Humble 1 Elkins In S-W Kent To Run Pipe To Test

By JAMES C. WATSON, Oil Editor

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Elkins, Southwest Kent County Ellenburger prospect, about one-half mile northeast of the discovery well of the Polar field, and 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 36, block 5, H&GN survey, is to run 5 1/2-inch casing to bottom of the hole at 7,900 feet.

Top of the Ellenburger, according to informed sources, was at 7,787 feet, on an elevation of 2,326 feet. That put it 20 feet low on the mark to the same point in the initial producer in the Polar field.

The Atlantic Refining Company and Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1-D-11 University, is a new exploration to 8,950 feet in the Martin-Ellenburger area of Central-Southwest Andrews County.

It is 615 feet from north and 2,035 feet from west lines of northwest quarter of section 1, block 11, University survey, and is 1,831.3 feet northwest of Atlantic's No. 1-A-11 University, a good producer from the Ellenburger. Drilling will start immediately.

An Ellenburger Completion Atlantic No. 2-B-11 University, 660 feet from north and west lines of southeast quarter of section 1, block 11, University survey, and in the Martin-Ellenburger region, completed for a 24-hour potential of 892 barrels of 43.1 gravity oil, flowing through a one-quarter-inch choke, with gas-oil ratio of 172-1.

The production came from perforated sections at 8,760-8,820 feet and at 8,850-8,900 feet, where a 3,000-gallon acid treatment had been injected.

At the same time, in a note delivered in the Russian capital Wednesday and released for publication Friday, the State Department emphasized anew its opposition to a Russian proposal to take over a direct share in the defense of the Black Sea gateway.

The communication, delivered by Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, constituted the American reaction to Russian proposals for direct conversations with Turkey on revision of the control arrangements for the straits, and for Russian participation in defense.

Smith reminded the Russian government that the Big Three had agreed at Potsdam that they would propose to Turkey their views on revision of the Montreux Convention, which now sets up the rules for use of the Dardanelles.

The United States again told Russia, as it had in previous notes that Turkey "should continue to be primarily responsible for the defense of the straits, though in case of direct or threatened attack by an aggressor" the United Nations Security Council should go into action.

Copies of the American note were distributed in Washington Thursday to diplomats of Turkey, France, Greece, Romania, Russia, Britain and Yugoslavia.

Army Cuts November Draft To 15,000 Men

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Army has cut its November draft call to 15,000 men, the smallest since selective service started before Pearl Harbor.

The October quota was 35,000 and September's 25,000.

May Gen. Willard S. Paul, War Department personnel director, said the record-breaking enlistment of nearly 1,000,000 volunteers in the last year was the primary reason for the reduction.

Slav Archbishop Sentenced For Collaboration

By OSCAR CARUTHERS ZAGREB, YUGOSLAVIA—(AP)—Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Yugoslavia, was convicted and sentenced Friday to 16 years imprisonment at hard labor on charges of collaboration with the Axis.

through the long reading of the judgment, cheered as sentence was pronounced upon Stepinac. The 48-year-old archbishop received the announcement without emotion, looking straight at the court.

Stepinac was convicted on all main counts of aiding the Axis, the puppet Croatian regime of Dr. Ante Pavelic and the Croatian wartime Ustashi Terrorists. He was convicted of approving, forcing conversion of Orthodox Serbs to Catholics; of glorifying the Ustashi in the Catholic press, pastoral letters and speeches; of sponsoring organization of Terrorist units, of being seen in public with German and Italian occupation officers, and of having fanned a hope that the government of Premier Marshal Tito soon would fall.

The court ordered that all the prelate's property be confiscated and that he be deprived of all legal rights for five years.

Erik Lisak, former chief of Security Police under the late Gen. Draza Mahalovic, Chetnik leader, and a colonel in the Ustashi, was sentenced to be hanged. Pavle Gulin, described by the prosecution as a Ustashi Terrorist, was sentenced to be shot.

FBI Captures Men In Baltimore Paper Office

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Justice Department Friday announced the arrest of three men in Baltimore on charges of publishing photographs of the atomic bomb.

A department statement said pictures of the bomb were obtained by one of the men while he and a group of other servicemen were serving with a bomber squadron in the Pacific during the fall and summer of 1945.

The three were accused of attempting to sell the photographs to a newspaper and the distribution otherwise legally constituted publication.

The men, seized by FBI agents, were identified by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as:

George Wallace Comer, 23, Belair, Md., former private first class in the Army Air Forces, honorably discharged December 28, 1945.

Miles Frederick Daubenhay, 26, Bel Air, Md., former ensign in the U. S. Navy, separated from service July 28, 1944.

Capt. James Barnes Rike, Chattanooga, Tenn., who entered the Army on Oct. 19, 1941, commissioned a captain in August, 1944.

Rike, Hallford said, had been once separated from service and was scheduled to return to duty with the Army Saturday at his own request.

Arrested On October 9 The FBI agent said the three men were arrested by federal agents in Baltimore October 9.

The men will be arraigned before a United States commissioner in Baltimore Friday, the FBI said, on a charge of "violating a section of the United States code which prohibits the reproduction, publishing or selling or giving away of any photograph, sketch, picture, drawing, map or graphical representation of vital military or naval installations without authority."

Conviction on the charges, the FBI added, carries a penalty of a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, for each offense.

The announcement said that Comer, who was discharged from the Army Air Forces in November, 1945, met Daubenhay, who was discharged from the Navy, while both were employed in Bel Air, Md. The two men went to Baltimore, the announcement continued, on Wednesday of this week to purchase a truck and met Rike, a former Army captain, while in a Baltimore hotel.

Shows Pictures In Hotel During a war discussion, the announcement said, Comer showed six photographs of the atomic bomb to Rike, whereupon Rike suggested that they try to sell them to a newspaper for approximately $7,000.

The announcement said the men then got in touch with the Baltimore News-Post. Two representatives of that newspaper, however, became suspicious, the announcement said, and notified the FBI and military authorities.

Daubenhay was arrested in the Baltimore hotel.

U. S. Ready To Join Defense Of Greece's Security

By MEL MOST

PARIS—(AP)—The United States told the peace conference Friday it was ready to join in any United Nations defense of Greece "if Greece's security is endangered by the acts of an aggressor nation."

The U. S. ambassador to France, Jefferson Caffery, speaking on the peace treaty with Bulgaria, said the United States had consented to leave Bulgaria her present frontier with Greece only because Americans relied upon United Nations safeguards to protect Greece from any attack.

"The United States delegation can give full assurance that the United States can be counted upon to act in accordance with such measures, Caffery told the delegates.

Premier Blaise Tsaldaris, Greek Premier Constantin Tsaldaris, said bitterly in an earlier address that the terms of the treaty draft with Bulgaria would permit that nation to emerge from her second war against the Allied nations larger and stronger than ever before.

