RELIEF HEAD ISSUES WARNING

RELIEF HEAD SENDS OUT A WARNING CONCERNING CASE LOAD EXAMINATION

State Relief Director Adam R. Johnson early in the week told county administrators and chairmen of county relief boards that he is "greatly disturbed" by rumors from several counties to the effect that "as soon as the group which is in the county conducting a re-examination of our case load leaves, we will re-open the cases which they are closing."

Re-examination of relief cases in Texas and other states was begun about a month ago at the order of federal relief officials, and is expected to be completed in about two or three weeks. The examination was undertaken to establish the validity of cases receiving public assistance.

"This is, of course, an evidence, not only of disregard for instructions from this office, but also of complete misunderstanding of the objective of this organization and wholehearted lack of cooperation with this office," Johnson declared.

"The case load check which we are making is primarily for the protection of those eligible for relief, in that we have a limited amount of money to distribute to the various counties in Texas, every dollar of which needs to go to the source intended. For even though we succeed in eliminating all ineligible, on account of the material reduction in relief grants,

HIGHWAY WORK PROGRESSING NICELY ON ROUTE 86 TO SWISHER COUNTY

Complying with the work order issued last week to begin work on grading and finishing the right-of-way for Highway 86 East to the Swisher County line, the relief administrator, Wade Dent, states that crews of men with teams have been busily engaged since Monday conducting preliminary work on the project.

To facilitate the work the county has turned its machinery and crews to the State a portion of each week to help with the heavy work in minor changes in the present location of the road and in building fills and grades.

FOUNDATION PATTERNS ARE SUNNYSIDE CLUB SUBJECTS

The Club made four different patterns.

Miss Clark, Home Demonstration Agent, instructed an all-day pattern making with the Sunny Side Club in the home of Mrs. G. L. Abbott, Wednesday, June 19. Patterns were made for Mrs. S. W. illey, Mrs. Sampler, Mrs. Abbott and Mrs. John McLain. The club voted to send Mrs. Gilmer to the College Station Short Course. The following members were present, Mmes McLanhan, Turner, Roy, McLain, Sampler, Abbott, Lilley and Miss Windows and two guests.

Miss Louise Whitlow is visiting her parents in Kress for three weeks.

the available budgetary allowances for those who are in actual need are extremely meager. Thus, it behooves every one of us to do our utmost to see to it that our eligible clients are not further penalized by having to share their small dinner pail with ineligible. This recheck is costing our government a great deal of money which will be absolutely wasted if you fail to do your duty in carrying out its purposes.

"Your case load, following the re-examination, will be carefully scrutinized as to re-openings and any indication that we find of a board, administrator, or any one else, re-opening or being a party to the re-opening of cases legitimately closed, will be just grounds for discontinuance of their services unless such re-openings are justified by reputable affidavits which will be forwarded to this office.

"We hope that the rumors that have come to us are unfounded, and we do not want you to think that you stand indicted. We simply want to impress you with the earnestness and determination to clean our relief rolls of all ineligible, and that we are not going to stand for any abuses of our efforts in this respect," Johnson concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith entertained the following guests with a sumptuous dinner Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. ee Christopher and Miss Billie Ross of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bice and daughter, Mary Francis Houtchins, June Waggoner, Lee Cavin, Ona Faye, Lila Mae and Catherine Smith and Floyd Smith.

GRANDMA SAMES PASSES AWAY

AGED LADY PASSES AWAY JUNE 19, SIX DAYS PRIOR TO 103RD BIRTHDAY

Castro County and the entire Panhandle was saddened last Wednesday evening when news was heard of the passing of Mrs. Nancy Juliann Sames at 4:15 o'clock, six days before she would have celebrated her 103rd birthday.

She was born in Bluntswill, Tennessee, June 25, 1832, and was one hundred and two years, eleven months and twenty-four days of age.

She was married to James Looney Sames in 1853. To this union five children were born, three sons and two daughters. One daughter survives, Mrs. J. S. Smith oc Easter, with whom she has made her home for the past thirty-three years. Other relatives surviving are twelve grand children, twenty-nine great grandchildren and nine great-great grandchildren, a great nephew and a great niece, Mrs. J. J. Wilder of Jumbo.

Shortly after her marriage in 1853 war clouds hovered over the Southland and her husband was called into the strife between the states. She remained at home on the little farm in East Tennessee with her three small children, the eldest not old enough to hold up a walking plow during the duration of the war. Her husband returned from the struggle in ill health. Upon his recovery the family moved to Kentucky in 1867 and in 1870 answered the call of the new frontier and came to Texas.

In her own words she told of interesting experiences during her travels. "We came through in a covered wagon, Hillsboro being the first town of any importance we came to. I remember well driving up to the little store and there just across the way stood the log jail with a large tree nearby. Under the tree was a man handcuffed and guarded by two men with guns. He had killed a man. I tell you Texas was a pretty bad place in those days."

She recalls their visit to Dallas, then only a little town on the flat banks of the Trinity River.

"Belton, near where we settled, was a right smart place at that time." Mrs. Sames recalled. They began farming in Bell County between Temple and Belton and lived there until 1876 when the family home was moved to Cyril, Oklahoma, where she lived until some

SOFTBALL LEAGUE IS THRILLER

LUMBERMEN CONTINUE HOT PACE AND WALLOP HIGH SCHOOL HANDILY 11-5

Soft ball fans are enjoying thrill after thrill in the games of late as all the teams are becoming more evenly matched and more adapt at handling the overstuffed ball. The past week found the league at its hottest temperature since the start with more upsets and breathaking games.

The greatest of them all was the cellar dwelling Lumbermen rising in holy wrath and handing the hitherto high flying High School lads a 11 to 5 trouncing. The Lumbermen are the most improved club in the circuit and bids fair to climb to the head of the standing before many weeks.

The school boys broke even in the week's play however by trouncing the Bakers to shove the doughboys into a tie for last honors. The Bakers however have been handicapped with injuries.

The General Motors team continued to hold its high place in the race with a good win over the Druggists after being held down for six innings, however the potent heavy artillery broke loose in the late innings to place the contest in the win column.

The News slipped into a tie for second place in the standing with a well earned decision from the Druggists 9 to 6. Playing with only nine men and holding their opponents down to within striking distance with brilliant plays at the plate the printers came to the seventh inning trailing by a 6 to 4 score. A home run by Buck Woods with a duck on the pond tied the game and while holding the pill rollers scoreless in the eighth put on a three run rally in their half of the eighth to ice the thriller. Chas. Pyles, News shortstop made some beautiful leaping one-handed catches to draw applause from the crowd and hold the enemy away from pay soil.

Sandy Youts, secretary of the league, states that every club must have their players signed and paid up prior to the games in which they compete. New cards must be issued for play during the coming month, although no player may change clubs except with the approval of all the managers of the different clubs.

MRS. HUCKABAY BURIED SUNDAY

BELOVED CITIZEN SUCCUMBS TO LINGERING ILLNESS JUNE 22 AT HER HOME

Dimmitt was grieved Saturday when God in His infinite wisdom and mercy deemed it best to still the sufferings of Mrs. Sid Huckabay, beloved resident of this community and take her home to her just reward of peace and happiness.

The deceased was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Reynolds, now residing at Hart, Oct. 17, 1897, at Gorman, Texas. When fifteen years of age she moved with the family to Coleman County, later moving to Lockney.

It was there she met Sid Huckabay. This friendship blossomed into romance and soon after their wedding they moved to Dimmitt where their home has been ever since.

Left to mourn her passing is her husband, a son, Bob, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Reynolds, three sisters, Mrs. E. S. Umberson, Mrs. Joe Gollehon and Mrs. C. B. Harris; three brothers, Carlos, Floyd and Ranken. All were present together with many other relatives and friends to pay tribute to their departed loved one.

The deceased was converted and joined the Methodist Church at an early age, continuously faithful to her Lord and church, teaching a Sunday School class until the last few months of her life. Funeral services were held at the First Methodist Church Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock with the Rev. J. E. Strother, pastor, conducting the last rites. Interment was made in the Dimmitt Cemetery.

WHEAT HARVEST IS BEGUN HERE

RUSSELL BUCKMASTER CUTS FIRST CASTRO COUNTY WHEAT MONDAY

Harvest time, when the humming combines cut great paths in the golden waving grain fields, is here again in Castro County, and although tolls have been taken from the yield by tse terrible drought and sandstorms which swept this region throughout the spring months most fields are actually averaging more bushels to the acre than was anticipated.

To Russell Buckmaster goes the credit and honor for being the first Castro wheat grower to harvest and market a load of the 1935 product. The Kimbell Elevators purchased the wheat and paid 75 cents per bushel, which tested 57 although a bit wet. Later tests found the wheat averaging better than 60.

Only an hour and a half later Edwin Ramey closely followed by Dewey Wright brought their first cutting to the Castro County Grain Co. where it tested 58 and sold for 75 cents per bushel.

Most every grower that has any wheat is busy combining and hauling the grain to the local elevators for storage or market.

PASTURE TERRACE SUCCESS

PASTURE TERRACES PROVE GREAT SUCCESS IN RAIN HERE THIS WEEK

County Agent Thomas reports that Colin Walton, Castro County farmer, living 6 miles southeast of Dimmitt is carrying on a demonstration on terracing pasture land. Last winter he spent most of his spare time building a system of terraces across a wide draw draining into a flat lake in his pasture. Terraces were run level from end to end and the ends built up to hold the water from running around, and with the terraces placed close enough together to back the water nearly to the other terrace. Several acres of sloping land was also listed. This week gave the first opportunity of trying out the terraces. An inch and one-half of rain and hail fell in about thirty minutes. The terraces held the water back out of the lake to the extent that all of the water which ran into the lake soaked up by the next morning. Without the terraces the lake would have been filled and the grass drowned out for several weeks. The water would have also ran across the draw without soaking the ground up to any extent. It is estimated that the carrying capacity of the pasture this season will be more than doubled from this rain alone by reason of having the terraces. Listed land held the water from one end of the furrows to the other and will be expected to sod over solidly from this rain.

At last twenty other farmers and stockmen have done some terracing or contouring in the county this season, and with these demonstrations it is expected that the practice will be widely extended within a few yaers.

AN ENCOURAGING PREDICTION

America will attain greater prosperity than ever before. More individuals and families than ever before will own their own homes. Our current total of 21,500,000 automobiles will be doubled. Our 13,500,000 telephones will be more than doubled. Such little-used conveniences and comforts as air-conditioning equipment, sun lamps, and television receivers will be commonplace in the home. Much better provision will be made for caring for those thrown temporarily out of employment. In short, a better day will dawn. . . certainly!

That isn't the opinion of a professional optimist of the "prosperity-is-just-around-the-corner" school. It is the opinion of B. C. Forbes, the realistic financial analyst, who expresses it in a recent issue of Cosmopolitan magazine.

The natural question to ask, then, is WHEN are all of these blessings going to come to us? And that, in Mr. Forbes' belief, is largely dependent on the activities of government. He is confident that the pent-up natural forces of recovery are rarin' to go. . . and that only man-made obstacles are standing in their way. Fears of inflation, stifling taxes, government competition with private business, industrial regimentation, bureaucratic regulation of our great businesses. . . these are the friends of depression, and the enemies of recovery. What is needed, in Mr. Forbes' words, is "a sensible get-together between government and governed; a pact to work in harmony rather than at cross purposes. . ."

A tremendous responsibility weighs upon our political leaders to bring that about. The American people are in no mood to let politics continue to interfere with the course of recovery. The Clarendon News.

SERVICES RENDERED BY DIMMITT MERCHANTS

Local business men tell us that many people in buying, consider only one factor in trading. . . the price. Losing sight entirely of the importance of quality and without appreciating the services rendered by the merchants in Dimmitt some people look through a catalogue and snap at "bargains". After paying parcel post, insurance and waiting days for the merchandise they do not come out as well as they imagined.

The News has never appealed to its readers to trade at home merely for "patriotic reasons. It has never blamed any person for buying what is needed as cheaply as possible, although it has attempted to demonstrate that local merchants deserve as much consideration as a stray catalog. To stay in business Dimmitt merchants must meet outside competition but it is obviously unreasonable to expect them to do more than this.

Local merchants very often deliver merchandise on credit but we know of few mailorder houses that run many charge accounts in Dimmitt. Local merchants guarantee their wares giving you money-back guarantees, but we know of very few satisfactory price adjustments effected through the mails. Local merchants give an adequate follow-up and repair service on their sales but, as far as we know, no mail order house has ever sent a man to Dimmitt to see why its product is not doing all that they said it would.

There is much more to a trade than the price. Quality and accommodating service with personal consideration come with goods bought from Dimmitt merchants. There is no price for these in a catalog because a mail-order house cannot deliver them with the goods. . . it takes a home store to do so.

VALUE OF ADVERTISING

Did you ever stop to think what a big part advertising plays in business? The department store considers advertising a necessary part of its expenses. So much so that the average department store in its annual budget assigns a certain percentage for that purpose. Then think of the household articles that would have never been heard of but for advertising. Milady's brand of face cream, the tooth brush you use, many articles in daily use on our dining tables; almost everything that we eat, drink, wear or enjoy are made known to us and popularized through advertising. In fact, advertising is the greatest force in the world, and newspaper advertising performs a great public service. It shows people what to buy for their comfort, their convenience and their enjoyment. It shows them where to buy safely and economically.

THE CHURCH'S OPPORTUNITY

This is the fifth year of the depression, but churches in this country remain alive and continue to grow. No institution in this country has done better, few have done as well. It is evident that in times of distress men and women are willing to turn to religion and the church for moral and spiritual aid and guidance. Herein lies an opportunity for the church and its ministers. Both are entrusted with obligations of tremendous importance. How is it being discharged?

Sunday School by HENRY-LESSON RADCLIFFE

CHRISTIAN LIBERTY

International Sunday School Lesson for June 30, 1935

GOLDEN TEXT: It is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." Rom. 14:21.

(Lesson Text: Romans 14:13-21; 1 Cor. 8:9-13.)

Members of the early Christian church were drawn from two classes. Many of them were Jews, who through their lives had been accustomed to obey the ceremonial law of Judaism. Other Christians were Gentiles, having no such previous religious ritual, and therefore not subject in any way to the rules of conduct for the Jews.

In Rome the question as to the observance of the old customs of the Jews caused discussion in the Christian church. Many of the Jewish converts consider that they should adhere to the manner of life practiced by their fathers. Other Christians considered that they had been entirely freed from the legalistic code of the Jews and that this no longer should be allowed to regulate their ordinary affairs of life. In his epistle to the Romans Paul took up in the first eleven chapters great doctrinal subjects, but beginning with the twelfth chapter he sought to give them a practical application in the everyday life of those to whom he wrote.

Paul presented to those who felt that they had been completely emancipated the desirability, perhaps, of still following some of the laws if by so doing the strength of others in the new faith could be strengthened. "Nothing is unclean of itself," said Paul, "save that to him that accounted anything to be unclean, to him it is unclean." The individual conscience should be the guide of conduct for each person, although it should be borne in mind that while it is always wrong to violate one's conscience it may not always be right just to follow where conscience does not disturb.

In an effort to keep down criticism among members who differed in opinion as to conduct, Paul sought to discourage human beings acting as judges for their fellow men. "What a remarkable contrast there is between the true Christian's use of the power of judgement and that of the worldly-wise!" says G. Campbell Morgan. "These pass judgement upon others from the standpoint of personal preferences and convictions. The true Christian passes judgement upon his own conduct, from the standpoint of the well-being of his brethren. The one is self-centered, dogmatic, ignorant, and often unjust. The other is love-centered, self-denying, intelligent, and always merciful."

"Nothing grows upon me so much with the lengthening of life as the sum of the difficulties, or rather the impossibilities, with which we are beset whenever we are tempted to take to ourselves the functions of the Eternal Judge," says Gladstone, "except in reference to ourselves, where judgement is committed to us. The shades of the rainbow are not so nice, and the sands of the seashore are not such a multitude, as are the subtle, shifting, blinding forms of thought and of circumstances that go to determine the character of us and of our acts. But there is one that seeth plainly and judgeth righteously."

The Kingdom of God, Paul pointed out, "is not eating and drinking but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit." While many things may be permissible and safe to many people, there would remain some who were not so strong but that following these practices might result in harm. Therefore, "it is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." In effect, Paul realized that many harmless practices could be followed by good Christians without their being hurt, while these same activities overindulged in by the weak would do the latter terrible damage, therefore, he recommended that the strong abstain in order not to encourage the weak into a practice which might be harmful.

"Amid the difficulties, perhaps the impossibility, of advancing any strict and literal solution which shall be applicable to all cases, there is one thing unquestionable. . . and that is the concern which all ought to feel for the moral safety of others beside themselves," says Thomas Chalmers. "Grant of the strong Christian that he may pass unscathed through the festive parties of the ungodly, and perhaps even leave the savor of what is good in the midst of them; or grant that without injury to his own spirit, he may lend his occasional presence to certain haunts of public or fashionable entertainment. . . it must not be forgotten that many are the weak Christians, who, if led to the premature imitation of his example, would inevitably perish among the surrounding contaminations of an atmosphere which they could not breathe in and yet live."

In the Corinthian church the situation was somewhat different than at Rome. Here the difference between members of the church arose as to the right of a Christian to eat of food which had been offered to idols. In that country it was customary for a host to serve to his guests parts of an animal which had been sacrificed, and to some Christians the eating of this flesh seemed to participate in the worship of the pagan deity to whom the sacrifice had been made. While Paul did not think that the meat offered to idols was different from any other meat, still, in sympathy for the weaker member of his church, he was willing to sacrifice his own liberty to eat such meat in order not to harm the welfare of his brother who would be misled by such eating.

"I may feel at perfect liberty to drink wine," says Marcus Dods, "had I only myself to consider, and knowing that my temptation does not lie that way, I might use wine regularly or as often as I felt disposed to enjoy a needed stimulant. I may feel quite convinced in my own mind that morally I am not one whit the worse for doing so. But I cannot determine whether I am to indulge myself or not without considering the effect my conduct will have on others. There may be among my friends some who know that their temptation does lie that way, and whose conscience bids them altogether refrain. If by my example such persons are encouraged to silence the voice of their own conscience, then I incur the incalculable guilt of helping to destroy a brother for whom Christ died."

When the prohibition amendment was repealed President Roosevelt appealed to the nation for co-operation in the administration of the new system and to avoid excess drinking. Among other things, he said, "I ask especially that no state shall by law or otherwise authorize the return of the saloon either in its old form or in some modern guise. The policy of the government will be to see to it that the social and political evils that have existed in the pre-prohibition era shall not be revived nor permitted again to exist. We must remove forever from our midst the menace of the bootlegger and such others as would profit at the expense of good government, law and order. I trust in the good sense of the American people that they will not bring upon themselves the curse of excessive use of intoxicating liquors, to the detriment of health, morals and social integrity. The objective we seek

QUESTION THE PEDDLER

The peddler that comes to your door is probably a man, or woman, trying to make an honest living. As such they deserve courtesy and kind treatment, but not your patronage.

There is no reason for prejudice against the out of town houses that try to get our money. They are only pushing their business as they have a right to do, and are to be commended for doing it.

The reason the peddlers visit this town, and the mail order catalogs come, is because there are a number of suckers living in Dimmitt. Most of them think they are doing the wise thing in getting a "bargain," but that is because they do not think. They do not accept a community of interest that will eventually lead to a community of progress and success.

The next time a peddler raps at your door greet him with a smile, and these questions.

"Does your company pay any taxes to support our schools?"

"Do you, or your company, contribute to the churches of Dimmitt?"

"Have you ever contributed to help a neighbor of ours when stricken by disaster?"

"What, if anything, have you, or your company, ever done to help make Dimmitt a better place for our children to live in? Do you offer any opportunity to them when they grow older and seek places to work?"

If any of them get by these four let us know about it and we will suggest a few others. If, after interrogating the visiting brother you think it to your own best interest, to ignore local merchants and home enterprise, without giving them a hearing, let your conscience be your guide.

CONGRESS BUCKLES DOWN PRESIDENT INSISTENT REFORM PROGRAM LARGE LEGISLATIVE TASK IMMENSE HOLDING COMPANY BATTLE FIGHT "DEATH SENTENCE" DIRECT RELIEF TO END DISMISSED; CHARGES GRAFT TREASURY HELPEL FRANC

From The Castro County News' Washington Correspondent

Now that a modified NRA system is installed and the opinion of the Supreme Court apparently effective the political situation changes in Washington, where a weary Congress finds itself confronted with a disagreeable summer of work or quick passage of the President's program of reform measures.

In fact, last week Congressmen buckled to the task involved, seemingly determined to make haste and to dispose of the many measures that are listed on the "must" program. For some weeks prior to the NRA decision the idea was that the President would follow a give and take attitude towards Congress, even to the extent of postponing consideration of several controversial and hotly contested bills. Today, that is out of the picture, with the Chief Executive plainly insisting upon action and passage of the various measures that have been listed in these columns several times.

Political commentators argue that this changed attitude is due to the possible effect of business recovery, which would be credited to the Court's action, unless the party in power has a definite legislative accomplishment upon which to base an argument for "ceasing" the upturn. They seem to think that, without passage of the reform measures, the Democrats would not be able to claim credit for better business conditions, which most people expect, and that the improvement would be accepted as the result of the killing of NRA regimentation.

At any rate, whatever might have been the attitude of the President toward possible legislative compromises in the early days of the month, no one expects him to willingly set aside any of the major reform bills for which he is now outspoken. Conservatives call this a selfish political manoeuvre to gain advantage and others say that the behavior of the reactionaries responsible for the depression, demonstrated the need of reform legislation to keep them from running amuck again.

Undoubtedly, there is a more evident tendency to blame the President for what happens and a sudden aggressiveness on the part of Republicans to wage war with him, although the chances are that many of his measures will get a liberal sprinkling of Republican votes. Mr. Roosevelt, it appears, is perfectly willing to accept the play, and in insisting upon his program exhibits a firmness and positiveness that has been somewhat absent from his dealing with Congress during the recent months.

Speaker Byrns, who once predicted adjournment by June 15th, left his throne last week to tell the House that it ought to get busy on the legislative program. He praised the members for the business accomplished but called for action within two weeks on a number of important measures. While not advocating passage without fullest consideration the Speaker did not wish to see the House consume unnecessary time in making speeches on "outside matters."

The condition of affairs can be understood when we point out that the first session of the Seventy-Fourth Congress enters its twenty-fifth week this Wednesday. From Jan. 3 until the day the Speaker addressed the House only one really important New Deal measure had been approved and some fourteen bills were waiting action. In fact, the complications of the NRA case upset which entailed lost time and a revised program of legislation, had set before Congress a task even greater than the one that faced it when the session convened.

Something of a major battle between the President and the House seems slated to begin this week over the "death sentence" clause of the utilities' holding company measure. As passed by the Senate, with the Borah amendment making it mandatory to dissolve any holding company which "held" another holding company, the bill was pronounced "even stronger than when introduced." However, the final vote of 56 to 32 does not indicate true sentiment in the Senate, where two determined efforts to curb the power of the Securities and Exchange commission were beaten by slender margins of one and two votes.

Last week the House subcommittee reported unfavorably on the disputed section and what the House members would do seemed problematic. While the President has had his way, usually, with the House the fight over the holding company bill is intense, with much active work being done by the opponents of elimination in the hope of securing modification in the House which will enable them to get another chance in the Senate. A sharp line has been drawn with bad feeling increasing.

The "death sentence" provides for the dismemberment or dissolution of the giant holding companies, with the Borah amendment becoming effective by 1940. Efforts in the Senate to ameliorate the severity of the bill were supported by 29 Democrats and 15 Republicans, while 35 Democrats, 8 Republicans and two others stood firm for the rigorous provisions. Later, on passage of the bill 18 Democrats and 1b Republicans cast negative votes. Inasmuch as billions of dollars are involved, together with millions of people, one can understand the clash as advocates demand the death of holding company parasites and opponents speak up for what they say is the interest of more than 10,000,000 investors.

With direct relief to end on July first and aid offered the unemployed only through the direct work relief program Harry Hopkins promises jobs for 3,500,000. The government will spend half of the four billion dollar fund, pouring the money into the states, where works progress administrators have been instructed to see that the over-all cost of projects is kept down to the average of $1,200 a man employed in order that the sum appropriated by Congress will accomplish the task undertaken. Moreover, it is urged that men thus employed be transferred as rapidly as possible to private employment even if this means slowing down, or stopping some projects.

President Roosevelt in addressing the men to have charge of the program in the States emphasized that politics is out, that there be no discrimination and that "we cannot hurt our enemies, nor help our friends." He hoped that there would be a definite pick-up all over the United States and insisted that mathematics demonstrated clearly that if the amount in hand was to give the unemployed work not more than $1,100 to $1,200 could be expended per man employed.

Meanwhile officials announced a big plan, involving something like $300,000,000, designed to give employment to the "white collar" class, which has undoubtedly suffered severely during the depression. While details were not readily available it was said that projects had been selected to give employment to specialized groups. Studies of major industries and agricultural pursuits for information relating to their problems will be instituted.

probed by the Senate Commerce committee. Mr. Mitchell attracted little attention in Washington until his charges were made public and then, of course, the spotlight was his for a few days. Those opposed to the administration will make a great deal out of whatever he says, even if it amounts to little and the campaign next summer will hear much whispering. Anyway, a full airing is certain, with Republicans ready to turn up anything that can be used as ammunition later on.

The revelation that the Treasury extended impotent assistance to France when the drive for dollar exchange in that country threatened the franc with further loss of value is taken to indicate that this nation is ready to cooperate with other governments in something like stabilization of currencies. The action became known when the governor of the Bank of France paid a tribute to Secretary Morgenthau's "broad understanding" of the situation caused by the loss of nearly 10,000,000,000 francs worth of gold and his action to provide the market abroad with dollars.

While nothing official has been revealed, as this is written, the chances are that some kind of diplomatic discussion has been going on behind the scenes between London and Washington and Tokyo in regards to the situation in the

With Conoco Germ Processed Oil in your crankcase, you KNOW the strain won't hurt your motor!

Tests prove this new alloyed oil has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than plain mineral oils and resists heat better!

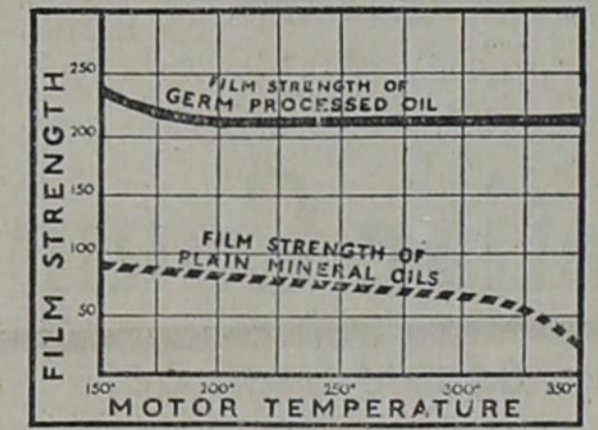

On July 4th or week-end and vacation trips, you'll want to drive far and get there in a hurry. And you don't want that nagging worry of "I wonder if this speed and heat will hurt anything in my motor."

You can't always be sure when you use plain mineral oils, for they have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing processes have even less. Moreover, as motor heat goes up, these oils rapidly lose film strength.

Film strength is the load-carrying ability of an oil, the quality that keeps bearings and cylinders from wearing out. Lack of film strength results in costly damage.

You can drive without a worry when you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil! It has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil. Heat does not lessen this advantage.*

Supervised road tests—over good and bad roads, at low and high speeds, in all kinds of weather—give practical proof that Germ Processed Oil proten years ago when she became a citizen of Castro County.

Until approximately three months ago when she suffered an attack of illness she was able to sit in her wheel chair and piece quilt blocks, read the daily newspapers and her Bible which was published in 1850.

She was amused at the modern generation and times and say, "No telling what will happen next". She didn't approve of bobbed hair and thought it unbecoming to womanhood and had no use for the smoking habit among the women of today, although she says the habit is nothing new for in past generations a cob pipe was a necessary part of milady's every day necessities.

Her two sons, Thomas Allen and William were murdered by highwaymen in Hill County.

Her husband died in Hillsboro in 1898.

She has seen the United States involved in five wars, the Civil, Spanish-American, Mexican, Texas Revolution and World War.

"Grandmother" Sames was a devoted Christian being converted at the age of fifteen and joined the old school Presbyterian Church. Some thirty-five years ago she united with the Methodist Church. She was a faithful and cheerful Christian character, always greeting her callers with a smile. It was her supreme enjoyment to talk about the goodness of God and how the Lord had never forsaken her all those eighty-eight years. Her life and influence will be felt in the lives of all those who knew her and indeed it may be said she gave a life, a life of service and sacrifice to her God and fellow man.

Dear little Iva, sweet as a rose,
how much we loved you only God knows.

Your sweet smiles and kind loving face has won for you in our hearts a place.

Your going away has left our circle broken,

Because your sweet life was to us such a loving token.

Sometime in a land that is fairer than day,

Where we no more "good-bye" shall say,

We hope to again our circle complete when we again our loved one shall meet.

There, dear, will always be a vacant chair until we meet you over there.

But when we think of your suffering and pain,

we would not call you back again.

Methinks today I can see an Angel hand

beckoning us to follow on to a better land

So now we shall try not to grieve too much for your going

but rather about face,
And muster more courage for Jesus as we continue life's race.
