Commodities Instead Of Dollars May Form Relief Program For West Europe

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Bi-partisan support appeared to be forming among lawmakers Saturday to fix in material terms of available bushels of wheat and other commodities—rather than in dollars—any emergency aid to Europe.

President Truman will lay his $597,000,000 program for stop-gap relief for France, Italy and Austria before the opening session of Congress Monday, along with suggested means of halting the rise in the cost of living at home.

He is to appear in person, at a joint session of the Senate and House, at 12:30 p. m. (CST) and his message will be broadcast to the nation. He spent a considerable part of Saturday writing it.

Truman, in his stopgap aid message, also is expected to outline at least the broad aspects of a long-range European recovery program which Secretary of State Marshall has estimated will cost from $16,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 in the next four years.

Details on this are expected to be forthcoming in a separate message to be submitted later to the special session, although the Administration apparently has no hope of action on the long range program until next year.

Lawmakers Gulp

Several lawmakers gulped at the size of Marshall's figures and some from both parties said they think it may be much wiser for the United States to let Europe know in terms of specific commodities, such as wheat, coal, oil, fertilizer and machinery what it reasonably can expect to receive.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) told a reporter he hopes Congress will be furnished with concrete figures on the available supply of such commodities before it makes any specific promises of aid.

"Telling them we are going to appropriate a certain number of dollars doesn't mean anything, unless, for instance, the wheat is available," he declared. "We can't give them wheat that doesn't exist and we can't send so much abroad that we bring about wild inflation at home that will destroy our economy."

Connolly Approves

Senator Connolly (D-Texas) already has suggested that both stopgap and long range assistance be conditioned on American supplies and needs. He said the United States ought not to mislead the European countries into thinking they are going to be given a check for any specific amount.

He and chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are expected to work together in drafting a statement which would make it clear that aid will be contingent on American resources.

Vandenberg made no predictions on the timing of final action but the Senate Republican Policy Committee already has agreed on a schedule calling for Senate adoption of the stopgap measure beginning November 24. Marshall has suggested the bill should be passed by November 3.

President Truman's recommendations on anti-inflation questions also have been promised speedy action. Taft said the Senate House Economic Committee probably will begin hearings next week on these proposals.

Warm-Hearted Texans Give Tons Of Food

By The Associated Press

Warm-hearted Texans responded generously to pleas for food for hungry Europe and Monday and Tuesday the Southwest friendship train will leave Fort Worth bulging with dried and canned edibles.

Scores of cities contributed, and it has been predicted the total Texas donations might fill 20 freight cars. Railroads are moving them free of charge.

A complete list of cities contributing has not been compiled, but includes Dallas, Lubbock, Big Spring, Andrews, Crane, Midland, Brownfield, Wichita Falls, Houston, San Antonio, Odessa, Fort Worth, and Waco.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester contributed a case of blackeyed peas.

Lions Club Pays Off Midland Hospital Pledge

James L. Daugherty, left, president of the Midland Lions Club, presents a check for $1,043 to M. C. Ulmer, general chairman of the Midland Memorial Hospital building fund campaign, at the organization's recent meeting. The check represented the final payment on the Lions Club's pledge of $7,500 to the fund to erect and equip a modern, four-story, 75-bed general hospital here. In accepting the check, Ulmer commended the Lions and said "We have faith in the successful conclusion of our drive when such acts as this are performed."

Pastor Claims He Received Injuries At Baptist Meeting

PORT WORTH—(AP)—Rev. William Fraser, who was carried from the floor of the Texas Baptist General Convention in Amarillo when he challenged a speaker, was admitted to Methodist Hospital here Saturday for medical observation.

He said his chest was bruised and his doctor had told him he was "badly ruptured."

Fraser, a pastor on the staff of the Baptist Bible Seminary here, said he was injured when he was dragged over a railing at the Amarillo convention last Wednesday. He is not a member of the Texas Baptist Convention.

Tells His Story

"One fellow made a lunge at me while another put a lock on me. A fellow who looked like he weighed 250 pounds put his knee on my chest as they pinned me to the floor," he said at the hospital.

"I didn't feel any immediate effects," he said, "but the next day I felt a pain, oh boy!"

Fraser, connected with Dr. J. Frank Norris' Fundamentalist Church, was ousted from the convention hall when he tried to interrupt the speech by Dr. Louis Newton, Atlanta, president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Five Persons Are Killed In Italian City

By The Associated Press

Disorders spread Saturday in Italy and France, torn by a struggle between left and right, and in one Italian city five persons were reported killed as a mob seized the public square.

The deaths occurred in Cerignola, Southeast Italy. Italy's Interior Ministry quoted reports that demonstrators with machineguns and hand grenades attacked the police barracks, wounding three defenders.

The Cerignola fatalities brought to 10 the number killed in Italy in the last week. The Communist-led Italian General Confederation of Labor, reporting public concern over a rebirth of Fascism, Saturday night demanded suppression of Fascist groups and publications.

Hughes Asks Public Airing Of Evidence

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Howard Hughes demanded Saturday that Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) withdraw what Hughes called an "implied challenge" that there was fraud and corruption in the millionaire plane-maker's wartime contracts.

Evidence still locked within the files of the Senate War Investigating Committee, Hughes said, will prove he "was telling the truth" in denying he took part in anything crooked.

His outburst came as the committee ended its public hearings on the $400,000 Hughes contracts.

Promises Public Airing

Ferguson, chairman of a War Investigating Subcommittee which has been looking into Hughes' contracts for photo planes for the Air Force and for a huge flying boat, denied that he or other senators had reached any conclusions in the case.

The senator also promised Hughes that all evidence in the committee's files will get a public airing next week.

Hughes declared he and his company officials had "been forced" by Ferguson to testify about what they described as attempts of Major Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, retired Air Force purchasing official, to get jobs and borrow thousands of dollars from Hughes during plane contract negotiations.

T. W. Parisher, Pioneer Rancher, Dies In Midland

Thomas William Parisher, 72, pioneer Midland rancher, died at 9:15 p. m. Friday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. E. W. Watlington, 1609 Golf Course Drive, here.

He came to Midland in 1913 and had engaged in the ranching business in the Midland territory since then. Parisher was born March 4, 1875, in Bell County, Texas, and was married to Miss Viola Sawyer at San Saba, December 22, 1900. Mrs. Parisher died several years ago.

Burial At San Saba

Funeral services were held at 4 p. m. Saturday in the Ellis Funeral Home Chapel, with J. Woody Holden, evangelist of the North Side Church of Christ, officiating. Immediately following the services here, the body was taken to San Saba where burial services are scheduled at 4 p. m. Sunday.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Watlington of Midland and Mrs. Carl Woods of Oakville, Texas; a grandson, Garhold Woods of Oakville; two great-grandchildren, Mary Frances and Sheroid Woods of Oakville; two brothers, Arch Parisher of Clyde, and Bert Parisher of Cherokee, Texas; three sisters, Mrs. Dolly Whitit of Clyde, Mrs. Bill Bartley of San Saba and Mrs. Emmett Watson of Cherokee.

Another Royal Romance Hinted As Mihai Arrives

LONDON — (AP)— Bachelor King Mihai of Romania flew into London Saturday—among the first of the royal guests for Princess Elizabeth's wedding next week, but a diplomatic and romantic puzzle in his own right.

The 26-year-old monarch, the only king with a crown within the European nations neighboring Russia, arrived in his own small two-engine plane with Queen Helen, his mother, and the Duchess of Aosta, the former Princess Irene of Greece.

But even before their arrival, the British—who love a royal romance just as much as a mystery with a monarch in the key role—were wondering whether Mihai has come for purposes other than attending the wedding.

The question was whether Mihai had come in the role of Prince charming to woo Elizabeth's younger sister, the attractive Princess Margaret who is 17.

Mihai dined at Buckingham Palace Saturday night.

Bandit Robs Liquor Store Three Times

HOUSTON — (AP)— Mrs. Thelma May, 36-year-old Houston liquor clerk, Saturday received her third visit within a week from a red-haired bandit.

The man appeared at the store Tuesday and, after brandishing a gun, took $91. A day later, his visit netted him $34.

Saturday it was $36—even though Mrs. May had had her hours changed in a hope she would not be on duty should the man return. She quoted the man as saying: "Well, I'm back again. This is the last time I'll bother you for I'm leaving for California and won't be back." As he departed he wished her "good luck."

Republican Chairman Urges Cooperation

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Carroll Reece, Republican Chairman, called for two-way cooperation between the White House and the capitol Saturday night.

"I believe that we should cooperate with a Republican Congress when it is right."

The Republican Party leader declared Congress should support the President if he proposes "an effective cure" for inflation, but should resist "further New Deal nonsense, dished up by radical and subversive advisers."

Catholic Bishops Blame Secularism

WASHINGTON — (AP)— The Roman Catholic bishops of the U. S. Saturday night blamed secularism—"The practical exclusion of God from human thinking and living"—for the basic personal, social and political problems of the postwar world. They said it must share the responsibility with Communism for "what is perhaps the greatest crisis in all history."

Lat-Hartley Labor Law Rerail Is Urged

CLEVELAND — (AP)— Immediate repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law was advocated Saturday by Young Democrats of the nation at the closing session of their annual convention here.

A resolution favoring that stand was passed by a voice vote.

Delegates, after a heated verbal battle, turned down a resolution which would have endorsed federal legislation retaining ownership of tidelands by the states.

Three Persons Die In New Mexico Accident

CARLSBAD, N. M. — (AP)— Three New Mexico residents were killed near here Friday night in a school bus-truck collision.

Carlsbad police said the dead were Sam Lewis and Clara McAllen, Artesia, N. M., students who were on the bus, and Mrs. Jesse Sanders, Dexter, N. M., wife of the truck driver.

Hospital Described As One Of Greatest Institutions

"Churches administer to the comfort of the soul; hospitals to the relief of the body. They are our two greatest institutions, one resting upon the faith of the world and the other upon the charity of the world. A gift to either is commendable," writes Austin Callan in the San Angelo Standard-Times.

The writer, commenting upon the recent gift of $50,000 by Roy Hudspeth, West Texas rancher, to establish a hospital in Sonora, said the handsome check to establish such an institution speaks louder and clearer than all the words he might utter.

"I would hate to live beyond the sound of either a church bell or an ambulance siren. They are fruits of civilization in full and glorious flower," Callan said. "They are blessings waited down from the Great White Throne of God. Without the sacred belief that lights their aisles pagan religion would be as sweet as any other."

Gift Is Praised
"Hudspeth's gift," he continued, "will make it more comfortable for West Texas people suffering from all ailments. It will help provide an oasis for the fevered brow. It will enable folks to get well by the patient aid of trained nurses. It is a splendid recognition of one of the most essential things in our civilization. It is a temporary home for the sick and suffering lighted by love."

"It is a shade tree in the midst of a desert; a sweet green field where prettiest flowers grow. The pains of the world are eased within its walls; life is saved by the skill of surgeons and the gentle care of white-clad nurses of mercy. Gifts to such an institution are valuable indeed . . ."

More Durable Goods Purchased In Texas

AUSTIN—(P)—Texas retailers enjoyed a 15 per cent September to October increase of durable goods. The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported Saturday.

Only fractional sales increases were reported, however, by nondurable goods dealers.

The bureau said mounting food costs claimed "incredible amounts" of the householder's dollar during early Autumn, but there were a few favorable indicators for the immediate outlook.

They answer the cry of humanity in distress."

Midland Seeks Funds
Midland is in the midst of a financial campaign to obtain funds to erect and equip a modern 75-bed general hospital to serve citizens of Midland and the Permian Basin area.

Gifts to Midland Memorial Hospital surely may be considered gifts of humanity in distress. It is the duty and obligation of every citizen to give serious consideration to the need of additional hospital facilities and then to give according to their means and to the dictates of their hearts.

"If you are proud of your gift to Midland Memorial Hospital, then you have given enough."

U. N. Assembly May Meet In Europe

NEW YORK—(P)—The United Nations Assembly voted Saturday to hold its 1948 meeting somewhere in Europe but the decision was subject to final review when the next year's budget is considered.

Geneva, Paris and Brussels have been mentioned as possible meeting sites.

JayCee International Favored By Sheppard

ABERDEEN, S. D.—(P)—John Pen Sheppard, national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of the United States Saturday recommended that the U. S. organization be dissolved and an effort be extended to form a Junior Chamber of Commerce International.

Texas National Guard Officers Assured Help Of City Groups

Midland officers of the Texas National Guard 474th Field Artillery Battalion, under the command of Lt. Col. Fay Coll, met with representatives of various civic clubs, service organizations, and the schools in the courthouse Friday night to discuss ways and means of increasing strength of the unit here as quickly as possible in order to meet requirements for federal recognition.

The representatives assured Colonel Coll and the other officers making up the guard nucleus they are confident their organizations will heartily support an active guard unit. Numerous advantages of membership were cited, including opportunities for valuable educational benefits, enjoyment of competitive activities such as rifle and pistol shooting, as well as participation in an exceedingly interesting and worthwhile means of guaranteeing the state and nation a well-trained backlog of military personnel.

Arrangements have been made for the battalion to use facilities at No. 2 Airfield, and Colonel Coll reported that as soon as strength is brought up to specifications, equipment will be issued for training purposes.

Membership in the battalion will mean a handy addition to enlistees' income, he noted, since each weekly two-hour meeting entitles members to a full day's Army pay according to rating.