He accused the Western powers—"whose fate we did not hesitate to share in the most critical hours of the war"—of yielding to Soviet pressure on border issues and charged them with lack of gratitude for the role his country played in the war.

Under the terms of the treaty, Tsaldaris declared the Axis alliance entered into by the late King Boris and former Bulgarian Premier Bogdan Philov in 1941 "will have been justified."

The Greek premier took the floor to counter—by requesting a strip of Bulgarian territory—a demand from Polish Delegate Stephan Wierlowski that Bulgaria be given an outlet to the Aegean Sea through Greece.

Three Arrested As Suspects In Truck Stoning

MARSHALL—(AP)—Three men have been arrested as suspects in connection with stone-throwing attacks on trucks operated by the East Texas Motor Freight lines, police here indicated.

It was indicated that the men would be prosecuted under the O'Daniel Anti-Violence Strike Law. In Dallas, O. P. Thornhill, president and general manager of the lines, said that six instances of attempted violence against the company's trucks have been reported to him.

He said that pickets had been placed at the Memphis, Texas, Little Rock, Texarkana, Dallas, Beaumont, Houston, and Shreveport, La., terminals of the firm.

The lines operate in several Southern and Central states. The International Union of Chauffeurs, Drivers and Warehousemen (AFL) ordered the pickets while seeking union recognition.

Sheriff Barry Rosborough of Harrison County said five attacks on trucks were made Tuesday night and early Wednesday in the Marshall area.

In Shreveport, T. L. Evans, company agent, said 10 trucks had been attacked recently. He said an automobile would pass a truck going in the opposite direction and attempt to break the truck windshield with stones, bricks or blocks of concrete.

Three Texarkana men were arrested in Texarkana late Wednesday and released to Rusk County authorities, who received hold orders from officers of Harrison, Gregg and Marion Counties.

Texas College Girl, Object Of Search, Returns To Dallas

DALLAS—(AP)—Joan Boston, 19, who disappeared from the campus of North Texas State College two days ago, turned up at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Kolmar, here Thursday after a jaunt which she said took her as far as Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Kolmar, wife of a Dallas physician, said the girl was nervous and tired when she arrived at her home here and could not explain why she had left the Denton school.

The girl had been the object of a wide search.

She said she recalled sending her parents a telegram from Paris, Texas, saying that she was safe.

Mrs. Kolmar said Joan told her when she realized where she was she knew she ought to return home.

"So she got aboard a bus and came back here," Mrs. Kolmar summed it up. "She had been studying very hard," she added.

Mrs. Kolmar said her sister would remain here for a time and then return to her parents' home at Littlefield. She said she might reenter college at mid-term.

Court Orders Polk's Name Printed On Ballot

AUSTIN—(AP)—The State Supreme Court Friday granted a writ of mandamus sought by Neal Polk of Harris County in his effort to have his name printed on the November general election ballot as Democratic candidate for sheriff of an election contest brought by J. R. (Bob) Davidson. His contention was the contest was moot, and that trial could not be completed in time to permit election processes to take effect.

He asked the Supreme Court to direct District Judge Phil D. Woodruff to dismiss the suit.

newspaper office by the FBI and military intelligence.

Hoover praised the cooperation of the News-Post and its staff "who not only contacted the FBI but withheld publication of the story until such time as they were assured that publication would not hinder the investigation."

Some Photos in Texas
The FBI said Comer and other un-named ex-servicemen had given copies of the pictures to several unauthorized persons through the United States, and added that photographs were recovered by the FBI from persons in Texas, California and North Carolina.

The FBI said that Comer explained possession of the pictures by saying that he and four other servicemen in the late summer of 1945 surreptitiously removed the covering from an atomic bomb and photographed the bomb with a camera of one of these servicemen.

Later, the FBI said, Comer gave the pictures to Daubenheyer from whom the FBI obtained them after the attempted sale to the Baltimore News-Post.
Daubenheyer first learned of the pictures' existence, the announcement said, two weeks ago when Comer told him they were made on Tinian Island in the Marianas Islands where Comer and the four servicemen, were stationed with a bomber squadron.

More Pay For Teachers

In addition to national shortages of meat and housing, a national shortage of school marms and masters has showed up and the National Education Association is swinging into action to see what might be done about it. From all over the country come bad reports. Two hundred schools to be closed in Maine for lack of teachers. Forty-eight schools consolidated, but still 750 teaching vacancies in Kansas. Twenty-five hundred sub-standard substitutes hired in Virginia, 2800 in Oregon, 5000 in Kentucky. Two thousand more teachers needed in Ohio, 5000 in Texas, 7000 in Georgia. In Norwalk, Conn., a teacher strike for more pay.

What has happened is that the number of college and university students has jumped from last year's 1,400,000 to 2,000,000, while in primary and secondary schools the number is up from 25,000,000 to 28,000,000. And there are only 1,400,000 teachers to train them, says NEA secretary, Dr. Willard E. Givens.

To give all these 30,000,000 youngsters a smattering of book learning, colleges are raiding high schools for teachers, high schools are raiding grammar schools, city schools are raiding country schools, and the rural schools are either hiring poor subs or closing down. Instead of the normal one-in-200 teachers being sub-standard and giving instruction under temporary licenses to teach, the number is now one-in-10.

The whole mess is the result of five war years in which the educational machine has gone to pot. Since Pearl Harbor, some 530,000 teachers have quit teaching—an average of nearly 100,000 a year. In most cases they were not replaced. Army and Navy took their share because illiterate men were too dumb to fight. Marriage, retirement for old age, and death took their normal quotas of perhaps 25,000 a year, which was an average, prewar annual turnover in teaching ranks. Normal schools did not turn out replacements for either loss, because of reduced high school and college enrollment.

But by far the greatest casualties in the teaching ranks were for purely economic reasons. Salaries paid teachers weren't high enough to enable them to pay their bills. They quit teaching to take war jobs that paid more money, says Dr. Givens.

Teachers' salaries have increased from the prewar average of $1400 to $2000 a year today. But that's less than most day laborers are getting now, and even the average government worker gets $2600.

All That's Cold Doesn't Glitter

U. S. gold miners—of all people—claim they're going broke. The past year has seen a succession of gold miners coming quietly to Washington, asking for price relief and other favors.

They haven't gotten very far. Gold miners aren't organized the way the silver boys are, with a bloc of Western senators at their beck and call to get 'em everything they ask for, whether they deserve it or not.

A few gold state congressmen tried to get a relief bill before the House last year but flopped. Now Secretary John W. Snyder has announced that the price of gold will be pegged at the present $35 an ounce. The gold miners' glittering hopes have gone glimmering.

The sad story the gold miners tell is that during the war they were shut down as a non-essential industry.

