Rescuers Seek Bodies Of Navy Plane Victims

Indians Spot Wreckage In Mexico Mountains, Find Three Bodies—Three Men Unaccounted For

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Rescuers began a five-hour hike at dawn Monday over almost impassable mountain terrain to bring the victims of a U. S. Naval plane crash to the little town of Texcoco, 35 miles east of Mexico City.

Fedel Moreno, assistant police chief of Texcoco, told The Associated Press that the plane, missing since it left here Friday morning en route to Corpus Christi, was torn to shreds in the crash, but apparently did not burn. He said Indians reported three bodies were found.

Aboard were Cmdr. Robert M. Gavett, USN; Lt. Cmdr. Raymond P. Becker, Medical Corps, USNR; Mexican Navy Lt. Octavio Diaz de Rivera, aide to Gavett; Chief Aviation Radioman Lee E. Pleasant, USN; Chief Aviation Machinist's Mate Carl E. Gill, USN, and Aviation Pilot 1st Class Charles R. Cleary, USN.

Although the U. S. Naval office here withheld confirmation that the plane had been found until a report was received from embassy officials at the scene, there appeared little doubt the search had ended.

Moreno said it was "pure luck" that the plane was found. He told this story:

A group of Indians from the towns of Santa Catarina and San Jeronimo were tramping through the mountains 24 miles from Texcoco when the rays of the sun reflected on a bright object some distance away.

One of the group walked to Texcoco and reported the find to Municipal President Lopez Lopez, who sent soldiers to the scene. They returned Sunday morning with verification. As proof they brought with them a jacket with a shoulder board bearing three bars and a star.

Another detachment of Mexican troops was sent to guard the plane Sunday afternoon, but litter bearers waited until Monday morning to start.

Planes flying from Mexico City to Veracruz frequently encounter low clouds and heavy mist. Moreno said there was a hard storm in that section Friday morning.

Although the U. S. Naval plane apparently had been found, planes and ground crews continued to search the triangular area 200 miles west of Mexico City formed by the towns of Coscomatepec, Orizaba and Cordoba where reports persisted that a plane was down.

Col. J. J. Araiza told The Associated Press from Orizaba that farmers at the mountain village of Vaqueria told him they saw a two-motored plane circling over that area between 9:30 and 10 a. m. Friday apparently in trouble. The missing plane left here at 9:10 a. m.

Meanwhile The Associated Press received a report that another plane was believed located near San Andres Chalchicomula about 30 miles southeast of Puebla. Police at Puebla said it might be a Mexican training plane missing since Sept. 16 while taking part in Mexico's Independence Day air maneuvers.

The missing Mexican plane was piloted by Lieut. Vicente Cervantes accompanied by co-pilot Jose Chiu Garcia.

According to informed sources the Pacific Western well entered the Devonian 100 feet, low to same point in the Humble No. 2 C-2—though it appears that it is going to be completed for a fair producer, despite the unfavorable structural position.

Barnsdall Oil Company No. 1 Harby, Lea County, New Mexico, exploration, 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 29-21s-37e, and about one and three-quarters of a mile northwest of the nearest lower Permian production on the northwest side of the Drinkard field, near Eunice, flowed for about two hours, at the rate of approximately 18 barrels of oil per hour, in a drill-stem test at 6,514-6,552 feet. Gas showed at surface in nine minutes; mud flowed to top in 47 minutes, and oil started flowing in 50 minutes. The tool was kept open for about two hours after the oil flow started.

Operator is to cement 5 1/2-inch casing at 6,514 feet, and will then complete the extension as a producer from the open hole.

The Pure Oil Company No. 1 Preston, Southwest Hale County prospector, in southwest corner of section 12, block DT, HE&WT survey, and a one location setpoint from the initial producer in the Irish field, topped porosity and pay at 5,808 feet. It drilled to 5,394 feet, and 5 1/2-inch casing has been set at 5,490 feet, with 250 sacks of cement.

Operator will drill out the plug and start testing in a few days. Informed sources reveal that No. 1 (Continued on Page 2)

Remaining Crash Victims Rescued Sunday

A survivor of Belgian airliner crash in desolate Newfoundland forest, Walter Devos of Ghent, Belgium, is lifted on stretcher from PBY Catalina flying boat at Gander Airport after his rescue Saturday. Devos was in the wilds with a fractured leg from Wednesday until his rescue by helicopter, which removed him to a PBY waiting on the lake five miles away. The last 10 of 18 survivors were rescued from the forest Sunday.

18 Survivors Rescued But Bodies Of 26 Victims To Be Buried Near Crash

GANDER, NEWFOUNDLAND—(AP)—Gilbert Perier, general manager of Sabena Airlines, said Monday that the bodies of 26 persons who died when a Belgian trans-Atlantic airliner crashed near here Wednesday would be buried at the scene rather than endanger the lives of rescue teams by attempting to bring the bodies out of the wilderness.

"The job of rescuing the 18 survivors was a risky one," said Perier. "It was worth the risk when there were lives that could be saved. Circumstances, however, have dictated our decision not to attempt to bring the bodies out and prolong the hazard to the lives of the men who have been such a great help."