Texas Oil Roundup Chapman Says Government Should Not Produce Oil

By MAX B. SKELTON Associated Press Staff Writer

Oscar L. Chapman, under secretary of the interior, in addressing the Chicago convention of the American Petroleum Institute was concerned primarily with the subject of the nation's fuel needs and demands for government controls but he included a remark that appears significant in the battle over the federal government's status in the control of submerged tide-lands. Chapman said: "The government does not produce oil or make or distribute products, nor should it."

There was no mention of the tide-lands question but it is interesting to note such a comment coming from a Department of Interior spokesman. Chapman made his remark while predicting the oil industry will be unable to meet the nation's fuel needs this winter and that demands for government control will return. Chapman said, he is opposed to government controls. "As a matter of policy and on the grounds of practicality."

He came from Wichita Falls where he had been with Standard Oil Company of Texas, since his release from the navy. Prior to the war Linehan was in the Midland office of Stanotex.

—Miss Holly Smith and Hugh Puckett have resigned from the Superior geological staff. Miss Smith is to be married soon to Kenneth Anderson, of Skelly Oil Company's Midland office. Puckett has joined the Lion Oil Company's district geological staff in Midland.

—William H. Carter, of Lubbock, who recently won his master's degree in geology at the University of California, is a new man in the Permian Basin district office of the Cooperative Refinery Association in Midland, of which A. E. (Ed) Pettie is district manager.

—Carter worked for Magnolia Petroleum Company before going into the navy during the war. He was released from that service as a lieutenant.

—Bruce Ganek and John Nicholson are recent additions to the Standard Oil Company of Texas geological organization in Midland. WEST TEXAS OIL MEN ARE NAMED AS IPAA OFFICIALS

—Three Midland men have been named to official positions in the Independent Petroleum Association of America for the current year, according to announcement Saturday by Merle Becker, of Saint Louis, president of that organization. —J. E. (Ed) Warren, oil operator and drilling contractor is a member of the association's executive committee. O. C. Harper and Fred Turner, Jr., independent operators, are members of the board of directors. Bruce McCandles of San Antonio is also listed as an IPAA director.

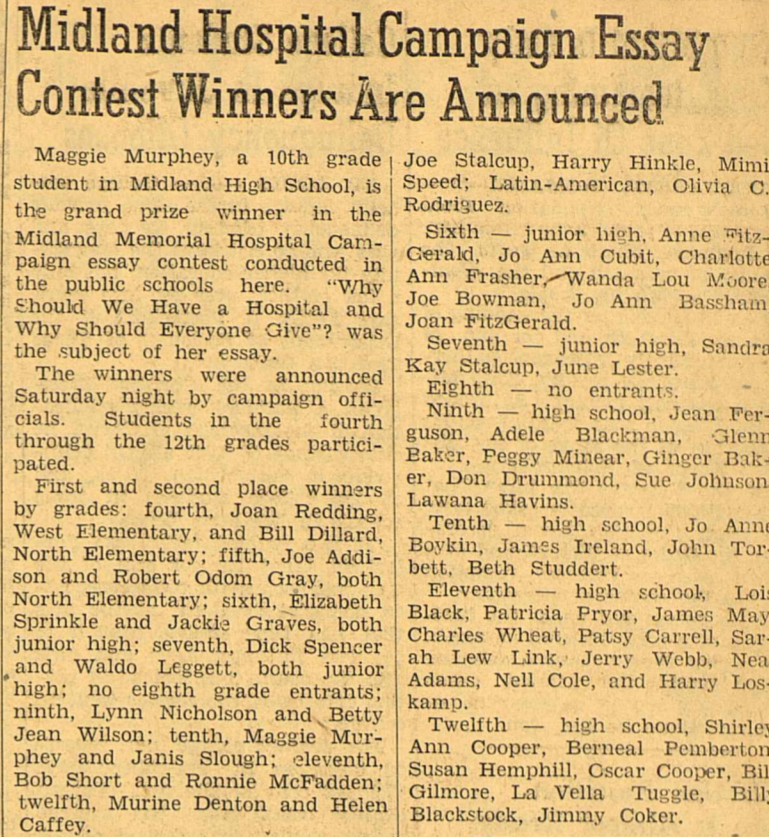

RPC EXECUTIVES EXPLAIN TANK CLEANING RULES

—In order to clarify confusion which exists in the minds of some oil operators, regarding the amount of oil charged against allowables, from petroleum recovered under tank cleaning permits, Joe James A. Greer, district supervisor, of the James A. Greer district engineer, respectively, of the Midland office of the oil and gas division of the Railroad Commission, issued the following explanation Saturday, on that matter: —1. Lease Tanks: The chargeable oil is the contents of the tank above the pipe line connection, plus the free oil between the tank bottom and pipe line connections, plus the amount of oil in the tank bottom. The amount of oil in the tank bottom is determined by a standard centrifugal test, the tubes being filled with a mixture of 50 per cent of the sample to be tested and 50 per cent of gasoline, or other solvent. If a portion of the chargeable oil is to be transferred to another tank and not disposed of other than to the regular pipe line outlet a notation should be made on the Form ESA. The commission will subtract this amount from the gross oil chargeable in determining the net charge back against the lease.

—For example, if a tank having a pipe line connection 10 inches high, contained 12 inches, of which six inches was free oil and six inches of tank bottom containing 50 per cent B. S. and W. and 50 per cent oil, there would be a total of nine inches of chargeable oil in the tank. If the same tank contained no free oil but 12 inches of tank bottom containing 50 per cent B. S. and W. and 50 per cent oil, the chargeable oil would be the two inches above the pipe line connection, plus half the remainder, or a total of seven inches. —2. Pipe Line and Refinery Tanks: The chargeable oil is the free oil above the tank bottom plus the amount of oil in the tank bottom. The amount of oil in the tank bottom is determined by a standard centrifugal test, the tubes being filled with a mixture of 50 per cent of the sample to be tested and 50 per cent of gasoline or other solvent, and heated to 120 degrees Fahrenheit. If a portion of the chargeable oil is to be transferred to another tank and not disposed of other than by regular deliveries a notation should be made on the Form ESA. The commission will subtract this amount from the gross oil chargeable in determining the net charge back against the lease. —3. General: Samples should be taken from as many places as are available on the tank by means of a thief so constructed as to accurately show a true vertical section of the tank bottom. A composite sample may be made up of all the samples taken and used for the centrifugal test. —In event an operator is found to be cleaning a tank without having first obtained a permit from the commission the gross contents of the tank will be charged back against the lease allowable or tenderable balance.

King Mihai Is Only King Remaining In Red Zone Of Influence

BUCHAREST, ROMANIA—(AP)—There is much speculation about the status of young King Mihai here in Romania, where he wears the dignity of monarch and the Communists govern his people. Now in London for the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and for one of the increasingly infrequent gatherings of European royalty, King Mihai is the only monarch enthroned in the Russian zone of influence. He is the last of the rulers of the ill-fated House of Hohenzollern. Do the Russians like him? That is a question frequently asked here. He wears the high Soviet decoration, the Order of Victory, and at a recent Russian embassy reception he was the center of attraction. He is young and under the limitations of a constitutional monarch, but he has fought many a delaying action against the present Communist-dominated government—and sometimes he has won.

College Students Indulge In Juvenile Delinquency Offenses

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—College students indulge in the same juvenile delinquency offenses as boys and girls who do not have the opportunity for higher education, but only a few of them ever get into court, says Austin L. Porterfield of the Department of Sociology of Texas Christian University. Writing in the Christian-Evangelist, a national weekly publication of the Disciples of Christ, he cites a study of 2,049 alleged delinquents in Fort Worth, Texas, and of 377 college students in three schools in Northern Texas. "It is a striking fact," says Porterfield, "that 100 per cent of the men and women in college reported doing at least one of the acts that had been serious enough to get less fortunate boys and girls into the courts, but instead of getting into court the former went to college." The average college man reported doing in his pre-college days 17.6 per cent of the acts charged against court cases, the average college woman 4.7 per cent of the delinquent acts. Acknowledge Acts Not one acknowledged less than three kinds of delinquent acts. Specific juvenile offenses which got into the court records varied all the way from shooting spit-wads to murder. Students, answering questionnaires anonymously, freely reported delinquencies. "A well-adjusted ministerial student said he had indulged in 28 of the 55 listed offenses," Porterfield said. "A successful pastor, also a student, reported committing 26 of the delinquencies." "Moreover, the college students' delinquencies, though probably not as frequently indulged, were as serious as those of children brought into court." Offenses Listed These students in their pre-college days "disturbed church, turned in false fire alarms, tripped trolleys, threw rocks at cars, set off fireworks in public buildings, drove while intoxicated, stole automobiles, bicycles, money, shoplifted, burglarized houses, forged checks, gambled, passed slugs and bad coins, had premarital sexual intimacies, attempted rape, and so on." Thirty-nine per cent of the men and three per cent of the girls reported drunkenness before enrolling in college, Porterfield disclosed, and 43 per cent of the men indulged in drunkenness during their college days. One in 10 reported shoplifting before college, and one in 20 after entering college.

Midland Students Tell Of Hospital Needs Of Area

Quotes from winners and finalists in the Midland Memorial Hospital Campaign essay contest conducted in Midland schools: "Midland needs a hospital because people look for a town with good hospitals. People in small towns around Midland would come here instead of going to large cities like Fort Worth, Dallas and Lubbock. People coming here would help the business in Midland, and Midland's people would not go away for a hospital and take business out of Midland."

Bill Dillard, 2nd place winner, 4th grade, North Elementary. "A people's hospital for Midland would enable Midland to train nurses, not only for Midland, but for our own county. In case of a national emergency, Midland would see. Many of Midland's young women. Many of Midland's young women could become nurses without leaving Midland."

Mary Helen O. Moreno, finalist, 1st, 4th grade, Latin American School. "We have the most beautiful town in West Texas; we have the most beautiful homes in West Texas; we have the best schools in West Texas; we have the finest cows in West Texas. Surely we need a comfortable hospital when the finest people get sick."

Caroyn Leggett, finalist, 4th grade, North Elementary. "A group of men and women who have seen into the future have made plans by which we can all share in the building of a fine hospital for our city. They have seen that the doctors should not have to bear the whole load of providing a place to care for the sick... because of this we should all give to the Midland Memorial Hospital."

Joe Addison Young, 1st place winner, 5th grade, North Elementary. "What would happen to the life and health of Midland's people if she were struck by an epidemic or a tornado? Would Midland say, 'Too little, too late'?" Olivia C. Rodriguez, finalist, 5th grade, Latin American School. "We need a hospital to take care of the people who work in oil fields throughout a territory extending approximately 150 miles in every direction. This work is dangerous and accidents occur, our large oil companies are forced to fly their serious accident victims to other towns."

Janice Joy Stalcup, finalist, 5th grade, North Elementary. "Some people won't give money to the hospital because they say, 'Oh, well, I'm not sick. I don't need a hospital.' But don't feel like that. Because you may be the very first one to need a hospital. We need the money, now, because you may need the hospital later."

Shirley Ann Henderson, finalist, 5th grade, West Elementary. "The necessity for a hospital in our community is great. We need a space for our iron lung, which is in the museum being exhibited like a white elephant in the zoo." Elizabeth Sprinkle, first place winner, 6th grade, Junior High. "Midland needs a hospital before it will be the city that we want it to be. It has many expert ranchers and oilmen who spare no expense for future progress of this city, so we should build an adequate hospital to furnish a way for our doctors to make sick people well."

Anne Fitzgerald, finalist, 6th grade, Junior High. "Every family has insurance of some kind. A donation to the Midland Memorial Hospital fund will be your insurance for the future health of your family." Joan Fitzgerald, finalist, 6th grade, Junior High.

MISSING CHILD IS LOCATED IN FLORIDA MIAMI, FLA. — (AP) — A child who disappeared last June 10 from a tourist court at Galveston has been located in a children's home in Miami, the FBI said Saturday. C. H. Carson, agent in charge of the Miami FBI office, said a warrant charging kidnaping had been filed against Mrs. Mildred Ashline, aunt of the child, Bernice Henry. She has not been arrested. The FBI described the case as one of "kidnaping within a family."

WACO CITIZENS HOPE TO END LABOR PROBLEM WACO—(AP)—Mayor Richard C. Bush said Saturday he believed Waco was the state's first city to appoint a Labor-Management-Citizens Committee patterned after a similar undertaking in Toledo, Ohio. A warrant charging kidnaping had been filed against Mrs. Mildred Ashline, aunt of the child, Bernice Henry. She has not been arrested. The FBI described the case as one of "kidnaping within a family."

MARTIN LEE YOUNT DIES AT SOUR LAKE BEAUMONT — (AP) — Martin Lee Yount, 78-year-old financier and oil field supply man, died Saturday at his home in Sour Lake near here. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon here with burial in Beaumont. PROFESSOR IS KILLED NORTH PLAINFIELD, N. J.—(AP)—George Grant MacCurdy, noted anthropologist and professor emeritus at Yale University, was injured fatally Saturday when he was struck by an automobile near here.

"We must have a big hospital. But it cannot just come up out of the ground from nothing. A hospital cannot grow without bricks and money any more than a baby can grow without food... so let's give generously and build a hospital for Midland."

Dick Spencer, 1st place winner, 7th grade, Junior High. "A general hospital in Midland would be helpful for diagnosis in early stages of diseases such as cancer, tuberculosis, heart disease thus saving lives."

