Relay for Life kickoff scheduled for Nov. 30

By NANCY KOGER
 Special to the Herald

One of the most meaningful events of the year is preparing to break into action ... again.

The multi-month happening that finishes with an overnight family reunion, picnic, fun-fest, all with a serious purpose, is something that brings the diverse segments of Howard and Glasscock counties together. That event is the American Cancer Society Relay For Life, and its purpose is to raise funds to treat, fight and ultimately wipe out cancer. The community kickoff for this year's Relay is at First Baptist Church Family Life Center from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 30.

Those who have taken part in Relay before know the kickoff meeting is a pep rally to infuse new enthusiasm into already-formed teams, as well as encourage the formation of new teams, and to get ideas for interesting and original fund-raising. People who have never been involved in Relay may feel that it is "an insider's club" to which they aren't invited. Nothing could be further from the truth; anyone, old or young, can find a place working on Relay For Life.

An example of the inclusiveness of Relay is 12-year-old Mackenzie Kennedy, who earned a $1,000 money-raiser T-shirt two years ago. The fall edition of the ACS High Plains

Gail's star to light up Friday

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

GAIL — It's been 17 years since residents here first lit up the star on the side of Gail Mountain. Now, many can't imagine a Christmas season without it.

The lighting of the star, which serves as a kick-off to the Christmas season in Borden County, will be held at 7 p.m. Friday.

The event began in 1993, said Sarah Sharp, whose husband Ross designed the star.

"Some friends of ours had seen a similar star at El Paso and they came back and asked if we could build something like that," she said. "Ross said, 'Sure.'"

The star, which measures 20 feet by 20 feet and sits on a four-foot base, features 742 bulbs and can be seen for miles in almost every direction, Sharp said.

CFOT collections really coming in

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

Area residents are apparently doing a great job to ensure that U.S. troops stationed in combat zones overseas will have a merry Christmas.

Debbie Burrow, local coordinator for "Christmas For Our Troops," said response to the drive has been great leading up to the Dec. 1 deadline.

"Midland and Odessa are going to be pleasantly shocked when they find out how well we've done," Burrow said.

Burrow gave special recognition to the students of Kentwood Elementary, who, in addition to collecting four boxes full of gifts, also held a "penny war" competition between classes to raise money for the drive. More than $400 in pennies were collected, she noted.

"I'm sure the bank tellers really loved counting all those pennies," she said with a laugh.

But it's not just children who are donating to the drive, she added.

"One of the comments I received from a lady I met is that she sees the collection boxes everywhere — and that's a good thing," Burrow said. "It seems like every day that someone walks in and hands me a donation."

The drive is the brainchild of Midlander Scott Davis, who remains overall coordinator of the effort. From modest beginnings — the drive sent four boxes of gifts overseas in 2004 — response has grown dramatically.

Burrow said almost 2,000 were shipped to troops in 2009 and organizers are hoping for bigger and better things this year.

"This year, we hope to send 2,500 boxes to our troops in Afghanistan and Iraq," Burrow added.

There are more than 120 drop-off points across West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

Burrow said CFOT requests that individuals limit their donations to items that can be easily packed and shipped in 12-inch-by-12-inch-by-5.5-inch boxes. The size and quantity of each item should be appropriate for one individual to use or consume.

"The main thing we're concerned about is the size of the items," Burrow said. "These are going to the individual soldiers, not their units."

Among the requested donation items are:

- Over the counter medication such as Tylenol, Pepcid, Claritin, antibacterial ointment and soap, cough drops and eye drops.
- Toiletries such as deodorant, Kleenex, toothpaste and toothbrushes and Band-Aids.
- Food and powdered drink items, including cocoa, powdered Gatorade and lemonade, trail mix, sunflower seeds, nuts, beef jerky and raman noodles.

Christa Knowlton Gray

Christa Knowlton Gray, 62, of Big Spring died Sunday, Nov. 21, 2010, at her residence. Graveside funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 23, 2010 at the Peace Chapel at Trinity Memorial Park with the Rev. Carroll Kohl officiating.

