Work steady at CISD

Longtime trustee Metcalf resigns

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

COAHOMA — Five months in, construction projects are proceeding at a satisfactory pace at Coahoma Independent School District.

That was the word given to CISD trustees during their regular monthly meeting Thursday evening at the administration board room.

Big Spring's Lee George, who is overseeing the $13 million, two-year CISD renovation, said that, with minor exceptions, all projects are on schedule.

One exception is the concrete slab that will serve as the foundation for the new athletic field house. George said "rough spots" have appeared on the finished surface.

"I'm not happy with it, and I'm not going to accept it," George said, adding that he is going to have the concrete analyzed by a Dallas firm before pouring a new slab for the field house. That should delay work on the structure for about two weeks, he said.

George believes the existing slab is sound, but does not reflect the quality of work CISD taxpayers paid for.

"It's mostly an aesthetic

United Way short of goal, extends effort

Officials hope that a two-week extension of the local United Way drive will help make up a six-figure shortfall in donations.

This year's UW campaign was scheduled to end today, but directors, noting that contributions are falling well short of this year's goal of $305,000, have decided to extend the event through the end of November.

"We are at about $175,000 in total pledges right now," Campaign Chairman Jesse Mendoza said Thursday. "So we've decided to extend the campaign until Dec. 1 ... and we're still working very hard to solicit donations."

Workers gear up for lighting of dam

The Festival of Light's sneak peek is getting bigger this year.

The FoL, an annual Christmas holidays event that lights up Comanche Trail Park and draws thousands of visitors from across the country, always provides a "preview of coming attractions" by setting up displays along the Comanche Lake dam during the Thanksgiving

And, benefiting an event that's shown almost uninterrupted growth since its inception, this year's Thanksgiving display along the dam will be bigger than ever, FoL President Pat Simmons said.

Simmons said there will be about 30 lighted displays along the dam this year. Aside from the traditional poinsettias, signs spelling out "Merry Museum staging 'Snuggles' fund-raiser

Lots of activities planned for first weekend in December

By THOMAS JENKINS

Staff Writer

Snuggles, anyone?

That's the question the Big Spring Heritage Museum will pose to help kick off the holiday season, teaming up with San Angelo-based Snuggle Factory Animaland for a fund-raiser that promises to be a good time for all — especially those young at heart.

According to Nancy Raney, director of the museum, the company — similar to the Build-A-Bear Workshops found in malls all over the country — will be loading up its animals and machines to give Big Spring area youth a chance to bring their very own stuffed animal to life.

"They will be bringing the machine that stuffs the animals and all of the different accessories," said Raney. "It's going to be a really good time for everyone, regardless of age.

"The children will get to choose and stuff their very own creation, and the quality of these animals is equal to or better than you'll find in most malls. And for each plush creation sold, the museum will receive a portion of the proceeds. So, not only do the kids get a great stuffed animal, it helps the museum out as well."

Raney said children won't have to wait until Dec. 1 to pick out their animal, as reserve orders will be taken through Wednesday.

"They don't have to reserve an animal, but if they want to make sure they can get the one they want, it's a good idea," said

Raney. "Prices range between $15 and $25, so its very reasonable compared to some of the prices you'll pay at the malls."

"There are two different packages for people to choose from, silver and gold. The silver package includes the collectible animal, a wishing star, birth certificate and carry-home box. The gold package includes the same thing, as well as an outfit."

The fund-raiser will be held from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1, but according to Raney, there will be plenty to do throughout the day.

"We have a full day planned," said Raney with a laugh. "Santa

Steers spotlight: Skaggs, Medina and Ybarra

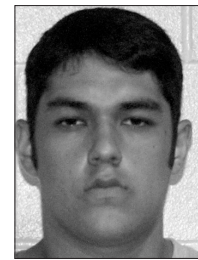

By JONATHAN HULL

Herald Sports Editor

In the movie "Rudy", a student pursues his dream to play football for the University of Notre Dame. He succeeds in making the team, but only as a scout team player, meaning his glory is received only on the practice field.

However, the inspiration he provides leads the entire team to demand Rudy gets to suit up and play in one game. He gets two plays as an undersized defensive end and records a meaningless sack on paper, but a huge moral victory for himself and his teammates.

Skaggs

Ybarra

Ybarra. This trio rarely sees playing time on game days, but their contributions run much deeper.

"We call these guys our scout team heroes. They are the epitome of what team is all about," Ritchey said. "They haven't complained about the lack of playing time. They want what's best for the team and they go out and give what's best for the team. They're willing to come out each week and play a scout team position to give our starters a better look for what they'll see on Friday."

"Every team has to have players like these guys," he continued. "Even if all they do is get on the sidelines and cheer their teammates on, they're just as important as our starters. Without them, we wouldn't be prepared like we are each week. We've got to have them. We cherish and think very highly of them. They're a vital part of this team."

Skaggs and Medina take their responsibilities on the scout team seriously.

"It's not hard to not get a lot of playing time when you're apart of the team," Skaggs said with pride. "It doesn't matter cause I know I'm still on this team."

Howards stays perfect, win 95-63

By JONATHAN HULL

Herald Sports Editor

Is dominating inferior teams the best way to prepare for a tough conference schedule?

Howard College's Hawks will find out Nov. 29 when they travel to face Midland College to open Western Junior College Athletic Conference play.

In the mean time, the Hawks continued the early dominance of their preconference schedule, smacking down Lackland Air Force Base, 95-63. The dominant victory keeps Howard perfect on the season at 7-0.

"We've been dominant so far this season, but we haven't really played tough competition so far," Howard Head Coach Mark Adams said. "This team we played tonight had some really good athletes, though. I think we improved in some areas in this game."

"It's a little different for us this year," Adams continued. "This is the first time we'll start conference play before next semester. These games mean a lot to us for getting prepared for what we'll see in our conference. Midland, Odessa and Frank Phillips are some of the top programs right now. We're getting ready for what we'll face starting against Midland College in two weeks."

Sean Watson led Howard with 28 points. Watson was a force in the first half, slashing to the basket for 20 points in the first 20 minutes. Corey Allmond took over in the second half, hitting six threes on his way to a 22-point night.

Adams credited Denzel Barnes with providing the team energy off the bench, igniting the Hawks in the first half and helping them pull away from Lackland for a 47-32 halftime lead.

Adams was also impressed by the play of center Cheick Kone, a freshman from Mali, Africa.