Lynn Nicolson, first place winner, 9th grade, High School. "Open your pocketbooks, citizens of Midland, as well as your hearts, and give." Lawana Havins, finalist, 9th grade, Midland High School. "It is not the quality" of our present hospital facilities we are thinking of, it is the "quantity." Remember how much we do need a large, modern hospital before deciding what amount to give."

Don Drummond, finalist, 9th grade, High School. "Give until it hurts or it may hurt worse... don't be a Scotchman, give and give freely for your own health's sake." Glenn Baker, finalist, 9th grade, Midland High School. "I have seen Midland rise out of the soil of the plains with unbelievable speed. I have seen people come to Midland begging for a new chance at happiness, and I have seen them get it. Speaking in behalf of my fellow students, I think it would be wonderful to erect a memorial such as the Midland Memorial Hospital to the work, to the people and the city of Midland."

Bob Short, first place winner, 11th grade, High School. "It is a psychological fact that the mental condition of patients has much to do with their physical recovery. Therefore, if patients, could get hospital treatment in their home town, Midland, where family and friends could visit them frequently, it would, in many instances, contribute toward a speedier recovery."

Ronnie McPadden, second place winner, 11th grade, High School. "Midland needs a new hospital like it needs a fire station or a police force or any other kind of public service. Dig and dig deep in your pockets for a worthy and humane cause."

Harry Loskamp, finalist, 11th grade, High School. "The day before the burning of the La Salle Hotel in Chicago, many people did not dream that on the next day their lives would come to an end. What if it happened in Midland? Is it going to take a major disaster to arouse the citizens in Midland to answer the needs of a general hospital?" Helen Caffey, second place winner, 12th grade, High School.

Mrs. H. R. Mann Cites Need For Additional Hospital Facilities

Mrs. H. R. Mann of Midland expressed her faith in the ability of West Texans to do things "as well as anybody," when asked whether she thought a community hospital should be built in Midland.

"I know our doctors are as good as qualified physicians anywhere else," Mrs. Mann stated. "All they need is a community hospital with adequate facilities to work with."

"I was being taken care of just as well as possible when a friend recommended a specialist out of the city."

"I picked up my bag, took the time and trouble to go to another city for treatment. Sure enough this well-known specialist in the hospital in the other city, gave me exactly the same treatment and same medicine that my doctor in Midland had been giving me at the hospital here," Mrs. Mann said.

"I am convinced our doctors know what they are doing, but our trouble is we have not given them the facilities with which to work. Our present hospital is doing the best it can, but there isn't enough room. That is why I think our dependable doctors should be given every proper facility in the new, community hospital, and that is why I think the Midland Memorial Hospital campaign should be supported by every citizen in this community."

Lavish Paris Fall Fashions Shown

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS—(NEA)— Fall collections which rival record prewar lavishness owe much of their splendor to inspirations gleaned from the past. Undisturbed by reports that New York is asserting a claim to fashion leadership, Paris fashion czars are set to prove that dress-designing supremacy still stems from the "City of Light."

Fashions of past eras are revived by leading houses. Those of the Tartan ski shorts teamed with tartan turnbacks on heavy white hose were a Paris highlight.

1860's, for example, have inspired many of Christian Dior's models. His collection, said to have cost almost 8,000,000 francs, strike a high note of opulence with such embellishments as smoked diamond evers, pearl jewelry, tortoise-shell necklaces, clips, hair slides and heavy jewelry embroidery. Fur trimmings are also lavish. Dior's town coats often show a Cossack influence in full-swinging skirts and fur-banded hems.

Hats, importantly stressed in this collection, revive the dash of Prince Danilo's "Merry Widow" fame. Worn tilted over the right ear, these are shown with side-swept hair-do's.

Jacques Fath's suits are often reminiscent of 18th century pages' uniforms. Extravagant use of fur trimming on suits and coats and opulent embroidery on evening gowns reflect the new feeling for lavishness.

Fashions of the early 1900's are revived by Pierre Balmain. Typical of this era are high collars often edged with lace, forsaced pearl necklaces entwined in neckerchiefs which tie at the base of the throat. Also revived are wide trailing tulle scarfs, wrap-around barrel-shaped coats, deep fur collars.

One of the highlights of this collection is tartan ski shorts worn with a loose red wool sweater, heavy white wool hose with tartan turnbacks and a white lamb's wool jacket.

Paquin is another designer who dips freely into the past. He comes up with inspiration for profuse fur trimming and colorings favored by elegantes from the Naughty Nineties up to World War I.

Molyneux goes back to the 1920's for inspiration. Several of his ultra formal evening frocks include period gowns evocative of 16th century portraits. These feature billowing skirt fullness over the hips and deep pointed waist effects at the back and front, and are worn with looped pearl head-dresses draped over the brow.

Gay '90's flavor is evidenced in Maggy Rouff's collection by her use of graduated bands of velvet or deep hems of contrasting fabric, ball fringe trimming, dust ruffles and pleated or gathered berthas in both formal daytime and evening outfits. The swinging bell skirt is the leit-motif of all of this designer's daytime costumes except strictly functional sports togs.

Lucien Lelong's town coats are reminiscent of the 1920's with swinging skirts often banded in fur, cape collars and waist-long capes. In the main, however, this designer's silhouette is inspired by proud figureheads. Women dressed by Lelong this winter will literally trail clouds of glory behind them, as all fullness of decorative effects is massed back from a dipping waistline.

Schiaparelli foresees a winter wherein elegance will reign supreme down to the smallest detail. She revives the chemise frock and unfitted redingote often completed by double or triple-tiered capes. Evening gowns are of Directoire inspiration.

Jean Desses, who since the liberation has worked himself up to the big-name bracket and now dresses ladies of the Egyptian court, introduces styles reminiscent of the first 20 years of the century. Bustles, peplums, pegotop and barrel skirts, however, exhibit a definite 1947 air, thanks to subtleties of modern cut.

Jean Patou bridges the present transitory period of fashions with skirts that just cover the calves, restrained skirt fullness and shoulderlines that are still padded. Asymmetrical movement in trimmings and fastenings is a distinguishing characteristic of his collection.

MIDLAND CAREER WOMEN—

Mrs. Tom Butler: Her Blue Serge Is Always In Style At The Office

One career woman who doesn't worry about the change in fashions and what dress will look best around the office force is Mrs. Tom Butler, for her blue serge uniform, fashioned with the battle-jacket and gold buttons and offset by a tiny badge, is always in style in Midland. Mrs. Butler is clerk and radio dispatcher for the Midland Police Department—she is the one who, throughout each working day, is "calling all cars" to action.

course, she has many other jobs around the police station besides operating the police radio. She handles most of the general office work and the books, into which go records of all arrests made, charges, and the dates offenders are released.

Unusual Job

One may well understand, however, why the handling of the radio holds first place with her. It is an unusual job for a woman. Mrs. Butler had originally planned to be a nurse, having helped her doctor uncle at his office in Eastland, her home. She found this type of job not for her, however. Then she was employed by the Western Union several years in different cities in Texas.

Nothing can compare to the job she now holds, though. When something exciting happens, she is one of the first to know, and as for the people with whom she works—"they are certainly a nice bunch of fellas with a grand chief," Mrs. Butler declares, "and their cooperation makes the work very pleasant."

Mrs. Butler reports to work at 7 a. m. six days a week. She has done little night work. It is a bit more exciting but also a bit more inconvenient. Handling the intricate little two-way radio is not so nerve-racking, but it takes much accuracy and quick thinking. Mrs. Butler terms some days more exciting than others, "then all of a sudden it seems like everything happens at once—everything from a lost dog on up." Saturdays, of course, are usually the biggest days in the police station. The greatest thrill in this type of work, says the radio operator, is when a car is being chased for theft or some other similar offense. She compares any kind of an escape to a "fisherman losing a big fish."

Queens In Calico

'Angel Street,' Victorian Thriller, To Have Three-Day Run Here

"Angel Street," the thirteenth major production by the Midland Community Theater, will open in the City-County Auditorium at 8:15 p. m. Monday for a three-day run, Director Art Cole said.

The play, a Victorian mystery-thriller, has been seen by many Midlanders as "Gaslight" on the movie screen, starring Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer. "Angel Street" is popular with many non-professional theaters over the nation, and closed a New York run in 1945, after 1,295 performances.

The role of Mrs. Manningham will be played by Loretta Marsh, a newcomer to Midland and the Community Theater, who acquired dramatic experience in a Fort Worth high school and Fairmont Junior College in Washington, D. C. Shepard Menken, a KCRS announcer from New York City, will enact the part of Mr. Manningham, the sinister husband who attempts to drive his wife into insanity. Sergeant Rough will be portrayed by Bob Boyle of Akron, Ohio, who is a member of Ohio Wesleyan's chapter of the national dramatic fraternity, Theta Alpha Phi. Edelle Dailey, a secretary to the district geologist of Superior Oil Company, will be Elizabeth. The role of Nancy, the cockney maid, will be played by Carolyn Menken, a Miss March of Dames of 1946 who is from Dayton, Ohio, and New York City. She is a receptionist for the Shell Oil Company.

Girl Scouts of Troop 1 will usher at the three performances, and coffee will be served in the lobby during intermission by members of the Recent Graduates Group of the American Association of University Women, it was announced.

Tickets are on sale at Wemple's in Midland.

"Rush" season ended last week with a formal banquet and initiation of pledges by the Midland chapters of Beta Sigma Phi, Beta Delta and Xi Theta, and the Stanton chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, Delta Omega, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Scharbauer Hotel. The eight pledges initiated in a candlelight ceremony, with Faye Powers officiating, were Norma Jean Stice, Margaret Minns, Joyce Melancon, Beth Prothro, Julia Vaughn, Mrs. Gerald Keeler, Mrs. Leroy Butler, and Mrs. Joe Hulum. Mrs. Wayne Moore, a pledge, was not present. Following the banquet and pledging of Midland women, the Stanton chapter conducted a "Ritual of the Jewels," with Sammy Laws, president, officiating, and Laurel Grandstaff and Mrs. A. V. Rold receiving the ritual.

National Book Week Begins

Sunday marks the beginning of the 28th annual observance of Children's Book Week in the United States, and the Midland County Library, in cooperation with other communities throughout the country, has made available to Midland children thousands of entertaining and worthwhile books, which may be found in the Children's Library which remains open from 9:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday through Saturday.

This year's Book Week theme, "Books For The World Of Tomorrow," will be widely activated by participants in the national campaign which is sending "Treasure Chests" of children's books overseas and to children in this country who do not have access to many books.

A series of children's books on list in Midland's library at present, according to Mrs. Lucille Carroll, librarian, are: "ABC Bunny" by Wanda Gag; "The Engine That Lost Its Whistle" by Genevieve Cross; "Wags And Woofie" by Edna M. Aldredge and Jessie Fulton McKee; "The Story Of Ferdinand" by Munro Leaf; "Little Carousel" by Marcia Brown; "Real Mother Goose" by B. F. Wright; "Little Fine Engine" by Lois Lenski; and "Walter, The Lazy Mouse" by Marjorie Flack.

Book Week, started in 1919 by the Boy Scouts of America as a crusade to put good reading into the hands of America's children, is sponsored by 29 leading national groups in educational and civic fields.

Varied Events Mark Education Week At South Elementary

A radio program, Armistice Day flag-raising ceremony, and P-TA meeting highlighted the American Education Week events at the South Elementary School this week, according to the unit's P-TA president, Mrs. Leland Ball.

The Tuesday night radio program over KCRS, featuring students and faculty members, was in observance of Armistice Day and included musical numbers by the second grade rhythm band, a choral reading, "My Creed," by fourth grade students, patriotic songs by the fifth grade, and the American Creed by Duke Frye.

The flag-raising ceremony, at 9 a. m. Tuesday was attended by the entire student body and faculty, who gave the pledge of allegiance followed by the singing of "America." The flag was a gift to the school from the district Boy Scout office.

Following an open house Tuesday night, the P-TA meeting opened with more than 150 patrons present to hear William B. Neely speak on "Education In Democracy." Special musical numbers and a choral reading were furnished by the fourth grade, and Dr. H. A. Ireland outlined Boy Scouting and discussed the need for "den mothers."

During the week, several parents visited their sons' and daughters' classrooms, and the school cafeteria registered the following guests for the week: Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Whitley, Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Whitmire, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. Burris.

Fashion Begins At Home: Top-Notch Designers Owe Career Success To Sewing At Home

By PATT WATTS
NEA Staff Correspondent
LCS ANGELES. (NEA) — Top-notch designers of California's casuals who began their careers making clothes for their children provide inspiration for every woman who sews.

Who knows but what the next newcomer to the ranks of design will be some unknown, whose original flair proves too good to keep her dressmaking talents at home? Examples of California designers whose home-sewing machine supplied the first step for the climb to fame are numerous. Two who take bows every season for successful designs are Marjorie Montgomery and Peggy Hunt — names familiar to every American woman who wriggles into California-styled clothes. Both designers say with a smile that early fashion skills were tested out on little daughters who cheerfully served as "guinea pigs."

