Bias primed for Silver Wings Ball

COPYRIGHT 2007

By BILL MCCLELLAN

VOLUME 102, NUMBER 281

News Editor

Meghan Bias is pretty excited about the Hangar 25 Air Museum's Silver Wings Ball coming up in early November. She wants the public to get excited, too.

"It's a great time for a great cause. I know you hear that all the time, but it's true," said Bias, who earlier this year took over as administrator of the museum.

The annual event promises a full evening of activity — a silent auction, loads of hors d'oeuvres, dancing and live music. Tickets for the Saturday, Nov. 3 ball are $25 per person. Reserved tables for eight are $200. The auction is the event's highlights. Among the items to be awarded is a guitar autographed by members of the band, No Doubt. Also on the auction block — overnight packages at vacation locations.

BIAS expected to be one of

In a separate give-away, ball organizers will be awarding a two-night stay at the historic El Paisano Hotel in Marfa, plus $200 in trip expenses. Don't forget dancing.

"We have a great band from Midland, Millennium Jazz. They play a variety of music to dance to," said Bias, who added that the ball offers the public a "wonderful opportunity to get dressed up and have a good time."

Dress is Texas Formal, which Bias defined as "Whatever you want it to be."

However they dress, the museum administrator wants to make it clear that everyone is invited.

"We want everyone to understand, this is not just for military or those who were associated with Webb Air Force Base or the Big Spring Bombardier School. Our museum is dedicated to local history and Webb and the bombardier school are a part of that," Bias explained. 'This is for everyone.'

Besides an opportunity to have a great time, there is that other reason — a good cause.

"Events like the Silver Wings Ball keep our doors open and allow us to hold activities for the public, such as our Veteran of the Month program and the programs for youth. We are non-profit," said Bias. "We rely on grants, donations and fundraisers like the ball. This is our largest fund-raiser."

The Nov. 3 ball gets under way at 7 p.m. at the Big Spring Country Club.

Those planning to attend are asked to RSVP by Oct. 29 by

Stewart top carver again

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

Don't tell Jim Stewart that bigger is better.

For the second year in a row, Stewart took the small route to a big award, as his two-inch miniature took Best in Show honors at the 17th annual Mustang Draw Woodcarvers Club Show and Sale at Dora Roberts Community Center Saturday.

Stewart worked from a sketch of a deer and used what he calls an "opti-visor" — a visor with magnifying lenses attached — to create his award-winner.

His finely detailed figurine aced out about 70 total entries in 14 divisions at this year's show, officials said.

And the competition, club member James Fryar said, was fierce.

"In my opinion, the Mustang Draw Woodcarvers Club has about four of the best carvers in the state of Texas," Fryar said. "Just take a good look at this work and you'll see it.'

This year's show had slightly fewer exhibitors than in the past, but that didn't detract from the event's overall success, Fryar said.

"It's gone well," he said Saturday. "We were a little short of (exhibitor) tables, but we had a good crowd Friday and we're hoping we'll have even more (Saturday).'

A week of special woodcarving classes led up to the main event during the weekend — Friday's show and Saturday's sale.

Angel Tree sign-ups start slowly

By THOMAS JENKINS

Staff Writer

With the first week of applications for the annual Salvation Army Angel Tree program completed, officials with the local charity said the process has gone slower that expected.

"We've had 43 applicants come in since we started taking applications," said Salvation Army Social Worker Paula Lafler. "And while that may seem like very few, that has amounted to 118 kids and seniors in need. We're expecting things to pick up next week, however, as we're sure a lot of people are waiting to the last minute."

The local charity will began accepting applications Monday, the beginning of a two week effort to reach out to area low income families that may have trouble putting gifts for their children under the Christmas tree this season.

"This is really the start of the busy season for us," said Lafler. "We have the Angel Tree program getting started, and we have all of the other programs we work on during Thanksgiving and Christmas coming up as well. So we certainly have to get a jump on things.

"We'll be accepting applications all week, from Monday until Friday, Oct. 26. All they have to do is come by the office between 9 a.m. and noon, or 1 p.m. and 3 p.m."

