Forces of Attraction Make the Tide "Come In"...

and OIL-PLATE Your Engine!

EVERYONE knows that tides are caused by the strange force of attraction exerted on the sea by the moon.

Utilizing molecular attraction (basic force that holds things together) Conoco scientists bring America's motorists new and better oils. In fact, a special ingredient of Conoco Nth motor oil is bonded to working surfaces of your engine by an attraction so strong that cylinder walls and other parts are OIL-PLATED.

And because molecular attraction holds Conoco OIL-PLATING up where it belongs... prevents it from all draining down to the crankcase, even overnight... you get these benefits:

added protection when your engine starts up

added protection from corrosive action added protection from wear that leads to fouling sludge and carbon added smooth, silent miles

That's why to OIL-PLATE now... at Your Conoco Mileage Merchant's. Look for the red triangle. Continental Oil Company

"UNBLOCK" your DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when the lower part gets blocked food may fail to digest properly.

What you want for real relief is something to "unblock" your lower intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

Get Carter's Pills right now. Take them as directed. They gently and effectively "unblock" your digestive tract. This permits all 5 of Nature's own digestive juices to mix better with your food.

You get genuine relief from indigestion so you can feel really good again.

Get Carter's Pills at any drugstore—25¢. "Unblock" your intestinal tract for real relief from indigestion.

Landmark Of Justice

In the days when German military power was at its height, the enemies of fascism used to dream what seemed a hopeless dream. It was of a day when the defeated Nazi leaders would be brought to the bar of justice for trial by an international tribunal representing outraged humanity.

That, it seemed, would be the great moment of vindication in world history. Actually, the Nuernberg war crimes trial was somewhat less impressive. The arch criminal Hitler was not there. And what promised to be the most spectacular "courtroom drama" of all time assumed a ponderous pace as the court ground and sifted a great grist of evidence for more than 10 months.

There were flashes of drama, to be sure. But gradually the trial slipped back in the paper from Page One, and many of its reporters slipped away to fresher assignments. Even the thousands of crimes of Nazidom, when cataloged and recounted in the Palace of Justice, benumbed the mind by their sheer massive weight.

Perhaps, too, we thought of the defendants too much as the rag-tag mob that they were as they sat in the dock. The contrast between this pallid, haggard rabble and their former strutting, overdressed arrogance could not be overlooked or discounted. Yet there was the temptation, as we read of the sniveling and buck-passing in which those 21 men indulged, to allow past crimes to shrink to the present stature of the criminals.

But the high drama and immense significance returned to the trial at its close. That is fortunate, for it may help the world's millions who suffered from Nazism and fought it and hated it to realize the full truth—that the trial of the Nazi criminals was indeed a landmark in the history of law and justice.

The physical existence of a criminal, even of such criminals as these, is of little ultimate importance. Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler died violently in the midst of such violence that their passing was only of momentary concern. The passing of the Nuernberg criminals will be of similarly small importance. It cannot expiate a thousandth of their crimes. The slaughtered Nazi victims will be just as dead. The devastation of the Nazi war will be just as ruinous.

Yet because these men shall die, the world is a different and better place. It has taken thousands of years for humanity to admit and act upon the insistent truth that the man who plans and orders the death of innocent and unoffending thousands is as guilty as the man who kills his innocent and unoffending neighbor. The precedent is now established.

The element of vengeance in the verdict is secondary; the principle of justice is all-important. From this day forth the perpetrator of unprovoked, aggressive war is individually and personally guilty of a crime against humanity.

If there should be a future war, its instigators will know that international law and world opinion are immutable upon that point. And since an instinctive love of life must reside in even the cruelest and most fanatic minds, the decision of the Nuernberg court may be one more deterrent of continuing war, and one further hope for lasting peace.

No Surprise

Our ambassador to Yugoslavia, Mr. Patterson, expresses himself as being shocked at the action of the Belgrade government in closing down the American State Department's information service in the Yugoslav capital. Actually, the move was predictable and should surprise and shock no one.

The American information program was charged with inciting Yugoslavs to "open treason", apparently because it went counter to the official propaganda line of the government. This charge, too, was one that might readily have been expected.

Last Winter three eminent journalists toured Europe and reported back on the state of our overseas information program at that time. One of the committee, Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, pointed out that we needed government news to counteract "interpretation" of commercial news dispatches from America by other governments.