"I was very impressed with Cheick," Adams said. "He had some nice plays. This should be a big confidence builder for him."

Howard's head man did note that he's hoping the team will start to improve defensively.

"This team hasn't really embraced our defensive concept with our aggressive man to man attack," Adams said. "It's a slow process, but I think we're definitely improving there."

The Hawks host Stephen F. Austin's club team at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. They'll participate in the Scottsdale Community College Classic in Scottsdale, Ariz., beginning Thursday.

Bonds indicted by grand jury for perjury

By PAUL ELIAS

Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — Barry Bonds has more to worry about than an asterisk now.

Just three months ago, the former San Francisco Giants star angrily defended himself against steroid allegations on the night he surpassed Hank Aaron to become baseball's home run king.

"This record is not tainted at all," Bonds declared. "At all. Period."

On Thursday, his very freedom was put in jeopardy when a federal grand jury indicted him on five felony counts of perjury and obstruction of justice, charges that could result in a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison if he's convicted.

The indictment culminated a four-year investigation into steroid use by elite athletes.

Bonds and his lawyers long have accused the government of targeting a high-profile, unpopular player merely for political gain while pondering if the investigation was racially motivated.

Charges of leaks to the media and unethical legal behavior flew from both camps as the investigation dragged on and questions mounted about the government's intentions.

The relationship grew so antagonistic that government lawyers didn't notify Bonds of the impending indictment, a courtesy typically extended to white collar defendants so they can prepare for the public announcement.

"I'm surprised," said one of his lawyers, John Burris, who was notified of the indictment by The Associated Press. "But there's been an effort to get Barry for a long time. I'm curious what evidence they have now they didn't have before."

The 10-page indictment mainly consists of excerpts from Bonds' December 2003 testimony before a grand jury investigating the Bay Area Laboratory Co-Operative, or BALCO. It cites 19 occasions in which Bonds allegedly lied under oath.

But for all the speculation and accusations that clouded his pursuit of Aaron, Bonds was never identified by Major League Baseball as testing positive for steroids, and personal trainer Greg Anderson spent most of the last year in jail for refusing to testify against his longtime friend.

Anderson did not comment as he was released from prison shortly after the indictment was handed up, but his attorney, Mark Geragos, said the trainer didn't cooperate with the grand jury.

BONDS

"This indictment came out of left field," Geragos said. "Frankly, I'm aghast. It looks like the government misled me and Greg as well, saying this case couldn't go forward without him."

Bonds is scheduled to appear in U.S. District Court in San Francisco on Dec. 7.

Bonds, who surpassed Aaron's career home run mark of 755 on Aug. 7, finished the season with 762. A seven-time NL MVP, he also holds the season record with 73 home runs in 2001.

He is a free agent after being told late in the season that the San Francisco Giants didn't want him back next year.

Defense attorney Mike Rains said he spoke briefly with Bonds but did not describe his reaction. At an evening news conference, he read a statement accusing federal prosecutors of "unethical misconduct" and declined to take questions.

"Every American should worry about a Justice Department that doesn't know if waterboarding is torture and can't tell the difference between prosecution on the one hand and persecution on the other," Rains said.

The indictment charges Bonds with lying when he said he didn't knowingly take steroids given to him by Anderson. Bonds is also charged with lying that Anderson never injected him with steroids.

"Greg wouldn't do that," Bonds testified in December 2003 when asked if Anderson ever gave him any drugs that needed to be injected. Prosecutors promised Bonds they wouldn't charge him with any drug-related counts if he testified truthfully. But according to the indictment, Bonds repeatedly denied taking any steroids or performance-enhancing drugs despite evidence to the contrary.

For instance, investigators seized a so-called "doping calendar" labeled "BB" during a raid of Anderson's house.

"He could know other BBs," Bonds replied when shown the calendar during his testimony.

Asked directly if Anderson supplied him with steroids, Bonds answered: "Not that I know of." Bonds even denied taking steroids when he was shown documents revealing a positive steroids test for a player named Barry B.

"I've never seen these documents," Bonds said. "I've never seen these papers."

The indictment does not explain where prosecutors obtained those results, but may have been seized when federal agents raided BALCO in September 2003.

At the end of the 2003 season, Bonds said, Anderson rubbed some cream on his arm that the trainer said would help him recover. Anderson also gave him something he called "flax seed oil," Bonds said.

Bonds then testified that prior to the 2003 season, he never took anything supplied by Anderson — which the indictment alleges was a lie because the doping calendars seized from Anderson's house were dated 2001.

Bonds has long been shadowed by allegations that he used performance-enhancing drugs. The son of former big league star Bobby Bonds, Barry broke into the majors with the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1986 as a lithe, base-stealing outfielder.

By the late 1990s, he'd bulked up to more than 240 pounds — his head, in particular, becoming noticeably bigger. His physical growth was accompanied by a remarkable power surge.

He joins a parade of defendants tied to the BALCO investigation, including Anderson, who served three months in prison and three months of home detention after pleading guilty to steroid distribution and money laundering.

BALCO founder Victor Conte also served three months in prison after he pleaded guilty to steroids distribution.

Bonds is by far the highest-profile figure caught up in the steroids probe, which also ensnared track star Marion Jones. She pleaded guilty in October to lying to federal investigators about using steroids and faces up to six months in prison.

"I agree," added Medina. "It's important that we give the starters the best picture we can and get them prepared for the end of the week."

It's hard for most players to find the inspiration to not quit when they aren't getting much time on the field. However, for Big Spring's scout team heroes, inspiration isn't hard to find.

"I love Friday nights," said Skaggs. "I love the feel of running out on the field. Varsity means a lot more to me, now. There's a prestige to it."

"I just want to prove people wrong about me," Medina added. "I want to show that I can compete and be apart of this team."

As for this Saturday's playoff matchup with the Hereford Whitefaces, Ybarra, Skaggs and Medina are ready to make their contributions to ensure they don't play the last games of their high school career.

"We've got to step up and give these guys the best look at Hereford we can," Medina said. "That's our job and we take a lot of pride in it."

Ritchey says that the lessons learned and shown by his scout team trio will serve them well later on in life and in the lives of others around them.

"They're contributions might not be evident on the field," Ritchey said. "But it's there. What these guys are gaining now will someday be evident in their life. They'll always know that no matter what they contribute to a team, they're still important."

1. Two spades. Before going into the answers, it might be best to first clarify the meaning of partner's spade bid. Generally, an overcall on the one-level indicates a fairly good five-card or longer suit and about eight to 16 points in high cards. It is most often intended as a competitive bid aimed mainly at achieving a partscore, and at depriving the opponents of bidding space.

