Bulldogettes blank Kermit in Game 1

MIDLAND -- Now this is the type of domination Coahoma Bulldogettes fans are used to seeing in the postsea-

The Bulldogettes finally found some offense as they routed Kermit, 8-0, in Game 1 of a best-of-three regional semifinals series in the Class 2A softball playoffs.

Coahoma scored six runs in the fifth inning putting away the Lady Yellow Jackets, who ace pitcher Heather Newton shut out.

Newton kept Kermit at bay offensively, allowing just three hits, while striking out 14 batters.

However, she didn't have to carry the team alone this time.

In all, the Bulldogettes amassed 11 hits and were opportunistic, taking advantage of three Kermit errors.

Breanna Conner led Coahoma at the plate, going 2-for-4 with a double and two RBI. Joanna Gonzales, Kalea Neff and Lauren Ruiz also recorded a RBI

It's the first time in the postseason that a Bulldogette other than Conner or Newton drove in runs.

In the 6-run fifth, Paige led off the frame by reaching on an error by Kermit shortstop Lucero Porras. The next five Coahoma batters reached base on three hits, an error and one player was hit by a pitch.

Paige started the rally by reaching by error and she finished it in similar fashion. With Coahoma up 6-0, she hit what looked to be a routine fly ball to center. However, it was dropped by Kermit's Sasha Lujan, allowing two runs to score.

Game 2 of the best-of-three series was played at 1 p.m. Saturday at MUGS Softball Complex in Midland. A third game, if needed, was scheduled to take place 30 minutes after.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. -- Many observers felt the best two teams in the Division I Junior College World Series were meeting in the first game of bracket play.

That theory appeared to be true as the No. 1 Howard College Hawks and Western Nevada College's Wildcats fought into extra innings to open the JUCO World Series. Despite being out hit 13-5, the Hawks were able to pull out the win, 4-3, after 11 innings of play. It's the second time the Hawks have had to go into extra frames to pull out a victory. They defeated Temple College, 4-3, to win the Region V Tournament and advance to the World Series.

Good for You, Good for Your Dog

CANINE COMPANIONS

Enjoy Some of Life's Best Pleasures

FAMILY FEATURES

The expression "It's a dog's life" certainly holds true for the millions of fourlegged friends who are now enjoying some of life's best little pleasures, a privilege their owners have appreciated for years. In fact, more than 75 percent of pet owners consider their dogs to be members of the family, according to the American Pet Products Manufacturers Association 2005 to 2006 National Pet Owners Survey. This means America's canine companions are now enjoying creature comforts that include sleeping in bed with their owners, traveling on vacations and meeting with their doggie pals for organized play dates. In addition, recent trends in pet ownership are changing the way dogs eat, with the emergence of dog food that is inspired by entrees more commonly found on the dinner table.

Feed Your Dog Like Part of the Family

More and more dog owners want to feed their dogs like they feed themselves choosing foods made with gourmet flavors and real, wholesome ingredients that offer a balance of high-quality nutrition and great taste. According to a Purina survey of 1,000 adult pet owners living in the U.S.*, 91 percent rank high-quality protein as the most important nutrient to consider when purchasing food for their dogs and cats. This is followed closely by 90 percent who say they want to serve their pets foods rich in antioxidants. Mealtime has never been more exciting for man's best friend as dog owners place great emphasis on the quality of the food going into their dogs' bowls.

"Over the past several years, we have seen the emergence of a growing food trend that we call 'affordable indulgence,'" said Lucien Vendome, executive chef for Nestlé. "Gourmet foods and flavors once considered upscale and limited only to fine-dining establishments are now appearing in mass channels such as grocery stores and even in commercial dog food.'

According to Vendome, "Four-legged friends can now enjoy a gourmet meal with the Filet Mignon, Prime Rib and New York Strip Flavors found in the ALPO® Chop House Originals® brand dog food line, which also includes products made with Angus beef."

In addition to enjoying real meat flavors, dogs can also dine on food featuring unique ingredients in the form of wholesome fruits, vegetables and a wide selection of good-for-you grains. For example, some dog foods are now formulated with accents of antioxidant-rich cranberries and sweet potatoes. Others deliver excellent nutrition and great taste through whole grains like oatmeal

As more and more pet owners feed their four-legged friends like they feed themselves, they are helping to ensure that mealtime is the highlight of everyone's day! For more information on the gourmet flavors found in ALPO brand dog food, visit www.alpo.com.

*Phone interviews were conducted of 1000 adults, ages 18 and over, living in the United States during a one-week period in April 2007. Most results have a margin of error of \pm 0 at the 95% confidence level for comparable data between the populations of pet owners.

Indulge Your Dog's Desires

Sometimes, dogs just want to be dogs, and it's up to their owners to find creative ways for their canine companions to enjoy some dog-gone, good old-fashioned fun. It may require dog owners to go back to the basics, but it makes all the difference in making their canine friends feel like a special part of the family. Dogs desire the simple things in life — daily exercise, delicious meaty meals and lots of bonding time with the humans they love most!

Dogs need a positive outlet for energy, and nothing helps them release it more than a walk around the block, a fun game of fetch or a trip to the dog park. Not only does exercise help dogs maintain a healthy weight and ideal body condition, but it also helps keep them out of trouble and resting quietly at the end of the day. A walk provides dogs with a chance to enjoy the fresh air as well as check out all the great sights and smells of the neighborhood. For more active pups that prefer to run, a fun game of fetch with a tennis ball or a flying disc is just the trick. And for social dogs who prefer the company of other dogs, a play date with a small group of their beloved canine companions can be the perfect activity for exercise and bonding

Now, for the highlight of a dog's day — mealtime! Don't forget that the delicious aromas and tastes of a gourmet meal can now be shared with the whole family, including the dog. Mealtime is a great time to remind dogs just how much they are loved each and everyday. So, while the family gathers around the table to enjoy a mouthwatering dinner, make sure the dog bellies up to his bowl to find an equally appetizing meal, such as one of the many tasty beef flavors of ALPO Chop House Originals brand dog food, which is made with Angus beef. As the old adage goes, a way to a loved one's heart is through his stomach, and dogs are no exception.