Apparently this need was met. And our naive declaration that this was an "information" rather than a "propaganda" service—while perhaps a true one—was scarcely enough to convince a government which neither practices nor believes in the American definition of a free press.

The unhappy fate of our information bureau in Yugoslavia points up the inevitable waste of money and effort on a pious governmental project before any international agreement had been reached on free access to and exchange of news throughout the world.

Wouldn't Seem Natural

Full employment is a reality, and over-all industrial output has hit a new postwar high. But don't get complacent. The Civilian Production Administration says that a labor shortage is looming at the end of the year, and that more output per hour and more hours per week are necessary if we are to avoid a production crisis.

Good! For a minute there, we were afraid we weren't going to have anything to worry about.

Plans Outlined For Midland Campaign At Presbyterian Rally

Plans were made for an educational fund campaign in Midland November 17-24 at a meeting of church leaders of the El Paso Presbyterian in the local First Presbyterian Church Tuesday as the district and city set about to play a big part in the $1,000,000 Texas Presbyterian Educational Fund drive.

Approximately 125 representatives were present from Colorado City, Coahoma, Big Spring, Odessa, Barstow, Pecos, Van Horn, El Paso, Fort Stockton, Andrews, Seminole, Seagraves, Levelland, Lubbock, Tahoka, Crosbyton, Clovis, N. M., Portales, N. M., and Lovington, N. M. Highlight of the program was an address Tuesday night by the Rev. Henry H. Sweets of Louisville, Ky., who used as his subject "Christian Education Procrastinated". He emphasized the necessity of Christian education and stated, "This is the first general campaign in the interest of this phase in 24 years".

Richard A. Farnsworth of Houston, general chairman of the campaign, spoke at the afternoon meeting, presenting an outline of the purpose of the rally. The Rev. W. M. Elliott, Jr., of the Highland Park Presbyterian Church in Dallas, used as his subject for discussion "History of the Fund". Rev. Wood Speaks

Following a talk by the Rev. R. O. Wood of San Antonio on "What One Million Dollars Will Do", E. R. Pike of Houston, director of campaign headquarters, presented campaign plans and procedures. A devotional was directed by the Rev. James E. Moore of Andrews. "The Attitude and Action That Will Assure Success" was the topic discussed by the Rev. S. Brooks McLane, president of the Texas-Mexican Industrial Institute in Kingsville.

W. L. Hester of Lubbock presided during the afternoon session, and the Rev. Hubert H. Hopper, pastor of the Midland First Presbyterian Church, conducted the evening session.

The delegation was entertained at a banquet Tuesday evening in the Crystal Ballroom of the Scharbauer Hotel.

Shade of Sycamore

By PERCY MARKS Author of "The Plastic Age" "A Tree Grown Straight" Etc.

THE STORY: Mr. Bartlett has won the case and now he has to get the rest of the estate going outright to his wife. Gayle works hard at furnishing her own home, and finally it is completed.

the manager of the agency told her, "who I am sure will do splendidly if she'll take the job. She's a very unusual person, and she's got me badly confused."

"What's the matter?" Gayle asked.

"Her name is Stella Mays—Mrs. Mays. She's a widow." She paused to glance at a card. "She's forty-eight, and her husband had a plumbing shop. According to the people she has worked for, she is the world's best cook—and the most economical too. They all want to keep her, and they all offer her preposterous wages to stay. She wouldn't, though. It's not a place I care to work, is all she'll say. Have you a nice room for her?"

"A beautiful room and a lovely bath—really."

"She's particular about that. I have sent her to half a dozen places. She's taken one look and walked out."

"Good for her," said Gayle. "You say she's here now?"

"Yes, Mrs. Bartlett. Would you like to interview her?"

"Indeed I would."

The time was to come when Gayle felt that she must have had a premonition about Stella Mays. The minute she looked at her, she was positive this was the cook she wanted. Mrs. Mays was wearing a three-piece suit, brown with fur on the collar of the coat. The brown felt hat shaded her face a little but permitted some of her graying hair to show. Her cheeks were pink, and her eyes behind the rimless spectacles clear blue.

"I understand you are an excellent cook, Mrs. Mays," Gayle said. "That's fine, of course. I think I ought to warn you we'll probably entertain a great deal. There won't be many big dinners, I think, but there will be lots of guests."

"Of course," said Mrs. Mays. "There's a woman here now,"

"Will there be anyone to help?" "Yes, a maid—and a man too when we have a lot of people."

