Vet's Administration Suspends Payments To 150,000 Ex-GIs For Failure To List Earnings

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Veterans Administration reported Wednesday it has suspended subsistence payments to approximately 150,000 ex-GIs for failure to report earnings in school or job training.

The payments, made under the GI Bill of Rights, amount to $65 monthly for unmarried veterans in school or on job training and to $90 monthly for married men. More than 1,200,000 veterans draw the allotments.

Tuition payments, made directly to schools, are not affected.

Under legislation passed last summer, veterans' payments and earnings are limited to a total of $175 monthly for those without dependents and to $200 monthly for those with dependents. In the event those figures are exceeded, the subsistence allowances must be reduced accordingly.

The Veterans Administration warned November 1 that subsistence allowances would be halted unless reports of earnings were received November 5. Suspensions are to remain in effect until the information has been received.

VA said payments have been discontinued to 149,046 recipients and that several branch offices have not yet reported the number of delinquents in their areas. The percentage affected in various districts ranged from four to 16 per cent of the total enrolled in education and job training programs.

Midland Needs Leaders For Boys Says Speaker

P. V. Thorsen, Boy Scout executive of Sweetwater, speaking at a banquet of Midland Scout leaders held Tuesday evening in the Scharbauer Hotel, said "leadership is needed for Midland boys."

He reported that there are 500 boys in Midland between the ages of nine and 11 years, and 1,000 between the ages of 12 and 18 years, and that only 322 were in scouting. He attributed this to lack of leaders.

He urged cooperation of all civic clubs and organizations in helping to find leaders. Troop and pack leaders and sponsors are needed badly, he explained.

More than 20 Midland scouts attended the banquet. Henry Norris, assistant scout executive of Big Spring, accompanied Thorsen here.

Farmers May Receive U. S. Loans On Cotton

J. A. Boyd, secretary of the Agriculture Conservation Administration office in the Midland County Courthouse, reminded farmers Wednesday they need not market their cotton at a sacrifice in price.

He said that producers who take out government loans on their cotton crops are guaranteed 92 1/2 per cent of parity price. Through government loans they not only can promote the orderly marketing of their crops but also keep the title of ownership to the cotton and may dispose of it later, as they wish, Boyd explained.

Oil Price Hike Will Boost State Revenue

AUSTIN—(AP)—If other oil companies follow suit in increasing the price of crude oil as Humble Oil and Refining Company has done, state revenue from crude oil taxes may increase more than $3,000,000, Acting Comptroller Bob Calbert estimated.

The estimates of increased state revenue are based on the oil production for September, Calvert said.

Yugoslavia And Italy May Agree On Trieste Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
NEW YORK—(AP)—A letter from Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to Italian Ambassador Pietro Quaroni revived talk Wednesday of the possibility of an agreement between Italy and Yugoslavia to settle the fate of disputed Trieste.

Molotov wrote the Italian envoy to Moscow, who is now in New York, that Russia believes a friendly Rome-Belgrade settlement of the border troubles "will promote the strengthening of peace in Europe." Italian diplomats here professed themselves pleased with his statement, and it was expected to carry considerable weight with the Yugoslavs because of the close relations between Belgrade and Moscow.

Another Session Scheduled

Meanwhile, Molotov and the other Big Four Foreign Ministers here scheduled another of their sessions on the Italian peace treaty for Wednesday afternoon. Having broken an East-West deadlock over control of the city by a powerful United Nations governor, they are trying to complete as quickly as possible their formula for internationalizing Trieste in view of the lack of agreement to date between Italy and Yugoslavia.

But beyond the question of who rules Trieste lie new difficulties over its economic relations with Italy and Yugoslavia and these, too, may prove time-consuming. Molotov is understood to have submitted to his British, French and American conferees a plan for Italian and Yugoslav economic zones in the international territory. The Western Powers object to such arrangements contending that Trieste should be made independent of economic as well as political controls by either of the two neighboring nations.

A sales booth will be placed in the City-Country Auditorium Monday and Tuesday when the theater presents a three-act play "Ladies in Retirement". The purchase of memberships entitles citizens to admittance to the play as well as to all of next year's productions.

UMW Chief Silent As Deadline For Miners Strike Approaches

By HAROLD W. WARD
WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis' lawyers went into an eleventh-hour huddle Wednesday as the midnight deadline approached in his showdown fight with the government.

The United Mine Workers chief must decide before midnight whether he will withdraw his contract termination notice that always means a shutdown in the soft coal mines.

Lewis, who may be courting legal penalties if he fails to do so, left his suburban home early but did not go to his office atop the union's building.

Neither did he return to the swank Carlton Hotel suite around the corner which he engaged for the duration of the current crisis.

Tuesday Lewis spent most of the day at the Carlton, reading newspapers and saying nothing.

At issue as the midnight deadline approached were varying interpretations of the duration of the mine workers' contract with the government.

Lewis' legal staff, headed by Welly K. Hopkins and William E. Leahy, conferred privately on the course of action to be taken in meeting the temporary injunction obtained by the Justice Department Monday in an effort to head off the threatened shutdown.

Approximately 100,000 miners—about one-fourth of the nation's coal producers—already had halted work.

