Robinson Drilling invests in Howard College, community

By CINDY SMITH

Special to the Herald

Robinson Drilling has established a $100,000 endowment through the Howard College Foundation to support scholarships for students in the Career Technical Education program.

"We are very pleased and honored to receive this generous donation," said Bruce Griffith, Howard College Foundation president. "Robinson Drilling is a pillar of the community and this is just another way they are investing in the students of Howard County and providing educational opportunities for them to be successful."

The scholarships will provide tuition, fees and books for eligible students and will support them until they receive their certificate or associate degree, as long as all criteria are met.

Priority for scholarship recipients will be given to

St. Mary's slates Oct. 23 fund-raiser

By BILL McCLELLAN

News Editor

Crossroads area folks will be able to experience the varied talents of local artists in one location Oct. 23 as St. Mary's Episcopal Church hosts a fund-raiser from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Fifteen to 20 artists will be showing and selling their paintings, jewelry, scarves, books and other items during the event, which will also feature a silent auction, wine and beer tasting and jazz music.

"For the auction, we'll have decorations, food, needle-point, art — affordable things people can use," said Gloria Bain, a 2010 Come Celebration committee and church member. "We'll also have vintage hats that will be for sale."

Providing musical entertainment will be Anna O'Brien, Big Spring High School choir director, accompanied on piano by Eddie Vandewalker, music director at Howard College.

Hors d'oeuvres will be served, as well flavored coffees, punch and the aforementioned wine and beer.

Ultimate Throwdown in need of chiliheads, dessert cooks

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

United Way officials hope a little competition plus some good food equals a hefty contribution to their annual campaign.

The city of Big Spring, along with local radio station KBYG, will host the inaugural Ultimate Chili and Desert Throwdown from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23, at Heart of the City Park in downtown Big Spring.

Organizers hope to draw many of the best chili cooks and dessert makers — not to mention plenty of hungry area residents — to the event,

What: Ultimate Chili and Dessert Throwdown.
Where: Heart of the City Park, downtown Big Spring.
When: 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23.
Benefits: United Way of Big Spring and Howard County.
Contact: 264-2348 or 264-2504.

which will benefit the United Way of Big Spring's annual campaign, which has a goal of $250,000.

Entry fee is $25 for the chili cook-off and $15 for the dessert contest. Visitors can purchase chili meals for $5, while the desserts will be sold during a silent auction. All proceeds go to the UW.

Yolanda Bryant, one of the organizers for the event, said chili teams can begin setting up on site at 7 a.m. that morning. There must be two cooks per team and the chili must be made from scratch and cooked on site.

Those entering the dessert contest are asked to prepare two samples of their entry — one for judging and one for the silent auction.

Plaques will be awarded to the top three chili cooking teams, as well as the top dessert entry.

Entry deadline for the event is Tuesday.

Bryant said entries are lagging at this point.

"Right now, we have zilch," she said. "I've received a lot of verbal commitments from people, but no formal entries yet."

In addition to the chili and desserts, free face painting

Coahoma, Forsan get reacquainted in showdown Friday

Forsan quarterback Foster Burchett breaks away from a tackle and runs for a touchdown during the Buffaloes' 35-34 win over Anson last week. The Buffs hope another win keeps them in the race for a playoff spot in District 2-2A Division II play.

Coahoma quarterback Tanner Ruiz runs for a first down during the Bulldogs' 33-6 win over Post last week.

BY ADAM COLEMAN

Coahoma and Forsan have the makings of a good rivalry. The schools are about 40 minutes apart. The players, fans, parents and alumni are probably familiar with each other, maybe even related in some cases. "Our guys and their guys have grown up together playing sports," Forsan head coach Jason Phillips said. "Not just football, basketball and baseball. It's a pretty big deal. Everybody out here knows everybody over there, at least somebody. It's going to be fun."

Coahoma (5-2, 2-1 in district play) and Buffaloes (3-3, 1-1) don't play each other every year, with Forsan being new to Class 2A football this season. But the two programs will get reacquainted at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Coahoma with a lot more on the line than bragging rights.

Both Phillips and Coahoma head coach Trey Gardner stress the need for a win as District 2-2A Division II play continues.

The Bulldogs look like they've found their stride, grabbing two wins over Post and Hawley after dropping the district opener to Stanton. Forsan, on the other hand, has found new life after a thrilling 35-34 win over Anson at home. The win helped the Buffs avoid an 0-2 record in district play.

Gardner acknowledges Friday's game may garner a lot of interest because of the familiarity between the fans and players for both school.

But that's not as important as getting a win as staying in the hunt for a district title.

"We've made our best attempts to downplay it," Gardner said. "We've talked to our kids about how we've got to approach it like any other game. What it says on the front of the jersey really doesn't matter right now. We're still in a position where as long as we can keep winning, we control our own faith. That's kind of the bigger deal for us."

Coahoma's not facing another Wing-T offense like the Bulldogs have in recent weeks. The Buffs are capable of scoring a lot of points quickly and Gardner said he is aware of how dangerous they are on offense.

He pointed out the 27 unanswered points the Buffs scored in the win over Anson as an example of what

Forsan softball players receive state title rings

BY ADAM COLEMAN
Sports Editor

FORSAN — Former Forsan Lady Buffs softball player Amanda Longorio couldn't help but feel appreciated when she returned to Forsan for a quick visit Wednesday.

Receiving the championship ring with your teammates for the second of back-to-back Class A state titles in front of high school and junior high school students might do that to a player.

"It's different coming back to high school," Longorio said. "Everybody in college is like 'Oh, you won a state championship. You're from 1A. It doesn't really matter.' But coming back to high school, everybody actually appreciates it more."

The Lady Buffs got a chance to relive winning the 2010 Class A state championship in Austin this summer when they were presented with their championship rings Wednesday.

Longorio, Kelsey and Shelby Jones came back to get their rings after graduating last year.

The players sat side by side in the middle of the varsity basketball gym while Mark Harris from

Herff Jones — a company that specializes in class rings, among other things — gave a speech and presented the players with their rings.