Mrs. Mays smiled quietly. "Enough for anybody, I'd think. Would you tell me about the room?"

"Would you come look at it? I have a car downstairs, and I'm going to Bronxville now."

When Mrs. Mays saw the kitchen, she began to smile, and as she moved from stove to sink to icebox, the smile deepened. She opened cupboards, noted the position of tables, and then turned to Gayle. "Mrs. Bartlett," she said, "this kitchen is a cook's paradise."

Gayle was beaming with pride. "Now," she said, "come see the room." She paused at the door. "I made the architect put it here. He wanted it on the third floor, but I wouldn't stand for that. And I made him put a shower in the bathroom, too. When you've got things all ready, I think a shower about saves your life if you can get one in before that awful final rush of making gravy and getting things up."

When Mrs. Mays saw the big room and the obviously new furniture, she looked almost startled; then she placed her hand on the mattress, murmured, "Fine," and turned to Gayle.

"Mrs. Bartlett," she said, "this is a lovely room, a beautiful room. You can't imagine the kind of servants' rooms they have in some houses—in mansions. They're tiny and dark, and the furniture is awful—old iron bedsteads with saggy springs and old lumpy mattresses. I've never seen a servant's room half as nice as this. I hope you're going to let me have the place. I want it very much."

Gayle's smile was radiant. "I want you very much. Listen, I've got to make a list and buy all the supplies. There isn't even a pinch of salt in this house. Have you time to help me?"

"I'd love to, Mrs. Bartlett."

The two women sat down together side by side at a kitchen table, and although neither realized it at all, almost from that moment Stella Mays became the closest friend Gayle Bartlett had, Rose Beecher alone excepted.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY America's Card Authority

One of these days when hotel space is a little more plentiful, it is quite likely that a national championship tournament will be held in Columbus, Ohio. Dr. Louis Mark, a member of the executive committee of the American Contract Bridge League, who has long been associated with bridge activities in Columbus, has extended an invitation to the national tournament year after year in behalf of the Columbus unit of the League.

Dr. Mark plays in the world championship Masters Individual tournament every year and usually wins first of second in at least one of the sessions. He felt pretty good when he made three-no-trump on today's hand, and it does look as if South should beat the contract.

When the dummy went down and getting things up.

When Mrs. Mays saw the big room and the obviously new furniture, she looked almost startled; then she placed her hand on the mattress, murmured, "Fine," and turned to Gayle.

"Mrs. Bartlett," she said, "this is a lovely room, a beautiful room. You can't imagine the kind of servants' rooms they have in some houses—in mansions. They're tiny and dark, and the furniture is awful—old iron bedsteads with saggy springs and old lumpy mattresses. I've never seen a servant's room half as nice as this. "Doc" decided that South did not have four spades, or he would have opened the bidding with a spade rather than a heart. He also thought that South probably had all of the missing high cards in order to double.

He won the opening spade lead with the ace, cashed the ace of clubs and led the small club which South won with the king, returning the jack of spades, which was allowed to win. The ten of spades was won in dummy and now Dr. Mark cashed all of dummy's clubs, discarding two hearts and two diamonds from his own hand.

South bared down to the king-queen of hearts and ace-queen of diamonds, so "Doc" cashed the ace of hearts and threw South in the lead with another heart. South cashed the ace of diamonds but his queen fell to the king.

"Doc" thought he might have made four-odd if he had won the second trick, but he was playing a doubled contract which was bound to give him a good score if made. To take the chance that South might have a small spade could easily prove disastrous.

Mother Of Coach Dies After Wreck

Earl Glassie, assistant Midland High School coach, notified school officials Wednesday from San Antonio, that his mother had died from injuries received in an automobile accident last Friday night at San Antonio.

Three other members of Glassie's family are in the hospital including his father.

The Glassie family lives at Jourdanton, Texas. Funeral plans have not been announced.

Vanhuss Rites To Be Held At Ellis Chapel

Funeral services for Mrs. R. E. Vanhuss, 84, pioneer Midland ranchwoman, will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at the Ellis Funeral Chapel.

The Rev. Howard H. Hollowell, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will officiate services, assisted by the Rev. Huber Hopper, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

Texas Legislator, Author, Lawyer, Dies

EL PASO (AP)—W. W. (Billy) Bridgers, 76, legislator, author and attorney, died in a hospital here Tuesday night after a short illness.

