Asking for $34 million to build new elementary

By STEVE REAGAN

Big Spring Independent School District voters will decide whether to finance $34 million in facility improvements when they go to polls May 10.

BSISD trustees unanimously decided to place the bond issue on the ballot during their regular monthly meeting Thursday in the high school board room. The centerpiece of the bond proposal is construction of a new elementary campus that will house all district students in grades 2 through 4. Students in kindergarten and first grade would attend classes at either Kentwood, Marcy or Moss cam-

Officials estimate that the bond would raise the district's tax rate by a maximum of 33 cents per $100 — which would mean that the owner of property valued at $100,000 would pay an additional

$333 a year in taxes. BSISD Chief Financial Officer See BOND, Page 3A

Committee nixes Hereford appeal

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

Hereford High School's effort not to be placed in the same Interscholastic University League district as Big Spring and four other schools has been dealt an initial setback.

The District 4-4A executive committee, meeting Wednesday in Lubbock, voted 4-2 against Hereford's request to be placed in another district for all sports except football.

only district school siding with put with Big Spring.

Spring ISD Superintendent Michael Downes said.

In the biennial UIL district realignment announced in January, District 4-4A was changed to include Hereford, previously a member of District 3-4A, and Abilene Cooper High School, which dropped down from Class 5A.

The district lost long-time member Lubbock Estacado, which dropped down to Class 3A, while Plainview, Wolfforth San Angelo Lake View was the Frenship and Lake View stayed appealed the UIL realignment, requesting that it remain in District 3-4A in every sport except football, where it would compete as a part of 4-4A.

The first step in the appeals process was this week's district meeting.

"If the appeal had been approved, we would have been left with a odd number of teams in the district," Downes said in explaining Big Spring's vote against the appeal. "That creates additional bye weeks in team sports, therebye providing fewer opportunities for students to participate and compete."

The next stage, Downes said, will be at the state level at UIL headquarters in Austin. Hereford's appeal is scheduled to be heard at 9 a.m. Thursday.

A decision there is expected no later than next Friday, Downes

Hawks hold off NMMI for Region V berth

Howard College Hawks forward Sean Watson dribbles between his legs in as the Hawks' offense sets up in a 67-57 victory Thursday over New Mexico Military Institute at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

By JONATHAN HULL

Herald Sports Editor

It might not have been the prettiest win of the season for Howard College's Hawks, but it was definitely important.

Howard held on to beat Western Junior College Athletic Conference's last place New Military Institute Broncos, 67-57, Thursday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Howard scored the first eight points of the game and quickly jumped out to a 21-6 lead with 12:25 left in the first half before NMMI could even muster a response. However, the Broncos cut the 15-point deficit to 11, 34-23, by the intermission.

A different Hawks' team came out of the locker room for the second half as Howard appeared to be content with coasting to the victory. The Broncos pulled within 2 with 9:53 left in the game, using a 17-8 advantage in the first 10 minutes of the second half to chop down the deficit.

Fortunately for the Hawks, leading scorer Sean Watson wasn't open to allowing a Broncos' upset. Watson scored nine consecutive unanswered points, sparking Howard to a 51-40 advantage. His tenacity at the offensive end didn't just give Howard what prove to be an insurmountable lead, it also frustrated NMMI's players and

One of the Broncos' assistant coaches screamed an obscenity at the officials as Denzel Barnes, playing in his first game since Jan. 21 due to a broken hand, stole the ball in NMMI's half of the court and passed it ahead to a streaking Watson. Watson was fouled as he put in a layup, giving an opportunity for a threepoint play.

However, NMMI's assistant added to the deficit, yelling at the official loud enough so the whole coliseum could hear him and drawing a technical foul. The 5point swing played a pivotal part later in the game.

Howard extended its lead to as many as 12 points, but NMMI made one last run at the upset. Down by 13, 58-45, the Broncos' Kek Biel hit three consecutive 3pointers, cutting the Hawks lead

However, Watson again had the answer as he ended up scoring 17 points in the final 10 minutes of the game. The rest of the team managed just six points during that same time span.

"Sean shot the ball very well tonight and I was very proud of his efforts," said Hawks Head Coach Mark Adams. "We're not used to seeing the type of zone they were playing and we just didn't attack it very well."

Watson finished with 24 points overall with seven rebounds. Corteze Isaac also had seven boards and added nine points. Devon Baker was the only other Hawks to reach double figures with 13 points.