Twenty years ago, Marjorie Montgomery was a young widow living on an Arizona ranch who sewed so nicely for herself and daughter that she was able to make ends meet by sewing for her friends. Today she is the designing head of her own large manufacturing business. Taking cotton from the kitchen to the beach and the patio is one of Marjorie's claims to fame as a designer. As early as 1927 she originated what probably was the Mom of today's playsuit—a one-piece, knee-length dress with a wraparound skirt. Marjorie's most outstanding designs today are her "fiesta" dresses—casual costumes which fill triple roles as hostess gowns, beach clothes and duds that can compete with any finery at a country club. Example of Marjorie Montgomery's fashion forte is the fiesta dress which combines a jersey tunic with push-up sleeves and a full jersey skirt cinched in with a wide gold leather belt.

Peggy Hunt, whose love is the formal type of dress, started her career manufacturing children's dresses. Her first models were pulled from her little daughter's wardrobe. Peggy advanced the age group of her designs as her daughter grew older. Now her designs cater to the vanity of the young woman. There's proof of it in the formal dresses that grace Peggy Hunt's current collection. One outstanding model of dark blue net owes its witchery to an ankle-length skirt edged with ruffles and a long scarf which can be worn for any number of femme fatale effects.

Along The Garden Path In November

The planting of pyracantha, as a city beautification project in cooperation with a statewide project, is well underway, and the Midland garden clubs express the hope every Midlander will plant one or more of the flowering shrubs. To encourage this planting, the Midland Chamber of Commerce through the garden clubs will offer prizes at the close of the contest for the planting of pyracantha.

For Christmas narcissus blooms, bulbs should be planted immediately, it was announced, and now is also the time to fertilize violets for the blooming period.

All Spring flowering bulbs should be planted immediately, experts urge.

As another part of the city beautification project, it is urged that Midlanders clean their gardens by cutting out all dead leaves and wood. The leaves that are not diseased may be saved for the compost pile, it was suggested, and the diseased leaves and wood burned.

Red Blood Cells Must Be Kept Up If You Want To Feel Alive

Thousands Now Regaining Old Time Pep, Vigor and Drive By Releasing Vibrant Energy To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Overwork, undue worry, and lack of certain foods often reduces the red-blood strength—and starved, weak, puny blood just hasn't the power to keep up your energy and drive.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. Firemen Claim Bells Beat Sirens

FORT WORTH — (AP) — From the lowest rookie to the oldest man in service, Fort Worth firemen are voicing a common complaint these days.

Fire Chief Claude Ligon, with 40 years on the force, said the men want the bells back and the sirens out.

After listing numerous reasons for wanting the bells returned, Chief Ligon said, "for the time being, the men will have to be satisfied—there's no place to put a bell on the new equipment."

Situation: When making a telephone call, you are told that you have the wrong number.

Wrong Way: Hang up without saying anything.

Right Way: Say, "I'm very sorry to have bothered you."

BROWNIE TROOP 24 MAKES DOLLS FOR PHILIPPINE SHIPMENT

Brownie Troop 24 worked on dolls which they plan to send with other articles to the Philippines at a meeting Thursday in the North Elementary School.

During a business session, the group voted to change its meeting place to the home of the leader, Mrs. S. C. Giesey, 608 West Louisiana Street.

Refreshments were served by C. C. Boles to Vicki Anderson, Barbara June Barber, Carolyn Boles, Beverly Bradbury, Diane Burnside, Joy Lynda Davis, Mary Giesey, Naomi Green, Cecelia Hodge, Georgia Ray Nelson, Ronda Gay Muchison, Earlene Watson, and Dorothy Jane Yeckel.

Corn is frequently grown after fertilized cotton and is expected to get along, together with a side dressing of nitrogen, on the plant food that may be left over from the cotton crop.

Briefly Noted

Mrs. Robert Sarnoff, the former Esme O'Brien, contributed to the glamor of the Metropolitan Opera's 63rd annual opening in New York when she attended in the gown pictured above. Like many socialite patrons, she followed the "New Look" with brief bodice and full-flowing skirt.

LOST 42 POUNDS WITHOUT DIETING

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcetrante DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger.

Barcetrante, the original grapefruit juice recipe takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here Is Proof

"When I started taking Barcetrante, I weighed 212 pounds and wore size 46 dresses. Now I wear size 18 and weigh 165 pounds. I started taking Barcetrante in March and by June I had lost 47 pounds. I would have lost more weight had I left off fattening foods, but I was anemic at that time and afraid to diet. People who knew me before I started taking Barcetrante are amazed at the weight I have lost. My flesh is firm; I have never become flabby or wrinkled and I am 40 years old.

"Before taking Barcetrante I couldn't do my house work without becoming exhausted; had dizzy spells and my head and back hurt me constantly. I was so short-winded, I was miserable. But now all those things have gone and it is really a pleasure to do the chores I once dreaded.

"Three years ago I nearly died with Typhus fever and it left me anemic and I could never get my blood count up again or get back my energy. After taking Barcetrante my blood count started up and is now normal. So you see why I praise Barcetrante so highly and recommend it. Any praise I can give Barcetrante is small compared to the relief and happiness it has brought me." — Mrs. Eula Whitehead, 509 Harmon, Corpus Christi, Texas.

At All Druggists

The above is one of hundreds of amazing endorsements we have received.

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcetrante. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonsful twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe, easy way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Congratulations To:

Graham Smoot, former sanitarian and acting director of the health unit in Midland, wrote the script for the movie and supervised its production. Health Department officials report the picture is in great demand, not only in Texas but in several other states.

Among Midlanders appearing in the movie are Norris Creath, Marguerite Creath, Gary Creath, Bob Short, Gail Peters, Don McKibben, Elsie Hoskins, Mary Fern Bray, Edith Wemple, Art Cole, Myra McKibben, Gay Hoskins, Allen Wemple, Frank True, Louise Showalter, Ken McClure, Lu Wertha Heitt, Floyd Boles, Mrs. C. Thomas E. Dewey Says Governor's Job Is More Fun

By HAL BOYLE ALBANY, N. Y.—(AP)—To get in to see Thomas E. Dewey you must first pass the critical muster of a big, red-haired, well-armed state policeman, who then unlocks the door leading to the governor's office suite.

This American political oddity—that even in a democracy the major public servants have to be protected from the people they serve—has always interested me. "It wasn't Dewey's idea," an Albany newsman said. "It's been the custom here for some time. You know in a state as big and complex as New York there are a lot of screwballs, and..."

And that explains the police guard and locked door. 150 Souvenir Elephants

Going through the outer office you pass a shelf parade of 150 miniature souvenir elephants collected by Executive Secretary Paul Lockwood. The collection contains one small donkey chained to an elephant.

The day I called Dewey was dressed in a brown suit and tie, guileless of wrinkle. About both his person and his office there was an air of careful neatness and precision.

The reporter accompanying me remarked jokingly that I had come to get the governor's announcement he would seek the Republican presidential nomination. Dewey gave me a precise smile.

"That makes you a member of a very large club," he laughed. Man Of Keen Wit

At 45 Dewey looks no older than the days when he first won national attention as the rackets-fighting Manhattan district attorney. He is less reserved in manner now, however, and for half an hour chatted pleasantly—off the record—on political figures. He impressed me as a quick keen wit rather than broad humor.

Dewey said the book he remembered as influencing him most in his formative years was "The Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens" which pictured the decay of city government under boss rule.

He said the political leaders of the past who had most guided his thinking was Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton and Lincoln.

He said he found his work as governor more fun if less exciting than the years spent in convicting public enemies.

Passenger ships are often built relatively unstable so that long gentle rolls promote passenger comfort, but naval architects find such ships hard to adapt to use as fighting ships because naval action presupposes some damage and a ship safe enough for civilian use might capsize when partially flooded.

Putting the Squeeze on Millions of Sardines

It's sea-harvest time as these New Brunswick, Canada, fishermen circle a sardine catch in ring-around-the-rose fashion to haul in their catch of a million a day at Blacks Harbor in the Bay of Fundy. A 28-foot tide carrying unlimited quantities of food for the fish makes this area a piscatorial jackpot for the sardine anglers. Huge 60-foot-deep weirs, an acre in size, hold the fish in the bay until fishermen scoop them out, a hoghead at a time.

Wranglers' Meeting Scheduled Tuesday

The November breakfast meeting of the Wranglers' Club will be held at 7:30 a. m. Tuesday in the Scharbauer Hotel Coffee Shop, Bill Collins, foreman, announced Saturday. The club is the membership and greeters division of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

A "top Wrangler" of the month will be named, and a detailed report as to the number of Chamber of Commerce memberships obtained this year will be made by Delbert Downing, Chamber manager.

Plans will be mapped for an intensive membership program, ending with the final meeting of the year in December. John P. Butler, Chamber of Commerce president, will attend the session. All Wranglers are urged to be present.

The Grand Canal of China is believed to be the longest and, in some sections, the oldest artificial waterway in modern use.

C. Of C. Directors Will Meet Monday

The appointment of annual banquet and program of work committees will be made by President John P. Butler at the November meeting of directors of the Midland Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 p. m. Monday in the Private Dining Room of Hotel Scharbauer.

The organization's annual banquet and membership meeting will be held in January. The program of work committee will submit its report at the December meeting.

The directors also will hear a report of the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Abilene last week. Midland's WTCC directors are M. C. Umer, Paul McHargue and James N. Allison.

John W. House will report on activities of the Aeronautics Committee. Butler said other important matters will be discussed, and urged a large attendance of directors.

Crane News

By STANLEY FRANK

CRANE—Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hagle have announced the birth of a daughter November 10 in a McCamey hospital. The baby weighed six pounds. Ralph Chaney of Monahans visited his brother, Don, here recently. Mr. and Mrs. Truman Garrett spent last weekend in El Paso visiting Mrs. Garrett's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Nalley of McCamey spent last Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Watkins. The Nalleys and Watkins visited Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baker of Odessa. The Lions Club gathered food supplies for the Texas Food for Peace Train.

Bill Neighbor has been transferred to Andrews by the Gulf Company. R. C. Batson has returned from Bryan where he visited his father who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Collins are in Duncan, Okla., to attend funeral services for their son, J. R. Collins, whose body was among the war dead returned recently from Europe. Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander and Harvey Smith of Crane were among others from Crane attending the services.

Mrs. V. H. Russell and daughters, Shearon, Kay and Diane, left Wednesday for Houston to attend the wedding of Mrs. Russell's sister, Mrs. L. E. Russell and son, John Frank, accompanied them to Brownwood where she will visit relatives.

Travelers from the West said Friday there was considerable snow on the mountains just east of El Paso. A total of 6,860 bales of cotton had gone through Midland gins at noon Friday, and gin operators agreed on an estimate that approximately 75 per cent of the current crop is in.

Fat bulls at the Midland Livestock Auction Thursday, the first sale under the auction's new ownership, went to $17.60 for the extreme top; fat cows sold as high as $16.60, butcher yearlings $21 to $25, and canner and cutter cows $3.50 to $11. Stocker calves and yearlings brought $19 to $21, cows with baby calves $115 to $145, and fat Jerseys $9.50 to $12.

Biggest consignment in the sale, which saw a total of about 800 cattle pass through the ring, was that of S. O. Golladay. He sold 71 head for a total of more than $7,600; in his offering were some 600-pound heifers that brought $24.25 per hundredweight; some fat calves sold up to $25.

W. E. Berry recently bought about 1,700 mixed lambs, which he had purchased six weeks earlier from his ranches at Stanton and Coahoma, it was reported here. Among Glasscock County visitors here last week were Charlie Cox and Jay Crouch of Garden City.

Norman Dawson, with the biggest and one of the best cotton crops in Midland County (1,500 acres), reports he has ginned 475 bales up to date and believes he will get at least 150 bales more. He was fortunate during the Summer and Fall in getting several nice rains that missed many other farms in the county.

Jay Floyd last week sold about 1,000 mixed lambs, which he had purchased six weeks earlier from Homer Tippet of Rankin, to John Clay and Company, who shipped them to Omaha, Neb., to feedlots. The lambs weighed 78 pounds or 20 pounds more than when Floyd received them. They had been in a hegar field during the six weeks; some lambs of his own raising which also had been on the hegar weighed 96 pounds.

Don Martin last week loaded 150 steer and heifer calves from Andy Fasken's ranch at Valentine; they weighed 390 pounds, Martin said, and several ranchmen of that country told him they were one of the best bunches of calves shipped from there this year.

Martin also shipped, last week, 200 steer calves from L. S. McDowell and Son of Big Spring to a Nebraska feeder who has bought and fed the McDowell calves for 13 consecutive years, winning many prizes with them in fat cattle shows

Franco To Copy U.S. Defense Idea

MADRID—(AP)—A ministry of defense headed by Lt. Gen. Jose Enrique Varela, present high commissioner of Spanish Morocco, is reported in army circles to figure in Generalissimo Franco's plans for a general reorganization of his government.

The plan, according to these reports, calls for creation of such a ministry closely resembling that recently put into effect in the United States.

Army sources believe the Generalissimo also would enhance the position of Varela by naming him to a captain-general of the kingdom. Since Franco himself is now the only active captain-general of the realm, this would, in effect make Varela the Caudillo's "second-man" at least in the armed forces which are considered Franco's main pillar of support.

With this title, Varela automatically would become a member of the Council of the Kingdom and the Council of the Regency created by Franco's Law of Succession to name his successor in the event of retirement or death.

Gen. Varela, now 56, has a brilliant combat record in the Moroccan wars and the Spanish civil war. He twice received the Laureate Cross of San Fernando, Spain's highest decoration for bravery. He was Franco's minister of war from 1939 to 1942. While considered a monarchist, he is loyal to the generalissimo.

