A 16-year-old sophomore and his grandmother are riding bicycles from New Mexico to Texas, but they're not doing it because of the high price of gasoline.

William Cowan and Barbara Crawford have a cause and they're willing to travel from Stanley, N.M., to Dripping Springs — around 750 miles — before Aug. 14 to achieve it. The bus smashed into a guard rail at about 12:45 a.m. on a bridge that's about 15 feet above a creek, apparently skidding along the guard rail before sliding off U.S. 75 just the other side of the bridge.

The bus came to a rest on its right side in the northbound lane of an access road. Workers righted the bus early Friday revealing a crumpled right side — and were loading it onto a large flatbed truck. Other workers were cleaning debris and gathering luggage, shopping bags and scattered pieces of clothing.

The injured, including the driver of the bus, were rushed to several North Texas hospitals.

China strides onto Olympic stage

Associated Press Writer

BEIJING — Once-reclusive China commandeered the world stage Friday, celebrating its firsttime role as Olympic host with a stunning display of pageantry and pyrotechnics to open a Summer Games unrivaled for its mix of problems and promise.

Now ascendent as a global power, China welcomed scores of world leaders to an opening ceremony watched by 91,000 people at the eye-catching National Stadium and a potential audience of 4 billion worldwide. It was depicted as the largest, costliest extravaganza in Olympic history, bookended by barrages of some 30,000 fireworks.

sions, the crowd counted down the final seconds before the show began. A sea of drummers rhythms with their hands, then acrobats on wires gently wafted its rim.

President Bush and Russian Prime Minister Vladimir Putin were among the glittering roster of notables who watched China make this bold declaration that it had arrived. Bush, rebuked by China after he raised humanrights concerns this week, is the first U.S. president to attend an Olympics on foreign soil. Already an economic jugger-

To the beat of sparkling explo-naut, China is given a good chance of overtaking the U.S. atop the gold-medal standings with its legions of athletes trained 2,008 in all — pounded out intensely since childhood. One dramatic showdown will be in women's gymnastics, where the down into the stadium as rockets U.S. and Chinese teams are coshot up into the night sky from favorites; in the pool, Chinese divers and U.S. swimmers are expected to dominate.

> The run-up to the games had epic story lines — China investing $40 billion to build the needed infrastructure, reeling from a catastrophic earthquake in Sichuan province in May, struggling right up to Friday to diminish Beijing's stubborn smog. China's detentions of political activists, its crackdown on upris ings in Tibet and its economic ties to Sudan — home of the wartorn Darfur region — fueled relentless criticisms from human rights groups and calls for an Olympic boycott.

Second-guessed for awarding the games to Beijing, the International Olympic Committee stood firmly by its decision. It was time, the committee said, to bring the games to the homeland of 1.3 billion people, a fifth of humanity.

The games, said IOC President Jacques Rogge, "are a chance for the rest of the world to discover what China really is."

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP, Mich. -Tiger Woods isn't even playing in the PGA Championship, yet still provided some much-needed inspiration for co-leader Robert Karlsson.

Karlsson made the most of an early tee time to shoot a 2-under 68 and share the lead with Jeev Milkha Singh in Thursday's weather-delayed opening round at long and treacherous Oakland Hills.

Karlsson double-bogeyed the very first hole, certainly no way to start a major championship. So caddie Gareth Lord pointed out the obvious.

"My caddie said, 'We played with Tiger in the U.S. Open and I think he took a 6 on the first hole pretty much every day. You can shoot a good round out here as well," Karlsson recalled.

With that motivation, Karlsson birdied the next three holes on the way to one of only six subpar scores in the opening round.

Andres Romero of Argentina was 2 under through 16 holes when play was suspended for the day because of darkness. The round had been stopped for almost an hour and a half by inclement weather late in the after-

There were 18 players still on the course and they were scheduled to resume their rounds at 8 a.m. The second round was to get under way as scheduled at 7:30 a.m.

ceremony sought to distill 5,000 years of Chinese history — featuring everything from the Great Wall to opera puppets to astronauts, and highlighting achievements in art, music and science. Roughly 15,000 people were in the cast, all under the direction of Zhang Yimou, whose early films often often ran afoul of government censors for their blunt portrayals of China's problems.