In addition to their daily walk and a great meaty meal, dogs like nothing better than some one-on-one bonding time with their owners. It only takes a belly rub and some snuggle time to get tails wagging. In fact, spending quality time together can benefit the owner as much as it does the dog, and it may even result in fewer doctor visits for the owner, especially for non-serious medical conditions.

DINNER IS SERVED: *Top Dog Food Trends*The humanization of pets trend is significantly impacting the dog food industry. As a result, owners are finding more specialized product offerings that allow them to feed their dogs like they feed themselves, choosing food that is inspired by selections more commonly found on the dinner table.

Here are some of the hottest trends changing the way America's dogs are eating:

Natural/Organic

As more people are embracing a healthy lifestyle and eating organic and natural foods, they are also choosing natural foods for their pets. Industry research shows that natural/organic pet food is expected to grow at more than three times the rate of total pet food through 2007 (Packaged Facts, Market Trends: Natural Pet Products, February 2005). Among the ingredients included in natural pet food are whole grains such as oatmeal and brown rice and accents of antioxidant-rich fruits and vegetables like cranberries and sweet potatoes.

Gourmet Flavors

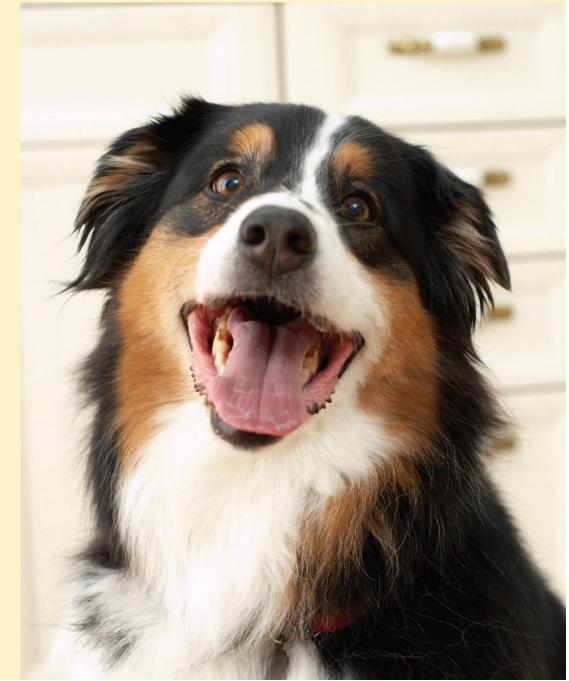

"Only the best" has long been the standard for fine-dining establishments that cater to people who desire a high-quality, gourmet meal. Now dogs can also enjoy the fine tastes in life with dog food products like ALPO Chop House Originals brand dog food that features restaurant-inspired flavors including Filet Mignon Flavor, Top Sirloin Flavor and Ribeye Flavor made with Angus beef.

Healthy Enhancements

Dog owners are taking an active role in not only trying to promote their own health, but also the health of their canine companions. For example, dog food is now available with specialized ingredients that support healthy joints, an important benefit for large breed dogs. In addition, omega fatty acids are now added to some pet foods to help promote a healthy skin and coat (Pet Foods Get Functional, "Functional Ingredients Magazine," July 2006, pages 10 to 15). Advanced veterinary formulas are also available for purchase through veterinarians for pets with certain health conditions.

Convenience-Oriented

In this time-starved society, people are continuously looking for products that help them get things done faster and easier, so they can enjoy more time with their families. Convenience is also finding its way to the dog food bowl, with dog food products that are now available in special user-friendly packaging that helps make feeding time even more enjoyable. For instance, certain dog food products come in cans with easy open lids, which eliminate the need for a can opener. Other dog food products come in re-usable plastic containers that make it possible for the owner to save the unused portion in the refrigerator until their dog's next meal.

Texas A&M outslugs OU for 17-15 victory

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY — Brett Parsons came off the bench to drive in five runs and Texas A&M kept its hopes alive for the Big 12 tournament title by outslugging Oklahoma 17-15 on Friday night.

The Aggies (35-22) rallied back after falling behind 6-0 in the first inning, but then had to stave off a five-run surge by the Sooners in the ninth in-

Texas A&M's victory means all four teams on the bottom half of the bracket can still win the conference title heading into the final day of pool play Saturday. Texas Tech beat Missouri 4-2 earlier in the day and will face the sixth-seeded Aggies on Saturday.

Texas and Kansas State, who will play one another on Saturday, are the only teams still in title contention from the top half of the bracket. The winners of the two pools meet in the championship game Sunday.

Parsons had a pinch-hit two-run double as the Aggies cut their deficit to 6-5 in the first inning and went on to score in all but one inning.

Joe Patterson added four hits and four RBIs, and Alex Wilson (6-6) threw five effective innings of relief. Travis Starling got the final two outs for his fourth save.

J.T. Wise led second-seeded Oklahoma (41-17) with three hits and four Jeremy Erben (0-1) took the loss as all six Sooners pitchers gave up at least two runs.

Michael Reed drove in the go-ahead run during a two-out rally in the eighth inning as Texas Tech snapped a three-game losing streak.

Reed's single to center field brought home Chris Richburg to make it 3-2, and Taylor Ashby then scored on catcher Ryan Ampleman's error on the throw to the plate.

The third-seeded Tigers (33-24) had taken the lead on Aaron Senne's RBI single in the top of the eighth before relievers Kelly Fick and Brad Buehler (1-3) gave up three runs in the bottom half of the inning.

Ashby's two-out single to left pulled the seventh-seeded Red Raiders (25-31) even at 2 before Reed provided the decisive hit.

Texas Tech's Chad Bettis (6-1) gave up one run on two hits in three innings of relief, combining with Nathan Karns on a four-hitter.

The Hawks trailed early, going down 2-0 in the top of the third inning, when Western Nevada's Jerome Pena brought in two runs with single to left field.

Howard managed to tie the game in the bottom of the fourth, courtesy of two errors and two singles in the inning. Miles Hamblin and Monk Kreder each singled to lead off the fourth. Kreder's base knock brought in Hamblin, cutting the Wildcats' lead in half, 2-1.

