If television viewing is one of your nightly habits, you'd might as well forget it until the November elections are over. Although the Republican convention isn't quite as boring as the cut and dried Democratic event, it's boring enough, and the various network newscasters just add insult to injury. This is especially true if you lean toward conservatism. All three networks are so liberal-bias its impossible to escape a brain-washing attempt everytime you turn the set on. They rather remind me of old time circuit evangelism. They are going to convert the world to liberalism or die trying.

They've been pretty successful too. So far, they have named a vice-presidential candidate. Throughout the Democratic convention Walter Mondale was shoved down our throats morning, noon and night. It was apparent after the first day that he had been picked for the spot, and thus no surprise when Jimmy Carter announced that he had chosen Mondale as a running mate. They said early in the week that Carter was in his hotel room watching television. If after switching the tube on and off for a few minutes at a time, I could feel like Mondale was my next door neighbor, imagine what three days and nights of constant viewing did to Jimmy Carter. Of course, he picked Mondale. After all the exposure what on earth else could he do? I just hope the poor Democratic hopeful doesn't think he made a free choice. More like blackmail if you ask me.

This week they've all been out fighting for the "cause" again. Of course, by the time you read this it will all be over but the shouting, but as of noon Tuesday, they were still forcing prominent Republicans into a corner trying to get them to repent and embrace liberalism. Tuesday morning one of the zealots had the audacity to ask Senator Howard Baker if he realized the Republican Party was doomed if it continued to steer a conservative course. Can you imagine this, only a few weeks after a nationwide poll clearly indicated most American voters termed themselves as political conservatives? It's really astounding to what lengths they will go for the liberal cause, even to downright, ball-faced lying.

When they were unable to place one of their own as the Democratic Party's presidential nominee, they immediately began driving the conservative demons (so to speak) from the mind of Jimmy Carter, and apparently successfully. He has been uttering the liberal phrases, at least when he has an opportunity. It's the fair-haired Mondale who gets the spotlight and most of the television news coverage. Much like the tail wagging the dog.

By now we know whether it's Reagan or Ford for the Republican nominee, but no matter, they are both too conservative for the national t-v prophets, even though Gov. Reagan picked one of their own for the second spot. This, no doubt, made them go a little easier on him than ordinary, but was not to his advantage otherwise. We have two solid months of sermonizing. Action Named S&WCD

Director

Earl Acton was elected district director for zone 3 Crockett County Soil and Water Conservation District, in an election held Saturday. He replaces R. A. Harrell, who steps down after 26 years of service.

Harrell and L. B. Cox Jr., who retired from the board in 1973 after 23 years of service, were honored for their many years of service with the District. They were presented desk sets by the board for their unselfish service and leadership over the years.

Harrell and Cox were elected to the Board in 1950 when the district was first organized. Harrell served as secretary-treasurer prior to 1960 and as chairman of the board from 1960 until his retirement. Cox served as secretary-treasurer from October 1961 to October 1973 when he retired.

The district is divided into five zones and a director is elected annually from each zone to serve a term of five years. Presently serving from their respective zones are Bill Baggett, zone 1; Charles E. Davidson III, zone 2; Acton, zone 3; Joe Couch, zone 4 and Bud Hoover, zone 5.

Hedrick Replaces Houston

Maintenance Construction Supervisor Cecil F. Hedrick of San Angelo has returned to his home town of Ozona to assume supervision of the Crockett County area Maintenance Section for the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation (DHT). The promotion, announced by District Engineer D.R. Watson of San Angelo, comes after more than 24 years of faithful service to the DHT, most of it in the Ozona area.