Perier lost his daughter and recently-divorced wife in the crash. Eighteen survivors of the disaster, rescued by helicopter, are now in a hospital here.

Meanwhile members of an Army rescue party which hacked a path through tangled forests to reach the survivors gave additional details of the disaster.

"Things were in pretty bad shape," said Cpl. Harry A. Houghton of Windber, Pa., a member of the rescue party. "Several of the passengers had been burned to ashes. Those still alive were wet. It had rained the night before and during the day, and they had been lying on the ground. A rescue plane had just dropped some sleeping bags before we got there, and the survivors got into them."

The rescue party said the survivors told them that before the crash the passengers had been instructed to fasten their safety belts and that the plane could not land at Gander because of fog but was going on to another field.

When the ship crashed several were thrown clear of the giant raft. Most of the survivors were those sitting in the rear of the galley.

"When we first got there," said Pfc. Serban E. Rascon of Raton, N. M., another of the rescue party. "They thought we were going to take them out on the river, and they didn't like it because of the rapids and waterfalls. They were sure glad when we told them about the helicopters."

The rescue party members were quick to praise the courage of the survivors.

Houghton said that Miss Jean Rocki, the little Belgian stewardess, "really told hold of things" after the crash. She and three other survivors pulled 16 persons out of the wreck.

A norther blew into Midland Sunday on the heels of a dust storm bringing the temperature down from 94 degrees to 54 degrees by early Monday.

The 40-degree drop in temperature put Midlanders to scurrying for coats and jackets Monday.

The duster came from the north and was visible to citizens long before it struck. It began to get cooler immediately after the duster hit.

Truman Names Harriman To Commerce Department

Ambassador To Britain Helped Frame Stiff Policy Toward Reds

Former Envoy To Moscow And New Dealer Differs With Predecessor On Social Views

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON—(AP)—W. Averell Harriman's addition to President Truman's official family edged it further away Monday from domestic issue views espoused by Henry Wallace and united it on policy toward Russia.

The present ambassador to Britain, tapped by Truman to replace the ousted Wallace as secretary of commerce, is widely credited, in fact, with having had a major hand in framing the present policy of firmness toward the Soviets.

It was Wallace's public disagreement with this policy which led the President to dismiss him from the cabinet on Friday.

Harriman gained his ideas of how to deal with the Russians first in handling lend-lease aid to them and later in more than two years as ambassador to Moscow. In personal relations, those ideas worked. He was highly popular.

Politically, the new secretary-designate is, like Wallace, a Republican turned New Dealer. Now 55, Harriman was born to wealth and became a Wall Street banker. He and a brother inherited some $100,000,000 from their father, E. H. Harriman, the Union Pacific Railroad magnate.

But he supported Al Smith, the unsuccessful Democratic Presidential nominee in 1928, and came under the New Deal banner when the late President Roosevelt unfurled it in 1932.

Despite this New Dealish background, Harriman is far away from Wallace on many social and economic issues. There is no tinge in the appointment of any bid to the CIO Political Action Committee and other groups which follow Wallace.

With the appointment, Truman now has a cabinet almost entirely of his own selection. Naval Secretary James Forrestal, appointed to the cabinet May 10, 1944, on the death of Frank Knox, is the only remaining cabinet appointee of the late President Roosevelt.

In the changes, the general appraisal among politicians is that the cabinet's political complexion has shifted to the right a bit from what President Roosevelt used to call the "left of center" course of his administration.

The White House announced the Harriman appointment Sunday under circumstances which indicated Truman was of a mind to make a replacement and close out the whole Wallace incident as quickly as possible.

First, Eben Ayers, a press secretary, called news services by telephone and announced the choice of Harriman without any details.

Later the White House supplied the information that Truman offered the ambassador post in a transatlantic telephone talk Saturday.

Harriman asked time to make necessary arrangements. He formally accepted in another telephone conversation early Sunday night.

There was no immediate word as to when Harriman actually would assume his duties. Because it is a recess appointment (made when Congress is not in session), he can take over without waiting for the Senate to approve his selection.

A formal nomination will have to be submitted when Congress meets. Initial comment from legislators was uniformly favorable.

Asked for his reaction, Wallace sent this word to reporters: "I am sure that this appointment will be received with the greatest enthusiasm by the business community."

To Support Byrnes LONDON—(AP)—W. Averell Harriman, chosen to succeed Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce, said Monday:

"I fully support the foreign policy of Mr. Truman and Mr. Byrnes, who are carrying on the high principles laid down by Mr. Roosevelt. "There lies the road to peace."

Embassy sources said Harriman planned to go to Paris within the next few days, giving him an opportunity to talk with Secretary of State Byrnes.

Harriman was weekending in the country when the news of his appointment was received here, but he returned to London Monday morning.

Weather

A few clouds and continued cool weather Tuesday. Maximum temperature Sunday was 94 degrees, minimum 65 degrees.

U. S. Opposes Red Demand For Data On Allied Troops

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — (AP)—Soviet Russia's demand for information on Allied troop dispositions in foreign non-enemy states faced vigorous U. S. and British opposition Monday in the United Nations Security Council.