The Hawks shot a dismal 31.6 percent from the floor in the second half. Meanwhile, NMMI hit 46.7 percent of its shots in the final 20 minutes, including a solid five of 12 from the 3-point

Eric Stewart led the Broncos with 14 points and four assists off the bench. Brad Rogers was good for a double double with 13 point sand 10 rebounds and Byron Byrd added 13 as well.

However, this game was decided by the quantity, not the quality, of free throws the Hawks shot in the second half. After not getting a single attempt at the charity stripe in the first half, Howard went to the line 32 times in the final 20 minutes, but converted only 18 of those attempts for a paltry 56.3 percent.

NMMI only attempted eight free throws in the entire game.

The win puts Howard in the Region V Tournament in Belton March 6-9, but Adams isn't convinced the Hawks will be a threat to advance past the first round unless some changes are made.

"It's nice to keep playing, but unless this team develops some character and toughness then we're going to be a quick out," he

Emery: Clemens will be pardoned

By RONALD BLUM

AP Baseball Writer

One of Brian McNamee's lawyers predicted Roger Clemens will be pardoned by President saying Bush, some Republicans treated his client harshly because of the pitcher's friendship with the Bush family. Richard Emery made the claims Thursday, a day after a congressional hearing broke down along party lines. Democrats were skeptical of Clemens' denials he performanceenhancing drugs and Republicans questioned character the McNamee, the personal trainer who made the accusations against the seven-time Cy Young Award winner. "It would be the easiest thing in the world for George W. Bush, given the corrupt proclivities of his administration, to say Roger Clemens is an American hero, Roger Clemens helped children," Emery said in a telephone interview. "It's my belief they have some reason to believe they can get a pardon."

During Wednesday's session before the House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform, Clemens repeated his denials under oath, which could lead to criminal charges if federal prosecutors conclude he made false statements obstructed Congress. "I'm not aware of Mr. Clemens having been charged with anything,"

White House deputy press ly," Emery said. "They focused on Clemens secretary Tony Fratto said after being told of Emery's remarks.

Emery cited Bush's decision last year to commute the 2?-year prison sentence of I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby, his vice president's former top aide. Libby was convicted in the case of the leaked identity of a CIA opera-

In addition, Emery said he thinks Bush would pardon Clemens even before an indictment or conviction, as President Ford did with President Nixon.

During the hearing, Clemens cited his friendship with Bush's father, President George H.W. Bush, a baseball fan who regularly attends Houston Astros' games.

Clemens said he was on a recent hunting trip when the elder Bush called with words of support.

"When all this happened, the former president of the United States found me in a deer blind south Texas and expressed his concerns that this was unbelievable, and stay strong and hold your head up high,"

Clemens testified. Emery said as he thought about the testiovernight, mony Clemens' reference to the call from the elder Bush convinced him the questioning by Republicans was a concerted effort. "All the pieces fell into place given his friendship, his personal friendship with the Bush famihave some belief that even if he's prosecuted, he will never have to serve jail time or face a trail. This is a charade we're going through."

IRS Special Agent Jeff Novitzky attended the hearing and watched from the second row. Novitzky has been a part of the BALCO prosecution team that secured an indictment against Barry Bonds on charges of perjury and obstruction of justice. Bonds testified before a grand jury in 2003 and denied that he knowingly used performance-enhancing drugs.

Emery praised Clemens' lawyers, Rusty Hardin and Lanny Breuer, as knowledgeable and said the prospect of a pardon was the only explanation that allowed the pitcher to repeat his denials under oath.

"It's the only reason lawyers worth their salt would allow their client to run into the buzz saw of Jeff Novitzky and the potential prosecution. tampering and lying to a federal official," Emery said.

Hardin dismissed Emery's theory as without merit.

"Richard Emery just has to quit smoking his own dope," Hardin said.

A spokesman for Rep. Darrell Issa of California, a Republican who was critical of McNamee during the hearing, said Wednesday's partisan tone came about because GOP members felt the hearing was overly instead of the broader concerns raised in the Mitchell Report on drug use in baseball.

"It's clear Democrats had expected a government-funded TV show trial, and now they're whining that Republicans didn't want to play," said the spokesman, Frederick Hill. "The hearing was supposed to be about the Mitchell Report. The Democrats are at fault for focusing on individual wrongdoing instead of the validity of the Mitchell Report." Emery had harsh criticism for Republican Reps. Dan Burton of Indiana, Virginia Foxx of North Carolina, Christopher Shays of Connecticut and Shays Issa. called McNamee a "drug dealer" and Burton accused McNamee of telling "lie after lie after lie after lie."

"It was disgusting and despicable behavior," Emery said. "It was clear to me they were carrying someone's water."