In today's deal, it is easy to see, after the opening club lead, that if East was dealt the king of spades, the diamond slam can be made by drawing trumps, discarding two of dummy's hearts on South's high clubs and later taking a winning spade finesse. But if West has the king of spades, this line of play will fail, and the contract will be defeated. Alternatively, the contract may be made by a different method of play if East was dealt the ace of hearts. In that case, all South has to do is to lead a heart toward the king. The actual location of the king of spades thus becomes immaterial, since a spade can be discarded from dummy on a good club.

It would appear, therefore, that South is on a straight guess as to which line of play to adopt. He has an even-money shot on the location of the spade king, and also on the heart ace. If he guesses wrong, how-ever, he goes down without getting an opportunity to try the other line of

But the fact of the matter is that there really isn't any guesswork involved at all. With proper play, South can test both possibilities before he is defeated.

After winning the club lead with the ace and drawing a round of trumps, three more clubs are cashed, on which two hearts are discarded from dummy. Dummy is then entered with a trump, and a heart is led. In the actual case, since East has the ace, the hand is over. He takes the ace and returns a spade. Declarer puts up the ace and discards dummy's remaining spade on the

And what if West turns up with the ace of hearts? In that case, West captures the heart king and returns a heart, ruffed in dummy. Now the spade finesse is taken, and if East has the king, the slam is home.

Storms prevent shuttle Atlantis from landing in Florida

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Thunderstorms are again spoiling NASA's landing plans for space shuttle Atlantis.

Mission Control decided Saturday morning to skip the day's first landing attempt at Kennedy Space Center in Florida. The seven astronauts were instructed to take another spin around the world as flight controllers considered additional attempts in both Florida and California.

Storms at Kennedy Space Center ruined Friday's landing opportunities, too.

The astronauts are trying to wind up their successful trip to the Hubble Space Telescope. It was NASA's last repair job at the 19-year-old observatory. The $1 billion overhaul should keep the telescope working for another five to 10 years.

Senate Democrats willing to work with Obama on transferring Guantanamo detainees to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Barack Obama showing the way, some Senate Democrats are signaling a willingness to permit transferring terrorism suspects from Guantanamo Bay to prisons in the United States despite a high-profile vote to the contrary.

Most notably among them is Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, who spent the week sending out confusing signals on just where he stood.

"We are wanting and willing to work with" the president to come up with a solution to the detainee controversy, the Nevada Democrat said Thursday a statement that conspicuously left open the possibility that some detainees would eventually be incarcerated in U.S. prisons. Only two days earlier, Reid had adamantly told reporters he opposed the release of any of the detainees into the United States. On Wednesday, he joined 89 other lawmakers in both parties who voted to prohibit their transfer. The 90-6 vote also denied Obama the funds he requested to close the Navy-run detention center in Cuba, which was set up by the Bush administration and has become a highly controversial symbol of the former president's terrorism policies.

Obama and many Democrats favor closing the facility, saying it has become a recruiting tool for al-Qaida. But doing so leaves open the fate of most of the 240 men held there.

In a fresh overture, U.S. seeks to restart discussions on legal immigration of Cubans to America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Barack Obama is making another overture to Cuba, asking the island's communist government to resume talks that his predecessor halted on legal immigration of Cubans to the United States. Obama's proposal would reopen discussions that had been closed off by former President George W. Bush since they were last held in mid-2003. His move comes ahead of the United States' attendance at a high-level meeting early next month of the Organization of American States, where Cuba's possible re-entry into the regional bloc will be discussed. The State Department said Friday it had proposed restarting the talks to "reaffirm both sides' commitment to safe, legal and orderly migration, to review trends in illegal Cuban migration to the United States and to improve operational relations with Cuba on migration issues." In April, Obama decided to rescind restrictions on travel to Cuba by Americans with family there and on the amount of money they can send to their relatives on the island. Obama "wants to ensure that we are doing all we can to support the Cuban people in fulfilling their desire to live in freedom," Darla Jordan, a department spokeswoman, said Friday. "He will continue to make policy decisions accordingly." Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, who will attend the June 2 meeting in Honduras, told lawmakers this past week that the U.S. would not support Cuba's membership in the organization until and unless President Raul Castro's regime makes democratic reforms and releases political prisoners.

Roh was hiking in Bongha village when he threw himself off a steep cliff around 6:40 a.m. Saturday, lawyer Moon Jae-in told reporters in the southern city of Busan.

He said Roh left a suicide note.

Roh was declared dead from a head injury, officials at Busan National University Hospital said.

Roh, a self-taught lawyer who lifted himself out of poverty to reach the nation's highest office, prided himself on his clean record in a country with a long history of corruption. He served as president from 2003 to 2008. But he and his family have been ensnared in re-

GOP: Dems' focus on 'green jobs' overlooks potential of coal, nuclear and U.S. oil resources WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats will increase energy costs and make the U.S. more dependent on foreign oil if they focus solely on alternative energy, the Republicans say. In the party's weekly radio and Internet address Saturday, Sen. John Barrasso, R-Wyo., said Republicans support a more comprehensive energy plan that would increase funding for energy research, develop U.S. oil and gas resources and promote clean coal and nuclear power. "Democrats have focused solely on what they call green jobs. Those are jobs from alternative energy.

I support green jobs, but why discriminate?" Barrasso said. "American energy means American jobs, which is why I support red-white-and-blue He said renewable energy such as wind and solar power is important, noting that Wyoming has world-class wind resources. But Barrasso said wind and solar only account for about 1 percent of U.S. electricity, far below what is needed to meet the nation's energy needs.

Barrasso also said Democrats were misguided by ruling out the use of U.S. oil in places such as the Outer Continental Shelf and Alaska.

Junqueira not mad over being yanked from Indy 500

By PAUL NEWBERRY

AP National Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Bruno Junqueira was fast enough to be in the race.

But when the green flag drops Sunday at the Indianapolis 500, the Brazilian will be watching from the pits of a team that had to make a cold, hard business decision.

Alex Tagliani, it's your ride.

Junqueira, you're out.

"I think I'll be OK," he said, not sounding all that persuasive. "I'm could go straight out there and get in just happy that I did my job. It was a job well done."