As the delegates prepared to meet to take up this new issue, both U. S. Delegate Herschel V. Johnson and British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan were reported ready to challenge Russia's right to demand such information under the UN charter.

Informed quarters said both would ask the council to refuse to place the Soviet demand on its agenda, on the ground that such a question did not come within the jurisdiction of the council unless coupled with a charge that peace was endangered or breached.

Johnson was reported ready to ask Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko two questions: What was Russia's motive in raising the issue in the council and, secondly, under what article of the charter was the action taken.

Gromyko first brought the question up August 30, but it was sidetracked by the Soviet Ukraine's charges that Greece, aided by the presence of British troops in Greece, was threatening peace in the Balkans.

Seven Texans Die Accidental Deaths

By The Associated Press Five persons, including the chairman of the State Board of Control and a former member of the Texas legislature, died as a result of weekend traffic accidents.

Two other accidental deaths brought the weekend total to seven. In Austin the State Department of Public Safety has reported that Texas traffic accidents have increased 42 per cent during the past eight months, with 1,185 persons killed in traffic accidents during that period, for a comparative period last year, 835 persons were killed.

Weaver Baker, former law partner of Gov. Coke R. Stevenson and chairman of the State Board of Control, died instantly from injuries received when the station wagon he was driving overturned and struck a post near Austin after having failed to make a curve Sunday morning.

S. D. Shannon, 79, of Fort Worth, a former state representative, received fatal injuries in an automobile collision near Scotland, Archer County, Sunday. Three service men, injured in the crash, are in a Wichita Falls hospital.

Tyler, Freeman Clark, 32, killed in hospital Sunday from injuries received in an automobile collision Saturday night on the Henderson Highway.

Mrs. Anna L. Adams, 40, was found dead on a highway near Houston Saturday night. Deputy Sheriff Vic Parker said she had been struck by an automobile.

Fatsy Bagwell, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bagwell of near Bronte, drowned Sunday morning while wading in the stock tank of her parents' farm.

Alberto Lopez, 70, was killed when struck by an iron bucket filled with gravel while working at the bottom of a 25-foot well at Sabinal Saturday. A rope suspending the bucket over the well broke.

Lee W. Pritchard, 38, foreman for a Webb County ranch, died in Laredo Monday of injuries suffered Friday when his pickup truck overturned on the Laredo-San Antonio highway.

Move Capsizes Indemnity Plan At Conference

Britain Holds Out For Full War Compensation

By ROBERT EUNSON

PARIS—(AP)—The United States, siding with Russia, abandoned Monday the principle of full compensation for Allied property losses in Romania. The move capsized the whole indemnity structure of the peace conference.

Willard Thorp, U. S. State Department economic expert, told the Balkan-Finnish Economic Commission that the United States had become convinced that Romania could not support all reparations and compensation burdens placed upon her by the original draft treaty proposals.

Russia has been fighting from the start for the principle of only one-third compensation for property losses suffered by private United Nations individuals and concerns in defeated countries.

France, which joined the United States in a similar move before the Italian Economic Commission last week, declared after Thorp's statement that it reserved the right to modify its position later.

Britain declared that the move had changed the situation but implied it would hold to its original 100 per cent compensation plan. Comes as Surprise

The American surprise move came as an amendment to Article 24 of the Romanian draft treaty, which has stymied the commission for seven meetings. The United States did not state what percentage of losses it would ask in compensation.

Meanwhile, British Minister Ernest Bevin, who returned to Paris over the weekend after spending two weeks in London conducting conferences on Palestine, met separately Monday with French President Georges Bidault and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. He sought to convene the Council of Foreign Ministers within the next 48 hours, a British foreign office spokesman said in London. Bevin's return brought the council back to full strength for the first time since August 31, when Molotov went to Moscow.

British Balk Effort Of Jews To Swim Ashore

JERUSALEM—(AP)—Nearly a hundred Jewish refugees on the illegal immigrant ship Palhakh leaped overboard and tried to swim ashore at Haifa Monday. They were rounded up within two hours by the British army and navy.

Some 800 to 900 Jews attempted to slip into Palestine aboard the 200-ton schooner Sunday, but were stopped by the Royal Navy in a fight at sea that cost one of them his life. The army and navy planned to transfer them to H. M. S. Empire Heywood Monday afternoon for deportation to Cyprus.

All Jewish shops closed in Haifa Monday and two rabbis led a procession in protest against a British refusal to turn over the body of the refugee killed when a boarding party forced its way onto the Palhakh early Sunday.

Jews are required by their religion to bury their dead within 24 hours. The 24 hours were up Monday morning for the dead immigrant.

Marine Unions Open Contract Negotiations

By The Associated Press The nation's seaports emerged Monday from the 17-day tie-up caused by the worst maritime strike in history as dock and ship workers went back to their jobs and ships steamed out of East and West Coast harbors.

The strike actually ended late Saturday night when West Coast unions announced they were withdrawing picket lines from piers.

The Marine Engineers Beneficial Association (CIO) begins negotiations for a new contract in New York Monday and the Masters, Mates and Pilots will seek new contract terms in meetings beginning Tuesday.

Ports along both coasts reported resumption of full sailing schedules already under way or expected during the next day or two.

