AG nixes proposed jail bond ballot

Howard County voters hoping to see more than one location for a county jail bond issue on the November ballot may be disappointed, according to County Judge Mark Barr.

Barr said Thursday afternoon the Texas Attorney General's office rejected a proposed ballot that would have allowed voters to decide if they wanted to fund a new jail facility, and if so, choose between two locations.

"If the voters have three separate propositions —

"What we wanted to do is give voters the chance to vote for or against the jail, and if they voted for it, then vote for the location"

"So, if we did it that way, it would almost certainly fail, and we're in a position where we really have to get this passed.

Biggio becomes 27th player to 3,000 hits

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — Craig Biggio was exhausted and ready to talk 11th inning made it 5-4. The loss about his latest accomplishment. He still had some time for an old friend, though. "Hey Frankie, how you doing,"

he said nodding to a slight teenager with a mop of dark

Biggio joined the 3,000 hit club and Carlos Lee hit a grand slam in the 11th inning as the Houston Astros beat the Colorado Rockies 8-5 Thursday night.

Biggio met the 15-year-old Frankie Velasquez through his work with The Sunshine Kids Foundation, an organization which helps children with cancer, when Velasquez was 6 and has kept in touch with him since.

"He's one of a kind," Velasquez said. "He's done so much for us Sunshine Kids and I'll always be grateful to him. Seeing this happen was a once in a lifetime experience."

Lee's drive to left field off Brian Fuentes (0-3) came on the first pitch. Biggio singled in the 11th — for just his second career fivehit game — and Hunter Pence followed with a double before Lance Berkman was hit by a pitch to load the bases.

"I think it was the way it was supposed to be done," Biggio said as he choked back tears. "To have it happen here — that was a special atmosphere that was out there today."

Troy Tulowitzki's solo shot off Brian Moehler (1-2) to lead off the extends Colorado's season-high losing streak to seven games.

Biggio became the 27th player to reach the mark with his single to center in the seventh inning. The second baseman was thrown out trying to stretch the play into a double on his third hit of the night, which tied the game at 1.

"I couldn't have scripted it any better," Biggio said. "There are a lot of things that have happened over the past 20 years but tonight is the best."

Biggio is the first player to reach 3,000 hits since Rafael Palmeiro on July 15, 2005, with Baltimore. He passed Roberto Clemente for 26th on the career list with his fourth hit, a ninthinning single.

The 41-year-old, who entered the season needing 70 hits to reach the milestone, has played his entire 20-year career with the Astros, making him the longest tenured player in franchise his-

Bidding Quiz

Partner bids One Heart, and the next player passes, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid with each of the following five hands?
1. ★ KQ872 ♥ Q652 ◆ 83 ♣ 74

- 2. ♠ 82 ♥ KQ7 ♦ J97 ♣ KQ932 3. ♠ 53 ♥ KJ84 ♦ AQ96 ♣ K98
- 4. ♠ AQJ3 ♥ 8 ♦ K62 ♣ AJ874 5. ♠ 6 ♥ K97542 ♦ 7 ♣ QJ863
- 1. Two hearts. It is better to respond with two hearts, indicating six to 10 points and adequate trump support, than one spade. One objection to a one-spade response is that if partner rebids two hearts, you will be faced with a bidding problem of your own creation. To bid three hearts would constitute an overbid not warranted by your cards; to pass would result in ending the bidding without ever revealing your heart support. Such problems can be avoided by raising immediately and leaving the
- rest to partner. 2. Two clubs. This hand is too good for a raise to two hearts, and not good enough for a raise to three hearts, which would show 13 to 15 points. A temporizing bid of two clubs is therefore made, the intention being to support hearts after partner rebids. (Even if you play limit raises, wherein an immediate raise to three hearts would show 11 or 12 points, two clubs would be the better bid with this hand.)
- 3. Three hearts. This is a typical hand for a double raise of partner's suit (forcing to game). It is better to raise directly than to respond with two diamonds, which would tend to overemphasize your diamond strength when you next jump-raise hearts. (For those who play limit raises, be sure you have discussed with your partner how you would make a forcing raise with this hand.) 4. Two clubs. It is clear that your side has at least a game on this hand, but you cannot tell at this point just what game you belong in. The best you can do is to try to describe your hand as accurately as possible in an effort to get to the best contract.