Rep. Elijah Cummings, a Maryland Democrat who said he believed McNamee, was concerned about the apparent Republican-Democratic divide.

"Of all the things to become partisan over, this was the wrong one," Cummings said. "What we needed to be doing was to be in search of truth. And I think that when you are truly in search of truth, we need to put the partisan shoes at the door and walk in without them.'

Junior, Hamlin win [®] Daytona qualifiers

By JENNA FRYER

AP Auto Racing Writer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. Hendrick vs. Gibbs. Jimmie, Jeff and Junior vs. Tony, Denny and Kyle.

Hendrick Motorsports' top two drivers hold a combined six Cup series championships — and the other guy just happens to be NASCAR's most popular driver and a restrictor-plate racing wizard. Joe Gibbs Racing has a two-time champion and two of the series' rising stars.

How big is this Daytona 500 showdown?

"It's going to be the epic battle, and it should be the battle of a lifetime and the century," Gibbs driver Tony Stewart quipped. "There may not be another battle of this proportion for the rest of my life, my career, for the century."

OK, so Stewart was exaggerating. Still, when Hendrick driver Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Gibbs driver Denny Hamlin each won a qualifying race Thursday, it set the stage for a heck of a show Sunday.

Oh by the way, Hendrick's overshadowed driver, Casey Mears, is starting ninth. That means six of the top nine spots will be filled by drivers from those two teams. Gibbs driver Kyle Busch will roll off from the 24th position. Hendrick driver Jimmie Johnson, the two-time defending Cup series champion, will start from the pole.

It makes either team the obvious favorite to win the 50th running of The Great American Race. But Stewart, who finished second to teammate Hamlin in Thursday's second qualifier, said it wasn't that simple.

"I think you can't just limit to those two teams," Stewart said. "But like I said, if it helps us make a better headline for tomorrow, yeah, it's going to be the battle of a lifetime."

That's certainly the way it looked after all four Hendrick cars and two of the three Gibbs cars overcame engine problems that forced them to swap their motors before

Thursday's races. Just the day before, Gibbs had four motors traveling up I-95 as four motors headed down to Daytona, and the two truck drivers honked as they passed each other.

After years of playing second fiddle to Hendrick as the top team for Motors General Hendrick drivers won 18 of 36 races last season — Gibbs will try to dethrone the powerful team with its new Toyota support. Hamlin drove a Camry to its first win in NASCAR's top series by working with Stewart, then ultimately passed his teammate for the qualifying race victory.

acquiring the All-Star guard Kidd from the Nets — but stayed close until the Suns put it away with an 11-2 run late in the final quarter.

"They just had another gear, and we just couldn't get there," Mavericks coach Avery Johnson said.

The Mavs finished with just eight assists, Kidd averages 10.4, but dominated the offensive boards 20-8. The Suns are hoping O'Neal can help cure their rebounding problem.

Nash had more assists than the opposing team for the fourth time this season.

"It was a little tough with the injuries we have to go out and play four games in five nights and end on a tough back-toback." Nowitzki said. "Hopefully we can get everybody healthy and go from there."

Dallas shot 29 percent (7-for-24) in the third quarter while Phoenix took a 77-73 lead, with Barbosa scoring on his own rebound with a second left.

A four-point play put Phoenix ahead 91-84 7:03 from the finish. Nowitzki was called for goaltending on Diaw's inside shot, and Eddie Jones was whistled for a foul. Jones drew a technical for complaining. Nash made one free throw and Diaw another.

Stoudemire converted a three-point play on a thunderous dunk, then Barbosa scored on a fastbreak and it was 100-91 with 3:22 to play.

Nowitzki scored inside, then Diaw made a 17-footer and Barbosa got another layup after a Dallas turnover, putting Phoenix ahead 104-93 with 1:51 left. After going 0-for-11 on Tuesday night being heckled in Dallas, Devean George was 0-for-2 before making a 3-pointer to end the skid. George exercised his no-trade clause to block a sevenplayer deal that would have brought Kidd to the Mavs.

George finished with seven points.

"Both sides are just explaining what they are trying to do," George said of what seem to be ongoing discussions. "They are trying to explain what they want to do."

Notes: The Suns' Brian

Skinner missed the game have a fully healthy team because of the flu. ... coach when it next practices on Avery Tuesday. He wouldn't Johnson believes he will comment on whether he thought that include Kidd. ... Phoenix had its 100th consecutive home sellout.

Annie's Mailbox®

Dear Annie: I've been married for 19 years to "Mitch," a wonderful man. We have a beautiful 16-year-old daughter, "Jessie," an honors student who is involved extracurricular activities, holds down a part-time job and is just a great kid.