Junqueira did all he could to get in the race — an amazing job, really. It started when he got a call from Conquest Racing two days before the final round of qualifying. With just eight laps of practice last Sunday morning in the team's second car, he was able to post a speed that was good enough for the inside spot on the final row.

"I knew if they gave me a good car, I with the experience I have at Indy," said Junqueira, who won the pole in 2002 and has twice finished fifth at the Brickyard.

But circumstances beyond Junqueira's control knocked him out.

Tagliani, who is Conquest's regular driver, gambled that his speed which looked to be comfortably in the field at the start of the final round of qualifying — would hold up. But the track conditions were much more fa-the Canadian watched himself slip farther and farther down the speed chart.

Finally, realizing Tagliani might get knocked out, the team sent him out to make another run. But he was stuck in line as the gun went off to end the session. Ryan Hunter-Reay was already on the track and claimed the last position in the 33-car field by going 0.044 seconds faster than Tagliani's Saturday time over 10 miles.

Peavy leads Padres past Cubs; Rangers edge Astros

By The Associated Press

Jake Peavy took care of two Chicago teams in two days.

A day after nixing a trade to the White Sox, Peavy struck out 10 and the San Diego Padres beat Carlos Zambrano and the Cubs 4-0 Friday night to extend their winning streak to a season-high seven games.

"These last 48 hours have been different for me, certainly, than anything I've ever experienced," Peavy said. "But nothing that you can't be professional about and handle."

Tony Gwynn Jr. doubled and scored two runs in his first start for San Diego since arriving via a trade with Milwaukee on Thursday. Gwynn drew a pinch-hit walk and scored the winning run in the ninth inning Thursday night as the Padres beat San Francisco 3-2.

The 2007 Cy Young Award winner, Peavy (4-5) struck out the side in the first and cruised from there in San Diego's first shutout this season, holding Chicago hitless until the fourth and allowing just one other hit over six innings. He walked four.

"I felt OK," Peavy said. "Not great stuff. I walked four guys. Any night you win in the big leagues is a good night. I prefer to pitch longer than six

Three relievers combined with Peavy on a five-hitter in handing the Cubs their fourth shutout.

Following his first complete game of the season in his last start, Peavy recorded double-digit strikeouts for a franchise-best 30th time, and the third time this season.

Facing Peavy "helps to exacerbate the problem," Cubs manager Lou Piniella said. "Peavy is a good pitcher, obviously. If the White Sox had gotten him, we wouldn't have faced him tonight, but we'd have faced him a couple of times in Chicago in the inter-league series, so we might be done with him."

Interleague Phillies 7, Yankees 3

At New York, Jimmy Rollins sent A.J. Burnett's first pitch of the night deep over the right-field scoreboard, and Jayson Werth, Carlos Ruiz and Raul Ibanez also homered as the Phillies rolled to a victory in the first interleague game at new Yankee Stadium and ended New York's nine-game winning streak.

Brett Myers (4-2) allowed three runs and eight hits in eight innings as the World Series champions won for the seventh time in eight games.

White Sox 2, Pirates 0

At Chicago, Gavin Floyd allowed two hits over eight innings and Alexei Ramirez homered as the White Sox rebounded from one of their worst

Floyd gave the White Sox just what they needed after a day after their franchise record-tying 20-1 trouncing by Minnesota and rejection by Jake Peavy, outpitching Zach Duke to lift the White Sox to just their third win in nine games.

Ramirez singled and scored in the third and led off the eighth with his second homer to make it 2-0. That was enough for Floyd (3-4), who struck out eight and walked two after going 0-3 in his previous five starts. Bobby Jenks pitched a perfect ninth for his 10th save in 10 chances.

Orioles 4, Nationals 2

At Washington, veteran reliever Danys Baez got his first major league hit in the 12th inning to spark a tworun uprising, and the Orioles ended a four-game losing streak.

With the Baltimore bench down to one player in this interleague duel, Baez reached on a squibber down the third-base line against Kip Wells (0-2) with two outs and no one on base. After Brian Roberts followed with a ground-rule double, Adam Jones lined a two-run double into the leftfield corner.

The 31-year-old Baez (3-1) had not batted since 2003. The right-hander also pitched two shutout innings, and George Sherrill worked the 12th for his eighth save in 10 tries.

Rangers 6, Astros 5

At Houston, Nelson Cruz homered with one out in the 10th inning to lift the Rangers.

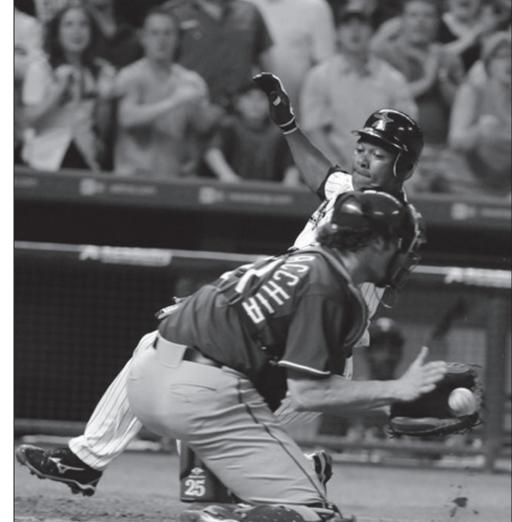

Cruz's ninth homer of the season came off LaTroy Hawkins (1-2), who pitched the 10th inning.

Darren O'Day (2-0) threw 1 2-3 perfect innings for the win.

Frank Francisco, who was activated from the disabled list before the game, pitched the 10th to earn his 10th save in 10 tries.

Diamondbacks 2, Athletics 1

At Oakland, Calif., Chris Young homered for the first time in more Houston Astros' Miguel Tejada slides past Texas Rangers catcher Jarrod Saltalamacchia to score in the seventh inning of their game Friday. Tejada scored from second base on a Humberto Quintero single.

Memorial Day observances deserve notice onday will be the day we observe Memorial Day in 2009 and two special ceremonies are scheduled in Big Spring — the annual observance at the Big Spring Vietnam Memorial at 11 a.m. and the 26th annual Howard County Memorial Day Ceremony set for 2 p.m. at Trinity Memorial Park. Both promise to be impressive events.

