are directing organized depre-

Bundles for All the World—From Uncle Sam

In the form of food, clothing, medical supplies and money, the United States provided $536,000,000 in relief aid to other countries of the world during the first three months of this year. From July 1, 1940, through March 31 of this year, the U. S. government's overall expenditures on foreign relief and rehabilitation totaled $2,305,000,000, of which $2,125,000,000 was in supplies. By July 1, 1947, the total probably will exceed $4,500,000,000, the Commerce Department says. Pictograph above shows how the relief has been distributed.

A&M Finds Way To Desalt Crude Oil Economically

COLLEGE STATION — (SpI) — A method of desalting crude oil far more economical than processes now in use has been developed through research at Texas A&M College, it has been revealed by Dr. J. D. Lindsey, head of the chemical engineering department.

The new method removes practically all the salt that is pumped from a well along with the crude oil by emulsifying the crude with hot water, pumping it through a fiberglass bed into a settling tank and then drawing off the oil while the salt and water are recirculated. Passage through the fiberglass changes the nature of the emulsion in such a way that the salt particles will settle out in the tank, Dr. Lindsey said.

Results so far are striking enough to have caused the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to build a pilot plant at Whiting, Ind., where four months of tests with the fiberglass method have caused that corporation to go ahead with designs for a full-scale refinery using the new process. Further, the Standard Oil Company of Ohio has shipped a carload of crude oil to Texas A&M College for tests and sent a group of technicians along as observers.

Work Started In 1945

Work on the project, which started in February 1945 at the behest of and with funds provided by the Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corporation of Newark, Ohio, has been directed by Chalmers G. Kirkbride, distinguished professor of chemical engineering now on leave to observe Operations Crossroads at Bikini Atoll. T. A. Eurtis, a graduate student from Carnegie Tech, did the first year's work and developed the method now being tested, while J. A. Fesperman, A&M graduate who took over last February, has been making exhaustive tests to see if the fiberglass desalts various types of crude oil equally well—and tests so far indicate that it does, according to Dr. Lindsey.

Crude oil pumped from deep wells may contain up to 200 pounds of ordinary salt per 1,000 barrels. The salt has a corrosive effect on metals with which it makes contact and in addition, "poisons" or makes less effective catalytic agents used in modern refinery practice to "crack" the crude down to gasoline. Due to these actions of the salt, Lindsey says, refineries have used a number of methods of desalting, including distillation, chemical and electrolytic processes to remove the salt before cracking. The fiberglass process is a new and probably far less expensive means of desalting.

Bureaucrats' Conciliator

When President Truman named Doctor (of Philosophy) John Roy Steelman as Director of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, a lot of people may have wondered, "How come?"

True, "Doc" Steelman had about 15,000 friends in labor and management leadership, scattered all over the country. And nobody—not even a congressman—had anything against him. He had been a good head of the U. S. Conciliation Service. But was he big enough to be qualified for this top job as "assistant president"?

If the appointment created little public stir, that fact may have been due to a general belief that OWMR was dead or dying. In such a case, who presided as undertaker wouldn't make much difference.

Perhaps the President himself thought OWMR dead when he promoted John W. Snyder to secretary of the treasury and announced no one would take his place as director of OWMR. Ten days later, the President changed his mind and named Steelman.

What had happened in the meantime was that a number of cabinet officers, the heads of many independent agencies, and the OWMR advisory council of farm, labor, management, and public leaders had protested against giving the outfit the axe.

There were three reasons for the wave of protests: First, there was a realization that the reconversion job was by no means finished. The war plants may have been converted to civilian production, all right. But production of many scarce items was still very poor. Housing was worse.

Veterans' retraining was moving at a snail's pace. Surplus property disposal was under fire in Congress, in spite of several top reorganizations. Wage and price levels were by no means stabilized. And the real battle against inflation was still to be fought.

Second, OWMR had become a convenient place for government officials to bring their troubles. The director's office was over in the east wing of the White House. Top bureaucrats, and even congressmen, had, therefore, learned the trick of slipping unobserved into the OWMR office to cry on the director's shoulder, whisper into his ear, and make sure that their troubles and tales of woe would be relayed to the President.

The President was, of course, too busy to listen to all this stuff. The director of OWMR became, therefore, not only the President's good right-hand, but also his right shoulder and right ear, and sometimes his boot.

Third, when there were problems and conflicts affecting two or more departments of government, the boss of OWMR was empowered to co-ordinate and conciliate.

It is in this last role—as a conciliator—that Dr. Steelman can probably put his talents and genius to best advantage.

Don't Delay Applying For Pension

Veterans who were in any way disabled in the service should apply as soon as possible to the Veterans' Administration for a pension ruling. This includes any man who might have had an old injury aggravated by his service, and any veteran who fears that a service-connected injury which does not bother him now might get worse as time goes on.

Applying for a disability pension isn't asking for charity. It is all part of the agreement between the U. S. government and the men who had to fight to keep the nation safe.

If there is any chance that a veteran deserves a pension, he should apply for it. It is up to the veteran to take the initiative.

Minority Rule

Though negroes voted for the first time in Georgia's democratic primary, the unhappy instance of "minority rule" still prevails. Thanks to the state's county unit electoral system, Eugene Talmadge got the gubernatorial nomination (and the office, in that one-party state) in spite of receiving considerably fewer votes than his principal opponent.

Since Talmadge has been governor three times before, Georgians know what to expect from him. It is safe to say that his return to office will be a bitter disappointment to the majority who voted for James V. Carmichael, the enlightened administration of Ellis Arnall.

But perhaps four more years of Governor Gene will give Georgians to amend, at long last, the antiquated county unit system which has thwarted the popular will and made those four more years possible.

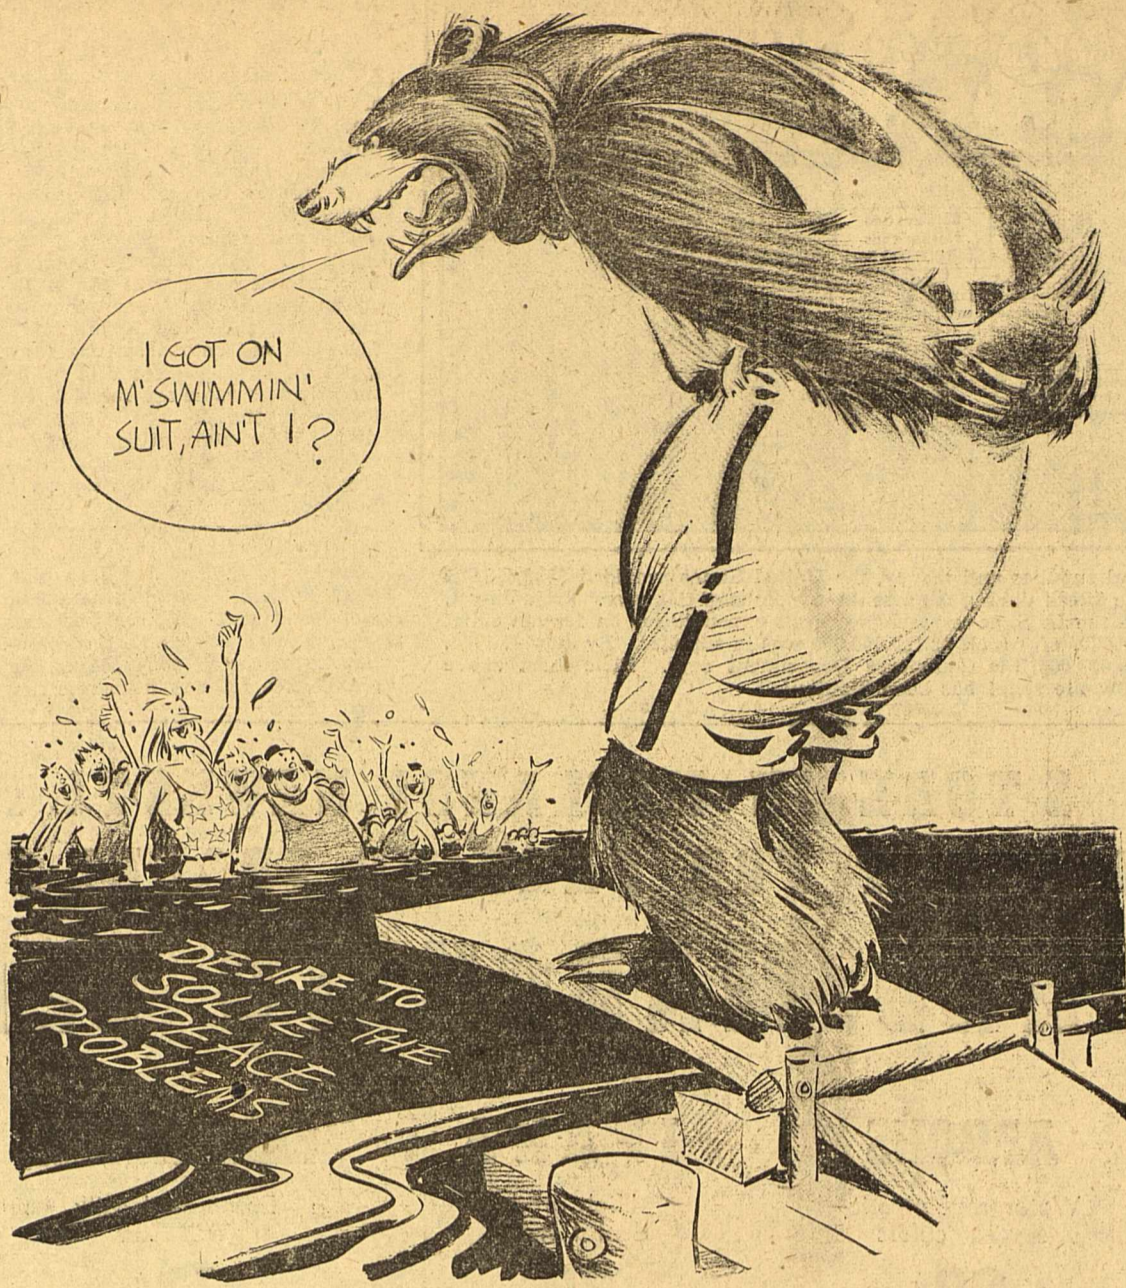

It's odd how quickly people can reduce expenses when merchants refuse credit.