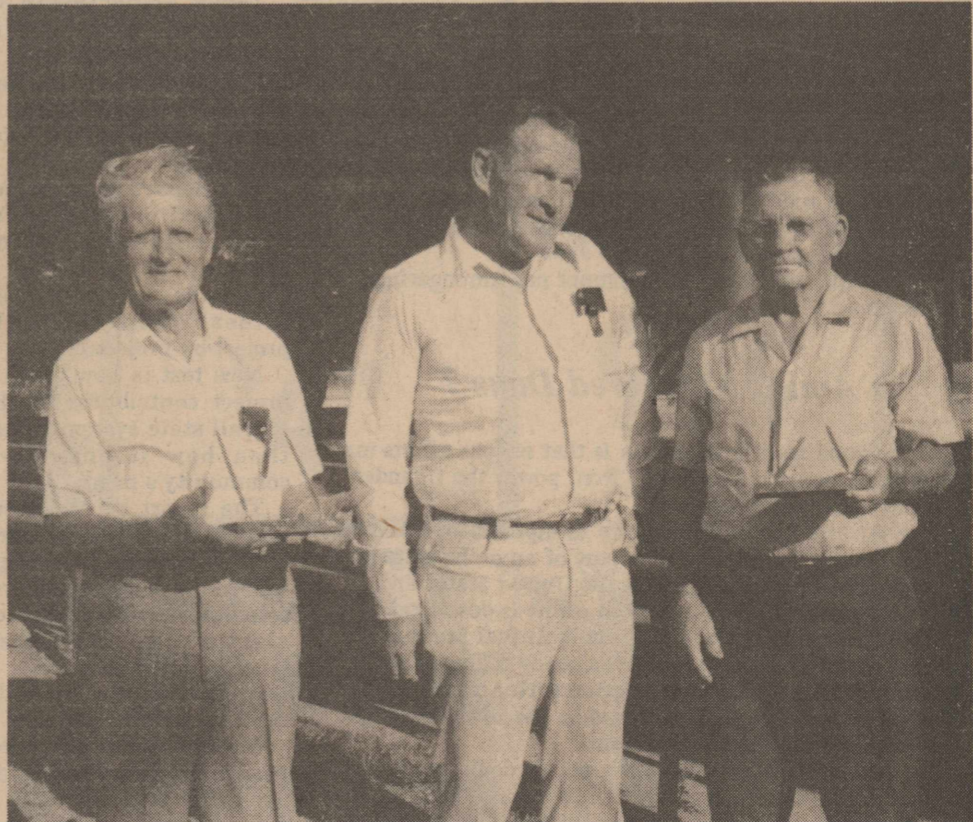

Cecil, his wife Sybil, and their daughters Denise (16) and Ranita (12) made the move to Ozona July 20, so that Cecil might assume his duties on August 1.

Cecil's DHT career began in May of 1952 in Ozona when he went to work with Scottie Houston whose July 31, 1976 retirement vacated the position Cecil now occupies. During the years 1973-76, Cecil and his family lived in San Angelo where he was in charge of a Special Maintenance Force working in all of District Seven's thirteen county area.

District Maintenance Engineer James R. (Bobby) Evans described the work done by Cecil's Special Forces crew as being of a wide variety, ranging from bridge widening jobs along U. S. 290 in Kimble County to the addition of rafting on structures on S. H. 70 in Coke County, to construction of curb and gutter through the City of Eden, and pavement marking in all thirteen counties. "Cecil is an excellent leader," said Evans, "he is the kind of man who demonstrates how to do a job, and works harder than anyone else."

REIGNING RODEO QUEEN Becky Everett was chosen the final night of the junior rodeo by a panel of four judges. The five contestants were judged on a ten-point system. Runner up, or rodeo princess, is Janis Janes, Miss Everett will reign until the queen is selected next year.

Let's Get On With Nuclear Power

It's time for the United States to get off dead center and get on with the development and expansion of nuclear power.

Due to a combination of extremely stringent government regulations imposed by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) plus the strident demands and obstructionist tactics of various Nader-style "environmentalists," our development and use of nuclear power as a source of electrical energy is lagging behind the rest of the world. It is ironic that other countries should be bogging ahead of the United States in nuclear power when the scientists and engineers of this country have provided most of the technical know-how.

Self-styled "environmentalists" and pseudo-scientists have been waging a propaganda war against nuclear energy on the basis of "safety." The fact is, no industry in the world is as safe or as clean as nuclear energy.

Before a license to build is granted, every nuclear plant must be given a bill of health by the NRC. Everything is stringently examined for protection against possible human error and equipment malfunction; for quality and precision in materials, fabrication methods, construction practices, testing, and operation of the plant. Even the skills of the engineers who operate the plant are checked. A large number of NRC staff personnel including metallurgists, physicists, geologists, seismologists, mechanical and electrical engineers, and those with other scientific disciplines scrutinize every aspect of the planning, building and operation of every nuclear power plant.

No other industry in the world is subjected to such rigorous and exacting demands. It is safe to say that if similar requirements were imposed, let us say, on the transportation industry, not one automobile would come off the production lines nor one airplane would leave a runway and not one truck would be on a highway in the United States. In the 20-plus years of nuclear power plant operation in this country, there has not been a single public death or injury. In this same period, nearly three-quarters of a million people have died in highway accidents.