The back to work movement began after the Maritime Commission directed, in effect, that maritime workers on all coasts will get $2750 a month more than they received under their old contracts. This placed maritime wages on a parity basis for the first time.

The increase will make the wage of able bodied seamen $17250 a month and firemen and water-tenders $17750.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

NANKING — (AP) — Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart said Monday reliable reports bear out that some long-missing American B-29 fliers may still be living—as slaves in savage Lolo land, near the setting of mythical Shangri-La. He said they may have been sold into slavery by roving opium traders and probably would have to be bought back from the tribes if rescue should be attempted.

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — Approximately 14,000 cattle were offered on the Kansas City market Monday, but packing house buyers saw little supply of slaughter animals. Stockers and feeders comprise approximately 75 per cent of the day's run.

ATHENS — (AP) — Fifteen persons were reported killed and 10 wounded when an armed band officially described as "Communists" ambushed a truckload of gendarmes near Sparta, and two civilians were killed when their automobile struck a mine near Karditza, the Ministry of Public Order reported Monday.

Norther Follows Duster Into City

A norther blew into Midland Sunday on the heels of a dust storm bringing the temperature down from 94 degrees to 54 degrees by early Monday.

The 40-degree drop in temperature put Midlanders to scurrying for coats and jackets Monday.

Ex-Officer Slays Wife With Commando Knife

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — A 28-year-old ex-Army lieutenant killed his estranged wife with a Commando knife Monday, plunging the five-inch blade six times into her back and chest after throwing her to the sidewalk when she attempted to flee, Detective Sergeant Albert Baker reported.

Baker said the slaying of Mrs. May Brock, 26-year-old blonde from Hackensack, N. J., occurred shortly after she apparently had changed her mind about a reconciliation with her husband, Howard.

The detective added homicide charges would be filed against Brock later Monday.

Battle Of The Inches

A five-day battle royal among natural gas, petroleum, coal, artificial gas, and states-rights conservation interests is now being waged under cover, as a sideshow to disposal of the Big Inch and Little Inch pipelines from Texas to New York.

Sixteen bids to buy or lease these $147,000,000 war babies are now before the War Assets Administration, which will make final disposal. Six of the bids come from concerns wanting to use the two pipelines for transportation of natural gas from Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana fields to the Philadelphia-New Jersey-New York areas that now consume artificial gas. The other 10 bidders propose using the pipelines to carry petroleum or its products.

Submission of final data in connection with the bids was due September 16. Sometime early in October the War Assets Administration is expected to hand down its decision on who gets the prize for what use and for how much.

Conflict over use of the pipelines for natural gas or petroleum and its products arises from a curious and crazy situation.

Every day, an estimated billion and one-half to two billion cubic feet of natural gas is "flared" in the Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Kansas fields. It would probably not be practical to save all of this gas. Industry estimates are that perhaps half a billion cubic feet a day could be used.

That figures out to 182,000,000,000 cubic feet a year. Natural gas being richer than artificial gas, this would be converted into over 350,000,000,000 feet of gas suitable for domestic cooking and heating. This is far in excess of today's apparent market demand.

In the densely populated area between Philadelphia and New York live 13,000,000 people—about three and one-half million families—who are present and potential users of gas. In 1944 they burned 172,000,000,000 cubic feet of artificial gas.

With the two pipelines already built to connect this source of supply with the big Eastern concentration of consumers, the possible saving of wasted gasses now being flared in the Texas-to-Kansas oil fields would seem to be a logical measure for conservation in the national interest. There are, however, a number of strong opponents to any proposal for this use of the big pipelines as carriers of natural gas, and they're all in there pitching to prevent the Western gas from being piped to Eastern users.

Economic Men

Psychologists should be measurably aided, it seems to us, in their endless study of that supposedly non-existent scientific abstraction, Economic Man—a man motivated entirely and exclusively by the search for the almighty dollar—by a perusal of the curious behavior of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers in their tooth-and-nail battle for the National League pennant.

The Cards and the Flatbush Bums are making every day and every play count in their scrap for an honor which this year seems pre-destined to be measured solely in coin of the realm. The booming bats of Ted Williams and the rest of Boston's rampaging Red Sox will keep a World Series date with the victors—and, baseball authorities are overwhelmingly agreed, will quickly blast into oblivion the artistic glory which normally accompanies the winning of a pennant.

The World Series losers will cut a financial melon which will, the records tell us, give each a $4000 piece. That fact may best explain the tremendous enthusiasm the men of St. Louis and of Brooklyn display for what seems so likely to be a brutal beating. Even in this inflationary day and age, $4000 is nothing to be sneezed at.

Completely In Character

The final statements by the 21 defendants in the Nuernberg war crimes trial were not encouraging. But they were entirely in key with the defendants' personalities and with the world in which they still remain alive.

Twenty of the 21 proclaimed their innocence of any crime. Not one renounced his allegiance to National Socialism. To a man they remained convinced and—for all their other lies—apparently sincere Nazis, thwarted in their aims but incapable of realizing the foulness of their methods which aroused and enraged civilization and spelled their ruin.

But if the Nuernberg defendants cannot comprehend the basic cause of their downfall, it seems equally true that the statesmen in Paris cannot comprehend the basic objective of their victory. Those who were to be the architects of a new world built on new foundations sit quarreling and bickering, dotting the same old i's and crossing the same old t's, thinking the same old thoughts as if the war had never been fought.

The immediate horrors of that are past. Its lingering sorrows are abating. But the utter futility of all war—not only in settling problems but even in altering the thinking of the men who help direct it—grows more evident with each new day.

In business these days, when a man fails to come through he is.

To the pessimist, if something isn't wrong it isn't right.

Barbara Jester, Husband Honeymoon En Route To Miami, Havana, Cuba

By DORTHEA LYLE

CORSICANA—(P)—Maj. and Mrs. Howard Burris are honeymooning Monday en route to Miami and Havana after their marriage in a military ceremony at the Corsicana Methodist Church Saturday night.

Friends who had known the 21-year-old bride formerly Barbara Jester, most of her life dressed in new fall clothes and turned out for the wedding.

Her parents, Governor-Nominate and Mrs. Beauford Jester, leave Tuesday for a vacation in New York. "It's been a busy summer," Mrs. Jester admitted. "Now we can take a rest."

The wedding was a long-talked-of event for the Jester's Corsicana neighbors and many out-of-town friends. They began arriving at the old fashioned church an hour and a half before the ceremony.

They nodded and waved to friends across the church. They whispered comments to each other and became more audible as the organ prelude began. Everyone was in friendly good humor.

Then as the family of the bride and groom took seats near the front, and the soloist began singing "Mine Alone," the guests settled down to enjoy the event.

The ten attendants formed a semi-circle of honor as the bride, smiling and rosy-cheeked, started down the aisle with her father. She wore a simply-designed gown of platinum white slipper satin. Mr. Jester was in formal attire. Dark-haired Maj. Burris watched intently.

The ceremony was short. After the newlyweds left the church in their new automobile, the guests gathered in small groups in the darkness before the church and discussed the wedding.

"Wasn't it pretty," commented a young matron in black. "I don't believe I ever saw a prettier bride."

"And Howard looked handsome in his uniform," her companion said.

Well-Wishers Visit Home

The colonial red-brick Jester home, set in a frame of magnolia trees at 1508 Sycamore Street, overflowed with well-wishers at the wedding reception.

Mrs. George T. Jester, Barbara's grandmother, and Joan Jester, Barbara's younger sister, stood in the hallway greeting friends. "I think it's so nice you all could come to share our happiness," the little white haired lady said.

Barbara's mother took friends in to see the wedding gifts displayed on seven long satin-covered tables. There was gleaming silver and china, five cookbooks and a brass door knocker engraved with "H. L. Burris."

Barbara and Howard took a polished sabre and cut the first slice of the pink-iced wedding cake. Then she slipped upstairs and changed into her traveling suit—a soft gray gaberdine.

She likes to talk about her 28-year-old husband, a West Point graduate.

"I met Howard while he was at the Corsicana Air Field," her blue eyes twinkled. "We've been engaged since Christmas."

She described her engagement ring—"A West Point miniature. There's a marquise diamond with sapphires around it. And the wedding band is eight diamonds set in platinum."

Burris served overseas in the Ninth Air Corps. He's headquarters commandant in air defense at Mitchell Field, N. Y., where they will live when they return from Cuba.

Upon the arrival of the special train in Columbia, the students were greeted at the MK&T station by college officials.

Arbitration Opens On Telephone Issue

HOUSTON—(P)—Telephone service was back to normal Monday after 2,400 workers returned to their jobs at 6 a. m. Sunday. The Southwestern Bell System officials had assured leaders of the Southwestern Telephone Workers' Union there would be no "stalling" in arbitration of a seniority dispute.

The arbitration panel was scheduled to begin discussions at St. Louis Monday with Walter A. Raymond, Kansas City Attorney, as arbitrator.

The cause of the dispute, which caused disruption of long distance telephone calls to and from Houston for four days, was the promotion of two men, union leaders claim, over three others with greater seniority.

Brownville Police Kill Cab Driver

BROWNVILLE—(P)—Four Brownville policemen have been exonerated by Chief of Police Duncan Wright following the fatal shooting of a former Baltimore, Md., cab driver, identified as Robert Lee Howell, 34.

Coroner Fred Kowalski pronounced a verdict of death from gunshot wounds at the hands of officers acting in performance of their official duties.

We don't like to ask people to wait for telephones

THAT'S not the way we like to do business. Nothing would please us more than to be able to give people the kind of service they want, when and where they want it.

But that just isn't possible these days. We're in the midst of the most active construction program we've ever undertaken. And yet, we just can't manufacture and install the switchboards, the cables, the wires, and the other things we need fast enough to keep up with the greatest demand for telephones in history.

When the war ended, we were about four years behind. In the five states we serve, we've put in 584,000 telephones since then. But new applications have come in so fast that there are still 210,000 people waiting for service.

We're working hard to bring telephones to the people who want them. We've crowded the switchboards to maximum capacity. We're asking all new residence telephone users to take party lines. We're reassigning disconnected numbers just as fast as we can. These temporary measures mean that more people can have telephones now.