Lieut. Gen. Jose Solchaga Zala, now captain-general of Catalonia, is regarded as the most likely candidate for minister of secretary of war.

For minister of secretary of air, reports generally pick the present air minister, Division Gen. Eduardo Gonzalez Galarza de Lecea, now commander of air forces in the Straits region.

Adm. Salvador Moreno, former navy minister, is mentioned as likely to get the post of navy department chief.

Approximately $300,000 worth of buggy whips are being produced annually even today.

McCain Says Now Is Time To Erect Midland Hospital

A. B. McCain, owner of the Fashion Cleaners, when asked what about Midland's need for a modern, general hospital said, "I think Midland needs a general hospital awfully bad."

A. B. McCain

"I'd like to see the Midland Memorial Hospital in operation right now. Although we have a hospital that is doing its best, the population of this town is piling up so fast that we need a larger general hospital right away!"

"If a flu epidemic sneaked up on us, we would be in a bad way this winter. We need a large hospital, and we are plenty able to build it, if we just get down and do it together."

"Look at the other buildings going up. We can put up a hospital building too. If each and everyone of us pitch in, we can do the job quickly."

"When we need a hospital, that is when we want it. The Midland Memorial Hospital can't be built any too soon for me. People are pouring in here every day. Right now is the time to build this hospital without any further bickering or gear," McCain said.

Many Texans Are Among 1,800 Postal Department Employees In Washington

WASHINGTON — (P) — The Post Office Department is the government agency with which the average citizen has his closest contact—through the city postman, the rural carrier or the clerk at the post office window.

Despite its far-reaching activities, the Post Office Department employs fewer persons in Washington than any of the other so-called "old line" federal departments. There are 1,800 on its payroll here, and of course there are numerous Texans among them.

Albert W. Somerford, who hails from Hempstead, is chief of the identification and research laboratory, under the chief postal inspector. His job is to be on the alert for forgeries or other deceptive means employed to violate postal laws.

Miss Una Mae Fair, formerly of Austin and Donna, is a secretary in the office of the Postmaster General. She formerly worked in the Agriculture Department.

One of the veterans in the Post Office Department is Seth Demaret, a native of Navasota and an employee of the Bryan post office for three years before coming to Washington in 1918. He attended Texas A. and M. College.

August C. Hahn, director of the budget for the transportation bureau, is the son of Beaumont's Postmaster Tobe Hahn and a brother-in-law of President John Gray of Lamar Junior College at Beaumont. He has charge of funds for such operations as the railway mail service and star routes.

An employee of the department since 1938, Hahn served as a colonel with the Army Postal Service during the war. He was with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters in England, and later served in North Africa and Italy.

James R. Martin, here since he left the Navy at the end of the war, comes from El Paso. He is with the postal inspection service. A native of Seadrift, he attended public schools in McAllen before moving to El Paso.

Robert P. Woody of Fort Worth, with the department here since 1931, works in the engineering research division. Among other duties of that unit is the checking and development of inventions in the way of mail chutes, slots, boxes, bags, and other improvements in the physical features of the postal service. Woody finished at Texas A. and M. in 1926.

Another native Texan in the department is Clarence Bruce, an aide to the first assistant postmaster general. He was born in Beaumont but now is a legal resident of Louisiana.

Pioneer Registers Big Traffic Gains

HOUSTON — Continued traffic gains were registered during October by Pioneer Air Lines, Inc., it was revealed in a report by Col. Robert J. Smith, president. The increased business trend which started in February, this year, has each month established new records for Pioneer in passengers and goods carried, he stated. In announcing a new monthly passenger record of 7,513 persons flown a total of 1,850,023 revenue passenger miles, Smith pointed out that also during October the fifty thousand mark in passengers served during the war was reached and surpassed. During the first ten months of 1947, a total of 51,191 ticket holders flew 13,508,376 revenue passenger miles, he said.

Scientists Now Produce Snow That's Housebroken

STATE COLLEGE, PA.—(NEA)—The science of sowing dry ice in the cloud to make it snow where or when you want it to has a new competitor. Meteorologists now have a way to preserve snow flakes so they can look them over leisurely in a nice warm room, without threat of a red nose or chills.

And they do it without dry ice, right in their laboratory. Pennsylvania State College scientists, who are making this latest bid to snow-making fame, say it's the first time snow crystals have been produced indoors by a process imitating their natural production in the clouds.

The snow crystals were produced by J. Ross Heverly and Dr. Hans Neuberger of the Penn State meteorology division. Since they were trying to find out more about the icing conditions that hamper winter flying, they were looking for the conditions necessary in nature to make snow crystals, rather than a way to make nature drop a snowstorm.

Heverly and Neuberger took ordinary air, saturated with water vapor, and cooled it in a chamber to 15 degrees below zero.

MacArthur's Japanese Neighbor Has Never Heard Of Democracy

By RICHARD C. FERGUSON
TOKYO—(NEA)—One of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's closest Tokyo neighbors never heard of democracy or Japan's new democratic constitution.

He is Shinkichi Shirokane, 41, a busy little tailor who has too much to do getting food for his family to worry about affairs of state.

"It's a great honor to be Gen. MacArthur's neighbor, but I'm usually too busy to notice him come and go."

Old Auto Is Home
Then Shirokane looked out from his home of salvaged, scorched wood and tin and a burned-out old automobile body toward the massive, untouched U. S. Embassy where MacArthur lives.

"We do our best to keep our place clean because we live so close to Gen. MacArthur. My boy sweeps around the house several times a day but we can't afford paint or better materials for our house."

"I don't make enough money to buy newspapers or a radio. I have to work from morning to midnight just to feed my family so I don't even have time to think about the government."

Food Is Problem
Food is the biggest problem facing Japanese today. Shirokane knows MacArthur is doing what he can but it isn't enough to help him.

"I earn 2500 yen a month as a tailor but we spend 4000 yen a month for food, so we are selling our clothes and furniture to live. My wife not only must care for our 10-month-old baby but also has to make frequent trips to the country to get food."

Rice, once the staple of Shirokane's diet, now reaches his table one day a week. Less than a third of the food they buy is rationed at controlled prices; the other two-thirds cost many times the official prices. The clothing and household goods he managed to drag from his bombed home during the war is slowly going to make up the difference.

'Emperor Responsible'
"I believe the Emperor is responsible for the doom of this nation but I do not think he should be replaced or removed from his position," Shirokane says loyally.

"We now put our faith in Gen. MacArthur to guide us and we all hope he will stay in Japan for a long time. He is the only one we can look to for the help we need in the future."

Shirokane has plenty of opportunities to look in the general's direction.

Laboratory snowflakes, greatly enlarged by the camera, are replicas of the tiny crystals that grow to snow-storm size as they fall through the air.

Then they expanded it to 150 per cent of its original volume in close imitation to the changes that occur in a natural cloud being formed in rising air currents.

Snow crystals, five-thousandths of an inch across, were pulled out of this air into a chemical solution called formvar; when the snow evaporated, it left perfect formvar replicas of the ice crystals.

Study Droplets
Along with the ice crystals, the experimenters found numerous super-cooled droplets of water which decreased in size and number as the temperature dropped.

"These droplets," Dr. Neuberger explained, "form ice coating on a plane flying through a cloud containing them. Since the ice coating depends on the number and size of the droplets, the lower the temperature, the less dangerous they are for planes."

The dry ice weather-makers still have it over the Penn State meteorologists, however. With their dry ice seeds, they can make it rain as well as snow. But Heverly and Neuberger haven't found any way to save the drops of rain in their original form for leisurely study on a nice dry day.

DRY HOLES EXCEED OIL PRODUCERS IN OKLAHOMA

TULSA—(P)—Oil production in Oklahoma fell off during the last fiscal week to a point where there were more dry holes than successful completions.

WASHINGTON—(P)—John Foster Dulles, a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, has called for a three-power treaty to guarantee disarmament if the four major powers can not reach agreement at the London conference.

Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee such an agreement between the United States, Great Britain and France will "go far to assure that fear will not be the designer of postwar Europe."

War Bombs Unearth Lost Temple Of Ancient Goddess

Oblivious to the ancient history that surrounds them, these Palestine youngsters hunt for sling-shot ammunition amidst the remnants of a civilization that existed in 300 B. C.

PALLESTRINE, Italy — (NEA) — When Allied bombers blasted this little village near Rome in 1944 they unknowingly turned back the clock 2000 years.

Archeologists only today are beginning to realize the full importance that raid had on historical knowledge and architecture.

In wiping out a German observation post, those bombers revealed the lost temple of the Roman goddess of Fortune, a monument to a civilization that existed in 300 B. C.

Roman history expert F. Gulli measures a section of column from the temple of the Goddess of Fortune.

ASA Forms New 'Happiness' Plan For Older People

NEW YORK — If you're under 45, you would be too young to get the scholarships or job-hunting aid planned by a new organization, the Association for Successful Aging.

But you would benefit from its proposal to teach people, in their youth, how to grow old successfully.

The association, putting emphasis on age, is headed by Dr. George Lawton, 47, a psychologist, author and student of problems of aging. Its 35 founding members range in age from 30 to 80 years.

Pattern For Future
"Their goals may set a pattern for the future. There now are 10,000,000 Americans over 65, half of whom are dependent on their children or the community, Dr. Lawton said.

By 1980, the Census Bureau estimates, there will be nearly 60,000,000 over 54 and 19,000,000 over 65—accounting for 35 per cent of our population.

Unless something is done to make grandfather and grandmother feel useful and happy, less frustrated and out of things, by 1980 the army of grandparents could form a bitter and powerful political pressure group, Dr. Lawton warns.

Not Political Group
"Our goal is bigger and better lives for older people, and we do not intend to seek bigger and better pensions, or to join any political group," he declared.

"We want to help older people find jobs or useful activities, something that will make them feel as important and necessary as when they were successful breadwinners in their younger days or were raising children.

"We want to break down arbitrary rules that say a man or woman is useless and must retire at 65, or kicks them out of jobs before then. We don't seek favors for older people, but we do ask that they be treated as human beings, on their merits. Simply providing food and shelter is not enough.

Objectives in the association's constitution include:

Establishing scholarships to train some persons over 45 in new trades or professions.

Creating employment agencies specializing in finding jobs for older people, which, in turn, requires educating people.

Establishing recreation centers and clubs for middle-aged and older persons.

Setting up guidance centers to help solve emotional, marital and psychological problems with advancing age.

To serve as a forum and educational group to break down prejudices against older persons, and encourage greater attention to their occupational, social, recreational and emotional needs.

Plan housing for older persons. This would mean more smaller apartments or units, or even older persons' wings in apartment buildings, providing them with recreational rooms and work-shops for part-time jobs.

'Delayed Pilgrims' To Celebrate First Real Thanksgiving In U. S.

Something to be Thankful For: Willie Byrd and his family enjoy the luxury of a peaceful breakfast in their Dallas home. Memories of hunger and Gestapo terror are fading.

DALLAS — (NEA) — When Thanksgiving Day rolls around, Willie Byrd, 54, will say a short, fervent prayer, reach for the carving knife and begin slicing his first Thanksgiving turkey.

Byrd and his family have reason to be especially thankful.

They are among the thousands of DPs—they call themselves "Delayed Pilgrims"—now—who, since last Thanksgiving, have fled the persecutions of Europe for the peace and security of the United States.

They came here friendless, moneyless and without resources except determination and hope. The United Service for New Americans guaranteed they would not become public charges, and helped them get relocated.

Came To U. S.

It was a good gamble, Byrd, his wife, Fanny, and their daughter, Elizabeth, 26, landed in the U. S. last February. In nine months they have moved to Dallas, found a home and jobs, obtained first citizenship papers; attended night school to study English, American History and Government, and begun saving money to pay for their own home or perhaps a business.

A year ago they hardly dared hope any of this would be true. They still were living in the shadow of the war. Among their family of aunts, uncles and cousins, they alone had survived.

In peacetime Berlin, Byrd owned several shoe stores. The Nazis took those.

Lived In Hiding

"In 1943 we had to separate and go into hiding," Elizabeth says. "The Gestapo was looking for us. For two years we lived underground with friends or wherever we could. Every fourth Thursday we managed to meet, or to pass letters to one another through friends. This was our only contact.

"But we were lucky, because when our Berlin home was hit by a bomb, a friendly policeman told authorities we all were inside and had been buried. After that they didn't hunt for us too much.

"The first Russians that reached our suburb, the tankmen, were polite and didn't harm us. The second group confiscated watches and things like that. The third group took away a 15-year-old girl, so my father and another man hid me under a blanket and sat on me all night as though I were a couch, so the Russians wouldn't find me.

"Then I went into hiding again and for six weeks I lived in the closet of a bombed-out home."

Elizabeth worked for the U. S. military government as an interpreter and stenographer. She was one of the few who could take shorthand in both English and German. Later she worked for the Joint Distribution Committee helping other refugees. Her father tried to rebuild his lost shoe business in a shoeless Germany. All the time they worked and planned to come to America.

Finally on January 2, this year, they left Berlin for Bremerhaven. On the last day of their visa they climbed aboard a boat sailing for the U. S. One day later they would have been turned back, to wait

Columnist Gives Tourist's-Eye View Of Havana

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Staff

A tourist's-eye view of Havana: Narrow streets and honking horns... dark, neatly dressed natives... friendliness and courtesy (you don't bark a number to a telephone operator—you say "Senorita, will you kindly do me the favor of ringing 2346?")... beautiful statues—including one to the Battleship Maine and its heroes...

The pleasant odor of seafood... hawkers and lottery tickets... and their signs—they even operate in front of cathedrals... glistening mahogany furniture in homes, stores and hotels... the omnipresent police, who rate high in Havana...

Swanky Capital

Sidewalk cafes... mid-day siestas... the capitol building, swankier than ours in Washington... Jai Alai games... baseball parks... baseball is the national sport, next to gambling—Cubans will bet on anything anytime.

Women wearing such low-necked dresses you fail to notice if they've dropped the hemline or not... flowers... short, drizzling rains... typically Cuban architecture, colorful and attractive...

The tingling Cuban music, and the dances that go with it... Cuba Libre—rum and coco cola... night clubs by the dozens—the city doesn't go to bed.

Amazing Swimmers

The amazing Cuban swimmers, who follow incoming ships for miles, shouting "Cholly! Hey, Cholly! Gimme nickel, Cholly!" and then dive for coins as tourists toss them into the water...

American products, American trademarks, American signs, American customs—Cuba is possibly the most Americanized of all Latin American countries, although Cubans are intensely proud of their republic and sometimes resent the fact there is so much of America in Cuba...

Perfect service with both smiles and courtesy... but prices are higher than many expect—a Cuban peso is worth one dollar, U. S. (not five for one, like in Mexico)...

Countless Cuban Clubs

The sing-song chanting of hawkers. The countless clubs—every Cuban, rich or poor, belongs to at least one... the magnificent homes... Morro Castle, near where the Battleship Maine was sunk... radio anywhere on the dial—Havana has 40 radio stations... And just a few minutes from the

Here's ABCs On CAA And CAB

By JAMES J. STREBIG
WASHINGTON — (P) — Civil Aeronautics Administration, Civil Aeronautics Board.
Do they confuse you? Suffer no inferiority pains. Even members of the President's Air Policy Commission have had to have the difference explained to them.
And the agencies themselves have prepared statements defining their positions, to meet frequent inquiries.
The confusion began in 1940, when President Roosevelt split up the Civil Aeronautics Authority, which had been established by the 1938 Civil Aeronautics Act. He left the five-man board (CAB) as an independent agency and consolidated the previously independent Air Safety Board with it. He put the bulk of the old authority's operations into the Commerce Department as the Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA).

Separates Two Functions
In general, this separated the judicial and administrative functions of federal aviation.
That left the setup which stands today as follows:
The CAB is civil aviation's law-making body, its economic god-mother and its court of justice.
The CAA administers the regulations prescribed by the CAB and operates flying facilities—airways, airport control towers, communications, experimental stations and weather reporting services.

The CAB has about 500 employees. The CAA has 14,000, serving in every state, territory and in many foreign countries.
To be more specific, CAB writes the safety rules, investigates the accidents and fixes the responsibility. It determines who gets new airline routes, what changes shall be made in those routes, how much airmail pay each airline should get. The board is responsible only to the President, who appoints its five members with the consent of the Senate.
The CAA is headed by an administrator, responsible to the Secretary of Commerce. His huge and farflung staff operates through nine regions, each of which is semi-autonomous with respect to many of its functions.

The regional staff keeps on eye on flying to see that rules are not violated, that planes are properly inspected, that the facilities used by airmen are maintained in working order. It oversees the training of pilots and passes on their readiness for a "ticket" or license. It helps disseminate the great volume of information which constantly flows to flying men.
Headquarters staff operates an engineering business to check the designs of new airplanes before approving them for public sale. It has an important experimental station at Indianapolis.
It publishes the Airman's Guide, on which flyers rely for current information about airport and airway facilities. It directs the aviation training program and prepares recommendations on new regulations and violations for submission to the CAB.

The CAA also administers the Airport Act, under which the federal and local governments are building airports.
That is the setup in aviation as it stands today. Next year it may be quite different. Many witnesses before the Air Policy Commission have recommended a reshuffling of CAA and CAB duties.

U. S. Women Drink Too Much, Says Noted Polish Pianist

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Maryla Jonas, the Polish pianist whose talent burst on the western musical world like a skyrocket in 1946, sat in her New York hotel living room talking of many things before she left on a United States tour that will take her from coast to coast.
She is a big woman with green eyes, flesh as white as milk and blonde hair swept to the crown of her head in smooth puffs. Her big figure, which she refuses to corset even for concerts ("because I have to feel what I play from my legs up") was dressed in a long, dark, loosely-cinched hostess gown. Her feet were sheathed in scarlet satin mules. On her white hand a big diamond flashed fire.

"In the majority of cases, I do not like American women," she was saying. "I would like to change American woman. I would like to make less doll. Make read more and don't worry so much. I do not like to see American women drink so much."
"There'll be a decadence of American home if American woman doesn't stop this life of nightclub, relaxation, worry about figure all the time. She takes too much care of herself. She asks too much and she gives nothing."

She glanced out of her window overlooking Central Park, where chic New Yorkers paraded King-esses in the September sunshine, frowned and began again:
"Maybe it's not all women's fault. Maybe they haven't been taught right. But it's a big problem and danger. Danger for women themselves. In war American men met European women. They saw a big difference. They liked those European women. It's big danger for the country too. Especially today women must take care of men, of life, of children. It's a big job."

Mme. Jonas delivered all this with a brooding thoughtful air which robbed her words of critical sting.
Mme. Jonas' own career is a saga. She was born of a well-to-do Polish family, began to study the piano at seven, and two years later played with the Warsaw Philharmonic. There followed a session of study with Paderewski. At 19 Maryla Jonas married Jarze Krol, a Warsaw lawyer, but she continued her music and appeared in a series of successful European concerts. Then came the war and the invasion and bombing of Poland. Miss Jonas, her husband and the members of her family were separated and the pianist was placed in a concentration camp because she refused to play in Berlin. Finally she escaped, walked from Warsaw to Berlin and eventually made her way by plane and boat to Rio de Janeiro, where she learned her husband and most of her family had perished.

For months she refused to touch the piano. Then a musician friend persuaded her to try, and the old magic flowed back into her fingers. After successful South American tours she came, unheralded, to New York, and played her first Carnegie Hall concert in February, 1946, to a handful of audience and a few critics. However, those few heralded her performance with such enthusiasm that her American fame began and a subsequent New York concert established her.

Philippines Purchase Singapore Yacht
SINGAPORE — (P) — The Singapore governor's yacht, Seabelle II, has been sold to P. Morrison, director of the FMT Shipping Company of Cebu, Philippines, for $50,000. It will be used in the Philippines inter-island trade.
Built in 1928, at a cost of 78,000 pounds sterling, the Seabelle was used by the governor of the Straits Settlements and federated Malay states.
Doris Duke chartered the vessel for her honeymoon cruise in the South Seas following her marriage to James Cromwell. The British navy requisitioned the yacht at the outbreak of the war and the Seabelle II spent the war years in navy service in Indian waters. It returned to Singapore with the liberation fleet.
The royal navy paid the Singapore government the equivalent of $250,000 for its war use.

Tricks for the systematic relaxation of tense muscles will help the older woman to avert the penalties of fatigue. Fatigue saps vitality, wipes luster from good looks and has an almost wicked way of aging a woman's appearance.
To beat it, first learn to recognize the symptoms of fatigue. A "keyed up" feeling, tense muscles, twitchy nerves are signals to stop whatever you are doing. If you can't lie down to take it easy, at least you can force your mind into different channels of thought. A pleasant frame of mind is a great aid to proper relaxation. Next try an exercise to release tension.
Here's one. Stand with feet apart. Take a deep breath, raise arms high overhead. Throw your head back and stretch your body upwards as though an invisible rope were pulling you towards the ceiling. Exhale and let your body go limp as a rag doll. Drop shoulders, let your arms fall to your sides. Repeat several times and the feeling of tension will gradually disappear.

Another good de-kinker is to lie down and hook your toes under the footboard of your bed. Now pull up to the headboard as though you were between two stretching racks. Or try resting for 15 minutes with your feet propped higher than your head to speed circulation of the blood to the brain, which helps to rout fatigue. And don't forget that a warm, leisurely bath is one of the best sedatives that you can take to soothe jumpy nerves.

By now they have learned a part of the temple's history. From other records they had previously suspected its approximate location, but not its magnificence of construction which experts now claim makes it the biggest yet discovered.
The original temple was destroyed in 200 B. C. by Sila, a Roman aristocrat, in a battle with Mario, a popular Roman leader. To celebrate his victory and to thank the goddess, Sila had the temple reconstructed in even more magnificence than the original.
It stood for five centuries before it began to fall into decay. All of its remains, except some insignificant columns, were finally erased when troops of Pope Boniface VIII sacked and burned Palestine in the 13th century while fighting those opposing the Pope's policies.
The architect of the temple is still unknown. But during the next six to eight years that it will take to complete the excavations, archeologists hope to discover his identity.

Farmers On Isle Of Sark Protest Levy On Grain Crop

LONDON — (AP) — The usually placid island of Sark, political oddity among the parts of the United Kingdom, which gets along without income taxes and pays little attention to Parliament, is concerned this Autumn about a levy on farmers' grain.

The Dame of Sark, Mrs. Sybil Mary Hathaway, who rules the little Channel island as a feudal state, has decreed that every tenth bundle of grain harvested by island farmers must be turned over to her to meet Government expenses.

Sark's chimney tax isn't regarded with such distaste. Since the days of Queen Elizabeth the Seigneur of the island — Mrs.

Hathaway holds the post by right of inheritance — has collected one live chicken yearly for each chimney the householders use. But every tenth bundle of grain runs into money, and the islanders who farm the Dame's lands are complaining against the tax, called locally "the dime."

Isle Chartered To

"It's a seigniorial matter, and perfectly justified by the original charter which gave the island to my family," the Dame of Sark explained.

"The tax was suspended for a time. I had hoped that on being relieved of this levy the farmers would improve their methods. But I was disappointed and back goes the tax."

They'll Stick By It And Are Stuck On It

DENVER, COLO. — (AP) — Fifteen residents of this area have formed the Denver Cactus and Succulent Society to foster greater appreciation of cacti.

"For one thing," says President Muriel Colburn, "the cactus should be respected because of its age. Besides cacti extracts are used extensively for heart stimulants."

Arizona and New Mexico Indians, Miss Colburn reveals, also have discovered a joyful drink in the peyote cactus.

Doesn't Make Them Drunk

"It doesn't make them drunk," she explains, "but I understand it gives them vim."

A notice displayed in one of the shops of the island's village said that bright children were needed to count the bundles in the fields and to see that every tenth one was set aside for the Dame.

"It's a form of spying," one of the farmers grumbled. "We don't like it."

Functions As Feudal State

But it appears that the farmers will not be able to do anything about it, because the island of Sark, 3 by 1 1/2 miles in size, is a properly constituted, legally functioning feudal state within the United Kingdom. The Parliament in London can't touch it. The ultimate authority is the King, and he has not found it necessary to disturb the conditions of the old charter granted by Queen Elizabeth.

Egypt Pushes Sinai Desert Reclamation

CAIRO — (AP) — The Egyptian government has spent more than $200,000 in its preliminary plan to convert 5,000 acres of the wild, barren Sinai peninsula into fertile fields.

The plan called for the construction of two dykes to store the rain-water falling in abundance in the Valley of El Arish, which starts in the heart of Sinai and extends 100 miles northward to the Mediterranean.

One of the dykes, the El Rawafa Dam, is already in operation and the stored waters have been used to irrigate the surrounding land. Work on the second dyke, at the mouth of the valley, has begun. A 12-mile asphalted road will link the two dams.

Irrigate 500,000 Acres

These two dams are considered the first of a series of schemes to render 500,000 acres of Sinai's unexploited, lightly-populated desert agriculturally productive and provide possible living space for some 17,000,000 Egyptians.

According to agricultural experts, a branch of the Nile used to run through Sinai. They contend that the innate fertility of much of the land remains undiminished and point to the productivity of similar desert regions in adjoining Palestine.

Boy, 10, Designs And Makes Sisters' Dress

JEROME, IDA. — (AP) — Ten-year-old Vearl Henry Taylor designed and made his six-year-old sister Juanita a dress which she modeled at the Jerome district 4-H club fair.

It started when Vearl's older sister and six friends organized a sewing club. Vearl twiddled his thumbs on meeting nights and finally decided to join the ladies. He found sewing was fun.

Vearl tosses a hard left at anyone who implies he is sissy.

The sovereign may be of the opinion, held by many others, that the little island is doing all right, and that despite the ancient forms of their government, the 600 "villains" who inhabit the picturesque place are better off than a good many other subjects of the kingdom.

The tenth bundle of wheat may be a hardship. On the other hand there is good deal to be said for the complete absence of income tax, freedom from thousands of regulations which vex Englishmen, moderate prosperity and total lack of unemployment.

Dame Obitwits Germans

The Germans occupied Sark during the war, and they promptly violated one of the laws. The German occupation force of 70 men brought three automobiles. British troops who finally cleared the island were no better. They brought a jeep and two lorries.

That violation of Sark tradition has been corrected. Jeep and lorries are gone. Anyone wanting to ride does it in a horse-drawn cart.

German occupation heightened the Dame of Sark's prestige. She stayed at her post with her American-born husband, Robert Hathaway. The latter was later hauled off to a concentration camp in Germany.

But the Dame stayed, and the islanders tell how she outwitted the German commandants. They required food, particularly fish, and somehow the Dame always managed to see that they didn't get very much and that the quality was poor.

The greatest known underwater range of mountains is the mid-Atlantic Ridge which stretches from Iceland almost to the Antarctic.

Calvary Baptists To Observe Anniversary

The Calvary Baptist Church will observe the seventh anniversary of its organization and founding Sunday, December 7, when a "home coming" service and program will be held at the church. The attendance goal for the Sunday School that day is 375 persons.

The church was organized December 1, 1940, in a tent on the former South Main Street softball park. The Rev. Fred McPherson was the first pastor.

The parsonage was built at the present location, 1005 South Main Street, the following year and services were held there until the educational building was constructed. The debt on the church property, parsonage and educational building was paid off in January 1944.

Services now are held in the modern auditorium, pictured, which was built at a cost of more than $30,000. Construction of the auditorium was started in the Fall of 1944. The Calvary Baptist Church has an enrollment of 510 and a Sunday School enrollment of more than 500.

Mr. McPherson resigned as pastor of the church in August, 1942, to enter the Chaplain's Corps of the U. S. Army. He was succeeded by the Rev. A. W. Smith who served until January, 1946, when he accepted a call as pastor of the Azle Avenue Baptist Church in Fort Worth. Mr. McPherson again was called as pastor, serving until July of this year when he resigned to become pastor of the South Side Baptist Church of Lubbock.

The Rev. A. L. Teaff came here from Denver City last September to assume the pastorate of the Midland Church.

Coal Production Is Major Problem In Western Europe

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Coal sounds pretty dull. But it's at the heart of any plan to help Europe recover.

The two big coal producers in Europe are Britain and Germany. Coal output in both suffered from the war. And both still are producing less than they did before the war.

The United States is sending coal to Europe, something it didn't do before the war.

Other Western European countries produce only a dribble of coal. But all Europe is suffering from the shortage in Britain and Germany.

For that reason homes have to do with little or no coal and factories are slowed down or stopped. This will tell some of the story.

Germany's big coal center is the Ruhr, in the western part of the country. Before the war it had 400,000 miners and turned out nearly 130,000,000 tons.

By the end of the war the Ruhr had only 100,000 miners, mostly slave labor, and output was way down.

Now the Ruhr has about 325,000 miners producing only about 70,000,000 tons, or 60,000,000 less than before the war.

Before the war Germany was able to let the other countries have about 36,000,000 tons a year. Now it can export only about 11,000,000 tons.

What's the trouble in the Ruhr?

1. Some Ruhr mines were so badly bombed they're not yet back in production.

2. A wrecked German transportation system, mostly railroads, and a lack of parts to replace worn-out mine machinery.

3. Lack of housing for the miners. This is the greatest drawback.

Now take Britain: Lack of miners is the biggest problem there.

When the war started and Britain couldn't ship any more coal to the continent, it let a lot of miners go into the armed services.

It's never been able to get back as many as it had before the war. Besides, the output per miner has dropped.

Hughes' Plane Floats, Flies - What Now

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

LONG BEACH, CALIF. — (NEA) — Now that history's most expensive piece of floating woodwork also can fly, the important question of what's to be done with it arises.

Right now the huge flying boat's chief value has been to furnish its designer and builder, Howard Hughes, with a jubilant "I told you so" for the Congressional War Investigating Committee. But after Hughes finishes many more months of testing, the plane becomes the strange property of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Its future after that is somewhat of a mystery to RFC's bankers.

When Henry Kaiser dreamed up the idea of huge flying boats, then sold Hughes on designing and building the first one and the Government on financing it, the West Coast shipbuilder had war use in mind. But the Army and Navy didn't have much to say about it at the time, and the armed forces now have only a mild, academic interest in the plywood giant. The absence of military aviation experts at the first test was conspicuous.

Cost Is Tremendous

Making planes faster, not bigger, is the chief current interest of both military and commercial aviation experts. The mere cost of handling the 200-ton, eight-engined flying boat, launching it, gassing it and maintaining it, is tremendous. It makes any attempts to develop the ship by private interests for commercial use almost prohibitive.

The Army and Navy, which are complaining they don't have enough money to develop the planes they already have, aren't anxious to take over the costly giant to find a use for it.

Hughes admits that his chief interest in the project from the start was merely to get Kaiser's brain-child airborne. He'll probably be happy to wash his hands of the whole thing when he's through testing it. And he has already announced his intention to concentrate his genius on the guided missile field next.

Where Did Money Go

That brings up the intriguing question of just what has been bought with the odd 25 million dollars spent on the project. Hughes' engineers, and other aviation experts, agree that the giant plane could open up a whole new field in aviation. The very size of the plane creates some brand new problems in flying; if this plane finds the answers, it might make it worth its fantastic price.

For example, never before have the controls of an airplane been moved entirely with motors. The strength of a man's arm has always been the prime mover. But as Hughes points out, it would require 200 men to move this plane's control surfaces in flight. So a combination mechanical and hydraulic system was devised.

But can a plane be flown without the pilot "feeling" what he is doing? The successful taxi and first brief flight, according to Hughes, answers this one important question successfully.

Many More Tests

Many test flights will have to be made to produce the other information the plane is capable of furnishing. Just because the plane will fly doesn't prove that giant planes are worth making. But if tests show that great size alone makes planes less efficient, the Hughes flying boat may have been worth its cost to prove that point. It will furnish designers a mathematical limit within which to confine their efforts for the future.

The fact that the plane had to be made out of wood diminishes (Continued on page 3)

'U.S. Democratic Leader'?

A new honor has been conferred upon Henry A. Wallace. In a speech before the UN General Assembly, Vladimir Popovic, the Yugoslav ambassador to Russia, gave him the title of "democratic leader of the United States."

The Yugoslav diplomat then proceeded to read—in Russian, quite appropriately—some of Wallace's editorials in the New Republic which denounced the Truman doctrine of aid to Greece and Turkey, and which said our interference in the economic affairs of other nations was making us hated more and more by all the world's masses. From these excerpts, Popovic drew the comforting conclusion that the American people "indict the policy of the United States which is directed against . . . the United Nations, and which threatens peace all over the world."

Popovic's speech was made on the day that former Secretary of State Byrnes' new book, "Speaking Frankly," was published. And it was delivered a few hours before the unpredictable Wallace, in a Baltimore interview, endorsed the plan for world peace which the Byrnes volume contains.

We don't know what Popovic is thinking now. For Byrnes' plan includes two strong last-restore recommendations: If Russia should boycott the world conference to draft a German peace treaty which Byrnes proposes, then the other participants would go on without Russia. And, once a treaty was signed and the Soviets refused to evacuate Eastern Germany, the U. S. and such allies as could be mustered would attempt to drive them out.

This program, Wallace told reporters, would result in "peace and understanding with Russia." Yet, he thought the milder, patience-and-firmness Russian policy of Byrnes at last year's Paris Peace Conference was "war-mongering."

Later, before a Baltimore audience, Wallace said Defense Secretary Forrestal, Commerce Secretary Harriman and Acting Secretary of State Lovett are "a holding company for Wall Street bankers" and that he would try to "get them out of Washington before they get us into war."

All this leaves us wondering what effect it will have on some of the distinguished foreign visitors who heard Popovic's speech, and who may be a little vague on American politics.

Do they think that the American people would choose a "democratic leader" who believes that an almost conciliatory policy is war-mongering, and that one which advocates military action, if all else fails, will promote peace?

Do they think the free, democratic American people would sit by while three of the President's top advisers—really tools of Wall Street, according to the "democratic leader"—are notoriously plotting World War III?

Now that Wallace has been knighted with a title of democratic nobility by an emissary of Marshal Tito, he might live up to his new honor by making a little more sense. Can he justify his present inexplicable position on war- and peace-mongering? Can he prove his very serious charges against Forrestal, Harriman and Lovett?

If he can't, there is grave danger that both the "democratic leader of the United States" and his Yugoslavian press agent may wind up looking, in the eyes of the American people as well as of the foreign visitors, like a couple of dopes.

Congress Tackles Problem Of Europe's Critical Need

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—(AP)—This will bring you up to date on aid for Europe, the biggest problem facing Congress.

By last Spring it was clear this country had been pouring out billions to help Europe without getting Europe on its feet.

Congress would not let that go on.

But it was easy to see that if we did not help Europe it might turn Communist through despair.

That would leave us pretty much alone in the world. In the end it might ruin us.

Russia Bows Out

So on June 5, George Marshall, Secretary of State, told Europe something like this:

"We'll help you but you'll have to help yourselves, too."

"Work out a plan for helping yourselves, such as exchanging things you need, like coal."

Russia and the countries dominated by Russia said they wanted no part of this tie-up with America.

Western Countries Meet

But 16 of the Western European countries took Marshall at his word and met in Paris.

They agreed on a program of self-help over the next four years. And they figured out what added help they needed from us and other non-European countries.

Over the next four years they need, they said, about $22,400,000,000 in help, most of it from us, in money and goods.

Since Congress would have to approve any help from this country, it would need to know how much help we could give.

Truman Appoints Aides

So President Truman set out to get this information.

1. He set up a special committee under J. A. Krug, secretary of the interior, to find out how much

Bang's Disease Cut By New Cattle Vaccine

EAST LANSING, MICH.—(AP)—A new vaccine for cattle developed by Dr. I. Forest Huddleson, Michigan State College bacteriologist, shows good promise of preventing the spread of Bang's disease in cattle herds, and thus lessening the danger of undulant fever in humans.

The brucella vaccine will be used in widespread tests on Michigan dairy herds. In experiments on private herds during the last two years, the vaccine limited the spread of the costly Bang's disease to four per cent of the susceptible animals.

Undulant fever in humans is spread by contact with infectious material from animals.

Country Boy Has Better Chance, Hal Boyle Avers

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—The product of modern civilization I feel most sorry for is the metropolitan child—the kid who grows up in a big city.

Even bubble gum doesn't make up for the lost pleasures of a boyhood spent in crowded places, where asphalt has smothered the grass and stone canyons condense the broad sky.

Life in the country or a small town enables a child to grow slowly from elementary savagery into the pattern of civilized man, but it allows him more freedom in the process. And it holds wonder in him longer, the wonder that keeps him fresh and young in heart.

Stranger To The Land

A boy raised in the hinterland is educated not only by books but by elemental and eternal things—wind and rain, the growth of trees, the ways of wild animals and the helpless habits of the tame.

He never falls victim to the chief crime of modern cities, which is to become a stranger to the land. He may grow up somewhat shy and reserved, but he has an interior self-reliance that makes up for it.

The main thing is he has time in such an atmosphere to have fun in the free way a boy needs—to roam and build up his wind, legs and nerves against the tasks that lie ahead.

Hears 'No, No, No!'

In the city, on the other hand, a boy hears the parental "No, no, no!" from birth. He lives in a more dangerous world, whence accidental death is always near. He plays in narrow confined spaces, and his play is as supervised as his studies.

So more and more he is drawn into the mysterious and terrible adult world, sickly intoxicating and unhealthily exciting for his half-formed mind. Like island natives first visited by white trad-

Idol Of Romania Gets Life For 'Treason' Against Soviet

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Juliu Maniu, grand old man of Roman peasantry and several times premier of his country, has gone the way of all those who oppose Communism within the Soviet zone of domination.

A military tribunal has pronounced him guilty of treason, the charges including the accusation that he plotted with America and Britain to overthrow the government. He was condemned to solitary confinement for life—a punishment regarded by most as more terrible than death. Eighteen others were convicted of crimes against the state (four in Absentia) and received various degrees of punishment.

It is in ironic circumstance that it was Maniu who lifted the prohibition against Communist activity in Romania when he first became premier in 1928 after his National Peasant party had won 85 per cent of the country's vote. The same regard for individual liberty which impelled him to raise this ban also inspired him to battle against control of his country by Moscow, although he denied on the witness stand that he had done anything treasonable.

Maniu Fought Hitlerism
Just as Maniu had fought Hitlerian domination of Romania, so he opposed Soviet rule which was inaugurated in 1945 when Petru Groza was made premier upon demand of Moscow. The ultimatum for Groza's appointment was delivered to youthful King Mihai by Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister, whose two-fistedness has been so well demonstrated in his attacks on America and Britain in the United Nations.

Maniu had been a grievous thorn in Moscow's side, and the crushing of this aged idol of the peasants would seem to give the Soviet Union a tight grip on the country. This is especially true since Russia maintains a large force of troops there.

Of course it's easy to understand why Russia wants to have absolute control of Romania. It is a vital section of the Eastern European bloc which Moscow has been consolidating.

Well, Russia seems to have secured her control all right. It's hard to figure out anything that will disturb it for the time being.

U. S. Sees Need Of Special Agency To Help Administer Marshall Plan

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—(P)—One of the most important problems, of all those in the Marshall Plan to aid Europe, is this:

Do we tie strings to the help we give?

If we do, what kind? And what happens if they're too tight?

The Marshall Plan calls for helping Europe over the next four years with goods and money, worth up to $20,000,000,000 perhaps.

But who'll handle the job of giving the aid to the 16 European nations which asked for it? The State Department? Probably not.

Need New Agency
Government men who have studied the problem, and this includes Congressmen, think a new and special government agency should be set up.

Their thinking goes like this:
1. The President would appoint someone to head it, with the approval of Congress.

2. He'd be assisted by a board of directors made up of the heads of various big government agencies, such as Secretary of State Marshall.