The partner of the overcaller responds accordingly. He bids naturally, but keeps in mind that the overcall may be based on as little as eight or nine high-card points. With this hand, the proper action is a single raise in spades, which invites partner to continue bidding if he has significantly more than a minimum overcall. It would be wrong to bid two hearts, which might be passed all around and is almost surely the wrong contract.

2. Three notrump. It is highly likely that game can be made, and the surest way of getting there is to take the direct route. Whatever the nature of partner's spade bid, your hand figures to produce game opposite it. Partner might have bid largely on distributional values, in which case he is free to correct to four spades, but if he accepts three notrump as the contract, it will probably be made.

A jump to two notrump would not be forcing and would show a lesser hand. Nor is there any point to bidding diamonds with a hand so pre-eminently satisfactory for notrump.

3. Four spades. Regardless of the type of hand partner has for his overcall, game must be undertaken. It is hard to imagine a one-spade bid opposite your hand that would be likely to lose four tricks. Three spades — a mere invitation to game — would not be sufficient with a hand of this magnitude.

4. Four notrump. Despite West's opening bid, you have a distinct possibility of making a slam. How many high-card points partner actually has is not important, but whether he has an ace is. The best way to determine this is via Blackwood.

If partner responds five diamonds, showing one ace, you plan to bid six spades. Partner may have as little as ♠ KJ973 ♥ A52 ♦ 75 ♣ 862, and yet even this sad collection is a strong favorite to produce 12 tricks.

Man convicted of murder in pregnant wife's death

HOUSTON (AP) — A former high school football coach has been convicted of murder for the shooting death of his pregnant wife more than eight years ago.

David Mark Temple faces a maximum sentence of life in prison for the January 1999 shooting that prosecutors said was motivated by an affair with another woman. The punishment phase is set for Monday.

Belinda Tracie Temple, a special education teacher at Katy High School, was eight months pregnant when she was shot in the back of the head at the family's home. Prosecutors accused David Temple of staging the crime to look like a burglary.

Defense attorney Dick DeGuerin said Thursday that David Temple is innocent and was wrongly convicted.

Texans paying state's highest-ever November retail gasoline prices

HOUSTON (AP) — There is little to be thankful for this Thanksgiving holiday when it comes to retail gasoline prices in Texas.

The statewide average retail gasoline price reached its highest-ever November level, according to the weekly AAA Texas gasoline price survey released Friday.

The survey found that the average price of regular self-serve climbed 3 cents this week to $2.97 per gallon after a 14-cent increase last week. That was also 87 cents higher than a year ago. Nationally, the average price climbed a nickel this week to $3.11 per gallon.

"Texas travelers are facing near record high fuel prices as we move closer to the Thanksgiving holiday," said AAA Texas spokeswoman Rose Rougeau.

"This is the first time AAA Texas has seen gas prices topping more than $3.00 a gallon in November. Current fuel prices are 87 cents higher than last year's prices. However, higher gas prices are not expected to discourage Americans from connecting with their loved ones."

Amarillo had the most expensive gas at $3.12 per gallon, up 5 cents from last week. Houston had the cheapest at $2.90 per gallon, down 4 cents.

Baptist church closes property to interfaith Thanksgiving service

AUSTIN (AP) — Organizers of an interfaith Thanksgiving celebration scrambled to find a new location for the annual event after an evangelical Baptist megachurch objected to Muslims worshipping on its property.

Hyde Park Baptist Church notified Austin Area Interreligious Ministries this week that it wouldn't allow the event scheduled for Sunday at Hyde Park's sports complex known as the Quarries.

The Thanksgiving event is in its 23rd year and invites Jews, Muslims, Christians, Hindus, Bahais and others to worship together. Austin's largest synagogue, Congregation Beth Israel, has now offered to host the celebration, organizers said.

Simone Talma Flowers, interim director of Interreligious Ministries, said staff members at the Quarries were notified of the event's interfaith nature when it was booked in July. The sports complex is not located at the main church grounds.

Kent Jennings, associate pastor of administration at Hyde Park, said in a statement that church leaders didn't realize the nature of the event until Monday, when they received a postcard describing it.

The postcard "promised space for Muslim Maghrib prayer and revealed that the event was co-hosted by the Central Texas Muslima, the Forum of Muslims for Unity, and the Institute of Interfaith Dialog," according to Hyde Park's statement.

"Although individuals from all faiths are welcome to worship with us at Hyde Park Baptist Church, the church cannot provide space for the practice of these non-Christian religions on church property," the statement said.

"Hyde Park Baptist Church hopes that the AAIM and the community of faith will understand and be tolerant of our church's beliefs that have resulted in this decision."

Several Muslim groups, which are hosting this year's event, rented the Hyde Park property because they didn't have a space large enough to accommodate the event.

Mendoza said there was no one specific problem area campaign officials could point at to explain this year's shortfall.

"It's really across-the-board," Mendoza said. "I think that, even though the economy seems to be doing well, people are still concerned about it, therefore our donations are down. We're looking at what we did last year, and we're asking the same people for donations, but those folks are cutting back this year."

The shortfall means bad news for the local agencies that depend on United Way for at least part of their annual operating budgets.

Agencies helped by the United Way include the Red Cross, Boys Club, Boy Scouts, CASA of West Texas, Council on Aging, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, Humane Society, Girl Scouts, Isaiah 58, North Side Community Center, Salvation Army, West Side Community Center, West Side Day Care Center, Victim Services and the YMCA.

Despite the bad news, Mendoza and others with the United Way campaign are not waiving the white flag just yet. They hoped events like Thursday's "Empty Bowls" luncheon would give the drive a much-needed boost.

"We're still going to put in the effort to make up the difference," Mendoza said. "We hope to make a couple of thousand dollars from Empty Bowls, and hopefully, this is the beginning of a tradition we can build on."

Christmas" and "God Bless America" will be on display, along with stars, cactuses, angels and other attractions.

"It's going to be a pretty big display," she said. "If we didn't have so many volunteers helping us this year, we'd never be able to get it done on time."

This year's Festival of Lights, the 11th annual edition, will feature more than 1 million lights and will debut Dec. 15. Last year's event drew more than 32,000 visitors from several U.S. states and foreign countries.

And, like the Thanksgiving preview, Simmons promises the event will be bigger than ever.