Obituaries

John Raymond Hatch Jr. 'Jay'

1944-2010
Beginning his journey in El Paso on Jan. 14, 1944, he would circle the globe, including a tour of duty in Vietnam, before spending the remainder of his life in the Lone Star State, where he finally rested in Smithville on Monday, Oct. 11, 2010.

Jay Hatch, son of John Sr. and Mary Nell Link, would graduate from Big Spring High School (1962) and as many of his generation did, would spend three years in Vietnam serving in the U.S. Army, achieving the rank of captain. For his heroism, a great deal of which was spent in the Bing Duong Province, he would earn three Bronze Stars, a Purple Heart and an Army Commendation Medal.

He married the love of his life, Carla Madison, and the two would travel all over Texas and Oklahoma pursuing his entrepreneurial spirit. He was an oilman like his father (inventor of the Completion Oil Tool still used in the oil fields around the world today), but his true passion was golf, fishing and pool — and he rooted for his favorite teams, the Dallas Cowboys and the University of Texas Longhorns. Although he was a "man's man," he would be the first to let you know Carla was "the boss." Together they would write a murder mystery novel, The Turtle Trap, and looked forward to penning a sequel when Carla passed away in 2006.

After losing Carla, Jay was adopted by his Smithville family that included his friends at Charlie's, La Cabana Restaurant and Lost Pines Golf Club. They loved him and watched over him as much as he loved and cared for them. They were a different kind of "band of brothers (and sisters)" and they were his rock, helping him weather many of his life's storms. Charlie and the gang, Gina and all, your friendship meant more to him than you will ever know.

He is preceded in death by his father and mother, and is survived by a sister, Ginger Dudley of Hugo, Okla.; brother, Richard "Dick" Hatch and wife Fran of Kissimmee, Fla., and son, John Hatch and wife Rebecca of Buda; and stepdaughter, Kathy Carroll of Big Spring and stepson Cody Carroll of La Grange. In addition, he is survived by several grandchildren, John Robert, Gibson and Hannah Hatch of Buda, Caitlin Perkins of Austin, Chelsy Nanny of Odessa, Brenna Wells of Big Spring, and many nieces and nephews.

A memorial service will be held at the Smithville First United Methodist Church on Friday, Oct. 15, 2010, at 1 p.m. with wake following at Charlie's. Jay will be interred at the Dallas-Fort Worth National Military Cemetery on Wednesday, Oct. 20, 2010, at 2 p.m., where he will join Carla ("The Boss") and they will finally be "together forever."

In lieu of flowers, the family requests contributions can be made to the American Legion Post 180, P.O. Box 28, Smithville, Texas 78957.

William (Bill) F. Burrow

It is a rare man who touches lives through his own example of integrity and generous spirit, making those around him strive to be a better person. William Fite Burrow Jr., born Dec. 29, 1939, to Mr.

and Mrs. William F. Burrow Sr. in Dallas, died Oct. 9, 2010, in the loving embrace of his family. Bill and Janis S. Burrow shared a 36-year love story. Janis Sparks is the daughter of Robert and Phyllis Sparks of Big Spring. Bill was an adoring father to his four daughters and his 10 cherished grandchildren. Bill was an anchor to his countless friends, loyal and loved. He recognized and acknowledged the goodness and kindness of others, had an unmatched curiosity for life and made the most out of every moment.

Bill, a sixth generation Texan, grew up in Dallas and graduated from the St. Mark's School in 1957, Princeton University in 1961 and Yale Law School in 1964. Following law school, he served as a major in the United States Army from 1964 until 1967 in Munich, Germany. Bill returned to Dallas and practiced law with Leake, Henry, Golden, Burrow & Potts. His real estate investment success led him to pursue various property ventures for the remainder of his life. He founded Sage Land Company of Austin, a leading real estate development and investment company, with Peter Lamy, his long-time partner and friend.

Jan was the love of his life and their marriage was a partnership of unconditional love and support which inspired and uplifted all those around them. His family was his treasure and he was happiest when the home overflowed with laughter of friends, old and new. While an all-around sportsman, skiing was by far his greatest passion, becoming a member of the "Million Footer" club after 20 years heli-skiing at CMH and traveling the four corners of the world with Jan.

Bill was an active member of every community in which he lived: a trustee of St. Marks, St. Andrews and St. Stephens, a member of the Texas and American Bar Associations, a member of the vestry of St. Francis, a co-founder of the Texas Food & Wine Club, a legendary supporter of the Austin Symphony Orchestra, a life-long Salesmanship Club member, a Chevaliers du Tastevin member and a quiet, constant philanthropist in the community.

Bill's family is steeped in Texas history and played a role in the early years of Texas Republic. His great-great grandfather, Robert Irion, was Sam Houston's Secretary of State and Ambassador to England and France for the Republic of Texas. His great-great grandmother, Anna Raguet, designed the Republic's official seal which is still used today by the State of Texas. His grandfather, Joe A. Worsham founded Worsham, Forsthye & Wooldrige (merged to become Hunton & Williams). His father, William F. Burrow Sr., was a prominent trial attorney in Dallas for more than 50 years and later helped found the Texas Republican Party.

He will be dearly missed whenever family and friends gather. Bill and Jan confronted his final illness with the love, determination and energy that so characterized his life. He is also survived by his daughters and sons-in-laws, Carolyn, M.D. and Paul Barber of La Jolla, Cynthia and Brad Conger of Bryn Mawr, Elizabeth and Lane Farley of Dallas, Katherine and Andy Rupp of Denver; and by his brothers, Gerard Burrow, M.D. of New Haven, Christopher Burrow, M.D. of Del Mar, Bruce Burrow of Oregon; and his sister, Nancy Parrish of Austin; as well as 10 boisterous grandchildren, Jack, Nicholas and Kevin Barber, Wynne, Josephine and Eleanor Conger, Ashley, Lauren and Cole Farley, and William Rupp.