The 1939 Census of Manufacturers showed 1180 U. S. gold mines in operation, employing 25,000 people and producing $114,000,000 worth of gold. Production went up to a peak of $170,000,000 in 1940.

Then someone got the idea that gold production wasn't necessary to win the war and all gold miners should be put to work mining copper or coal. A great manpower-moving program was launched.

Gold production was cut to $35,000,000 in 1944, $32,000,000 last year. Currently it's going at the rate of about $3,500,000 production a month, employing less than 5000 men.

Apology Accepted

Admiral Halsey has explained and apologized for an ill-considered remark made in an interview a few weeks back, in which he referred to the atomic bomb as a "toy", and implied that it had been used only because the scientists had this new "toy" and wanted to try it. "Toy," the admiral now says, is Navy slang for any new weapon.

Probably it would be well to accept the admiral's explanation and lay the blame for the whole incident on the fact that we may be subjecting some of our public figures to too much publicity. This seems especially true in the case of some military men, whose lifetime absorption in the science of war hasn't left them time to be experts on everything under the sun.

It has become almost a necessity for public figures to say something significant and arresting, not only in every speech but in every interview. And perhaps some of them let themselves in for too many of both. Thus we have seen well-loved heroes like Admiral Halsey and the late General Patton take the edge off their deservedly high reputations with a few thoughtless and hasty words.

So maybe it would be well if some of these public figures learned the value of the politician's life-saving phrase, "No comment"—even if it meant that we had a trifle less copy for the paper the next day.

It's strange how going without stockings became a fad, despite the fact it isn't expensive.

FALSE ALARM

KANAKEE, ILL.—(AP)—Two state police squad cars one from the Kanakee Police Department threw up a barrier on a highway and closed in on four men. The chase followed a report from a nearby community that one of the four men was carrying a gun. The investigating police halted the car and found the man still had a gun. But they discovered it was all right. He was a Springfield, Ill., detective going to Chicago for a convention.

"Where he was, there was battle"

Read this tribute to the GI from a man who was with him on the field of battle, General Jacob L. Devers, former commander of the Mediterranean Theater and later of the Sixth Army Group—now Chief of the Army Ground Forces.

"Where he was, there was battle; and where he was, there was modern battle. The ground soldier in this war needed not only personal courage but also a high degree of skill to make him proficient in the use of complicated mechanisms and to fit himself into the interwoven Ground-Air-Navy team. He took the ground and he held it. He imposed his will upon the conquered. He was in the tradition of Bunker Hill and Yorktown, of the Alamo, of Shiloh and Gettysburg, of San Juan Hill, of Belleau Wood and the Argonne."

Where he is, there is peace . . . security . . . respect

This is the brand of man who gave strength and character to our Army in the big job just completed. This is the brand of man who is enlisting and reenlisting to do another job every bit as important—to guard this Victory through the difficult years ahead. This is a new kind of peacetime army, manned by red-blooded men of high purpose and intelligence, capable of mastering the scientific weapons essential to national safety today and tomorrow. Knowing the magnitude and importance of the job just done—and of the job which remains to be done—the new Regular Army soldier sets his shoulders, looks you in the eye, and says: "Gentlemen, I represent the United States Army!"

Russians Don't Want War, Writer Finds In Uncensored Tour

An Unhindered Camera Made These Pictures Of The People Of The USSR

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following dispatch is based on a 4,000-mile unguided, uncensored trip through the Soviet Union by an experienced editor and world traveler. Unusual facilities for talking to the Russian workers and farmers in their factories and homes and on their collective farms were obtained by the writer when he cabled Stalin after six months of efforts through regular channels had failed to get him a passport visa to Russia.

By JOHN STROHM (World Copyright, 1946, by NEA Service, Inc. and John Strohm. Reproduction in whole or part prohibited.)

MOSCOW—The Russian people do not want war. They want peace, a chance to improve their standard of living, an opportunity to clear the ruins of World War II and build their homes, farms and factories for the future.

Those are my dominant impressions after an unparalleled opportunity to travel 4,000 miles through Byelorussia, the Ukraine, the Caucasus and Moscow, without official guide or censor.

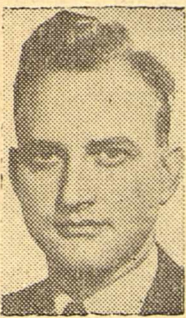

Few people have been permitted to travel unhindered through Soviet Russia. To the best of my knowledge, no other newspaperman has been given as great a freedom as I had—to go where I pleased, to talk freely with the people in their factories, in their markets and in their homes—and rarest of all, to take hundreds of pictures of life and conditions behind the so-called Iron Curtain.

This privilege was granted to me only after I had cabled Prime Minister Stalin when six months of efforts to obtain a visa through regular channels were unavailing. I appealed to Stalin to permit me, as a writer for American farm publications, to talk to the common people of Russia in hope of improving the understanding between our two peoples; ten days later I had the visa.

And I finished my tour with no sterner admonition from official sources than that of the Minister

Who Is Strohm?

John Strohm, the man who wrote this story about the Russian people and took these pictures behind the so-called Iron Curtain, is 34, married and father of three children. His home is in Chicago but he grew up in Clark County, Ill., on the banks of the Wabash. Although his roots are in the prairie soil, his interests are international and he has traveled in 53 countries. His religion is Baptist, his politics Republican. He is a member of the Masonic Order. After graduation from the University of Illinois and a writing trip around the world, during which he interviewed Gandhi, he joined the staff of Prairie Farmer, widely-known midwestern agricultural journal. He was managing editor up to the time of his recent trip to Russia. He is President of the American Agricultural Editors' Association. He is the author of a book, "I Lived With Latin Americans," based on a stay in South and Central America.

wing labor leadership as the speed-up, incentive pay and backbreaking work days.

When I returned to Moscow after my 4,000-mile travels, a correspondent greeted me at breakfast in the Hotel Metropol with the remark: "Well, I see where Tass (the Russian news agency) used you name this morning to answer President Truman."

I blinked. He showed me the story in the newspaper Pravda. Headlined "Tass Explanation," it commented on the President's statement that correspondents could not travel freely in Russia.

The "explanation" was, in effect: "Mr. Truman doesn't know what he's talking about. John Strohm, president of the American Agricultural Editors' Association, is traveling freely about the Soviet Union right now and talking with the people."

"And what about the people, are they looking for war?" my correspondent friend asked.

"I am not a strategist or a psychologist," I replied. "But the words of one Russian sounded to me like good sense. He said: 'Anyone who says the Soviet Union wants war is crazy. The people have been living on promises of better things in the sweet by and bye ever since the revolution. They accepted World War II as an excuse why they could not achieve a higher standard. Now they want to work for peace-time goals. Our government must consider the people—not war.'"

The man who said that was not an official. So far as I could determine he was sincere and grinding no party ax. My eyes and ears can vouch for what he says of the hunger of the Russian masses for the good things in life which Communism has promised for 30 years as a reward for the sacrifices of self and liberty.