Bridgers, who first went to the Legislature in 1898, had served continuously since 1936. He won renomination for re-election.

Regarded as an authority on West Texas, he wrote scores of articles and one book about early days in the Southwest.

City Police Seek Student Protection

Police are determined no school children in Midland shall be victims of being hit by an automobile and so, as a step in that direction, they are to station an officer at the North Elementary School.

Also the police requested citizens to please drive to the right when picking up students and not double and triple park.

The officer on duty by the school will be instructed to give tickets, police reminded.

General Douglas MacArthur was the first American to be made a four-star general twice.

AS in everything pertaining to the house, Bart left the choice of servants entirely up to Gayle. "Just be sure," he warned, "that that handy man of your knows something about cars."

Gayle interviewed a number of possible handy men, and finally selected one who seemed to be just what she wanted. He had been trained primarily as a gardener, but in his younger days he had been a combination chauffeur and butler for a couple of years. Gayle warned him that he could expect all his abilities to be put to full use, and he replied quietly that he would be glad to use them all. He was a man near fifty than forty. "I'm slow," he confessed. "If you don't rush me, I'll do good; but when I'm rushed"—he shook his head—"I ball things up."

"I'll try not to rush you," she promised. "Anyhow, we'll give each other a try."

She was a little dubious about the housemaid she employed but not worried about her. There were many to choose from, and if the girl did not prove satisfactory, it would be easy to replace her.

The cook, however, seemed to Gayle an altogether different matter. She had to have a first-class cook, and she made up her mind not to stop until she found one. She and Bart would have many dinner guests, many house guests, and so the cook was of paramount importance.

To her delight and astonishment she employed the first woman she interviewed, and she felt confident she had found a treasure.

"There's a woman here now,"

"What's the matter?" Gayle asked.

"Her name is Stella Mays—Mrs. Mays. She's a widow." She paused to glance at a card. "She's forty-eight, and her husband had a plumbing shop. According to the people she has worked for, she is the world's best cook—and the most economical too. They all want to keep her, and they all offer her preposterous wages to stay. She wouldn't, though. It's not a place I care to work, is all she'll say. Have you a nice room for her?"

"A beautiful room and a lovely bath—really."

"She's particular about that. I have sent her to half a dozen places. She's taken one look and walked out."

"Good for her," said Gayle. "You say she's here now?"

"Yes, Mrs. Bartlett. Would you like to interview her?"

"Indeed I would."

The time was to come when Gayle felt that she must have had a premonition about Stella Mays. The minute she looked at her, she was positive this was the cook she wanted. Mrs. Mays was wearing a three-piece suit, brown with fur on the collar of the coat. The brown felt hat shaded her face a little but permitted some of her graying hair to show. Her cheeks were pink, and her eyes behind the rimless spectacles clear blue.

"I understand you are an excellent cook, Mrs. Mays," Gayle said. "That's fine, of course. I think I ought to warn you we'll probably entertain a great deal. There won't be many big dinners, I think, but there will be lots of guests."

"Of course," said Mrs. Mays. "There's a woman here now,"

"Indeed I would."

Ulmer Returns From Cities' Water Hearing

M. C. Ulmer, president of the First National Bank, returned to Midland Tuesday evening following a business trip to Dallas and Austin.

Ulmer represented Midland at the hearing before the State Board of Water Engineers in Austin Monday, when five West Texas cities, Big Spring, Colorado City, Snyder, Odessa and Midland, made application for a permit granting water rights on the Upper Colorado River. The permit was granted Tuesday.

Ulmer is president of the five-city water association.

Mr. And Mrs. Butler Return From Vacation

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Butler have returned from a two weeks' vacation which took them to New York, Baltimore, Washington and other Northern and Eastern points.

While in Baltimore, the Butlers visited their daughter, Jane, who is attending Goucher College there. They visited New Orleans on their return trip to Midland.

Butler, cashier of the First National Bank, witnessed the play-off games of the National League while in the East.