The show's script steered clear of modern politics — there were no references to Chairman Mao and the class struggle, nor to the more recent conflicts and controversies.

The opening ceremony was taped for broadcast 12 hours later in the United States.

A record 204 delegations were set to parade their athletes through the stadium — superstars such as basketball idols Kobe Bryant and Yao Ming, as well as plucky underdogs from Iraq, Afghanistan and other embattled lands. The nations were marching not in the traditional alphabetical order but in a sequence based on the number of strokes it takes to write their names in Chinese. The exceptions were Greece, birthplace of the Olympics, which was given its traditional place at the start, and the 639-member Chinese team, which lined up last.

The American flag-bearer was 1500-meter runner Lopez Lomong, one of the Lost Boys of Sudan, who spent a decade of his youth in a refugee camp in Kenya.

He's a member of the Team Darfur coalition, representing athletes opposed to China's support for Sudan. On Friday he avoided any criticism and said the Chinese "have been great putting all these things together."

Abroad, human rights activists were less gener-

"The Chinese government and the International Olympic Committee have wasted a historic opportunity to use the Beijing Games to make real progress on human rights in China," said Sophie Richardson of Human Rights Watch.

For Chinese dissidents who have dared to challenge the Communist Party's monopoly on power, the start of the Olympics meant tighter surveillance and restrictions.

"It's not my Olympic Games," said Jiang Tianyong, a human rights lawyer. "It's not the games for the ordinary people."

Jets cut ties with Pennington

By DENNIS WASZAK Jr.

AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Chad Pennington quickly became the odd man out once Brett Favre joined the New York Jets.

Pennington was released Thursday, ending the quarterback's eight-year, injury-plagued career with the Jets. He was expected to find a new home soon: Minnesota and Miami were mentioned as possible destinations.

"It's a bittersweet moment for us," general manager Mike Tannenbaum said early Thursday when announcing the trade for Favre.

"I have all the respect in the world for Chad as a person and a player," he said. "He gave his heart and soul to this organization for a long, long time. I really appreciate everything he has done."

A first-round pick in 2000, Pennington became the popular face of the franchise for several seasons and arrived in camp competing with Kellen Clemens for the starting job.

The Jets jettisoned Pennington to clear salary cap space once they got Favre from Green Bay for a conditional draft pick.

The 32-year-old Pennington had three years, plus a team option year, remaining on his contract. He was due $4.8 million this season.

Pennington ranks first in NFL history among quarterbacks with at least 1,500 attempts with a 65.6 completion percentage. He was often recognized as being a true leader in the huddle and an intelligent field general, but was dogged throughout his time in New York for his lack of arm strength.

Bill Parcells, the Dolphins' vice president of football operations, drafted Pennington with the 18th overall pick in 2000 when he was the Jets' general manager. That relationship, combined with Miami's struggles at quarterback in training camp with Josh McCown, second-year man John Beck and rookie Chad Henne, make the Dolphins a possible candidate to nab Pennington.

Adding to the intrigue would be the fact the Jets open the regular season at Miami. Still, the Dolphins remained mum Thursday night on the possibility.

Singh, the first native of India to get a European Tour card, also showed some resilience after bogeying the first hole.

He did not credit Tiger for his turnaround, however.

"The most important thing to learn (about) a major championship is to stay patient," said Singh, playing in just his second PGA and only his ninth major. "If you hit a bad shot, you've got to take your medicine."

Singh took his medicine — and came back with an eagle on the second hole.

A shot back at 1 under were Sergio Garcia, seeking his first major title, along with Ken Duke, Billy Mayfair and Sean O'Hair.

Phil Mickelson, who also recovered from bogeys on his first two holes, got into red numbers before bogeying the last hole for a 70. He was joined there by Anthony Kim, Ryan Moore, Rod Pampling, Charlie Wi, Brian Gay, late addition Michael Allen and Angel Cabrera.