In the crisis: 1. The Army announced that troops will be ready, if needed to maintain order.

2. The government readied a call to governors of all states east of the Mississippi for "brownouts" and rationing of electricity and manufactured gas—a move affecting millions, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri and Minnesota may also be included.

3. Republican and Democratic lawmakers joined in a rising chorus of demands for labor-management legislation when the new Congress meets January 3. There were some scattered demands from lawmakers for an immediate special session.

Lewis Can Go Into Court
Labor attorneys said that unless the United Mine Workers' boss elects simply to ignore the courts they see only two apparent alternatives for him:

1. Go into court Wednesday and ask Judge Goldsborough to vacate the order on the ground that it violates the Norris-LaGuardia Anti-Injunction Act, or that it requires Lewis to do something rather than restraining him from doing something. This is the usual procedure in seeking to block an injunction.

2. Rescind the notice of contract termination—the notice which in the past has always served as a tacit but automatic strike call.

More Opposition Faces GOP Tax Pruning Program

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Increasing opposition indicated Wednesday that Republican leaders may run into a major fight against their plan for a quick 20 per cent reduction in individual income taxes once Congress meets.

In talks with reporters, two more GOP House members—Representatives Curtis and Miller of Nebraska—add their voices to those of scattering party members already questioning its wisdom.

On the Democratic side, veteran Representative Doughton of North Carolina took a firm stand against any tax reduction until the federal budget is balanced and a start made on reducing the federal debt.

Doughton guided the writing of Democratic tax legislation for 13 years and his views usually command a large following in his party.

Miller disputed the right of the House Republican Steering Committee to speak for all party members on tax matters.

"They are taking in a lot of territory when they try to say now exactly what the rest of the members intend to do," he commented.

Miller and Curtis both said they considered "reducing expenditures and the debt more important than immediate cuts in taxes."

Russia Accepts US Proposal That UN Members Submit List Of Troops At Home, Abroad

LAKE SUCCESS—(AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov announced Wednesday Russia was ready to accept a United States proposal that all members of the United Nations submit complete figures on all troops both at home and abroad.

He declared that Russia and the United States were in complete accord and added that Russia was ready to draft agreements to carry out the proposal which originally was made in the UN Assembly by Warren R. Austin, head of the U. S. delegation.

Molotov spoke before the Assembly's Political Committee, which had met to take up a Soviet proposal that all UN members report on troops and bases they maintain on non-enemy territory.

Molotov withdrew this and submitted a new proposal which provided for reports giving the following information:

1. Where and in what numbers troops are located on non-enemy territory.
2. At what points in enemy states and in what numbers allied troops are located.
3. At what points in these territories air and naval bases of allies states are located and the size of garrisons in such cases.
4. The information should apply to the situation as of Nov. 1, 1945.

No justification was given for the question to include data on troops at home. He said the Soviet government was ready to accept Austin's proposal in this respect and to conclude agreements to this effect.

He said there was no justification for the maintenance of "allied troops" in any friendly country with the exception of small contingents needed to protect lines of communication.

At the same time he declared that Russia had withdrawn her troops from Norway, Denmark, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Iran.

Molotov spoke before the political committee of the United Nations Assembly in support of a Soviet demand that all UN members disclose figures on the number of troops and bases they now have on non-enemy territory.

The instigators of the strike agreed to the postponement after an unscheduled midnight revelle and impromptu meeting conducted by Dean Dunham.

Congress May Write New Formula For Controlling Rents

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A prediction that Congress will write a new formula for controlling rents, with provision for increases "where inequities exist," came Wednesday from Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich.).

He also forecast that the new GOP-dominated Congress will continue government rent controls—at least until next July 1.

Wolcott is to become chairman of the House Banking Committee which handles price and rent control legislation.

His statement to reporters came shortly after CPA was represented by a high official as "strongly opposed" to a general increase in rent ceilings but favoring decontrol of transient hotel rents. This official said any flat percentage raise in rents will have to come from Congress, if at all.

Wolcott is whipping into shape plans for a quick investigation of the housing program for veterans, which he has described as "outrageously bad."

Whether rent controls are extended beyond next June 30, he said, depends largely on whether the housing shortage is relieved by new construction.

Malenkov May Be Stalin Successor

MOSCOW — (AP) — Georgii Maximilianovich Malenkov, who was recently appointed to the important Council of Ministers, has been spoken of in British quarters as a possible successor to Prime Minister Joseph Stalin himself.

Though now only 45 years old, Malenkov fought through the Russian Revolution as a volunteer and joined the Communist Party in 1921, thereafter climbing rapidly to political power. His new job puts him in the top executive body of the U.S.S.R.

Before being relieved of his duties in the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet to become a vice chairman of the ministerial council, he had been one of the secretaries of the central committee of the Communist party, a member of the organizational bureau of the party and a member of the politburo.

In one of his most recent public speeches, the sandy-haired, limbed organizer said, "It is no secret that friends respect us because we are strong."

When Germany attacked the Soviet Union in 1941, he became a member of the state committee for defense. His work in increasing the production of planes won him the Order of Lenin and later the award of Hero of Socialist Labor.