Midlanders Return From Roads Meeting
E. H. Barron, Midland County judge, and Bill Collyns returned late Tuesday from Austin where they attended the kick-off rally for the Texas Good Roads Amendment to be voted on November 5.
More than 500 persons, representing practically every county in the state, attended the banquet sponsored by the Texas Good Roads Association Monday evening.
Speakers included Governor-Nominate Beauford Jester; Lieutenant Governor-Nominate Allan Shivers; Congressman O. C. Fisher of San Angelo; John S. Reddit, chairman of the State Highway Commission; Price Daniel, attorney general-nominate; J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, and Neville Colson, state representative.
Jester Keynotes Meeting
Jester and the other speakers listed reasons for support of the proposed amendment which would permanently earmark for road purposes all motor vehicle registration fees and gasoline taxes save for the one-cent-a-gallon share that would continue to go into the Available School Fund.
An active campaign for the passage of the amendment will be waged over the state during the next three weeks.
The Midland representatives also discussed Midland's highway program with members of the State Highway Commission while in Austin.

Legion Plans Action Through Committees
Plans were discussed for the revitalizing of working committees at a meeting of the Woods W. Lynch Post, Number 19, American Legion, of Midland Tuesday evening at the courthouse.

"B" TEAM, PUPS

Will Play Twin Bill Thursday

A double-header of football will be played in the high school stadium Thursday night.

At 7 p. m. the Bullpups from John M. Cowden Junior High School play Lamesa's juniors.

At 8 p. m. the "B" Bulldogs tee off against Lamesa's "B" Tornados.

Coach Ken Kearns has faithfully worked the Pups for two weeks in preparation for this one. The little boys are a harder hitting and smarter team than when they dropped decisions to Odessa and Big Spring.

Coach Aubra Nooncaster hopes for a reversal of form in his "B" Bulldogs, who lost to Big Spring listlessly last week.

Admission will be charged at the rate of 50 cents for adults and 30 cents for students. The junior high pep aggregation is expected to be on hand to cheer the Pups. The "B" Bulldogs will get encouragement from the high school peppers.

CORPUS CHRISTI BOXER RETAINS STATE TITLE

HOUSTON —(AP)— Tony Elizondo of Corpus Christi won an easy 12-round victory over Paul Altman of Houston here Tuesday night to retain the Texas middleweight boxing championship. Both fighters weighed 160 pounds.

Elizondo won 10 rounds and lost two as the result of low blows.

Elementary Schools Teams Have Eyes On Championship Games

All eyes of elementary school students are on the championships in the all-school sports program which will be settled the last week in October.

Boys play touch football and girls play softball and three elementary schools compete. Pep squads cheer on the players. Games have been evenly matched and closely contested so far. All classes take part.