This year's festival will run through Dec. 31. As always, admission is free, although donations are appreciated, Simmons said.

problem, but they are paying for a first class job, and they're going to get one," George said.

Aside from the field house problems, however, projects are proceeding on schedule, he noted.

Foundation and beam work have begun on the new 21-classroom wing for the high school, as well as renovation of the front of the high school and preliminary work on parking lots and tennis courts.

George said officials are hopeful work on the high school band hall and auditorium can be completed by spring break next year.

Work on all projects is scheduled to be finished in early 2009.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of long-time trustee John Wayne Metcalf.

Metcalf, director of public works for the city of Coahoma, recently accepted a similar position with the city of Lott in central Texas.

CISD Board President Jody Reid said trustees accepted Metcalf's resignation with regret.

"He believed it was a good situation for him and his family," Reid said. "He served on this board for a long time and was a very effective trustee and we are going to miss him, but we wish him well.

Reid said the board will not appoint a replacement and instead will leave the position open until it is filled in the May 2008 elections.

"We're going to leave the position open for now," he said. "We felt like that was a decision that needed to be determined by the voters."

Mavericks rout San Antonio, 105-92

By JAIME ARON

AP Sports Writer

DALLAS — On a night when Dirk Nowitzki scored just three points in the second half, Dallas' reserves were outscored for the first time this season and second-year swingman Maurice Ager logged more minutes than he had in all other games this season combined, the Mavericks still had their way with the San Antonio Spurs.

A shift in this fierce rivalry? Hardly. Chalk it up as one of those things that happens over the course of an 82-game NBA season.

Josh Howard sparked first-half spurts of 17-1 and 11-0, putting the Mavericks in charge and keeping them there for a 105-92 victory over their conference, division and state rival.

"We had a terrible first quarter," said San Antonio guard Tony Parker, who scored only seven points all night, missing 10 of his 11 shots. "We dug ourselves a hole and we couldn't recover. We gave them too many easy shots."

The Mavericks came out strong on both ends, leaving the Spurs looking old, slow and unathletic, knocks Tim Duncan's club has heard before — like before winning their fourth title in nine years this past summer.

But considering it's not even Thanksgiving, San Antonio certainly isn't going to panic, even if it needed until 3:39 left in the second quarter to score as many points as Dallas had in the first quarter. The Mavs had 33 in the first and 59 at half-time, marking the most the Spurs have given up in a period and a half so far this season.

"We were ready to come out and play," said Howard, who scored 13 of his 23 points during the two streaks. "We played really great individual defense and team defense."

These teams will meet three more times this season and odds are all three will have more sizzle than this one. If anything, this lousy outing will give the Spurs more incentive next time around, on Dec. 5 in Dallas Mavericks guard Devin Harris (34) drives between San Antonio Spurs guard Brent Barry, left, and guard Tony Parker during the Mavs 105-92 win Thursday in Dallas.

San Antonio.

"We definitely respect San Antonio, but I don't think as much as (others) do," Mavs reserve Jerry Stackhouse said. "Still, they've got the hardware and we don't."

The Spurs came in having won four straight and were 7-1, tops in the Western Conference. After getting down by 14 points in the first quarter, they got back within eight points in the second quarter. Then Howard started the second burst and the Mavs were up at least 10 points the rest of the game.

Jason Terry had 18 points and so did Devin Harris, who had 14 of them in the fourth quarter. Nowitzki finished with 17 and Stackhouse 10.

Ager was in the starting lineup as part of an experiment. Coach Avery Johnson wants to see if he can fill the role Eddie Jones had to open the season, but has vacated because of an injury. He made a good first impression, scoring five points — including a high-flying dunk in traffic — with three assists and two rebounds in 21 minutes. He'd seen action in only two previous games, playing less than 13 minutes.

"It felt great," he said. "I've been waiting my whole life for the opportunity to do this."

He's going to keep getting it, too, as Johnson had decided to give him at least one more start no matter how he did against the Spurs.

"I'm really going to have some patience there," Johnson said.

About the only thing that fizzled for Dallas was an attempted "Green Out." T-shirts were given to fans in hopes of turning the arena green, but way too many fans in the high-dollar seats opted not to wear them or, worse yet, put them on under sports coats.

Duncan bounced back from a five-point, 2-for-13 performance in a rout over the Lakers to score 24 points on 11-of-21 shooting. He left with 3:42 to go after landing awkwardly on his left knee, though simply as a precaution. He also was accidentally stomped in the thigh by Howard in the first quarter.

"I'll be fine (Friday)," he said. San Antonio's other starters besides Duncan combined for only 15 points. That included Michael Finley going scoreless, missing all six of his shots.

Manu Ginobili led San Antonio with 25 points and Brent Barry had 11; he made all four of his shots, three of them 3-pointers.

Notes: The Mavericks' 59 first-half points were the most the Spurs have allowed since last November, when they gave up 59 to Dallas. ... In the third quarter, Ginobili threw a pass about 10 rows into the stands. ... Johnson said before the game he wanted his team to get to the line more, noting they were first in free-throw percentage but only middle-of-the-pack in attempts. They tied their season high with 30, but made only 22. ... Dallas extended its NBA-best run of sellouts to 238, 276 counting the playoffs. Detroit is second-best at 187. The Mavs' streak is 10th-longest in NBA history.

Suns 112, Bulls 102

PHOENIX — Leandro Barbosa scored 25 points and Phoenix pulled away for its fourth straight win.

Barbosa made five of seven 3-pointers, and Grant Hill added 24 points for the Suns on the heels of his 21-point effort against New York two nights earlier.

Shawn Marion scored 11 of his 21 points in the final 6½ minutes and Boris Diaw had seven of his 10 down the stretch in relief of Amare Stoudemire, who drew four fouls in a 3:18 minute span of the fourth quarter.

Steve Nash had 10 points and 15 assists for the Suns, and Stoudemire added 14 points.

Ben Gordon scored 24 and Luol Deng had 23 for the Bulls, who rallied from 14 down in the third quarter to take the lead in the fourth. Chicago fell to 1-6 to start the season.

Never buy a cell phone from someone who thinks a tailgate is only for a pre-game party.

Instead, get superior coverage and hometown service from WESTEX Wireless.

Getting good wireless service is tough some times. Geography has an awful lot to do with good coverage and good cell phone signals. In fact, if a cell phone company doesn't know the terrain, or if they just don't have enough transmission towers in our region, your phone will drop calls frequently.