Lafler said the application process is simple, and for some area children it could be the difference between waking up with gifts under the tree Christmas morning and waking up to nothing.

'They need to come in and bring a picture ID for all of the adults, social security cards for all of the household mem-

Steers tennis qualifies for regionals

Herald Staff Report

SAN ANGELO — The best things in life don't come easy. That's true even in sports.

The Big Spring tennis team definitely didn't have an easy time clinching second place in District 4-4A and a return trip the Region I tournament in Wichita Falls Friday and Saturday. However, they pulled through, besting San Angelo Lake View Thursday, 10 matches to nine.

pulled through in a tough 3-set match against Candice Barnes, winning, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4. Drake's victory gave Big Spring its tenth and decisive win.

The teams split the boys' singles matches with each team winning three. Ryan Gonzalez, Mikael Gonzalez and Jonathan Womack, who won in three sets, were the winners for the boys.

However, the Steers took two of three in the doubles matches. The teams of Jeremy Landin and Eight matches went to a third Ryan Gonzalez, and Ainham won in straight sets.

It was the doubles matches that also gave Big Spring the edge in the girls' draw. The teams of Brittany Farmer and Sidney Flohr and Jessica Womack and C.J. Riddle each won their matches in three sets. Flohr and Drake were the only Lady Steers to win their singles matches. However, Farmer came close, taking her opponent to three sets.

This marks the second consecutive year that Big Spring has set in the contest. Shayla Drake Nghiem and Jonathan Ray both advanced to the Region I tournament in Big Spring. It also might be the final year. The Texas UIL has discussed changing the playoffs format for team tennis.

> Considerations include changing to a more traditional playoffs format that is used in other sports such as football and volleyball.

> This would allow for more teams to participate in the postseason.

Swim team gives strong showing at BSHS Invitational

Herald Staff Report

Defending one's home turf is important to the host team no matter what sport it is.

Even if that sport isn't played on turf at all.

The Big Spring Steers' swim team had their chance to defend their home pool at the Big Spring Invitational Swim Meet held at the Big Spring YMCA Friday and Saturday.

The Steers put up an honorable showing with the boys team finishing third and the girls team coming in fourth in a competition featuring nine schools.

The scoring for the meet was broken down so the top 12 individuals in each event provided points for their teams.

The boys finished with 186 total points behind district rivals Andrews (207) and Pecos (384). The did, however, finish well ahead of their other two district opponents, Monahans (135) and Abilene Wylie (83).

The girls totaled 157 points and finished behind Midland Lee (253), Midland High (205) and Pecos (185). They were just ahead of Abilene Wylie and Abilene High, which each finished with 155 points.

The boys top performer was senior Cameron Hughey, who took home first-place finishes in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events. Hughey posted a time of 22.72 in the 50yard competition and a 51.11 in the 100.

He also teamed with Deshae Green, Daniel Shanahan and Joe Garcia to take first in the 200-yard freestyle relay, combining for a time of 1:43.4, just five one hundredths of a second ahead of second-place

Green also finished third in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 2:06.95. That event was a big points producer for the

Red Sox blast Indians, 11-2, advance to World Series

By JIMMY GOLEN

AP Sports Writer

BOSTON — The Red Sox are going back to the World Series, and they can thank a bunch of guys who weren't even in the majors when Boston won it all three years ago.

Rookie Dustin Pedroia hit his first postseason homer and drove in five runs on Sunday night as the Red Sox completed another October comeback and beat the Cleveland Indians 11-2 in Game 7 of the AL championship series. Japanese imports Daisuke Matsuzaka and Hideki Okajima combined for seven strong innings, and Jonathan Papelbon finished things off.

Next up: the streaking Colorado Rockies, who have won 10 consecutive games — seven in the playoffs — and 21 of 22. ALCS MVP Josh Beckett will face Jeff Francis in Game 1 at Fenway park on Wednesday night.

Colorado outscored Boston 20-5 in winning two of three during an interleague series at Fenway

The Red Sox did even better in winning the last three games against Indians, outscoring them 30-5 in that span. Boston also got some help by a key blunder by an Indians base coach when Cleveland trailed just 3-2 with a chance to tie the game.