Most people who take things as they come don't know what to do with them.

It's harder to get men to church because they don't care what the other men are wearing.

A pessimist is any politician discussing what the other side has accomplished.

Missouri Town Swells With Pride Because Hometown Hog Fathered Pigs Used At Bikini

BUCKNER, MO.—(AP)—This little town of 600 people swelled with pride—the name of one of its former residents had been added to the list of Missourians who have made good.

High Linden Dude, who comes from a long line of well-bred, easy going spotted Poland China hogs, has been identified as the pappy of the 200 pigs used in the atomic test at Bikini.

The porker got his start here with Vernon M. Reppert, secretary-treasurer of the Missouri Spotted Poland Breeders Association, and headed west at the age of three months for an important assignment in vocational agriculture research.

Whether Buckner will hold some sort of a celebration honoring him for his contribution to the atomic world hasn't been decided but he certainly has been the talk of the town since Reppert was notified of his distinction.

Reppert sold High Linden to a California school for vocational purposes. Even at the age of three months, Reppert recalled, High Linden stood out as the pig most likely to succeed out of his large herd.

While conceding that all hogs would have the same physical reaction to radio active rays, Reppert expressed the opinion that the Navy selected High Linden's offspring for the historical experiment because of their good manners and mild disposition.

"Spotted Poland Chinas as a breed," he said, "are sweet tempered and easy to handle. They don't jump, run or root."

Smith College Girls Form Business To Study Markets

By NEA Service
NORTHAMPTON, MASS.—Closing prices held firm amid unmixed trading and buying was heaviest in class A shares . . .

If you think you're reading about the stock market, you're right, brother. And it's a girl's, not a bull's, market we're talking about because the young ladies are moving it. Beg pardon, they have moved in, incorporated, capitalized, invested, and everything else.

The young ladies are juniors and seniors at Smith College, who decided if they were going to have careers in the world of bulls, bears and ticker tape they might just as well form a business of their own and then study it.

It's like taking the stock ticker instead of a guinea pig into the college laboratory and dissecting it, so to speak.

This feminine firm calls itself ECCLYCO, which stands for Economics Class Corporation. It was organized last fall by 18 Smith students at the suggestion of Stanley C. Ross, visiting lecturer in economics, who believes in laboratory-type teaching.

Using as a basis an advanced course in "Corporations: Their organization, accounting, financial policies and public control" in which these students already were enrolled, Ross proposed that they form their own holding investment corporation, with themselves as stockholders and any among them who were legally of age as directors.

The girls were so fascinated that four of them even forgot that ladies never tell their right age. Those four became the first directors. Applied To SEC

Then they incorporated under the Massachusetts laws with a capitalization of $2,000, and applied to the SEC for exemptions from the provisions of the investment company act.

The SEC also was fascinated—by the girls as much as the idea, no doubt—and granted the plea on the logical grounds that the student company's main function was educational rather than financial. That was last May.

ECCLYCO now has a capitalization of 5,000 shares of non-par value stock, valued at $1 each. Of these, 500 shares are class A (voting) and 4,500 are class B (non-voting). Since SEC approval was granted, 500 shares of stock have been sold.

Monahans Soil Unit Goes Into Operation

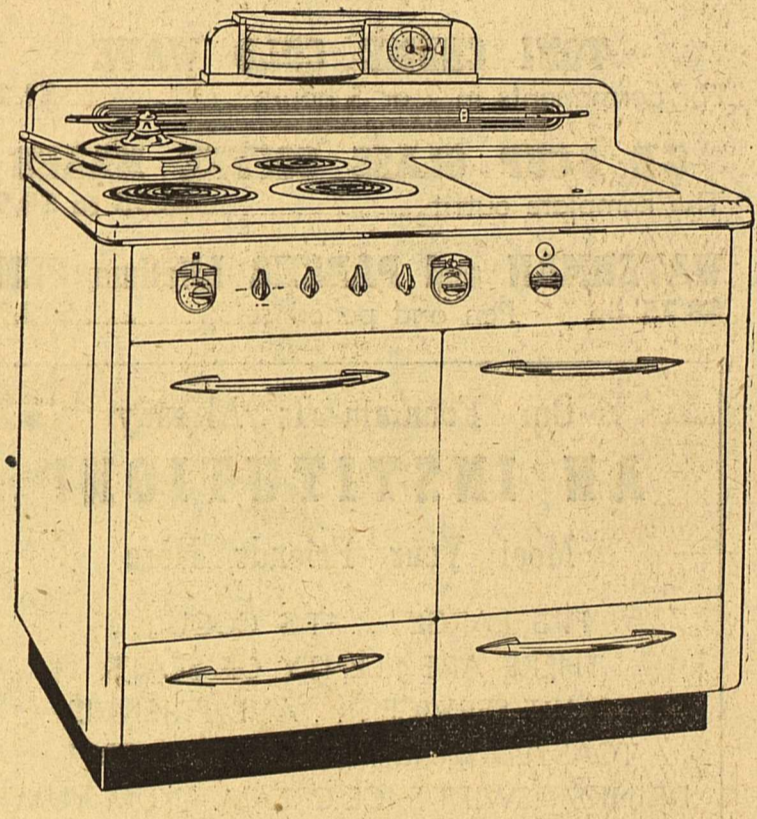

MONAHANS — The Monahans Work Unit of the Upper Pecos Soil Conservation District opened last week under direction of Dr. L. C. Hincley, range conservationist with U. S. Soil Conservation Service. The Monahans unit is under supervision of Zech C. Dameron, district conservationist of Pecos, and also includes an agricultural engineer, Walter O. Mosley, and two conservation aides, Charles S. Campbell and Morley White.

The Upper Pecos Soil Conservation District is the largest district in Texas, covering 2,631,740 acres of which 2,597,560 are range land and 34,180 in cultivation. District supervisors who are land owners within the district are Neil Thompson, Pecos, chairman; Walter Burkholder, Burstow, secretary; Alva Carpenter, Grandfalls; E. Hall, Montone; Jim Waddell, Kermit.

Supervisors have called a range-planning meeting of all ranchmen in the district for August 5 at 8 p. m. in Reeves County courthouse. Program of the Pecos meeting will consist of explanations of district organization, outline of assistance offered and how to obtain it and a general discussion of range conservation.

The overall plan of U. S. Soil Conservation Service for the next several years in the Upper Pecos District includes not only soil conservation but water development and practical range management to best utilize vegetation.

This one's going to hurt!

INVASION COMES HIGH—in blood and misery.

Part of the cost must be paid with human life. That means deep and lasting hurt for many and many an American family. Part of the cost must be paid in cash... this September. And that's going to hurt, too!

The 3rd War Loan Is Here!

To pay for invasion—to get the money to keep our fighting machine going—you and every man or woman in America, are asked to invest in at least one extra $100 Bond in September.

$100 EXTRA, mind you—for everybody!

No man or woman can hold back. No man or woman can point to his Payroll buying and say, "They don't mean me!" No man or woman can say, "I'm already lending 10% or 12% or 20%—I'm doing enough!" Sure—it's going to hurt. It's going to take more than spare cash this time—more than just money that might have gone for fun. It's going to take money we have tucked away. It's going to take part of the money we've been living on—money that might have meant extra shoes or clothes or food! Money that might have gone for anything that we can get along without!

Sure—it'll be tough to dig up that extra money. But we've got to do it—and we will.

We'll do it partly because of the look that would come over the faces of our fighting men if we should fail. We'll do it partly because the cheapest way out of this whole rotten business is for everybody to stop in all he can and help end it quick. We'll do it partly because there's no finer, safer investment in the world today than a U.S. War Bond.

But mostly, we'll do it because America is right smack in the middle of the biggest, deadliest, dirtiest war in history.

And we're Americans.