Mitch and Jessie were close until she hit her teens. Now, he is struggling. He worries that she spends too much time on the phone and computer. When she started dating, Mitch worried she would have sex. Jessie is adamant she's not ready yet, but that doesn't calm Mitch at all. He says we aren't doing enough to make sure she doesn't make a mistake. He will occasionally erupt with edicts like telling her she needs to be home by 8 p.m. or refusing to drive her to an activity. She views it as being overly strict and so do I.

Mitch tells me Jessie's been slacking off at school, even though she has been on the honor roll every semester. He says she needs to spend more time on homework. I've tried to point out all the ways Jessie is responsible. She recently stopped hanging out with a girlfriend when she discovered her drinking and smoking. Last week, she came home early from a party because she said it was getting out of hand.

I firmly believe Mitch is having trouble letting go. He can't stand that Jessie doesn't want to "hang" with us anymore. His behavior is driving both Jessie and me crazy. I worry it will cause her to rebel in a much more extreme way. She's a good kid and he just isn't seeing it. Any suggestions?

MARCY SUGAR

Massachusetts

Dear Massachusetts: Some parents find it difficult to accept that children their are growing up, but it's healthy that Jessie is learning be to independent. You are right that Mitch's attitude is likely to push in the wrong her direction. When parents children with treat mistrust, the kids often feel they may as well earn it. If you cannot convince Mitch to put a lid on his fears, suggest he talk it over with someone his clergyperson, a friend with same-age children, his parents or a therapist. Dear Annie: I am 24 and getting married next year. The problem is my older brother, "Derek."

When my fiance and I asked Derek to be a groomsman, he declined, saying he preferred to sit with his wife and son. Recently, I learned they are expecting a second baby and the due date is three weeks before my wedding. I am nervous that Derek will bring his toddler and newborn to the ceremony reception. My biggest fear is a crying baby or fussy toddler interrupting our vows. And my fiance and I are enforcing an "adults only" reception, but I do not believe my brother will abide by this.

How do I gently convince Derek not to bring his little ones? — Baffled Bride

Dear Baffled: Simply say, "Derek, you know we aren't having any children at the ceremony or reception. Do you want to find you a me babysitter?" If you think will bring them regardless, hire responsible person to escort any little children to a play area and take care of them during the ceremony. The extra cost is worth the peace of mind.

Dear Annie: I've been mulling over Thanksgiving column where one reader said, "My wife and I suffer from a host of diseases and diagnoses. We take a litany of medications and prescriptions. I give thanks that I have health coverage and live in a country where I can receive adequate care and competent treatment."

I live in the same country and I have no health coverage to pay for adequate care competent treatment. This is a national shame. — Healthy and Scared Healthy Dear Scared: We agree. America is an affluent and generous country and our citizens deserve better.

Congress and White House play high-stakes game of chicken over surveillance legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a deadline looming, President Bush and congressional Democrats are locked in a standoff over the government's authority to spy on foreign phone calls and e-mails that pass through the United States.

A temporary law that makes it easier to carry out that spying expires Saturday night at midnight, and Bush and his top intelligence officials say the consequences are dire. Al-Qaida, Bush says, is "thinking about hurting the American people again," and would be helped if U.S. eavesdropping is hampered.

The Democrats are equally adamant. Bush has all the authority he needs to intercept terrorist communications, even if the law expires, House Speaker Nancy Pelosi said Thursday. The congressional majority is simply trying to balance concerns about civil liberties against the government's spy powers, and needs time to do it, she said.

So who's right?

A quirk in the temporary eavesdropping law adopted by Congress last August complicates the answer. The law allows the government to initiate wiretaps for up to one year against a wide range of targets. It also explicitly compels telecommunications companies to comply with the orders, and protects them from civil lawsuits that may be filed against them for doing so.

Hillary Clinton will have to get around DNC to seat Michigan and Florida delegates

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton desperately wants meaningless wins in Florida and Michigan to turn into votes she can count on. It won't be easy with the Democratic National Committee rules standing in her way.

The DNC is refusing to back down from the tough sanctions it imposed on the two states, which held early contests in violation of party rules. They have been stripped of all their delegates to the national convention in August where either Clinton or rival Barack Obama will be nominated for president.

The DNC has offered Florida and Michigan a couple ways out in compliance with party rules. First, they could hold second nominating contests, but Democratic leaders in both states reject that idea. Or they can appeal to the DNC's credentials committee, a 186-member body that usually operates in obscurity and has a complicated membership and rules process that will require deft maneuvering in this divided campaign.