Friends are invited to pay their respects at Weed-Corley Fish Funeral Home, 3125 N. Lamar on Wednesday, Oct. 13, 2010, from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. Services will be held Thursday, Oct. 14, 2010, at 2 p.m. at Good Shepherd Episcopal Church, 3201 Windsor Road, with a reception following at the Tarry House in Austin. A private interment will follow in Dallas at Hillcrest Memorial Park on Friday, Oct. 15. Friends are invited to a reception at the home of Elizabeth and Lane Farley at 3 p.m. Please call (214) 987-9600 for details. Memorial contributions may be made to Austin Recovery, Salesmanship of Dallas. This obituary and guest book are available at wcfish.com or you may visit caringbridge.org/visit/billburrow

Yankees focusing on Wilson, not Lee

NEW YORK (AP) — First things first for the Yankees. Why worry about Cliff Lee when you can fret over the Texas Rangers' opening pitcher?

"Let's think about C.J. Wilson first," catcher Jorge Posada said Wednesday. "We've got to concentrate on Game 1. We can't go ahead and think about Game 3."

Cliff Lee has resembled a combination of Sandy Koufax, Bob Gibson and Jack Morris the last two Octobers, going 6-0 with a 1.44 ERA and three complete games in seven career postseason starts. He's struck out 54 and walked six in 56 1-3 innings.

During the first round series against Tampa Bay, Lee had a MLB 2K10-like 21 strikeouts and no walks in 16 innings.

While Lee started twice against the Rays, Wilson pitched 6 1-3 shutout innings in his one start. Texas had a 2.40 ERA in the five-game series.

"Their pitching is very good, very solid," first baseman Mark Teixeira said as he thought about Friday's AL championship series opener. "And if we pitch the way we're capable of and they pitch the way they're capable of, there may not be a lot of runs scored."

Lee and Wilson are both southpaws, but different. Left-handed batters hit .281 during the regular season against Lee, a feat compared to their .144 average — with no home runs — against Wilson.

"He can cut the ball. He can ride it inside to left-handers. He can sink it, and he's got a breaking ball and he has a changeup," Rangers manager Ron Washington said of Wilson. "Each time he takes the baseball, he gets better. He's always ready for a challenge."

Lee is 8-4 against the Yankees, including postseason play. When he faced them on Aug. 11, New York trailed 6-1 in the sixth and rallied to win 7-6. He gave up four runs in 6 1-3 innings.

"We had good at-bats," Yankees manager Joe Girardi said. "The only way to be patient on Cliff Lee and get his pitch count up is to foul a lot of balls off and then get a base hit. He's aggressive. He throws a lot of strikes. He knows how to move the ball in and out, up and down, change speeds.

You've got to look for that one mistake, and you have to hit it."

Lee almost wound up on the other side of this series. The Yankees and Seattle agreed to a tentative deal in July that would have sent Lee to New York for catching prospect Jesus Montero, minor league second baseman David Adams and another prospect. But the Mariners decided not to go through with it when they learned Adams had a toe injury, then dealt Lee to the Rangers for rookie first baseman Justin Smoak and three minor leaguers.

"There was a lot of discussion about players that we were interested in, that it was possibly going to happen, it wasn't going to happen," Girardi said.

Forsan's offense can do. Gardner said Forsan's speed can break a game wide open and his players will have to be careful not to over-pursue. He'll look for his defense to ride the momentum of the Post game, where it allowed just six points.

"They're obviously very dangerous on offense," he said. "We talked about how we want to go out and play good, solid defense and see if we can't slow them down a little bit. We really prefer not to get into a 50-48 type deal."

But Coahoma can score points, too. Phillips said what makes Coahoma so dangerous in the Wing-T is the execution. Lining up correctly on defense will be key to avoid any breakdowns.

Phillips would rather see his defense step up than this turn into a shootout, but he said both teams could explode offensively at any minute Friday.

The Buffs may be riding an emotional high this week, too. Last week's win over Anson came to the last second when Anson went for a two-point conversion to win the game, but failed when the receiver caught the ball out of bounds.

"We had pretty good practices last week and if anything, this week has been even better," Phillips said. I don't know if it was for the fact that we're playing Coahoma or just emotion carrying over from last week. But we've had a good week of workouts."

The event will be a great start to a big evening, said Bain.

"That night is the same night as the symphony's first concert of the season, so come out to St. Mary's fund-raiser on your way to the concert," she suggested.

"Overtures From Around the World" will be the opening concert of the Big Spring Symphony 2010-2011 season. That concert, featuring guest conductor Dr. John Giordano, will begin at 8 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

Tickets for the St. Mary's fund-raiser are $25 for couples and $15 for individuals. To obtain tickets, call the church office at (432) 267-8201.

"Tickets will be available at the door but we'd really like people to get them ahead of time so we'll be able to prepare accordingly," said Bain.

Funds raised will go toward St. Mary's Episcopal Church's year-long celebration to recognize 125 years of service to the community.

The celebration will officially kick off with the church's annual St. Andrews Celebration on Nov. 21.

For more information, call the church office.

Howard County residents. Students must maintain a 2.0 GPA, provide 10 hours of community service per semester and agree to conduct themselves in a manner acceptable to the community while abiding by the rules of Howard College.

"We want to re-invest in our future and can't think of a better way to do that than to fund education," said Myra Robinson, president of Robinson Drilling. "We see the value in the career technical education programs and want to do what we can to make this a viable opportunity for more students."

Only funds generated from the investment will be utilized to award scholarships. In order to award scholarships immediately, Robinson

Drilling has also funded up to four full scholarships including tuition, fees and books each semester until the interest generated on the endowment begins to cover the scholarships on a regular basis.

The growing career technical education (CTE) programs offer many different training opportunities for students of all ages. Programs within CTE include welding, electronics, hydraulics, renewable energy, heavy equipment and heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC).

Students graduating with these skill sets as well as certificates and degrees can make an immediate impact on the workforce in Howard County.

"If we can give a student an opportunity to reach for their dreams and also be an asset to our community then we have accomplished our goal," said Robinson.

For more information on CTE programs and/or scholarship applications, visit www.howardcollege.edu or contact the outreach office at (432) 264-5085.