Tom Sharkey Says Jeffries Could Whip Dempsey, Louis On Same Night

By AL VERMEER
SAN FRANCISCO (NEA)—A slow elevator toils its way to the fourth floor of a small San Francisco hotel and there, in a tiny room, sits 73-year-old Tom Sharkey, one of the few survivors of that great heavyweight era of the turn of the century.

With a sweep of his arm he invites you to scan hundreds of old-time fight pictures which cover the walls, recalling his battles with Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Choynski, Corbett and other famous fighting men.

"I guess those pictures are not worth $3 to anyone else, but I wouldn't sell them for $10,000," remarks the old tar.

Sailor Tom Sharkey is still as hard as steel plate, with the chest of an ox. His head is large and grizzled, the ears curled, but he reads without glasses and still does a man's work, walking 14 miles per day and doing a full-time job as nightwatchman.

"The trouble with me is I was born 50 years too soon," grins the man who licked champions but never became a champion himself.

United Nations, Still On Move, Can't Find Place To Settle Down

By MARC J. PARSONS
NEW YORK (NEA)—The United Nations, which can't seem to get settled about the veto problem, also can't seem to find a place to settle down and call home.

Since the delegates arrived in New York, they've had two temporary headquarters, are scheduled to move into two more, and where they are going to settle down for keeps is just as unsettled a question as the world's future security.

The UN lease on the Hunter College gymnasium expires August 15, but already the delegates have moved into the Henry Hudson Hotel in New York City. In a couple of weeks, they'll move again, this time to the New York City building, part of the World's Fair site on Flushing Meadows, and to a building at the Sperry Gyroscope plant at Lake Success, L. I.

One of the new but still temporary addresses for UN in August will be Flushing Meadows, L. I., where workmen are shown above readying the New York City building, on the World's Fair Site, for use by the General Assembly.

Workmen are moving the furnishings from Hunter College to the new locations now. Because Hunter was to be a temporary headquarters only temporarily, the contractor that converted the gymnasium into a council chamber fixed it so 80 per cent of the equipment could be easily moved. Ply-wood walls were practically pinned up with tiny finishing nails. Draperies, steel girders, sound equipment, even the concrete blocks that were used for flooring, are being taken out for use in the new location.

The Henry Hudson Hotel is being used to keep the council legal during the moving period. Under its by-laws, it can't let more than 14 days elapse between meetings. But delegates are keeping business to a minimum.

After August 15, the organizational set-up, including the secretariat offices, will be at Lake Success. The New York City building in Flushing Meadows will be used by the General Assembly when it meets here in the fall.

New York City would like to have UN stay on in the city, but the organization isn't too enthusiastic about it. It wants a little place of its own that it can really call home, and where that will be no one knows for sure. A committee has been sizing up the situation and has its recommendations ready for the General Assembly.

This, in general, is what it would like:

About 11 square miles of area within an hour and half of New York City.

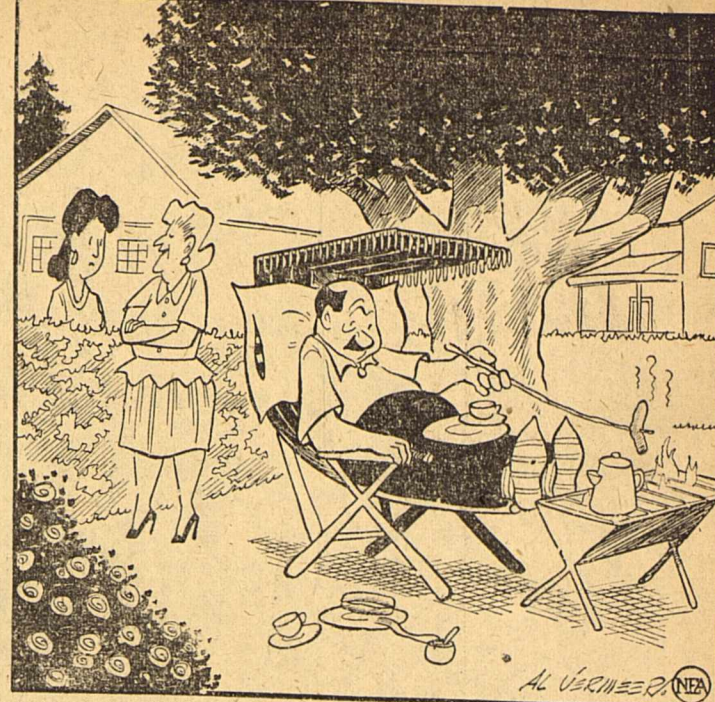

An area not likely to be absorbed by expanding New York City. A place where it will be cool in summer but protected from icy winds in winter, an attractive, "even scenic" region with varied terrain, woodlands, and maybe even a lake or two.

That put the UN requirements right in the middle of the most expensive residential area around New York. But the housing commission says "no otherwise advantageous area is to be rejected solely because of high values." In other words, money is no object.

The commission figures that UN headquarters buildings would require about three and a half square miles and the rest of the area would be used as home sites for attached personnel, shops and recreational facilities.

Perhaps taking its cue from some member nations, the commission further recommends that there be a buffer zone, controlled by state or local governments, but in which,

Drawing Cards

"Hampton simply loves to rough it."

by agreement with UN, construction would be limited. UN wants this for future expansion if required.

Beyond the buffer zone, it would like a "controlled area" not owned by UN but regulated by public agencies in cooperation with UN, Greenwich and Stamford, Conn., were first choice of the first United Nations group that went house hunting for a permanent home.

The residents rose up in their wrath and voted a resounding "No!" Now the commission is casting long eyes at the region around Westchester County, N. Y., and Fairfield County, Conn.

Engagement Of Lou Nell Hudman Revealed At Tea

To announce the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Lou Nell Hudman, to Dennis L. Lindsey, son of Mrs. D. L. Lindsey of Cameron, Texas, Mrs. J. C. Hudman entertained with an informal tea Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home, 210 South Marlenfield Street.

Receiving guests at the door were the bride-elect and her mother. The bride-elect wore a pink eyelid dress with a corsage of blue delphinium and yellow daisies.

As guests were ushered into the dining room, little Linda Merl Stracener distributed tiny hand-painted scrolls, tied with white satin ribbons, and bearing the news. "Lou Nell and Dennis, August 27, 1946."

The dining table was laid with an Irish lace cloth over blue. In the center, a crystal bowl held white gladioli, blue delphinium and yellow columbines. Tall yellow candles burned in crystal holders.

Mrs. E. N. Stracener presided at the punch bowl during the first hour and Mrs. H. S. Collings presided during the second. Assisting was Miss Martha Jane Preston.

Miss Fay Dublin furnished music throughout the entertainment.

Also assisting in the house party were Mrs. J. V. McCoy and Mrs. Fred Arnett, who presided at the bride's register. Corsages of various colors were worn by members of the house party.

Approximately 80 guests called during the afternoon.

National Convention Of B. & P. W. Will Be In Fort Worth In 1948

Fort Worth will be host to the national federation of Business and Professional Women, Inc., for their bi-annual convention in July, 1948.

The decision was reached when the federation met in Cleveland, Ohio. A Texas delegation of 28 women, accompanied by Herbert Joseph, convention manager of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, attended the convention attired in cowgirl uniforms, carrying cow bells and offering plenty of Texas hospitality for the next meeting.

Texas first made a bid for the convention in 1939, laying the ground work for the recent decision, followed up with another bid in 1941 when the convention was held in Los Angeles, and lost the convention by one vote in New York City in 1944. Naming Texas as the convention site for 1948 automatically gave the convention to Fort Worth.

The national federation includes 120,000 members in 48 states, Canada and the Hawaiian Islands. About 1,700 delegates were present for the Cleveland meeting.

Capes, Coats Headline Fur

Fur adds a luxury note to fall coats and capes. Left, leopard rings the shoulders and belts this velvety brown wool and camel's hair coat which has full sleeves tucked at the wrist. Center, the nutria yoke of the yellow and brown plaid cape introduces a new line slanting up from the waistline on one side to a bow on the opposite shoulder. Nutria also bands the hem, cuffs and neckline of the boxy beige woolen coat, right, reminiscent of 1912 styles.

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Capes and coats for fall and winter carry their loads of fur with grace and elegance. Yard-wide skirt borders, elbow-deep cuffs, flamboyant ascots or lapels, cowl hoods, coat tops and yokes of fur supplement—never overpower—the season's softly or brilliantly colored woollens or the wardrobe-safe brown, black or beige.

Featured among these are broadcloth, a revival from you-know-when; deep-ple coating; tweeds; nubby woolsens, suede cloth and a new fabric with a ribbed pile surface.

Capes, which are longer and more formally styled, are the show-offs of fall collections. Loaded with broadtail, ermine, beaver, leopard or nutria, many capes bring their own head-coverings along. Cowls, as softly curved as babies' caps, can be worn on, off or detached to lend their furry elegance to something else. Other capes are extravagant wrap-arounds—often skirt length. These offer a capful of contrast with diagonal yokes.

Baptist Girls Hold 2-Day Meet Here

Baptist girls from Big Spring, Odessa, Stanton and Midland were entertained in Midland Friday and Saturday in observance of the Big Spring Association's annual get-together.