As a vice chairman of the council, Malenkov will be working with the top leaders. Beside Stalin, his colleagues are: Foreign Minister V. I. Molotov, L. P. Beria, Andrei Andreyev, A. I. Mikoyan, Alexi Kosygin, L. M. Kaganovich.

Mrs. Merrill Patton Presents Review Of 'The Iceman Cometh'

Mrs. Merrill Patton, who recently moved to Midland from Amarillo where she was active in literary, dramatic, and civic circles, presented a review of "The Iceman Cometh" by Eugene O'Neill, Tuesday, at the Yucca Theater.

The review was under the auspices of the City-County Federation of Women's Clubs, with proceeds going to the general federation fund.

Mrs. Patton listed the characteristics of O'Neill plays, the four-hour length, the escapism and illusion as the theme and showed that O'Neill is a poet and artist who likes to link the present with the beyond. He exposes the hypocrisies and injustices of society in his plays.

Points to Symbol
In "The Iceman Cometh," Mrs. Patton pointed out that the iceman was the cold symbol of death.

Characters in the play are Harry, the soft-hearted proprietor of the barroom; Hugo, the radical; Tomaro, the war correspondent; Rocky, the tough bartender; Larry, the communist; Willy, the ex-Harvard man; Corn and Pearl, the larks; and Hickey, the 50-year-old glib salesman, the outstanding character and star of the play.

In closing her review Mrs. Patton quoted a part of one of Hickey's speeches, "Men cannot live without dreams for there is no contentment without illusions".

American Legion Plans Christmas Luncheon

A Christmas luncheon meeting will be held in December by the Woods W. Lynch Post 10, American Legion, the membership decided at a meeting of the post in the Midland County Courthouse Tuesday night.

Community Service Stressed

The Legionnaires discussed methods of making the Legion a stronger community-service organization and made plans toward development of enlightening worthwhile programs for 1947.

The Legion decided to postpone the acceptance of the invitation to hold the district Legion convention in Midland this year, but informed district officials of its willingness to host to the convention next year when given more time to make hotel arrangements and set up a program.

Jester Returns To Midland With Deer

Governor-elect Beauford Jester bagged a six-point deer on the Kokernot Ranch north of Fort Davis in the Davis Mountains Tuesday as he officially opened the black-tail deer hunting season west of the Pecos River.

Hunting with a group of Midlanders and other West Texans, Jester shot across a ravine and up the mountain side to hit a deer 150 yards away.

He brought the deer to Midland, where he spent the night in Hotel Scharbauer. He boarded a plane for Corsicana Wednesday morning to be with his son, Beauford Jester, Jr., on his eighth birthday.

Fullingim Kills Deer

Ford Fullingim of Midland also killed a six-point deer Tuesday. Many of the party continued the hunt Wednesday.

Other Midlanders hunting with Jester included C. V. (Cap) Lyman, Mrs. Rachel Hornbeck, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bird, Sammy Fullingim, and William L. Kerr.

"The deer I got this year was a small one—only a six-pointer," Jester said, recalling his 18-pointer killed in the Davis Mountains last season.

Great Britain is approximately three times the size of Ireland.

Bulldogs Prime Offense, Defense For Lamesa Tilt

First it was the defense, then it was the offense, and the Midland High School Bulldogs ended another workout Tuesday, getting ready for the Lamesa Tornadoes Friday.

It was a patched up gang of Bulldogs who toiled Tuesday. Bob Drake, spinnerback, is out with a broken thumb. Dunny Goode, wings-back, is nursing an injured shoulder. Several of the lads were pretty badly bruised in the Big Spring set-to.

Midland faces a strong line at Lamesa. And in Patterson they meet one of the best backs in the conference.

"Re-vamping Is On"

Re-vamping is on amongst the Bulldogs and some of the offensive maneuvers Friday will be new to the Midland followers. Dewey Kirby is looking good in a backfield slot.

Last year at Midland the two clubs battled to a 6-all stalemate. Both have come up with better clubs this year. It is remembered here that Lamesa held Sweetwater to a 19-7 count while the Mustangs rapped the Bulldogs, 33-6. Lamesa took Ysleta Indians, 19 to 0. Midland beat them, 26-0.

Lamesa is reported in bad physical shape for the encounter with two regulars ailing after the Odesa mauling last Saturday. Midland discounts this.

The game is scheduled at 2 p. m. Friday in the Tornado Bowl.

6—THE REPORTER-TELEGRAM, MIDLAND, TEXAS, NOV. 20, 1946

Officials, Coaches, And Fans Air Rulings Of Football Game

By TANNER LAINE

An amicable meeting of the Midland Coaches and Officials Association with a sprinkling of fans, spectators, interested citizens and the press, held Monday night at Midland High School resulted in a complete airing of rules interpretations and official's decisions of the Big Spring-Midland football game played here last Friday night.

Pat Knieff, president of the association, presided. He opened the meeting to questions and answers and explanations. Fans spoke up. Coaches spoke up. Officials spoke up. Interested citizens spoke up. It was a frank and unbiased meeting.

Three major discussions came up and were completely aired. They were: 1. The pass play in which the officials ruled a completion by Big Spring, so ruled, the officials say, because of a simultaneous catch which under the rules calls for the ball to go to the offensive team (Big Spring); 2. The "touchdown" or not pass play by Midland with use of a "lateral" or "forward" which was called back and penalized; and 3. The "big bite" incident in which Dunny Goode, Midland wingback, was ejected from the field for slugging, when he claimed he was bitten.