It pays to know your terrain and know your customers. If you have questions or problems with your cell phone service, it's also nice to know there's a WESTEX Agent or Customer Service Representative you can talk to face-to-face.

That's not true of our competitors. Most often, you have to work through voice-mail at an undisclosed faraway location to solve a billing or service problem. Some of those folks never saw the working end of a pickup or stock trailer. And most of them are indifferent to the unique challenges of getting good cell coverage in West Texas. Not WESTEX. We didn't just circle our region on a map and decide to sell something here. WESTEX Wireless: we live here, we work here, and we do both by choice.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

When others are prone to listen to the world, Lord, we profit from listening to You.

Amen

Sometimes you must hold your nose

The smell of coffee in the morning puts the Brewer in a good mood. I love the smell of coffee. I like the smell of lots of things. Leather, the Sunday pork roast, a brand new car...

Smell is a big deal. It's the only sense you have that extends into your brain directly. It's a key component to our moods, memory and appetite. Your nose is a truly remarkable structure. When a nose functions the right way, it can help us detect as many as 2,000 different scents. It also conditions the air we breathe. We inhale about 17,000 times a day, moving some 300 cubic feet of air through our nostrils every 24 hours.

That's a lot of nose business. That snout of yours has to clean, humidify and, in a fraction of a second, warm or cool the air you breathe to match your body temperature.

A scent, fragrance or aroma also has a powerful effect on our emotions that help transform the way we feel. Specific smells suppress appetite, reduce stress, revitalize and energize, even promote physical attractiveness. I know I certainly become much better looking when I throw on some Old Spice.

The thing about smell is that it can do the opposite as well. A bad smell can put you in a bad mood or flat wear you out.

King James

You might know the name King James because of the famous English translation of the Bible. What you might not know is that he was a character that didn't care to live a life reflecting the Bible he had commissioned. His very interesting life as King of England is something worth looking at. Though a promiscuous homosexual, he married Anne of Denmark and had seven children who survived beyond birth.

He himself survived the Guy Fawks gunpowder plot but none of those things are really what King James was famous for. King James suffered from a terrible fear called aquaphobia and he never took a single bath his entire life. Those around him suffered the smell of a king who refused to put water on his body. He was a presence to be reckoned with and when he came into a room every one knew it.

There's nothing worse than somebody that reeks from a major malfunction of personal hygiene.

The Stink in Big Bend

Big Bend National Park is an amazing place and that area was the last frontier of the Lower 48.

When people in the rest of the United States were voting for Roosevelt and driving the Model T, Texans in the Big Bend were enduring Apache Indian raids on ranches and dealing with bandits robbing their banks.

Extremely eccentric places tend to attract eclectic characters. Bobcat Carter lived at the Permission Gap entrance to the national park. He devoutly preached to all that, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness. A true gentleman should bathe at least once every seven years. I do!"

People say you could smell him a mile away. He ate skunk stew, drank from a pregnant horses utter and poisoned prairie dog vil-lages for a living. He would turn back flips along the road just to stop visitors for a chat.

After living to be more than a 100 years old, he was taken to a hospital in Alpine. In terrible protest they removed his filthy rag and scrubbed his nasty body. "Don't let them kill me!" he cried, as black water splashed across his elderly form.

Three days latter Bobcat Carter died, apparently the victim of pneumonia. The bath had actually killed him.

The Smell of Success

When you can't see something or feel something, you can still identify it if you can smell it. The sense of smell is all about discernment.

I think if there is anything Christianity needs today is a strong sense of spiritual discernment. A lot of things feel right and look right but you can just tell there not because of your spiritual "knower" — the ability to be able to identify what is God and what is not; what is life and what's not something that brings life?

Furthermore, the people around us should be able to sense something different about Christians. We ought to be so full of life that people around us can smell it on us.

The Christian church is metaphorically called the body of Christ. This body is really attractive when we are properly joined with Christ the head.

I think one of the reasons why Christianity is so unattractive to so many people is because too many of us are bodies that have become unattached to Christ as our head.

After it's all said and done, a headless body is good for nothing but lying around and stinking up the place.

Immigration's here — get used to it

There is a touching, almost poignant, lament making the rounds of Europe these days. It goes, "We asked for workers, but we got people." That is the way of history. Germany has Turks; France, Algerians; Spain, Moroccans; Britain, Pakistanis; Holland, Indonesians. Everybody has somebody, and they're not going home.

WILLIAM A. COLLINS

Even sturdy Switzerland, world capital of isolation, has 20 percent immigrants. This helped the political right win big in the recent election. They triumphed by assailing the foreigners. But xenophobia aside, the Swiss economy would take a heavy lick if all those cheap workers went away.

So would ours. Without immigrants, California plantation owners would have to pay real wages. Then the price of lettuce and cantaloupe would shoot up to its fair market value and political heads would roll.

Cheap labor, after all, was one of the massive engines driving the North American Free Trade Act. Bill Clinton's theory, which worked like a charm, called for cutting Mexican tariffs on our corn. Cargill then sent down trainloads of the subsidized stuff, putting millions of Mexican farmers out of work. Soon they slipped north to labor on our farms for peanuts, sending modest remittances home to keep their kin alive.

That was OK at first, but you know how uppity poor people can get. The next thing we knew they wanted housing, and health care, and drivers licenses, and legal status, and worst of all, schools. In Spanish, yet! Well, there are limits to what good upstanding Americans will tolerate. We don't want those people actually living here. Just working here. Tell them to go home in the off season.

Sorry, guys. Too late. They're here to stay. An unholy alliance of human rights groups, tight-fisted employers and expansion-minded labor unions will scuttle any new restrictions on undocumented workers, or any serious enforcement of the restrictions we've already got.

On the other side of the coin, plenty of solid American families continue to oppose heavy immigration. They're worried about jobs, schools, hospitals, caseloads, neighbors and that good old U.S. culture. They will fight tooth and nail against the "almost amnesty" found in the recent immigration bill. In my home state of Connecticut, these two sides support separate heroes in New Haven and Danbury local governments. Both those mayors, one welcoming, the other hostile, just won easy reelection. And in North Carolina, the same public battle for legitimacy rages around the grisly Smithfield slaughterhouse.

But meanwhile this new Latino culture has already taken root. In some places, it's all Mexican. In others, every Latin flag is waved and provincial newcomers from various countries scarcely speak to one another. The sagging Catholic church, a big potential beneficiary of this new blood, isn't booming either. That's because its priests are largely gringos. Newly arrived evangelicals are instead siphoning off crowds of the faithful.