The "safety" issue relative to nuclear power is as non-existent as a three-dollar bill. America needs more power, for homes, for jobs, for industry. Let's get on with it.

You Pay For Government Papermongering

None of us needs to be reminded of the huge cost of government. We see it extracted from our pay- and pockets- every week. But what many people don't realize is that the dollars you earn are not only "clipped" when you take them in; you are "clipped" again as you shell your dollars out.

Did you know, for example, that Federal paperwork just the filling out of government forms- costs you an extra $2.00 on every automobile tire you buy? Such was the testimony given at a hearing in Washington this summer before a special study Commission of the Small Business Committee.

It was further reported that it costs a hospital $4.00 a day for every patient, just to fill out reports for the government.

One small businessman, the proprietor of a small, family-owned and operated restaurant, testified that his clerical staff of three devote more than 20% of their time to filling out government forms. In addition, he has to pay more than $6,000 a year to an outside accountant, largely to satisfy government requirements. A contractor who specializes in digging excavations said that his firm could cut costs - and the amount he must charge his customers - by 20 percent if federal paperwork was decreased.

A small business tire retailer told of the mandatory "registration" of customer's names and addresses, plus their tire serial numbers. Every time a tire is purchased, the dealer must go through the time-consuming and costly form-filling routine. Yet, never once has the government used the information so painstakingly recorded. All it does is fill more file cabinets (and buildings) with worthless forms.

Wasteful, needless, Government papermongering must cease.

Idi Amin: Numbered Days?

The good news from Africa is that serious efforts may finally be underway to topple from power the Ugandan dictator, President Idi Amin.

Great Britain's recent rupture of diplomatic relations with Uganda is reported to be part of an orchestrated campaign which also involves the United States and Uganda's neighbor, Kenya. The effort is described as a steady drumbeat of economic and political pressure designed to speed along a process already taking place within Uganda, where disaffection with Amin is widespread. It has been reported that he has been the target of several assassination attempts.

If reports of such a plot are true, it could not happen to one who deserves it more. Amin is a uniquely vicious ruler who runs Uganda as his personal fiefdom and regularly feeds those who displease him to the crocodiles. He is capricious, vindictively cruel, and quite possibly insane - a villain quite suitable for a James Bond movie. Should he ever get his hands on nuclear weapons anyone within his reach would be in deepest peril.

AUSTIN - Auto insurance rates are going up again - but not nearly as much as they would if the State Insurance Board hadn't installed automatic deductibles.

The average statewide increase for private passenger cars will be 7.1 per cent, effective for policies renewed or taken out October 1. This follows a 15.5 per cent hike effective January 1.

Deductibles of $200 for collision and $50 for comprehensive coverage will be written into all policies unless the holder orders otherwise at an additional premium. Policyholders pay the deductibles themselves in event of claims. Companies pay the balance over $50 or $200.

Insurance companies put in for a 27.9 per cent increase, and Insurance Board staff members recommended 19.3 per cent using present optional deductibles. Actually, car owners in 29 of the 40 rating territories over the state will have reduced premiums under automatic deductibles.

More than 90 per cent of motorists are expected to accept the new system. Deductibles of $100 are written into most collision policies but not into comprehensive coverage.

Actuaries estimate the deductibles will eliminate $55 million in administrative expenses for insurance companies and save the companies $76 million in pay-outs to drivers.

Premiums vary on the basis of driving record, age, location, uses, make and model of car. Bexar County (San Antonio) drivers would bear the largest increase - about $13 - and those in Waller County would get the biggest reduction, $35.

Study Released
 Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation adopted a study calling for a new approach to road planning and new financing methods.

The department earlier instituted one of the recommendations placing highway planning on a statewide system basis rather than the old project-by-project basis.

New test is how much a project contributes to the overall state system rather than how it answers a community's needs. The report by McKinsey and Company of Dallas (result of a 15-months, $600,000 study) also recommends a moratorium on right-of-way purchases, since a large inventory is on hand which cannot be used for several years.

Many McKinsey proposals for financing highways due to the decrease in projected gasoline taxation already had been recommended by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Prisons Crowded
 Some of the children, ac-

Texas' prison population will increase about 50 per cent in the next five years, Department of Corrections Director W.J. Estelle told a House committee.

Estelle estimated the number of prisoners will increase from 20,847 to 30,153. He is pushing for approval of a new prison facility. The prison system can build it for $72 million, he said, but the institution would cost $111 million if it is handled entirely by contract.

