Long Lines Agreement Reached

Southwestern Phone Groups Negotiating In Called Meetings

WASHINGTON—(P)—Company and union officials agreed Thursday to settle the strike of long distance operators for a pay hike averaging $4.40 a week, and the government predicted a quick end to the whole coast-to-coast telephone tieup.

John J. Moran, president of the American Union of Telephone Workers, said the long distance walkout would end as soon as his nine-member board okayed the settlement, possibly late Thursday in New York.

He said his 20,000 members still might refuse to cross the picket lines of other unions in the National Federation of Telephone workers who have been off the job since April 7.

But John W. Gibson, assistant secretary of labor, and Edgar L. Warren, director of the U. S. Conciliation service, declared: "With the settlement of this most important case, the other strikes between the Bell associated companies and their unions should be quickly settled."

ST. LOUIS—(P)—Hope that the 32-day-old strike of 42,000 Southwestern Bell Telephone Company employees might be settled before the weekend was expressed Thursday by Federal Conciliator A. E. Johnson.

Negotiations between the Southwestern Telephone Workers Union and the largest operating subsidiary of the nationwide Bell System were resumed Thursday following transfer of the talks here from Washington.

"There is a possibility that we will have a settlement sometime this week," Johnson said. "Both sides have assured me they are going to get down to business. The company has promised to lay a cash offer on the table before the end of the week."

Johnson added: "I may be wrong, but I think this thing will move by Saturday or Sunday."

Union officers said employees of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company Long Lines Division were not expected to cross STWU picket lines in the event a tentative settlement of the Long Lines dispute, reached early Thursday, is approved by the executive board of the American Union of Telephone Workers.

Foreign Help Amendments Are Studied

WASHINGTON—(P)—An approaching Administration plea for perhaps $75,000,000 to reinforce Southern Korea confronted Congress Thursday as the House entered the voting stage of its fight over helping Greece and Turkey resist Communistic domination.

After two full days spent in general discussion of the $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid bill, the House turned to specific proposals for restricting the program and changing its terms. Chief among the amendments likely to be put to a show-down test is one to shift the burden to the United Nations.

To a hushed House near the close of Wednesday's debate Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas cried out against a return to "isolationism."

"I am appalled," he declared. "God help us, God help this world, if we do not accept our responsibility to help countries that do not want to be smothered by Communism."

From across the aisle, where the Republicans have been divided on the issue since it first was posed by President Truman nearly two months ago, Representative Wadsworth (R-NY) voiced the answer of those in GOP ranks who have lined up behind the Administration's expanding foreign policy.

"I am convinced," Wadsworth said, "that when we defend liberty the world over we are defending our own liberty. This measure is a forthright declaration in the support of righteousness. The struggle for liberty is never finished. We must stand up on our feet and support liberty."

Cabinet Members Are Accused Of Trying To Embarrass Committee

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Democratic administration's Republican Congress budget split widened Thursday with accusations on Capitol Hill that cabinet officers are trying to embarrass the House Appropriations Committee.

The charge was made by Rep. Stefan (R-Neb), chairman of the sub-committee which earlier this week recommended a 23 per cent cut in the 1948 budget of the State, Commerce and Justice Departments. It was echoed by Rep. Taber (R-NY), chairman of the full committee which upheld Stefan's group.

Stefan and Taber lashed out at the departments after Secretary of State Marshall and Secretary of Commerce Harriman criticized the committee's action in separate statements Wednesday. Previously, Secretary of Labor Schwabach complained of economy-axe blows dealt their departments.

Cole And Walters To Manage Pagoda Park

Pagoda Park, Midland's municipal swimming pool and playground, will be managed this season by David H. Cole and E. P. Walters, according to an operation arrangement announced Wednesday night at a called meeting of the City Council.

Revenues from the swimming pool will go to the city, with Cole and Walters to receive a total of $200 a month for managing and operating the popular recreation spot.

The park concessions will be owned and operated by the new managers. The city will receive 10 per cent of gross receipts from all concessions. Improvements now are being made at the park which is expected to open about the middle of May.

Hearing Scheduled

Swimming pool admissions will be nine cents for children up to 12 years of age, 18 cents for 12 to 13 years old, and 30 cents for adults.

The council set May 21 as the date for a hearing on an application of B. O. Funderburk and Lloyd G. Smith of Big Spring to erect a funeral home at the corner of West Ohio and North Peas Streets, which is just outside the business district.

The city's financial problems were discussed at length by the council members who approved payment of routine bills.

Can Cats Read—Here's Your Mother's Day Story Early

Mother's Day is Sunday, but this story can't wait. And neither could the cat.

Moral of this story is: a cat can read a sign, or—

The mother cat must have known.

Anyway, the other day a Persian cat meowed at the office door of Dr. Tom Bobo, 307 West Wall Street.

Nobody paid any attention to it. The doctor was very surprised later when he went out of the office and found that the meow had given birth to three lovely kittens.

And the mother refuses to leave the doctor's office.

Mother Cat and kits are doing fine.

Pardon Power Bill On Senate Program

AUSTIN—(P)—A proposed constitutional amendment which would take Texas back to a system in which full pardoning power is vested in the governor went to the Senate calendar Thursday.

The measure was voted favorably out of the Senate's committee on constitutional amendments Wednesday over opposition of former Gov. James V. Allred who warned the committee it "should long consider before returning to a system already condemned by the people."

Vote was 4 to 1 against sending the amendment to a subcommittee and a voice vote recommended Senate passage.

Truman Seeks Compulsory Training Act

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman said Thursday he will try to get this session of Congress to enact a law for universal training.

He told a news conference he is expecting a report soon from a committee of clergymen, educators and others which is studying the problem for him.

Some Congress members have expressed the view that time is running short for the matter even to get consideration at this session.

But the president said he is going to try to get it through before adjournment.

Congress leaders are aiming for adjournment July 31.

President Tells Press On Birthday World To Achieve Lasting Peace

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman told a birthday news conference Thursday that he is certain that the world eventually will achieve a lasting peace.

Summing up the two years since he announced victory over Germany, May 8, 1945, Truman said the country has surmounted many obstacles and that he is confident of its ability to survive others.

The president, who was 63 Thursday, made it clear that until peace is consummated, he has no intention of withdrawing Myron C. Taylor as his personal envoy to the Vatican.

Truman was told the president of the Southern Baptist convention had complained because Taylor has not been withdrawn and the minister said he had been promised Taylor would be withdrawn when the peace treaties were ready.

The president said he thought he had told the delegation of Protestant clergymen who called on him last year, that he would withdraw Taylor when peace had been consummated.

Peace, he said, has by no means been consummated.

Freshman Oklahoma Lawmaker Lodged In Jail After Shooting Affair On State Senate Floor

OKLAHOMA CITY—(P)—A tall veteran of the Southwest Pacific war ended his freshman term as an Oklahoma lawmaker in the county jail Thursday, accused of trying to kill a fellow legislator in a wild shooting affray on the floor of the State Senate.

State Rep. Jimmie Scott, 35, was booked on a technical charge of assault with intent to kill after he pumped a bullet into 64-year-old Senator Tom Anglin in the Senate chamber Wednesday, fired a second shot that went wild and then fled, only to be captured and disarmed in the Senate washroom.

Both men are from Holdenville.

The prisoner told police the shooting stemmed from a recent divorce obtained from his former wife in Holdenville and her subsequent move to enforce a property settlement. Anglin's law firm represented the woman.

Scott insisted he fired only after Anglin threatened to kill him and started to draw a gun.

Anglin, prominent in state politics for more than 30 years and acting governor of Oklahoma on several occasions, suffered a deep flesh wound in his left hip but physicians at University Hospital said his condition was not serious.