AN ENCOURAGING WORD

By Eddy Pitchford

Some people honor Christopher Columbus as the discoverer of America while others consider him an intruder and still others believe him to be a poor navigator unduly honored. I do know he closed the post office and the bank today!
It is quite common for people to have different perceptions of other people. One might view the Dallas Cowboys as America's team but others believe such a thought to be absurdly arrogant. Some folks perceive Democrats to be careless spenders while others understand Republicans to be selfish.
When it is all said and done, the issue is not how people perceive you but how the Lord perceives you - "...For the LORD does not see as man sees; for man looks at the outward appearance, but the LORD looks at the heart."
(1 Samuel 16:7).

Giants tweaking rotation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Giants manager Bruce Bochy is planning to tweak his rotation for the NL championship series, moving up left-hander Jonathan Sanchez to go Game 2 against the Philadelphia Phillies following ace Tim Lincecum.

Bochy said he would do so to break up the two right-handers — Lincecum and Matt Cain, who now is set to pitch Game 3 back in San Francisco on Tuesday.

"It gives Matt the home opener here," Bochy said Wednesday before his team's workout at AT&T Park on an unseasonably hot 90-degree fall day in the Bay Area. "That's the way we're leaning right now. We have confidence in both of them but we really think to break up the righties and lefties there is a better way to go."

Game 1 is Saturday night at Citizens Bank Park with the highly anticipated matchup between Lincecum and Roy Halladay, who pitched a no-hitter in the division series.

"It's going to be fun," Giants third baseman Pablo Sandoval said. "They have one of the best pitchers in the National League and we have one of the best pitchers on our team."

Lincecum is coming off a two-hit gem with 14 strikeouts in his playoff debut in Game 1 of the division series against the Atlanta Braves. Sanchez is penciled in to pitch Sunday's Game 2 against the two-time defending NL champions.

"We'll see what happens these first two games.

It's going to be a hyped-up crowd," said Lincecum, who faced the Phillies in his major league debut on May 30, 2007. "They're the team to beat. They've been there before and they're there again."

Bochy said rookie Madison Bumgarner, who beat the Braves in the division series clincher Monday at Atlanta, is a candidate to pitch Game 4 depending on where the series stands.

If anybody can help the Giants get ready, it's Pat Burrell. The left fielder, who signed a minor league deal in late May and joined San Francisco after a short stint with Triple-A Fresno, spent his first nine major league seasons with the Phillies — and won a World Series ring in Philly two years ago. Burrell was the No. 1 overall draft pick by the Phillies in 1998.

"There were a lot of expectations, I remember, but no more than I put on myself," Burrell said. "I had some years when I struggled and I had some good years. It was never up to me to decide if I lived up to the expectations. My job was to go play and be accountable for it. I felt like I did that."

Burrell joined the Tampa Bay Rays last season and they released him this spring. Burrell has made the most of his second chance way out West.

The 34-year-old Burrell batted .266 with 18 home runs and 51 RBIs in 96 games for the Giants, playing a key role in the club ending a six-year playoff drought.

the number of hits the Lady Buffs got during the state championship game against Blue Ridge.

The Lady Buffs have lost some key players heading into next season, plus they're going up a class. But head coach Shanna Roberts believes Forsan still has a chance to stay successful.

"It's a goal for us to keep achieving," she said. "This group was very special and I'm so glad the girls came back and got to share this.

New rules on complaining an adjustment for Celtics

NEW YORK (AP) — Jermaine O'Neal believed he had the right to question a referee.

By the time he realized he was wrong, Kevin Garnett was being thrown out for doing the same thing.

The Boston Celtics met their first obstacle in the road back to the NBA finals on Wednesday, and it wasn't old age or another team in the Eastern Conference.

It's the referees. More specifically, the guys who instruct the refs on what to call.

Officials will be issuing more technical fouls this season for player complaints, and the Celtics will have to adjust quickly or risk giving away free points to their opponents.

"It's going to be a long year," O'Neal said. "A lot of techs, lot of stoppage of play."

The Celtics were whistled for three technical fouls in their 104-101 victory over the New York Knicks on Wednesday. O'Neal was hit with one for questioning a call.

Liverpool ownership tussle returns to UK court

LONDON (AP) — Liverpool's ownership battle returned to the High Court on Thursday, with lawyers questioning the validity of an injunction granted a day earlier by a Texas judge blocking the club's sale to the owners of the Boston Red Sox.

American owners Tom Hicks and George Gillett Jr. obtained a last-minute court order in Dallas on Wednesday stopping the $476 million sale to New England Sports Ventures — just as the Liverpool board was set to approve it.

Richard Snowden, a lawyer representing Royal Bank of Scotland — which controls Liverpool's debts and has been trying to get the sale approved — told the High Court that the Texas ruling was "inappropriate" and should have no bearing on the case.

"The Texas court seems to have been told remarkably little about the proceedings in this court," Snowden said.

"This is the most outrageous abuse of process. ... The proceedings in Texas are plainly inappropriate.

"This dispute concerns an English football club and their English companies. It has nothing to do with Texas other than the fact that Messrs. Hicks and Gillett may reside there."

Hicks and Gillett were not represented at the hearing.

The legal wrangling looked set to continue on both sides of the Atlantic, as the court was then told that lawyers for Hicks and Gillett were back in the Texas district court arguing that the Liverpool board meeting held Wednesday was in contempt of the judge's injunction.

Anthony Grabiner, a lawyer representing the Liverpool board at the London hearing, called the Dallas court case "frankly preposterous."

"It reads like a novel," he said. "If it wasn't so serious, it would be a joke. ... It's a grotesque parody of the truth."

Hicks and Gillett turned to the Texas judge Wednesday after High Court Judge Christopher Floyd ruled against Hicks and Gillett in their attempt to block the sale. The duo called the attempted sale an "epic swindle" that undervalues the storied Premier League club and said they were suing for $1.6 billion in damages. A court hearing in Dallas is set for Oct. 25.