She was born Oct. 20, 1948, in East Germany. She married Gaylon Calvin Knowlton on Nov. 11, 1966, and he preceded her in death Aug. 20, 1988. She then married Charles Gray on Feb. 3, 1993, in Big Spring.

Christa came to Big Spring in 1972 from Germany. She worked for Gamco Industry for 25 years as the shipping manager and then for the 7-11 Corporation for 10 years as a store manager, retiring Dec. 1, 2009. She enjoyed reading and computer games.

Survivors include her husband, Charles Gray of Big Spring; one son and daughter-in-law, Gaylon and Tyna Knowlton of Big Spring; three daughters and sons-in-law, Ginger and Randy Eggleston of Midland, Cheryl and Raul Castillo of Big Spring and Andrea and Robert Cansino of Lubbock; two sisters and a brother-in-law, Edith and Rudy Lange and Waltrault "Susie" Simoneit, all of Germany; two brothers, Werner Simoneit and Kurt Simoneit, both of Germany; nine grandchildren, Porscha and Paige Knowlton, James and Jesse Eggleston, M.J. and Breanna Castillo and Isabell, Alex Jr. and Ethan Cansino; and several nieces and nephews.

She was also preceded in death by her parents, Max and Erika Jeanch Simoneit; two sisters, Eva Simoneit and Inga Simoneit; and one brother, Beno Simoneit.

The family suggests memorials be made to Crossroads Hospice, 421 Main St., Big Spring 79720.

Arrangements under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home & Crematory of Big Spring. Online condolences can be made at: www.npwelch.com

Sue S. Willbanks

Sue S. Willbanks, 75, of Big Spring died Thursday, Oct. 7, 2010, in a local hospital. Sue's wishes were to be cremated and then interred next to her husband, C.W. "Wobbler" Willbanks. She also wanted to have her ashes scattered at Mt. Lemon in Tucson, Ariz., and Mt. Haleakala in Maui, Hawaii. Her wishes will be honored with her memorial service being held here in Big Spring at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 24, 2010, at the Peace Chapel at Trinity Memorial Park.

She was born Sept. 24, 1935, in Luling and married C.W. "Wobbler" Willbanks on Nov. 22, 1953, in Alpine. He preceded her in death Feb. 11, 1979.

Sue had been a resident of Big Spring for 30 years and had taught for 14 years. She had lived in Arizona for 22 years and Hawaii for five years before returning to Big Spring a year and a half ago.

Survivors include two daughters, Jill Willbanks of Big Spring and Kay Brooke-Willbanks and wife, Elizabeth Brooke-Willbanks, of Easthampton, Mass.; one granddaughter, Madison Rose Brooke-Willbanks of Easthampton, Mass.; and one grandson, Noah James Brooke-Willbanks of Easthampton, Mass.

She was also preceded in death by her parents, William and Melba Sutton, and many good friends.

The family suggests memorials be made to the Howard County Humane Society, P.O. Box 823, Big Spring 79721-0823 or to the C.W. "Wobbler" Willbanks Scholarship Fund at Sul Ross University, P.O. Box C-114, Alpine 79832.

of help in getting the star ready for its annual display. "Everyone from county employees to private community members to 4-H kids ... offers to help," she said. "It really is a community event."

Other events will be held in conjunction with the star lighting.

At 5 p.m., the Borden County Courthouse will be open to the public and refreshments will be served and the Borden County Museum also will open its doors for viewing and refreshments. Santa Claus will then arrive at 5:30 to take children's Christmas gift requests and pose for photographs.

Sharp said winners of home and Christmas ornament decorating contests will be announced and all entries will be on display. Hay rides and drawings for door prizes will be held throughout the evening.

Donations for "Christmas For The Kids" at Lubbock's Buckner's

Children's Home will be collected at the courthouse beginning that evening and through Dec. 9. Sharp said toys, clothing and personal hygiene products for children ages 2-18 will be accepted.

The holiday event may be fairly small in scope, compared to celebrations in larger towns, but Sharp said smaller doesn't necessarily mean inferior.

"It's all pretty laid back, but everyone seems to enjoy it," Sharp said. "It's become a sort of seasonal thing I couldn't imagine us not having."