The wounded man denied he had threatened Scott or was even aware of any animosity between them.

Highway Groups To Meet Monday With Martin County Court

Chamber of Commerce representatives of Midland and Lamesa will meet Monday with Martin County Commissioners Court in Stanton to discuss right-of-way matters on the proposed Midland-Lamesa highway, Delbert Downing, Midland Chamber of Commerce manager, said Thursday.

Downing was in Lamesa and Stanton Wednesday to arrange the meeting. He said E. H. Barron, chairman of the chamber's highway committee, would head the Midland delegation to the Stanton meeting.

Designation of the original route of the Midland-Patricia-Lamesa road this week was reinstated by the State Highway Commission and its engineers were instructed to prepare a survey and to begin preparing right-of-way deeds.

The designation had been set aside during the war years when it appeared doubtful the right-of-way could be obtained.

Construction of the portion of the road from Lamesa to Patricia already is well underway.

Appeals Court Upholds Drunk Driving Charge

AUSTIN—(P)—The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday affirmed a five-year sentence given Ike Flowers of Waco, charged with driving while intoxicated and killing Elizabeth Phillips when his automobile ran into a group of three girls walking on the highway near Bellemud last August 4.

Another of the girls, Ruby Redden, also died later of injuries.

Flowers testified he had swerved to avoid hitting a boat which was being pulled on a trailer by another car when the accident occurred, court records showed.

City Bowling Tourney Underway, Teams Continue To Keg Thursday

On the ABC-sanctioned alleys of Plamor Palace, the annual Midland City Bowling Tournament began Wednesday night.

Results were of consequence Wednesday night only compared with what is bowled Thursday night and next week.

Rolling Wednesday night the first evening of team bowling were: Continental Air Lines, Burl's Standard, Scharbauer Hotel, Tot's Gulf, Honolulu Oil, and Pessimian Well.

Longhorn League—
Scheduled to roll Thursday night, second evening of team play, are: Murray Young Motors, Elder Chevrolet, Ace Motors, Mabec Drilling, Mackey Motors and Willis Sales.

Next week on Wednesday and Thursday nights the doubles and singles events will be bowled.

The tourney is a handicap affair and open to bowlers of the two Midland leagues. Team champion, singles champion, double champion, and all-events champion will be determined.

The public is invited to Plamor Palace to see the tourney bowling. It begins at 8 p. m. each evening.

Braves Investment Pays Off; Bucs Lose On Deals

Boston Braves securities firmed after shaky start; Pittsburgh Pirates investments uncertain after earlier optimistic outlook.

Translating market page parlance into sports page lingo, the above would mean that Earl Torgeson, rookie first baseman from Seattle who cost the Braves $100,000, finally has begun to deliver after a poor getaway.

On the other hand, Pitchers Kirby Higbe and Hank Behrman and Catcher Dixie Howell, three-fifths of the $200,000 purchase from Brooklyn, who were expected to make first division finishers of last year's seventh place Pittsburgh club, have thus far disappointed.

Greenberg Out of Action
In addition, the Bucs faced the prospect today of losing their great slugger, Hank Greenberg, for at least two weeks.

The former American League home run king, who cost the Pirates a reported $40,000 last January, is en route to New York to have an injured elbow treated by a specialist. X-rays revealed bone chips.

Wednesday night the Braves squeezed out a 3-2 decision over the Pirates when Torgeson drove out an eighth inning home run to break a 2-2 tie.

The nasty weather which stopped all other scheduled day games almost hurt the chances of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals. But the rain let up long enough for the Redbirds to defeat the Dodgers 2-1 in a thrilling battle at Ebbett's Field.

Dick Fowler's tight pitching and a two-run homer by Hank Majeski helped the Philadelphia Athletics dispose of last place to the St. Louis Browns as the A's whipped the Browns 6-1 in the American League's first night game of the season.

All other scheduled games were rained out or postponed because of cold weather.

The United States is approximately 3,000 miles from east to west, and 2,000 miles from north to south, by rail.

Take Off Ugly Fat With This Home Recipe

Here is an inexpensive home recipe for taking off unguisly weight and help bring back slender curves and graceful slenderness. Just get from your druggist, four ounces of liquid Barcostrate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Add enough grapefruit juice to make a pint. Then just take two tablespoonful twice a day. Wonderful results may be obtained quickly. Now you may slim down your figure and lose pounds of ugly fat without back breaking exercise or starvation diet. It's easy to make and easy to take. Contains nothing harmful. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky weight and help retain slender, more graceful curves, return the empty bottle and get your money back.

Seniors Schedule Performances Of 'Double Exposure'

An electric scoreboard for the gym? A senior trip this year?

These are the things for which the members of the senior class of 1947 would like to spend the money they raise from their annual play, "Double Exposure," to be presented Friday afternoon and evening in the Midland High School Auditorium.

Miss Helene Miley is the senior class sponsor, and Miss Verna Harris is the director of the class play. Betty Hayes is the student director. The play is a three act comedy centering around the trouble of Mark Carruthers when he is left in charge of his uncle's psychiatric clinic. While Mark is in charge of the clinic, he meets one of his old school chums, Curt, who is the leader of a band of summer players.

Large Cast

Curt's theater is in debt; so he and his players pose as psychiatrists and clients. In a short time, Mrs. Hoisington, a wealthy Boston patron, comes for treatment supposing Mark to be the real Dr. Carruthers. From then on, you can imagine the excitement which takes place.

The cast includes Charles Harrington, Evangeline Theis, Buddy Norton, Jane Hardison, Bonnie Robertson, Evelyn Wemple, Alma Faye Cowden, Jean Tuma, La Moyne Tabor, Joe Birdwell, Dorothy Jean King, Bobby Cole, and Bobby Drake.

Those working on sets include Gilbert Seyler, Dean Cox, and Jack Cox. Gordon Reigle, Rebecca Watford, Jeannine Traversie, Barbara Bradshaw, and Frances Gibbins are in charge of make-up.

Usherettes are Lois Dee Eiland, Donna Mae Kelly, Margaret Dougherty, Billie Pigg and Dorothy Harrison. Billy Wolfe is in charge of the lights.

Phone Strike Sidelights

By The Associated Press

The high cost of living has been made slightly lower by the telephone strike—no bills were sent subscribers in many towns which do not have dial systems.

Paris, Tyler, Vernon, Odessa, Midland and other points said no bills were being sent out for April. In Dallas, which has dial phones, bills were delayed because of a shortage of help.

Manager Jerome McKinney at Paris said no bills would be issued until the strike ends, and no charges made for the strike period, regardless of emergency calls. He said that despite emergency restrictions, more calls are being made than usual.

Odessa paid little attention to the strike, the Odessa American said. Non-union operators remained on duty and gave "fair service". Despite the service, no charge was made for local calls during the strike.

The union slogan "the voice with the smile will be gone for a while" has been replaced by another: "the voice with the pants will handle long distance."

Vernon residents took the strike in stride, the Vernon Record said. The walkout caused little inconvenience, although at first residents feared business would be paralyzed.

Supervisory personnel there has abandoned the "emergency only" phrase and is accepting all calls as fast as possible. The female voice has been replaced by a male voice in most cases.

More Unions Sign With International Harvester

CHICAGO—(AP)—A wage increase of 15 cents an hour, including pay for sick holidays, has been accepted by the CIO-United Automobile Workers Union on behalf of some 15,000 workers in six International Harvester Company plants.

A similar wage agreement was reached April 28 between the company and the CIO-United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' Union, representing 32,000 employees in 10 Harvester plants.

Capper Seeks Bill To Outlaw Whiskey Ads
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sen. Arthur Capper (R-Kan.) said recently he is receiving "much" support for his legislation which would prohibit advertising of intoxicating liquors.