John Henry, the financier who heads NESV, attended the hastily called board meeting in London on Wednesday night hoping to quickly complete the sale. However, he left through a back entrance to the law firm offices in the early morning hours, ignoring reporters' questions.

Liverpool chairman Martin Broughton told Sky Sports News on Thursday that Hicks and Gillett are "trying every trick" to prevent the deal from going through.

Debts and liabilities resulting from Hicks and Gillett's leveraged purchase of the club three years ago have grown to around $453 million, which is owed to Royal Bank of Scotland and Wells Fargo by Friday.

Two others bids emerged this week — one from Singapore businessman Peter Lim and another from an American hedge fund Mill Financial. Hicks and Gillett said Wednesday there was also a bid from FBR Capital Markets for between $595 million to $635 million.

OUR VIEW

Be sure you help make a difference Saturday morning

What a difference a day makes! It's a tried and true adage, one that most of us have found to be true on a number of occasions. In fact, we've made that point more than once in this space over the year. And Saturday will once again be the time to make it true with our community by taking part in "Make A Difference Day."

What is "Make A Difference Day?"

Well, according to Keep Big Spring Beautiful Jo Ann Staulcup, "Make A Difference Day" is the fall "Trash Off" event for KBSB, an affiliate of Keep Texas Beautiful.

Who makes a difference?

We all do, or at least we can, Staulcup said, noting that volunteers are needed for the Saturday clean up effort.

"Most of our 'Don't Mess With Texas' trash off volunteers have been contacted and are going to be involved," Staulcup noted. "But, to 'Make A Difference' we need our whole community working.

"Anything that improves the community is any way qualifies for being involved in Make A Difference Day," she added. "Even things as simple as visiting shut-ins, offering a helping hand to someone in need or mowing a lawn for a neighbor are what we're talking about."

Staulcup is absolutely right. We as a community need to get involved Saturday and make a difference.

Choose your hours, and work as long as you like. And we would hope that every property owner or renter would take a look at their property, front and back. If something needs cleaning up or fixing, take the opportunity to do that work Saturday.

Groups can help to clean the park or the lake. Business owners can elect to touch up paint on signs and buildings, pick up trash in their alleys or simply sweep the entrances to their stores.

"Any activity beneficial to the community can make a difference," Staulcup stressed. "The community belongs to all of us. That means all of us share the responsibility to make it the best it can be. So, please, help us help ourselves."

And if you happen to be involved in a beautification project, KBSB officials ask that you take a picture, before and afterward so they can submit it with the application to Keep Texas Beautiful.

Those planning to work Saturday can go by the Dora Roberts Community Center, sign up and receive bags from 9 a.m. to noon Friday.

Remember, as you pick up trash Saturday morning, make sure to save aluminum cans and place them in a separate bag. Those cans can be recycled and provides a way for Keep Big Spring Beautiful to raise funds.

Other trash can be disposed at the most convenient dumpster, because unlike the spring "Trash Off" there will be no weigh-in of the trash collected.

And remember, regardless of how much or little time you have Saturday, take at least a little of it and help do something to clean up our community. It will not only give you a sense of achievement, but all our lives will be a little better as a result.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

May we ride high today, Lord, on Your heavenly inspiration.

Amen

Hispanic voters staying home

Considering the way many Republicans have treated Latinos lately — promoting racial profiling, immigrant-bashing and outright bigotry — Democrats thought the Hispanic vote would be served to them on a silver platter.

They knew that Latinos could be the swing vote in several important congressional midterm contests and gubernatorial races and that without the enthusiastic support of that crucial bloc in the Democrats' electoral coalition, there could be trouble. Yet watching how the Republicans kept bashing immigrants and expressing their fear of and disdain for Hispanic culture, who would have thought the Democrats would be worried about the Hispanic vote now?

Well, they are! And they should be!

They were right about how Republicans would be repelled by Latinos. A recent poll found that Hispanic voters overwhelmingly favor Democrats over Republicans, 62-25 percent — a Democratic advantage of 37 percentage points! And that margin gets bigger when Latinos are asked how they plan to vote Nov. 2. Nearly two-thirds (65 percent) of Latino registered voters said they will vote for Democrats in congressional races throughout the country, and only 22 percent plan to vote for Republicans.

But the Democrats were dead wrong to assume that Latinos will have no other choice but to vote for them. The same poll, released last week by the Pew Hispanic Center, found that though 70 percent of all registered voters are planning to cast ballots Nov. 2, only 51 percent of registered Latino voters are making such plans.

Nearly half of registered Latino voters are planning to stay home on Election Day — and that's clearly a reflection of their dissatisfaction with the Democratic Party.

In the media, we are told that Latinos are "less enthusiastic" or "apathetic" or "discouraged" by the slow pace of the change they have been promised by President Barack Obama and other Democrats, especially to reform our immigration system. But it's worse than that. While the anti-Latino and anti-immigrant forces are mobilizing like never before, many Latinos simply are giving up on the political process.

They are sick and tired of seeing how the Democrats use them when their votes are needed and then proceed to ignore them and take them for granted.

Across the country, Latinos are saying, "I'll be damned if I vote for Republicans, knowing how they have attacked my community." But some of them also are saying, "I'll be damned if I vote for Democrats, knowing how they have failed to defend us from those attacks."

In this election year, we have seen Republican conservative extremists take cheap shots at Latinos, and we have seen Democrats cowardly running in the opposite direction.

While many GOP candidates clearly are pandering to the most conservative factions of their party, the Democrats, instead of reaching out to the Latino voters they desperately need, are still reluctant to tackle issues such as illegal immigration, racial profiling, respect for diversity, language rights, birthright citizenship, bilingualism, etc.

Some Latinos can't decide what they find more offensive, the arrogance of many Republicans, who bash Latinos and still ask for their support, or the phony friendship of many Democrats, who ignore Latinos and still ask for their support.

Because of the Draconian anti-immigrant measures and other crazy ideas introduced by conservative Republicans in Washington, D.C., Arizona and many other parts of the country this year, there is no doubt the Democrats will benefit. Yet it will not be nearly as much as it would have been if they had taken the time — or found the courage — to show some leadership, at least on immigration reform legislation.