While Manny Ramirez, David Ortiz and Beckett helped the Red Sox win their 12th pennant, the Indians only added more misery to a city that hasn't celebrated a World Series championship since 1948.

Cleveland was a double-play grounder from winning the crown at Florida in 1997. They appeared to take control of this series with three consecutive victories, but aces C.C. Sabathia and Fausto Carmona couldn't win a single game between them.

Jake Westbrook settled down to offer a solid outing in Game 7, and still the Indians came up short. They had a chance to tie it at 3 in the seventh inning, but third-base coach Joel Skinner mistakenly held up speedy Kenny Lofton as he rounded the bag.

With runners at the corners, Casey Blake grounded into an inning-ending double play.

Then, the Red Sox blew it open. Pedroia, who hit a two-run homer to make it 5-2, hit a threerun double and Kevin Youkilis launched a bottle rocket, a tworun drive off the giant Coke bottle above the Green Monster.

Papelbon pitched two innings for the save, finishing things off when center fielder Coco Crisp raced back into the center-field triangle, crashing into the wall to catch Blake's drive. Crisp was still on the ground when Papelbon chucked his glove into the air and then waited, crouching, for catcher Jason Varitek to leap into his arms.

The Red Sox poured out of the dugout for their first playoff clinching celebration at home since the first round in 2004.

Twenty minutes after the last out, the ballpark still full, slugger David Ortiz walked onto the field carrying the AL trophy. He walked to the mound, held the prize up in the air for the crowd to see and then planted it on the ground like an explorer claiming new territory.

The ballpark hushed when Ortiz picked up a microphone to address the crowd, but bedlam returned when Papelbon reprised his Irish step dance from the regular-season clincher. Players took their turns posing for pictures with the trophy while their kids ran the bases.

Boston kept the bases busy early against Westbrook, but three double plays in the first four innings kept the Indians in the game while their starter settled down.

The Red Sox scored once in each of the first three innings, and Matsuzaka retired the first eight batters he faced.

Westbrook settled down after spotting Boston a 3-0 lead, retiring seven consecutive batters before Jacoby Ellsbury — another rookie — bounced a chopper through third baseman Blake for an error. After Lugo's sacrifice bunt, Pedroia was up.

The diminutive second baseman, with eight major league homers to his credit, hit an 0-1 pitch into the first row of the Monster Seats to make it 5-2. He also doubled to clear the bases after Boston loaded them in the eighth against Rafael Betancourt.

Famous Hand

North-South vulnerable.

South dealer.

♣109753 SOUTH

The bidding East West North South Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead — ace of spades.

This deal was played in a teamof-four championship many years ago by one of bridge's all-time Howard Schenken. He became declarer at six hearts after the auction shown Schenken ruffed West's opening spade lead and was heard to mutter, Guess I'll have to play it safe" just before playing the ace of hearts at trick two. After East showed out, the jack of hearts was led, covered by the queen and king.

Next came a heart to the ten, after which Schenken was in position to run his side-suit winners. West could trump with the nine whenever he wished, but that would be the only trick for the defense. The slam was made without any complications or fanfare, scoring 1,430 points.

At the other table, the contract was also six hearts. Again the ace of spades was led, and again South ruffed. But here declarer made the mistake of next leading a low heart to the king, and this innocent-looking play wrecked the contract.

After East showed out, South led a trump to the ace and then played the jack (it would have made no difference if he had played the jack on the previous trick). West took his queen and returned a spade, forcing South to ruff with his last trump the ten — and establishing West's nine as the setting trick.

Schenken's ace-of-hearts play at trick two guaranteed the slam regardless of whether East or West had all four missing trumps. Had West rather than East shown out when the ace was led, Schenken would next have conceded the jack to East's queen. If East now returned the king of spades, declarer would trump with the eight and cash the ten. A club to the ace followed by the king of hearts, drawing East's last trump, would then have clinched the slam.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