The Senator told a reporter a hearing had been set before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee for May 12.

Anti-Saloon League and other temperance organizations who have supported the measure in previous sessions of Congress are expected to appear in behalf of the legislation, Senator Capper's aides said.

Fire, the first chemical agent of man, is believed by many authorities to have been in use at least 60,000 years.

Australians Plan Long Airplane Luxury Trips

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA—(AP)—Three Sydney men have formed a syndicate called Intercontinental Air Tours to operate charter flights to England and other parts of the world.

"We plan to make air travel between Australia and England a luxury trip," says Warren Penny, one of the sponsors. "We will have no priorities, no dawn starts, and no bad-weather flying. The planes will fly mainly between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. daily, with a two-hour stop at midday. Passengers would be able to stay overnight at a hotel or club and see the sights along the route. Present flight schedule allows 14 days for the trip to London. Fare has been set at $1,135. On the current air services to England, single fare is $1,215 on a four-day flight, and $1,053 by flying boat on an eight-day flight.

The trip from Sydney to London takes five to six weeks by steamship, costs around $625 for first class accommodation in a two-berth cabin.

Playful Era Opening For Americans In Near Future, Special Study Says

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—The average American is going to do more playing in the coming years than ever before in history.

Working only 37.7 hours a week, with a two week vacation with pay and exciting new play things like air travel and television, Mr. Average by 1960 will be setting new records for both time and money spent on recreation.

This forecast is made by experts of the Twentieth Century Fund, who have just completed an exhaustive survey of what economic conditions may be like in the United States in the 13 years ahead.

Even before World War II, the study declares, American workers had more than twice as much free time as workers of the 1890's. By 1941 more than 15 billion dollars was being paid out each year for "recreation"—a sum nearly five times what consumers paid for medical care.

During the war, many service men and women learned to use new forms of recreation in army camps, pools, beaches, tennis courts and athletic fields. The survey says they are likely to demand similar facilities for peacetime use.

Many industries in the war years opened up gymnasiums, athletic fields and other play grounds to keep their workers contented. The survey predicts that industry-sponsored activities, which have ranged from fish fries to fashion shows and from art exhibits to horseback riding, will continue in peacetime.

In addition, the great amount of moving about done by servicemen and women and war workers, the survey says, will probably stimulate the appetite for peacetime travel by bicycle, bus, automobile, boat, train and airplane.

The Twentieth Century Fund study is based on the assumption that by 1960 the immediate postwar boom will have ended and the country will have settled down to a high fever of prosperity akin to that of the Twenties.

"Movie going," it says, "has become a fixed habit with the American public and is unlikely to be greatly shaken by the advent of television, especially as television broadcasts of important events may become a part of regular motion picture programs."

"Color pictures will be shown more and more widely; 'directional sound' is a probable postwar innovation; and three-dimensional pictures are reported to be 'just around the corner.'"

A big boom in travel is forecast for the future, and the survey says the America which became a nation on wheels after World War I may be well on its way to becoming a nation on wings fifteen years after the end of World War II.

By 1960, it is estimated, a million private planes will be flying the airways, private craft will be sold at a rate of 250,000 annually, and it may be possible to buy a plane as low as $800 (in the dollars of 1940). The fast transatlantic sleeper plane will make the trip between New York and London overnight. Costs by air can be expected eventually to shrink to $100 one way to Europe, compared with today's fare of approximately $350, and two-week "overseas vacations" will not be unusual.

The Fund experts indicate that steamships will lose at least half their maximum prewar transatlantic travel in first and cabin classes to airliners. They say railroads, with the exception of "high density" lines and when used for short trips, may no longer be important carriers of passengers.

The survey predicts automobiles will be used even more widely in the next 13 years than in the prewar period. There were 4.5 persons for every passenger car in 1941 and it is expected that there will be more than one car in operation for each four persons—or about one car for every family in the country—in 1960.

But it is going to cost two billion dollars a year to keep streets and highways in condition to handle the traffic.

FLOOD IN POLAND
POZNAN, POLAND—(AP)—Spring rains and a sudden thaw after the severe winter caused floodwaters to sweep over 97 villages in the Poznan governorate. Nearly 2,500 peasants had to be evacuated. Floodwaters covered more than 120,000 acres of farmlands.

Vice Squad Head May Think He's Not Liked

AP Newsfeatures
BALTIMORE—Capt. Alexander Emerson figures his local fame has come at a high price.

His name is a byword in Baltimore, for he is head of the police department's vice squad and the nemesis of bookies and other gamblers.

Policeman's Lot— Just recently the captain was interviewed nursing a scratched hand and bruises about the abdomen where a character kicked him during a raid, and minus three teeth after another character swung on him with a crutch.

In the five years he's been on the job, Capt. Emerson has led 1,658 raids, arrested 9,061 persons, lodged 8,904 charges. His victims have paid an estimated $500,000 in fines.

The price of this, on his personal ledger:

He has been stabbed with a hatpin, busted in the nose, bitten on the thumb, slashed with a razor, clubbed with a beer bottle, socked with a monkey wrench, socked in the eye, and clawed in the face.

He was burned trying to retrieve some betting slips from a fire. He was choked with a necktie once. He has been cut several times battering through glass doors. He once got thrown down a stairway. Of course, he's had all kinds of doors slammed in his face. One time his hands got in the way. That cost him a finger tip.

Looking back over the list of mishaps, he says:

"And you can add: 'Pushed around generally.'"

Scrubbing Tunnel Is Huge, Scientific Job

NEW YORK—(AP)—Scrubbing the equivalent of 3,000 tiled bathrooms once a week may seem a gigantic job, but it has been boiled down to a seven-hour performance by maintenance men of the Holland tunnel, busiest vehicular tunnel in the world.

The four walls of the tunnel extend a total of more than six and four-tenths miles and are covered with 350,000 square feet of tile. More than 15,000,000 motorists drive through it each year, but a crew of only four men is sufficient to keep it clean.

The job requires more than 1,500 gallons of detergent and 20,000 tons of water. The detergent is sprayed on each wall by a truck moving at 8 to 10 miles an hour. A second truck follows a few minutes later to give the tiled surface a water rinse.

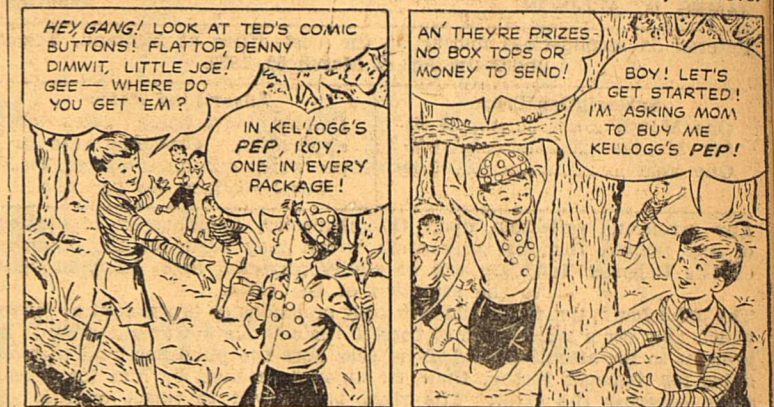

The tunnel is cleaned at night, so as to interfere as little as possible with traffic. Each wall can be done in about 30 minutes, but the entire job requires about seven hours because of time needed for refilling the tanks with water and detergent.

Concealment Or Achievement

It is doubtful that any people except the Japanese were more frightened by the atomic bombing of Hiroshima than were the Americans. Scarcely had our Army unveiled this weapon before we began speculating on its possible development and use against us by future enemies.