Woods, of course, had knee surgery soon after his stirring playoff victory over Rocco Mediate at the U.S. Open and is sidelined until next year. His absence has turned the free-for-all. That was evidenced by the number of players who had at least a share of the lead in the opening round.

Karlsson got to 4 under through 13 holes and had a two-stroke edge at one time. Among the others who at least got a piece of the lead were Singh, Romero, Mayfair, O'Hair, Kim, Wi, Gay, Cabrera, Jim Furyk, Retief Goosen, Ben Curtis, Padraig Harrington and Jonathan Byrd.

Whew! That sure is different from most majors when Tiger is on the until next year. His Oakland Hills — dubbed after absence has turned the "The Monster" by Ben round year's last major into a Hogan — proved to be a lapse.

stout test for everybody. When the wind picked up in the afternoon, Karlsson knew things were only going to get tougher.

"There's not going to be many scores under par. Definitely not in the afternoon," he said.

Romero was the only member of the 156-player field to go below par with a later tee time.

The finishing holes at Oakland Hills are considered among the most difficult in golf. But they weren't the only hard holes on Thursday. Several of the top players were scratching their heads after watching a good round ruined by a late collapse.

Kim got to 2 under but closed with two bogeys in his 70. Furyk bogeyed his final three holes to finish at 1 over. Goosen went out in 33 but came home in 39. Curtis was 3 under without a bogey through 10 holes and then played the final eight 6 over. Byrd was on top at 3 under after eight holes and then bogeyed three of the next four.

And Harrington, the twotime defending British Open champion, birdied the first three holes then went cold.

"It's all about staying patient for the first three days and I need to get my head around that," Harrington said.

Kenny Perry, chasing his fourth win of the year at the age of 47, had to withdraw after shooting a 79 because of vision problems stemming from a scratched cornea.

At least he won't have to battle Oakland Hills again. Ernie Els said it deserved the "Monster" moniker.

"Conditions were really tough," said Els, who shot a 71 but talked as if he had a 101. "The breeze was blowing, the fairways were firm and it was really tough to keep the ball in play on the fairways. And obviously the greens were really firm as well, and there were some really tough pin placements too.

"It was a real beast."

Bush prods China to lessen repression, dedicates new $434 million US embassy in Beijing

BEIJING (AP) — President Bush took another swipe at China's human rights record Friday, the latest tit-for-tat salvo with Beijing before he put politics on hold and switched to fan mode for the Olympics' gala opening ceremonies.

The past week has seen blunt language from both sides — with China clearly unhappy that its record of repression was being repeatedly aired even as it was seeking to revel in its long-anticipated debut on the world's biggest sporting stage. But U.S. officials dismissed any suggestion of a widening rift.

"We've had these back-and-forths with China for years," White House spokeswoman Dana Perino said.

As Bush opened a massive U.S. Embassy in Beijing on Friday, he prodded China to lessen repression and "let people say what they think." The communist nation, which tolerates only governmentapproved religions, has rounded up dissidents ahead of the Olympics and imposed Internet restrictions on journalists that some say amount to censorship, all contrary to Beijing's commitments when it won hosting rights for the games.

"We strongly believe societies which allow the free expression of ideas tend to be the most prosperous and the most peaceful," Bush said at the vast American diplomatic complex, built at a cost of $434 million.

Islamic group threatens Olympic transportation, warns Muslims to stay off trains, planes

URUMQI, China (AP) — Police shut down the bustling bazaar in the capital of China's restive Muslim region of Xinjiang on Friday amid threats from an Islamic group that attackers might target buses, trains and planes during the Olympics.

A sign at the entrance of the bazaar in Urumqi did not explain why the area, surrounded by mosques with minarets, was off limits as the country prepared to kick off the Summer Games thousands of miles away in Beijing.