More than 50 out-of-town girls attended.

The two-day event opened Friday night with a dinner at the First Baptist Church. A missionary movie was shown in the auditorium, and several girls gave a book review on "Pray Ye." A campfire program closed the night program and the girls slept out at the residence of the pastor, the Rev. Vernon Yearby. Connie Atkins was in charge of the campfire program.

A breakfast was held Saturday morning at a Midland residence, and morning watch was observed. The speaker was Mrs. Wier of Odessa. A program was held at the Calvary Baptist Church, continuing until noon Saturday. Lunch was served at the church.

A picnic was held in Cloverdale Park at 5 p. m., and an Odessa minister gave the inspirational talk.

Midland Girl Scout Leaders Learn Crafts From Indians At Santa Fe

Mrs. Don Johnson, president of the Leaders Club of the Midland Girl Scout Council, and Mrs. Harold Hall and Mrs. H. L. Wilkinson, Midland Scout leaders, returned recently from Santa Fe, N. M., where they attended the first annual Girl Scout Southwestern Craft Workshop Training School.

Mature City Cotton

Hannah Troy made this with the older woman in mind, in muted gray and white plaid cotton gingham, trimmed with hip-disguising ruffles and black jet buttons. The matching bolero hides a discreet sunback bodice, finished with a self-fabric cuff.

Jewelry making, metal work, weaving and Indian embroidery were among the courses offered in the craft school. A course in nature was also conducted.

Visited Indian Pueblos

The Midland women also visited two Indian pueblos.

Fifty Girl Scout leaders from Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado and New Mexico were enrolled.

Certificates for completing the 40-hour course were awarded the Midland leaders who will supervise similar training courses for Midland Girl Scouts this fall.

Girl Scout activities in Midland again will get underway with the starting of school in September.

Mrs. S. P. Hazlip is chairman of the Midland Council, which has about 15 troops and approximately 225 Scouts. An expanded program is planned for the coming year. Efforts still are underway to obtain a permanent Girl Scout home here.

'Junior Miss' Has Second Audience

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Benzene (formerly called Benzol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blot disappears—how much better you feel. More alive youthful appearing and active.

MIDLAND DRUG AND ALL OTHER DRUGGISTS

of beige—called "winter wheat," cloud beige, heather beige, and dry gin—and wind up on a base crescendo of rock gold, gentian blue, torch red, peony, winter cranberry. Add to these the colorful stripe combinations and checks as big as a horseblanket's.

Fresh ideas in styling also dramatize new woolen dresses. There are drum-major touches, such as slot-tucked, double-breasted fronts, decked with regimental shiners. The stole scarf is used to drape the top of a dress and to release pepum fulness below a belt.

Old West Texas Cattle Town Theme Of New Book

By JACK RUTLEDGE

Associated Press Staff

Texans figure in the field of literature this week. "Maverick Town, the Story of Old Tascosa," by John L. McCarthy of The Amarillo Globe-News has been published.

And "Wind in the Olive Trees" by Abel Penn of Brownsville has been named a book club selection for July.

"Maverick Town" is a major contribution to the history of West Texas. Texans may well be thankful to McCarthy for putting Tascosa's history in print.

Tascosa today is just a ghost town, but once it rivaled Dodge City, Cheyenne, and Tombstone as a major inland cattle empire capital.

Famous names flourished there—Billy the Kid, Pat Garrett, J. E. McAlister, Col. Charles Goodnight, John Chisum, legendary ranches such as the Lit, the Xit, the Jingle-bob. There is Boothill Cemetery to testify to the violence of both men and elements.

To the oldtimers of the Panhandle, Tascosa epitomizes all the romance of the old West. And now McCarthy has given others a chance to know about it.

Harold D. Bugbee has illustrated the book, and wonderfully well. His drawings remind one of Remington, some say. Bugbee has illustrated many books, is widely known, but he likes to be known as a rancher from Clarendon.

Penn's "Wind in the Olive Trees" is a story of inside Spain under Franco. Reviewed by Leland Stowe, the noted war correspondent and author, this Texan's book has been hailed as "brilliant," "informative," "thrilling," and "the best book on Franco Spain yet."

The book is full of dynamite and Stowe says "at this moment particularly it commands the attention and the thought of the entire American people."

Ground Squirrel Goes With Newsboy As He Delivers Newspapers

Thirteen-year-old Paul Forest, Reporter-Telegram newsboy, carries more than papers when he walks his delivery route in the city. His new pet, "Sluggo," a month-old ground squirrel, rides in his shirt pocket—except when Paul takes him out to show to some of his customers he meets in the yard or to pet as he walks from house to house.

The pet is a favorite among the paper carriers as they gather at the newspaper office to pick up their papers. In fact, Paul bought him from another newsboy for a dime. It originally was found by a third youth near the city.

"I'm going to build him a cage with a ground floor in it," Paul said. "I'm going to feed him raw eggs and nuts. The farmers don't like ground squirrels because they say the squirrels eat their grain. But I like 'em."

Paul plans to get a playmate for "Sluggo," but he's not sure how they'll get along—for the other pet will be a baby turtle.

Gene Howe May Warm Up Typewriter Again

TUCSON, ARIZ. —(AP)— Gene Howe, the Amarillo, Texas, editor who saw red the last time the movie of a Texas story was filmed in Arizona, had better warm up his typewriter—because the movie people are doing it again.

"Red River," based on a story laid in Texas and Kansas, is to be filmed at Elgin, Ariz., by Howard Hawkes' Monterey Productions, Inc.

A. D. Schroeder, location manager, said he could find every type of Texas scenery within a 90-mile radius of Elgin.

Howe, publisher of The Amarillo News-Globe, was stirred to startling heights of journalistic indignation when "Duel in the Sun," was filmed in Arizona.

The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Patience Blakeney, wore a dusty rose eyelet embroidered dress, and a bandeau of white orange blossoms held her shoulder length veil. George Hodgett was his brother's best man.

A wedding dinner was given by Mrs. Blakeney immediately after the ceremony and the couple then left for a honeymoon trip to points of interest in New Mexico and Colorado.

Soft lines, flattering colors make this year's campus clothes stand out from casually cut predecessors. Starchy white pique collar and cuffs set off the frock, left, with its peppermint striped jersey top and solid red high-waistline skirt. Center, the dress suit combines velvet trimmed white jacket with navy skirt and navy jersey blouse. Right, a streak of color on the campus is this red suede wool coat with its trim, rolled collar and double row of gold buttons.

Strict Rules Made For GIs In Soviet Territory

FRANKFURT—(AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters has issued a strict code of behavior for Americans entering Soviet-occupied territory in Europe to prevent "embarrassment" to the United States.

Rigid controls, it was disclosed, have been ordered to avoid "prolonged detention" of American Army personnel in "Eastern, Central and Southeastern European countries."

A directive from headquarters said that "certain instances of misconduct" on the part of Americans in Eastern Europe had "resulted not only in embarrassment to this headquarters and certain high-level diplomatic representatives, but also in the prolonged detention of individuals involved in incidents caused by this misconduct."

Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of LURIN from their druggists. LURIN contains thiamine, a discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. No Relief Yet From Furniture Shortage

John B. Mills, manager of the Midland Hardware & Furniture Company, has returned from a two weeks trip to the Chicago Furniture Mart and reports no immediate relief is in sight from the shortage of many furniture items.

"Shortages of various materials including wood, metals and fabrics needed for the manufacture of quality furniture, are mainly responsible for the current situation," he said. "We are assured by large manufacturers that the Midland Hardware & Furniture Company, long in the furniture business, will continue to get as large allotments as are available." Mills said merchandise in limited amounts is assured at all times.

He asserted that the store will continue to give the best possible service to its customers, and will also continue to keep in close touch with manufacturers and wholesalers to get the maximum amount of merchandise for the local demand.

Janie Manning, Julia Midkiff Win County 4-H Contest

Janie Manning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Manning of the Warfield Community, Saturday was judged the winner in a 4-H Club clothing revue contest held to pick representatives for the state and national competition.

To win the food preparation contest, Miss Midkiff served meals in her family home. She planned nutritious meals and studied foods.

Towel-Tugging Trick

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

There's a towel-tugging trick which will put a stop to those acrobatics with a washrag-wringing hand that never quite reaches between the shoulder blades.

The trick is to wring out a towel in hot soapy water. Then grasp the towel at each end with a vigorous hand—one to pull and one to push it across the shoulders. The tug back and forth not only cleanses an inaccessible area but gives the friction rub which shoulders exposed by strapless gowns and scooped-out necklines need for the summer evening.

Radio's Milena ("Music Hall") Miller, who vouches for the thoroughness of this method, says you aren't through, however, until you turn your back to a needle-sharp spray from the bathtub shower.

"To rinse, start with the water warm, then work up to cold spray that will make your teeth chatter," is Milena's tip.

MISS MILLER: Towel tugger.

Junior Neutral

Styled for the young or older Junior, a Fall 1946 dress woven of a new mixture of wool, muskrat and mink.