Whether the men in the Kremlin can give heed to that hunger is something no reporter, free or restricted, can answer. I have told only what I have seen and heard and pictured only what was before my lens.

The Russian concern today is not beefsteak and automobiles; it is bread and shoes. A pair of army shoes sells for $100 in the Moscow market. Farm workers go barefoot.

I had planned to take a Russian friend "out" for dinner, until he gently pointed out it might easily cost $30 or so per person. So, instead, I went to his home, waiting in line at a bread store for an hour. One look at his ration card and I was ashamed I had taken advantage of his hospitality.

Bread makes up more than half of the Russian diet. As an office worker, he gets a little more than a pound a day. Workers in industry get more. For the month, he gets two pounds of sugar, one and three-fourths pounds of fat, four and a half pounds of grits or macaroni, and four and eight-tenths pounds of fish or meat.

"Only the last two months my store hasn't had any fat or meat," he said.

Rations for his wife and little boy were much less. They are non-productive workers.

The free market or commercial store ekes out the meager rations. Milk was 80 cents a quart. A five-cent chocolate bar was $2.50. Sugar cost $12 a pound.

"It's been so long since we really had enough to eat," observed my friend, wistfully.

The average wage in the Soviet Union is less than 500 rubles a month—$40. A school teacher may get $32, a chauffeur $80 a month. The average factory worker in 1940 earned about $200 a year—less than a dollar a day. The Five Year Plan calls for a 50 per cent boost—earnings for the average worker in 1950 of 6,000 rubles, or about $480 a year.

The government has kept the price of basic food rations for workers very low. But because of food scarcity these items are not always available. A recent Kremlin announcement said rationing could not be lifted this year, that it must continue until some time in 1947. And the government tripled ration prices the other day.

One of the great problems of Russia has always been getting sufficient food to the workers in the city.

Farmers are well off, comparatively speaking. By selling on the free market half a gallon of milk daily from his privately-owned cow, a farmer can make $360 a year from that alone. That's more than the entire salary of the construction worker, who gets $27 a month.

The Russians have incentives for jobs that American industrial experts never heard of. The industrial piecework system has been transposed completely to the farm.

For example, here's how a state farm I visited pays the girl who takes care of the race horses: She gets 40 rubles a month for taking care of each mare and cleaning the stable. She gets 150 rubles each time a mare gets pregnant, 50 rubles more if the mare has a live and healthy colt, another 50 rubles if the colt lives for two months, and so on until each colt is five months old.

And it's not only for jobs like taking care of race horses. They have such an incentive system for every job from hauling manure to experimenting with perennial wheat. The scientist who develops a new variety of grain, for instance, gets a flat royalty for every acre planted to it. He does very well financially.

For another example, there is Nikolai, a 20-year-old coal miner, who was vacationing in a white marble palace at a swanky Caucasus resort on the Black Sea when I met him. His 30-day "rest cure" was a reward for developing methods for speeding up coal production by using dynamite instead of slow-moving machinery.

Earned $300 In One Day "It's much faster," says Nikolai modestly. "And one day I earned 3,700 rubles by over-fulfilling the plan." (That's more than $300 for a day's work. The average coal miner's salary is less than $40 a month.)

The pretentious rest home at which Nikolai was staying is one of 32 rest homes in the foothills of the Caucasus mountains to which all types of workers are sent by medical commissions in the various factories or by trade union officials, sometimes because they are ill and need a rest, sometimes as a reward for achievement.

That brings us to Communism, which Soviet officials say "Bully they don't have—yet. Yudin, one of the master-minds of political theory, says it this way: The Soviet Union has Socialism whose slogan is: 'From each according to his ability—to each according to his work.'

In other words, you get paid for what you do. That's why an unskilled worker may get $24 a month, while a scientist may get $700 a month, plus a car and a house.

"We are just working in the direction of Communism," says Yudin. Under Communism, the slogan will be: "From each according to his ability—to each according to his needs." That, he points out will require a vast stockpile of goods, enough cars, beds, and refrigerators for everyone.

"There's only one country in the world today with enough goods and productive capacity to become Communist overnight," says Yudin. "And that's the United States."

Well, that's Communism—as it was explained to me.

Then there's the question of religion in Russia.

I went to see Patriarch Alexei, head of the Russian Orthodox Church.

I told him I had been moved by the sight of thousands of people crowding to get inside his church, to even get near the church. They don't crowd to get in the Baptist Church in West Union, Ill.

"Father," I asked directly, "the people in America want to know—is there freedom of religion in Russia?"

His answer was equally direct and simple. "Yes, we have freedom of religion. Anything a group of people want to open a new church, we apply to us and we help them organize. The government supplies lumber and materials for building new churches. The government has been very helpful."

The scars left by war are still the major factors in the Soviet Union today. The destruction of Minsk and Byelorussia is something you must see to believe.

Eighty per cent of the buildings were blown up or burned. But the city had been liberated two years ago, and it was still a mass of ruins: what about reconstruction?

An UNRRA official answered my question with another: "Just how would you go about clearing up the destruction? Remember, they don't have a single steam shovel or bulldozer in this entire city. In one of our shipments, a jeep was on top of a car. There was no crane in the city to lift it off. A dozen men did the job."

Human muscle is thus substituting for machinery in innumerable jobs in the Soviet Union today.

Women Doing Work On Farms In the Ukraine, which claimed to be the most highly mechanized agricultural area in the world before the war, the most striking sight this summer was of women cutting the grain with sickles and cradles, bending over to bind the bundles by hand. Not all that is due to war loss of combines and tractors, but a lot of it is. If they don't have combines, they swing cradles and flails. Just as in Byelorussia, when it came time for spring planting and they had neither tractors nor horses, they spaded half a million acres. Some of those feet pushing the spade into the earth were bare, too, or wrapped in rags.

Women are doing 80 per cent of the work on farms. On one farm I visited, 116 of the 136 workers were women. On another farm of 180 workers, 140 were women. In Stalingrad, the gigantic job of clearing the rubble of this blasted city is being done largely by teen-aged girls and women. There are no steam shovels or bulldozers; these girls patiently carry the stones away on wheelbarrows without wheels, a girl lifting each end of the load.

Two women were swinging cradles in a wheat field. One was barefooted, the other wore ill-fitting men's shoes. Each had to cut 1.1 acres a day to earn a labor-day's work. That kept them busy from dawn until dark, a long day in the Ukraine where in summer it gets light at 3 a.m. and you can still read a newspaper out doors an hour before midnight.

As we chatted, the women whetted their blades. I complimented them on the spirit with which they swung their cradles when they didn't have combines, said I was going to tell their story to the women of America.

One of them spoke up. "Then tell them too that we need bread—we don't have enough to eat."