Even a KFC restaurant in the shopping area — filled with touristy shops selling carpets and jade — was closed, and a guard sitting on the steps shooed people

Georgian military launches major attack to regain control of South Ossetia

TBILISI, Georgia (AP) — Government troops launched a major military offensive Friday to regain control over the breakaway province of South Ossetia and the president accused Russia, which has close ties to the separatists, of bombing Georgian territory.

Russian Premier Vladimir Putin said the offensive will draw unspecified retali-

Separatist officials in South Ossetia said 15 civilians had been killed in fighting overnight after Georgia attacked with aircraft, armor and heavy artillery. Georgian troops fired missiles at the regional capital, Tskhinvali, an official said, and many buildings were on fire.

Georgian President Mikhail Saakasvhili said in a televised statement that Russian aircraft bombed several Georgian villages and other civilian facilities. He said there were injuries and damage to the buildings.

"A full-scale aggression has been launched against Georgia," he said in a televised statement.

Officials say Bill Clinton to speak at Democratic convention, ahead of Obama's running mate

CHICAGO (AP) — Party officials say former President Clinton will deliver a speech on the third night of the Democratic National Convention before an address by the as-yet-to-be-named running mate for Barack Obama.

Exactly what role the former president would play at the gathering in Denver Aug. 25-28 has been the subject of speculation since his wife, New York Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton, ended her bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in early June and endorsed Obama.

The officials spoke Thursday on condition of anonymity before the details were formally announced.

Obama clinched the nomination after a sometimes bitter primary contest with Sen. Clinton. She's expected to speak on the convention's second night.

Obama dismissed suggestions tension between his supporters and hers could upset the gathering.

Oil falls to near $119 as stronger dollar, slowing growth offset Turkish pipeline sabotage

SINGAPORE (AP) — Oil prices dropped to near $119 a barrel Friday in Asia as a strengthening dollar and worries about economic growth offset supply concerns over Turkish pipeline sabotage that was claimed by Kurdish rebels.

Light, sweet crude for September delivery fell 90 cents to $119.12 a barrel in electronic trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange by midafternoon in Singapore. The contract rose $1.14 cents overnight to settle at $120.02 a barrel.

The gains Thursday in the U.S. came after pro-Kurdish news agency Firat said the separatist group Kurdistan Workers' Party, known as PKK, admitted sabotaging the Turkish section of the critical Baku-Tbilisi-Ceyhan pipeline earlier this Turkey's state-run Anatolia news agency reported that the fire, which was said to be under control Thursday, could cause the pipeline to be shut down for up to 15 days, stoking supply worries among oil market traders.

2008 Property Tax Rates in City of Coahoma

This notice concerns 2008 property tax rates for City of Coahoma. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:

This year's effective tax rate:

Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost $92,001 property)

÷ This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting value of $19,697,642 new property) $0.467066 /$100

= This year's effective tax rate (Maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearings.)

In the first year a hospital district or city collects the additional sales tax to reduce property axes, it must insert the following lines unless its first adjustment was made

- Sales tax adjustment rate

/$100 = Effective tax rate /$100 $0

This year's rollback tax rate:

Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and adjusting for any transferred function, tax increment financing, state criminal justice mandate, and/or enhanced indigent health care expenditures)

· This year's adjusted tax base = This year's effective operating rate

x 1.08 = this year's maximumoperating rate

+ This year's debt rate = This year's total rollback rate $92,001 $19,697,642 $0.467066 /$100 $0.504431 /$100 $0.00000 /$100

$0.504431/$100

Statement of Increase/Decrease

If City of Coahoma adopts a 2008 tax rate equal to the effective tax rate of $0.467066 per $100 of value, taxes would increase compared to 2007 taxes by $1,296.

Schedule A - Unencumbered Fund Balances

Energy debate favors GOP

olitical strategists predicted that stubbornly soaring gasoline prices would translate into a slam dunk for Barack Obama and other Democratic candidates this election year. But with $4-a-gallon gasoline eating away at paychecks, a potential Republican liability may be emerging as an unlikely strength.