The Pisces moon bids the Libra sun a fond adieu. Mystical sentiments are exchanged — over the changes we've seen in our partnerships and over all that remains unchanged.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're honoring the people you grew up with, whether or not you think they deserve it. What you do for love of family is inspired, joyful, painful and exuberant in each state.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). When you know what you want (like you do today), almost any path leads to it. Circulate far and wide. Make inquiries: Doors swing open, and happy people greet you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Emotionally, you're a little tougher than usual and able to risk rejection but also unlikely to experience it! You're in the mood to take chances, and you win by doing so.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You may very well be off to a crabby start. The best way to turn your day around is anonymous and giving secret spreading of goodwill. Three random acts of generosity are all it takes to transform your attitude.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Someone in charge could get drunk with power and lose sight of what's best for all involved. You may be the only one standing up for what's right, but that doesn't stop you for a minute.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Crawling back into bed is the most comfortable choice. Unfortunately, that is not an option now. So turn up the tunes, jump up and down, and get your energy flowing in a dynamic way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Your superior taste is admired by those who share it. New projects are just waiting for you to take charge. You don't like ordering people around, but if nobody directs the action, nothing gets done. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.

21). You have the confidence to jump into areas you are hardly knowledgeable about or qualified to handle. Being a fish out of water can be just the opportunity you need to grow feet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Helping someone take care of his or her own problems is far more effective than playing savior. You teach by example and through humility. You don't want credit or applause.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Amoebas are neither male nor female, just cells dividing and multiplying. The secret to averting a battle of the sexes that's going on today is in focusing on creativity and growth while you ignore all of the differences.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Your sophistication of thought allows you to experience life greater interest and joy. You see the similarities between you and that person whose culture is far, far away from yours.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). What you do in the name of fun is truly inspired. Excellent timing makes an outlandish idea doable. When you get the impulse, and you know it's right, follow through without hesitation. ASTROLOGICAL

QUESTIONS: "I have heard about a Jupiter return in Capricorn coming up. I'm currently starting a new career in the healing arts and wondered how that would affect me. My birth date is Jan. 14, 1971. Let's separate Jupiter return from Jupiter's entry into Capricorn. Your natal Jupiter is in Sagittarius, so you just had a Jupiter return (in November 2006) influencing your decision to move into a career more in line with your spiritual values — good job! Jupiter returns expand horizons, setting hopeful new possibilities into play for the next 12 years. The healing arts is a natural profession for vour metaphysically inclined Sagittarius energy. Handson body therapies, like massage and healing touch, are natural choices, as are any therapies that truly appreciate and adorn the body. Caring for other's bodies, as imperfect and broken as they are, allows you to use the healing progress you've made on your own body image and self-esteem issues. Jupiter's entry into Capricorn (starting midthrough December January 2009) is great for getting the word out about your business. Jupiter will be talking up Capricorn people, who benefit personally and professionally. Lucky goats, the ground literally rises up to meet you!

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Zac Hanson was just a young guy when he entered the music scene with his brothers, and the collaboration between the threesome is still going strong. Librans just play well with others, and if they don't, they soon learn it's their life mission to partner up. Zac's Venus shines diamond-like in Libra. Following in his older, married brothers' footsteps, he heard wedding bells just last

Annie's Mailbox .: Advice for those in need

Dear Annie: I recently 88-year-old my disabled mom in the hospital, and she told me my husband is no longer allowed to visit her. I was surprised, since he'd always seemed like such a great son-in-law. It turns my 55-year-old husband has been exposing himself to her for much of the last five vears.

They need to bring those in with them, because we do verify them. They also need to bring in a copy of all of their expenses, as well as a list of what their children might want for Christmas, including clothes sizes and shoe sizes.

"The picture ID has to be a state issued ID, not the kind you can get at certain convenience stores. That's a new requirement this year. Also, they need to be sure to bring either the social security card itself, or a print out from the Social Security Office. It has to appear on something official, even DHS (Department of Health Services) records."

Once the names and gift ideas are collected and put on the Angel Trees in the form of cards, area shoppers will have the opportunity to brighten a child's holiday by choosing one and purchasing items for them.

The trees will be erected in area stores and shops, according to Lafler.

OUR VIEWS

Remember, it's time to register parade entries

he Christmas season is fast approaching and will officially begin in Howard County on Saturday, Dec. 1, when Santa Claus arrives to take part in the 22nd annual Big Spring Herald Community Christmas Parade.