You therefore bid clubs first with the intention of bidding spades next to show that you have more clubs than spades. If partner shows a liking for either of your suits, you can consider trying for slam. If no fit in either suit is discovered along the way, and if partner keeps on bidding hearts, you can then undertake a game in notrump. 5. Four hearts. This is not a strength-showing bid insofar as high cards are concerned, but instead shows a distributional hand that contains long trump support (five or more cards) and no more than nine high-eard points. Its chief purpose is to try to keep the opponents out of the bidding, although partner may very well make four hearts.

manager Ron Washington said. "He got out of it."

Tigers manager Jim Leyland said Rogers, who was 7-0 in starts after Detroit losses last season, wanted to keep throwing beyond the sixth.

"But with 85 pitches and it being his second game back, I'm not going to get crazy," Leyland said. "He's kind of freaky, really. To be out that long and pick both sides of the plate apart. That's not easy to do."

Chad Durbin pitched the eighth, and Todd Jones finished with a perfect ninth for his 19th save in 23 chances, completing a seven-hitter.

Gary Sheffield hit a two-run homer, his team-high 18th, in the seventh off reliever Scott Feldman, and Carlos Guillen had a two-run single in the fifth to extend his hitting streak to a career-best 14 games and his string of games with an RBI to 11. The latter is one shy of the club record shared by Hall of Famer Mickey Cochrane and Rudy York.

"He's locked Leyland said. "Rarely do you ever see him throw an at-bat away."

Twins 8, Blue Jays 5

Frank Thomas hit one out of the park for the 500th time. Eight innings later, he was sent out of the park himself.

Thomas hit a three-run shot in the first inning of the Toronto Blue Javs' 8-5 loss to the Minnesota Twins on Thursday, becoming the 21st major leaguer to reach 500.

In the ninth, Thomas was ejected by plate umpire Mark Wegner after being called out on strikes for the second time in the game. Blue Jays manager John Gibbons came out to argue and also got tossed.

"I'm probably the first to get 500 home runs and get thrown out of the ballgame," said Thomas, who also had a run-scoring double and tied his season high with four RBIs. "That's something I didn't want to happen, but the moment just got the best of me."

Torii Hunter homered twice and Jason Bartlett connected for also Minnesota, which rallied from a 5-1 deficit.

"You can't upstage 500 home runs. It's hard to do. I'll be lucky if I hit 300," said Hunter, who has 181 career homers.

Carlos Silva (6-8), who gave up Thomas' milestone homer, was the winner and Joe Nathan finished for his 15th save. Jason Frasor (1-3) took the loss.

Thomas came up after Matt Stairs' RBI single in the first and sent Silva's 1-2 pitch an estimated 396 feet into the left-field stands. Todd Eisenlohr. sitting in the fifth row and wearing a jersey of player Twins Jason Bartlett jersey, caught the ball in his glove.

"I lost it in the roof as it was coming down," Eisenlohr said. He said he traded the souvenir ball for an autographed ball, bat and jersey.

Thomas said he plans to keep the ball unless it is wanted by the Hall of Fame.

Lawmakers scrambling in wake of immigration bill failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hours after a massive immigration bill collapsed in the Senate, lawmakers and lobbyists began seeking ways to pass bits and pieces of the measure important to their con-

A priority for many farm groups is the "Ag jobs" component, one of several programs now needing a new legislative vehicle. It would legalize about 1 million undocumented agricultural workers in the U.S., a key goal of growers whose crops can rot in the fields if not harvested at key times by people willing to work hard at low wages.

The program is considered relatively popular, as is another piece of the stalled bill: the DREAM Act, or Development, Relief and Education for Alien Minors Act. It would create a path to legality for illegal immigrants planning to attend college or join the military and who came to the United States with their families before they turned 16.

Company eyes two Texas sites for new nuclear plant

HOUSTON — Exelon Nuclear has identified two possible southeast Texas locations for a nuclear project as the company prepares a federal application to build and operate a new plant.