3. This special agency would have at least one special representative in every country receiving the aid.

4. It would be the job of a representative to check on how each country is using the aid we give it.

Check On Use Of Aid
It seems likely that Congress will want some strong understanding, perhaps guarantees, on how the European countries use our help.

So it would be the job of the representatives to see that those countries are living up to the agreements they made with us.

And right here the question mentioned earlier in the story comes in:

What kind of promises or agreements will we want from the countries we help?

And how far will the European nations go in allowing us, even though they are in desperate need, to tell them what they can do?

Should U. S. Aid Socialists?
The question of watching how Europe uses our aid will be a big one when Congress starts considering the Marshall Plan.

Already in this country there's been talk, especially among some politicians, that we shouldn't give any Marshall Plan help to Socialist nations in Europe.

This idea is opposed by the special committee of 19 citizens, headed by Secretary of Commerce Harriman, which President Truman set up to report on how we can make the Marshall Plan work.

This committee, in its report made public recently, said we should not withhold aid from a Socialist country as long as it is democratic.

But this question of giving aid to a Socialist country also probably will be a sore spot when the arguments start in Congress.

FORT WORTH—(P)—Chalk up another casualty to the T formation.

This time, however, it's an official and not some football team that couldn't fashion a defense for the T.

It will not be long now before the expert bridge players of the nation begin to assemble at the Hotel Chelsea in Atlantic City, N. J., where the Winter session of the national championships tournament will get under way on Nov. 29 and continue through Dec. 7.

There is one world championship title at stake, several national titles and many amateur championship events.

Kibitzers at the nationals always expect the experts to do the impossible, and Oswald Jacoby did not disappoint them on today's hand. Tournament players will be interested to know that Jacoby is re-entering tournament bridge and will compete in the nationals at Atlantic City. East won the opening diamond lead and returned a heart. Jacoby (South) went up with the ace of hearts, took two rounds of trumps, then led the king of diamonds. Did he discard the losing heart on this trick? No—he discarded the six of clubs. Now he led a club from dummy to the king, led his last club back to dummy's ace, and ruffed a club. When the clubs broke 3-3 he was able to discard his losing heart on dummy's fourth club. Not a difficult play—when you see it made by an expert!

The population of Europe more than doubled between 1800 and 1900.

Animal Antics

You can make both pedestrians and other motorists angry by simply blowing your horn loud and long at the driver ahead just as the light turns "go." This is particularly annoying if the first car is waiting for pedestrians to get to the curb. The courteous driver uses his wits instead of his horn. The courteous driver is the careful driver. We will gladly write your automobile insurance if you are a courteous driver.

Very Happy Compromise

Here is the ideal compromise for the "new look" problem. This plastic skirt, which Detroit's Arthur Radebaugh is finishing, lets the ladies wear a long hemline, but also permits the gentlemen to gaze upon a well-turned calf. The model? Oh, she's Carolyn King.

'Shoplifters' Always Come Back To Settle

BAYBORO, N. C.—(P)—J. G. Alcock, a hardware dealer in this Atlantic coast town, has kept $300 worth of merchandise unguarded in front of his store day and night, and says only once or twice in 17 years has anything been stolen. Anyway, says the Pamlico County bachelor, there would be no room to move the tinware, horse collars, fencing, farm and fishing equipment inside at night. Small hardware items crowd the shelves and larger and heavier ware on the floor of the small store leave little space for customers. Sometimes a customer will pick up an item from the front of the store while Alcock is away, "but they always return the next day or so when they're in town to settle up."

Fatalistic Moslems Defy Cholera Germs

CAIRO —(P)—The cholera epidemic in Egypt has produced many examples of Moslem fatalism. A Moslem emerging from prayers in a Mosque, where he heard a sermon on the epidemic and how to keep away from it, met a peddler selling dates. He asked him for "two ounces of Cholera." Dates are known to be carriers of the microbe. Vegetables are apt to carry cholera germs unless they have been boiled.

Berlin Denazifies Names Of Streets

BERLIN —(P)—The denazification and demilitarization of Berlin street names is proceeding. One hundred and fifty of 2,000 streets in Berlin scheduled for change have been renamed so far. Guides to the city print both the old and the new name in order to avoid confusion. About one-third of the American people live in areas without public libraries.

Committee Gives Three Reasons For Adopting Marshall Plan Now

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON —(P)— You've probably asked yourself or your neighbor this question: "Why should we keep on giving aid to Europe, particularly under the Marshall Plan?" That plan calls for shelling out help for the next four years at a cost of maybe $20,000,000,000. Why should we take on something like that?
Committee Answers
An answer to that is given by the special committee which President Truman appointed to study our ability to help Europe. This committee of 19 citizens, headed by Secretary of Commerce Harriman, gave these three reasons:
1. Political—to stop Communism.
2. Economic—to help Europe and, by doing so, to help ourselves, too.
3. Humanitarian—to help people in distress.
This is what the committee had to say on each:
Political Reason
The countries of Eastern Europe are dominated by Russia. We don't want the countries of Western Europe to turn Communist or come under Russian control. It's in our own interest to see that this doesn't happen. If the countries of Western Europe can become prosperous, there's less chance they'll turn to Communism.

Science Aids the Search for Oil in Texas. Using the most advanced methods of exploration, geologists and geophysicists carry on a continuous search for new oil reserves. The search takes geophysical crews into almost every part of the state and has prompted the exploration of off-shore tidelands, one of the most likely locations of undiscovered oil-bearing structures. Even after these advanced methods have revealed the location of a favorable spot in which oil might be found, the odds against the oil prospector are still about nine to one! Only a wildcat well can finally determine whether or not oil is present. Oil is becoming harder and harder to find and at constantly increasing depths; during 1946 more than 9% of all wells drilled were deeper than eight thousand feet. One-third of all wells drilled last year were dry holes.

There Are 105,000 Producing Oil Wells

in Texas. Every section of the state produces some oil, and altogether Texas produces 44% of the U. S. total. Texas wells, in proven, developed fields, produced 80% of the additional oil required by Allied forces in World War II. It would have been impossible to produce a fraction of the needed oil by drilling new wells in undeveloped fields. At present it is estimated that between 50,000 and 55,000 Texans are employed in the production of oil, an additional 25,000 in the drilling of wells.

Oil and Gas Conservation Is Practiced by oil companies in Texas, to prevent waste of a vital natural resource, to produce oil more efficiently thereby keeping product prices as low as possible, and to accumulate the oil reserves needed for national security. Oil is withdrawn from wells at controlled rates to increase to the maximum the total amount that will be produced. A large part of the gas produced with oil is utilized for fuel and other purposes.

There are 36,500 Miles of Oil Pipelines in Texas. These enable Texas inland producers to sell oil to refineries in practically any U. S. market. Some of this inland oil is transported to the great refining centers in the Middle West but most of it is piped to terminals on the Texas Coast where the largest refineries are located.

Texans know a great deal more than most people about the oil industry. They recognize it as the major industry of the state, an industry which has made notable contributions to the prosperity of nearly every Texan, to the development of Texas, and to the security of the United States.

But . . . do you know that there are 4,000 separate oil companies operating in Texas? Do you know how many oil wells are located in Texas? Do you know how much the oil industry contributes to the state's income? . . . Here are important details of Texas' leading industry which every Texan ought to know.

Nearly One-Third of the Total Income in Texas Was Derived Last Year from the Operations of the Petroleum Industry.

Five hundred and sixty-three million dollars went to 220,000 employees for wages and salaries, $240,000,000 to land owners as royalties and for leases, and $41,000,000 to the State for taxes. Other millions were paid to manufacturers and distributors for materials and supplies. Some of these oil dollars must have found their way into the bank account of nearly every Texan.

Gasoline Quality Has Improved Continuously

since 1920, and further improvement is certain. Refinery scientists, anticipating further improvement in automobile design, are working now on the fuel your car will require five years hence. This chart shows the rise in gasoline quality, measured by octane numbers, since 1920.

The Price of Gasoline Has Gone Down

while quality was going up. Today you pay less for a better product, thanks to the progressive oil industry and to the keen competition between companies for your business. This chart shows how the price of gasoline has gone down since 1920. The tax is not included.

Texas Oil Refineries Have a Daily Capacity of 1,500,000 Barrels.

more than that of any other state. The larger refineries are located on the Gulf Coast, from which they can ship by water to the densely populated markets of the eastern United States. Oil refineries account for 45% of the value of the state's industrial products. During the War, Texas refineries made not only gasoline and other products for automotive equipment, but also synthetic rubber, Toluene for TNT, and billions of gallons of 100-octane aviation gasoline. Research in refinery laboratories is continuous, resulting not only in product improvement, but also in the discovery of many new uses for petroleum by-products. Refinery scientists have contributed heavily to the expanding chemical industry in Texas.

There are More Than 15,000 Retail Gasoline Outlets in Texas. The service rendered by these retailers probably exceeds that of any other merchant. The dealer in petroleum products cleans your windshield, checks your oil, furnishes you with free air and water, provides restrooms and free travel information. The large number of retail outlets, the unusual service they render, the high quality of petroleum products—all are evidence of the keen rivalry that exists among companies for your business.

Miss Minnie Would Be Heiress To Throne, If Washington Had Been King

Miss Minnie: Her "court" is the Cass County Home.

By WINTON K. SEXTON, HARRISONVILLE, Mo.—(NEA)—From her rocking chair at the Cass County Home, Miss Minnie has a sympathetic eye for all the fuss about the wedding of England's heiress presumptive. Miss Minnie probably would have been an heir presumptive herself if George Washington hadn't said "utterly odious" to the idea of a throne for America. Today, as the person genealogists think is Washington's closest relative, she feels he couldn't have said it better.

So plain Marion Wallace Washington, 78, holds court in her rocker, against a background of old prints and lithographs of portraits, including one of the first President, who spurned the suggestion that he take over as king in 1782.

Childless George and Martha Washington left no direct descendants. However, Miss Minnie is considered by Frederick T. Wilson, Washington genealogy specialist, to be the closest relative from the first President's many nephews and nieces. Her father, Daniel Bedinger Washington, and her mother, Lucy Anna Washington, both are direct descendants of Samuel Washington, the brother next to George in the family line.

Born in Missouri

Miss Minnie was born in Johnson County, Mo., and for years lived with her brother and sister. Until a recent illness, her home was a plain cottage in little Garden City. Her cottage rent was free, provided by good neighbors, and her main source of income was a $40 monthly old-age pension.

Never one to play upon her distinguished ancestral line, Miss Minnie's court in Garden City consisted of chats with her neighbors as she knitted before her home, or talks with strangers who happened upon her there.

With no one in Garden City now to care for her, she has moved to the Cass County Home, where what might have been never figures in her conversation. She votes a straight ticket. Which one? She's happy that another Missourian is in the White House today.

Congress—

of our goods, like coal, we could afford to let Europe have.

2. He asked his council of economic advisers to tell him what giving this help would do to this country. For example: Would giving away some scarce things boost prices here?

3. He set up a special committee of 19 citizens under W. Averell Harriman, secretary of commerce, to tell him how this help should be given.

Krug's committee reported October 18 that we could give a lot of help without hurting ourselves.

The economic advisers reported recently that we could give the help without damaging ourselves, if we tried to keep prices from running away.

And last week the Harriman Committee made its report.

This committee studied the other two reports and outlined a plan for giving help. But it said we could not give all the help the 16 nations asked.

President Truman had intended using these three reports in making recommendations to Congress when it met in regular session in January to consider the Marshall Plan.

Emergency Arises

But in the meantime something very critical had happened in Europe.

France and Italy, which were among the 16 nations that agreed on the Marshall Plan, got into a desperate jam for food and fuel to carry them through the winter. (This was a special need and is not part of the Marshall Plan, which is a long-range, four-year plan and is not supposed to start until 1948.)

So Truman called Congress into special session November 17 to vote special help for France and Italy this winter.

That's the first thing congress will tackle when it meets Monday.

Once that's out of the way Congress will have to consider the four-year Marshall Plan.

Besides the three reports mentioned above more than 200 Congressmen have been abroad since July making their own investigations into the help needed by foreign countries.

So Congress, when it meets, will have an enormous amount of special and first-hand information on the problem of helping Europe.

Sea Captain Brothers Meet in Ireland

CORK, EIRE.—(AP)—Two American brothers—both sea captains, whose homes at Mobile, Ala., are within "hollerin' distance"—met for the first time in 14 years in the mayor's parlor at Cork City Hall.

Capt. Oscara Jones of the SS Henry Ward Beecher and Capt. Lee Jones of the SS Horace Greeley, last met in Havana, Cuba, in 1933.

Captain Oscar told Lord Mayor Michael Sheehan, who received the brothers and the captains of two other American ships discharging cargoes of American coal at Cork, "there is a law against us Jones brothers getting together but Ireland cannot know about this law."

With the Jones brothers were Capt. John Ward of New York, master of the SS Thomas Payne and Capt. J. Witz of San Francisco, master of the SS James Gunn.

Tourist Trade Grows On French Riviera

CANNES.—(AP)—The French Riviera is returning to its prewar eminence as the world's playground, figures for the 1947 summer season's visitors to Cannes indicate.

The municipality's statistics showed a 25 per cent increase over last year to 64,526 visitors. Of these 17,171 were from 54 foreign countries, including 3,947 from Britain, 3,226 from the United States, and 2,508 from Belgium.

There were six tourists from Japan and 52 from Germany.

Shoe production in the United States during 1945 exceeded 500,000,000 pairs.