Ignorant speculation was soon added to this fear. That was hardly avoidable, considering the complexity of the subject and the secrecy surrounding it. Then later the atomic bomb was taken into the political arena and kicked around with considerably more energy than accuracy.

The result of all this seems to be that the country which pioneered in producing atomic explosives has lost valuable ground in the development of atomic energy during the last 21 months. This situation has been commented on from time to time. But seldom has comment been more clear than that found in Collier's magazine.

The issue devotes three articles to "Year Two, Atomic Age." One is by David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. The others are by Lester Vellie, who tells the distressing story of the bickering and inertia which have marked our work with the atom since Hiroshima, and Albert Q. Maisel, who writes on the first helpful medical results of atomic energy research.

Quite naturally Lilienthal's article is of primary interest. He outlines his conception of the job facing the commission and how it should be done. And it may comfort some skeptics to read his statement that, until international atomic control is secure, "to lose our head start would be folly, an invitation to disaster, and unworthy of American world leadership."

Lilienthal favors a gradual relaxing of the government monopoly on atomic research and development, consistent with security. He strongly opposes concentration of power at a bureaucratic top. He would put the diversified, nationwide atomic program largely in the hands of science and industry, under broad government policy and supervision.

Wisely, it seems to us, Lilienthal does not dwell at length on the possibility of an international atomic armament race. This has absorbed too much of our thinking to the exclusion of atomic energy's positive promise. Rather, he sees the harnessing of atomic energy as one of the mountain peaks of history. "He sees in it a power for great good, capable of vitalizing man's life through a new faith in knowledge."

As commission chairman he also realizes the great educational work which has to be done until all Americans "get this atomic energy development into majestic perspective."

How short our perspective has been is shown in Vellie's article. He cites such eminent atomic scientists as Dr. Harold Urey and Dr. Vannevar Bush in assessing the damage and delay caused by unnecessary secrecy and political wrangling. And he digests the problem facing this country by quoting Senator Brian McMahon, who says that only two courses are open: "Security by concealment and security by achievement."

It is generally conceded by now that concealment will not long be trustworthy or even possible. So it seems clear that America must abandon pettiness, narrowness and atomic hysteria. She must go forward and keep forward in the development of atomic energy. This will require the highest possible intelligence by our statesmen and scientists if peace and preservation are to be achieved.

Marriage Is A Partnership

In a recent divorce trial a judge ruled that a wife's making her husband do housework does not constitute cruelty. His decision denied a divorce to a husband who testified his wife spent most of her time visiting with neighbors and that he had to clean the house, make beds, cook dinner, and wash dishes after work.

If the law is going to let wives get by with that kind of shirking of their responsibilities, then what right have we to insist that a man earn a living for his wife?

In the eyes of society a husband charged with non-support is looked on as a complete no-good. Nobody blames his wife for divorcing him.

Why should we be more lenient with women? Isn't it as much the wife's job to be responsible for the house as it is the man's job to support her?

A wife's refusal to take care of a home for her husband may not constitute cruelty in the legal sense of the word. But there ought to be some legal word for it, because it is as shameful as non-support.

Marriage is a partnership. And both partners have their jobs to do, if the marriage is to be successful.

The wife who falls down on her side of the partnership is just as much a failure as is the husband who doesn't do his share.

Effective Persuasion

Acceptance by the electric, rubber, and auto workers' unions of company-offered pay rises is credited in part to the threat of restrictive labor legislation. The same motive force is assigned to AFL President Green's belated decision to do something about settling the movie industry's jurisdictional strikes.

If Congress keeps on barking long enough and loud enough, it may wind up with nothing tangible to bite. Which would be all right with most of us.

Ancient Ruins Found In Jerusalem Zone

JERUSALEM—(AP)—Parts of walls and pillars, as well as mosaics of an apparently big building erected about 1,300 years ago, have been found and excavated in Jerusalem Zone B—one of the three closed and barbed wire-surrounded security areas within the Palestine capital. Experts believe these archeological remains formed part of one among many monasteries built in Jerusalem in Byzantine times.

The discovery which has been investigated by the Palestine government archeologists, was made while building a new road.

About 68 per cent of the 4,200 so-called "company stores" in the United States are operated by coal companies.

'Pauper' Leaves Big Fortune In Stocks

LONDON—(AP)—A "pauper" who died at Capetown left $200,000 in gilt edged stocks, it has been revealed here. He was Alexander McIntosh, 77, a bachelor who lived a lonely "poverty stricken" life in a dismal cellar in the poor quarter of Capetown. He wore tattered clothes and used to hunt in street refuse bins for trifles of value.

He collected cigar and cigarette ends from gutters. It is understood he left $2,000 to a Baptist church in Rife, Scotland, and the remainder of his wealth to brothers and sisters in Britain. McIntosh, a former linotype operator and one time active trade unionist, became miserly after retirement.

It requires about 14 pounds of air to provide enough oxygen to burn one pound of gasoline.

MOVIE BEING MADE IN AMERICAN ZONE

MUNICH—(AP)—Production has begun on the first post-war German movie in the United States zone.

The film will be known as "Zwischen Gestern und Morgen" (Between Yesterday and Tomorrow). It will cost about $70,000.

Doctor Predicts Medicine Will Change Studies

CHICAGO—(AP)—Medicine in the near future is going to change its teachings and include economics and sociology so that doctors can the better keep people from getting sick.

This prediction was made to the American College of Surgeons Tuesday by Dr. Wilson G. Smillie, professor of public health and preventive medicine, Cornell University Medical College, New York City.

He explained that the causes of death are rapidly changing. He declared that medicine, pills and drugs are now substituting for tuberculosis, pneumonia and the great infections which for thousands of years were man's worst enemies.

The new disease, he said, are degenerative, those of aging, like hearts and arteries; and also the chronic diseases, which do not kill, but which for no apparent good reason keep millions of people constantly ailing. "This latter class of disease he said affects mostly men and women in their thirties and forties. He said the amount of chronic disease is astonishing.

The doctor of the future he said will consider his patient's home life, his job and his attitude toward life. He will be as much concerned with well people as the sick. For the degenerative diseases there is at present no adequate remedy. "There is not likely to be, Dr. Smillie argued, until doctors begin preventive measures that involve man's social and economic condition as a probable starting place for bad hearts and the like.

Included among the entries in the festival's three contests are singing groups from Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Hungary, the Netherlands, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland.

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—(AP)—California is expected to hold its lead as the state with the most motor vehicles.

With 3,489,824 registered in 1946, California had ten per cent more cars, trucks, trailers and motorcycles than in 1945.

State officials estimate that registration for 1947 will reach 3,725,000.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Where's the Argument?

You should have heard Ed Carey and Spike Miller debating the merits of Guernseys versus Holsteins. Ed's our firechief, and Spike handles hardware—but to hear them argue you'd have thought that they'd been dairying for life.

Finally they put it up to Sam Carter, who breeds dairy cows! Sam hems and haws... and concludes there's a lot to be said for Holsteins, and about as much for Guernseys... take your pick!

Actually, Ed and Spike were like people arguing about—say, beer versus buttermilk. Folks who've never tasted beer will sometimes get mighty vehement about their choice of beverages. And folks who've never tasted buttermilk will be equally pig-headed.

From where I sit, it's in things we know nothing about that we get bigoted and stubborn. But when it comes to things we know a lot about, we're able to see both sides... be tolerant and reasonable... and above all, understanding.

Pork Baked With Fruit

The sweetness of pork and the tartness of fruit make a perfect flavor combination. We all know the just-right blending of pork roast with applesauce, pork chops with pineapple, and pork sausage with fried apples. And now we bring you a new and rich-tasting pork and fruit twosome—pork steaks baked in apricot sauce!