Estelle suggested the legislature consider giving counties authority to start work-release programs for their prisoners in local jails.

He backed a restitution program by which the inmates would use part of their earnings to pay victims of their crimes.

AG Opinions
 University of Texas regents have to make public a UT system nursing school report and other documents backing their decision to close it, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:
 - A tax exemption for disabled veterans and their families is constitutional.
 - The Railroad Commission must issue notice and conduct hearings in order to issue a formal declaratory ruling requiring interpretation of a previously-adopted commission rule.
 - Blood tests for drunk driving are excepted from public disclosure.
 - State employee retirement system trustees may promulgate rules requiring state contributions under the uniform group insurance benefits act be applied only to an approved "basic plan" or "retirees plan."
 - County officers and employees can be paid for unused sick leave but are not entitled to interest on unpaid claims for accrued leave.
Education Offered
 Education will be available next school year for more than 3,000 handicapped children not served by any agency.
 Potential students three to 21 years old were located in a five-months statewide search.
 Most of those located in the "Child Search" operation fall in the severely-handicapped range, and many suffer from more than one disability - physical, mental or emotional.
 Texas Education Agency and regional education service center staff members will work with school districts to develop at least interim programs for the children immediately.
 Special staff development programs designed to help administrators, teachers, diagnosticians and other personnel improve their skills are already underway on an emergency basis.

SNIPS, QUIPS AND LIFTS
 by Lottie Lee Baker

Those banquet orations are called toasts because they are usually dry and crumbly.

A correspondent for a community paper reported two reasons why his news was so short: 1. Nothing happened, 2. What did happen happened to people who don't happen to want everybody to know what happened.

So far more people get autos than autos get people-but the ratio is rapidly changing.

Did you hear about the executive who had a peach of a secretary until his wife canned her?

Golf is a lot like taxes-you drive hard to get to the green and then wind up in the hole.

It takes a great deal of wisdom to know when silence is golden or just plain yellow.

Annual Income: Something you can't live without-or within.

Some leave footprints on the sands of time. Some cover them up. And some had rather walk than walk.

Some political candidates are like balloons-a lot of hot air surrounded by a thin skin.

Some fellows can't tell the difference between working up steam and generating a fog.

Keeping house is like threading beads on a string with no knot in the end.

POWER WALKS by U.S. Senator for Texas JOHN TOWER

A Laugh from OSHA

WASHINGTON-I never cease to be amazed at the mindless and astonishing ways that federal bureaucrats devise to waste our tax dollars. One marvel follows another.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) of the Department of Labor is perhaps the most controversial of the alphabet-soup regulatory agencies that have sprung up in Washington.

OSHA's foolish, arbitrary and capricious regulations like the one that requires each farmer to place toilet facilities and running water in his fields have reduced many a grown man to tears. I myself have often felt rage, frustration, anxiety or despair upon reading them and then battling to get them modified to conform, a least a little bit, with the circumstances of the real world.

Thus OSHA's latest effort, a pamphlet entitled: "Safety With Beef Cattle," came as a welcome relief. I nearly split my sides laughing as I read it.

This brochure, which OSHA produced at a cost to you and me of $10,000, would be grossly insulting to farmers if it weren't so hilariously funny. Anyone reading it would have a hard time deciding whether it was written for morons or by morons or both.

The "safety tips" that the bureaucrats of OSHA-many of whom, I suspect, would not be able to tell one end of a cow from the other-have to be read to be believed. Let me give you a few examples:

"Hazards are among the main causes of accidents."
 "When floors are wet and slippery with manure, you can have a bad fall."

"Ladders that are not strong or have broken steps can cause a bad fall. If yours is broken, do not climb it."
 "Tired or hungry or frightened cattle can bolt and trample you."
 "Bare feet or sneakers aren't safe around cattle. Wear heavy shoes."

Such rubbish insults the intelligence of everyone who has ever worked on a farm or ranch. I can't imagine a more frivolous waste of taxpayers' money.

OSHA apparently agrees with me. It is attempting to suppress distribution of the existing 100,000 copies of the brochure pending publication of a revised version. OSHA is refusing to hand out copies of it even to U.S. Senators.

The only reason for OSHA's suppression of this brochure is to protect its already poor reputation among farmers and ranchers by trying to prevent public knowledge of its abysmal stupidity.