Registration forms are already coming in from individuals, businesses and church, civic and school groups that are planning their entries in keeping with this year's theme — "Peace on Earth."

The parade, which first wound its way down Gregg Street in 1986, will again be a lighted parade and entries will be judged in the same categories as last year. First-place plaques will be awarded to winners in four categories — Individual or family entries; those from churches, civic groups or schools; commercial entries; and those from industries. Secondand third-place finishers will receive certificates.

The entry judged "Best of Show" will receive a $100 cash prize. The Mayor's Trophy for best use of lighting will earn one entrant $75 and the Grand Marshall's Award for best costuming will receive

In addition, the Herald will again present a trophy to the best mounted entry from a sheriff's posse or riding club.

The parade is again set to begin at 5:30 p.m. that Saturday and we here at the Herald want to encourage everyone to come out and help us in getting the Christmas season off to a rousing start.

While it may seem there's plenty of time to make decisions about the Christmas season, it's important to remember that a parade this size takes time to plan and coordinate.

That's why we're reminding our readers about the need to get those entries submitted.

Entry forms will continue to be printed in future editions of the Herald. In addition, entry forms are available at the Herald's offices located at 710 Scurry, and you can also download them from our Website at www.bigpsringherald.com.

So, if you are involved in any of the many organizations or businesses that annually take part in the Christmas Parade, get your entries filled in as soon as possible and let us know what you're planning to Entry forms should be mailed to the Herald at P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79721-1431. For additional information concerning the parade, call parade coordinators Rick Nunez or Elizabeth Flores at 263-7331.

As always, we're asking the community to help us make this the best Christmas parade Big Spring has ever had.

So come on and join us.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

The wise path is the path taken with You, Lord.

Amen

The 'Dean wing' of the GOP

t's pretty clear that Mitt Romney made a big mistake over the weekend when he told voters that he speaks for "the Republican wing of the Republican Party." Romney handed rivals Rudy Giuliani and John McCain the opportunity to remind GOP primary voters about the Old Romney, who was pro-abortion rights and courted gay voters when he ran unsuccessfully for the U.S. Senate, then successfully for governor of Massachusetts. That's the Romney, who while debating Sen. Ted Kennedy in 1994, proclaimed: "I was an independent during the time of Reagan-Bush. I'm not trying to return to Reagan-Bush.'

SAUNDERS

Of course the Romney sound bite backfired — it borrowed a page from the failed strategy of Howard "Democratic wing of the Democratic Party" Dean.

Team Romney does not concede that it erred. The full Romney quote shows that Romney was not impugning other GOP hopefuls or claiming that he was the only real Republican.

Romney spokeswoman Sarah Pompei said of Romney's shift against abortion rights and gay rights, "He saw the light." The Reagan-Bush quote? "Our campaign is focused on the future," she responded.

What will the future of the Republican Party hold? There is a schism between Romney and the other frontrunners — Giuliani, McCain and Fred Thompson. Romney is the only one to sign the Americans for Tax Reform pledge not to raise taxes, a longtime staple of GOP platforms.

"Gov. Romney is committed to keeping taxes low and cutting government spending," Pompei explained.

Giuliani spokesman Jarrod Agen said that the former New York mayor "doesn't sign pledges. You just have to look at his record. His record in New York is cutting taxes." Indeed, FactCheck.org found that while Giuliani's claim to have cut taxes 23 times was exaggerated — as eight of those 23 cuts were initiated by other lawmakers — the tax burden on New Yorkers declined from 8.73 percent to 7.24 percent of personal income during the Giuliani years.

ATR President Grover Norquist noted, "We may yet get McCain back on, and he did do it before" in 2000. And: "We don't want to vell at him because he's trying to get his feet back on the ground." Thompson did not sign the pledge when he ran for the Senate in 1996, but Norquist thinks Thompson might sign.

Norquist noted, Romney did not "sign as a governor. He wanted to have the leeway to fiddle." While Romney did not raise income or sales taxes, he did raise taxes (or close loopholes) on corporations.