You may be sure that we're doing everything we can to speed the day when everyone waiting will have telephone service, and when someone applies for a telephone he can get it right away. That's the way we like to do business.

"BRUCE BARTLETT!" cried Rose, her voice rising until it attained a thin squeal of horrified incredulity. "You're not, Gayle! You're not going to marry that wolf. You can't! You're joking."

"I'm not fooling. Look." Gayle touched a spring in the small box and the lid flew open. A diamond ring stood revealed.

Rose stared at the diamond. "Must have cost him all of a week's allowance," she observed, her voice powder dry.

"Right?" Rose took a step and let herself fall into a big overstuffed chair. "Right? Nothing could be wrong—nothing! You can't be such a fool, Gayle. You've got brains. Listen! That bird will make life hell for you. He's no good. You know he's no good. Gayle, where's your sense? I never thought you'd fall for a pretty face."

change my opinion either. That was about the time I met you, our first year here. Before we took this apartment together.

"It's surprising in a way I felt like that, because I was ready to believe everything about Yale was wonderful then. I was thrilled by my toes to be a student at the School of Fine Arts.

"Bart and my cousin Nate had graduated two years before, and they'd come up from New York for a football game. Nate invited me to go, and he took me to a tea dance at his club afterward. Bart was there with some New York beauty. I knew who he was the minute I saw him, even before Nate pointed him out. My goodness, how the girls fell on him!"

"Makes you want to vomit," observed Rose, gagging daintily. "That's about the way it affected me, and when Nate brought him around, I had just one idea; I was going to show him I wasn't thrilled at all. . . . But he wasn't the way you think, Rose. He never played Romeo, and I began to find out that he wasn't conceited and vain the way I'd supposed he was. He knows he's handsome, I guess. I don't know how he could help knowing it, and, of course, he knows he's a great athlete. Everybody in the country who ever reads a newspaper or a magazine knows that. But he doesn't show off his looks or talk about his athletic fame; he never mentions either. He's really very modest. And he's kind."

A STRONG word of disbelief formed itself on Rose's lips, but for once she did not let it escape. "And now," she said softly, "you're going to marry him. A rich man's wife. . . . Will you like that, Gayle?"

"No, I told him I wished he hadn't so much money, and he said he didn't really have any money at all. He works in the New York office, you know, but he doesn't make much. He lives mostly on an allowance from his father."

"You love the beast. Is that it?" Gayle bent her head in acknowledgment, and her cheeks grew very pink. "I know you understand people better than I do, Rose. Your caricatures are enough to prove that. I'll tell you something; I'd have been engaged to Bart two months ago if it hadn't been for you. I knew you didn't like him, and I was afraid to marry anybody you disapproved of. But—but—"

Rose sighed, and again she pressed Gayle's hand. "All right, sister, if it's got to be, it's got to be. I'm not going to say anything more, and I'll be so sweet to you here, he'll never guess what I think of him."

"He doesn't guess now, Rose—and he likes you, he really does."

"Why not? I haven't spit in his face, have I? Are you going to take him home?"

"Yes. Next week-end I'm going with him to Germantown to see his folks; then the next week-end he's going home with me."

"I'll bet you're worried about both visits."

"Of course I am. I guess every engaged girl is. I'm a little afraid to meet his mother. They say she's very beautiful, you know."

"Didn't I read somewhere his father was sick?"

"Yes. He's an invalid now. It's his heart. Bart says he may live for years, or he may die any minute."

"Tough. That's tough." Rose patted Gayle's hand with her right hand and squeezed lightly with her left; then she freed both and placed them in her lap. "Thanks for not getting mad."

"You were really very mild—for you, I mean," said Gayle, turning to smile at her. "I wish you liked Bart, though. You don't know how I wish it."

"Maybe I will some day. I hope so, but I believe what I see in a face, Gayle. Most people never look at other people—not really, but I do. Bart looks arrogant and sullen and selfish and childish to me; that's what I don't like about him." She shrugged her shoulders. "But why go into all that again? You think I'm nuts."

Gayle stood up. "No," she said smiling down at her, "not nuts—but wrong for once."

Once more Rose sighed. "I hope to goodness I am."

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

The match between the Cleveland and Southern teams in the finals of the world championship Masters team-of-four this year was a very closely contested one. First one team would get a big swing, and on the next board there would be a big swing for the other side.

On the hand shown today the Cleveland team took the first nine tricks. You would certainly think that East and West could take five or six tricks, but here is what happened.

Declarer went up with the ace of diamonds on the first trick, and A. S. Goldsmith of Cleveland (South) trumped. He led back the six of clubs and Jeff Glick (North) won with the queen. Glick then cashed the queen, jack and ten of diamonds, on which Goldsmith discarded the six, three, and ten of spades.

Diagram of a bridge hand showing cards in each hand and the dealer's position.

Now Glick led the king of spades, declarer went up with the ace, and again Goldsmith trumped. He returned another club. Glick won with the ace and cashed the queen and jack of spades. Thus East and West were set 400 points.

At the other table North got off to the king of spades lead, so declarer cashed the ace and king of hearts and took the heart finesse. Thus he managed to go down only two.