Perhaps as many as 1,000 motorcyclists from all over the Permian Basin will make their way into Big Spring at about 10:45 Monday morning to take part in the Vietnam Memorial service.

The riders will be coming into Big Spring on W. Highway 80, then making their way down FM 700, turning at the old National Guard Armory toward the memorial.

Riders taking part in the Permian Basin Ride to Remember are expected to leave the Permian Basin Memorial located at Midland International Airport at 10 a.m and should begin arriving in Big Spring at 10:45 a.m., so motorists that find themselves on the road near the Vietnam Memorial Monday morning need to look out for the cyclists.

According to Vietnam Memorial Committee spokesman Jerry Groves, this year's ceremony at the memorial will not be particularly long.

"Last year's Memorial Day service was huge, mainly because of the unveiling of a new monument," Groves said. "This year's ceremony should be considerably shorter. I don't expect it to last more than an hour."

More than 100 full-size American flags will line the Avenue of Flags at Trinity Memorial Park for the afternoon ceremony.

That ceremony will be very simple and brief the laying of a wreath, dedicated to the community's several different veterans' organizations, at the cemetery's main flagpole.

Preparations for that ceremony will begin on Saturday, as local Boy Scouts place miniature American flags on the graves of veterans buried in the cemetery.

We here at the Herald encourage our readers to make plans to take part in one or both of the holiday observances. To us it seems the least any of us can do in offering thanks to the men and women who've made the ultimate sacrifice for the freedoms we enjoy as Americans.

registered voters in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia, was conducted between May 1 and May 17, just days after Barack Obama had completed his first 100 days in office. So, just what is the Winthrop/

Well, ETV is the public television and radio in South Carolina. Now, while it might surprise some folks — particularly many liberals — to learn that they have public television and radio in South Carolina, but they do. In other words, not everyone

It was designed by Dr. Scott Huffmon, director of the Winthrop/ETV Poll initiative, and Dr. Adolphus Belk Jr., director of the African American Studies program at Winthrop Univer-

With regard to the issue of national security, Huffmon noted, "While a majority of respondents, 56.3 percent, are confident in President Obama's ability to handle threats to the U.S., barely half of those, 28.5 percent, feel 'very confident.' "Incidents such as the handling of the Somali pirates, and the release of the CIA interrogation memos--which the majority of those polled disagreed with has had a mixed impact on Southern perceptions. Half of all respondents say they hold the same level of trust now as they did when Obama took office. But among those whose attitudes have changed, over three times as many Republicans have results clearly demonstrate that while Republicans and Democrats in the South are looking at the same economic, political and social indicators, they see things very differently. "For instance, while both Republicans and Democrats believe that the nation is in dire economic straits, Democrats are much more hopeful about the Obama administration's ability to meet the challenges of our time. Republicans, though, do not share their enthusiasm," he said.

For instance, many national polls find the president's approval rating hovering around the 60 percent mark, respondents in this poll gave the president a 48.8 percent approval, with southern Republicans giving him only 18 percent approval.

Imagine that!

And when asked about the current path that our nation is taking, 48.9 percent of all respondents felt the country was headed in the wrong direction. However, overwhelmingly, 74.1 percent of Democrats felt the country is on the right track.

But it seems that Republicans, Democrats and Independents can basically agree on what the most important problem facing the nation is today — more than 50 percent said the economy.

But what about the second biggest problem? The second most important problem among Republicans was "moral values (6.5 percent), while Democrats said "health care" (8.5 percent).

While no data about the racial make up or socio-economic data of the less than 1,000 people polled in 13 states, the poll's results showed almost 71 percent of southerners feel that African Americans don't need special treatment in order to get ahead. And 49.7 percent don't feel that generations of slavery and discrimination have created conditions that make it difficult for blacks to work their way up. In this corner, that's just almost scary!

There was one bright spot in the poll's results for yours truly When pollsters asked for a list of potential Republican presidential nominees in 2012, "Can't think of anyone" was the answer of almost 63 percent of respondents. Tied for second were Mitt Romney and Sarah Palin with 7.6 percent each.

And among those identifying themselves as Republicans, 50.8 percent couldn't think of anyone. Romney was named by 11.9 percent and Palin by 9.8 percent

In other words, lots of people in the South know they don't really like President Obama, they just can't think of someone who's going to do better.

Just call them aginners.

Managing Pecan Nut Casebearer for home trees

Pecan Nut Casebearer is an early season pecan pest. Adults are small moths about 1/2-inch long that start to fly in late April to early May. Larvae feed primarily on the nuts and will reduce nut yield. They will not reduce the aesthetic quality of the tree. If the tree is maintained for aesthetic purposes only, then pecan nut casebearer should not be treated. Begin checking for pecan nut casebearer eggs and nut entry about May 18-24

The stock market continues to amaze and confuse many investors. In only nine weeks, the S&P 500 is up more than 37 percent and pullbacks so far have been moderate. In our opinion, one of the many reasons this stock market has continued to rally is that so many simply do not believe it should. We believe these folks have fallen into the very human trap of believing they are smarter than the market. But, for us seeing is believing and it's the facts that should control our opin-

Of course thinking people have opinions, but they are controlled by each individual's personality. Some people are always too optimistic and some too pessimistic, but the real problem is if they are too rigid. When the facts change, opinions should adjust to the reality the facts represent. The fact is that the stock market has now risen for nine weeks, pullbacks have been moderate, and the supply/demand ratio for stocks remains bullish. It is also a fact that the economic data suggests that the recession is moderating and that the stock market is very stretched out short term. The wall of worry created by the bank stress tests, a big drop in first quarter earnings, and big job losses seem to have been diminished. After this much "wall climbing" a rest or pause to refresh is in or-

But, it is also a fact that momentum remains bullish and we therefore will not get in its way or try to call even a short-term top until the market's personality changes. However, the facts also indicate that some increased caution short term is in order here and we advise investors to hold some buying power back to potentially use during pullbacks.

der, last Wednesday was a great example.