Division newsletter, "Plains Talk," featured her story among those of other impressive Relayers.

"To honor Jennifer

(Dominguez - a very close family friend who lost her battle to breast cancer in 2008), MacKenzie has been fighting back through Relay For Life. MacKenzie raised $1,000 the first year she participated in Relay. The following year she raised $2,001 and, finally, this year she raised $6,500," said Angela, her mother.

How does a 12-year-old raise almost $10,000 in three years?

With her mother's help.

MacKenzie sold bracelets, wrote letters to family members and friends and spoke to local businesses. She has made and sold salsa.

"MacKenzie is always looking for new fundraising ideas, and she's already set her goal for the 2011 Relay," said Angela.

The invitation to come to the community kickoff is extended to everyone in Howard and Glasscock counties.

It's an opportunity to take part in fighting to rid the world of this life-threatening disease, while joining friends and neighbors in purposeful activities is open.

Necessities and fun items such as socks, batteries, DVDs and CDs, magazines and paperbacks, Christmas cards, knit gloves and caps, toys and Hoppe's No. 9 gun solvent. Used DVDs and CDs are welcome.

Burrow said the only items organizers weren't getting enough of were in the last category.

"If people will just stick to the list, that's what we want," she added. "As long as they do that, we'll be fine."

Cash donations will be accepted, either at Hardison Appliance or by mail to: CFOT, P.O. Box 10549, Midland 79702.

In addition, "Christmas For Our Troops" T-shirts are on sale for $20. All proceeds go to the drive.

Packages will be shipped Dec. 8 in order to be delivered by Christmas.

OTHER VIEWS

Consternation surely awaits our legislators

Warning to motormouths in the habit of cellphoning while driving: The Texas Legislature might be coming after you. But you aren't the only ones, judging from the earliest bills already drafted for the 2011 session.

As soon as filing opened this week, four House members and two senators jumped in with proposals to penalize using wireless devices while behind the wheel.

The legislators run the political gamut, from Democratic Rep. Trey Martinez Fischer of San Antonio to Republican Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland.

And this could be a public safety issue whose time has come even in a state where residents love their freedom on the road: The National Safety Council estimates that cell phone use increases the risk of a vehicle crash fourfold and that more than 1 million wrecks a year nationwide can be attributed to that distraction. ...

This is a session that will require wrestling a $20-some-billion deficit to the ground and re-drawing legislative and congressional voting districts, both potential powderkegs. ...

For example, Rep. Debbie Riddle, R-Tomball, started the filing with a quartet of bills aimed at mimicking Arizona's aggressive stance against illegal immigration: requiring a photo ID to vote; making illegal presence in the state a crime rather than the civil offense it is under federal law; having local governments enforce immigration laws; and mandating that public schools determine every student's citizenship when they enroll and report it to the Texas Education Agency.

Those are likely to prove so divisive that the rancor could drown out reasonable discussion about immigration-related proposals that might make sense.

For instance, several House Republicans, including Jane Nelson of Flower Mound, have introduced bills that would require government entities and their contractors to use the federal E-Verify system to make sure employees are authorized to work in the United States. It's worth discussing but might not get the thorough, thoughtful examination it should.

There are also other issues worthy of attention.

Sen. Wendy Davis, D-Fort Worth, has introduced measures that would improve conditions around Barnett Shale drilling sites and provide more oversight of the Texas Enterprise Fund and Emerging Technology Fund, two of Gov. Rick Perry's pet projects.

Rep. Pete Gallego, D-Alpine, and Sen. Rodney Ellis, D-Houston, again are pushing measures to improve photo lineups in criminal cases and require the recording of suspect interrogations. Similar bills passed the Senate in 2009 but never got a House floor vote.

And Rep. Marc Veasey, D-Fort Worth, wants to change the Texas Railroad Commission's name to the Texas Oil and Gas Commission because the agency these days regulates energy, not railroads.

You'd think a sensible name change would be a simple fix. But this is the Texas Legislature, where nothing is as simple as it seems.

Having a near-death experience

I had a heart procedure last week. The doctor, in trying to assuage my anxiety, told me that thousands of these procedures have been performed with no ill effects. He himself had done many. I told the doctor, "Yes, but for me it's a first!" Sure enough, it went smoothly . . . up until I coded. Dying is a new experience for me!

