As an encouragement to future farmers made it a policy to pay a premium to the young fellows when their projects are auctioned off on the last day of the show. Just for the information of newcomers to the community it should be explained that you are not required to buy an animal at the auction if it is your desire to contribute a premium. Stock buyers bid a floor price on all of the animals offered for sale. When the individual animal is auctioned off the bidder is only required to pay the difference between the amount of his bid and the floor price. The stock buyer then pays the floor price and takes possession of the animal. The bidder can, however, claim the animal if he wishes to pay the full price of his bid. All businessmen are urged to attend the sale and con tribute to it's success.

Texas can't go very long without some sort of political rhubarb. The most recent is the squabble over the poll tax fiasco. Apparently Governor Connally and Attorney General Carr were deeply embarassed and chagrined over the decision of the United States Attorney General to have the FBI make spot checks of the voting registration procedure in the state. Whether this is, or has ever been a policy in other states should make little difference with our state officials. If you have nothing to hide, then why object to a routine inspection. It should be remembered that it was a federal court that declared the assessment of a poll tax, as a requirement for voting, unconstitutional. Maybe it should follow that a federal law enforcement agency should determine that the decision is respected and upheld, and that could only be done by some type of inspection.

Just before Jesus ascended to heaven he told his disciples, "All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth." (Matt. 28:18) He proceeded to delegate that authority to the apostles by saying, "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." (Matt. 28:19) When the apostles carried out this command, they did so by authority. Jesus had pro-mised the Holy Spirit to guide them into all truth when he would no longr be with them (John 16:13).

Jesus nor the apostles are here in the flesh, yet we have their words in written form in the New Testament. The New Testament then is the only standard of authority for those who follow Christ's teachings. The danger of changing the teaching of Christ or his apostles is given in Gal. 1:6-8, "I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel; which is not another; but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ. But though we, or an angel from Heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed." Only when men respect the authority of the scriptures, leave them unchanged, practice the things sanc-tioned therein, can we please our Creator. The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