Selling did pick up some steam last week, especially Wednesday when the Dow posted a triple digit loss (-184.22). However, volume was moderate, signaling to us that sellers were not stampeding to the exits and buyers were reluctant to step up. There were several excuses for the selling including poor economic news on April retail sales and U.S. home foreclosures hitting a record.

For us, a better explanation for the sell off is that the market is tired after the nine-week rally and was more than entitled to a modest setback. With so many looking for a correction now, we do not expect the current pullback will be the normal one-third to one-half retracement that the majority is looking for at this time. Some media commentators said last week that "this correction was too predictable." We don't believe the market will be so accommodating with a big pullback at this time and make it easy for those investors who missed the big run-up to buy in "comfortably."

Texas, Permian Basin, Struggling to Address Doctor Shortage.

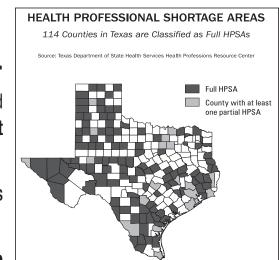

exas is facing a current and growing crisis in health care.

We've got a shortage of doctors – especially primary care physicians.

Over half the counties in Texas are considered medically underserved — and no one knows that better than we do here in the Permian Basin. 114 counties do not meet the national standard of one physician for every 3,500 people.

But a legislative solution is working its way through the Texas Legislature, and the Texas Association of Business is proud to endorse this proposal.

The Texas Senate is considering HB 2154, which funds a program that rewards doctors who will practice in medically underserved areas of the state like ours... With money raised from closing a single tax loophole.

State Senator Kel Seliger needs to hear from YOU today!

The Texas Senate still has the ability to give HB 2154 a hearing and send it to the floor for a vote.

Our State Senator Kel Seliger understands the critical nature of this measure – but he needs to hear from you.

Please call Senator Seliger today. Call 512-463-0131. Ask him to vote FOR HB 2154!

Endorsed by more than 40 health and business advocacy organizations, HB 2154 will improve access to health care, reduce costs of health care and provide a needed tax equity measure. HOT DOGS

Hot Dog & Sausage Council. But the competition is getting particularly tough as shoppers, looking to save even more money, are trading down to store brands. "Sales do go up in the summer, always. And in a tight economy I do expect that we're going to see even better performance," said Riley, known as the "Queen of Wien." She said Americans gravitate to hot dogs in tough times. And in summer particularly, with 38 percent of hot dog sales each year occurring between Memorial Day and Labor Day.

Todd Hale, senior vice president for consumer and shopper insights at Nielsen, predicts a good summer for hot dogs, especially as people stick around home on "staycations."

Sales had been fairly stagnant in category rose 5.3 percent to $2.1 billion in the 52 weeks ended April 18, according to Nielsen. Part of that was due to higher prices.

"We're seeing comfort foods, backto-the-basics foods do real well in this economy and that's speaking to some of the success we're seeing with hot dogs," Hale said.

Smithfield Foods Inc., the nation's largest pork producer, has seen hot dog sales down the past 10 years but now they are up "substantially," Chief Executive Larry Pope told analysts at a conference this month.

Sara Lee and Kraft are continually battling to be top dog, and Riley said store brands are now gaining market share. Private label dogs used to be in the top 10 as far as hot dog sales but now she figures they're in the top

That means less wiggle room for Sara Lee and Kraft, which are em-tional in-store promotions this weekend offering a free package of buns with the purchase of two packages of Ball Park franks. Hebrew National, not wanting to be outdone, is giving away 45,000 hot bulbs to mature and die back before removing. Pinch back the terminal growth on newly planted annual and perennial plants. This will result in shorter, more compact, well branched plants with more flowers.

Plants in containers and hanging baskets should be fertilized with a complete, balanced fertilizer such as compost which is for sale at the Big Spring Compost Facility located at 3201 Perimeter Road. Be sure to do a soil test prior to fertilizing turf grasses, it can save you money and give you a better lawn.

Most lawns in our area will need a high nitrogen fertilizer.

Soils highly alkaline will also need an application of iron. Trees, shrubs, vines and groundcovers may need to be fertilized at this time also. Compost is safe to use on most any plant at any time but read and follow directions on any commercial fertil-Weed and Feed type fertilizers are any garden beds now is a good time to add a watering system. There are advantages to each type of system; hose bibb, pop-ups, drip and soaker. The hose bibb system entails just extending the water line to a nearby location that allows you to easily reach the bed with a garden hose. Pop-up systems are somewhat more involved to design properly and might best be left to a professional.

The drip and soaker systems are simple to layout and install and are rather easy to change as you add or move plants.

I highly recommend drip or soaker systems over the others because the water is desired in the ground for the plants to use and that is where the drip systems and soaker hoses put it

The other systems tend to involve spraying water through the air. The longer the water stays in contact with the air, the more is lost to evaporation. Reducing evaporation is the whole point to Xeric gardening whether done by choosing adapted plants or by using thick mulch and drip water-

The classes are geared to the grade level of the students. High school students will have the oppor-

Dement said. "The kids will be placed in a setting to work with veterinarians and are expected to complete a certain number of hours of on-the-job work, usually in the veterinary clinic." Those students who are 16 and older may even earn paid positions at the clinic where they start out as volunteers. At the end of the program, students who have completed the necessary hours and the curriculum will receive a certificate of completion and can then apply to become a certified veterinary assistant.

TO THE EDITOR:

I heard on the radio that the city pool will not open this year, and maybe not ever again, because the cost for repair is too high. Our city leaders didn't think that when it came to golf course repairs!

There is very little our youth have to do in this city, and to let our pool sit idle while they are out of school is a shame. I understand that the cost is high, but no one mentioned that when the golf course repair was another million-dollar project.

Is this not more catering to the well to do and to heck with the under privileged in this town, again?

Looks like Moss Creek is the only place we can take our kids and grandkids to cool off and suffer the consequences of bacteria in the ears and the doctor bills associated with it. By the way, why was nothing done by the city to become compliant before having our Municipal Auditorium shut down? Don't we have any maintenance personnel anymore?

Leon Aguascanes doing the lawn and ward work at

I see Aquascapes doing the lawn and yard work at the municipal offices, and no city workers involved anywhere.