NEW and exciting fabrics appear in Junior dresses for the forthcoming season. Mohair jersey, a cashmere-like mixture, suede cloth, with the look of thin duvetyne, and "Minkasha," the soft and sheer woolen used for the dress pictured above, are among the most interesting from New York's 1946-47 collections.

Wool jersey, a pet alike in campus and career girl circles, and rayon jersey, beloved for its draping quality, share the picture with lots of woolsens in fresh looking checked and striped patterns. Velvetene, both in black and color, is seen in party and date dresses and is used for many Junior cocktail suits.

Black play duds make good dirt dodgers, are figure-trimming, and leave nothing to be desired as a foil for a richly-tanned skin. But they need to be sparked with color or a girl wearing black among brightly clad beachcombers is apt to look like a little streak of gloom.

If you wear black, you can successfully banish that gloomy aspect with one stroke of color. Bright play shoes will relieve the somberness. So will a flamboyant beach bag or a band of color hitched around your waist.

If complexion tones need relief from black, wrap your head with color or cradle your hair with it. Vicki Chesbro, chic Palm Beach model, launched a fashion trick this winter—which is still going strong—of lighting up her hair with a snood net studded with stray flowers, each centered with a fiery cluster of sequins.

Military Touches Remain But Peron Goes Democratic

By J. F. McEVY

BUENOS AIRES—(P)—The military touch still prevails in Argentina's new government but the atmosphere of dictatorship which existed for the past three years has disappeared.

As far as the eye can see, Argentina is as complete a democracy as exists anywhere in the world. A congress is functioning for the first time since 1942 and President Juan D. Peron has been emphatic in his declarations that democracy is the only form of government and it will be practiced within the framework of the constitution.

Censorship of the press which disappeared in the last year of the Farrell government has not been resumed and both foreign correspondents and domestic newspapermen have been free to handle news critical of the administration. Radio stations, however, are still subject to rigid control and when the government deems fit they must tie in with the official station and broadcast important political speeches and events.

Street Fights Are Gone
The street fights between Nationalists, one of the groups backing Peron in the February election, and student groups who opposed him are things of the past.

Although lifting of the state of siege which lasted nearly three years theoretically restored all constitutional rights, political parties have not regained complete liberty. They are not hampered in holding meetings, but the imposition of the so-called "statute of political parties" makes them subject to considerable control by the administration.

Likewise, the new government has nationalized the Central Bank, the bank of issue of the republic, and controls financial markets, insurance companies, manufacturers' associations and stock exchanges by "intervention".

Persons who had hoped that when Peron quit the army to become a civilian candidate for the presidency they were seeing the last of military rule have been disappointed. Peron, himself, was reincorporated into active army service and promoted to the rank of brigadier general a few days before taking the oath of office. Although he has many civilian assistants, the president is usually surrounded by military and naval aides.

Evidence Indicates Many Old-Timers In Congress On Skids

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON—(P)—The sudden rise in primary defeats of House incumbents may or may not be indicative of a trend to "kick the ins out."

But it has piled up evidence that many of the old-timers in Congress are on the political skids.

The average service of the 11 representatives and five senators who have failed in renomination attempts so far is nearly 12 years. Two senators—Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat, and Henrik Hipstead, Minnesota Republican—lost primary battles while in their 24th year in the Senate.

One representative—Zebulon Weaver, North Carolina Democrat—was in his 28th year when he lost. Two others—Malcolm Tarver, Georgia, and Jed Johnson, Oklahoma, both Democrats—were serving out their 20th year.

Only Two in First Term
Only two—Senator Charles C. Gessett, Idaho Democrat, and Rep. Helen Douglas Mankin, Georgia Democrat—were in their first year.

So far as the House defeats are concerned, Democratic and Republican party officers commented Friday that they saw no particular significance in them. It was more or less a question of "personalities," they said. One Democratic official noted that all Democratic losses were in solidly Democratic districts which meant, he said, that Democrats would succeed Democrats in November.

However, one of the winners, Henderson L. Lanham, solicitor general of the Rome Judicial District in Georgia, who defeated Rep. Tarver, put it this way:

"Mr. Tarver has been in Washington too long. Two decades in that city would make it impossible for a man to realize he was looking backward."

In 1944 there were only 13 primary defeats for House incumbents prior to the November elections—nine Democrats and four Republicans. Since 17 states have yet to pick candidates, it is almost certain this number will be exceeded.

Bright Outlook For Juniors

Red, white and green clan plaid in a Junior dress designed for Fall 1946.

JUNIORS are going Scotch this Fall—but the gay clan plaid today's dress is made of is just one of its talking points for the new 1946-47 season. Billowing pushup sleeves, the small waistline look, a neckline hugging the throat, and full flare to the skirt are equally important trends seen throughout the collections of New York's noted designers of Junior clothes.

Possibly the chief of these trends is the small-waisted look, applying, as it does, to fashions for both the young and the older junior. This year, our designers emphasize the effect with wide, shaped belts and wide midriff inserts, with flaring fantails on jackets, and with rounded or square hiplines in skirts.

Other trends, adapted with the sophisticated junior particularly in mind, include Turkish drapery for skirts, uneven hemlines, discreet glitter touches, and low to very low necklines.

Leading vivid colors in junior collections include "fireman's red," Kelly green and royal blue. First among the neutrals is beige, with grey as a close runner-up. All tones of brown and lots of young black are important, as is this winter's off-white, called "May wine" or magnolia.

Sub-Debs Copy Coiffure Of English Princess

This softly curled hair-do for young girls copies the coiffure worn by Princess Elizabeth.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Young things casting about for a new hair-do that will take a bathing cap with as much grace as it takes a bejeweled headband for party wear might end their search with one which copies the pretty coiffure worn by Great Britain's Princess Elizabeth.

You know from seeing her picture what a youthful and softly-curly hair-do she wears. From Fred Paul, New York stylist, who reproduced her hair-do for young models to sport, you can learn the tricks of copying it.

Part your hair on the side, he says, and in the wide front section, set a deep wave—when brushed out it dips over the forehead—and short ringlets. The opposite front section is set with matching ringlets.

Back hair is also put up in loose ringlets, according to this stylist, which can be worn that way or brushed out to make a fluffier bob.

Texan Grigger Busy With Thesis And Baby

DENTON—(P)—Training for a professional football job, writing a thesis for his master's degree, and sharing housework with his student wife gives Garvin Mugg a pretty full schedule at North Texas State College.

Mugg, who played four years of football at the college and rugged games for the Navy during his military service, leaves August 8 to train with the Detroit Lions of the National League.

Mugg returned to college from the service in September, bringing with him his ex-WAVE wife and young son. Football scouts spotted the 240-pound tackle while he was playing with the Navy Commodores, and offers came to him from the Philadelphia Eagles, Boston Yanks, Pittsburgh Steelers and Detroit Lions.

Mugg, whose home is in Celina, Texas, is completing his work on his master's degree in industrial arts, and Mrs. Mugg, a native of Tallapoosa, Ga., is studying business administration.

When mother Mugg is in class, the big tackle does the housework, heats the baby's bottle and does odd jobs.

Afternoons find the couple, with eight-month-old Kenneth Edwin, on the Eagle training field pacing around the track, doing calisthenics and keeping fit.

Soviet Paper Attacks FBI On Redin Treatment

MOSCOW.—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover and the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation were attacked in a recent article which declared the arrest of a Soviet naval officer in Portland, Ore., last March was a "criminal conspiracy."

The officer, Lt. Nicolai Redin, was recently acquitted in a Seattle federal court on charges of espionage.

Leaving Seattle with his family on the way home, Redin said: "The American people will always have a friendship with us."

Journalist David Zaslavsky, writing under the headline "Black Deed of the American Secret Police," said:

"There is and was no 'case of Redin.' There is the case of the American secret police and a known part of the American press which prefers to keep quiet about it. With this it determines its share of participation in the filthy conspiracy against Democracy itself."

"The Soviet officer was seized in the streets, rudely pushed into an automobile, humiliatingly searched and kept semi-naked in a cold cell. Compared To Gestapo

"If it had not happened in 1946 in the United States, Comrade Redin would have had every reason to believe he was under the paws of the Gestapo."

Zaslavsky said the FBI was not only brutal but also clumsy and inept.

The article declared the result of the trial was that the American public came to recognize that Redin was an honest and modest Soviet officer to whom the Americans owed respect and gratitude for his wartime achievements.

Zaslavsky said Redin's arrest was the signal for a fierce anti-Soviet campaign by the "reactionary" American press.

The article said that as the final proof of the "full senselessness of the provocation," the Soviets already knew the secrets of the destroyer tender Yellowstone which Redin was charged with trying to get through bribes, having previously been given possession of an American ship equipped with the devices in question.

Canteen News

Last Wednesday night's open house was the big night of the week, with 28 teen-age guests attending, and 120 regular members.

Monday night will be the play-off of the four ping-pong tournament winners for the championship of the canteen. Don Hamblett, Herman Hankla, Frank Shephard, winners of the first three tournaments, and F. B. Hale, runner up of the fourth, will compete in both single and doubles games.

Thursday night is bridge night. The playing will be limited to three tables, so all players must register by 5 p. m. Thursday.

Saturday night the canteen is having its first square dance, a Blue Jean and Apron party. All teenagers plan to wear appropriate square dance clothes, and officials will have a caller and instructor for the dances, so all will be able to participate.

The canteen needs records, and any contributions of both popular and classical records would be welcomed, officials said.

Fall Favorite

Grey and black striped men's wear suiting in a Junior suit with basque jacket.

THE BASQUE JACKET rates top honors in suits for Juniors this Fall, with the bolero competing. The new 1946-47 versions by New York's designers make use of striped men's wear woolsens, pin-checks, grey flannels and bright colors in tweeds and wool jerseys.

New sleeves, such as the deep underarm type used in the suit pictured, and full shirtsleeves cuffed at the wrist, add interest to many of the jackets. There is plenty of "back interest," too, showing up in pert little fantails, in the new "contour back" jacket, shaped to the small of the back, and in dipped hemlines for cutaway jackets.

Suit skirts are frequently gathered in front and plain in back, and many are finished with high waistbands.

There's No Substitute for a Doctor's Prescription

When you're ill, there are always people who feel qualified to suggest a remedy for what they think ails you. They can usually remember when they "felt" as you do, and they'll tell you eagerly what they did about it—or repeat what someone told them to do or take. If you follow their well meant but meaningless advice, you may regret it dearly. NEVER let "Ben Told" prescribe for you. When you're ill, see your doctor at once. There's no substitute for his authoritative and effective prescription. Take the medicine he prescribes until he advises you to stop. Let no one "unsell" you on your doctor's prescribed medicine.

Dirt, Squirt And Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

As Johnson grass is a serious problem for some farmers in this area, results of experiments in killing this troublesome grass will be valuable information for them. Calcium chlorate is the chemical recommended for poisoning Johnson grass at present. The chemical is applied at the rate of one gallon mixture of one pound calcium chlorate to one gallon of water and is sufficient to treat ten square feet of area. The best time to apply this poison is when the Johnson grass is in the "boot to head" stage. Do not cultivate the grass in any way for a period of five to six weeks after treatment. Reports say this method of treatment is getting better than a 90 per cent kill.

started. That spirit of being willing to sacrifice a good time and lend their efforts to something which is vitally needed is commendable and our hats are off to the club boys.

The Valley View annual picnic recently was held at Cloverdale Park with a good representation from all over the community. This is one community in Midland County which has been having monthly meetings many years and it always can be counted on to lend a hand in any kind of a project for the betterment of the county and country.

The Midland Fair Association has announced the World's Championship Calf Roping Contest here for Labor Day. This year's event promises to be the best in a number of years. Some of the best ropers in the game have been lined up and all will be proud of the type show put on in Midland.

The county agent's office has a number of people listed who want farm and ranch work, so if any person needs someone to do a little work call the agent's office and it will get in touch with the workers.

Cotton and feed crops in Midland County are beginning to show the results of the hot dry weather. Although the sub-soil moisture is holding up fairly good, rain is needed to make a good crop. Most farmers say they will make some cotton this year but it is expected to be very short of normal years if it doesn't rain in the next week or two.

The Midland livestock auction had a run of about 600 last week. Prices were reported fair with fat cows bringing up to $12.00 and butcher steers of the good kind bringing up to $16.00. Hogs brought from $18.00 to $20.50, with only a few offered. Out of town consigners included: Ed Garnett, Brownfield; Monk Yates, Monahans; McKnight Bros., Odessa; W. E. Kelly, Stanton; Marvin Henderson, Odessa; and Clarence Sparkman of Garden City.

Clarence Sparkman, county judge of Glasscock County, was in Midland and reported ranges in that area are very dry.

Royce Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Howard of Valley View, recently has returned home after a number of months service in the Navy. Royce was the president of the Midland County 4-H Club during his last year as a club boy.

World Surgeon?

Dr. Thomas Parran, serving his third term as Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service, is reportedly being considered for the post of Director-General of the World Health Organization. Dr. Parran was quoted as saying he preferred to "continue to fight for better health in the United States."

TEXAN IDENTIFIED AMONG FLAG RAISERS

WESLACO—(P)—The son of a Weslaco couple has been identified as one of the Marines who helped raise the U. S. flag on Mount Suribachi on Iwo Jima.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Block of Weslaco recognized their son, Harlan Block, when they saw an Associated Press photo of the flag-raising.

Recently they received a letter from one of the two survivors of the group, Ira Hamilton Hayes of Eachule, Ariz., who said Harlan was one of the five Marines who raised the flag. He said another survivor, a Marine named Bradley, also identified Harlan as one of the group.

Lack Of Freight Space Slows Up Productive Effort

NEW YORK—(P)—Lack of ample freight-carrying space threatened Saturday to clamp an undeclared but nonetheless rigid ceiling on the nation's productive effort.

Why produce more goods than you can expect to ship? was a question already confronting some industries.

The shortage of freight cars was so acute there were reports in railroad circles that the Office of Defense Transportation would recommend further steps to speed deliveries of new units.

One proposal discussed was for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance purchase of 50,000 cars for lease to the carriers, with priorities on scarce materials for quick construction.

The car building industry points to a drop from 2,814 deliveries in May to 2,094 in June as emphasizing a need for assistance in obtaining materials, principally steel and lumber. Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, cut its Chicago area operations 25 per cent last week because of a car shortage; Pittsburgh manufacturers running out of storage space anticipated steel mill curtailments, within a week; in northern states grain was piled on the ground at bulging elevators and on farms. Some coal mines were reported closed.

The situation stems from high production with resultant demand for a huge amount of shipping space, and the fact that less than 200,000 freight cars were built during war years when essential materials were diverted to armament needs.

Railroad carloadings this month approached 900,000 cars a week, a July level untouched in peacetime since the record year of 1929; air lines reported new highs in volume for air freight and express; truckers were similarly rushed.

C. C. Randall, manager of port traffic for the Association of American Railroads, said the roads are filling all orders, but delays are affecting from 10 to 15 per cent of the total.

Pointing out that the railroads never have been able to fill all the seasonal demands for cars in grain territory, Randall said about 1,000 cars a day are being forced from Eastern roads to the West. Some 60,000 cars of grain and grain products are loaded weekly, he said.

Frank Lovelace Named Supervisor Of Soil District

Frank Lovelace has been elected supervisor of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District at a special farmers meeting in Zone III of the district. Lovelace will succeed E. T. O'Daniel of Coahoma, who recently resigned. Lovelace lives near Coahoma and is an active cooperater with the Soil Conservation District in a complete program of soil and water conservation measures.

The moving picture, "This Is Our Land", was shown to the farmers attending the meeting.

The following farmers have made soil and water conservation plans on their farms: L. B. Stewart, L. A. Rodeshesir, T. C. Duncan, J. L. Hundle, and Jesse P. Webb. Assistance in making the plans was furnished by the Soil Conservation Service.

Pete E. Turner, R. W. Hamilton, Loy Mashburn, Harry Tolbert, F. J. Middleton, J. B. Harvard, J. L. Hundle, T. C. Duncan, P. C. Roberts, and Otis White have made application to the district supervisors for Soil Conservation assistance.

Piper Plane Firm May Make Craft In Oklahoma

PONCA CITY, OKLA.—(P)—Ponca City voters approved, 1482 to 83, a 25-year lease to the Piper Aircraft Corporation of the site of the Darr School of Aeronautics, where British fliers were trained during World War II.

The lease is subject to approval by the Piper Company's board of directors. Action is expected soon. The site which adjoins the municipal airport, would be used for the manufacture and assembly of aircraft.

The proposition provides for an annual rental of $1,200, giving Piper an option to purchase the property for $12,000 when the corporation pays wages and salaries totaling $10,000,000.

Article On How Big Texas Rabbits Are Makes Out-Of-Staters Flare Up

By JACK RUTLEDGE Associated Press Staff

I'd rather not hear any more about jackrabbits for a while. I don't care how big they are, or how talented. To me they're just treacherous animals that go around getting honest, sincere reporters in trouble.

This is a personal peeve and if you're not interested you can turn back to the comics and see how Lil Abner is getting along. Maybe he has jackrabbit trouble, too.

Not long ago I wrote about Texas jackrabbits. It was supposed to be funny. Arizona, Wyoming, New Mexico and a few other Western states were boasting that their jackrabbits were larger than Texas jackrabbits. So I had to butt in. Not only with words, but with art. The art is what caused most of the kickback.

It was a faked picture of a tremendous jackrabbit. It was an old picture, taken in 1936. I said so.

It appeared recently in the El Paso Times. And it fit in nicely with the current controversy, so I borrowed it, and used it.

The heading read "Proof Positive (It Says Here)". That was supposed to mean exactly the opposite of proof positive, but a lot of people, including some editors, didn't take it that way.

Letters began to come in. People wrote to their own papers. Then editors wrote my boss. My boss wrote me a note in that bristling blue pencil of his: "Why," he asked, "did you get me into all this?"

"Write Another Story"

I said I was sorry. He said: "OK. Now write another story bringing out how dangerous it is to attempt to be funny. And how even some Texans have seemed to lose their traditional appreciation of the tall tale."

That very same day a gentleman named T. J. Aillet of Eden, Texas, sent a letter to The San Angelo Standard Times. The paper sent it to me. It proves that Texans have not, repeat not, lost their sense of humor.

Says Aillet, bless him: "Jackrabbits on my place are so big they have stomped out all the rattlesnakes. When standing, they furnish shade for several sheep. I have 100 acres, in cultivation, which is cultivated by a pair of jackrabbits. They work out better than mules or a tractor."

"The only trouble I have had with this pair when hitched to a large turning plow, is that the river flows through the field and when they get to the river they take a standing start and jump the river, taking plow and all. I am here in San Angelo now having some special harness built so that when they jump the river with the plow hitched they will not tear up the harness."

But, before signing off this time, I want it definitely understood that me and Aillet are kidding, see? It's a joke, son.

Tuberculosis is not a hereditary disease, but the organism is easily passed on in families.

New York House With 75 Rooms Can't Find Buyer; Tax Is $50,000 Yearly

By MARC J. PARSONS
 NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Chase National Bank of New York has a little "cottage" it has been trying to sell for the past seven years. And despite the acute housing shortage, it hasn't gotten a good, authentic nibble yet.

Of course, the "cottage" has some drawbacks. Bank officials admit that the plumbing and heating would take some overhauling. But it has a big yard, and for a young couple that wants to raise a big family, there's plenty of room for expansion.

The "cottage" is Charles M. Schwab's old house. It has 75 rooms and 40 baths and occupies a square block of valuable Manhattan real estate. The price is $2,300,000. Taxes are about $50,000 a year.

For one thing, as it stands now under New York City's multiple dwelling law, the house would have to be occupied by "one family, their employees and guests." It would take a lot of guests to fill up Mr. Schwab's 1901 version of a quiet little home.

Shovel Trouble

Those employees are another thing. The heating system is based on a high pressure boiler. Under New York City laws again, that has to be attended at all times when in use by licensed engineers and firemen. The pay for these boys comes high, upwards to $5,000 a year each. If they work in pairs, on eight hour shifts, that means the furnace-tending bill would run about $30,000 a year. And that little boiler burns a couple of tons of coal a day. This power plant cost Schwab $100,000, and is big enough to take care of a 2,000-room hotel.

A young bride would get lost in the laundry. There are five porcelain tubs and copper washers. She wouldn't even have to hang the clothes out to dry. A big 13-door automatic dryer would take care of that for her.

Number, Please

The kitchen is 35 by 20 feet, about the size of the average Manhattan apartment most people would feel lucky to get today. It is equipped to cook for 1,500 guests, in case you like to entertain and can find something to feed that many people. The refrigerator can hold 20 tons of beef. Think of being able to buy that much beef!

If you like swimming, there is a marble pool with 10 marble columns. Next to the billiard room is a steam bath in case you want to steam off the city's grime instead of washing it off in one of the hand-painted bathrooms upstairs.

To enjoy a view of the Jersey

Palisades from the 100-foot towers, just take an elevator up—there's three of them in the house.

Interior communications are handled through a 30-foot switchboard, which probably gets wrong numbers just like any other switchboard.

Once in a while someone looks at the place, but the prospect of the alterations required sends them scurrying. Several branches of the government sent representatives around during the war to see if the place could be used for offices of something, but nothing came of it. Most of the inspecting parties took one look at the massive marble reception hall and other big rooms on the first floor, heard the sad tale of the plumbing, and called it a day.

The bank hasn't found any single families that thought they'd be interested in trying to fill it with "employees" and "guests."

Chase National feels that if anyone does buy it, it will be primarily for the real estate. A spokesman said they regard the $2,300,000 figure as "attractive to potential purchasers when building construction can be resumed on a normal scale."

A story got out that the bank wanted to rent the house. But that wasn't true. Officials say they never considered it, and that it would be useless for anyone to try renting it—that plumbing again, and the multiple dwelling law.

Daughter Of Mine

By R. Louise Emery

Copyright, 1946, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Cecily's wedding is over at last. But never will I forget the cruel thing I did to her. How can I explain to Corinna and Robert that they—my daughter and my husband—have been cheated all through the years for Cecily's sake. And that she wasn't worth it? Della hates me for what I've done to Cecily's life. But to go back to the beginning. I adored Cecily almost from the day she was born. When Della moved to another town shortly after Robert and I were married, I insisted we follow just so I could be near Cecily. She was an exquisite child and even Corinna could not take her place. But it was not until the Christmas that she was six and Corinna four that I saw the pattern Cecily's life was to follow.

them. Robert made twin cradles, painting one pink and one pale blue. They were complete with feather mattresses and pillows, hemsitched sheets and pillow shams, and dainty patch quilts. I was proud of them and happy over the anticipation of Cecily's cry of delight when I rang Della's bell in the afternoon of Dec. 24.

DELLA met me at the door. Cecily had just gone to sleep, she informed me—she seemed to be coming down with something. She permitted me to come in and set the tree on a stand by the window with the doll things under it. The picture they made hurt.

"You shouldn't have spent the money," Della criticized. "You know Thorne and I are perfectly able—"

"I wanted to," I defended. I was so disappointed at not seeing Cecily that tears were close.

"It was nice of you," Della commented without enthusiasm.

At home again I threw myself on the bed and sobbed until nearly time for Robert to come home.

Corinna's pleasure in her gifts was all that I hoped Cecily's would be. I heard nothing from Della that evening. At 11 o'clock the next morning I called her, eager to know what Cecily had said when she received my gifts.

"How is Cecily this morning?" I began when Della answered my ring.

"Oh, she's fine," Della said. "I'll probably have her on my hands sick again after all the excitement but I guess it's worth it."

I laughed and the ache in my heart grew less acute. "She liked the doll, then?"

"Oh, yes, pretty well," Della said, "but of course she got so much other stuff that she hasn't paid any real attention to it yet."

"So much—other stuff?" I faltered. "Who—brought it to her?"

"Well, who do you suppose?"

"Well, who do you suppose?"

"Well, who do you suppose?"

"Well, who do you suppose?"

Della retorted. "After you left I talked to Thorne and we decided that she was old enough now to have a real Christmas—so I bought out the stores."

I TRIED to speak but only an anguished breath would come. "Honestly, you should see this house!" Della said, chuckling. "She and Thorne have the electric train strung out all over the living room and there's a doll as big as she is taking up the divan. I found the cutest cradle—it plays a tune when you rock it—and a hobby horse—I wonder who thinks up all this stuff! Honestly, I spent a fortune but I never had so much fun in my life. Why don't you bring Corinna over for an hour today and let her see the things. "She might want to touch them," I said. I couldn't help it. I hated Della just then.

"Yes, she's just at that age," Della agreed.

I was afraid she might have bought Corinna, too, a toy to eclipse our gifts, but apparently it hadn't occurred to her.

"I'll see you next week," she said, and hung up.

"Now what?" Robert asked when I went back to the living room, stormy eyed.

I poured my resentment into my husband's sympathetic ears.

"It's my fault," I said bitterly. I knew that Robert, too, must have been thinking of that five-year past opportunity with its good salary and prestige.

"Never mind," Robert soothed, "Corinna will never be happier than she is this minute. And—" he looked apologetic, "I told three of the little coddlers from across Marlin street to drop in this afternoon. Do you suppose we'll have dinner enough for them? They won't get any at home."

That was the way he introduced me to Val—a thin, dark youngster whose wary eyes were unacquainted with laughter.

"He needs you more than Cecily does," Robert remarked out of Val's hearing.

My heart was already open to him and Mercedes, his sister. But Cecily had been there first and no child ever displaced her.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority. There were many interesting discussions on our chartered plane to the Pacific coast. Paul Thoma of Pittsburgh, Pa., brought up today's hand and pointed out that the really good bridge player does not give his partner a chance to make a mistake.

If South allows his partner's jack of hearts to hold the first trick, North cannot continue with another heart. He lays down the diamond king and receives the deuce from his partner. If North continues with the ace, one of the diamonds becomes good for a valuable discard.

However, if North is careless, he will read his partner's deuce as a discouraging card and shift to a club. Then declarer can take two rounds of spades, get into dummy with the nine-spot, take another club finesse and make his contract.

The expert would reason that the queen and jack of diamonds in dummy are dangerous cards. He would overtake his partner's jack of hearts with the queen and return the deuce of diamonds, indicating that it is his only diamond. North would win and lead a small diamond for South to ruff. South then cashes the ace and king of hearts, and declarer still has to lose a club trick.

Bridge is a partnership game. Take the strain off your partner whenever you can. Do not give him a chance to make a mistake, and you will find that part-score hands can be just as interesting as grand slams.

Desks and Refrigerators Go On Sale At MAAF

Another in a series of small lot sales will be held at MAAF Salvage Warehouse T-630 from Monday through Friday. Surplus property will be open for inspection from 9 to 12 and 1 to 4 each day.