In Minsk, I was invited to "a cup of tea"—that's Russian for a banquet—by the Foreign Minister of Byelorussia, Kuzme V. Kiselov, whom I had met while reporting the United Nations Conference at San Francisco.

"When I was in San Francisco, I talked with many Americans," he

Police Hold Texan As Hospital Escapee

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Police Thursday took into custody a Marine sergeant they identified as George R. Baker, 24, of El Paso, Texas, who escaped Wednesday night from the Naval hospital at Bethesda, Md.

Marine Corps Headquarters at Washington said Baker was being treated for a partially paralyzed right arm sustained in training. He and Apprentice Seaman Sylvan L. Carter, 21, of College Park, Md., escaped by picking a lock at the hospital, according to a report to Washington police. Carter has not been apprehended.

Detective Lieutenant John B. Kenely said Baker told him he woke up in an alley here Thursday morning, cold and wet, but could not remember how he got there. Attendants at a Johns Hopkins Hospital psychiatric clinic turned him over to Baltimore police after he arrived there in a cab.

Film Exhibitors Cleared Of Anti-Trust Charges

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — The Griffith Amusement Company and other motion picture exhibitors and producers have been cleared here of federal anti-trust charges in a lengthy opinion filed by U. S. District Judge Edmund S. Vaughn. The suit has been in federal court here since April 28, 1939, when the anti-trust division of the Justice Department filed the action, charging the defendants with restraint of trade in fixing prices and controlling distribution of films.

In his 38-page opinion, Judge Vaughn said that the court found nothing in the evidence to justify the conclusion that any buying power possessed by the defendants ever was exerted by them to gain unreasonable control of licensed films.

The ruling affects between 400 and 500 theaters operated in an eight-state Southwestern area by the companies involved.

Named defendants were the Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters, R. E. Griffith Theaters, West Texas Theaters and L. C. Griffith, H. J. Griffith and R. E. Griffith.

Shade of Sycamore

By PERCY MARKS Author of "The Plastic Age" "A Tree Grown Straight" Etc.

THE STORY: Back in New Haven, after the announcement of the engagement, Gayle finds herself a celebrity. Discussing plans for her new home, she upsets the architect by insisting that the cook have a large room and bath next to the kitchen.

XVII

AS the end of the term approached, neither Gayle nor Rose paid much attention to their work at the Art School; indeed, Gayle wondered at times why she had ever thought it necessary to finish the term at all. The wedding was set for the third week in June, and she was going to have a frighteningly short time in which to get ready for it. She had made a brief weekend visit to Sycamore to discuss the wedding plans with Mrs. Bartlett, who obviously was disappointed in Gayle's ideas. She seemed a little warmer than on Gayle's first visit, but she was still royally making a decision.

"Bruce has a great many friends," she objected. "Will the Calvin College chapel hold them all? And is your home adequate for the reception?"

"I'm afraid," said Gayle quietly, "that the answer is no to both questions. Evidently I didn't explain very well. I don't happen to want a big wedding, and even if I did, my father couldn't afford it. I'm going to invite only a few friends. Some of my sorority sisters may be offended, but I can't help that. And Bart will be able to invite only a few. There's no place in Calvin to hold a mob, anyway. And we're not planning on a reception, Mrs. Bartlett. I wouldn't put my father to that expense for anything. I want a real wedding in a church, but it's got to be as simple as possible."

With the greatest delicacy Mrs. Bartlett hinted that every difficulty would be evaded if the wedding were held at Sycamore. Mr. Bartlett's health would be ample excuse, and it would distress him greatly if he weren't able to be present—and, of course, a trip to Calvin was for him entirely out of the question.

"I KNOW," Gayle agreed. "I want him to be there. You don't know how much I want him to be, but we couldn't count on him, no matter where the wedding was held. If he was having one of his bad days, he couldn't come, anyway. Besides, it's my parents' privilege to have the wedding at home, and nothing would make me rob them of it." She felt quite self-possessed and without fear. Sycamore wasn't nearly so awesome on a second visit, and somehow Mrs. Bartlett wasn't awesome at all. She was simply a stranger attempting to usurp privileges that belonged to the Kents, and Gayle had no intention of surrendering a single one. If Jimmie had been present, he would have said, "Gayle's back is up. Look out, lady."

Still courteous, still regal, Mrs. Bartlett persisted. Equally courteous, and not regal at all, Gayle stepped backward not an inch. "She can't run my life," she thought stubbornly, "and she might as well find out right now." In the end the arrangements were left exactly as she and her mother had planned them.

She had two happy visits with Mr. Bartlett. His health, he said, seemed actually to be improving, though he was sensible enough to have little faith in the improvement. "Just the same," he said, "I'm not suffering as much, and that's something to be thankful for. Are the wedding plans all settled?"

"Yes," she told him how sorry she was he couldn't be present. Then she said, "I'm afraid Mrs. Bartlett is disappointed. She wanted something much grander, but I don't want to be grand. I'll have to be, I suppose, when I'm Mrs. Bruce Bartlett; but I'll be Gayle Kent until the wedding is over, and so I want a Kent wedding."

"Of course. And don't worry about my wife. She will accept the situation gracefully."

"I KNOW." Then Gayle took her courage in both hands and said something she had wanted for some time to say. "I'm really afraid, though, she's more disappointed in me even than she is in the wedding plans. I don't think I'm the kind of girl she wanted Bart to marry."

"You're wrong there, my dear," Mr. Bartlett was surprisingly definite. "I'm glad you said that, because you've given me a chance to say something I think ought to be said. Nell approves of you. She thinks you have style and dignity, and they mean a great deal to her—more than you might imagine. Just give her time. She isn't a woman who can show affection easily, and she's deeply upset about Bruce. His marriage is a great shock to her."

"A shock?" Gayle stared at him incredulously. "Yes, I don't think that's too strong a word." "Doesn't she want him to get married at all?"

"Theoretically, yes—actually, I don't know. You've got to understand her devotion to Bruce. Gayle. It's all-consuming, and she's always felt that she was first with him. It isn't going to be easy for her to move into second place. I don't think it's easy for any mother, but it will be doubly hard for Nell." He smiled. "But once the wedding is over, she will accept the situation as gracefully as anyone could, and if there is a grandchild—"

"she will be the most devoted grandmother in the world. What's more, as the mother of Bruce's child, you'll be just as precious to her as he is. Give her time, Gayle. This isn't easy for her."

Gayle relaxed so suddenly that she felt weak. "You don't know how much better you've made me feel," she told him, sighing; "you just don't know."

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY America's Card Authority

In addition to winning the national amateur team-of-four championship, Charles Leembeck and Lawrence Blum New York finished second in the President's Pair event at the recent summer nationals. Eighty-four pairs entered the event, establishing an all-time record. Leembeck played today's hand very well, and it is one on which most players would slip up.