Why can't the city workers take care of that job and save the taxpayers' money? Most of us can't afford to have Aquascapes do our yards. And we just elected or re-elected most council positions. Guess we can look forward to more of this in the future.

> Jana Morphis Big Spring

To the Editor:

I am a resident of Big Spring and moved here from up north three years ago. When my husband and I first arrived in this town it wasn't too bad. We now can't wait to get out of this town.

I just don't know where else to vent my frustration and thought this would be a good place to do so.

I am just horrified with people in this town. When they decide they don't want their dogs anymore, they can just open up the gate to their back yard and let their dogs run.

This past Saturday evening my husband and I sat in our front yard and watched our neighbor do just that. They had three dogs who were just left outside with no love anyway, but they just opened up the gate to their back yard and let their dogs run. An hour after they set the dogs free we saw them at the corner of Settles Street and Ridgeroad Drive and the owner of the dogs just stood in his front yard and let the dogs go, never trying to get them back.

Monday morning my husband called the Animal Control Office of Big Spring and spoke to a woman, explained everything I just said above and she informed my husband, "I'll pass this on to the boys." We watched off and on all day to see if Animal Control arrived at our neighbor's and nothing.

Thursday of the same week, I called Animal Control and was told by a woman where the shelter was and to go down and look if these dogs were there. When we arrived at the shelter, to my horror the Animal Control Officer told us the dogs had been put down that morning.

He informed us that we should've called it in sooner, we had! He said the information my husband called in on Monday had never been passed on. He knew exactly what dogs we were talking about. I had always told my neighbor if they couldn't keep the dogs I would at least take one. In this case we would've taken both of them. These dogs were killed and nothing can be done to the owners and due to lack of communication within the Animal Control office these two young (less than a year old) dogs were killed.

I can't believe in this state people can get away with doing this to their animals and that the lack of communication cost two dogs their lives.

The other thing I want to say is we have never

FERN HAMEL BIG SPRING

TO THE EDITOR:

I have a few items that I would like to talk about. First, I would like to say how ashamed I am to know that when a person needs a pain doctor for RSD (Reflex Sympathetic Dystrophy), they get turned down because they do not have insurance. However, on the front of the office it says we accept cash.

Our daughter has RSD and had a great pain doctor in Midland but he retired and gave us a list of doctors in Midland, Odessa and here. We called all of them and they either did to take cash patients or they did not take new patients

Our daughter was starting to panic because she needed her meds and time was running out on her. You see, with this illness, patients have to have their meds. Of course there is only one doctor here that knows how to treat RSD, and he refused for reasons we don't know. So I called to make me an appointment and they asked me if I had insurance and I said yes. Then they would take me, but when I told of my daughter trying to see him and they said they were sorry.

I then told them that I hope that they get this disease and are told no to a pain doctor and hung up. Thank goodness for the Internet. My daughter went to Lubbock and found a fantastic pain management doctor that would treat her, so now we have to drive all the way to Lubbock every three months to see him and we are glad to do it.

But it is a dirty rotten shame that she has to go that far to get help when we have a doctor right here in Big Spring. The other gripe I have is about our swimming pool. Once again our kids get messed out of something that they like to do in the summer.

For years our city has known that our pool has been needing repairs. But let's see, the golf course had a makeover, that money could have gone to fix the city pool.

The city council should have put all that money to better use then the golf course. Just how many to better use than the golf course. Just how many kids play golf? Not many. So the rich got what they wanted and the kids once again got messed over.

Everyone is so worried about gangs here Well

Everyone is so worried about gangs here. Well what are our kids supposed to do because the skating rink closes for the summer. City council members, when the kids get in trouble because they do not have anything to do, look in the mirror and you know whose fault it is.

To the Editor:

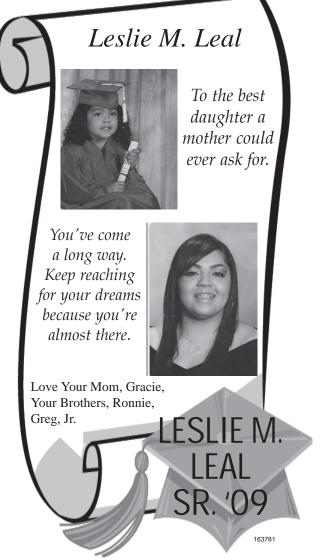

The Lamesa Volunteer Fire Department (LVFD) would like to take this opportunity to thank the Andrews Fire Department, the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department and the Dawson County division of The Red Cross for their assistance during the disposal unit fire Thursday, May 14.

The Andrews department was called to assist in mutual aid because of its great knowledge and training in fighting tank battery fires. The Howard County volunteers aided with bringing additional foam to the location. The Red Cross was called in the early morning hours of Friday, May 15, to provide water, Gatorade and snacks for the firefighters.

The members of the LVFD are thankful to each department and organization for their willingness to assist Thursday evening and into the early morning hours of Friday.

WAYNE SMITH REPORTER, LVFD LAMESA

TO THE EDITOR:

The Herald recently published an article about how wonderful it is that our citizens are wearing seatbelts. In fact, in a recent observational study, TXDOT reports greater than 90 percent compliance with seatbelt laws. Sadly it seems that parents cannot take 15 seconds out of their day to buckle up their children properly. We all remember standing up in the front seat of our parents' cars and some of us survived. But, like men in cut-off Wranglers, it just wasn't a very good idea.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) Motor Vehicle Occupant Protection Facts, 2006, reports that 1,136 Texans lost their lives because they were not wearing their safety belts or restrained in child safety seats in 2006. Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for the age group 2 to 14 years old. Every day in the United States, an average of five children younger than 14 were killed and 568 were injured in motor vehicle crashes during 2006.

The Texas Transportation Institute's Observational Survey of Safety Belt Use Among School-Aged Children, 2007, alerts us to the fact that as many as 42 percent of children under the age of 17 are not in appropriate child restraints, or buckled up at all. Our residents are not exception.

The next time you are walking to or from your car in a large parking lot pay attention. Almost every time I walk through HEB's lot, I see at least one family with one or more small children standing or laying in the seat.

This is shameful.

It's pathetic, really.

Are you willing to risk your child's life (or limb) over the few seconds it takes to secure them safely?