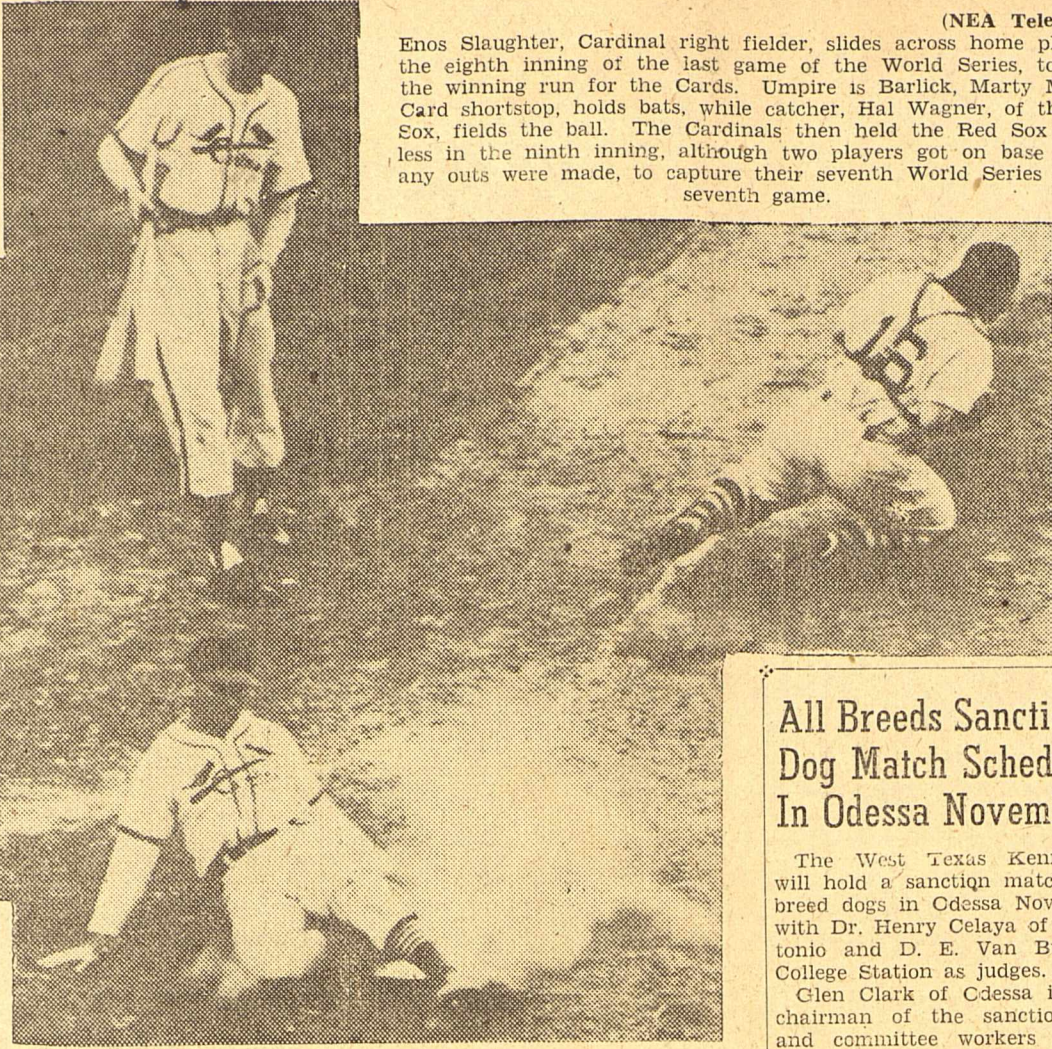

Teams of the North Elementary and South Elementary clash next week at the playground by the First Baptist Church. Winners in these games will play the West Elementary School teams the last week in October for the championships.

Slaughter Slides Home With Winning Run

(NEA Telephoto)
Enos Slaughter, Cardinal right fielder, slides across home plate in the eighth inning of the last game of the World Series, to score the winning run for the Cards. Umpire is Barlick, Marty Marion, Card shortstop, holds bats, while catcher, Hal Wagner, of the Red Sox, fields the ball. The Cardinals then held the Red Sox scoreless in the ninth inning, although two players got on base before any outs were made, to capture their seventh World Series in the seventh game.

All Breeds Sanction Dog Match Scheduled In Odessa November 17

The West Texas Kennel Club will hold a sanction match for all breed dogs in Odessa November 17 with Dr. Henry Celaya of San Antonio and D. E. Van Buskirk of College Station as judges.

Glen Clark of Odessa is general chairman of the sanction match and committee workers are Mrs. Glen Clark, Mrs. Rome Johnston and T. A. Ayers. More than $200 in prizes are offered.

Clark has been elected to fill the unexpired term as vice-president replacing Mrs. W. P. Cecil of Big Spring. He resigned because of leaving West Texas.

Mrs. John Turner, Elmer Sellers of Midland and R. Alberts of Kermit have been voted into the Kennel Club. Sellers breeds German Shepherds and Kerry Blues and Mrs. Turner breeds Scotties.

R. E. Lee of Monahans is chairman of the nominating committee for election of officers and will report at the December meeting. Serving on the committee are: William Talbot of Big Spring; Sellers of Midland; Marcus Gist of Odessa; Mrs. Leon Dillon of Kermit; Mrs. Hattie Brooks of Lamesa; Doctor Green of Fort Stockton and Doctor Boaz of Pecos.

Wendell Williams Gets AP Praise

NEW YORK —(AP)— A 196-pound six-foot one-inch USA end who has brought raves from Pacific Coast observers, won first place Wednesday in this week's "lineman of the week" Associated Press poll.

He is Burr Baldwin, 24, of Bakersfield, Calif., who returned from the war to pick up his gridiron playing where he left off in 1942.

The list of linemen praised this week includes:

Ends—Sid Holliday, Southern Methodist; Hubert Bechtel, Texas; Wendell Williams, Rice, and Gene Wilson, Southern Methodist.

Tackles—Weldon Edwards, Texas Christian; Monte Moncrief, Texas A&M.

Guards—Harold Collins, Texas; Jim Wright, Southern Methodist; Weldon Humble, Rice.

7-20 series favorites by the odds makers.

In a sense it was a personal triumph for Dyer, the soft-spoken Texan who had been lured back to baseball from the oil business by his wife's insistence that "you have had all the other jobs in the organization. Now if you turn the big one down they'll say you were afraid to tackle it."