He played the eight of spades from dummy on the opening lead and East put on the 10. Now should South win with the jack? If he However, Leembeck false-carded and won the spade trick with the king. Then when East got in, he decided to try to knock out another spade stopper. Leembeck won with the ace and cashed the four good diamonds and four good hearts.

Little plays like this are what count in bridge. Look your hand over carefully before you play the first trick. Do not just reach for a card because it looks like the natural thing to do.

Traxler To Fight Oklahoma Extradition

AUSTIN — (AP) — Attorneys for Pete Traxler Thursday notified the office of Gov. Coke R. Stevenson that he would fight any effort by the State of Oklahoma to extradite him to face a charge of robbery with firearms.

Traxler, whose record of felony convictions and penitentiary sentences and escapes dates back to 1924, was arrested several days ago in Denton, Texas, on the Oklahoma charge.

He is free under bond of $1,500 on a charge of robbery with firearms pending trial in the 12th District Court at Huntsville. He was released from the Texas State

Heirens To Transfer To Insane Asylum

JOLIET, Ill. — (AP) — William Heirens, 37-year-old triple slayer, has "lost ground mentally" during the first month of his life imprisonment and will be transferred Monday to the Menard State Prison for criminal insane, authorities said Thursday.

Warden Joseph E. Ragen of Stateville penitentiary made the announcement after Heirens voiced repeated threats to kill himself and tried to draw the fire of an armed penitentiary guard by hurling rocks at him.

The former University of Chicago student entered Stateville Prison September 5 on a sentence of three consecutive life terms.

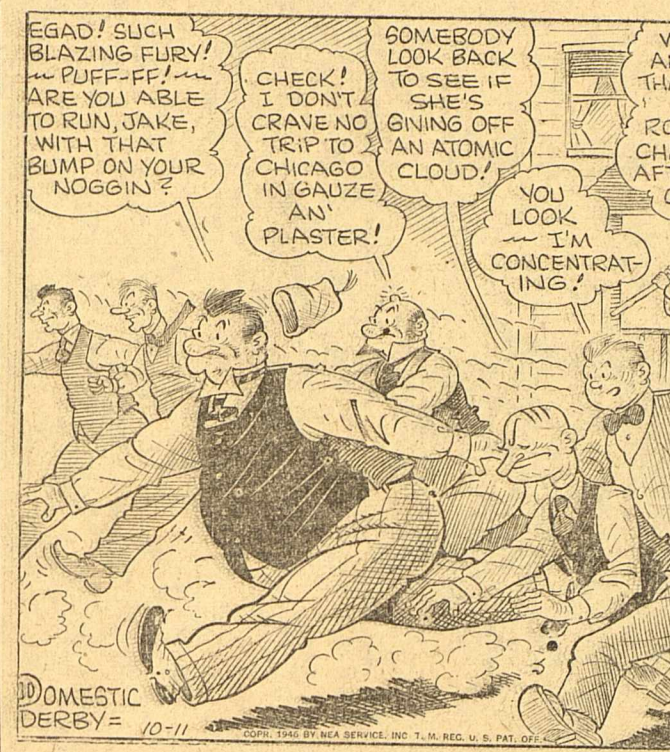

Hirohito Sanctioned Jap Attack On Soviet

TOKYO — (AP) — Emperor Hirohito personally sanctioned a plan of the Japanese general staff in 1940 to attack Russia, a Japanese officer now in Russian custody testified by affidavit Thursday at the international war crimes trial.

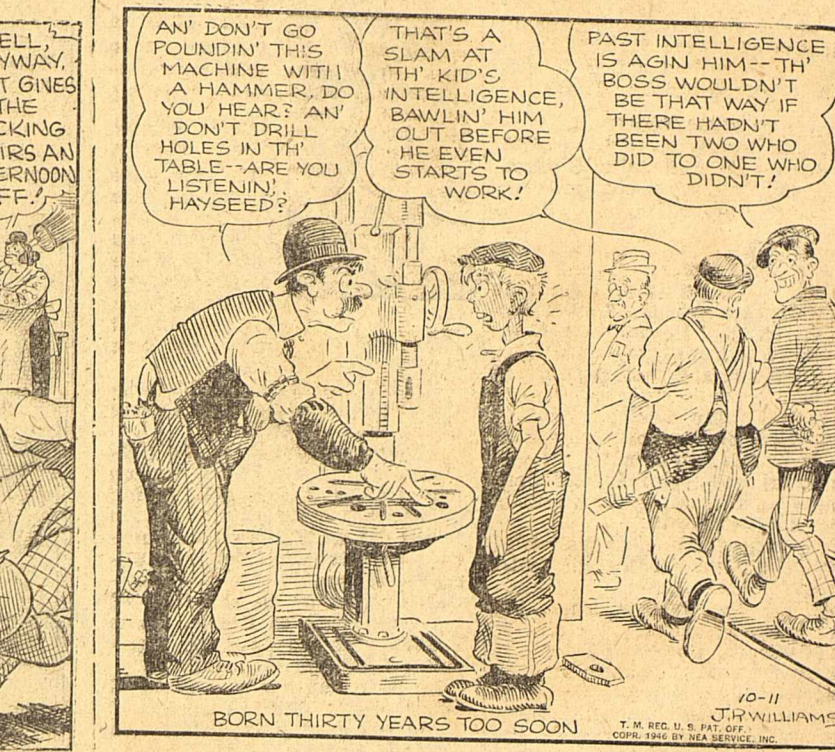

The affidavit was admitted over strenuous defense objections but the court ruled that the witness, Lt. Gen. Kyoji Tomioka, must be brought into court for questioning after he recovers from a reported illness in Moscow.

Additions To Negro School Are Planned

The board of education for Midland schools discussed at length a proposal to make additions to the negro school building at a meeting Tuesday.

Growth of the negro school's enrollment necessitates additions, it was pointed out.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Rex Russell, High School science teacher, at the meeting. No replacement has yet been named.

Stage curtains will be purchased for the West and South Elementary Schools from the lowest bidding company.