Many people describe that period of time, this "near-death experience", in crystal detail, almost with a longing for it. For me it was more like the movie "Chicken Run," where the not-too bright hen says, "I saw me whole life flash before me eyes . . . it was really borin'!"

I actually do remember some things. A voice trying to get me to come back from a place where I was resting. A place of warmth, of comfort, of rest. They say I came to with a frown. Is it any wonder?

The second time I have no memory of. But this whole experience got me to thinking. What do others experience during these so-named "near-death experiences"? Interestingly, people from all walks of faith report similar experiences, both good and bad. And for many, it changes them.

Some experience, like I did, a feeling of warmth, of comfort, of security. Others experience a bright light, or being surrounded by light. Some tell of seeing loved ones, who may be there as escorts. One personally told me she was blessed with such a feeling of love that she showered on others abundantly.

At the other end of the spectrum, only a few talk about a vastly different experience, where the light isn't good, the feeling isn't of comfort, and the place isn't inviting. Do they see a vision of Hell? One described an experience of approaching a "boundless flaming ocean."

Now, if you're like me, this is troubling theologically. The Bible tells us that we are not sent to Heaven or to Hell until the Day of Judgment. So, if not there, then where? Catholics talk about purgatory; others refer to limbo; Seventh Day Adventists say we sleep.

Catholics have named that time as purgatory, a place and time for purification. From the Catechism of the Catholic Church: "All who die in God's grace and friendship, but still imperfectly purified, are indeed assured of their eternal salvation; but after death they undergo purification, so as to achieve the holiness necessary to enter the joy of heaven."

A very broad definition of limbo is "a zone which exists between two definite places." The closest Biblical account for a "limbo" concerns "Abraham's bosom" and "paradise" in the parable of the rich man and Lazarus.

Some say we sleep; I Corinthians 15 seems to bear this out. But it also can be read where sleep equals death. One reason some favor this is because we can't be judged twice.

Revelation 20: 11-13 says that everyone is judged at that time on the Day of Judgment, "and they were judged, every one of them according to their deeds." It doesn't make sense that we die, are sent to Hell/Heaven, then brought back to stand judgment to again go to Heaven/Hell.

So, what do I believe happens at death? Are these visions of Welcome/Warning?

Death remains a mysterious mystery!

Next time I die, I'll tell you.

Feeling that patriotic schlunk

To me, the most patriotic day of the year is not the Fourth of July. It's not Veteran's Day. Nor is it Thanksgiving. It's Election Day. That's when I feel most American.

I love to vote. I find it thrilling.

I once wrote a column about the last time I voted against Richard Nixon (I loathed Nixon, but I suppose you've already inferred that):

"Yesterday I gave Richard Nixon his last schlunk and it was good.

"I went to the polls reconciled to the fact that, barring the biggest upset since Birnam Wood went to Dunsinane, Mr. Nixon was going to win re-election. The polls couldn't be that wrong. It was like coming to the end of a Charles Dickens novel and finding out that Uriah Heep gets the girl.

"But say what you will of us, we Nixon-haters are not bad sports. We accept the will of the majority without a whimper. And if God in His Divine Sense of Humor, wishes us to have four more years of what we've just had four years of, then so be it.

"All we ever asked for is the chance to cast our schlunk against the darkness and have it counted on the side of goodness and that's what we got.

"The schlunk as I pulled the handle to record my vote was especially reassuring for it marked the last time I shall ever be faced with Richard Nixon the candidate."

The "schlunk," of course, refers to the sound made by those old-fashioned, marvelous, massive voting machines of yesteryear, when voting meant stepping behind a curtain and pulling a lever.

They are no more, replaced by computers and glorified punchboards. Even worse, I voted by absentee ballot this year. Admittedly, it was easy. I sat at my kitchen table with research materials around me, studied the candidates and the issues, filled in the proper ovals, and mailed off the ballot.

Had it been raining on Election Day, I wouldn't have gotten wet. Had I business that took me out of town, I wouldn't have lost my vote. Had I fallen down stairs and hurt myself, I wouldn't have had to take heroic measures to cast my ballot.