American-Soviet Showdown Due At Conference's End

WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomatic authorities said Monday that United States relations with Russia will reach a new turning point with the scheduled end of the Paris peace conference next month.

Whether or not this leads to a meeting between President Truman and Generalissimo Stalin, it seems likely to bring on a crisis in the quest for lasting peace.

If Private Citizen Henry Wallace, ousted from the cabinet for his foreign policy stand, decides to stick by the temporary silence pledge he gave as secretary of commerce, mid-October may signal a new Wallace blow-off on the Russia. That is only one of the things awaiting the end of the Paris conference.

Among them are decisions by Byrnes and President Truman on America's post-Paris moves in world diplomacy; further steps in the prolonged haggling between Washington and Moscow over the possibility of a $1,000,000,000 loan to Russia; expected efforts by Russia to bring to a head her demands on the Dardanelles; intensification within the United States of the congressional election campaigns which frequently have repercussions in foreign affairs.

The windup in Paris furthermore should clear away obstacles to a big power discussion of Germany's future and thus possibly bring a showdown over control of the greatest reservoir of European power available both to the Soviet Union and the Anglo-American powers.

Whitney Says Labor Still For Wallace

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said Monday that a political ticket headed by Senator Claude Pepper of Florida or former Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace would win labor's overwhelming support.

"It would not matter whether it was a Pepper-Wallace or Wallace-Pepper ticket," Whitney told his first weekly press conference at convention headquarters here.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the railroad men and a majority of all labor would support such a ticket," he said.

Whitney said he was totally disinterested in a third political party because it couldn't win.

Sugar Rationing To Continue Through 1946

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said Monday present sugar rations will continue at least through 1946 and any significant increases are not likely until next year's crops start moving to market in volume.

The size of the increases in rations then, if any, will depend on the size of the new crops.

The department said it expects production next year to increase. But it added that sugar requirements for consumption and for stock replenishment are expected to exceed available supplies.

YES, TOBY, SUPPOSE HE GOT THE CLUE TO CHICORRO'S LOCATION THAT HE WAS AFTER WHEN HE MURDERED THE LAST SURVIVOR OF THAT TRIBE! CAN YOU THINK OF A BETTER PLACE FOR HIM TO HIDE?

YOU MEAN ONE OF THE CONVICTS WHO ESCAPED OVER A YEAR AGO AND HAVEN'T BEEN FOUND?

The National Association of Dyers and Cleaners tells us that glass fabrics - already extensively used for other garment purposes - have both advantages and disadvantages. They won't shrink, stretch, mildew or be attacked by insects. On the other hand the fibers slip rather easily, causing fraying at hems, and the surface of the cloth acquires an objectionable luster that cleaners have not yet discovered a way to deal with successfully.

Marshall, Odessa Pace Grid Teams, Sweetwater, Austin Of El Paso Climb

By The Associated Press
Sectional and regional leaders in the state Class AA high school football race are beginning to take shape after the first two weeks of the campaign and with a dozen or more contests this week matching undefeated teams against each other definite favorites for November and December may soon be tabbed.

Of the 101 competitors, only 43 have survived the first two weeks and still maintain perfect records. Six others have not met defeat but have been tied, while 21 have both won and lost games. Thirty-one teams have failed to record a victory.

Marshall and Odessa, two of the pre-season favorites, have been joined by such teams as Austin of El Paso, Milby of Houston, Austin, Brackenridge of San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Paschal of Fort Worth, Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio, Sweetwater and Amarillo as the current big boys of the race.

Odessa has blanked both Lubbock and El Paso High, while Marshall has taken close games from Fair Park of Shreveport and Sunset of Dallas (8 to 6), a team that, despite an early defeat, may figure in the late season standings. Austin of El Paso, after defeating Cathedral, 13-0, put on a last quarter drive to defeat a highly touted Tucson, Ariz., squad, 7-0, Saturday night and ruin a 33-game winning streak for the visitors.

Paschal Beats Breckenridge
Milby, the Houston area favorite, opened its season with an impressive 25-0 win over Lake Charles, La., and Paschal took its opener by edging out Breckenridge, 20-19.

Austin tripped last year's state co-champions, Waco, while Thomas Jefferson whitewashed the Temple Tigers, 12-0, and Corpus Christi opened its district campaign with a 70-0 track meet against San Antonio Tech.

Amarillo and Sweetwater took 19-0 wins over Childress and Pampa.

Among the best games coming up this weekend are Goose Creek at Milby of Houston, South Park of Beaumont at Brownsville, Marshall at Greenville, Quanah at Borger, Breckenridge at Wichita Falls, Stephenville at Graham, Hollis, Okla., at Odessa, Midland at Austin of El Paso, Brownwood at Sweetwater, Paschal of Fort Worth at Denison, Brackenridge of San Antonio at Sunset of Dallas, John Reagan of Houston at Waco, Waxahachie at Ennis, Temple at Austin and Crozier Tech of Dallas at Corpus Christi.

Henderson Takes 3-1 Lead Over Texarkana

TEXARKANA—(P)—With a lead of three games to one, Henderson's Oilers clash with the Texarkana Bears Monday night, at Texarkana, in a game that may decide the East Texas League playoff.