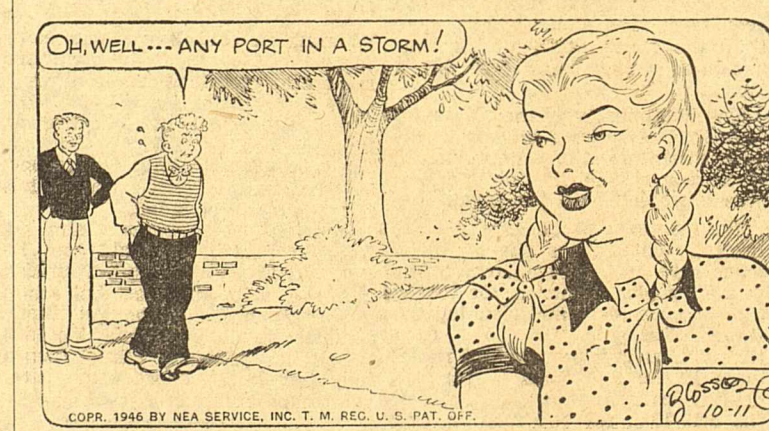

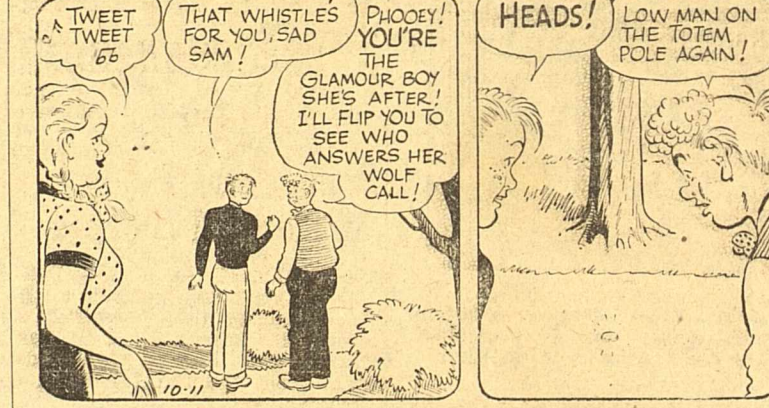

Hull Shows Definite Improvement At Hospital

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Slight but definite improvement in the condition of former Secretary of State Cordell Hull was reported Friday by Bethesda Naval Hospital.

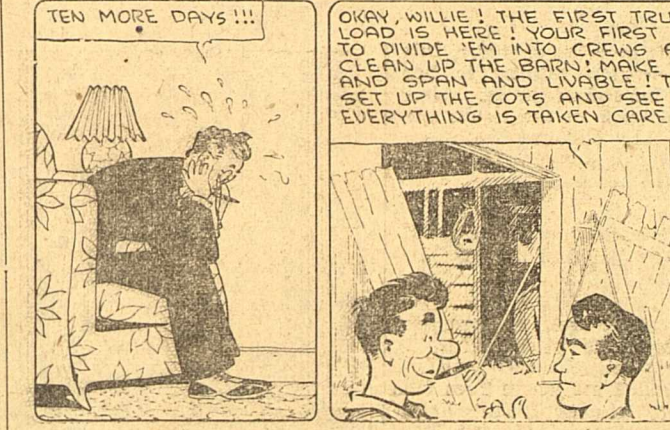

The 75-year-old retired cabinet officer has been in a serious condition since he suffered a stroke on September 30.

A report from the hospital said: "Mr. Hull rested well during the night and shows slight but definite improvement."

Bulldog Backers Tee-Off For Sweetwater On Booster Special

By TANNER LAINE

The Midland High School Bulldogs are scheduled Friday night in one of the state's outstanding games when they face the Sweetwater Mustangs in a crucial 3-AA contest at 8 p. m. in the Sweetwater Bowl.

The spotlight of Texas schoolboy football focuses on Sweetwater because the Mustangs are favored to win District 3-AA and go on higher in the state race and because there is a dead-serious threat to this march in the form of a fighting Midland eleven, which is the surprise sensation of the season with four victories already and featuring a sharp offense indeed.

Hundreds of fans of Midland were following the Bulldogs by train, by bus and by automobile. A special train carrying students and citizens was slated to pull out for Sweetwater at 3 p. m. and more than 300 persons were to ride the special.

Sweetwater Favored
The odds Friday morning still remained all Sweetwater but Midland had its backers, gunning for a surprise. The Bulldogs themselves left for Sweetwater Friday morning in time to walk out the kinks before game time.

The game pits together two very smartly-coached ball clubs. Sweetwater tutored by Pat Gerald has a veteran-studded team with an assorted offense and outwings Midland. The Bulldogs of Barnes Milam counter with speed and quick-opening offensive thrusts plus a mighty potent passing attack.

Given dry grass the game promised to be a free scoring contest with both of them expected to tally once, twice or more.

Highwater Will Play
Midland worked out on the offense Thursday in the final preparation. The return of Barney Hightower to the blocking back position brought smiles to the coaches and sharpness to the execution of plays. Stocky Barney churned out ahead of the ball carriers with his old-time power. He will wear a special built mask in the game Friday night to protect a very badly bruised nose and mouth. The rest of the Bulldogs were in good shape with Guard Artie Letwisch's head cut healing fast.

The same 11 which started for Midland against Plainview with possibly Morris Howell in at tackle instead of Joe Birdwell, will go against Sweetwater. That lineup is Ben Olliff and Jack Kidwell, ends; Howard Mickey and Howell, tackles; R. A. Whitson and Royce Higgs, guards; Jimmy Edwards, center; Bob Cole, Bob Drake, Dunny Goode and Barney Hightower, backs. Dewey Kirby, end, is sure to see service as probably will Bill Little, back; Charlie Moncrief, back; Birdwell, tackle; Dean Cox, center; Dee Bivens, back; Gene Burrows, guard.

Eyes Of Texas On TCU In Miami Tiff, SMU Vs Aggies, Texas-Oklahoma

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Associated Press Sports Editor

Texas Christian sports Miami in the Orange Bowl at Miami and Southern Methodist clashes with Oklahoma A&M in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas Friday night but these skirmishes take a far back seat to the double-barreled action scheduled Saturday in the Southwest Conference football campaign.

Texas meets Oklahoma at Dallas in the feature but there are a couple of games in Louisiana carrying oceans of interest for the fans as Rice marches against Tulane at New Orleans in an afternoon tilt and Texas A&M tackles Louisiana State in a night affair.

For the folks with more interest in who wins the conference championship than inter-sectional victories is the battle at Fayetteville between Arkansas and Baylor—the lone game on the schedule counting in the title race.

TCU is given an excellent chance of topping Miami but Southern Methodist is about an even choice with the Oklahoma Aggies despite the latter's 5-4 defeat at the hands of Texas last week.

Rice Has Slight Edge
Rice is given a slight edge with Tulane but A&M isn't due to hold the LSU Tiger.

It is expected that the conference will more than break even in its inter-sectional games. Arkansas is a top-heavy favorite to beat Baylor in the conference tilt.

We hit three out of five last week, the best average in the season to date, but that's not very good anyway. So you can use your own judgment on this week's picks:

Texas Christian vs. Miami at Miami, Fla.—TCU by a whisker.
Southern Methodist vs. Oklahoma A&M at Dallas—The Aggies will bounce back with a narrow decision over SMU.

Texas vs. Oklahoma at Dallas—Texas by four touchdowns or more.
Rice vs. Tulane at New Orleans—The Owls will edge Henry Franks of Tulane.