I'm handing out all 100,000 copies of "Safety With Beef Cattle." It provides the most graphic illustration possible of the positively astounding ways in which federal bureaucrats waste money. It should be read by every taxpayer.

 Dear Mrs. Montgomery,
 So sorry I let this slip past me. I certainly look forward to your newspaper every week. Enclosed is my check for the subscription.

Please notice my change of address above. Didn't I see Brian in a Plymouth commercial during the Olympics? We plan to watch him this week on the Barnaby Jones re-run. When you see him, give him our regards and the best of luck in all his ventures.

I'm teaching on a maximum security prison farm near here - the best job I've ever had. But I still miss Ozona.

My wife and daughters join me in congratulating you for your continuing success in getting out the best little paper in the state (make that the world).

 Dear Editor,

It was my good intentions to suggest to you and the centennial committee a project that might be worth while, that is to replace the wind mills on the hill and ridge.

Everybody likes windmills. I have heard this comment several times, "oh! you are from that pretty little town with all the windmills on the hill."

I am still proud of that pretty little town. Sincerely,
 Hollis Weaver

P.S. A little sentimental, but thinking of my good Ozona friends.

Mrs. George Montgomery returned to her home here Friday after spending a week in a San Angelo hospital undergoing medical tests.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Usually two watch-words for the month of August are: watering and weed control. Since the rains, the weeds are growing by leaps and bounds, so keep up with them to prevent their taking over our town. The county will really have a big job to get the draws, streets, and parks mowed, so try to get your property cleaned up as soon as possible. This will help the people who suffer from hay fever in the fall.

Water requirements of plants vary. A list of a few may be helpful for the remainder of the summer. The soil around shallow-rooted plants such as ferns, dog wood, hydrangea, camellia, azalea and calladiums should not be allowed to dry out even once, to look their best.

Plants with moderate water requirements should be next on the list—juniper, nandina, pyracantha, crepe myrtle and abelia. Among the drought-resistant plants are lantana, pampas grass, yucca, vitex and others. They are able to go without water for a longer period of time without adverse effect.

Jade plants can be treated like a cactus; give it plenty of drainage, but only enough water to prevent wilting. Frequency of watering will depend upon its size and condition of the plant, the container, humidity and temperature of the plants surroundings.

Since the rains, bluebonnets are coming up thick all over the hillside, and where planted in flower beds. It isn't too late to plant or throw seed out in native area you may want them. Fall rains will bring them up before cold weather.

Summer prune when necessary if your trees have produced excessively heavy summer growth. Thin out unnecessary branches and foliage. If your fruit trees have developed a thick center of leafy branches, prune to thin and open up for more room and sunlight. Coat cut places with pruning wound paint.

Roses given a light pruning in August will produce beautiful fall roses. Feed the last of this month. Dahlias and chrysanthemums should be fertilized lightly to promote growth and good flowers. Disbud both when need for larger blooms. Perhaps you have noticed how the crepe myrtle likes summer heat. The heat seems only to stimulate this popular plant to better flower production.

For late fall and winter geraniums bloom indoors, start cuttings now. Healthy cuttings taken at this time will grow and mature into booming size plants to enjoy during the winter.

Debra Says
by Debra Price

Most Americans consume less milk and milk products than recommended. Milk and milk group foods, such as cheese and ice cream, are the leading calcium sources essential for strong bones and teeth. In addition, milk supplies the body with high-quality protein, riboflavin and vitamin A, as well as many other nutrients.

Some milk is needed by everyone. When the food intake for a day contains 1 pint (16 ounces) of milk, the diet will usually supply enough calcium to fulfill the Recommended Daily Allowance. Children require 2 to 3 cups daily; teenagers, 4 or more cups daily; pregnant women, 3 or 4 cups daily; nursing women, 4 or more cups daily; and adults, 2 or more cups daily.

Mild group foods include milk products in various forms. When buying milk, compare the prices of the different forms—fortified fluid skim milk, fortified fluid low fat (2%) milk, fortified buttermilk and canned, fortified evaporated milk. These forms usually are cheaper than fresh whole milk. Fortified nonfat dry milk is generally the least expensive and furnishes about the same nutrients as whole milk, but with only half the calories.