BRECHEN WINS HIS THIRD GAME, 4-3— Gas House Gang's Spirit And Daring Run By Slaughter Steals World Series

By JACK HAND
ST. LOUIS —(AP)— The Gas House spirit still lives in the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals who have stolen the 1946 series from the favored Boston Red Sox on the sheer "hustle" of Enos Slaughter.

The score was tied at 3-3 in the eighth inning of Tuesday's decisive seventh game and the full pressure of baseball's 16th million dollar series was riding heavy on every pitch when Harry Walker lined a base hit into left center. "Eno," who had singled to open the inning, catapulted off first base, rounded second and headed for third while Leon Culberson retrieved the ball and made a quick relay to Shortstop Johnny Pesky.

Making the full sweep at third while Coach Mike Gonzales flapped the come-on sign like an excited mother hen, Slaughter lit out for the plate.

Pesky, apparently not expecting that sort of daring base-running, had dropped his arm half way, watching Walker run toward second, before he realized Slaughter was hot-footing home with the tie-breaking run. His peg to Roy Partee was too late as Slaughter topped off his magnificent heads-up running with a fine slide that scored a run worth $3,757.04 to each Cardinal share holder.

Three Victories For Brechen
Harry Brechen, making a relief appearance when Murry Dickson weakened, clung grimly to the 4-3 margin through a threatening ninth to become a three-game winner. Not since 1920 when Stanley Coveleskie whipped Brooklyn three times to give Cleveland the title, had any hurler picked up three victories in a single series.

Oddly enough, a two-run double by Dom DiMaggio which almost lost the game, actually gave Brechen his chance to get into the record books.

Dickson, like Brechen a pint-sized workman, had handcuffed the Red Sox for six innings after giving up a run in the first on singles by Wally Moses and Johnny Pesky followed by DiMaggio's run-scoring fly to Slaughter. After Bobby Doerr led off the second with a scratch single, Dickson did not allow a base hit until the eighth when two pinch hitters drove him from the box.

Rip Russell, hitting for Catcher Hal Wagner, started it with a single and moved to third when George Metkovich, batting for relief Pitcher Joe Dobson, doubled.

Although Manager Eddie Dyer knew Brechen was weary from a full nine inning victory Sunday, he had faith in the little left-hander to subdue this sudden threat. After striking out Wally Moses and taking Pesky on a fly Brechen yielded the tying runs of DiMaggio's two-bagger.

Gone was the two-run edge which Dyer had been coddling since his Cardinals knocked Dave Ferris out of the box in a two-run fifth inning. Instead the score was knotted with a man on second and the "mighty" Ted Williams at bat. Brechen dug in and forced The Kid to loft a high pop to Red Schoendienst.

Delicate Ninth Inning
After Slaughter's brilliant base-running on top of Walker's double, Brechen once more had the series in his hip pocket, but this most thrilling of any closing game in several years was no over yet.

Successive singles by Rudy York and the troublesome Doerr created a delicate ninth inning situation. But Pinky Higgins forced Doerr at second; Roy Partee popped to Stan Musial and the game ended when Pinch Hitter Tom McBride bounced to Schoendienst for a series clinching force of Higgins at second base.

The pitching mound was the scene of a jubilant Cardinal celebration as his mates lifted Brechen on their shoulders. It was a great moment, too, in Cardinal history, the fourth straight time they had won out in a seven-game series and their sixth triumph in all.

For Boston, defeat was doubly bitter because of the knowledge they were the first Red Sox club ever to lose a World Series after they had made a show of the rest of the American League in coasting to a pennant by a 12-game margin. Boston also had been made Wizards For Warmth! Wonders For Wear!

The warmth is assured by the special long-fibered, virgin wool and the distinctive Kenwood weave, with a light, fleecy, but anchored-forever nap making a delicate tracery over the surface.

And how they wear! After years of use they still retain their original color and their delightful, soft texture. If properly washed they'll stay their original size, too, for they're carefully pre-shrunk.

The colors are decorator-chosen, to accord with the new shades in wallpaper, rugs and drapery fabrics. Luxuriously bound in wide, gleaming rayon satin.

Under the most favorable pre-war conditions, the Scilly Isles, 25 miles off England's southwest corner, shipped 85,000,000 individual flower blossoms a year.

The average life-span in Revolutionary War days was about thirty-five and a half years.