Both Bushes signed the ATR pledge, but the first President Bush broke his promise — and lost re-election. Norquist tells candidates, "If you don't mean it, don't sign it, because if you break the pledge, we'll go after you." But how can a no-new-taxes pledge be meaningful when big spenders like Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, signed it?

Norquist argues that Washington won't curb spending if it can raise

BIG SPRING HERALD

Monday, October 22, 2007

I used to buy that, except: Not raising taxes has not curbed spending. When Republicans pledge "no new taxes" and Democrats offer more unfunded big-spending programs, both parties engage in the unholy practice of telling voters that they can get more government without paying for it.

A Concord Coalition budget paper, "America's Economy: Headed for Crisis," noted, "Some people might believe that the federal government should both tax and spend at about 18 percent of gross domestic product (GDP), while others might believe it should tax and spend at about 30 percent of GDP. No reasonable person, however, would argue that the government should tax at 18 percent and spend at 30 percent." Uncle Sam now taxes at 18 percent of GDP and spends at 20 percent.

But the government's unfunded Medicare and Social Security promises mean an 18-30 gap could be in your future.

The no-new-taxes pledges served the American economy in the short term, but the overspending cannot go on forever. Maybe it's time for a new wing of the Republican Party — a wing that doesn't support pledges that contribute to America's debt.

Taxes: A good measure of society

That a privilege to pay taxes! My heart soars, as does yours I'm sure, when seeing either those deductions from my paycheck, the added charge on my purchases, the increment at the gas pump, or that check lovingly posted to the town collector. As Oliver Wendall Holmes put it, "Taxes are the price of civilization." They make us feel like we belong.

Well, some of us. Others grouse, especially the rich.

Take those hedge fund guys clustered around New York. They wallow in a gigantic loophole of the federal tax code. It affords them a rate lower than yours or mine. And they live in dread that it will some day be closed before the family castle is finished. Their rationale is that investment in the economy will shrivel if they're forced to pay their fair share.

The poor, conversely, generally don't even realize that they're getting screwed. No loopholes for them. No special deals for capital gains, offshore accounts, or estate taxes. There's no escaping that nick in the weekly pay envelope, those extra cents at the pump, or the add-on at the store or pizza

Nor do the poor enjoy sleek lobbyists to press their case. They depend rather on good-hearted non-profit groups to speak for them in state capitols and in Washington, often a faint voice. Tenants, for example, never get to deduct or complain about the property tax because that's included in their ever-spiraling rent. Who knows what part of it goes to the town?

And who would believe that it was Gerald Ford who originally championed the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC). (The post-Nixon Republicans were desperate for votes at the time.) But that was then and this is now. Some states still do not have an EITC to this day. Nor have we all raised our earnings threshold of who has to pay the state income tax. In many places it stays fixed. This means that as inflation inexorably raises the definition of what constitutes poverty, relatively poorer and poorer people get stuck paying the tax. What a country.

Then as our bold national leaders refrain from taxing the rich while spending a ransom on the war, other needs go unmet. You may have heard about bridges, and national parks, our U.N. dues, and oversight of corporations. In our state the governor is likewise game to stiff the towns for part of their state entitlements, put the arts on short rations and let our parks decline.

But at the same time there is money aplenty for a $1 million tax credit for the UST tobacco company to move from Greenwich to Stamford, and $3 million to give them a low-interest loan. A tobacco company, yet! Good times in the executive suite.

Further, reluctance at the national level to impose sacrificial taxation to pay for the war has thrust the U.S. into an abyss of vulnerable debt.

Even Alan Greenspan's new book rebukes the president for not adequately taxing us, an observation that he somehow overlooked when he was still in office.

So if a nation's tax system reveals much about its society, America's definition doesn't measure up very well.

We tax the rich too little and the poor too much, we don't tax enough to maintain our infrastructure, and we fail to impose emergency taxation to meet emergency expenditures. Unfortunately these character flaws have finally overtaken us in the form of a zooming national debt and a shrinking

Oatmeal, caffeine and loss of appetite

Q: Is oatmeal still a whole grain if it's the quick-cooking type?

A: Yes. Quick-cooking oats and instant oatmeal both contain the same components (the bran, germ and endosperm) of regular "old fashioned" oats. These convenience products are simply steamed, flattened or cut in smaller pieces to cook more quickly. The fiber content listed on labels of instant oatmeal is often lower than on other varieties because a single packet usually makes a smaller serving.