There are simple solutions to remedy this problem:
1. Know the law. Children 1 to 4 years can be in a forward-facing car seat, and children 4 to 9 years old and less than 4 feet, 9 inches tall must be in a booster to prevent decapitation by a seatbelt.

2. Better patrolling of our large parking lots. It may be difficult to find adults that aren't wearing may be difficult to find adults that aren't wearing belts, but according to the data, more than 40 percent of children aren't safely restrained. 3. Become a whistle-blower. Call BSPD and report the vehicle. It's not like ratting out a co-worker for stealing pens and paper. You could save the life of a child. Parents need to get the message that it's not OK to allow their children to become projectiles in a collision. Plus, at $200 per ticket, we could generate some income for our city.

It's sad that there has to be a law that ensures we properly care for our children. As parents, we need to realize that we jeopardize our children's lives every time they are not properly secured. We should be role models and make the time and take the effort to do the right thing. Secure your children properly, and you can visit www.dot.state.tx.us to learn more.

2-year, $180B state budget nearly complete

AUSTIN (AP) — The state's massive budget is days away from final approval.

House and Senate negotiators have finished settling differences in the two chamber's proposals to spend roughly $180 billion over the next two years. The document is being printed and passed out so it can be signed and sent to each chamber

The agreement includes $11 billion in federal economic rescue money, gives schools an extra $2 billion and puts $186 million in the cash-strapped TEXAS Grants college financial aid program.

Most of the spending in the two-year budget will go toward health care and education in 2010-2011. Among the highlights, the budget includes:

— $2 billion in transportation bonds for building new roads;

— almost $10 million to begin installing seat belts in school buses;

— $500 million into the ever-expanding Medic-

— about $20 million to help rebuild the badly burned Texas Governor's Mansion, including $11 million in federal economic bailout funds.

Now that the bulk of the budget work is finished, the financial path is cleared for final discussions on a slew of costly bills that had been left in budgetary limbo. Measures to give some businesses a temporary tax cut, reduce college tuition rates and rebuild the hurricane-ravaged Texas coast were on hold until lawmakers had a better idea how much money would be left over.

But with just a week remaining in the legislative session, it's crunch time to get it done.

A supplemental budget — used to pay for unexpected costs in the previous budget cycle — is pending in a Senate committee and still needs to finish its trek through the legislative process.

"That's sort of where they do the evening up at the end," said Ross Ramsey, a longtime legislative observer and editor of the online political newsletter Texas Weekly.

The House version of the supplemental version spent about $3.3 billion, but that number is expected to swell. It includes $300 million to restore the Hurricane Ike-damaged University of Texas Medical Center in Galveston and $1.6 billion to help cover rising Medicaid costs.

"They'll be fine," said Rep. Warren Chisum, R-Pampa, a former chairman of the budget-writing House Appropriations Committee. "UTMB will get rebuilt and they got as much money as they asked for."

The infusion of federal money has helped lawmakers to close a gap between available state revenue and spending needs they identified.

Storm drain marking prevents water pollution dressing another project and will get back to the total success and tabulations of Our Park Trash Off and the completion of Kids' Zone next week. This is a program I have wanted to do

for a long

time. It's time to introduce and get this project moving. Have you ever noticed the storm drains? They are generally full of leaves and debris. What I would like to do is to identify them by stenciling or marking.

Motorists are the ones generally passing by and I hope they will take notice as to the condition of the storm drain. So stenciling or marking these sites will reveal or remind them to take responsibility for their possible pollut-

It is a Storm Drain Marking Program that will assist in the reduction of nonpoint sources of pollution. What are nonpoint source pollutants? Many products and materials we use daily become nonpoint source pollutants when they reach a body of water. Pollutants can be chemicals like pesticides, fertilizers, automotive products such as gasoline, motor oil, anti-freeze and road salt. Common household items such as paint and solvents – even natural material like soil, animal waste, grass clippings and fallen leaves.

How do NPS pollutants affect water quality? The nature of NPS pollutants varies widely, so do their effects on water quality. Litter and debris, particularly plastic items that float, spoil the beauty of lakes, rivers and can be harmful to fish and birds that mistake them for food.

By raising public awareness of nonpoint source pollution, storm drain marking programs should discourage practice that generate nonpoint source pollutants. As with any public education project, however, it is difficult to precisely measure the effect these programs have on human behavior.

Naturally, our community is not as large as other cities, but the problem remains the same; we just have fewer waterways to deal with.

A storm drain marking project affords many opportunities for public education. The labeled storm drains themselves become a public education tool, reminding potential polluters, motorists, pedestrians and area residents that storm water runoff flows to area water bodies. Please help to keep our waterways clean.

Washington woman first to die under state's suicide law

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Linda Fleming was diagnosed with terminal cancer and feared her last days would be filled with pain and everstronger doses of medication that would erode her mind.

The 66-year-old woman with late-stage pancreatic cancer wanted to be clear-headed at death, so she became the first person to kill herself under Washington state's new assisted suicide law, known as "death with dignity."

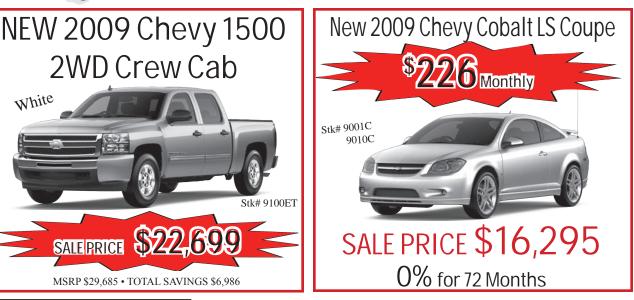

"I am a very spiritual person, and it was very important to me to be conscious, clear-minded and alert at the time of my death," Fleming said in a statement released Friday. "The powerful pain medications were making it difficult to maintain the state of mind I wanted to have at my death. And I knew I would have to increase them."

With family members, her physician and her dog at her side, Fleming took a dose of prescription barbiturates and died Thursday night.

The Spider

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was the editor of a small Missouri paper.

One day, he received a letter from a subscriber stating that he had found a spider in his paper and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck. Twain replied, "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace
