

FIVE RULES OF CONDUCT

Jonathan Edwards, widely-known minister of another generation, chose for his personal guidance the following five rules of conduct:

1. To live with all my might while I do live.
2. Never to lose a moment of time.
3. Never to do anything which I would despise in another.
4. Never to do anything out of revenge.
5. Never to do anything which I would be afraid to do if it were the last hour of my life.

Whether or not you and I would select these particular rules, were we called upon to choose, is not important here. The fact is, no life can achieve the highest and best that does not set before itself definite ideals and worthy goals.

One doesn't drift into business success. Nor can one drift into right conduct. Character must be achieved. There is no place like the Church for us to relate ourselves to God—no better place to tap those spiritual resources which give us personal victory.

All of us, and especially our children, need the teaching of the Church to help define the goals of life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday.

HONOLULU, HAWAII—(P)—William M. Okamoto, Hawaii war veteran, has developed an amphibious lunch wagon—a surplus amphibious quarter-ton jeep—for use along one of Honolulu's canals where fishing boats and yachts tie up.

Midlander Won Distinguished Flying Cross With U.S. Marine Air Corps

By TANNER LAINE

One of the bravest of Midland's returned service men "backed up when he went into battle." We had better explain that quickly because this guy is a Marine. Thomas D. Nix, gunner, rode backwards into battle in a dive bomber, because gunners rode that way on the alert for Jap zeros and Jacks from the rear.

The Marine Corps Distinguished Flying Cross award caught up with Nix the other day. He received the medal for his action and his bravery in strikes from the air at Iwo Jima, Okinawa and the Carolinas.

Nix has been out of service several months and is in business in the city with his father at the Nix Trading Post.

Just for the records, there are about 20 Marine Corps gunners who ever won the DFC. Nix is one of them.

Uncle Sam, says Nix, softened up Iwo, Okie, and the Carls about a month before invasion could be effected. It was the job of the Marine fliers and their bombers to do this. They would take off from a carrier with bombs in bunches of 18 and poke at the islands.

Japs Threw Everything
The Japs threw up everything but the Emperor's gold inlays, maybe so even those, Nix believes. Anyhow there was much flak popping at the Americans.

The Jap fighters came in swarms. But the Yanks flew in and dropped the bombs. They went in from 15,000 feet and unloaded 1,000-pound instantaneous bombs, depth charges, and anti-personnel bombs.

And, Nix says, there was plenty of Jap personnel there.

Nix rode in the back seat of a scout bomber as its gunner, radio operator and radar technician. Only when operating radar did he ride facing the front.

"Two Was Tough"
It was a hard job to operate the twin 30-caliber machine guns up in that slipstream, Nix pointed out. "Two was the toughest, I believe." Nix says. "Why the Japs fought so doggedly for that dump is something." It would seem they were defending the very seat of Hirohito himself down there.

Despite our softening the Marines lost a lot of American boys taking it on the ground.

Nix was a staff sergeant. He asked for gunnery when he enlisted and got it. He entered service at Marshall but his folks came to Midland and here he is.

The 27-year-old DFC wearer is not married.

Modest about his part in the war, he says: "I didn't do any more than 10,000,000 other guys."

Girls Hit Fish With Oar, Pull In Whopper

OCONOMOWOC, WIS.—(P)—Three girl campers on Upper Noshota Lake were rowing in shallow water when they spied a large fish. One of the girls delivered a knockout blow with an oar. Her companions, squeamish about slippery fish, slipped a bath towel beneath it and lifted it—a northern pike—into the boat.

The catch measured 44 3/4 inches and weighed 20 pounds.

Standard To Use Radar Searching Ocean For Oil

NEW YORK—(P)—Men in two-ton diving chambers soon will start searching the ocean bottom off West Palm Beach, Fla., for oil—and using radar to mark their finds.

Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) announced the search will be conducted by a subsidiary, the Standard Oil Company (Bahamas) Ltd.

Courtroom Spittoons Win Judges' Decision

ST. LOUIS—(P)—Their sympathy aroused for tobacco chewing jurors and lawyers who looked vainly for the container that wasn't there, two federal district judges here have ordered the return of cuspidors to their courtrooms.

Judges Rubey M. Hulen and Richard M. Duncan overruled an edict from the Federal Building Administration in Washington which caused removal of the cuspidors seven months ago.

Judge George H. Moore, however, dissented from the majority opinion and held that sand urns in the corridors outside his court must serve the purpose.

Airmen Teach Democracy To Youth — At Picnic

By JAMES DEVLIN
BREMEN—(AP)—American airmen stationed at the Bremen airport are trying to find a picnic route to democracy for German boys and girls.

Ten of the airmen are giving up their Sundays and three evenings a week to work with the children. They say that Nazis are not born, but made, and that with proper guidance the German youth could be fashioned into democrats.

Their program was begun in May. How it operates was shown here the other day, when three U. S. Army trucks drove up to a Bremen school and took on a cargo of about 80 smiling, waving boys and girls, 10 to 15 years old.

The vehicles clattered through the bomb-devastated city, out into the country and came to a halt in a picnic ground in a glade. There the children piled out, some to go romping through nearby woods, others to clamber back all over the trucks. Softballs and basket balls appeared.

Got Along Well

Whether it was the teachings of democracy or not, the ball invariably was tossed to any newcomer stepping into the circle. There were no arguments or squabbles, no occasions for reprimands, and never did any soldier say "don't do this or that."

Then came time to distribute candy. Colored sweets—supplies by the airmen out of their own rations—were piled in three big plates on a long table. But there was a delay when it was discovered that some of the children, off picking blueberries, hadn't returned.

Those at the benches were hungry. But during the wait of 15 minutes none reached for, asked for or even looked at the candy. They chatted as though it weren't there.

When the stragglers appeared, soldiers began to distribute the sweets. There were no cries of "me, me." All the boys and girls sat in their places until three or four pieces were given to each.

"These kids have remarkable poise," one of the hosts said. "We can't decide whether it is the old idea of discipline or whether they are just polite. Sometimes we wish they would set up more of a clamor."

Summer breakfast—delicacy and substance required.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Keep cool—that's only one rule for hot weather. You must also keep yourself nourished. So begin your day with a balanced breakfast—a fruit or fruit juice, a cereal, and another dish.

Scrambled eggs garnished with thick tomato slices fried lightly constitute a delicious way in which to prepare for the work day. So, too, does a fluffy omelet sprinkled with freshly-chopped parsley from the garden.

Bran muffins with newly-made strawberry preserves will give you enough zest to face a long, hot day.

Bran Muffins

Three-fourths cup sifted emergency flour, 2 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, well-beaten, 3/4 cup milk, 3 tablespoons melted shortening, 1 1/2 cups 40 per cent bran flakes.

Sift flour once. Measure. Add baking powder, salt, and sugar, and sift again. Combine egg and milk.

Add to flour mixture. Add shortening, then mix only enough to dampen flour. Fold in flakes. Fill greased muffin pans 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Makes 8 large muffins.

These muffins may be prepared at night and baked the next morning. Prepare muffin batter as directed and turn into greased muffin pan. Wrap pans in dampened cheese cloth, then in waxed paper, and store overnight in refrigerator.

Remove pans the next morning and let stand about 15 minutes, or while oven is heating. Bake as directed.

Note: Sour milk may be substituted for sweet milk; add 1/2 teaspoon soda and decrease baking powder to 2 teaspoons.

Bran Molasses Muffins: Substitute 1/4 cup molasses for sugar in above recipe; decrease milk to 2/3 cup. Combine molasses with milk before adding.

Spicy Bran Coffee Cake: Mix batter as directed and turn into greased pan 8x8x2 inches. Mix together 4 tablespoons brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons melted butter, and 1/2 cup 40 per cent bran flakes. Sprinkle over top of batter and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 minutes, or until done.

Why Black Market In Meat Turned Bearish

PHILLIPSBURG, COLO. —(P)— A wily, 300-pound brown bear was captured and executed after he had cut local meat supplies by killing several steers on the Jeeter ranch and the manner of his capture is one for the tall tales department. John Hart, assistant director of the State Game and Fish Department, said the marauder not only was so smart that he evaded traps set in the ordinary way but on some occasions he even seemed to have sprung the traps deliberately by shoving steers into them. Finally, all the cattle were removed from the ranch, the traps were smeared with honey and Bruin's sweet-tooth betrayed him.

Bake Dark Bread To Save Wheat

Home-made dark breads—nourishing wheat-savers.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer
Try to locate flours and cereals other than wheat for bread-making. You will probably find rye flour and buckwheat flour. You may find barley flour, which, along with some white flour, makes a delicious loaf.

But remember that potato and corn flours are better as thickeners for gravies, sauces, and puddings than as substitutes for wheat flour in bread-making.

Be sure to carry home a box of corn meal or one of rolled oats. Last but not least, don't forget a cake or two of yeast. Then you are all set for bread-making, 1946 pattern.

Note: Dark breads are more coarsely grained than a simple white bread, and they don't rise as high; but their rich flavor more than compensates for these faults.

Barley and Oat Bread

(Note: Put a whole package of rolled oats through the grinder; then it will be ready for bread, biscuits, or muffins at a minute's notice. The ground oats require less of the precious white flour to make a good dough.)

Two tablespoons molasses, 2 tablespoons fortified margarine, 1 cup milk, scalded, 1 cake yeast, 1/4 cup warm water, 2 cups rolled oats, ground, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups barley flour, 1/4 to 1/2 cup white flour.

Measure molasses and margarine into the scalded milk. Cool to lukewarm. Crumble yeast into the warm (never hot) water; when softened, add to the lukewarm milk. Mix. Pour over the rolled oats. Add salt. Mix well. Add barley flour; mix.

Turn into well-greased mixing bowl; grease top of dough. Cover and set in warm (not hot) place to rise to double its bulk. Add white flour sufficient to make a dough that can be handled (this should be a moist, almost sticky, dough).

Knead until dough is light and spongy. Divide into halves; shape into 2 small loaves. Place in 2 small, well-greased loaf tins. Again set in warm (not hot) place to rise to double its bulk. (A pan of lukewarm water makes an excellent means of maintaining warm temperature for bread rising.)

Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake an additional 25 to 30 minutes.

Cumberland Lumber Company Lays In Waste After Mysterious Fire Burned Down Plant

WHITESBURG, KY. —(NEA)— The mysterious Cumberland Lumber Company through which Rep. Andrew J. May, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, has been identified with the $78,000,000 "empire" of the Garsson brothers, has lain undeveloped in the hills of Kentucky all through the war, evidence acquired here Thursday indicated.

A. C. Brown, present owner of the 2,100-acre tract spreading over the shapeless hill country of Kentucky back-land, led ACME-NEA Staff Photographer Bob Woodsum to the Cumberland site over tortuous mountain roads.

Only charred stumps, the shattered remnants of makeshift shacks and an abandoned saw marked the location of the firm which had received $48,000 from the Garsson combine during the war, for no apparent services rendered or material supplied.

The debris-strewn site has been left just as Brown found it early in May after a mysterious fire had swept the nondescript shacks. Curiously, Brown observed, the fire of undetermined origin had not touched the timber which lies tightly around the onetime sawmill location.

Brown said the fire started sometime "around 2 o'clock in the morning." He never has been able to determine how it started and explained that "it is still as mysterious to me as to everyone else."

(NEA Telephoto)

Broken equipment and debris now are the only evidence of Cumberland Lumber Company's official home in Whitesburg, Ky. This Kentucky firm is the one which Rep. Andrew J. May was an official in and which received $48,000 from the Garsson munitions combine for no apparent real supplies or services.

Brown had been summoned to Washington by the Mead Committee Investigating War profits only 30 days before the fire swept away the Cumberland company's official home in the old Kentucky hills, he said. In his testimony before the Mead committee, Brown said that as far as he knew Rep. May was "head of the Cumberland" firm. May publicly asserted that he was only Kentucky agent for the lumber firm, which was incorporated in Delaware. It is on this obscure point that the Mead committee has sought to question May further.

Checks made payable to the Cumberland Lumber Company by the Garsson combine, and endorsed for payment by May, have been described by May as apparent forgeries. He has asserted that he received no personal gains from the Cumberland operations, nor for his other friendly solicitations in behalf of the Garsson organizations.

Lords' Tutor Gives Up Teaching Career

FAIRFORD, ENGLAND — (P) — The Rev. Hubert Bancroft Allen, 90, "Tutor to the House of Lords," now lives alone with his collie dog in a Cotswold cottage in Gloucestershire surrounded by books in Greek and Latin.

Survivor of days when clerics were also teachers, he has taught young aristocrats for 70 years. With blindness overtaking him, however, he was forced recently to send away his last pupil.

Of the aristocracy he says, "They are the most decent people on earth. The really snobbish people are the working class."

Neill Sheet Metal Service Available Year-Around, Hot Or Cold Weather

Neill's Sheet Metal Company gives year-around service to Midland. Neill's recently has moved to a new location at 603 West Missouri Street.

About the year-around service: Neill's works at air conditioning in the summer and heating in the winter.

Attesting the confidence placed in Neill Sheet Metal Company by citizens is the fact that some 250 to 300 residences and business houses here are equipped for air-conditioning by this company.

Much of the new building in Midland is being Neill equipped for air-conditioning and heating. One of the larger projects is the Rhodes & Chapple office building.

The company can handle, and welcomes, any job, large or small. The public is invited to drop around and visit the Neill Sheet Metal Company at its new home on Missouri Street, which has twice the floor space of the old location. Equipment Worth $14,000

Equipped with more than $14,000 worth of shop equipment, Neill's can turn-out to order any sheet metal job, stainless steel job, or specialties of heating or air-conditioning.

It handles the Mueller Furnace line of central heating and has air-conditioning equipment in stock including blowers.

The company takes sheet metal contracts and can give expert advice on any plan for metal work in a new business house or residence. Again, according to Ernest Neill, manager, no sheet metal job is too large or too small for his firm to handle.

After installation Neill's is prepared to give instant and expert repairs to heating or air-conditioning systems or installations. Experts for both types are available.

Wilson's Station Is 100 Per Cent Veteran Staffed

It is four stars in the window for Wilson's 66 Service Station at 500 West Wall Street in Midland because all four of the employees are ex-servicemen.

"We are proud of this 100 per cent ex-servicemen's rating," said James D. (Bud) Wilson, new manager and owner.

The station formerly was the O'Neal 66 Station and recently was taken over by Wilson.

Wilson is manager. He is assisted by F. M. Earley and two other employees.

In addition to selling the well-known Phillips 66 gasoline the station has lubrication experts. Wilson's 66 is equipped to handle any lubrication job on any make of automobile.

Service hours at the station are: 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. weekdays and 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Sundays.

Wilson has had seven years experience in Midland in the service station business. He was in the armed service three and one-half years.

The station sponsors a softball team in the Midland City League.

The soil of Illinois comes in three colors: light gray, black, and yellow.

The gleaming white Phillips 66 service station at 500 West Wall Street now is under new management and is known as the Wilson 66 Service Station. The new owner and manager is James D. (Bud) Wilson. He recently bought the business from Darrello O'Neal.

Sales Of Surplus Planes Scheduled

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The War Assets Administration has announced that 74 surplus liaison and personal type planes will be placed on sale at fixed prices at four Army air fields beginning August 12 and 19.

Planes available for the two sales include Beechcrafts, Stinsons, Howards, Fairchilds, Wacos, Cessnas, Grummans, Douglases, Lockheedes, and Pipers. All may be inspected after August 1.

Twenty planes will be available in the August 19 sales to be held at Yukon, Okla., and Fort Worth. Priority holders will be eligible in the same order: August 19, federal agencies; August 20 through September 2, veterans; September 4, RFC; September 5, state and local governments; and the general public on and after September 6.

Price ranges set for the Fort Worth planes are Stinson and Waco, $5,000, and Howard, $12,000.

A Tree Grows In Peoria, Illinois

PEORIA, ILL.—(AP)—If and when Peoria politicians in the years ahead want to go out on a limb, they'll have a handy tree. A sapling rooted in a crevice in the stone masonry is growing over a door of the city hall.

The arboreal decoration is of a type known as "tree of Heaven."

The seed apparently was deposited by a bird.

The birth of twins is more common in Canada than in the United States.

Hotel Loses Nothing Except All Room Keys

CENTREVILLE, MD.—(AP)—This town of 2,000 inhabitants has a 20-room hotel without a single room key. Hotel Owner A. J. Epstein says there had been a key for each door until 1943, when he returned from the Army and found them all missing.

"It was difficult to have keys made at that time, and anyway it seemed silly," he explains, "because everybody is honest in Centreville. Not a thing has been stolen."

Reproduced above is the envelope of an airmail letter from China, received by Oscar Chapman, of the Department of the Interior, in Washington. It was just an ordinary letter, in a 4 1/2 x 9 1/4 envelope, but China's currency is so badly inflated that it required 4700 dollars (Chinese) worth of postage. At the U. S. airmail rate to China, the letter would probably have carried about $1.40 worth of stamps.

New 'Underground' Emerges In Poland's Ruined Sections

WARKA, POLAND—(AP)—The war is over, but nearly a quarter of a million Poles still live in dugouts and bunkers.

That's the picture one finds around Warka, about 50 miles south of Warsaw, and in the district of Kielce, on the main Warsaw-Krakow highway.

In the Kielce district alone, 146,000 people live in dirt-topped, brick-walled dugouts and hovels. Despite that, most Polish peasants appear to be glad to be back on their own soil, for many of them spent long years in Nazi concentration camps.

In this little town, not a roof was left and few walls are standing. Peasants live in cellars or little holes dug in the ruins, sometimes two families to a dugout.

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, the Polish ministries of health and food, the American Red Cross and Polish Red Cross are trying to bring aid to the poor families in the worst devastated areas, but the people have little to eat.

Here's a peep into the brick-walled, dirt-topped dugout home of Stefan Jobiasz in nearby Czerwonka.

Before the war, he owned and farmed 40 acres of land. He had two horses, seven cows, eight pigs, scores of chickens and 20 beehives. Today he has one pig, one chicken and a horse, from UNRRA.

He and his wife, Maria, live in a single dugout room furnished with a chest, table, bed and small stove. A pot there contained their daily meal—potato soup with a little fat floating in it.

The South Sea Island palm cockatoo blushes when excited; its normally pink face becomes a bright red.

Daughter Of Mine

By R. Louise Emery

Copyright, 1945, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Cecily's wedding is over at last. But never will she forget the strange things that happened at the altar. And Della, Cecily's mother, will never forgive me. I have adored Cecily since she was a baby—kept on adoring her ever after I married Robert, and my daughter Cecily was born. Long ago, I knew that Della was raising Cecily to be an inseparable child and that she was jealous of my love for her.

When Cecily was ten and Corinna eight, they did a dance together at the Marin. A very serious affair. Della had had her doubts about letting Cecily mingle with the playground children, but when she learned the town's elite would be in the audience she changed her mind.

THE children pleaded to keep their Mexican costumes on for the hour that remained until the party ended and Della consented.

Cecily with her golden skin and hazel eyes so beautiful in the garish silk skirts and embroidered bolero that Della could not bear to strip them from her.

Corinna, chubby, filling out the tight black satin pants of her boy's suit adorably, strutted before her jealous playmates demanding their praise, but to Cecily it flowed out in a stream of silent, awed admiration. The beauty-starved Marin district kids surrounded her, touching her skirts timidly, asking shy questions.

Corinna, chattering gaily, passed her stiff black hat around her circle of friends to be tried on, but Cecily admitted no equality with the children surrounding her. She withdrew frostily from their touch, answered their questions from a peak of condescension, her eyes focused beyond the avid crowd. It was quite obvious that she considered herself infinitely superior to these children.

Della had been induced to turn her back on Cecily for ten minutes to listen to gushers of praise sung for Cecily's performance. When she looked up to see the crowd around her darling she broke away from her own coterie, horried, and marched over to snatch Cecily before she "caught something." She changed her mind and backed away as Stevie Ralston joined the group.

"Steven had the assurance that comes with three good meals a day in one of the town's biggest houses. He did not hesitate about addressing Cecily on equal terms even if she were the star of the evening. A moment later they were dancing together.

Della returned to me, Wall, standing near us, said to me proudly, feeling very close to us all because of Robert. "Those two little girls were certainly cute together tonight, Mrs. Wynne. They looked enough alike to be sisters!"

Della glared at him and I knew that Corinna was going back to solo work no matter how big a rave the paper might give the pair. Val's remark had settled that.

DELLE was not long in confirming that intuition. When at last we were getting the children into their coats she said shortly, "I should know better than to let you talk me into this crazy dance team. Cecily is too high strung for these rowdy crowds. I'll have a time with her tomorrow—you wait and see. I'll have to call the doctor and Lord knows how much that will cost me! I've spent too much already on costumes and piano players. You'll have to swing it alone!"

I did not answer. I was afraid of the hate that had leaped through my veins like some great swift-growing poisonous vine reaching tendrils up to my lips, twisting inside my very brain.

Robert held me for hours that night, vainly trying to quiet my frantic weeping. At last he went in to Corinna's room, lifted her, still sleeping, from her bed, and laid her in my arms. I clutched her, comforted by the damp,

While the original bid of one no trump is considered a strong bid by most players, a one no trump response is usually a weakness bid. Therefore, the double of one no trump response is generally for business. In today's hand Eric Kreisell of New York, playing with Peter Leventritt in the All-Western men's pair event in San Francisco, made a very light double against the one no-trump contract, but his partner's infomatory double of one diamond had indicated a strong hand. In the play of the hand they certainly captured the maximum number of tricks.

Kreisell's fourth best spade was opened, Leventritt won with the ace and returned the seven. Declarer misguessed the play and went in BARENT, B. C. —(P)—For 25 years a mountain has obstructed Storekeeper William Kask's view of an ocean inlet.

Kask decided to move the mountain, or at least part of it. He hired a bulldozer at $15 an hour to cut 30 feet off a rise, and if he can buy the whole hill he plans to whittle off a 30-foot slice 1,300 feet long and 200 feet wide.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And this commandment have we from Him, That he who loveth God love his brother also" (I John 4:21).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth, and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established" (page 467).

U. S. Will Build National Institute Of Mental Health
By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—(AP)—The mentally sick will get a break, better than they've had.
The government will build-taking about two years to finish—a national mental health institute just outside Washington, in Maryland at cost of $7,500,000. The institute will be part of the U. S. Public Health Service.
Its job:
1. Do its own research into the causes, diagnosis and treatment of mental illness. It will have a staff of specialists and receive volunteer patients.
2. Stimulate and coordinate the same kind of research around the country in hospitals and schools.
3. Give financial help to individuals, hospitals and schools working in this field and help states in their mental health programs.
The institute will have about $10,000,000 a year to spend on its work. The job is big.
Before Congress approved creation of the institute, committees of the House and Senate investigated the problem. The Senate Committee on Education and Labor reported what follows:
There are 600,000 mental patients occupying hospital beds in this country, half of all the hospital beds available for all illnesses. More than 125,000 cases are admitted each year.
2,000,000 Mental III
At any one time about 1,000,000 people are permanently disabled by mental illness and another 1,000,000 temporarily disabled.
The committee said: 10,000,000 of the current population will require hospitalization for mental diseases at some time in their lives.
"About 6 per cent of the population—or 8,000,000 people—suffer from some form of mental illness. "Despite the contributions of public and private organizations and individuals, the nation has not yet been limited and they lack coordination.

Ohio's Logan Elm About Conceded Lost
CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO—(AP)—The Ohio Archeological and Historical Society nursemaid to the Logan elm since 1911, is about to give up on the tree.
Tree experts, estimating the elm's age at 350 years or more, say they've done about all they can for it and it should die of old age within a dozen years.
The tree has been propped up with a steel I-beam taller than it is, trussed up with 250 feet of steel cable and bolstered with six tons of concrete poured into the trunk. Every two or three years it is fed 1,000 pounds of fertilizer.
Tradition says that under this elm Logan, the Mingo Indian chief, made his historic 1774 speech of grievances against the whites, but historians deny the story.