Another milk group food is soft cheese (whether natural or processed), hard cheese and cottage cheese. Cottage, Swiss and cheddar cheeses often are bargains for certain essential nutrients. Purchase low-cost cottage cheese, which is a good source of riboflavin and protein. Each 1/2 cup serving of cottage cheese supplies as much protein as a 2 ounce serving of meat, fish or poultry. Swiss and cheddar cheese generally are more economical sources of calcium than is cottage cheese. Buy cheese in 2 pound or larger packages, slicing and shredding it at home. IMITATION SOUR CREAM 1/3 cup skim milk 2 tablespoon lemon juice 1 cup cottage cheese 1/2 cup salad oil 1 teaspoon salt 1 tablespoon chopped chives or chopped onion.

Measure all ingredients into mixer or blender. Blend 5 seconds; scrape sides of container. Blend 5 seconds or until smooth. Cover and refrigerate. Serve as a dip or on baked potatoes. Makes 1-1/2 cups.

GREEN ENCHILADAS
1 can cr. chicken soup
1 small can evap. milk
1 small can pimento, optional
1 dozen corn tortillas
1/2 pound soft process cheese
1 small can green chilies, chopped
1/2 pound longhorn cheese, grated

1 cup onions, chopped
Heat soup, milk and processed cheese in top of double boiler until cheese is melted. Add chilies and pimentos. Combine Longhorn cheese and onions which have been cooked until clear. Fill each tortilla with cheese and onion mixture, roll tightly and place in long baking dish. Pour cheese sauce over tortillas. Cover with aluminum foil. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

Soon... the Explosion

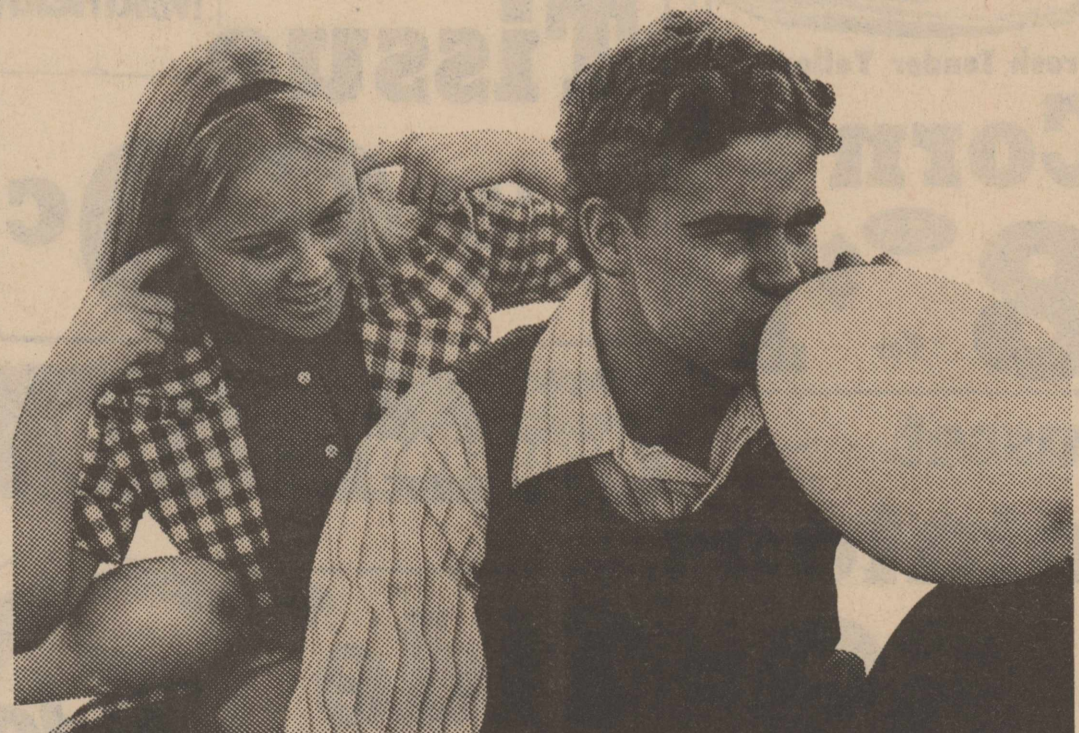

According to pessimists it won't be long before the world blows itself up. Now that man has the capability to wipe out civilization, they say, his unrestrained instincts will drive him to do just that.

But are man's instincts unrestrained?

The principles of law, morality, responsibility are the foundations of an orderly society. They have their roots in religion.

In the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, the life and message of Jesus Christ, the hopes and destiny of mankind are expressed. Earnest men have been channeling instincts and spiritual energies to positive purpose for generations.

Next time someone says "soon—the explosion" . . . invite that person to come to church with you and your family.