That's the issue that will make a huge difference on Election Day, the one that will drive many conservative xenophobes to vote for Republicans and many Latinos to stay home. It's the issue that could spell problems for Democratic candidates in several high-profile races, particularly in California, Florida, Nevada and other states where Latinos make up a significant chunk of the electorate.

Of course, Latinos will have a price to pay for having stayed home to punish the Democrats: Republicans will be further empowered to continue bashing the Hispanic community. So for Latinos, the midterm elections present a no-win situation.

Let's enjoy what we have!

You can't take it with you! This fact is often given as reason for enjoying what you have whether that is money or possessions. It's also all the more reason to make the most of life's moments and time spent with those important to you.

My inspiration for this column came after a conversation with my husband about money. We have different philosophies. Mine focuses on the joy of spending money.

Mind you, I don't think I'm frivolous with my spending. But I suspect my husband would disagree — at least some of the time. And perhaps I'm biased in my opinion.

I find it interesting that when I recall the many years of my childhood when money was scarce, my memories are not filled with worries or lack but with joy in everything that we had.

I remember many, many happy shopping excursions with my mom! The amount of money that was in the bank was never a focus of concern. That is, until I got married and had more money in the bank than I ever had growing up.

Whether we had one gift or dozens under our Christmas tree each year, the joy was not diminished or increased by the number. No matter how many new school outfits were purchased, my joy was the same. And along with all the joy, was gratitude for everything!

I always had a job during my high school years. And regardless of how much money I had to spend, I only remember the fun in Christmas shopping for my family. I have always found joy in how much I had, and I loved spending my money.

My mom has been the queen of making a little go a long way. She utilized lay-a-way plans when stores offered that service. She saved one month for purchases she wanted to make the next. When it came to clothes, she also mastered the skill of bargain shopping and mix-n-matching. And she has always had fabulous credit. But regardless of which method of spending money she practiced, there was an appreciation — and joy — for everything she was able to buy.

Money has never been the source of worry for her. If there was a need or a desire, she found a way — eventually — to fulfill it. So I grew up never worrying much about money.

I guess that's why I could head off to college without knowledge of how the tuition was going to be paid that first year, or even the years that followed. I never doubted there would be a way to pay my expenses — whether it would come from my mom saving money, or from me working, or from a grant or loan, money was never the source of my worries.

There comes a time after years of saving money, when we need to start enjoying the fruits of our labor. And now that my husband and I are well into our 50s, I say there's no better time than the present to begin doing just that!

Perhaps it was my mom's perspective on being thankful for everything that provided the key to our enjoyment of what we had.

So maybe with a grateful heart, we will not only enjoy what we have, we will have what we need. Or we'll be so happy with what we have, that we'll believe we have what we need. I think it worked that way for me and my mom.

These days I say instead of worrying about what you don't have, why not enjoy what you do! That's my philosophy!

MIGUEL PEREZ

And the winner is .. the Ole Miss Rebel Black Bear

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Students at the University of Mississippi have picked the Rebel Black Bear as their new mascot.

The bear will replace Colonel Reb, the goat-headed Southern gentleman banished from the sidelines nearly seven years ago as part of the school's effort to distance itself from symbols of the old South.

In 1997, Ole Miss ended the waving of Confederate flags at sporting events. Last year, the band stopped playing a fight song to discourage the fan chant, "The South will rise again."

Week 7: Buffs back in action

Hawley (1-6, 0-3 in district play) at Stanton (5-1, 1-1)

- 7:30 p.m. Friday, Stanton

STANTON — The Stanton Buffaloes are excited to get back on the field after a bye last week. It was an extra week to think about the tough 23-0 loss to Idalou, but head coach John Peterson said his players are rested and aim to get back on the winning track. Peterson said his players had a few days off to rest ailing bodies and they understand they're still in the middle of what is shaping up to be a tight District 2-2A Division II race.

The Buffs will look to stop Hawley's Wing-T and the stout defense hopes to get back on track after the loss to Idalou.

O'Donnell (1-5, 0-1) at Sands (7-0, 1-0)

- 7:30 p.m. Friday, Ackerly

ACKERLY — It seems like everything is leading up to showdowns against Grady and Borden County for the Sands Mustangs.

But head coach Wayne Henderson said he's keeping his players focused on Friday against O'Donnell to avoid any letdown.

The Mustangs have looked unstoppable at times, but Henderson said the true test comes against Grady next week and Borden County two weeks after that.

Henderson said he expected Grady and Borden County to be solid this season and those two games should determine what happens in the district.

But focusing on O'Donnell is key, especially without Blake Thommasson, who is out with an ear infection. Henderson said Thommasson will be missed on defense, because of his size.

Top-ranked Nadal upset by Melzer in Shanghai

SHANGHAI (AP) — Rafael Nadal failed to reach a quarterfinal for the first time this year, upset 6-1, 3-6, 6-3 by Jurgen Melzer in the third round of the Shanghai Masters on Thursday.

The top-ranked Nadal had never dropped a set to the Austrian in three previous meetings. The Spaniard defeated Melzer in the semifinals of the French Open this year en route to the title.

Nadal won the U.S. Open in September to become the seventh man in history to win all four Grand Slam tournaments. He was bidding for his eighth title of the season.

Melzer played aggressively from the start, hitting booming forehand winners and attacking Nadal's second serve to break him twice and capture the opening set in 40 minutes.

Nadal rallied in the second set, getting his first — and only — break of the match with a running backhand down the line that the Austrian dumped into the net.

The players held serve in the deciding set until the fifth game when Nadal shanked a forehand.

News in brief

All 33 Chilean miners, rescuers raised to surface in joyous end to 69-day ordeal

SAN JOSE MINE, Chile (AP) — The longest underground nightmare in history ended safely — and faster than anyone expected.

In a flawless operation that unfolded before a hopeful, transfixed world, 33 miners who were trapped for more than two months deep beneath the Chilean earth were raised one by one Wednesday through a smooth-walled shaft of rock.

The last man out was the one who held the group together when they were feared lost, a shift foreman named Luis Urzua who enforced tight rations of their limited food and supplies before help could arrive.

"We have done what the entire world was waiting for," he said immediately after his rescue. "We had strength, we had spirit, we wanted to fight, we wanted to fight for our families, and that was the greatest thing."

Not even a full 24 hours after the rescue began, Urzua made the 2,041-foot ascent in a rescue capsule called Phoenix and emerged from a manhole-sized opening in the ground to a joyous celebration of confetti, balloons and champagne.

Lenders foreclose on 288K homes in third quarter, but many could be challenged in court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lenders seized more U.S. homes this summer than in any three-month stretch since the housing market began to bust in 2006. But many of the foreclosures may be challenged in court later because of allegations that banks evicted people without reading the documents.

A total of 288,345 properties were lost to foreclosure in the July-September quarter, according to data released Thursday by RealtyTrac Inc., a foreclosure listing service. That's up from nearly 270,000 in the second quarter, the previous high point in the firm's records dating back to 2005.

Banks have seized more than 816,000 homes through the first nine months of the year and had been on pace to seize 1.2 million by the end of 2010. But fewer are expected now that several major lenders have suspended foreclosures and sales of repossessed homes until they can sort out the foreclosure-documents mess.

On Wednesday, officials in 50 states and the District of Columbia launched a joint investigation into the matter.

Rick Sharga, a senior vice president at RealtyTrac, noted that legal challenges are likely. But he doubts many will be successful in overturning foreclosures. He said he expects foreclosures to resume and predicts about 1 million homes will be taken back this year.

White House considers appeal of ruling on gays in military, leaving Pentagon policy in limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the Obama administration considers appealing a judge's order to stop the law prohibiting gays from serving openly in the military, some officers and service members say they are uncertain how to react.

The Pentagon said Wednesday it had not issued written guidance on the ruling, and commanders in the field said they did not know how to proceed on sensitive questions like pursuing existing investigations against gay service members.

Defense Secretary Robert Gates warned of "enormous consequences" for troops if the court order is allowed to stand, saying the decision on repeal of the law known as "don't ask, don't tell" should be decided by Congress and not the courts.

He has said he wants more time to prepare for a circumstance in which, for the first time, gay members of the military could declare their sexual orientation without fear of dismissal.

The Justice Department worked into the night Wednesday on its response to the California judge's ruling but gave no indication when there would be an announcement. Its first move may be to seek a stay, or temporary freeze, of the order. If that request is rejected, the department probably would turn to the federal appeals court in California.

AP Investigation: NYC paid nearly $1B over a decade to settle claims against NYC police

NEW YORK (AP) — The fiancée and friends of an unarmed man killed in a 50-bullet police shooting on his wedding day said they wanted justice. The legal system gave them money — more than $7 million.

The city did what it has done time and time again: pay.

Nearly $1 billion has been paid over the past decade to resolve claims against the nation's largest police department, according to an investigation by The Associated Press. Some smaller departments also shell out tens of millions a year in payouts, but New York's spending on police claims dwarfs that of any other U.S. city.

Taxpayers foot the bill — New York officials say the payments cost less than insurance would, and officers themselves don't usually bear personal responsibility.

The $964 million in payouts covers everything from brutality cases to patrol-car wrecks to stationhouse accidents, and it includes settlements and trial awards. Some police officers have been sued again and again — including one officer at least seven times on excessive force and brutality claims. Some law firms have made it their primary business to sue the city.

NATO: 3 troops killed in bomb blast in western Afghanistan; 9 dead in 2 days

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — A bomb blast killed three NATO troops in western Afghanistan on Thursday, a day after six service members died in a spate of attacks by insurgents in the east and south.

An improvised explosive device killed the three service members Thursday, an alliance statement said, without providing nationalities or giving a specific location where the incident occurred. American, Italian, Spanish, and Lithuanian forces are deployed in western Afghanistan.

In a bloody day for NATO troops in Afghanistan on Wednesday, insurgents killed six service members, including four who died in a single bomb blast in the volatile south of the country.

One service member was killed in the east in an insurgent attack and another died in the south in a separate roadside bombing — the weapon of choice for militants in countering a large-scale NATO-Afghan operation in the region.

More Americans choose to 'go green' with burials

GOLDENDALE, Wash. (AP) — Steve Sall moved forward on uneven, rocky terrain in his motorized wheelchair and came to a stop at the edge of a sweeping vista of ponderosa pines and bright pockets of yellow wildflowers.

Sall wanted to see the canyon he used to hike before Lou Gehrig's disease left him near death. Three months later, the 61-year-old Sall was laid to rest in the forest.

He would be among the small but growing number of Americans choosing environmentally friendly burials. The so-called "green burials" are a departure from the norm in that they don't use concrete vaults, metal coffins or any chemicals.

The Green Burial Council, an industry group that sets standards, now counts more than 300 approved providers in 40 states, while only a dozen existed as recently as the beginning of 2008.

And a March 2010 survey commissioned by the International Cemetery, Cremation and Funeral Association found a quarter of those polled liked the concept of environmentally friendly burials.