Arkansas vs. Baylor at Fayetteville—a scoring game with Arkansas winning by three touchdowns.
Texas A&M vs. Louisiana State at Baton Rouge—can't see anything but a comfortable victory for LSU.

Babe And Jameson Meet In Semi-Finals
FORT WORTH —(P)—National Amateur Champion Mrs. George (Babe) Zaharias of Denver, after defeating Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., 5-4, Friday entered the semi-final round of the 12th annual Texas Women's Open golf tournament.

Mrs. Zaharias will meet Professional Betty Jameson of San Antonio, who eliminated Patty Berg of Minneapolis, 1-up.

Cards Rated Solid Chance To Upset Red Sox With Pollet And Brecheen

By JACK HAND

BOSTON —(P)—Eddie Dyer can face his 46th birthday Friday with the knowledge that his St. Louis Cardinals rate a solid chance of scoring the sports upset of the year —beating the powerhouse Boston Red Sox in the World Series.

All even in games after their first four meetings with the American League champions the Cardinals now can fall back on their southpaw aces, Howie Pollet and Harry Brecheen.

Twenty-four hours ago the shoe was on the other foot and Manager Joe Cronin of the Bostonians had complete control of the situation with Tex Hughson primed to push the Redbirds to the brink of elimination.

That was before the 20-hit barrage the Cards loosened on Big Tex and five successors to send the "experts" digging into the record books. They found that only one other team, the New York Giants in 1921, ever had collected 20 hits in a World Series game. Never before had two teams pooled a total of 29 safe blows as happened Thursday in St. Louis' 12-3 rout of the Sox.

For Friday's fifth game and last at Fenway Park, Dyer has Pollet ready to go after four days rest and confident he can succeed where he failed last time on Rudy York's 10th inning home run in the opening game.

Cronin has Mickey Harris, a left hander who lost to Brecheen in the second game, 3-0, and Joe Dobson, a right hander from Durant, Okla., who won 13 and lost seven during the regular season.

Brecheen vs. Ferriss Sunday
No matter who wins the Boston getaway game, Brecheen and Dave (Boo) Ferriss will hurl the sixth game at St. Louis Sunday. If it goes seven, they will take Monday off for selling tickets and play the big one Tuesday.

Although the 35,645 Fenway customers won't agree, Thursday's game in many ways was one of the most interesting of a series that had been dominated by pitching.

Leading the parade of St. Louis hitters were Rookie Catcher Joe Garagiola and the veterans Enos Slaughter and Whitey Kurowski, each with four hits. Vally Moses of the losers also chipped in with four, joining 22 previous stars in the record books.

For the first time in the series, the outfielding was spectacular. Throws to the plate by Slaughter, Ted Williams and Dom DiMaggio each caught a base runner diving for home. Terry Moore, favoring his swollen left knee, made a tumbling switch of a Rudy York drive in the second that was a classic.

On Basis Of Records AP Writer Picks Bulldogs To Have Edge Over Ponies

Four games hold top interest in Friday night's high school grid battle as eight of the 27 remaining undefeated teams clash with each other.

The games will find Midland at Sweetwater and Galveston at South Park of Beaumont in conference games for Districts 3 and 14, and Paschal of Fort Worth at Wichita Falls and Laredo at McAllen in inter-district affairs.

Of the four, the Beaumont clash should rate first position. The two teams have a combined total of 115 points while allowing the opposition only a safety.

Galveston has won over two Houston teams, Austin and Sam Houston, while South Park has defeated Bryan, San Jacinto of Houston, Brownsville and Nacogdoches.

Midland, undefeated, rates a narrow edge over Sweetwater, tied but unbeaten. Paschal and Wichita Falls both have been tied, the latter twice. The Rio Grande Valley game between McAllen and Laredo will bring together two undefeated and unscored upon teams, although Laredo's record received a small blemish in being held to a scoreless tie last week by Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio.

Other Major Games
Other major games Friday night, all involving an undefeated squad, will find Brownfield at Amarillo, Hollis, Okla., at Borger, Graham at Greenville, Abilene at Odessa, Greentree at Gainesville, Denton at Sherman, North Side of Fort Worth at Sulphur Springs, Marshall at Kilgore, Goose Creek at Grange, Lamar of Houston at Sunset of Dallas, Brackenridge of San Antonio at San Antonio Tech, Texas Military Institute at Edinburg, Brownsville at Kingsville, Beaumont at Pasadena and Waco at Hillsboro.

Of the 41 games scheduled Friday night, 22 will be conference tilts. Two conference games were among the five Class AA contests unrelayed Thursday night. John Reagan opened the Houston District 13 campaign by defeating Stephen F. Austin, 12-0, while Stephenville kept its District 9 drive clear of defeats by winning over Weatherford, 14-12. Last week, Stephenville battled Cisco to a 12-12 draw.

Other games saw Highland Park defeat Adamson of Dallas, 12-0, Ysleta win over Roswell, N. M., 38-0, and Crozier Tech of Dallas rout Fort Worth Tech, 31-0.

Pups Hold Tough Scrimmage Session
Midland's junior high Bullpups, in their game this week, held a rough and tough scrimmage session Thursday.

Coach Ken Kearns had his charges playing under game conditions and the youngsters were patting.

The Pups, who lost to Big Spring's Dogies, will play the Lamesa juniors here next Thursday night.

Two weeks ago, Oklahoma handed the Cadets their worst fright in two years before going down, 21-7. The Sooners held Army to 63 yards on the ground, while making 129 themselves, and 82 yards in the air.

Notre Dame, the country's No. 3 team right now, will entertain underdog Purdue in another Midwest-ern headline while Illinois will be at Indiana, Minnesota at Northwestern and Ohio State at Wisconsin in a trio of Big Nine tilts.

The Midwest also will sport a couple of Big Six Contests, sending Missouri to Kansas State and Kansas to Iowa State.

Three games that rate top billing in the East will find Columbia at Yale, Dartmouth at Pennsylvania and Duke at Navy. Other Eastern highlights will find Colgate at Cornell, Harvard at Princeton, Penn State at Syracuse, Temple at Pittsburgh, Villanova at Holy Cross, Rutgers at NYU and Rhode Island State at Brown.

A game between UCLA, currently rated No. 5 in the nation, and up-and-coming Stanford at Los Angeles tops the Pacific Coast Conference program.

Baylor will be at Arkansas in the only Southwest Conference tussle. In the Southeastern Conference it will be Mississippi at Georgia Tech and Florida at Vanderbilt.

Kentucky and Georgia of the Southeastern Conference tangle at Atlanta Friday night. Other major pairings on Friday night's schedule find Oklahoma A&M at Southern Methodist, Texas Christian at Miami (Fla.), Colorado Aggies at Denver, Fordham at Georgetown and South Carolina at Furman.

Mexico City and Rio de Janeiro are the same distance from New York City.