Bill Breeden of Odessa, who was referee, attended the meeting and gave his version, as an official, of the three decisions, and the three rules which covered them. Breeden, without prejudice, outlined the decisions made and quoted the rules. He explained it is the nature of officiating that rules are rigid and the referee must enforce decisions of his helping officials.

"Simultaneous Catch"
In the Midland-Big Spring game, the field judge, who was Lee Taylor, made the decision that Barney Eightower, Midland defensive back, and a Big Spring boy caught the ball at the same time. He admits the mistake of signaling an incomplete pass and declared his signal should have been one for a completed pass under the simultaneous rule. Referee Breeden had to enforce the decision of his field judge. Fans protested this at the Tuesday meeting, saying they saw that Eightower caught the ball first. It was agreed by all present that different persons would see the play different ways. And it was further allowed, under the rules, that whichever contender was right about the pass, the field judge's decision was final and the game is not changed, whether his ruling was right or wrong.

In the case of the Midland "lateral" or "forward" pass in the fading minutes of the ball game near the goal line, this was brought up; IF the Midland boy passed forward on this second pass in a down, it was an illegal pass and draws a five-yard penalty, which was the decision at the game Friday. By the same TOKEN AND IF the Midland boy passed laterally it was a touchdown.

As near as possible from what was brought out at the meeting as a recollection of what happened on the field the discussion determined: "Forward" or "Lateral"
Midland had the ball on the four-yard line. It passed. The ball bounced from the receiver. It was batted further by a defender. It fell into the arms of Jimmy Edwards, Midland center, who was tackled. He either passed forward or laterally to R. A. Whitson, who went over the goal line. As the officials saw it, the pass was forward. Some fans spoke up declaring it was lateral. So the final "decision" on this "decision" at the meeting was: again it was the officials who were calling the play and they said "forward". So Midland was penalized. Breeden explained that he paced off too much yardage thinking the penalty 15 yards and suddenly realizing it was five yards after messages from his helpers.

The "big bite" case involved this: Referee Breeden explained he did not see the Big Spring boy bite Dunny Goode. He did see Goode slug the Big Spring boy. So he put Goode off and penalized Midland. Officials say that slugging over rides all other penalties in cases of ejection of players. Breeden further explained he did not listen to Goode's entreaty that he was bitten. He said officials could only rule on cases they saw or another official saw. The point was brought up that a team might even begin a siege of biting themselves and tell the official that the star of the other team bit them hoping that star would be put off the field. Officials expressed regret in the case of Goode because it was brought out he is a clean fellow and a good ballplayer and certainly did not bite himself.

Some persons at the meeting criticized Sportsman Tanner Laine for his account of the game, claiming it was unfair, biased and prejudiced. Others defended the writer saying the article was pro-Midland and that it should be from a Midland sportsman. A member of the coaching staff said the sportsman had a purpose for his write-up as it was for the public as the writer said it. Others didn't agree. The entire group agreed it was unfortunate that from everybody's standpoint that in the close game the rules enforcement went against the Midland team, which was making a desperate drive to tie or win the ball game. All asked of the officials that they call them by the book and be fair. The officials say they did sincerely.

There was no temper at the meeting and strong language was not in effect. It was a man's meeting and was conducted. The Midland High School was complimented for its representation on the field of play Friday night. Visitors were present from Odessa, Monahans, and other West Texas cities.

It was unanimously agreed that official's mistakes, if made inadvertently and fan re-action, right or wrong, do not make the score of the game. The consensus of all was: do what is best for the game, for the sport, and help Midland.

Football Tickets

Tickets go on sale Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce for two football games. Ducats will be available first-come first-served for the Midland-Lamesa game carded Friday at Lamesa, and the Midland-Odesa game slated Thursday, November 28, here.

UCLA Shows Best Offensive Record In College Football

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK —(P)—The best offensive record in college football is owned by the all-victorious Bruins of UCLA, who stake their claim to the Pacific Coast Conference championship and their hopes for a Rose Bowl berth on Saturday's struggle with Southern California. Hardin-Simmons moved from fourth to second in rushing with an average of 296.8 yards per game, followed by Detroit with 277.1, UCLA with 276.8 and Utah with 263.5.

Texas Mines leads the list in punting, replacing Nevada with an average of 42.1 yards on 54 kicks. The ten leaders in each department:

Total offense—(gains rushing and passing)—UCLA, 409.9 yards average per game; Notre Dame, 399.6; Boston College, 384.7; Georgia, 375.1; Nevada, 371.1; Hardin-Simmons, 361.6; Yale, 349.8; Utah, 343.4; St. Mary's, 241.4; Army, 340.6. Rushing offense—Notre Dame, 302.3 yards average per game; Hardin-Simmons, 295.8; Detroit, 277.1; UCLA, 276.8; Utah, 263.5; Mississippi State, 243.5; Pennsylvania, 242; Yale, 240.5; Northwestern, 229.9; Army, 228.7.