Officials said the Illinois-based company hasn't committed to building a plant, but it expects to submit an application for the project to the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission in November 2008.

The primary prospective site is about 10 miles south of Collegeport in Matagorda County. A secondary site is about 20 miles south of Victoria in Victoria County.

Spokesman Craig Nesbit said Exelon will work through an 18-month process with the commission before the application is submitted. After that, regulators would take three to four years to evaluate the application.

The company expects to spend $23 million on the application process.

of W. Highway 80 and a site adjacent to the District Courthouse — have been the topic of much debate among Howard County commissioners.

Three weeks ago commissioners voted unanimously in favor of using the location in the 3600 block of W. Highway 80, dismissing the downtown site due to exorbitant costs.

"The courthouse square property would have cost approximately $300,000 just for the land, and bricks and mortar to match the existing court buildings was just too high," said Barr during the June 12 meeting of the commissioners court. "That cost was estimated at $517,000 overall."

Barr said the site the court chose along W. Highway 80 would cost approximately $55,000 for the county to procure, with no additional costs, thanks to available utilities.

"We won't have to relocate any of the utilities, and that's a big money saver," said Barr. "The land will cost approximately $45,000, with an estimated $10,000 closing cost."

According to Barr, residents in the area surrounding the W. Highway 80 site were approximately 80 percent for or indifferent to the project and 20 percent against.

What the AG's decision will mean to efforts to develop plans and designs for both sites is unclear at this time, according to Barr.

"I believe we'll be able to clarify a number of points during our July 9 meeting," said Barr. "We'll be able to explain our direction a little better at that honored being Coahoma's Citizens of the Year.

Trustees approved those hikes in hopes of making BSISD salaries more competitive with neighboring districts.

'We here in Coahoma hold the Freedom Parade to not only show pride in our country, but to honor patriotism and salute the men and women who have served and are serving their nation in the military," said Justice of the Peace Quail Dobbs, one of the event's organizers. "And we're extremely pleased that a U.S. Marine Corps honor guard will lead this year's parade."

Always an exciting event, there's little doubt Freedom Parade will again be an impressive sight this year with vehicles of virtually every kind - bicycles, threewheelers, wagons and carts occupied by redwhile-and-blue-clad children, antique and classic automobiles and pickup trucks — drawing smiles and laughter from spectators who line up along North First Street to watch.

And then there are the tractors — some dating back to the early 1900s, while others will look as if their owners have just taken delivery from the implement dealer.

Dobbs said awards will be given for the best car, pickup truck, float, bicycle, child's ride and tractor. The parade will line up at the football stadium and proceed south on North First (FM 820) through downtown to the north service road along Interstate 20. It will turn east to Sixth Street and back north to the city park. Following the parade, a car and tractor show is scheduled at the park. There will be a people's choice award for each show, along with prizes to the top three vehicles.

Booths will offer ice cream, hamburgers, hot dogs, chili dogs and other food, along with plenty of drinks, said Dobbs.

Participation is by donation, and all funds earned will go to the United Way of Big Spring and Howard County. First Bank is also supplying water for all parade participants.

That's one of the best parts about this parade participants can be just about anyone.

"All you have to do is Dobbs show up," explained. "Just line up with everyone else at the football stadium and that's it. You don't have Rose Garden, where a perennial playoff team has fallen on hard times after some worse behavior. But the Blazers got Rookie of the Year Brandon Roy last year and got an early start on having next season's winner when they grabbed Oden to play alongside LaMarcus Aldridge.

"They did have a bad (reputation), but I think Brandon and LaMarcus kind of turned that around," Oden said. "I hope that I can come and just push that along some more."

Even with Durant, feelings weren't quite the three-game sweep.

And he's not changing his mind now.

"Not at all, not at all," Durant said. "When you play since you were 8 or 9 years old, you know the game is not a one-man sport. I'm far from being a savior."

Joining Durant to help the Sonics rebuild is Georgetown's Jeff Green, taken by Boston with the No. 5 pick and heading to Seattle along with Wally Szczerbiak and Delonte West. Durant knows Green from growing up in Washington, D.C.