Although instant oatmeal retains the fiber and whole grain qualities of traditional oats, the sodium, sugar and calorie content is often substantially higher per serving.

To keep the convenience, but avoid some of the excess sugar, try mixing half a packet of regular instant oatmeal with half a packet of unsweetened instant oatmeal.

Q: Is caffeine safe for children?

A: Caffeine is a stimulant. As caffeine intake increases, so does the likelihood of problems such as sleeplessness, irritability and heart palpitations — regardless of age. The effects of caffeine, however, are expressed based on the amount per pound of body weight.

So equal amounts of caffeine are going to hit a 70-pound child twice as hard as a 140-pound woman. Consider this: a 12-ounce can of cola (a typical choice for many children) contains 35 to 50 milligrams of caffeine.

Taking body-size into account, each can is roughly the equivalent of one to two cups of regular coffee (which have about 100 milligrams each). In small amounts, caffeine is safe, and an occasional soft drink is unlikely to harm a child. But considering the impact of caffeine on smaller bodies, and the fact that soft drinks are not providing the vitamins and minerals needed for bone development and overall health — and are providing excess calories — parents should steer their children away from unlimited use.

Remember, too, that caffeine remains in the system for several hours. A caffeinated soda consumed in the late afternoon or early evening will still be affecting a child at bedtime. Moreover, when children and teens have problems with headaches or difficulty sleeping at night (with resulting daytime sleepiness), caffeinated drinks are often involved.

Q: What causes some elderly people to lose their appetite?

their appetite?

A: Appetite changes can be caused by a variety of factors. Some medications, for example, can cause a reduction in appetite. If this is the case, a patient's physician may be able to adjust the type, dose or timing of medications to lessen the effect. Trouble chewing or swallowing food may also be implicated.

Such problems can often be remedied, but if not, a registered dietitian can help patients plan meals and choose foods to optimize their nutrient intake.

Also, medications or other age-related changes can sometimes alter the taste of foods. If so, extra amounts of herbs and seasonings may be needed to give food an appealing flavor. Sometimes it's not a reduction in appetite at all, but rather a decrease in energy or a lack of interest in preparing food. Home-delivered meal programs can make a big difference.

Dementia may also cause some people to simply forget to eat. Lastly, consider depression, a condition that frequently features a reduction in appetite

Remember, however, that as people get older — especially if they are inactive — calorie needs decrease. Just because someone eats less than he or she used to, doesn't always mean the diet is inadequate.

AICR's Nutrition Hotline is a free service that allows you to ask a registered dietitian questions about diet, nutrition and cancer. Access it online at www.aicr.org/hotline or by phone (1-800-843-8114) 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. ET Monday-Friday.

Easy, elegant and nutritious

While recipes with unfamiliar French names may impress guests, they can intimidate the inexperienced cook. En papillote, the French cooking method highlighted in this week's recipe, may sound exotic, but it's such an easy technique, it is well worth mastering.

En papillote refers to food baked inside a parchment paper wrapping. As the food cooks, the parchment paper puffs and browns, steaming the food inside. Traditionally, French chefs serve each packet individually, allowing guests to unwrap their meals themselves.

This method is ideal for cooking fish as it retains moisture and infuses the meat with the rich flavors from a few simple ingredients. In this recipe, a delicious sauce emerges from the lemon juice, olive tapenade and wine that fill each parchment packet. If looking for a non-alcoholic substitute for the wine, try using chicken broth or white grape juice.

White fish is best to use because of its delicate flavor. Most varieties are similar enough in taste and texture that you can easily substitute cod for flounder or halibut for rockfish. White fish are typically low in calories and fat and rich in high-quality protein.

The olive spread, or tapenade, featured here also has French roots. The condiment hails from the Provence region and is traditionally a mixture of black olives, capers, anchovies and olive oil. Commercial tapenade is available in many grocery stores and is a wonderful dip for raw vegetables or whole wheat crackers. Although relatively high in fat, olives provide heart-healthy monounsaturated fat that promotes cardiovascular health. This dish goes nicely with brown rice and a green vegetable or salad.