Passing offense—Nevada, 109.6 yards average per game; Georgia, 173.1; Boston College, 164; Texas, 160.2; Oklahoma A&M, 151.8; Princeton, 149.3; Arizona, 143.6; Florida, 143.1; Marquette, 138.1; Indiana, 135.8.

Punting—Texas Mines, 42.1 average per punt; Nevada, 41.2; New Mexico, 40.7; Mississippi, 40.6; VMI, 40.2; Cornell, 40.2; North Carolina, 40.2; Miami (Fla.), 40.1; Southern California, 39.8; Alabama, 39.7.

Illinois May Be Rose Bowl Guest

BERKELEY, CALIF. —(P)—The Pacific Coast and Big Nine conferences early Wednesday signed a five-year football agreement that slammed the Rose Bowl door in anxious Army's face and probably will send Illinois—which voted against the pact—into the world's richest bowl contest January 1.

Illinois, ranking fifth nationally, is the potential Big Nine (Western Conference) champion, having only to win from Northwestern Saturday to clinch the title. Undefeated University of California at Los Angeles, No. 4 college eleven, holds the edge over the once-beaten University of Southern California, rated tenth in the national football poll, to become the host team for the bowl. The issue will be decided when the two teams clash Saturday at Los Angeles.

Should UCLA and Illinois emerge as rivals in the tournament of roses classic, the West would again see Buddy Young, fleetfooted Illinois back who starred for the Fleet City Navy team on the West Coast last year and for whom UCLA alumni were at one time reported bidding.

An official press release by the Big Nine-Pacific Coast negotiators made no mention of powerful Army, but the terms of the agreement left the Blanchard-Davis machine—number one in the nation—out in the cold. The contract is effective immediately "for the January 1, 1947, Rose Bowl game," with each conference to name a representative from within its own ranks.

Security Starts With Scraps; Waste Baskets Of UN Secret

Under the watchful eyes of UN Security Guard John Randazzo (left) Conference Coordinator Michael Cotungo gathers up notes and scrap paper left on the U. S. desk after a General Assembly session. Scraps will be destroyed and the notes returned to delegates.

By NEA Service
FLUSHINGTON, N. Y. —(NEA). —The diplomats charged with keeping the peace and security of the world sometimes have a hard time keeping track of their own hats and fountain pens.

To protect these hard-working but sometimes very absent-minded delegates to the United Nations, security agents screen everything they leave behind, even their waste paper.

After every important session, whether General Assembly, Security Council or UN Committee meetings, these security officers and UN guards move into the chambers and clean up the delegates' desks. No one else is allowed to touch them. The security officers check each piece of paper left behind, throw all unimportant scraps into a big basket, and turn the balance over to the security office.

Next come the porters who move in under guard and finish cleaning the room. Not until they have completed their work is anyone else allowed to enter the chamber.

The waste paper is given still another security check, then bundled into canvas bags, packaged and delivered to Lake Success in guarded trucks. There it is fed into a special shredder which chews it into completely unreadable strips. Finally the shredded remains are bundled and sold.

Normon Zink, maintenance superintendent of UN properties at both Lake Success and Flushing, says the volume of waste paper averages about 650 pounds a day. Money from the sale of this scrap goes to the UN fund.

Before UN got its paper shredder it had to burn everything that might have had security value, and when the shredder broke down recently it was forced to resort temporarily to the older and more wasteful system.

Rings, Hats, Glasses

A fair number of rings, eyeglasses and even hats turn up in the waste collection, but these are handed over to the lost and found department.

Highest percentage of lost articles comes not from the council chambers but from the washrooms and cloakrooms. Diplomats, it seems, become so concerned with the international proceedings that every once in a while they walk off and leave behind checked hats, coats, brief cases and about everything else not attached to them. The British reportedly are the worst offenders when it comes to forgetting umbrellas. The lost and found office just holds on to them until they are claimed.

Even General Assembly President Paul-Henri Spaak had to put in a claim for lost articles. He missed his brief case and his fountain pen. Security officers found the pen in the delegates' lounge. The brief case was picked up near the delegates' entrance, its papers intact.

New Start On An Old Problem

New labor legislation, the subject of bitter wrangles in the uneasy Congressional setup of 1944-46, is certain to be proposed by the new Republican Congress. And unless the country's industrial atmosphere has miraculously cleared before January, it will be among the first items on the agenda.

There are hopeful prospects that the matter may be approached in a more calm and sensible way than has been evident in recent attempts. There will be bitter complaints from leaders of organized labor, of course, but it is possible that these complaints will have a more moderate tone.

Union officials must see in the heavy Republican vote a demand, if not for corrective legislation, at least for a different approach to our labor problems. The PAC's failure to elect many of its friends and to purge many of its designated enemies suggests some departure within the ranks of labor from the slates selected by labor's political mentors.

At the same time, the Republicans should be less inclined to pass any punitive laws. They will be more than ever anxious to keep their labor friends and gain new ones, now that the vote has shown a break in labor's almost solid support of the Democratic Party during the last 16 years.

Senator Ball of Minnesota has indicated not only the substance of legislation that will be introduced, but also something of the strategy to be employed in a bid for White House approval. He favors a number of separate pieces of legislation rather than an omnibus bill as an obvious way of avoiding a blanket veto such as stymied the Case Bill.