But Spanish language is not sweeping the country as so many had feared. And it won't. The schools require English and those new kids don't want to be outcasts. Remember, all our families went through a similar experience at one time. My mother didn't want her classmates to know that her parents spoke Swedish at home.

The newly imported Latin cuisine won't win anyone over either. Tacos aren't us. Neither are arepas. Our town's dozen or so Latino restaurants offer comfort food to immigrants, but little comfort to us natives. Tandoori, it's not.

So this largest of all immigrant waves is here to stay. It is painfully overpopulating our land and putting millions of us out of decent work.

Nonetheless, we lack the will to stop it. We really do like having those guys come by and cut our grass.

Another No. 2 falls: Arizona upsets Oregon, 34-24

By ANDREW BAGNATO

AP College Football Writer

TUCSON, Ariz. — Oregon's national title dream has ended. Quarterback Dennis Dixon's Heisman Trophy campaign also took a heavy blow.

The curse of No. 2 claimed another victim when the second-ranked Ducks lost Dixon to a knee injury and never recovered in a 34-24 upset by Arizona on Thursday night.

"The national championship thing was fine while it lasted," Oregon coach Mike Bellotti said. "The reality is we're still always trying to get the conference championship and the very best bowl game (the Rose Bowl)."

Oregon (8-2, 5-2 Pac-10) became the fifth No. 2 team to lose since Oct. 6, following USC, California, South Florida and Boston College. The Ducks' defeat could open the door for third-ranked Oklahoma in The Associated Press Top 25 poll, and for No. 3 Kansas in the Bowl Championship Series standings.

Dixon, Oregon's gifted starting quarterback, hurt his left knee on an option play in the first quarter. Dixon crumpled to the turf without being touched and took Oregon's national championship hopes with him.

Dixon sprained the same knee on Nov. 3 against Arizona State. Dixon wore a brace but said he felt good in warm-ups, and he flashed his usual explosiveness in a 39-yard touchdown run on the game's opening series.

"Coming into this game, I felt totally confident," he said. "My foot got caught in the ground.

That's just the way football is."

Bellotti said he didn't know if Dixon, a senior, might be lost for the season. He didn't seem confident Dixon would return for Oregon's next game at UCLA on Nov. 24.

"It's obviously not a happy deal," Bellotti said.

Dixon said he would undergo tests on Friday, and he hadn't considered that his college career might be over.

"If that's the case, it's going to be hard to swallow that," said Dixon, who was consoled on the bench by his father, Dennis Dixon Sr. "You've got to play your heart out, because you never know when you're going to get that last play."

Antoine Cason returned a punt 56 yards for a touchdown and an interception 42 yards for another score as the Wildcats shook up the national title race on a cool night in the desert. Red-clad students poured out of the grandstand as the Wildcats (5-6, 4-4) ambushed a ranked team in Arizona Stadium for Oregon's Dennis Dixon, right, lays on the field after hurting his knee during the first quarter against Arizona at Arizona Stadium in Tucson, Ariz., Thursday. Arizona won 34 - 24.

"I'm a little disappointed in the way I played," said Leaf, who stayed in the game despite spraining his ankle early in the second half.

Dixon finished 5-for-8 for 62 yards, and threw an interception. He carried twice for 34 yards.

Arizona quarterback Willie Tuitama completed 21 of 39 passes for 266 yards and two touchdowns, and was intercepted once. Mike Thomas caught two touchdowns.

Oregon's Jonathan Stewart carried 28 times for 131 yards.

Early on, Oregon appeared to be on cruise control with Dixon running its potent offense, which came in averaging 42.8 points, fifth in the nation.

On fourth-and-3 at the Arizona 39, Dixon froze the defense with a fake to Stewart, burst through a hole in the right side and ran untouched to the end zone. Ed Dickson ran for the 2-point conversion to put the Ducks ahead 8-0.

Arizona cut the lead to 8-7 on a 34-yard pass from Tuitama to Thomas.

Then came the play that altered the national title race.

"When your Heisman candidate goes down, and a guy that's a captain and a leader, that was hard," Bellotti said.

With older brother Ryan Leaf watching, Leaf replaced Dixon and completed his first pass. But Cason intercepted Leaf's third throw and returned it 42 yards for a touchdown to put the Wildcats ahead 17-11 early in the second quarter.

That started an Arizona avalanche.

Tuitama hit Thomas for a 46-yard score and Cason's 56-yard punt return put the Wildcats ahead 31-11 with 5:30 to play in the first half. The Ducks appeared to be in a daze.

"I can't say we were out of sorts but it would certainly seem that way," Bellotti said.

Trailing 31-14 early in the third quarter, Oregon had a 13-yard touchdown run by Stewart nullified on a holding penalty against receiver Garren Strong. The Ducks settled for a 34-yard field goal by Matt Evensen.

Oregon pulled within seven on Andre Crenshaw's 2-yard touchdown run with 7:53 to go in the game. But Arizona answered with an 11-play drive that ended in Jason Bondzio's 46-yard field goal with 3:20 to go.

"I thought we did a good job in the second half of coming back after Dennis got hurt, but Arizona just played better than we did," Stewart said.

Oregon is the highest-ranked visitor to lose at Arizona since the Wildcats knocked off No. 1 Washington on Nov. 7, 1992.

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

Dancers, comics and lawyers all have a natural knack for timing — and so do Mercury and Saturn. But, of course, practice makes perfect. These two meet for the third and final time this year, when they finally nail that routine. Turn your laserlike attention toward repeat issues of timing, effort and self-discipline to create life solutions that stick.