The fruit sauce, sharpened with lemon juice and subtly spiced with cloves, bakes right into the pork to accent its fine flavor. Pork chops are equally delicious when baked in the apricot sauce.

Apricot Pork Steaks
3 pork steaks
2 cups dried apricots
Few grains salt
1/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon cloves

Wash apricots and cover with boiling water. Let soak for one hour. Add salt and simmer until tender. Add sugar, lemon juice, and cloves and cook ten minutes longer. Dredge pork steaks with seasoned flour. In a large skillet, brown steaks on both sides in a small amount of hot fat. Pour apricot sauce over steaks, cover skillet, and simmer on top of stove about 35 minutes, or until tender. Or bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Add a little more water halfway through cooking period. Lift pork steaks from skillet onto a hot platter. Serve with apricot sauce poured over. If a smooth fruit sauce is desired, press apricots through a sieve, reheat, and serve in a gravy boat or sauce bowl alongside the steaks.

Taking a tip from the Hawaiians, we come up with this delightful pineapple and pork chop dish:

Hawaiian Pork Chops
4 pork chops
1 green pepper
3 slices canned pineapples
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
1 1/4 cups water
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup canned pineapple syrup

Flour chops and brown slightly in a little hot fat. Add pineapple and green pepper cut into coarse pieces. In a separate pan mix sugar, cornstarch, and cloves. Gradually stir in hot water and cook until thickened. Add lemon juice and pineapple syrup. Pour over chops, cover skillet, and cook over low heat for 45 minutes or until tender. Add more water during cooking if necessary.

Apple stuffing in pork chops, tenderloin fillets or spareribs, is another wonderful pork and fruit tie-up. This basic stuffing recipe for pork may be varied by substituting other fruits for the apples:

Apple Stuffing for Pork
2 cups fine dry bread crumbs or crushed cornflakes
1 small onion
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1 egg
1/2 cup finely diced apples
Milk or water.

Mince the onion and combine with crumbs, seasonings, beaten egg, and milk or water to moisten slightly. (Or omit the diced apples and substitute 1/2 cup of apricot pulp, prune pulp, or grated pineapple.)

An interesting pork chop accompaniment is catsup glazed peaches. Brush canned peach halves with melted butter, fill centers with tomato catsup, and broil until heated through. Serve hot with golden brown pork chops.

Italy's Army Rapidly Learning Ways Of U. S.

ROME—(NEA)—There was one good result of the war in Italy. Giuseppe now can sit down at a table to eat his meals.

Three times a day the improvement in Italy's small but effective post-army is thus brought home to the men in the ranks.

Before the war, an ordinary soldier in the Italian Army simply picked up a mess kit of food from the camp kitchen, found a shady spot around the camp, sat down and had his meal there. Now he is not only provided with a mess hall and mess tables, but there is a reading room in his barracks, something never before permitted except in officers' quarters. Enlisted men now have their own shows, dances, bars and refreshment rooms.

Democratization of Italy's army began with the first landing of Allied troops in September, 1943. A special Anglo-American unit, known as the Military Mission to the Italian Army, was formed. This unit was to co-ordinate the remnants of Mussolini's forces and to see whether the Italian troops could be taught to work and operate along the same lines as the Allied fighting forces in Italy.

Inside of a year the MMIA had three divisions of Italian troops trained and fighting with the Allies against the Germans. The troops used American and British equipment.

The troops are still training, under their own leaders now, and are still using British and American equipment. Their number has been cut to 250,000, less than a third of Mussolini's "Army of Bayonets." But today they are far from the most discontented soldiers in the world that they were when Italy capitulated to the Allies.

Making up in quality what they lack in quantity of manpower, the men of the Italian Army are learning to repair and maintain as well as drive their new mechanized equipment. They are learning to read maps, once the prerogative of officers alone. Most important of all, they are learning how a democratic army works.

In the sixteenth century the Emperor Akbar of India brought weavers from Persia to make rugs for his friends. Today many beautiful hand-woven rugs are produced in India. Some Indian rugs follow Persian motifs, but many introduce native ideas of art. Old Indian rugs are extremely valuable.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

By Gwen Davenport

Copyright by Gwen Davenport; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

XXIX
 MONDAY morning the whole household was sad, everyone being aware that Vicky had come in last night in tears, after an interview with young Bagot; that she had told Sophie her engagement was broken.

Sophie did not appear at breakfast. Marcel finished before anyone else, while Godfrey and Basil were still at the table. The painter was about to leave the dining room when Basil stopped him.

"If you please, Marcel, I should like to call a meeting. Will you and Godfrey kindly meet me in the library in fifteen minutes?"

"Certainly," agreed Marcel, brightening a little. Basil was a man of action. Perhaps he could do something. Marcel went directly to the library, where he huddled over the fire mournfully, until he was presently joined by Godfrey. Godfrey came in with an air of condescension, although he was really curious and not at all displeased to have an appointment of whatever nature.

"Why doesn't he come along?" said Godfrey irritably, after an interval. "I very much dislike being kept waiting. I have done him the courtesy of being on time myself."

"He has not yet finished breakfast, I suppose," said Marcel. He shivered. "Quel jour! What a climate! How is Sophie this morning?"

"I haven't seen her. She seems to be worried about Vicky," Godfrey stretched, yawning. "Odd how the maternal instinct survives—even skipping a generation."

Basil slipped in from the dining room.

Godfrey snapped at him, "We have been waiting. You said you wanted to see us in fifteen minutes."

"Yes," said Basil. "Well," He seated himself, prepared for a confidential chat. "This is very important. I think our duty lies clear. We must help Victoria."

"I don't see how we can," said Godfrey.

"For some reason," Basil went on, "her heart is set on this crashing bore, young Bagot."

"I don't see what we can do about it," Godfrey repeated.

"But we can. All of us. I have a proposal to make."

"Ought not Sir Charles to be here, also?" ventured Marcel. "He also is fond of Sophie and Vicky."

THERE was silence while they considered the exact position and the claims of Sir Charles.

"But it's not the same thing!" Godfrey objected. "I mean to say, Sir Charles isn't really one of us."

"Still," said Basil, always ready to take the opposite side, "I think Perrault is right. Sir Charles has no real claim on Sophie, of course, but I think he's fond of her in his way. Let us ask him to join us."

"I can see no reason," Godfrey insisted.

"Bridget!" Basil addressed the maid who had come in with carpet sweeper and dust. "Please ask Sir Charles to come here. We wish to see him."

"Yes, indeed, Mr. Vasilov," and leave us undisturbed."

"Yes, sir."

When they were alone, Basil leaned back in his chair with a judicial air, folding his hands on his convex middle. "Now, as I said, this Bagot is a type of human being I find myself unable to appreciate. But for some reason Victoria has chosen to fall in love with him. It is not for us to question why God created the young man in the first place, nor yet why Victoria should be able to contemplate a lifetime spent in his company. The facts are: He is here; she loves him; and it seems to be our fault that she cannot attain her heart's desire, simple though it is."

"I can't see," said Godfrey, "why we have anything to do with their quarreling. I understand it was—shall we say, Sophie's past?—to which they took exception."

"But we are Sophie's past!" cried Marcel.

"What they object to," said Basil, "is the past being present."

"Certainly. If we were dead—" Marcel shrugged and turned his eyes heavenward.

"You aren't going to propose we form a suicide pact, are you?" said Godfrey.

A DISCREET cough, immemorial sound of the stage butler, announced Sir Charles. He came forward, buttoning his coat. "Did you send for me, Basil?"

"Yes. Come in. Sophie is not down yet, is she?"