A 10-9 win over the Bears Sunday moved the Oilers within one game of taking the series, the winner of which will meet the West Texas-New Mexico League winner.

Seven home runs featured Sunday's game, with three of them going to Texarkana's George Washington and two to Henderson's Loyd Pearson. Hal van Pelt and Stan Bartowski of the Oilers also hit four-baggers.

Texas Trounces Missouri

(NEA Telephoto)

Texas University took an early lead over the University of Missouri in the first football game of the season played at Memorial Stadium, Austin, swamping the Tigers by a score of 42 to 0. Ellsworth, 44, Texas fullback, races through the Missouri line for a touchdown in the second quarter of the game as O'Hara, 12, Tiger back and Darr, 22, of Missouri futilely chase the fleet-footed Longhorn.

SPORTS

—THE REPORTER-TELEGRAM, MIDLAND, TEXAS, SEPT. 23, 1946

It Will Be Rough On Border Friday, Bulldogs Vs. El Paso

It's going to be rough on the border Friday night. The undefeated Midland High Bulldogs journey to El Paso where Friday night they collide with the unblemished Austin High Panthers. Austin rules a favorite because Saturday night it defeated Tucson, Ariz., High 7 to 0. This was the first defeat for the Arizonians in 33 straight games in three seasons.

Midland will be the underdog and will seek to knock the giant down. A sling-shot offense will be geared this week.

The Bulldogs go into practice drills Monday. They came through the Brownfield grueling in fair shape. Bob Cole, quarterback, is sporting a bit of swelling on a cut over his eye.

Midland's offense is versatile. If they find the Austin big boys too rugged in the center, they can skirt and pass. If the flanks are strong, then they can open the middle to some extent. If it comes to a punting duel, Midland has a great toe on Cole.

As for speed there's Dunny Goode and he's good enough to go against anybody. With an inch start he is as fast as there is on any high gridiron.

A large body of fans is expected to follow the boys to El Paso. It is a night contest.

Cardinals Have Half-Game Lead Over Brooks As Season Enters Final Week

By RALPH RODEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
"The war of nerves" enters its final week Monday as the St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers race neck and neck down the stretch for the National League pennant.

At the moment, the Red Birds lead Manager Lippy Leo Durocher's Dodgers by a thin half game. The Cards have six games left to play while the Dodgers have five.

The Brooks begin the important week's play by meeting Manager Ben Chapman's hustling Philadelphia Phils at Ebbets Field Monday while the Cards clash with the Cubs in Chicago before moving home to St. Louis to hook up with the Cincinnati Reds twice and the pesky Bruins thrice. The Phils battle the Dodgers three times before the Boston Braves come in for two games.

St. Louis blew an opportunity to take a strangle hold on first place by taking a 7-2 beating from the Cubs before a capacity throng of 42,324 Sunday while the Dodgers split a twin bill with the Braves.

Hank Borowy stifled the Cards with six hits as the Bruins overcame a 2-1 St. Louis lead by scoring three runs in the sixth inning off Howie Pollet, southpaw ace of the Birds.

The Dodgers, after bowing 4-2 to Johnny Sain, came back and hammered the Braves into a 8-1 defeat in the finale before a packed house of 35,610 at Braves Field. Vic Lombardi throttled the Braves with four singles. The lone run that he allowed came in the seventh inning, when Danny Litwhiler homered.

Over in the American League, the spotlight was on Cleveland, where Detroit's Hurricane Hal Newhouser and Cleveland's Bobby Feller clashed in a hurling duel. The Bengal lefthander outpitched the Tribe speed king 3-0, allowing only two hits.

It was the slim southpaw's 26th win. Feller was charged with his 14th loss as against 25 victories. The Tigers also won the second game, 4-3, which was halted because of darkness at the end of eight innings.

The twin victories enabled the World Champion Bengals to maintain their five game second place margin over the New York Yankees who downed the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-3 and 7-4.

The flag winning Boston Red Sox beat the Washington Senators 4-1 as Tex Hughson spaced six hits to gain his 19th win.

Rookie Fred Sanford hurled his second straight shutout since joining the St. Louis Browns from Toledo. Sanford blanked the Chicago White Sox 2-0, but the Browns dropped the second game 8-5.

In other National League games the Philadelphia Phillies beat the New York Giants twice, 4-3 and 1-0, and the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2 and 6-5.

Upon completion of the second game, Manager Bill McKechnie of the Red Legs told his players that he had resigned. McKechnie, who has been at the Rhineland helm since 1938, probably will finish out the season as boss of the team.

DOWN SPORTSLANE

— TANNER LAINE —

Runnersup in Dub King's Fort Worth Star-Telegram listing of "Stars of Week" among high school footballers were two Midland boys.

One was Dunny Goode, fleet Midland back, who made two touchdowns against Brownfield and played a smart defensive game, intercepting one pass. He also place-kicked an extra point.

The other was Jimmy Edwards, Midland's hope for all-district center, who played a bangup ball game. He made the longest run of the game when he intercepted a Cub pass and galloped 59 yards before being hauled down.