HOLIDAY MATHIS

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Someone overbearing is likely to get on your nerves unless you decide to take a more playful approach to the relationship. What this person lacks is creativity and fun — and that's just what you can provide.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You desire an intense, special and extraordinary experience. You might even decide to blow off work in favor of embracing what seems like a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You're not concerned about doing a great job so much as you are eager to do the best job ever. You won't rest until you know you are completely impressive — results plus style.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It's almost as though the future you is communicating with the present you, saying things like, "This person (or that direction) is the one that you will enjoy for years to come."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Loved ones are sitting on opposite sides of a problem, struggling to hash it out. One diplomatic move by you, and everyone is soon sitting on the same side of the table, collaborating to solve the puzzle. Work.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). As brilliantly logical as you are, there is a lot to be said for turning off your mind and doing what feels right. Pro-and-con lists will only make you more confused. When you know, just go.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Plan your adventure now in as passionate a way as you can. Make more than calls — make reservations. Once you're in motion, the psychological baggage that was keeping you anchored will fall away.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You may not love the things you're supposed to love or be fascinated by the work you're supposed to be doing. Your eyes are scouting for your heart, though your brain may protest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The question arises: Are you ready or eligible for the experience that has been given to you? Go for it, even if you're not sure. There will be plenty of chances to get this right.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You're in a prime position with all the talent, drive and resources you need. Whatever you don't have you can ask for. Overestimating the competition is just as bad as underestimating yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Your admiration for someone keeps you striving to be better in his or her presence. Tonight, don't tell all, even though you'll be asked. Keeping an air of mystery around you is sexy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Are you being too mature? Are you satisfied to watch others swing blindly at the pinata of life? When the candy rains down, you won't be so sure that "maturity" is the way to go. Grab a bat, and get in line.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES: No matter how much tude you give off, your partner is a supreme fountain of patience. TAURUS: You don't have to change someone's mind, just give him or her the eyes to see another way. GEMINI: Money can't buy you love or happiness. It matters but it's not important. CANCER: For every two steps forward you take one step back. Love is like art. Focus on process, not product. LEO: You need validation from your partner. Go ahead and ask for it. VIRGO: Mutual empathy is strong mood music for romancing your inner love muse. LIBRA: The one who recently moved on now reconsiders and returns for a second round. SCORPIO: Sometimes just expressing yourself pointedly is what someone needs to hear. SAGITTARIUS: On the journey of love, there's always more baggage to drop. Contemplate what's got to go to make more room for intimacy. CAPRICORN: Airing partnership grievances is good for the health of your relationship. AQUARIUS: Allow someone to see your softer, more personal side for a more balanced impression of you. PISCES: A love interest soon cools, giving you time to think about whether it's what you really want.

COUPLE OF THE WEEKEND: Leo's ardor is unmatched by any other as the most romantically demonstrative sign of the zodiac. Leo's next-door neighbor, Virgo, reserves her smoldering passion for a conscientious, caring counterpart, which is fitting for Leo's hidden sensitive streak. As the lion dignifies the virgin with heartfelt sweeps of amorous affections, loves details aren't lost on appreciative Virgo.

Annie's Mailbox : Advice for those in need

Dear Annie: I work in a large high school. Our dress code is fairly relaxed, but we are expected to show good taste — nothing skimpy, no short skirts, no underwear showing, etc. This unwritten code is followed by most of the employees, with the glaring exception of one co-worker. "Rita" is in her late 40s and extremely buxom. Although she is fairly attractive, she wears everything very tight, short and skimpy. You can tell she spends time putting her outfits together, but I often fear she's going to "pop" right out of them. Rita is a lovely person, very helpful and fun to be around, but her style is an embarrassment. I think she's attempting to hold on to her youth by dressing like the young girls in our school. My opinion has been echoed by several others.

KATHY MITCHELL

I hate to hear others mocking her because of her clothing. I am friendly with Rita, but haven't the slightest idea how to broach the subject with her. I don't believe the school principal has addressed it with her, although I know there have been others whose style was not so extreme and who were told to dress more modestly. Should I do anything? — Puzzled and Concerned

Dear Puzzled: If your school has a dress code, relaxed or not, it should be specific enough so teachers don't have to guess what is proper attire, and so those who do not comply can be notified by the administration. Either the school considers Rita's clothes to be acceptable or no one in authority is willing to address it. If you think her outfits are unflattering or inappropriate, you can approach her as a friend and suggest she'd look better in a different style, but it's up to you.

Dear Annie: I have a wonderful circle of friends, and we get together once a month. However, every so often, one of the women hosts a ladies party. When I say party, I mean Tupperware, jewelry, stoneware, housewares, etc.

We are all in our late 50s, and I am trying to get rid of stuff, not acquire more. I have run out of excuses for not going. Is there any way to let these women know enough is enough? — ARYC

Dear ARYC: You can attend these parties and not buy anything (in which case, they will eventually stop inviting you). Or, you can simply respond to such invitations by saying, "Sorry. I am not in the market for any more things, no matter how lovely."

Church News

Coahoma United Methodist Church

Please join us for our regular Sunday service. Sunday School for all ages begins at 9:45 a.m. followed by morning worship services at 11. All are invited to join us as we worship in song and scripture.

The PPRC Committee will be meeting at 1:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the church. That evening at 6, the Coahoma Community-Wide Worship Service will be held at First Baptist Church of Coahoma. The entire community is encouraged to attend this joint service of thanks. Tithes collected during this service will fund the Ministerial Alliance for the Coahoma Community.

Youth will not be meeting Wednesday due to the Thanksgiving holidays.

And the Ministry Team will not meet Thursday because that is Thanksgiving Day.

First United Methodist Church

On Sunday we begin a new week at First United Methodist Church, confident that God will lead and comfort us as we set foot on a new journey without our beloved Pastor Shane Brue. We celebrated his life in a special service in our sanctuary last Tuesday and it was indeed glorious. A fitting tribute to a true man of God.

Words cannot begin to express our gratitude to the entire community for the love and concern you have shown our pastor's family and this congregation during this time. We will always remember and hold a special place in our hearts for each kindness and prayer.

And, as Shane would have it, we will continue with God's work at the corner of Fourth and Scurry. Living Christmas Tree practice will be held Saturday with lunch. Services of worship will be at 8:30 a.m. and 10:50 a.m. Sunday with Sunday school classes at 9:45 a.m. And, in the afternoon, the church will be decorated, the giant tree will be erected and the workers will be fed. And, our life goes on.

We were blessed and our work has been cut out for us. Keep us in your prayers as we celebrate Thanksgiving.

St. Paul Lutheran Church

Worship services and Holy Communion are at 9 a.m. Sunday school and adult Bible classes are at 10:15 a.m.

Bible studies during the week are on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. Call the church at 267-7163 for details and locations.

There will be a bake sale from 8 a.m. until noon Saturday at the parish hall, sponsored by the Lutheran Women's Missionary League with proceeds going to the Howard County Bible classes.

November Operation On-Going Support items are: Candy, instant hot drinks, Chapstick and donations to the AT&T phone card fund.