"I know Jeff pretty well, on a D.C. Blue Devils team, we gained a friendship from there," Durant said. "He's a great player, and I can't wait to play with him."

Portland also made a deal, clearing room in the middle for Oden by trading Zach Randolph to New York. The Blazers also sent Fred Jones and Dan Dickau to the Knicks for Steve Francis and Channing Frye.

The only other trade involving an NBA player came when Golden State sent Jason Richardson the rights and Jermareo Davidson, the No. 36 pick, to Charlotte for Brandan Wright, taken at No. 8 by the Bobcats.

The rest of the trades, most in the second round, involved picks or cash.

The Atlanta Hawks used the No. 3 pick, their first of two in the lottery on Al Horford, who saluted the pro-Florida crowd with the Gator chomp. The two-time defending NCAA champions became the first school with three players selected in the top 10 of the same draft.

They made it when Corey Brewer went to Minnesota at No. 7 and Joakim Noah — donning a brown bow tie and getting a huge reaction from his hometown crowd was taken by Chicago two picks later.

"This is an unbelievable experience" Horford said. "Winning two national championships. Moving up to the next level is unreal."

Two more Gators went in the second round: Chris Richard at No. 41 to Minnesota and Taurean Green by Portland at No. The five players equaled the second-most for one school in a draft. UNLV had six in 1977 though that came in four rounds.

The Hawks passed on Michael Conley Jr., even though they still need a point guard after passing on Chris Paul and Deron Williams two years ago. The Memphis Grizzlies then grabbed Conley, Oden's teammate since their junior high days and the third freshman in the top four picks.

Atlanta finally grabbed that point guard by taking Acie Law at No. 11 — the first college senior taken.

"Freshmen are very, very talented," Law said. "I think in the draft, it's all about position and what a team needs, and you see some great, great players in this draft. I'm happy with the team that I went to and just happy to get to Atlanta and help franchise turn that around."

The Milwaukee Bucks took a chance at No. 6 on the draft's mystery player, Chinese forward Yi Jianlian. Though Yi was getting plenty of attention — half of the record 60 international media members were from China he came with plenty of question marks. He hasn't played against top competition in the Chinese leagues, and he is rumored to be older than the 19 he is listed.

Milwaukee also ignored concerns that Yi only wanted to play in a major market with a large Asian population. He didn't even work out for the Bucks.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

Thank You, Lord, for this moment of prayer.

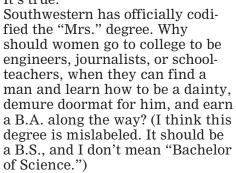

Amen

The Lord teacheth me to make beds

then I read recently that Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth will offer, beginning this fall, a curriculum in Christian homemaking, I didn't know whether to laugh, cry, or throw

As a feminist, and more importantly, as a woman who did not have a lobotomy when she got married, I cannot understand why a woman would attend college to earn a Bachelor of Arts in Humanities with a concentration in homemaking.

It's too pathetic to be some twisted joke. It's true.

The powers-that-be at the seminary (read here: the menfolk only) decided us little ladies needed further training in how to submissively serve men better, so they created an entire curriculum on the 3 Cs of traditional womanhood cooking, cleaning, and child rearing. The woman who completes this degree, according to the seminary's Web site, will have "practical experiences for skill development for the most important job a woman may have: the nurture and care of the family."

Mumbo, jumbo, anti-feminist nonsense from men frightened of equality in relationships, terrified of not having dominion over women, this degree is just a fancy label slapped on an assembly-line method created by and for men to train their women to be indentured servants, wives by the legal

At the Southern Baptist Convention's annual meeting in San Antonio earlier this month, Paige Patterson, president of Southwestern, explained his rationale for creating this degree program. "We are moving against the tide in order to establish family and gender roles as described in God's word for the home and the family."

Interpretation: Women's identities are dependent on and determined by the men in their lives.

Apparently, the Bible teaches that real. AKA "Christian." women sew, slave over the stove and have sex at their husbands' insistence, all with a smile. I guess I've missed those verses.