"We think of this as a new idea, but this is really an ancient idea we're returning to," said Joe Sehee, executive director of the New Mexico-based funeral council.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

In spite of the seriousness of the Capricorn moon, the Libra sun encourages us to come together in harmony, while other astral aspects add wonder and whimsy to the fun. Remember what one poet born on this day in 1894 said: "You are whatever a moon has always meant, and whatever a sun will always sing is you." — E. E. Cummings

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Your confidence will ebb and flow. Stay strong. Someone is watching and is very impressed by you — and you don't even know who it is. But if you had to guess, you would guess right. So guess!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You don't usually like to dwell on what's not working, but right now it's a good idea. You have to know what exactly the problem is in order to find an adequate solution.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Don't dwell on the possibility of bad consequences. For one, it is still too early to tell for certain whether the occurrence is actually negative or positive. Your luck is so mysterious these days.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You are too close to your own abilities to see how magnificent they are. What you consider crude and unskilled may be a masterpiece in someone else's eyes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Consider going where you're the one with the accent. You'll go from being just another competitor in a popular game to being well received as a newcomer who stands out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Beware of trying too hard to do things the right way. Maybe your shortcomings are actually making you more interesting. Whereas, someone whose work is too perfect could come off as rather boring.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You don't agree with everything your loved one says, nor do you believe you must earn his or her approval. Because you want this person's love without needing it, you are very attractive to them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). If you have a lot of great ideas, you won't need as much money as the next person. If you have a lot of money to work with, you won't need as much creativity. Be happy for your particular blend of resources.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). If business were easy, everyone would be rolling in the money. You expect it to be hard, and you push through. You have the stamina to surpass your predecessors.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). A couple of great decisions are not enough to ensure success. It's about consistent effort. You'll be establishing habits that support you in making the right choice again and again.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Meditation is like pushing a mental "reset" button. If you can't seem to sit quietly and empty your mind, try filling your heart with prayer or your head with affirmations. In short, do something to get centered.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). A powerful imagination is one of your gifts. Like a muscle, your creative abilities get stronger the more you use them. You'll help someone else by dreaming for them the dreams they can't see on their own.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 14). You step into your power this year, and your leadership will be a gift to others. Under your instruction, the team will bond together to complete an impressive task. Travel in November and July will be smooth sailing. January brings a makeover. Romantic notions become real life in March. Capricorn and Sagittarius people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 8, 3, 22, 39 and 14.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "I've been working on the same artistic project for five years. No one wants to buy it. I can't let it go. I feel that if no one wants to buy my creation, it means I've wasted my life. So I keep going back to it and working on it, developing it further, perfecting it. Maybe it's a bad idea to begin with. But I just can't move on. To me, that's like admitting defeat. What do you think? I'm a Libra born Oct. 3, 1965."

Your Libra eye for design is honed, and you have Mercury in Libra, too, so you emote in a way that many can understand and find pleasing. The Capricorn moon you were born under is a commercial influence. Within the exchange of funds is a validation that you find deeply important. Keep in mind that selling your work may have less to do with how good it is and more to do with how many people see it. Put as much work into the marketing of your work as you put into its formation. And remember that art isn't easy. For those who are driven to express themselves in a medium so subjective, a thick skin and plenty of tenacity are necessary qualities.

Alert Defensive Play

South dealer. North-South vulnerable.

NORTH ♠ A K Q 8 ♥ 8 2 ♦ 7 6 ♣ J 10 9 7 4	EAST ♠ 9 6 4 ♥ J 10 9 7 ♦ 9 8 5 4 ♣ 5 2
WEST ♠ J 10 7 2 ♥ 4 ♦ A K Q 10 3 ♣ K 8 6	SOUTH ♠ 5 3 ♥ A K Q 6 5 3 ♦ J 2 ♣ A Q 3

The bidding:
South 1♥ West Dble North North East
4♥ Redble Pass

Opening lead — king of diamonds. It is usually more difficult to defend a hand well than it is to play a hand well as declarer. Take this deal where West cashed the K-Q of diamonds against four hearts, then shifted to the deuce of spades. Declarer won with dummy's queen and played the A-K of trumps, learning that East had a sure trump trick coming. South correctly continued with the queen and another trump, whereupon East found himself on lead in this position:

A club return at this point seems normal, but East returned a low spade instead. It was this unusual play that quickly settled declarer's hash. South won with dummy's king, discarded a club on the ace of spades, and then lost a club finesse to West for down one. Had East made the more natural return of a club in the diagrammed position, South would have made the contract with proper play. He would simply have risen with the ace of clubs and cashed the 6-5 of hearts, squeezing West in spades and clubs to score the rest of the tricks. Most declarers claim they find it difficult to recognize and execute a squeeze. But it is even more of a challenge for a defender to recognize that a squeeze is imminent — as East perceptively did in this case — and then break it up by severing declarer's communication with dummy.

Tomorrow: Test your play. ©2010 King Features Syndicate Inc.

"CLASSIC" ANN LANDERS®

Editor's Note: Hundreds of Ann Landers' loyal readers have requested that newspapers continue to publish her columns. These letters originally appeared in 1999.

Dear Ann Landers: I believe many of your readers would appreciate some guidance in a rather sensitive area. Maybe I can offer some help. I read an article by Jacques Picard that really opened my eyes. I hope you will print it. — M.L.R., Lake Geneva, Wis.

ANN LANDERS

Dear M.L.R.: Thanks for thinking of me. The article you sent should prove helpful to a great many readers. Here are some highlights:

There are right and wrong things to say and do when a friend has lost a loved one. The most important thing, however, is to be there.

So many people don't know what is appropriate to say or do, so they don't say or do anything. Silence can be interpreted as indifference. This can be very hurtful to the person who is grieving.

Use common sense and tact. Make yourself useful. There are many ways that you can help. Ask if the bereaved needs you to do some errands — or needs to be driven somewhere. Help him or her keep a list of friends who have brought over casseroles or sent flowers, so they can be thanked appropriately later.

Listen. The best thing you can do is be present and listen. Don't try to find answers for a person when they need to find their own answers.

Be sincere. Speak from the heart. Don't offer cliches, such as "Things always work out for the best," or "He is at peace now."

Don't proselytize. While religion can be a great comfort, avoid talking about religion unless you know the person shares your beliefs. Let the person who is grieving lead the conversation, and encourage him or her to talk.

Share memories. Say the person's name. Talk about the happy times you had together. Repeating incidents that have a bit of humor can dispel the gloom — even at a funeral. No one will consider it sacrilegious. They will welcome the levity.

Stay in touch. This takes time and energy, but it will be greatly appreciated. Continue to check in with the grieving person for the first month or two, or longer, and offer to help. Remember the anniversaries and holidays — birthdays and the first anniversary of the death often bring the grief back. Call or ask if he or she would like company, or would be interested in doing something special, perhaps a visit to the cemetery. Your kindness will never be forgotten.