Ball has scheduled some old familiar items for the consideration of his colleagues. He would like to set up better government mediation machinery for labor disputes, with compulsory "cooling off" periods. He favors revision of the Wagner Act to outlaw political and sympathy strikes and secondary boycotts, and to give management a right to appeal unfair labor practices.

Along more controversial lines, he advocates a ban on the closed shop. He also hopes to find some legislative insurance against nationwide strikes in vital industries.

Senator Ball will find wide agreement with his expressed hope that the problem of labor legislation will not become strictly partisan. To avoid this he favors talking the whole subject over with President Truman before any legislation is introduced, instead of risking the emotional and divisive process of veto and overriding.

The manner of procedure which Ball has outlined promises a sensible approach to our gravest domestic problem. It is the first big chance that the resurgent Republicans will have to show what they can do.

Both parties in Congress will have the heavy responsibility of considering this subject without rancor. What the industrial crisis needs most is a change of heart, all on the line. The logical place for that change to appear is in Congress.

First Things First

Sen. Robert Taft's prediction of a $13,000,000,000 cut in the national budget for fiscal 1947, and an additional $5,000,000,000 reduction in the following year, sounds attractive. His prediction of a 20 per cent tax cut even more inviting. But more enlightening will be the forthcoming explanation of how it's to be done.

The Republican Party has been talking of a businesslike administration, and doubtless the government might be run in a more businesslike manner. But surely one of the best ways of beginning such a conduct of the government would be to balance the budget. Equally important is the securing of our national defense.

When both of those eminently important matters are attended to, it will be time to talk of tax cuts. It would be a faring poor policy, however, to purchase an easy popularity at the expense of a growing national debt or a weakening of the country's foreign policy and physical safety.

Answer Given Three Greatest Mysteries

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—The three greatest popular mysteries of modern America are: What happened to vaudeville, Justice Crater, and the old-fashioned crossroads country general store?

Well, really the fate of vaudeville isn't a very well-kept secret. The bean, jest boys like Milton Berle polished up the usual J. Edgar Miller wheezes with an atom age twist and trapped the four-a-day-pork-and-beans routine for night club contracts at $10,000 a week or a lousy worse.

And as for Justice Crater? I just know he stepped into a New York taxi after a comfortable meal some years ago and rode right into limbo with the meter still ticking. A lot of people with their own shiny crystal balls have their theories, but nobody yet, including New York's finest, have produced the corpus delicti—if there is one.

Solves One Mystery.
But I can claim to have solved what happened to the country general store, the forum of the common people, the conversation fountain where they settled the world's woes, underwrote the local statesman's errors, bet on the neighborhood's fastest plow-puller, and chartered the fair, fair future.

They took the old country general store and moved it to the city. They called it a "bar" and made it co-educational. They took it off the crossroads and put it on a side street and marked it with a mortgaged neon sign.

They put in a mirror where they used to stock the calico. In the center of the mirror they stuck a sign: "A God we trust—all others cash." And if they were real up-to-date somebody from the management would scrawl on the inner consolation room: "Kilroy was here."

Installs Mahogany Bar
They moved out the snuff and the chew tobacco plug and installed in their place a box full of two-bit cigars and cork-tipped cigarettes on the bosom of a girl who was killing time before Helen Hayes forsook the theater.

They trundled out the cider jugs.

"I've got a job!"

A brand new telephone operator... that's me. Just started today.

Like it? Yes, indeed...especially one thing...everybody is so friendly. I felt at home right away. It's a nice clean place to work, too; pleasant surroundings, and the switchboard is really fascinating. I'm going to enjoy working for the telephone company.

And here's a tip, if you're looking for a job. More operators are needed right now. Experience isn't necessary because you learn as you go along.

The chief operator at the telephone office will be glad to tell you all about it. Why not see her?

State Department's Protocol Division Is Manners Bureau

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—Some Americans think that the protocol division of the State Department is a social bureau. Its chief, Stanley Woodard, says he's been trying to live this idea down for years.

"Why I sat next to a man on the streetcar right here in Washington one day who thought the government had a whole division devoting their time just to seating people at table properly," he protests.

Strictly speaking, the division's duties are limited to matters of protocol and precedence attendant upon a visit of the head of a foreign country to the United States.

The division makes out the program for the visitor's stay, plans the details of his reception on arrival, gets hotel and transportation reservations, arranges for tours, junkets and wreath-placings, for interviews with mayors and governors, for police escorts and so on.

When the visitor arrives he is met by the secretary of state at the railroad station or airport and is escorted to the White House, where he is formerly received by the President.

That night the President gives a state dinner in his honor, and the visitor is put up at the White House. The next day he moves to Blair House, Uncle Sam's official residence for visiting dignitaries.

On the second evening he is entertained at dinner by the secretary of state. When he leaves the capital and until he leaves the country he is accompanied by a member of the Division of Protocol.

All of the plans are made in collaboration with the embassy or legation of the country which the visitor represents. The embassy in turn, advises him in respect to the obligations and duties required of him while he is a visitor.

Another duty of the division is to see that all such big shots are advised of the immunities and privileges which this country allows them during their stay and to see that these are granted them.