The women I know from the Bible are like Esther in the Old Testament who saved the Jewish nation from genocide, and Deborah, a prophetess, a judge, and a military leader. My women Biblical heroes also include Mary Magdalene and the other Mary who were brave enough to go to Jesus' tomb three days after his crucifixion while his disciplesmen—hid in fear, and the Hebrew midwives in the book of Exodus who courageously challenged the Pharaoh's command to murder the Hebrew baby boys at their birth. Biblical women are simultaneously strong and spiritual.

Would Patterson admit these women to his seminary, to his Christian homemaking program? The texts for the degree include ones on decorating, time management, and meal preparation. But what if I don't want to be merely some man's woman and play the pretty, pouting spouse? What if I exercise my feminist rights for which my mother's generation fought by choosing to have my own profession? Does that make me less of a wife and mother, or less of a person of faith?

BIG SPRING HERALD

Friday, June 29, 2007

It scares me to think my spirituality is dependent upon, and intrinsically intertwined with, whether my chicken casserole recipe tastes good. It doesn't. Or if I have the most aesthetically pleasing window treatments. I don't. If so, I can now give up any chance of the afterlife, if there is one. If so, I'm doomed to eternal damnation, because as my 10-yearold son can tell you, I can barely open and microwave canned pasta without a kitchen catastrophe.

Patterson also told the messengers at the convention in San Antonio, "If we do not do something to salvage the future of our home, both our denomination and our nation will be destroyed."

I just can't handle the pressure that the existence, the fate, of our democracy depends on how I mop the kitchen floor or if I clip coupons for my groceries.

Living in the land of the free magine you are living legally, I should add — in a foreign country. Maybe you're a student, living with your family, studying at a local university. One day, you are charged with credit-card fraud and making false statements. But you never go to trial on those charges. Instead, you are held in a military prison for four years and allowed no outside contact, even with family or lawyers, for the first 16 months of detention. You are denied basic necessities, exposed to sensory deprivation, threatened with rape and sodomy. Still, no other charges are filed. You are "designated" an enemy combatant, but there is no opportunity to challenge that designation. No tribunal, not even a military one, reviews the determination. It is enough that the country's leader says you are a danger. The "Justice" ministry supports him. When you finally find lawyers to challenge your detention, "Justice" department lawyers fight them every step of the way. And for two years, they win.

What kind of country would do that to a person? Ali al-Marri, a citizen of Qatar, has been held under precisely these circumstances for the last four years in a military prison in South Carolina.

Two years into his detention, lawyers from NYU's Brennan Center for Justice brought suit in federal court challenging the constitutionality of the government's actions. This week, a divided panel of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit upheld his challenge, ruling that the Bush administration could hold Mr. Marri as a material witness in connection with a grand iury investigation, deport him or charge him with a crime, but it could not simply turn him over to the military, lock him up and throw away the key.

Judge Diana Gribbon Motz, writing for the majority in the 2-1 decision, concluded, "To sanction such presidential authority to order the military to seize and indefinitely detain civilians, even if the president calls them 'enemy combatants,' would have disastrous consequences for the Constitution — and the country. We refuse to recognize a claim to power that would so alter the constitutional foundations of our Republic."

The Justice Department is not buying it. In the wake of the decision, they announced they would continue to fight for the right to detain people indefinitely in military prisons solely on the formal say-so of the president. They are seeking review "en banc" by the full panel of the Fourth Circuit, and if they are unsuccessful there, I have no doubt they will seek review by the United States Supreme Court. Mr. Marri, they declare, is a danger, even if no tribunal, court or military panel has had a chance to determine that.

It would be shocking — if this Justice Department had not already behaved in a shocking way so many times.

What makes this case particularly troubling is that Marri was no danger to anybody at the time he was placed in military custody. He was being held in a civilian prison, awaiting trial for the credit card and false statement charges. So why the transfer?

The answer suggested by Judge Motz was to allow the government to subject him to the kind of brutal interrogation that would not be allowed in any civilian prison, and should not be allowed in a military one under the 2004 United States Supreme Court decision in Hamdi v. Rumsfeld. Of course, the government isn't admitting this. Given its druthers, both the imprisonment and interrogation of Marri would be secret, subject to neither judicial review nor public scrutiny.