White Fish en Papillote Parchment cooking paper

Non-stick cooking spray 4, 3-oz. white fish fillets (such as cod, flounder, halibut, rockfish)4 Tbsp. commercial tapenade, or see recipe belowJuice of 2 medium lemons

(about 4 Tbsp.)
1/4 cup white wine (not too sweet, such as Pinot Grigio), or may substitute with an equal amount of chicken broth or white grape juice.

Preheat oven to 350

degrees.

Prepare four 8" x 10"

pieces of parchment paper by spraying with non-stick cooking spray. Place one fish fillet in the middle of each piece of parchment paper. Spread 1 Tbsp. of tapenade on each fillet. Top each with 1 Tbsp. of lemon juice and 1 Tbsp. white wine (or non-alcoholic substitute).

Form a packet around each fillet by folding over the sides of the parchment paper, forming a tight seal.

Place the packets on a baking sheet in the preheated oven for 10 to 15 minutes for thinner fish, a little longer for thicker fillets. You can test doneness by opening one packet. When the fillet has turned opaque, it is done.

White Fish en Papillote with Homemade Tapenade

Homemade Tapenade 2 cups black olives, preferably oil cured, pitted 3 anchovies, rinsed and patted dry (optional)

3 Tbsp. drained capers 3 Tbsp. extra-virgin olive

2 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice 2 cloves garlic, coarsely chopped

2 tsp. fresh thyme leaves

(or 1 tsp. dried)
Salt and ground black pepper, to taste

Combine all ingredients in a food processor. Pulse until the mixture is still coarse, but has a uniform consistency. Makes about 2 3/4 cups of tapenade.

Makes 4 servings.

Per serving (with home-made tapenade): 130 calories, 3 g total fat (0 g saturated fat), 3 g carbohydrate, 19 g protein, 0 g dietary fiber, 65 mg sodium.

WANTED 50 PEOPLE

with hearing loss to be "product testers"

"As part of our product study, the leading manufacturers of hearing aids are looking for 50 people who will qualify as product testers to try these new innovative hearing solutions," said Richard Davila of Livingston Hearing Centers. "We are proud to participate in this study and will pay each qualified participant $50 to complete the study.' And interestingly enough, the popularity of these new products has spread quickly – not by what they look like, because they are practically impossible to see when being worn-but by good reviews, word of mouth and a remarkable hi-fi sound.

The On-The-Ear product markets itself with very little effort because it solves a really big problem in an innovatively cool way: namely, it corrects high-frequency hearing loss without plugging-up the ear canal. It lets natural sounds just pass through the ear canal unamplified and gives a hi-fidelity boost only to soft speech sounds.

This Date In History

Today is Monday, Oct. 22, the 295th day of 2007. There are 70 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History:

On Oct. 22, 1962, President John F. Kennedy announced a quarantine of all offensive military equipment shipped to Cuba, following the discovery of Soviet-built missile bases on the island.

On this date: 1746, Princeton University was first chartered as the College of New Jersey.

In 1797 French balloonist Andre-Jacques Garnerin made the first parachute descent, landing safely from a height of about 3,000 feet over Paris.

In 1836, Sam Houston was inaugurated as the first constitutionally elected president of the Republic of Texas. 1907, President In

Theodore Roosevelt visited The Hermitage, the Nashville, Tenn., home of the late President Andrew Jackson. (Years later, Maxwell House claimed that Roosevelt had praised a cup of its coffee during this visit by saying it was "good to the last drop.")
In 1928, Republican presidential nominee Herbert Hoover spoke of the "American system of rugged individualism" in a speech at New York's Madison Square Garden.

In 1934, bank robber Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd was shot to death by federal agents at a farm in East Liverpool, Ohio.

In 1968, Apollo 7 returned safely, splashing down in the Atlantic Ocean.

In 1979, the U.S. government allowed the deposed Shah of Iran to travel to New York for medical treatment — a decision that precipitated the Iran hostage crisis.

In 1981, the Professional Traffic Controllers Air Organization was decertified by the federal government for its strike the previous August.