First Presbyterian Church

Sunday, we will celebrate the 116th anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church of Big Spring. Special musical guests will be the Lone Star Brass from Midland. Dennis Haralson, commissioned lay pastor from Seminole, will present a sermon titled "In Between Days." Marj Carpenter will deliver a "Minute of History." The choir's anthem is

"Come Down, O Love Divine" by William H. Harris. Organist Mike Mitchell will open the worship with "The Rejoicing" by Handel, arranged by Leavitt, and close with "Voluntary Concertato on 'Lasst Une Erfreven'" by Charles Schramm.

Midweek services will remain as usual: Youth at 6 p.m., Bible study at 5:17 p.m. and choir practice at 6 p.m. Wednesday. There will be no Bible study Nov. 21.

Volunteers are still needed for meals for the Youth Connection Nov. 28 and Dec. 19. Call the church office to sign up for those dates.

The lectionary for Sunday, which is designated as "Care Giver Sunday," is Isaiah 65:17-25; Isaiah 12:2; 2 Thessalonians 3:6-13; Luke 21:5-19.

Birdwell Lane Baptist Church

Sunday worship services are at 10:55 a.m. and 5 p.m. Children's Church is at 11 a.m. For a ride, call 264-9924 or 267-7157. We are located at 1512 Birdwell Lane. A nursery is provided.

Saturday, the youth will be decorating our Christmas float from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Have a happy and safe Thanksgiving Holiday. For further information, call 256-7157 or 267-8214

First Baptist Church

First Baptist Church wishes to extend its deepest sympathy to the family of Dr. Shane Brue and to his congregation during these difficult hours.

Sunday morning, we will be honoring our Lord with the Lord's Supper. At 4 p.m., we will be delivering meals prior to our Love Feast which begins at 5 p.m.

First Baptist Church is thankful for so many things. One of those is to say "Thanks" to the Big Spring Herald for allowing the churches of Big Spring an opportunity to tell the community about the activities every week at no charge.

We thank God for His blessings upon our country and this community and how He has so bountifully blessed us.

Have a happy Thanksgiving.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church

Everyone is invited to attend worship services at St. Mary's this Sunday. Holy Communion is celebrated at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Christian education for all ages starts at 9:30 a.m.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will have their meeting and breakfast this Saturday at 8 a.m.

For more information about St. Mary's Episcopal Church, call 267-8201 or visit www.stmarysbt.org. St. Mary's is located at 1001 South Goliad.

North Birdwell United Methodist Church

The delivery day for Angel Food will be Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Be sure and bring your box. Because of the Christmas holiday, orders for December delivery will also be taken at this time.

"Super chefs" Alton and Treva Hall were a big hit at our Chicken Spaghetti Supper and the gift basket was won by Lallye Moore. We thank everyone for their support.

December 1, we will not only be taking Angel Food orders, but will also be decorating the church.

December 9, there will be a fellowship lunch immediately following Sunday school. The administrative council will meet after lunch.

Sunday worship is 9:30 a.m. with Sunday school following for all ages. Sunday evening services are at 5 p.m. Bible study is held the first and third Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. and United Methodist Women meet each second and fourth Thursday at 4:30 p.m.

North Birdwell United Methodist Church is located at 2702 N. Birdwell. Everyone is welcome to come and share God's love. For more information, call 263-2536 or 267-2203 and leave a message.

Friends of Unity

With thanksgiving, friends enter in to their 14th year of ministry from their present location in the east boxcar in the Railroad Plaza.

Spring Creek Fellowship

Grace is so amazing! God offers us His grace and all we have to do is take Him up on it. Our pastor, Dennis Teeters, will continue to preach on God's grace in a sermon titled "Embrace Grace." We will be looking at 2 Timothy 1:3-12 to see what this grace is all about and what it can do for us.

We will be blessed to have a group of college kids from Hardin Simmons University leading our worship time Sunday morning. Youth Pastor Chris Tucker will be preaching Sunday evening.

We have child care for your infants and toddlers during our services and children's church Sunday morning.

Sunday evening activities begin at 5 p.m. with AWANAs for the children. It is a time of learning more about God as the kids read and memorize scripture and learn Godly values. The adults have Bible studies and the youth have choir practice. Worship begins at 6 p.m.

Sunday is our collection day for Operation Christmas Child so bring your shoe boxes loaded with supplies for children in far away places who need to know God loves them.

For a list of what to put in the boxes, call our church office at 714-4584 or check at Allan's Furniture.

We will be having family time Wednesday night and will not have a meal or Bible studies.

Enjoy your Thanksgiving and give God the praise for what He has blessed you with!

To get to the church, go down 1-20 east to Salem exit, turn left under the overpass and again at the service road. SCF is on the right just before you get to the on ramp. We'll be looking for you.

Texas Order of Eastern Star officers visit Big Spring VA

Special to the Herald

The Grand Chapter of Texas Order of the Eastern Star officers were out in force for a November visit to the West Texas VA Care Center. This marked the first time the VA had hosted a visit from the Grand Chapter officers.

The group was given a tour of the hospital by Iva Jo Hanslik, community relations coordinator.

The Worthy Grand Matron Joyce Gilbert was invited to play the piano, which is her love, and those in the group joined in singing to the delight of all. They thoroughly enjoyed visiting with some of the residents on the extended care transitional unit floor.

While touring the hospital, they were joined by Christopher Bacorn, the hospital's assistant director. He gave them some more information about the hospital and an update on the domiciliary and its program to help veterans transition back to civilian life.

The group toured the outpatient program and learned how it functioned. The visit ended with refreshments and a gift presentation.

Capt. George Roberts Andrews family honored by Big Spring VA Medical Center

Flag donated by DAR Captain Elisha Mack Chapter

Lori Pavlovsky was presented a flag that flew over the Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center during October.

The memorial flag program was begun in January to honor a veteran or active duty military person each month. A designated organization on the VA Volunteer Service Committee purchases the flag and chooses the person to be recognized.

The names of those honored are engraved on a plaque in the VAMC's foyer. As a participating organization in the program, the Daughters of the American Revolution's Captain Elisha Mack Chapter chose Capt. George Robert Andrews, father of Lori Pavlovsky, to be honored.

Capt. Andrews received his pilot training at Webb Air Force Base and later at Luke AFB. His F-100

Sabre jet was shot down Oct. 15, 1969, during Capt. Andrews' second tour of duty in Vietnam.

Andrews was awarded the Air Medal for distinguishing himself in aerial combat, the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Force Commendation Medal and the Purple Heart. Both Pavlovsky and her mother Dorothy Britton are members of the chapter.