Two weeks ago, in a littlenoticed motion in the Scooter Libby case, defense lawyers, who had submitted 150 letters in support of Mr. Libby, asked that the letters not be made public lest the writers be ridiculed in the blogosphere, as, of course, they were. Joe Klein, writing for Time, notes how mean and nasty liberal bloggers (and conservative ones, too) can be to those with whom they disagree. Believe me, I know. In rejecting the defense motion in the Libby case, however, Judge Reggie Walton emphasized the countervailing interest in the transparency of federal court proceedings, even if transparency sometimes has its costs.

The same rules that apply to the defense should apply to the prosecution.

This administration, in case after case, has made clear its preference for secrecy in the name of security. It fights transparency, as applied to its own actions. It fights against openness, review, standards and scrutiny. The rule of law cannot survive a blanket of secrecy. There has never been a greater need for the kind of transparency Judge Walton insisted upon, not only in trials, but also in the actions of the Justice Department and the military. It should not be a secret to our enemies that we are a country that respects the rule of law, and that is unafraid to abide by it in public.

Federer, Sharapova advance to third round at Wimbledon

By CHRIS LEHOURITES

AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON Roger Federer won his 50th straight match on grass, needing only 11 minutes Thursday to complete his 6-2, 7-5, 6-1 victory over 18year-old Juan Martin del Potro of Argentina to reach the third round at Wimbledon.

The four-time defending champion, who will next face Marat Safin, had led 2-0 in the third set before rain halted play Wednesday. When they resumed, the top-ranked Swiss finished off del Potro, winning three straight games before Del Potro held serve in the sixth game.

"It was done quickly like I was hoping, but I was ready to go five sets in case," said Federer, who broke the Argentine five times and saved the only break point he faced.

No. 2 Rafael Nadal also won, beating Werner Eschauer of Austria 6-2, 6-4, 6-1, and advanced to the third round along with No. 4 Novak Djokovic, No. 6 Nikolay Davydenko and No. 9 James Blake. Four-time semifinalist Tim Heman lost, however.

On the women's side, Maria Sharapova, Venus Williams Amelie and Mauresmo advanced.

The No. 1-seeded Federer, trying to become only the second man in the Open era to win five straight titles at the All England Club, finished with 33 winners and made only 23 errors — one less than Del Potro.

achieve," said Federer, who is ning me a lot of points," trying to match Bjorn Borg's streak of Wimbledon titles. "I'm delighted about that but I haven't won the tournament.

Two-time Grand Slam champion Safin beat Aisam-Ul-Haq Qureshi of Pakistan 6-4, 6-2, 7-6 (4) to advance.

"He's always a player who can upset anybody on any day. I hope he's not going to have one of those crazy good days against me," said Federer, who edged Safin 6-4 in the third set at last year's grass-court warmup at Halle, Germany. "I feel like I will have to step it up if I want to beat him."

Federer said skipping this year's Halle tournament has not hurt his play, but he did admit to feeling slightly under the weather.

"I have a bit of throat thing going on, but not much,' Federer said.

Williams, wearing white spandex shorts instead of a usual skirt or dress, beat Hana Sromova of the Czech Republic 6-2, 6-2 to reach the third round in the women's draw.

"I really haven't played in shorts before, but my skirt was big," the three-time Wimbledon champion said. "I think they just made it too big."

Williams, who struggled in the first round Tuesday but eventually beat Russian teen Alla Kudryavtseva in three sets, dominated Sromova with her first serves, winning 100 percent of those points in the first set.

"I think my serve is pretty "Fifty is a great number to dynamic right now. It's win-Williams said.

> In the second set, Williams saved break points in the first and seventh games.

> Sharapova advanced by beat-2006quarterfinalist Severine Bremond of France 6-0, 6-3. The 2004 champion has shown no sign of the injured right shoulder that bothered her at the French Open.

> "I was able to hold my serve after getting that break in the second set, and I was able to follow through," said Sharapova, the 2004 champion.

Mauresmo, who beat Justin Henin in last year's final, easily beat Yvonne Meusburger of Austria 6-1, 6-2.