"No. She asked to have a tray sent up to her room, but she ate scarcely any of it."

"And Vicky?"

"She ate nothing at all."

"Aha!" Marcel said wisely. "She is in love!"

"Come and sit down, then," Basil urged. "We can talk without being disturbed."

"You called this meeting," Godfrey pointed out with weary patience. "I suggest you state your business."

"If we can help Vicky," Marcel said, "tell us how."

"It's too late now," Sir Charles said, sighing. "It's all off, I'm afraid."

"This Bagot alliance may be off," admitted Basil, "but Vicky, from time to time, will have other admirers."

"Of course she will!" said Godfrey. "So why all the fuss?"

"Because the same thing would happen again. And we can't stand in the way of Vicky's happiness forever."

"But what can we do?" asked Marcel.

Basil pulled himself upright, placing a hand on each arm of his chair and thrusting his round head forward.

"Gentlemen," he said, "we can leave."

America's Card Authority

In a discussion of safety plays today's hand came up, and if I were a betting man I believe I would have lost my shirt on this one. I have written up this particular safety play many times and thought that it was fairly well known, but Harry J. Fishbein and Peter Levitt were willing to bet me that 80 to 90 per cent of the pairs in any average duplicate game would miss the play.

West wins the first two rounds of hearts and continues with the third heart, which declarer trumps. Now if declarer makes the mistake of laying down the ace of trumps, West shows out and South has to lose a spade trick.

When holding five to the ace-king opposite four to the queen, or any similar combination such as five to the ace-queen opposite four to the king, the only chance of losing a trick is when one opponent holds all four missing trumps, there is no way to keep him from making at least one spade trick.

Therefore declarer's only protection is to guard against four in the East hand, and he must lead a small spade to the single honor in dummy. If both opponents follow, there is no problem. When West shows out, declarer leads the nine of spades from dummy, East covers with the ten and South wins with the king. He goes over to dummy with a diamond and comes through the spades again.

Declarer must not forget to knock out the ace of clubs before picking up the last trump, just in case East has four hearts, or West has the ace of clubs.

Americans Of 1960 Will Enjoy Top Eating, Economic Survey Reveals

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK—"Better eating" lies ahead for the American of 1960, say experts of the Twentieth Century Fund who have just completed a survey of probable economic conditions in the coming 13 years.

"The 'better eating,' they say, will come largely because of an increase in the national income per person which will enable Mr. and Mrs. Average American to consume more of the 'protective' foods needed for good health. The survey assumes that by 1960 the immediate postwar boom will have ended, but that the country will be highly prosperous with purchasing power per capita up from $586 in 1940 to $787.

When Mrs. Average goes to market with a heavier purse in 1960, the survey says, she will want more of the higher-priced and more nutritious foods like meat, dairy products, citrus fruits and vegetables. Her family will be eating less flour and baked goods.

Butter and bacon will be on the table more often, as well as citrus fruits and vegetables.

The Fund report says the trend of "eating out"—noticeable before and during the war—is likely to keep going in the postwar era. A main reason for this is the increase in travel, with eating and drinking places sprouting along highways and in parks and amusement areas. The number of factories with canteens or lunch-rooms is expected to rise.

By 1960, the survey predicts, 26 per cent of the public's dollar will go for food and drinks to be consumed outside the home. In 1940 that figure was 23 per cent and in 1929 only 13 per cent.

Unless there is a greater change in food habits, however, the study says, the diets of "fully one-seventh of the families in 1960 will be in great need of nutritional improvement."

Important changes are seen in view on the clothing front. The survey forecasts sportier wear for men in all ranks of life. It says the army practice of allowing men to wear matching shirts and trousers without coats in the summer will help a tendency to the same custom in offices.

Americans of the coming years are expected to witness a stiff battle between the long-existent users—cotton and wool—and the relatively new synthetic materials like nylon and rayon.

BEGAN IN ROME

Modern taxicabs had their beginning in Rome, before the time of Caesar. The vehicle then was a chariot, and fare was computed by pebbles dropped into a bowl.

One and one-half million farm people were injured in accidents

Prunes, nuts and the juice and pulp of an orange—sugar and spice and everything nice—all these go into making Prune Orange Bread! Delightfully flavorful and satisfying, this new member of the versatile quick bread family is a happy addition to any spring menu.

The simplest dinner will take on importance if slices of this fruit bread are added to the bread basket. It is excellent served with afternoon tea or coffee, too. And the children will find sandwiches made from Prune Orange Bread, with peanut butter or cream cheese between the slices, a pleasant surprise in their lunch boxes.

A single loaf of Prune Orange Bread can serve all these menu purposes, for the abundance of fruit keeps the bread temptingly fresh for several days. In fact, it is better to bake it the day before serving, for such fruit breads all slice in more precise thin slices on the second day.

This bread is a highly nutritious addition to the meal. Like all products made from enriched white flour, it provides valuable amounts of protein, in addition to carbohydrates, "B" vitamins and iron.

Prune Orange Bread is easy to make according to the following recipe:

- PRUNE ORANGE BREAD
- 1/2 cup shortening
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 2 eggs
 - 3/4 cup chopped cooked prunes
 - 2 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
 - 4 teaspoons baking powder
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1 cup ground whole orange, pulp and juice
 - 1/4 cup milk
 - 1/4 cup chopped nuts

Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs. Beat well. Add prunes and mix thoroughly. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, and cinnamon. To creamed mixture add flour mixture alternately with ground orange and milk. Mix thoroughly. Add nuts and mix well. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven (350° F.) about 1 1/2 hours.

Yield: 1 loaf, 4 1/2 x 8 1/2 inches.

Housewife Works As Much As Ever Despite New Aids, Study Shows

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK—Despite increasing use of labor-saving devices, mothers will do as much work in the future home as they did before, it is suggested by experts of the Twentieth Century Fund who have made a survey of what conditions may be like in the next 13 years.

The experts say that by 1960 electricity in homes should be almost universal, with big increases in the use of mechanical workers like washing machines and vacuum cleaners. But they cite studies to show that housewives with labor-saving equipment spend almost as much time at work as those without.

Lots of Reasons

Reasons cited for this are that when good devices come into the house other members of the family cut down on the amount of help they give. Mothers also do other things more thoroughly than they used to, find some new tasks, or just reduce their speed.

Assuming that high employment and income continue, the Fund authorities foresee numerous changes in the country's housing and household operations. They say:

There will be an estimated demand for 16,052,000 new homes between 1946 and 1960. This number will provide for all new and involuntarily doubled-up families; for replacement of houses destroyed through fire, flood, etc.; and the replacement of 65 per cent of all the substandard dwellings that should be torn down. Even so, there still would be 5,573,000 "substandard" dwellings in 1960.

An expected boom in rural electrification will give many farm families new kitchen, laundry and cleaning equipment they never had before.

Family Size Declines

The decline in the size of the family is expected to continue. That means there may be a greater demand for smaller apartments or houses. Since there is a "fixed demand" for a kitchen, and bathroom whether the family is small or large, this is good news for makers of plumbing equipment.

Besides increased use of existing work-saving devices there will be a trend toward the development of larger and more efficient models of refrigerators that will provide more freezer and storage space. "Freezer rooms" will probably be installed in the homes of many well-to-do farm families, particularly in the west where farm families live far from town.

Units run by electricity that will air-cool individual rooms are expected to get into substantial production in the next decade.

A large percentage of women who went into factories during the war will remain at work. This means there will be increased demands for such things as commercial laundry service, restaurant meals and nursery school care.

The survey indicates that the trend of the "disappearing housemaid," under way since 1909 and accentuated by the war, may be reversed. But it may take higher wage rates and better working conditions for household help to do it.