Just like the some-800 superdelegates, this committee could hold the cards in helping decide the Democratic nominee if the race stays close.

Clinton's campaign insists the delegates should be seated in accordance with more than 2 million votes cast in the two states last month.

U.S. to try to shoot down ailing satellite, keep it from crashing to Earth with toxic fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking a page from Hollywood science fiction, the Pentagon said Thursday it will try to shoot down a dying, bus-size U.S. spy satellite loaded with toxic fuel on a collision course with the Earth.

The military hopes to smash the satellite as soon as next week — just before it enters Earth's atmosphere — with a single missile fired from a Navy cruiser in the northern Pacific Ocean.

The dramatic maneuver may well trigger international concerns, and U.S. officials have begun notifying other countries of the plan — stressing that it does not signal the start of a new American anti-satellite weapons program.

Military and administration officials said the satellite is carrying fuel called hydrazine that could injure or even kill people who are near it when it hits the ground. That reason alone, they said, persuaded President Bush to order the shoot-down.

"That is the only thing that breaks it out, that is worthy of taking extraordinary measures," said Gen. James Cartwright, vice chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, during a Pentagon briefing.

Billions of gallons of water trapped in tunnel could threaten old Colorado mining town

DENVER (AP) — More than 1 billion gallons of contaminated water — enough to fill 1,500 Olympic-sized swimming pools — is trapped in a tunnel in the mountains above the historic town of Leadville and threatening to blow.

Lake County Commissioners have declared a local state of emergency for fear that this winter's aboveaverage snowpack will melt and cause a catastrophic tidal wave.

The water is backed up in abandoned mine shafts and a 2.1-mile drainage tunnel that is partially collapsed, creating the pooling of water contaminated with heavy metals.

County officials have been nervously monitoring the rising water pressure inside the mine shafts for about two years. An explosion could inundate Leadville and contaminate the Arkansas River.

"It could come out, we just don't know where," county Commissioner Carl Schaefer said. "We're seeing changes and we're very concerned. We're not crying 'Chicken Little' here."

New generation of 'green' Western ranchers bucking cattle industry to protect environment

CATHEYS VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Seth Nitschke spent his early 20s working at large feed lots before he returned home to start a business raising beef cattle fed on the grasses of the Sierra Nevada foothills.

Nitschke, 31, who herds heifers through pastures near Yosemite National Park, doesn't consider himself an environmental activist, though he's planting saplings to protect nearby streams and runs a light herd to let his pastures breathe.

Unlike some of his counterparts in traditional livestock production, he and a new crop of cattlemen are quietly working to minimize their industry's ecological footprint and are forging unlikely alliances with environmental groups.

"Look at this grass. If I don't take care of it, that's my livelihood," Nitschke said, kneeling as he examined foxtail shoots. "We dress differently than the eco-folks, we probably vote differently, but in the end there's a lot of ways in which our core values are really close."

Across the West, cattlemen and environmentalists have locked horns over grazing practices for decades. But increasingly, ranchers are buying into the idea that they have a role to play in protecting open space, be it through preserving private wildlands or promoting sustainable grazing techniques.

but pursue this course of action.

"As far as the board and the citizen's facility committee are concerned, the needs at the elementary level far surpass any other considerations," Trustee Tony Kennedy said. "Those recommendations gave us a good snapshot of what our needs were ... This is not about anything else besides providing our kids with an adequate learning environment."

The city of Big Spring, Howard College and all Howard County recently passed local bond issues. School Board President Alan Partee said trustees were cognizant of the added burden on taxpayers, but believe needs outweigh costs at this juncture.

"We feel that our facilities are at a point where we need to do something right now," Partee said. "So, as far as were we willing to wait another year or two before calling for an election, the answer is no."

Partee expressed optimism that voters will realize the need for addressing facility concerns when they vote in May.

"We feel like community support for this will be good," he said. "We feel good about it. It's for our kids and our community, and it's for a good reason.'

The court voted to renew the burn ban for another 90-day period, ending the first part of May.

"We're seeing a heavy influx of wildfires, Sullivan said. "We expected that because of the rains last year. Rain is always good for our area, but the end result is always high fuels. We have the highest amounts of fuel this year than we've seen in the past 25

Sullivan said one of the most important things county residents can do to protect their homes against wildfire is to make sure brush and other debris is cleared away from the structure. "Make sure there's as little fuel around the home as possible," said Sullivan. "Make sure there aren't any large quantities of dried grass or weeds, or any other combustible material, close to your house.