Some of the items on sale will be laundry supplies, office desks and chairs, refrigerators, all types of scales, flying clothing, oil and gas heaters and many other useful items.

This sale will be conducted in the same manner of all other sales in the past. Everyone is welcome to bid except military personnel and civilian employees of the War Department.

I INVITED Della to bring her family to my house for Christmas Eve, but Cecily developed the sniffles and Della decided to put her to bed at home instead. She did not ask us to spend the evening or any part of Christmas Day with them—that would have entailed a dinner and Della thought entertaining was a waste of money.

I had decorated small twin trees for the two little girls, draping them with old-fashioned strings of fat white popcorn kernels and scarlet cranberries. Corinna had made long chains of colored paper and I had hung the branches with them and with gold and silver nuts, gingerbread men, cookie stars frosted red and green, clothespin angels with silver robes and wigs of spun glass.

They were beautiful and simple little things. In place of money I had spent time and effort on them and on the warranties of two small blue-eyed dolls. The babies had real hair and eyelashes; their eyes closed and they cried convincingly. I had saved for six months to buy them and I had sewed for weeks to fill the pink and blue trunks that came with

Prices In Paris Jump And Papers Protest

PARIS —(AP)— Paris food prices and transportation fares have jumped and Paris newspapers, fearing a run of inflation, blared the news in bold, black headlines.

Although the basic price of meat had not been established, bread went up from about 6.72 cents to 11.76 cents for two pounds and milk from about 7.5 cents to 9.2 cents per quart.

The increases generally were attributed to 15 to 30 per cent salary boosts which are going into effect throughout the country.

Concrete Evidence of the Heat

The sidewalks in Chicago are as hard as they are elsewhere, but they're more comfortable than bedrooms turned into furnaces by the heat wave. That's why Mrs. Ann Santini and her 6-month-old daughter, Patricia Ann, are trying to catch 40 winks on the "cool" concrete. Pat seems more interested in the photographer than in the sandman.

Jap Holding Firms To Be Broken Up

TOKYO —(AP)— Supreme headquarters has empowered the Japanese Holding Company liquidation commission to begin dissolution of the great Japanese financial companies that provided the sinews of war.

Under the order for "decentralization of the economic power of Japan," the Japanese commission shortly will begin breaking up 41 holding companies with more than 100 subsidiaries.

The houses comprise the backbone of Japan's Zaibatsu families which control the nation's wealth and industry. Their securities have a book value of 5,000,000,000 yen.

The commission will sell the securities and buy 10-year-non-negotiable bonds with the proceeds. These bonds will be held in escrow for the families which established the holding companies.

Tulsa Sheriff Plans $50,000 'Whiskey Party'

TULSA, OKLA. —(AP)— Sheriff A. Garland Marrs, defeated in a run-off primary, plans to throw a $50,000 whiskey "party" before his successor, W. V. Caffey, takes over January 1.

The sheriff explained his party wouldn't be the cocktail variety. For under Oklahoma law he must destroy the 10,000 pints of seized liquor now in his custody.

"I have held on to it a long time, in hope some day the legislature would enact a law permitting sale of this liquor so that funds could be returned to the taxpayers," said the sheriff ruefully.

Secret Service Makes Drive Against National Check-Stealing Crime Wave

By FRANK I. WELLER

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The storekeeper was busy. He was careless, too. So he failed to note that the government check he cashed for a negro was payable to a Chinese war veteran.

Frank J. Wilson, Secret Service chief, told me about it to emphasize how careful you have to be with government checks these days. His 270 agents have handled thousands of cases since checks have been pouring to pensioned veterans and the dependents and survivors of service men. Some 300,000,000 will be handled during each of these early postwar years.

Thefts occur principally at apartment houses and homes when occupants are away. Agents caught one woman, with a baby in her arms and a screwdriver in her pocketbook . . . and 11 veterans' checks she had pried out of mail boxes. They tell of gangs of teenage kids forging and cashing old-age pension checks. (The Secret Service is primarily interested in forgeries of such checks, postal inspectors with mail thefts.)

"Know Your Endorser"

Wilson is campaigning for merchants and other stolen check victims to "know your endorser."

He says a favorite trick of these thieves is to present a stolen department store bill along with a stolen check to a hurried cashier and rush away with the change.

While Wilson is assisting Elmer Irey, coordinator of Treasury enforcement agencies, in planning a program, James J. Maloney is acting chief of Secret Service. Maloney is effecting regional planning in each of the 15 district headquarters. He is counting heavily on the 41 per cent of experienced personnel now back from the armed forces.

Guarding The President

Aside from guarding money and negotiable Treasury paper, the Secret Service is charged with protecting the President.

Jim Rowley, chief of the White House detail, has 30 guests. Their identity is almost unknown to all except White House personnel and regular White House newsmen.

Rowley rides Mr. Truman's automobile running board. His boys mingle with the crowds enroute for advance protection. They surround him even at press conferences. Mr. Truman's first intimation of FDR's death was when Secret Service men suddenly appeared at the vice president's office to escort him to the White House.

It was right after the assassination of President McKinley that congress authorized Secret Service to guard the President as well as members of his family, the President-elect and visiting dignitaries.

Counterfeiting Smothered
Congress first authorized the service in 1860 to suppress the counterfeiting of money. It is the oldest crime detection agency in federal government. It has had a tough fight.

Counterfeiting reached a peak in the '30's of more than $1,000,000 a year. It is reduced now to a "nuisance level" of less than $30,000.

Famine Is Relative Thing In India Where Millions Are Always Hungry

By MARY JANE KEMPNER
NEW DELHI, INDIA—(NEA)—Famine is a relative thing in India. People aren't dropping dead in the streets; they are still going about their regular chores, but their pace is increasingly slow.

Almost everyone in this country today is hungry. The potential of famine hangs over 400,000,000 people. If it strikes, three times as many may die as did in the Calcutta famine of 1943.

Already danger signs rise to the surface for those who care to look for them. Children rarely laugh or cry any more, but just stare out of joyless black eyes. In deficit areas there is an oppressive, inescapable fatigue and inertia. Bellies are bloated and legs spindly.

The placidity is frighteningly like prolonged silence. In one village in hard-hit Mysore, a petty official went off with the keys to a supply godown and for four days the villagers did without their pathetically small allotment of food, yet not one of them thought of breaking down the door.

Averted—or Postponed?

So far, disaster has been averted—or, as many feel, only postponed—by the stern system of rationing and procurement laid down by the Central Government and administered with a variety of twists and facets by the individual provincial and state governments. According to this policy, the all-India ration scale is 12 ounces of grain per adult a day, and half that amount for children under eight. But too many people aren't even getting that much.

In Mysore, a southern Indian state with six and a half million population, it has been impossible to supply the full 12 ounces since last February. For awhile, the ration in rural areas sank as low as five ounces, and for a few days one or two communities had no rations at all because stocks had fallen below a one-week reserve and a transportation tieup prevented new shipments from arriving. So people just didn't eat at all.

Clearly, the policy has been to spread the grain as thinly as necessary, rather than risk a breakdown. To do this, grain is requisitioned and procured from surplus areas, then redistributed along the deficit line. The government throughout India buys up grain according to some plan which meets local approval, leaving the farmer only what he needs to feed his family, or pay his servants or land-owning Zamindar.

Here and there corruption occurs. It is said that money can change hands illicitly 42 times from the moment the retailer enters the godown to buy his grain until he reaches the delivery gate. But the fact remains that when the whole system works, neither in towns nor villages do people seem to feel they are getting less than their neighbor. What they do feel is that none of them are getting enough.

Not Used to New Diet.

In addition to not getting enough to eat the average Indian is not getting what he wants and what he is used to eating. Grain may be the backbone of his diet, but not just any grain. For generations he may have been a rice or millet eater, or a wheat eater; by nature a conservative person, it is almost inconceivable for the Indian to enjoy changing his eating habits.

As a matter of fact, transforming a rice eater into a wheat eater is a much more involved process than just pampering a man's taste buds. The housewife doesn't know how to prepare the new food, which has undoubtedly never been eaten in the community before. Chances are that in mishandling it, she makes the family sick, which only serves to redouble everyone's prejudice. She doesn't have the proper utensils for this new kind of cooking, nor the money to buy them.

Until the winter monsoon is over and the rice crop is harvested in December, India will be treading water, daily becoming more dependent on shipments from abroad as the carefully collected, cautiously doled-out domestic larder empties.

Early this year India asked the Combined Food Board for priorities to buy 4,200,000 tons of grain, of which a scant 800,000 has been delivered in the first six months.

Famine may be relative, but unless India can get her share of the world's food stuff quickly, starvation will turn to famine and Indians will die of stomachs emptier than they have ever been.

Here's Why The Tire We're Selling OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES!

See that tread mark! See how much road it covers! It's the mark of a new B.F. Goodrich tire made by its wider, flatter tread surface.

Because it is wider and flatter, it hugs the road better — spreads the wear more evenly over a greater area — wears less at any single point — OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES even at high speeds.

If you're looking for longer wearing tires for your car, we're the people to see. Come in. Perhaps we have your size. If not, you'll get yours quicker if you order at once.