Mauresmo is seeded only No. 4 because she was sidelined following an appendectomy in March and had a groin problem that contributed to an early exit at the French Open.

French Open finalist Ana Ivanovic also advanced to the third round, beating Meilen Tu of the United States 6-4, 6-3. 5 Svetlana Also, No. Kuznetsova, No. 8 Anna Chakvetadze No. 10 Daniela Hantuchova, No. 11 Nadia Petrova, No. 12 Elena Dementieva and No. 14 Nicole Vaidisova won. No. 13 Dinara Safina and No. 17 Tatiana Golovin lost.

Henman was eliminated by Feliciano Lopez of Spain 7-6 (3), 7-6 (5), 3-6, 2-6, 6-1 in a match that started a day earlier. It was the third year in a row that Henman lost in the second round.

Russia's Maria Sharapova defeats, 6-1, 7-5, Taiwan's Yung-Jan Chan in their first round match Tuesday at the Wimbledon tennis championships in London.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You want to know behind the logic everything now. You've always thought you just sort of fell into a certain grove with someone, but now you realize you chose this person for a reason.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES: Identify your heart's desire, and grab it with both hands. Make a bold commitment to a future for two by showing someone how much you care.

TAURUS: One small step toward a life's dream beats a lifetime of regrets.

GEMINI: Love is seeing everything, rejecting nothing. Being truly seen is empowering.

CANCER: Sentimental nostalgia rekindles your relationship. You won't let your past cloud a realistic view of the future. LEO: You'd give the shirt off your back for the one you love. You won't have to. It's your time to shine. VIRGO: If you love

If their love is true, you LIBRA: Aim high in love, but not so high that your partner can't reach somebody, set them free.

you. SCORPIO: A change of scenery is a breath of fresh air for your relationship. SAGITTARIUS: A visit from an out of town friend renews your zeal. CAPRICORN: Nothing lasts forever, even a promise "for eternity." Offering this moment of vour best self is good enough. AQUARIUS: You have options. You make a decision to either move forward or pull back in love.

PISCES: You're social and on the go, but not too busy to notice someone noticing you. COUPLE OF WEEKEND: Aries and Aquarius: time trippers, visionaries daredevils. Both live in a future world far better than this one, so deciding on the same one is essential. When Aquarius hatches a plan, Aries immediately pulls on his boots and heads in Aquarius' direction. Aquarius delights in defying gravity and convention, which spells pure joy for youthful Aries. These liberated souls can break the chains of love.

First United Methodist Church

On Sunday, the Rev. Dr. Shane Brue will begin a sermon series on "Holiness." This week's topic will be "Lessons

From the Potter's House" scripture text from Jeremiah 18, verses 1-4. Services of worship will be held at 8:30 a.m. and 10:50 a.m.

At 5 p.m. Sunday, a special prayer time will be held in the sanctuary. This service is held monthly on the first Sunday. Other quiet prayer times are held on Thursdays at noon and Fridays at 7 p.m.

Following Sunday's prayer time, the Senior Adult Ministy, SAM, will hold its Annual Air Conditioned Independence Celebration complete with hot dogs and patriotic entertainment. This favorite get together begins at 6 p.m. in Garrett Hall.

The church offices will be closed on Wednesday, July 4. There will be no noon Bible study and luncheon and no Children's Day Out this holiday.

Mark your calendars for "Avalanche Ranch," this summer's Vacation Bible School scheduled to begin on Monday, July 9.

Our church buildings are located at Fourrth and Scurry streets in the heart of downtown Big Spring. We have Sunday School classes for all ages at 9:45 a.m. each Sunday.

For a complete listing of activities, check our Web site at www.fumcbs.org.

Salem Baptist Church

We welcome the Rev. Ken Coffee to First Baptist Church as our permanent temporary pastor. If that sounds confusing, it really isn't. The Rev. Coffee will be assuming all the duties of a pastor while he is here with us at First Baptist representing the "Intentional Interim Ministry," which is a ministry of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. We are honored to have him here with us and invite you to come and hear him share God's word with us during our Sunday and Wednesday services.

Sundays begin with Sunday school at 9:30 a.m. followed by the morning worship service at 10:50 a.m. Evening services begin at 6 p.m. Our Wednesday evening schedule begins with a meal at 5 p.m., followed by activities for all ages.