"Fire prevention is more of a proactive thing than a reactive thing, because once a fire starts it's too late. I see a lot of homes with trees and brush around them, and one thing they can do to help protect their home is make firebreaks — simply mowing around the structure — so the volunteer fire fighters will have a more defendable space if something happens."

Sullivan said signs located on county firehouses that normally track the risk-level of wildfires will now be marked with a different sort of sign.

OUR VIEWS

We salute:

Each week, the Herald salutes individuals and groups from our community and area who have been recognized for special achievements or accomplishments.

We recognize these special people for working to help make our region a better place to live, work and play

This week we salute:

- Brianna Kight, on winning the Big Spring Independent School District Spelling Bee, and to the other individual school champions, Julie Jimenez, Kiowa Lesser, Anthony Lopez, Christopher Lopez, Bailee Chase and Jonathan Byrd.
- Everyone who participated in Monday's Meet the Candidates forum, and to the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce for sponsoring the event.
- Big Spring State Hospital on another successful Valentine's Day fund-raiser. The hard-working volunteers make it easy and fun to recognize a sweetheart, while at the same time making life so much better for those at the state hospital.
- Mayor Russ McEwen for his inspirational talk and optimistic outlook for the future of our community during his annual State of the City address Tuesday. We certainly have reason to believe the future is bright for Big Spring.
- Big Spring City Council on signing off to take over the Senior Center as well as following Moore Development for Big Spring in putting more money in the pot for runway renovation at the airport. While a better runway won't guarantee new business for the airpark, it's obvious a lesser runway would close the door on any possibilities.
- Jesse Mendoza, named president of the United Way of Big Spring and Howard County. We wish you and all of the other United Way volunteers great success.
- Big Spring High School students Priscilla Avalos, Sophia Gonzalez, Kevin Porras, Hollie Biemeret and Ashley Castillo, who have advanced to the State Solo and Ensemble Contest to be held in May. Congratulations!

Is there an individual or organization in our community that you feel should be saluted? If so, please send us their name and why you think they should be recognized. We must have your name and telephone number and you must provide it in writing.

A SMALL PRAYER

Amen

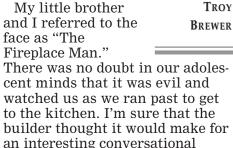

Controlling the state of events that surround us is impossible, but believing You are in charge, Lord, is not.

Talk about seeing things...

then I was a kid, my parents bought a nice house with all the amenities that 1973 had to offer. Besides being in a pleasant neighborhood, it came complete with a real river stone fireplace. All the rocks that made this fireplace were round, smooth and beautiful except for one. Right in the very center, about six feet high, was a stone that had the spitting image of a sinister face on it.

My little brother and I referred to the face as "The Fireplace Man.'

us out. Even my mom was not immune to the terror of the Fireplace Man. One night as she slept in blissful peace, a foreboding vision overtook her slumber. She dreamed the face began to move, and out of the fireplace came the terrible creature her children feared. When she awoke screaming, she also woke up my step-father and and to this day there is cement on the one rock in the center of that fireplace. Face Off

You've seen a face in a rock here or there. You might have been the only person that thought it looked like a face, but you've seen it more than once.

The most famous rock face of all is New Hampshire's state symbol, The Old Man of the Mountain popularized by Nathaniel Hawthorne in his short story, "The Great Stone Face." It's been reproduced on quarters, license plates, stamps, decorative china and hundreds of postcards. Tragically, it collapsed on May 3, 2005, and is gone forever.

To me the most famous, life-like, stone face belongs to Keith

Richards of the Rolling Stones. Almost human — it's uncanny. Face for sale

Right here in Joshua, two enterprising men have recently made national news. A rock with a really cool face on it was discovered in a local field and these guys refer to it as "The Miracle Rock." To me, the real miracle would be if anybody paid the asking price they have requested on E-Bay — $49,000!

As David Stewart tells the story, he and his buddies were working when it fell off of a trailer. "A piece of the rock sheared off and there was that face, it just stood out," he said.

The sandstone is big and Stewart thinks it might weigh about 200 pounds. For the most part, the stone is dark brown; however, the place where the rock sheared off left a lighter color and now there appears to be the profile of a person's face. The remaining dark part even looks like locks of hair.

It's not crazy to see a face in it. I've seen it myself on the Internet, and to me, it kind of looks like a female Bob Hope. It's also not crazy to try and make a buck off of it. I mean these are the days where we pay $10 for a movie ticket and $3 for a gallon of gas. There might just be somebody out there wanting this rock for $49,000.