Easy, convenient, virtually foolproof.

I hated it.

There's no juice in voting by mail. No zip. No passion. There's no schlunk.

Absent the catharsis of a schlunk, it took me a full week to get over the horror, rage and disgust inspired by this year's perfectly dreadful election. I'm OK now, even if I do burst into tears when I hear the words "Speaker John Boehner." Americans voted for change — from bad to worse. So be it.

What I really don't understand are the people who didn't vote.

I don't care if you didn't like the candidates. It's a two-party system. It's rare to find a candidate you completely agree with.

Pick the lesser of two evils; hold your nose, and vote. You can even pick a third party and throw your vote away. I wouldn't recommend it but at least you're voting.

My brother-in-law tells this voting story:

He was a Marine in the Pacific during World War II. Germany had fallen, and he and his buddies were being fitted with new uniforms for the invasion of Japan.

Estimates of the casualties expected in that invasion ranged up to one million dead.

Then news of the atom bomb being dropped on Hiroshima arrived. My brother-in-law said he'd never known such elation before or since. A few days later a second bomb was dropped and the war was over.

Three years later, President Truman was up for re-election and his prospects seemed dark. Thomas Dewey was going to win; everybody said so.

On Election Day, my brother-in-law got up before dawn so he could be first in line to vote for the man who saved his life. It was raining. And when he got there, there was a long line of young men wearing combat jackets, waiting to vote. They weren't waiting for Dewey.

Now that's voting.

Licking a stamp is not.

Aggies move up to No. 17

NEW YORK (AP) — Florida State moved back into The Associated Press football poll as Miami fell out, and for another week the Sunshine State avoided being without a team in the Top 25 for the first time since 1982.

With three of the top four teams taking the week off, the top of the poll was virtually unchanged Sunday. Oregon is No. 1, followed by Auburn, Boise State and TCU.

Only the Broncos played, beating Fresno State 51-0 on Friday night at home.

No. 5 Wisconsin flip-flopped with No. 6 LSU. No. 7 was Stanford, followed by Ohio State, Alabama and Oklahoma State at No. 10.

No. 22 Florida State (8-3) twice has dropped out of the rankings, but is back in after two straight victories. Miami has yo-yoed in and out of the Top 25 this season and Florida has also dropped out twice.

The Hurricanes (7-4) lost 31-17 at home to Virginia Tech on Saturday to fall out of the rankings for the third time this season.

Florida (7-4) dropped out last week after losing to South Carolina. Central Florida also spent a week in the rankings.

Since the final 1982 poll, which included no teams from the state of Florida, the Hurricanes, Gators and Seminoles have combined for a total 10 AP national titles.

Over the past four polls, no more than one of those perennial powerhouses has been ranked in the AP poll.

North Carolina State also moved back into the rankings at No. 21. The Wolfpack and Seminoles are in a tight race for the ACC's Atlantic Division title.

Southern California, another team that used to be a fixture but has been in and out of the rankings much of this season, dropped out after losing 36-7 at Oregon State.

Nebraska took the biggest fall this week, dropping from No. 9 to 16th after a 9-6 loss at Texas A&M. The Aggies are No. 17, while South Carolina, Nevada and Arizona round out the top 20.

Coahoma's Minnie Goodblanket goes up for a shot in the Bulldogettes' 50-41 win over Garden City Saturday.

Bulldogettes beat Garden City 50-41

BY ADAM COLEMAN

COAHOMA — Mitzi Bell got her first win as the Coahoma women's basketball coach and the Bulldogettes righted the ship after two losses to start the season.

Coahoma earned a 50-41 win over Garden City Saturday.

"I knew they were going to be tough because they had already played Forsan and Stanton both," Bell said of Garden City. "Of course Forsan and Stanton beat them. It just kind of set the pace for us for the year really, because I knew they had already competed against people in our district and I was excited to see how we were going to stand up to them as well."

Bell said what sealed the win for Coahoma was the clutch free-throw shooting down the stretch. The Bulldogettes hit eight free throws in the closing minutes of the game to stay ahead of Garden City.

Being able to dictate the pace of the game was key, too. Bell said her players are in good shape, so having a more up-tempo offense works.

Joanna Gonzalez and Jennifer Castilaw continue to impress, but Haley Pace in the post has been a nice surprise for Bell.

The Bulldogettes started the season with losses to Jim Ned and Reagan County, two of the better teams in the area. It doesn't get easier either, with Monahans at 6:30 p.m. today in Monahans.

Bell is sticking to her philosophy, though: playing better teams before district will help in the long run.

"We really looked at Jim Ned and Reagan County as success for us in a lot of ways even though the score didn't show it," she said. "It was preparing us to get ready for teams in our district. Coming off those losses and having these girls get a big win was huge for them."

Coahoma 50, Garden City 41

Garden City: Huerta 7, Hughes 4, Hirt 16, Schaefer 5, Hirt 7, Halfmann 2

Coahoma (1-2): Minnie Goodblanket 9, Joanna Gonzalez 17, Lynzi Serrell 9, Jessi Morgan 2, Haley Pace 9, Jennifer Castilaw 4

Garden City 7 7 12 11 --41
Coahoma 9 14 12 15 --50

Free throws -- Garden City 7-18, Coahoma 16-33. 3-point goals -- Garden City 4 (Hirt 3, Schaefer 1), Coahoma 4 (Gonzalez 2, Serrell 2). Total fouls -- Garden City 24, Coahoma 19. Fouled out -- Garden City Ramirez, Hirt, Coahoma Castilaw.

Howard women move to 8-0, depth becoming issue for men

BY ADAM COLEMAN

Sports Editor

For one night, and maybe many more nights to come, the Howard College women's basketball team showed why it's the best defense in the country.

The No. 18 Hawks took care of College of the Southwest junior varsity 85-27 Saturday in Big Spring, staying undefeated at 8-0 on the season. This came after undefeated at Lubbock Christian junior varsity 87-53 Friday in Lubbock.

The wins and the defense are nice, but head coach Earl Diddle wants to see his team continuously develop as conference play gets closer.

"It's how you play in the conference season," he said. "But we've got some really cooperative kids. We play well together defensively. We play as five people. We didn't extend our defense out very much. We pushed them back in tonight just because they were kind of outmanned."

The Hawks got off to a fast start, jumping out to a 28-9 lead in the first half. Howard College forced 11 turnovers on the way to that lead.

Diddle said the Hawks have a little bit of everything in their arsenal when it comes to defense — zone, man to man, etc. — and it's something he hoped would be his team's strength this season.

He said there is a lot of physical ability on this defense to be successful, but there is always room for improvement.

As far as scoring is concerned, no one has truly stood out and Diddle believes that is a good thing.

Porsche Young continues to emerge, Tasha Tubbs can hit the jumpers and Twyla Ards can drive to the basket.

There is no strong post presence like Jackie Bartleson, who is out with a knee injury. The Hawks, however, are handling her loss well though.

"Jackie gave us a real offensive threat inside, so now we've got our post that have to score," Diddle said. "But Jackie's got a very good touch inside. We miss that, but I'm confident the other players can pick it up."

Howard men

The weekend started off on a bad note and got worse for the Howard College men's basketball team.

The Hawks dropped a game to Collin County Community College 68-56 Friday and had serious injuries to Shavon Coleman and Joe Bright in the Grayson County College game Saturday in Denison.

But they still salvaged a 72-68 win over Grayson, something head coach Mark Adams is proud of.

"I was pleased with all the adversity we were dealing with from the loss and playing the home team on their floor," he said. "It was a good sign to see these guys fight through that."

In the game against Collin, Adams said the energy level was low and his team wasn't focused. Collin made the shots, played team basketball and on that night, were better than the Hawks.

Coleman suffered an injury to the head in the Grayson game and had to be taken to the hospital. He was released Saturday evening. Bright, one of the returning starters from last year's national championship team, may have a fractured ankle.

Adams said Coleman could be out for a week and Bright has no timetable for a return.

So now depth is even more of an issue for the Hawks. They lost three players due to discipline issues before the season started and were already spread thin.

have led the ace of clubs. But West led the jack of spades instead.