The church provides the meat and drinks for the meal and our members bring either a salad, vegetable or dessert. If you're a first timer, just bring yourself and let us treat you. Our program this month will take you half way around the world. They'll probably play some Joker or 42 when the program ends. It looks to be a great time!

Our GAs, the mission group for young girls, will be leaving for their summer camp at Big Country Baptist Assembly in Leuders (close to Abilene) July
4. The girls have worked hard to pay their own way to camp, and we pray that they'll have a safe trip and a meaningful camp experience.

Though there may be things that are wrong with our country, there are many more things that are right. Let's celebrate our country on Wednesday by thanking God that we live in the land of the free and the home of the brave. God bless America!

Forgoing stability in pursuit of a dream

In person

Who: Texas music artist King Cone.

Where: JnR Sports Bar, 1310 W. Fourth St.

When: 9 p.m. Saturday.

Admission: $3 per person.

Herald Staff Report

There's a quote in King Cone's on-line biography, when asked about his major struggles in life. "Forgoing stability in pursuit of a dream," responds the Texan.

That's because instead of having a "real" job, Cone travels from town to town, playing bars, honky tonks and charity functions. It hasn't always been that way.

Like many other aspiring musicians, King Cone, son of a former Dallas blues player, made his way to Austin. But he didn't go to hone his talent along Sixth Street. No, he went to get an education at the University of Texas.

While studying economics, he was president of his fraternity, foreman of the Texas Cowboys service organization and editor of the UT Law School yearbook.

It was just a matter of time though — his senior year, in fact — before he returned to his roots. After all, he played his first paying gig at age 13. Six months after graduating from UT in 2004, armed with a stack of songs he wrote, and a new band — The Tailgate Philharmonic — Cone struck out on the road.

Saturday, his travels will bring him to JnR Sports Bar in Big Spring. Admission is $3 per person. The show will begin at 9 p.m.

Despite his heavy schedule, the Decatur native managed to release a CD last year, "Gallery." He says he is a fan of Dire Straits, Johnny Cash and Delbert McClinton, with a little Journey, Rolling Stones and Otis Day and the Nights thrown in. He wrote 10 of the 11 songs on the CD himself.

One dollar from each CD sale goes to the American Cancer Society, a charity close to him because his mother is a cancer survivor. Cone has performed at several fund-raisers in the fight against cancer, as well as other causes, and developed and produced a foursong CD for the Making Memories Foundation's Brides Against Breast Cancer program.

Cone says his music is constantly evolving, is always upbeat — wild, even — and most importantly, "honest."

JnR Sports Bar is located at 1310 W. Fourth.

Police investigate suspected bomb in central London, say it has been 'made safe'

LONDON (AP) — Police defused an explosive device found in a parked car in central London on Friday, and the new government called an emergency meeting of senior security chiefs to investigate what many feared could have been a planned terror attack.

Police said the car busy parked near Piccadilly Circus — contained a "potentially viable explosive device" but would not give further details.

Prime Minister Gordon Brown, who took office on Wednesday, said the inci-Britain faces "a serious and continuous threat" and the "need to be alert."

"I will stress to the Cabinet that the vigilance must be maintained over the next few days," Brown said.

The incident comes a week before the second anniversary of the July 7 London bombings, when four British Muslim suicide bombers killed themselves and 52 bus and subway passengers.

5 U.S. troops killed in attack on their combat patrol

BAGHDAD (AP) — Five American soldiers were killed and seven wounded in a coordinated attack in southern Baghdad involving a roadside bomb and rocket-propelled grenades, the U.S. military announced Friday.

The soldiers were on a combat patrol when a roadside bomb exploded near them on Thursday, the military said in a statement. Shortly after the blast, insurgents attacked with small arms fire and rocket-propelled grenades, it said.

All seven wounded sol- low Democrats played to diers were evacuated to a military hospital, and one has since returned to duty, the military said. The victims' names were withheld pending family notification.

The deaths brought to 99 the number of U.S. troops who have died in Iraq this month, according to an Associated Press count.