You see what you want

In this week's confession from a highly caffeinated Christian, I suggest to you that beauty and ugliness for that matter, really are in the eyes of the beholder. I think we see what we want to see. By the Spirit of God, I believe I see the Creator through the creation around me. By the same Spirit, I can find the author when reading the Bible.

I want to see hope and life and goodness and mercy and grace. I want to see love without any strings attached. I have a drive in me to want to know God and experience Him in great big things and even in little bitty things. That's why I want to see Jesus. The more I want to see him, the more I do. The more I look for Him, the more He shows up.

Matthew 7:7: "Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened."

The Rev. Troy Brewer welcomes your comments. He can be reached at www.freshfromthebrewer.com.

Cultural stewards' preserve heritage very community has citizens who enrich civic life by preserving and promotingcultural heritage. Some are volunteers whose avocation becomes a life's work. Others are professionals who, through their energy and vision, transform a job into a mission. In a ceremony at the Texas Capitol, Gov. Rick Perry presented the inaugural Humanities Texas Award to winners and finalists whose extraordinary efforts have advanced the humanities in Texas.

GILLETTE

Meet some of those individuals.

For more than a decade, Weslaco's David Champion has highlighted the culture of the Rio Grande Valley, producing lively public programs, innovative curricula for schools and a CD-ROM of conjunto music released under the Smithsonian Folkways Recordings label.

Melissa Waddy Thibodeaux's compelling one-woman dramatizations of Rosa Parks, Harriet Tubman and Sojourner Truth have brought history to life for thousands of school children and adults.

Former Austin cab driver Farid Mohammadi founded and led Texas Nafas to enlarge the role poetry plays in our lives. His organization has produced scores of television programs, organized public readings that attracted audiences in the hundreds and created an acclaimed poetry DVD that became one of NPR's suggested holiday books of 2005.

Although Clifton and Shirley Caldwell live in Albany, Texas, their contributions to cultural heritage over 40 years have had a profound impact statewide. Through their leadership of such organizations as the Texas Historical Commission, the Dallas County Historical Commission and the Texas State Historical Association, the Caldwells have been vital to many preservation and historical initiatives, including the restoration of 60 historical county courthouses.

And it's not just individuals who make a difference. Local community organizations also play a crucial role in guiding others in better understanding and appreciating our creative spirit. Through lectures, films, theatrical performances and after school arts and writing clubs, Art's for Everyone has made arts education and cultural activities available in the rural community of Encinal.

The Library Club of Menard first raised private funds to build a public library and then developed into a vital educational and cultural center. The club's activities, according to the publisher of The Menard News, have "broadened the community's outlook on the whole of life.'

The Austin Public Library's Second Chance Books Project has not only circulated more than 20,000 library books to thousands of incarcerated teens, but also sponsored author visits, writing workshops and book discussions.

Finally, there is the Brownsville Historical Association, which transformed itself from the custodian of a modest house museum into a dynamic powerhouse with an impressive array of region-wide preservation and cultural activities.

Humanities Texas, the state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, depends on these and many other engaged individuals and organizations to champion the humanities in their communities. Our exhibits, public lectures, teacher workshops, grants and other programs would not succeed without strong local initiative and leadership. So, we recently established the Humanities Texas Award to recognize these exceptional Texans. The inaugural winners are Clifton and Shirley Caldwell, for the individual award, and the Brownsville Historical Association, in the organizational category.

Who are the cultural stewards in your community? Do you know a civic leader or group that works to preserve or promote history, literature and the other humanities disciplines? If you appreciate their efforts, consider nominating them for the second Humanities Texas Award. Details can be found on our Web site: http://www.humanitiestexas.org.

These are the people and the organizations whose contributions shape the cultural environment of our Texas communities. Help us identify and honor them.

West Texas Art Guild

The West Texas Art Guild was recently organized in Colorado City by interested persons to promote art, interest, education and public awareness of local and area artists. There are so many undiscovered, creative and talented artists in West Texas and a real need for an organization that would promote and encourage the arts.

We encourage painters, photographers, potters, jewelry makers, sculptors, persons doing scrapbooks and any other creative outlet to come and join the thrill of promoting art in West Texas. We all seem to have two common threads: We are creative and enjoy the

We have a goal to promote art shows, recognize local and area artists and provide encouragement to other artists or anyone with a love of art.

Officers were elected. They are Leada Wood, president; Nita Mahan, vice-president; Carolyn Walker, secretary-treasurer; Lulu Boyd, reporter-publicity; and Linda Rupard, activity chairperson.