For the first time, Obama indicated last week that he would accept more offshore drilling if Congress could reach a broader bipartisan energy compromise. By Monday, as he attempted to refocus his campaign on specific issues, Obama unveiled a grocery list of energy initiatives, including support for tapping the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

Both Obama and John McCain have seen the public opinion polls showing that energy has supplanted Iraq in the American psyche. Obama is sensing that he would end up on the wrong side of public opinion if he persisted in opposing increasingly popular, though not necessarily effective, energy proposals.

Meanwhile, Obama's energy equivocation gives McCain an unexpected opportunity to reframe the energy debate in populist, pragmatic pocketbook terms that resonate with cash-drained voters.

With more voters siding with McCain about the need for offshore drilling, Obama and Democrats such as House Speaker Nancy Pelosi can't just say no and have that pass for an energy policy.

The respected Quinnipiac University poll, for example, recently found that either a majority or plurality of those asked in seven key battleground states favored opening up previously protected areas offshore and in Alaska for exploration. The electoral and political math is simple — the loser in these states won't be sitting in the White House in January, which is why both candidates are suddenly on the same side of the offshore drilling issue.

The irony is that neither initiative breaks America's energy addiction. And both of these "fixes" are as theatrical as the couple dozen Republicans who mounted a floor protest of Pelosi's refusal to allow a vote on opening new areas to drilling - after Congress had adjourned for a five-week vacation.

The energy debate deserves better than political posturing from all camps. And right now, that's all that is going on.

A SHORT PRAYER

Help us see the truth in everything we do, Lord.

War on scientists in America

magine if a group of rabid creationists started firebombing the homes of University of California professors to prevent them from teaching evolution. Area politicians would be holding competing press conferences to assure the public that they would take on the violent zealots. who have declared war, not only on good academics and their families, but on science itself.

No need to imagine. Across California, a different group of zealots has done just aren't fighting for religious fundamentalism. Extremist animal rights groups have organized anonymously to intimidate and terrorize medical researchers until they abandon their studies out of fear for their children's safety and their own peace of mind.

They perfected the art of intimidation in the United Kingdom. First, extremists vandalized research labs. Then, they targeted companies that did business with researchers. In 2004, activists finally went too far when they dug up the remains of the mother-in-law of a guinea-pig

Now animal rights extremists are targeting University of California researchers. First, they placed bombs that did not go off. When that and knowledge can save so many didn't shut down labs, they ratcheted up the violence. Wanted posters warned UC Santa Cruz researchers: "Animal abusers everywhere beware; we know where you live; we know where you work; we will never back down until you end your abuse."

Early Saturday morning, a firebomb destroyed a car belonging to a UCSC scientist. Shortly afterward, a firebomb erupted in the nearby townhouse of assistant biology professor David Feldheim. As smoke and flames filled the first floor, Feldheim, his wife, their 7-year-old son and 6-year-old daughter were forced to use a drop ladder to escape from a second-floor bedroom.

Jerry Vlasak, who, as a spokesman for the Animal Liberation Press Office, serves as an apologist for animal rights zealots, issued this statement: "This is historically what happens whenever revolutionaries begin to take the oppression and suffering of their fellow beings seriously, whether human or nonhuman. It's regrettable that certain scientists are willing to put their families at risk by choosing to do wasteful animal experiments in this day and age."

Tom Holder, of the group Speaking of Research, a student outreach organization, saw what happened in the United Kingdom, and he sees the same escalation of violence and harassment in the United States. Holder also saw the tide of public opinion turn against animal rights nuts in Great Britain when students and professors, who had been cowed into silence, began to speak out in favor of a proposed biomedical research laboratory at Oxford University. The majority prevailed, and the Oxford Biomedical Research Centre was built.