Under the International Organizations Immunities Act of December, 1945, such visitors are granted immunity from income tax on salaries paid by organizations such as the UN for instance. They also get immunity from arrest for actions performed in the line of duty.

CALL ME LIZ

by Rene Riperson Mart Copyright, 1946, NEA Service, Inc.

STORY: Russ invites Elise to dinner. Elise tells Russ that she is tired of the emotion he shows when he drives her home. Russ has something else on his mind.

XIII
LIZ lay across her bed crying until blue streaks of dawn showed in the eastern sky through the windows of her room and the bed beneath her cheek was wet with rumpled hair and senseless tears.

She didn't understand in the moment what the matter with Russ had asked her to do. He had declared his love in a sweet and gentle way, and she had asked her to become his wife. It suddenly she had been thrown into a blind panic. She even tried to stop him—and had hurt Russ—had added to the smothering uncertainty.

She couldn't explain it even then. That urgent blind impulse to keep things just as they were over Russ a friend. And she was to be irrevocably faced. Her final choice to be made.

But the impulse had come too late and Russ's halting proposal had been put into words. A question that had to be answered with a "Yes" or "No."

The best she had been able to do at the moment was to ask him a little time. She had tried to do it gently, understanding even her own complicated mental state how sensitive he was, how precarious the balance of his war-nerved nerves.

Russ—oh, Russ! . . . won't you give me a little time to think about it? Somehow I can't—I can't decide like this. Right now, you don't mind, do you, Elise? Which didn't make sense. Elise realized, when she had been waiting—waiting for him to say what he had said tonight, and, of course, he had minded. She had seen his face darken with the appointment. Had felt him draw back into the shell of his reserve.

And so silently he had brought her to the door and asked after a moment's awkward silence, "Would you rather I'd not see you—until you make up your mind?" And she hadn't been able to stand that. She had put her hands impulsively up to his shoulders. "Oh, no, Russ. Let's not be like that. Can't we just go on—as we were?"

It had been with something like a groan that he had taken her hands away. But he had said again, "All right, Elise—if you want it that way."

But he hadn't kissed her good night, as he had after other dates.

THE alarm clock jangled through a stream of disconnected dreams and woke her at seven. She was grateful for one thing, as she dressed for work. She wouldn't be apt to run into Russel during the morning. His office was out in the factory and he very seldom came into the laboratory except on purpose to see her or Red.

Red, however, was already on hand when she arrived at the laboratory. She thought he looked at her rather curiously, as if noticing effects of sleeplessness and tears which she hadn't been able to entirely cover with make-up.

Consequently her "Good morning" to his routine greeting was curt and she immediately got very busy at her work bench.

"We're running some more samples of that new lacquer," she told him brusquely. "Be sure you give them their right this morning." Which was entirely uncalled for since they had buried the hatchet on that issue.

Red didn't answer. Just gave her a sullen look. She knew when he looked at her like that he'd really like to slap her face—hard.

That Monday proved to be as trying a day for Red McFan as for Elise Varney—for different reasons.

First, he almost collided with Jackie Spence as he was striding across the campus to his first class that afternoon. She saw him first, however, and began an animated conversation with her companion to avoid speaking to him.

The encounter bothered her more than it did him, though. He even grinned a little maliciously as he watched her going back to his waiting swinging her hips in what she thought was a provocative way. She was completely out of his system after that silly kid's tantrum she had pulled.

But he couldn't take as easily in his stride the second jolt the day handed him. The professor handed his first English paper back to him. It was all marked up with errors as he had known it would be, and there was a note appended asking him to see the professor in his office after class.

THE professor, when Red got to him, was a little nonplussed as to just where to begin. In fact he had never in all his years of teaching received a college paper written with as little regard for rules of English as Red's had been. He wondered in a mildly startled academic way how a boy could have gotten as far as college without absorbing some conception as to how English was to be written.

The professor handed Red a high school manual of English grammar which he had dug up somewhere and recommended that he study it before he handed in any more written work. There was something dryly hopeless in the prof's manner which set off a spark of alarm in Red's mind.

The possibility of failure—of flunking out—loomed for the first time. And the thought of flunking a Freshman course—a course that 18-year-olds were breezing through with three-quarters of their minds on girls and other campus diversions, did something odd to Red.

He felt his throat growing hot and dry and constricted. And a feeling came into his chest, a feeling that he hadn't had since he was a boy.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority
Florida probably has more bridge players per capita than any other state in the Union. As bridge is one of our favorite pastimes and Florida is a recreation state, it follows that a great deal of bridge is played by those who vacation there.

There will undoubtedly be many kibitzers at the forthcoming national tournament to be held at the Hollywood Beach Hotel, Hollywood, Fla., Dec. 8 to 15. Kibitzers are always welcome at the tournaments of the American Contract Bridge League, but they must remember that they are watching tournament

For example, at rubber or party bridge South would be quite satisfied to play today's hand at six diamonds; but at tournament bridge, when North jumps to six diamonds, it is obvious that it is easy to get to a slam contract on this hand. Therefore South decided that he had better play it at six trumps to get a better score. Scores in tournament bridge are measured in match points, not necessarily on the points scored on an individual hand. Therefore tournament players have to be very careful in their play, as South was in this hand. Six diamonds can be made easily by cross-ruffing.