The club will meet monthly on the last Saturday of the month at 10 a.m. at Studio Twenty Art Gallery in Colorado City, next to Wood's Boots on Interstate 20. Our next meeting will be 10 a.m. Feb. 23, and everyone is invited and encouraged to attend. You do not have to be an artist but have a love for art to join.

Big Spring/Howard County Retired Teachers

The Big Spring/Howard County Retired Teachers Association will meet Monday at Howard College in the Cactus Room at 11:30 a.m. Guest speaker will be Carol Horton, president of the Odessa RTA Unit. Her presentation will be about the disposition of untitled property.

Those present will have a Dutch treat lunch before the meeting. Any interested persons are always invited and welcome to attend the meetings. The RTA is a very proactive group in legislation and matters relating to retired school employees. Any person who is eligible to receive retirement benefits from the Teacher Retirement System may join our organization. We strive to obtain better benefits and pay for retirees.

Retired Teachers Texas Association is the largest RTA in the nation and we are still growing. We maintain frequent contact with our legislators, both state and federal. At our meeting Monday we will have an update on efforts to repeal the WEP and GPO provisions, which restrict the amount of Social Security eligible school retirees can receive.

Our meetings are brief, interesting and informative. We encourage retired school employees to attend.

Dennis J. Miller released the identities of the four victims who died in his Daniel county: Parmenter, of Catalina Westchester; Garcia, 20, of Cicero; Ryanne Mace, 19, of Carpentersville; and Julianna Gehant, 32, of

Bidding Quiz

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been: North East

What would you bid with each of the following five hands?
1. ♠ A72 ♥ 1085 ♦ 63 ♣ KQJ43

2. ★ K984 ♥ AK872 ♦ 53 ♣ 74 3. ♠ QJ ♥ KJ94 ♦ 865 ♣ KJ82 4. ♠ A9643 ♥ K7 ♦ 10 ♣ KQ954 5. ♦ Q8 ♥ AQ2 ♦ QJ95 ♣ KQ83

1. Two spades. An overcall on the one-level is more often than not based on a hand that would not qualify as an opening bid. However, since a simple overcall can contain up to 16 or 17 points, game is not an impossibility opposite the hand you hold here, and this can best be explored by raising spades.

It would be wrong to bid two clubs, as this would deny support for spades and would normally be read by partner as a corrective action. Partner might very well pass two clubs, which is unlikely to be in your side's best interests.

2. Three spades. This is a stronger game try than two spades. However, the jump-raise is not forcing and allows partner to pass if his overcall is of the minimum variety.

3. Two spades. It is very unusual to raise partner with only two trumps, but here there is no better bid available. To pass with 11 points and a partial trump fit would show a thorough lack of respect for partner's overcall, and to bid two clubs or two hearts on a four-card suit is unthinkable. North is entitled to some form of encouragement, and two spades comes closest to filling the bill. 4. Four spades. The odds strongly favor making four spades, and that's a good-enough reason for bidding it straightaway. Opposite a typical onespade overcall, this hand is highly unlikely to lose four tricks.

5. Three notrump. It would be wrong to bid only two notrump, which would permit partner to pass. It is bad policy to merely invite a game that you already know is an odds-on favorite.

One way of estimating your chances for game is to credit partner with roughly 10 points for his overcall, which would give your side the 26 points normally needed for game.

non-qualifying This food program is for anyone wishing to order. The regular box is $30 and with the purchase of the box there are meat specials that can be purchased.

This is not a fund-raiser and this project would not be possible for our church to do if it were not for all the volunteers of the Big Spring community. Thanks volunteers!

For more information on church activities, call Bill Lovelace, 267-3241, Jacque Mauch, 267-2203 or the church at 263-2536.

Chapel of Faith

Chapel of Faith is an inter-denominational church that welcomes all to worship services each Sunday at 10:30 a.m. It is a warm and friendly atmosphere filled with love for God.

As we continue to grow, we will be expanding our services, but for now our focus is on bringing a message of inspiration each week to encourage those in attendance to reach out to others around them to share in God's love. Pastor Joel Miller brings a message based on scripture and relates it to today's living.

Work days each Saturday are continuing as we clean, repair and further update our building at 14th Street and Goliad. Thanks to the generosity of the wonderful people in Big Spring, we have a piano and pews which will be placed in the sanctuary in the next few months. We also have the nursery/play room partially completed. It is ready to be used. Work days will continue and as weather permits, the outside will be the focus for the next few weeks.

For more information, call 267-4082.

The blessings of the Lord maketh rich and addeth no sorrow. Wow! How rich we all feel at Spring Tabernacle. The Lord rained down His spirit upon us this last weekend at our Camp Meeting with blessing after blessing.