"We must not allow a violent minority to dictate the future of medicine," Holder noted, when cures lives. Too often American universities have tried to downplay animal rights terrorism. Researchers clam up, lest they be next. The harassment campaigns "tend to isolate individuals," Holder noted. But the terrorists cannot prevail when scientists stand together for their UCSC professor Marty Chemers already had called a rally for 5 p.m. Monday to express outrage at these attacks. "These are people who want to do violence and they cloak themselves in this kind of moral stance," Chemers told me. Though unfamiliar with the animal rights movement, Chemers, a social psychologist, nailed it. This is not a movement interested in the welfare and humane treatment of laboratory animals. It is an anarchistic, misanthropic cult.

To bring home that point, the Humane Society of the United States has offered a $2.500 reward for information leading to the conviction of those responsible for Saturday's firebombings. HSUS President Wayne Pacelle told me, "This behavior is at odds with the core values of respect and compassion that we espouse in our work at the Humane Society."

We wouldn't let these zealots burn the university's books. But if they prevail, these extremists will have cowed scientists, destroyed research labs, and with them any cures they might invent.

a thing for the trains Having

've had a thing for trains since I was a little kid. When I was three, my parents lived in a trailer house and I loved it because I thought it was a boxcar. Long before, of course, I made my first million selling horned toads to Northerners.

So it's been a big deal to me to ride trains all over the world. I rode the Silverton/Durango train in Colorado, a bullet train from London to Edinburgh, Scotland and even sat on top for a four-hour ride in northeast India. I have even made the perilous journey through Forrest Park on the miniature train that starts at the Fort Worth Zoo. The Brewer's got guts.

BREWER

There's a restaurant in Pantego, Texas called Campo Verde that has a model train running up near the ceiling and through the house as you eat. Every time I go, my ADD kicks in and Leanna has to order for me. There's something romantic and adventurous about trains to me.

I tend to love things that are going places.

Circus Train

A few months ago I was at Keith world famousbarbecue. His place is positioned beautifully in a mature

Neil's backyard for a plate of his pecan orchard and his property ends at a railroad track. While we were literally and figuratively chewing the fat, a northbound train blew by destined for parts unknown. The discussion changed to trains he had seen pass by through the years.

We talked about Army trains with rockets and how I had seen The Freedom Train blow through Joshua in 1976. He topped mine by describing the Ringling Brothers Circus train and from there everything goes a little fuzzy. My wheels started spinning.

I had never seen the circus train. How could I live through 41 years and never see the circus train?

This had to be part of my bucket list of things to do before I assume room temperature. Right then and there I decided to go home, get on the Internet and find out when the Ringling Brothers show would rumble down the tracks in my neck of the woods.

But I didn't. The week got hard. My life got busy and in a very little while my duty to responsibility bullied away the simple dream of chasing down something out of the usual.

So when I turned the corner last Tuesday night and saw the Ringling Brothers' Circus train right in front of me, it was like an Elvis sighting! Man, I was thrilled. Leanna and the kids were not sure what the big deal was but I was yelling, "Look, look, look!"

Sixty-six cars, I counted. The same number of books in the bible and all the while I was thinking how incredible God is that He answers the simplest of prayers. Then as we headed back towards the house, it occurred to me. I had never prayed that prayer.

Now God gets my attention when He answers prayers but He really gets my attention when He answers prayers I never even prayed. Sometimes the Lord sees stuff in our heart and brings those things to pass just because He loves us. I've heard Garth say thank God for unanswered prayers but I want to thank God for answering un-prayed prayers.

That makes me want to be really responsible, not just in my prayer life and thought life but also in my WANT LIFE.

The things we want matter to him. King David said that out of all the things he wanted in his lifetime, it really boiled down to one thing.

One thing I ask of the Lord, this is what I seek: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to gaze upon the beauty of the Lord and to seek him in his temple. Psalms 27:4.

Like David, I want to live so close with God in such a way, I see how beautiful He is every single day of my life. Even if it's through a circus

Knowledge more valuable than communication

ever use a cliché," my college writing instructor advised. "Clichés just make writing dull and boring."

Now I don't want to dispute the advice of sure a knowledgeable man, but there must be a fine line between a trite, boring expression and colorful language.

I know from experience that what is common usage in one part of the county is hilariously funny somewhere bugs and potatoes should be mashed. Some people raise their windows in hot weather and others crack the window a little. Some turn their lights off and others cut out the light at night before they go to bed. The difference between sounding like a local and talking funny is just one out-of-state move away.

Just this past week, I heard a debate about the futility of trying to sue someone who had no money. The consensus was that such an endeavor would be like flogging a dead horse.

I don't know if "flogging a dead horse" is a dull enough expression to qualify as a cliché or not but it certainly leaves no doubt about the meaning the speaker was trying to

However, a few days after the dead-horse event, a woman told me she was colder than a dead frog in the sunshine. I was a bit confused. I don't know exactly how cold she was. I've always been told that amphibians are cold blooded, but the triple-digit temperature outside that day should have warmed even a dead frog right up.

The apostle Paul seems to have the best perspective on the use of language. He wrote: But even if I am unskilled in speech, yet I am not so in knowledge.... (2 Cor. 11:6 NASB) His knowledge of God was more important to him than his skill as an orator.

The next time I find myself slap dab in the middle of some mess, I'll take my instructor's advice and just say that I was caught in the center of adversity. However, I'll also try to remember that knowledge of God is more valuable than being a good communicator.

By Steve Becker Test Your Play

Four Spades. The bidding has gone:

South West North Pass 2 Pass 3 Pass 4 P

1. You are West, defending against

♦85 ♥1086 ♦KQJ6 •10852

You lead the king of diamonds. East takes the king with the ace, cashes the ace of clubs and returns the four of diamonds, South following suit to the first diamond with the deuce and then the nine. You win East's diamond return with the jack. What would you do now?

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Clubs. North leads the five of spades, and you win dummy's ten with the ace after South follows low. How would you play the hand?

WEST

↑53

↑Q74

1. Partner's first three plays would not make sense unless the ace of clubs is a singleton. You should therefore lead a club for partner to ruff at trick four to set the contract. Partner's hand probably looks something like:

A J76 ♥ J9743 ♦ A874 ♣ A

The only way partner could tell you he had the singleton ace of clubs was to play his cards exactly the way he did. He can't have the A-4 doubleton of diamonds, as in that case he would have overtaken the king of diamonds with the ace and returned the four at trick two to identify a doubleton in that suit.

Partner would not have gone out of his way to confuse the issue by cashing the ace of clubs at trick two if he had started with just the A-4 of diamonds.

2. Draw as many trumps as necessary, discarding low hearts from dummy each time. Then lead a low diamond toward dummy, planning to finesse the nine if North follows low. Even if South wins the nine with the jack, which is the worst that can happen, you are still certain to make the slam since South must then present you with your 12th trick regardless of whether he returns a spade, a heart or a diamond.

2008 Property Tax Rates in Howard County

This notice concerns 2008 property tax rates for Howard County. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:	General Fund	Farm to Market/ Flood Control Fund	Special Road/ Bridge Fund
Last year's operating taxes Last year's debt taxes Last year's total taxes Last year's tax base Last year's total tax rate	$8,313,297 $139,845 $8,453,142 $1,870,081,412 $0.452020/$100	/$100	$673,437 $0 $673,437 $1,878,485,356 $.035850/$100
This year's effective tax rate:
Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost	$8,443,571		$672,678
property)  ÷ This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting value of	$2,207,038,538		$2,207,038,538
new property) = This year's effective tax rate for each fund	$0.382574/$100	/$100	$0.030478/$100
Total effective tax rate	$0.413052/$100

In the first year a county collects the additional sales tax to reduce property taxes, it must insert the following lines unless its first adjustment was made last year:

- Sales tax adjustment rate $_____/$100 = Effective tax rate $_____/$100

This year's rollback tax rate:

Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after substracting taxes on lost property and adjusting for any transferred function, tax increment financing, state criminal justice mandate, and/or enhanced indigent health care expenditures) $8,303,939 $672,678 ÷ This year's adjusted tax base $2,207,038,538 $2,207,038,538 = This year's effective rate /$100 $0.030478/$100 $0.376248/$100 x 1.08 = this year's maximum operating /$100 $0.032916/$100 $0.406347/$100 /$100 + This year's debt rate $0.046991/$100 0.0/$100 /$100 = This year's rollback rate for each fund $0.453338/$100 /$100 $0.032916/$100 This year's total rollback rate $0.486254/$100

Statement of Increase/Decrease

If Howard County adopts a 2008 tax rate equal to the effective tax rate of $0.413052 per $100 of value, taxes would increase compared to 2007 taxes by $16,411.

Schedule A - Unencumbered Fund Balances

General Fund	$1,450,000
Road & Bridge	250,000
Equipment Operating	350,000

Schedule B - 2008 Debt Service

The unit plans to pay the following amounts for long-term debts that are secured by property taxes. These amounts will be paid from property tax revenues (or additional sales tax revenues, if applicable).

aspect of = existence. The number eight has varied meanings in many traditions, including prophecy, consciousness, wealth and infinity.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're tough. You get knocked down and say, "I meant to do that." On some level, it's no fib. You know that taking the small knocks of life is par for the course when vou're on a path that's worthy of you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Every personality is different. You're appreciating what even the most difficult people can bring to your life. It turns out that the persnickety personalities have more to contribute now than the complacent ones.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Staying focused is a challenge. There are so many distractions to keep you from getting down to business. Consider that these seemingly superfluous interests may really be the main point.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Youire a cheerleader to someone else's talent -a guardian of this person's inspiration. Your willingness to root for the cause, even when your friend finds it difficult to be confident, is a testament to your character.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You're centered and ready. The world tests your resolve and all you say is "bring it on." Tonight: How can you sleep through chaos?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You're included in privileged communication. You may wish you weren't by the end of this, but there is something of great value to be gleaned here. Understanding who you're dealing with is half the battle.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). As the sign of the scales, you know that justice is all about balance. What seems unfair in the short run works out quite nicely over a long stretch of time. Trust in the mysterious ways of karma.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You'll be dealing with social snafus, including apologies and/or other forms of drama. You'd rather not dwell on the whole mess. Luckily for them, you are a master of changing the subject.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You'll be choosing people to help you with a project. Pick the kind of people who could conceivably see things through to completion while you're off on your next adventure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Your community needs you, and you need #### them. It's so fulfilling to devote your energy to a group purpose. Get focused tonight. Pen and paper are your finest concentration aides. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You are in control of a relationship. It's comforting, but also a lot of work. For one thing, vou make the decisions and take responsibility when the decision you made seems like it wasn't the best one.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Making promises now is tempting, but try not to get caught up in the moment and say something that could cause you stress at a future date. Stay cheerful, supportive and noncommit-opinions are valid, but avoid criticism. They care more about what you think of them than the issue at hand. TAURUS: You reveal more about yourself to someone in a quick talk than you had in weeks. GEMINI: You're transforming, in a good way. People recognize this and say so. CANCER: Spontaneity is romantic. Embrace your curiosity to liven up love. LEO: A relationship may not provide a clear course of action yet, but there is one practical step you can take. VIRGO: Your wit and resourcefulness increase your popularity, making you unflappable in the eyes of others. LIBRA: The temptation is to over-think a heart concern. Spend time in nature to stay centered and grounded. SCORPIO: Pay attention to what's being discussed and circulating around vou for clues about what's going on with your partner. SAGITTARIUS: There's strength in numbers. You come across as a unified front and feel infinitely supported. CAPRICORN: An alternate viewpoint causes you to explore the particulars of your own Children wake up, dogs thoughts. AQUARIUS: By bark and dreams stir you. revealing secrets and fears, you reach a new level of courageous intimacy in love. PISCES: Seek out others -- bounce your stuff off them. When wondering who to invite to the party, Leo could call up a Pisces to see what's shaking. Each is intrigued by the pizzazz of the other, and are equally popular for their passionate hearts. When Leo's vibrancy excites Pisces, and Pisces lavishes flattery on Leo, a love connection quickly earns VIP status.