At no trump, declarer wins the opening lead with the ace of spades and finesses the diamond, losing to the king. The jack of spades is returned and won in dummy with the king.

As a squeeze is the only hope of making the hand, declarer cashes the three top diamonds. He is left with two clubs and two spades while dummy has four clubs.

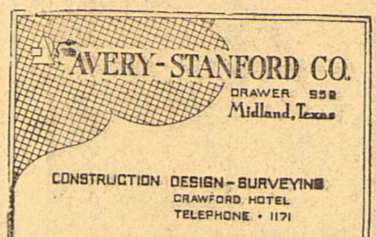

West cannot hold four clubs and the queen of spades, so the contract is made.

JayCees Ask Merchants To Help Yule Lighting

Midland merchants and businessmen are reminded they will be contacted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce next week for contributions toward Christmas lighting in the city.

This is an annual solicitation and results in Christmas lights strung throughout the business district.

Maurice Cox, JayCee chairman of the campaign, said "the individual contribution asked of each business concern will be small. We are announcing our campaign so the business people will know beforehand for what and why we are asking."

A GI's Dream Of 'Macbeth' Becomes A 16-mm. Reality

From a GI dream, Illinois landscape, and a 16-mm. movie camera—"Macbeth." Ex-sergeant David Bradley, now star and producer of his own company, and Jain Wilimovsky emote for the benefit of classroom audiences.

WINNETKA, ILL.—(NEA)—While other GIs spent their years dreaming of home, a girl, or wine, women and song, David Bradley, a signal corps sergeant, dreamed of "Macbeth."

Today, his dream is beginning to pay off. In company with some GI friends and on a shoe-string that consisted of his own war-time savings, Bradley is now producer, star and general factotum of his own movie producing company. No competitor of Hollywood, Bradley is producing 16 mm. sound film of Shakespeare and other literary

Midlander Spends 11-Day Furlough In Philippines

BAGUIO, P. I.—Sergeant Wallace R. Jackson, son of Paul Jackson, 306 South Pecos Street, recently spent an eleven-day leave in Baguio, Luzon, summer capital and playground of the Philippines, as a guest of the Camp John Hay League Center.

Sergeant Jackson enlisted in the Army March 19, 1945, and after training, embarked August 24, 1945, for overseas service in the Philippines. He was assigned in Angeles, Pampanga, with the Sixth Replacement Depot.

He graduated from the Abilene Christian College at Abilene.

Jackson is now serving as chief announcer of radio station Wvfm, I&E, AFWesPac.

MIKE THAYER RETURNS

Mike Thayer, formerly a resident of this city and ex-serviceman who moved to Michigan, has returned to Midland. He is an operator for the City Bus Lines.

classics for use in schools and universities.

"Macbeth," his first effort, will be premiered here next month. Two public schools, two private schools and a Chicago college already have, sight unseen, asked to show it.

Bradley was discharged from the Army and started work on his first literary film the same day—anniversary of Shakespeare's birth. But most of the preliminary work already has been completed.

During his war years—in London, Paris, Brussels and Munich—Bradley prepared his scenario, and visited museums and libraries for additional background material. An air corp friend stationed in the Aleutians designed the 100 costumes. The rest of the planning work was done by mail.

Because of the scarcity of materials and a tight budget, Bradley and his co-workers scoured the area around Winnetka for "locations." The witch scenes were shot in an abandoned stone quarry near Racine, Wis., the sleepwalking scenes in a "moat" surrounding Northwestern University's Deering library, the castle scenes in a medieval castle someone had built near Rockford, Ill. One of the oldest churches in the midwest was used for the drunken porter's scene and the battles were fought at Crow Island near Winnetka and at the Oregon, Ill., state park.

Classroom Drama

The company made its own costumes, armor and other props in Bradley's home workshop.

Designed for classroom use, "Macbeth" will be edited into two parts, to be run separately or as a whole. Each part will take 45 minutes—the usual classroom period—to show.

No amateur movie-maker Bradley started his career at Todd school, Woodstock, Ill., at 16. Orson Welles had just left the school, where he had started the movie-making, and Bradley took up where Welles left off. Since then, he has made almost a dozen films, some of which received wide critical notice. One of them, "Peer Gynt," won Bradley the "Oscar" of the year for the best non-commercial film made in this country. As a signal corps motion picture photographer, he gained additional experience.

But "Macbeth" is his most ambitious undertaking so far.

Navy Recruiters To Be Here Each Month

The area recruiting schedule will be resumed under the new setup. The San Angelo station serves an 18-county area, including Midland. Under the new recruiting schedule, which will become effective December 1, Navy recruiters will be in Midland from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m., the second Wednesday of each month.

Synthetic Discoveries Nazi Scientist Greatest

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Discovery of new methods for producing hundreds of synthetics from gas acetylene probably was the greatest achievement of German scientists during the Hitler regime, a Western Reserve University scientist has reported.

Strange Thought

John Cleves Symmes, formerly an officer in the U. S. Army, in 1818 declared the earth to be a hollow globe, with openings through the thick shell at the North and South poles, into which ships could sail to the continents inside the sphere.