Hindu And Moslem Heads Work For Indian Unity

NEW DELHI (P)—As the result of a conference held recently—their first since 1944—Mohandas K. Gandhi and Moslem League President M. A. Jinnah were agreed to do their best in their "respective spheres" to maintain peace between India's Hindu and Moslem communities.

The two failed, however, to reconcile their political views—Jinnah standing fast for the establishment of an independent Moslem state of Pakistan while Gandhi, who is a powerful influence in the predominantly Hindu Congress Party, remained insistent on a united India.

Former Publisher, She Still Gets Her Name In Brownsville Herald

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

An active, wiry little woman possessively paces the streets of Brownsville. Many of the things she sees—the new buildings, the new industries, the new parks—make her proud.

Sometimes she finds something she doesn't like. She'll write a letter to the paper about it. Recently, the neglect of a monument honoring the hero for whom Brownsville is named displeased her.

The Herald prints her letters. She is Mrs. Jesse O. Wheeler—and The Herald masthead still says: "Established as a Daily Newspaper July 4, 1892, by Jesse O. Wheeler."

She no longer owns the paper. She hasn't for years. But, as one of Texas' first career women, she helped build it.

Her husband, the founder of The Herald, was born in Victoria. She was Miss Francis January, the daughter of a prominent Victoria physician. They moved to Brownsville when it was a rough frontier town—far unlike old, dignified and safe Victoria.

She was barely out of her teens at the time. She knew nothing about newspapers. But labor was scarce, and she helped her husband. She wrote many of those early editorials—and they were widely quoted. She learned to love the profession.

Ran the Works
In 1903 Wheeler died. In those days, few women worked. But Mrs. Wheeler decided to carry on. She stayed, not as a figurehead, but as the editor and publisher. She ran the works.

During her regime, The Herald became a member of the Associated Press. It was costly, and rather daring for a small paper. For many years Mrs. Wheeler was the only woman in Texas who held a membership in the Associated Press.

Earlier, she had brought the first leased wire telegraph news to the Valley. She installed the first typesetting machine south of Houston. In 1910 she brought the first press to South Texas that used newsprint rolls. (It was an old Duplex flat-bed, and a plant in New York State still uses it.)

She continued to modernize, improve the paper, write editorials that were so good in 1914 a New York publisher, the late Jason Rogers, listed The Herald as one of the 400 most influential papers in the United States.

The Herald's Valley leadership was challenged several times. She met, and defeated, the challengers. The paper grew and prospered.

Mrs. Wheeler bowed out of the newspaper field in 1924 mainly because of her health. She sold The Herald to the late J. M. Stein, and immediately satisfied a life-long desire—to travel.

She traveled extensively but always came home—to Brownsville. She had to see—and help—it grow. The Herald, after changing hands several times, today is owned by Leo E. Owens. But Mrs. Jesse O. Wheeler, the frail little woman who helped found The Herald, gets her name in the paper more frequently than the publisher.

Cowboys Down In Valley Go For Polo In Big Way

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

Cowboys used to be content to swing a rope, cut down in the Lower Rio Grande Valley they swing polo mallets now.

It's a lot of fun, the cowboys say, and it's good publicity for the valley. "The valley has all the citrus and cabbage it can use," says Charles M. Kindley of Harlingen. "What we need now is a year-round drawing card, like polo."

Bill Freeman of the San Antonio Evening News says it's a fast growing sport. Harlemen get together and talk about their animals, and then enjoy playing polo. Ten years ago polo was popular in the area. Fort Brown, now abandoned as an army center, had a top ranking team. Colonel "Jingle" Wilson was one of the best players ever to straddle a pony.

Kindley, superintendent of street repairs at Harlingen, hopes that polo will develop other similar sports, such as riding and sulky driving.

Before he came to the valley 13 years ago, Kindley managed and coached polo teams at Tulsa, Okla., and Wichita, Kans., and managed a tournament team at Augusta, Ga. He persuaded a group of valley stockmen and riders to participate in Sunday games near Harlingen, to get the ball rolling.

The novices showed up for their first game wearing broad Stetsons, cowboy boots and riding in stock saddles.

They swung at the air that first day, but with coaching by Kindley and William Soothoff of Long Island, N. Y., a winter visitor, they soon began to show improvement. Some are even switching to the regulation flat saddle, which is a real concession for a cowboy to make.

"We want a low-goal set-up that will interest sportsmen who can afford the game but who don't want to compete in strenuous tournament play," Kindley said.

It may even develop further, and offer polo to those who can't afford the rich man's hobby.

New Village Grows In

MAAYANOTH, Palestine—(NEA)—In strife-ridden Palestine a new village was born here—quite peacefully. The night before, the Arabs in a tiny nearby village were alone on the quiet, mountain-ringed plain near the border junction of Palestine, Lebanon and Syria, in Upper Galilee. By dawn the first trucks and men had crossed the mountains and were streaming into the plain. Tractors followed trucks. More men and women poured into the plain. A few—only about 30 in all—would stay; the rest would return to their homes when the village was finished. Before the sun had begun to heat the plain, the first foundation stones had been laid, the first buildings were going up. Despite the peacefulness of the plain, men began stringing a barbed wire fence around the village site. Startled Arabs from the nearby village looked on in wonder, then came to pay their polite respects, to offer coffee brewed over an open fire. The leaders of the new village paused in their work long enough to drink coffee-toasts to the success of the new community. The rest of the men and women kept working. This is the story of Maayanoth.

Strife-Torn Palestine

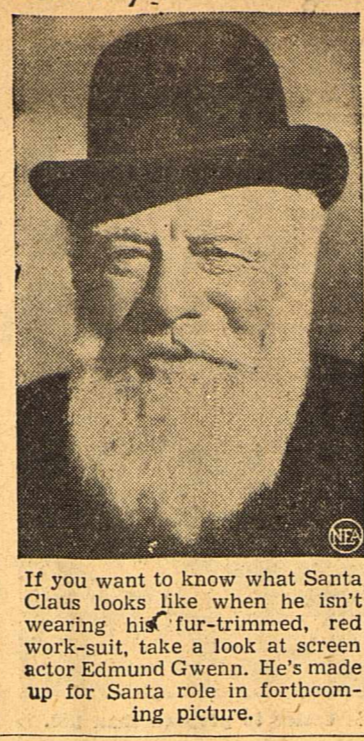

In a larger sense it is the story of the expansion of the Zionist movement from its centers at Jerusalem and Tel Aviv throughout Palestine. The land and the spring from which the village got its name had been purchased some time before by the Jewish National Fund. Despite the apparent suddenness of its birth, Maayanoth had been conceived years ago. Most of the "halutzim" (pioneers) who will live at Maayanoth are South African ex-servicemen. The rest are Palestinians and Americans. The nucleus of the group was formed during the war by men in the South African 6th Division, sometimes called the Zion Div, during the fighting in Egypt. They called themselves Halutzim Hayalim" (Soldier Pioneers). Study Agriculture. After the war's end and demobilization, the members began drifting into Palestine to begin training at Kfar Giladi, to study agriculture and to make their plans. In Kfar Giladi they prefabricated the barracks and other buildings they would need first at Maayanoth. Men and women from Kfar Giladi, ex-American GIs now students at the University of Jerusalem and members of Zionist Youth Groups joined the volunteers to hurry the building of the new village.

Reporters Who Try To Keep Up With Truman Get Very Little Sleep

By ERNEST B. VACCARO AP Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—A White House reporter's principal need is a strong constitution, coupled with insomnia and a distaste for family life. His assignment carries him many thousands of miles a year, to gay modern cities or to places steeped in history. What he sees most, however, are telegraph offices, hotel rooms and bellboys. His wife spends her time worrying or wondering. The Washington correspondent covering the President may have the finest of beds, but no time in which to sleep in them; the finest of food, with no opportunity to enjoy it; educational sights within walking distance, and no chance to cross the street. Goes With President. I've traveled many thousands of miles with Harry S. Truman during his two years in the presidency and during his 1944 campaign for the vice-presidency. We've rolled by train across the continent. We moved to and from Europe by cruiser and by smaller ship to Bermuda and back. There have been flying trips to Kansas City, to Key West, to San Francisco and a dozen other places. I've seen a lot of water, a lot of sky and a lot of wreckage. I've seen a lot of the President. The places I've been, however, are hazy memories of whizzing past buildings, of speeches in banquet halls, stadiums and other meeting places—of sleepless nights, of checking in at airports in the darkness of early dawn. The life of the White House correspondent, despite the whirl that carries him to colorful datelines for his copy, is not all ambrosia! Yet, the "good trips," as the correspondents call them, wipe out memories of the bad. Take Bermuda. There, the correspondents like to recall, they lived "high up on the hog." It was last summer. Huddled in a crowded cabin on a destroyer escort, their sea jackets and heavy overcoats ready for the worst, they headed for New England waters with President Truman. Followed Yacht. They were following the presidential yacht, the U.S.S. Williamsburg. A few hours out of Quonset Point, R. I., they learned the ship's course had been reversed. A couple of days later they were relaxing at Bermuda. Mr. Truman had turned there when the seas got rough. For a week the reporters had little to do but bask in the sunshine, enjoy the naval base bar and roam around Hamilton, doing a little fishing and swimming in between. The present trip to Mexico City, however, was a nightmare for the White House press. Everybody loved the city, but nobody saw it. President Truman, always an early riser, moved about from dawn's early light until it was bedtime for even the more hardy stay-ups for three action-packed days. The fourth day the President departed in his plane, the "Sacred Cow," for the United States. Everybody had to get up at 4 a.m. They had left Washington five days before at 6 a.m., after attending the annual dinner of the White House Correspondents Association. The second day, after covering Mr. Truman's visit with his mother at Grandview, Mo., they had taken off from Kansas City at 2 a.m.

At Least World Now Knows Aims Of U. S. Policy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

MOSCOW — (AP) — The United States came out of the Moscow conference with the most clearly defined European policy it has ever had. Within the American delegation led by Secretary of State George C. Marshall there was hope that this policy, embracing a half dozen major points, would rally support from non-Communist peoples all over Europe. From this point, the United States appears to have made its greatest bid for European leadership in the post-war years. Here are the main points of the policy, as developed both inside and outside the conference: 1. The declaration of President Truman on aid to Greece and Turkey. Although the Soviets assailed this as American imperialism, American, British, French and some small nation diplomats here said it proved the seriousness of American intentions in relation to Communism and, above all, the willingness of the United States to act as well as talk. Want Compact Europe. 2. The right of international use of resources, such as those of the Ruhr and Silesia, which are basic to European economy. Marshall several times advocated giving a European economic commission the task of working toward that objective with the purpose of making Europe more of an economic whole. 3. The declaration by Marshall on the Big Four treaty. While the original draft of his statement in the sixth week of the conference was toned down to avoid offense to Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, he virtually said flatly that the United States intended to keep its hand in the control of Germany for many years, with or without a Big Four treaty. 4. The definition of democracy. Marshall's statement during the German political discussions put the United States on record in favor of a democracy of individual freedom which many of his advisers regard as one of the central issues in the conflict between Russia and America. 5. Repeated and largely successful American attempts to woo French support. The United States wants France clearly in the Western group of nations during the conflict with Russia and directed its attitude regarding the Saar, German coal and some other issues to that end. 6. The development of the whole German policy away from demilitarization to emphasis on rebuilding a peaceful Germany, unburdened by heavy reparations and able to support itself while making goods for all Europe. After plucking stray hairs, touch a few drops of antiseptic to the brows with your finger tips. Man's sense of hearing is as good as that of animals and better in some ranges, according to tests.

Electronics Help Bleach Textiles With Peroxide

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)— Developments of new electronic controlling devices, operating with radio tubes and other new equipment, have made it possible, according to engineers of Brown Instrument Company, to make wide use of peroxide as a textile bleaching agent. Moreover, they continue, the use of peroxide in the accurately controlled bleaching process assures that all bleached textiles will stay white—not yellow at the folds—regardless of the time they are piled on store or closet shelves. The electronic devices control each of many steps in a continuous system in which temperature and humidity are held within fractions of a degree of absolute accuracy.

New Rhubarb Treat Replaces Pie

Baked rhubarb with lattice top is easier to prepare than pie.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Here's a rhubarb treat easier to prepare than pie and just as good. Make it in one of the new square heat-resistant glass dishes. The acid of the rhubarb will not stain the dish.

Sugar-saving hint—pour boiling water on the rhubarb before cooking. That diminishes the amount of oxalic acid in the fruit, decreasing the quantity of sugar needed. Baked Rhubarb with Lattice Top

Three cups boiling water, 4 cups diced rhubarb, 3/4 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 1/4 cup orange juice.

Topping: 1 1/4 cups sifted flour, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1/4 cup shortening, 1 egg, well beaten, 1/3 cup milk.

Pour boiling water on rhubarb and let stand for about 5 minutes. Drain rhubarb and place in heat-resistant glass eight-inch square baking dish. Mix 3/4 cup sugar and three tablespoons flour; sprinkle evenly on rhubarb. Pour on orange juice.

Topping: Sift 1 1/4 cups sifted

SHREVEPORT—(AP)—It's worth $300 to be forced to wear an old soiled suit to your own wedding in Shreveport.

A Caddo Parish jury awarded Thomas J. Mitchell that sum because a laundry failed to return his suit on time for the ceremonies. Further, the jury held, Mitchell is entitled to get $27.50 to reimburse him for the cost of the suit lost by the laundry.

There's No Two Ways About It, Greece Is Down

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP)—This country in planning to give aid to Greece to stop the spread of Communism, begins a new foreign policy.

No one knows how many other countries we may have to help in the same way, or whether all this will lead to war with Russia.

So what we do in and for Greece may change the course of history. For that reason, what we do about Greece involves you.

But what do you know about the Greek problem except perhaps something vague like this: There's a lot of poverty there and the Greek government is having trouble with the Greek Communists?

Two studies on Greece—on what is happening there, and why—have been made public this week.

One is a report by a special economic commission, headed by Paul Porter, which this government sent to Greece to investigate.

The other is a book—"The Greek Dilemma: War and Aftermath"—written by William Harry McNeil, and published by J. B. Lippincott. McNeil, a major in the war, was in Greece as assistant military attaché from November, 1944 to June, 1946.

Porter's commission made its concentrated investigation of Greece from January 18 to March 22, 1947. The commission's report tells a pretty sad story of the Greek people at this time, politically and economically.

In short, it says the Greek people, drenched in poverty and politics, feel hopeless about getting back on their feet by themselves.

The Porter commission's report runs about 60 pages, a sorrowful picture of a people chopped to pieces by war.

And in the end Porter's commission suggests the Greeks will have to have help from other countries for perhaps five years.

But that report doesn't go much into the background or history of the present troubles there. McNeil's book does, in 281 pages.

It's a good book to read if you

RAPE SENTENCE UPHELD

AUSTIN—(AP)—A 10-year imprisonment sentence given C. C. Jones, alias Jack Jones, by a Potter County trial court on a charge of rape of a 15-year-old girl March 15, 1946, was affirmed recently by the Court of Criminal Appeals. The offense occurred on a country road near Amarillo, court records showed.