Belladonna won with the ace and guessed the trump finesse correctly when he played a low diamond to the ten at trick two. Had he now drawn the remaining trumps, he would have made the contract easily.

But Belladonna thought the trumps might be divided 4-1, and, in an effort to protect against this possibility, he led a low club from dummy at trick three! This was certainly not the best play on the actual layout, as he found out when East, Eddie Kantar, trumped the club, on which West played the four.

Kantar didn't know that his partner had the ace of clubs and that all he had to do was to cash his heart trick at this point. Instead, acting on the assumption that South had the ace of clubs, and hoping that West had the queen of hearts, Kantar led the deuce of hearts at trick four in a desperate attempt to reach West and obtain another club ruff.

Kantar's low-heart return would have been sensationally successful had the cards been located as he hoped they were. As it was, though, Belladonna put up the queen, drew the outstanding trumps and easily made the contract, losing only the club ace and a club ruff.

Tomorrow we'll see what happened at the second table when the U.S. held the North-South cards.

Five fun ways to get kids moving

(Family Features) Physical activity is essential for a healthy lifestyle. And now, more than ever, it's important to get kids engaged in physical activity for their long-term health. Decreased opportunities for exercise and increased consumption of calories are just part of the problem.

Recent studies have shown that 8- to 18-year-olds average 7 1/2 hours a day using entertainment media such as TV, computers, cell phones and video games. All of that has added up to 17 percent of all children in this country being obese.

That obesity rate, according to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), has tripled since just one generation ago.

Obese children and adolescents are at what the CDC calls an "alarmingly high risk" for elevated blood pressure, cholesterol, diabetes and for becoming obese adults.

Fortunately, there are things parents and caregivers can do to help reduce the risk of obesity for the children they love. One of the most important is to get them moving.

Most kids won't do something if it's not enjoyable, so here are five fun ways to get your kids moving and on their way to a healthier life.

1. Family Go Time: Doing things together sets a good example for the kids and creates some healthy family bonding. Put "Go Time" on the family calendar and let everyone come up with fun things to do such as: bike riding, a neighborhood hike, family tag, jumping rope, dancing, or hoola-hoop sessions.

2. Feet First: Instead of driving them everywhere, let them walk whenever possible — to school, to the library or to a friend's house. When you do drive, park at the far end of the parking lot, furthest from your destination. Encourage them to take the stairs instead of the elevator. Give them an inexpensive pedometer to help them track their steps each day.

3. Move for a Cause: There are many local charity events that involve physical activity. Walks, runs, bike rides and even jumping rope for charity are fun ways that kids can help others while helping themselves. Make sure they have plenty of time to train before the event and have the proper equipment they need.

4. Cool Competition: Whether it's soccer, volleyball, martial arts, dance or swimming, working with and competing against others develops good social skills along with physical ones. Don't have a league or a team in your area? You can always start one.

5. Go Natural: Kids don't need expensive equipment or a formal playing field to get moving. Let them run around the back yard and create their own fun. Encourage them to climb trees, use playground equipment or just play kick the can. Take advantage of the natural beauty of your area to go hiking, biking or rock climbing.

To help kids get more active and enjoy physical fitness, Sports Authority, Inc. has launched a national contest that taps kids' natural energy and creativity.

The Sports Authority Move It Challenge is a national invention competition designed to uncover exciting new youth-created sporting and backyard games.

A grand prize of $10,000 will be awarded to the winner, with four finalists each receiving $1,000.

The contest runs through January 3, 2011 and is free to enter. To learn more, get inspiration and helpful tips at www.moveitchallenge.com.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

The day after a full moon can be like the morning after an all-night party. But don't worry, the sun moves into energetic Sagittarius to aid your cleanup mission. Address spills and messes, and handle emotional repairs. The moon in chatty Gemini will play last night's conversation in mental surround sound while you work.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You may spend part of the day playing out a war in your own head. Once you recognize that both armies are of your own making, you can stop the battle and give peace a chance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You are on the fence about a person, project or endeavor. Should you commit? And if so, how much of your time and resources are you willing to give? By day's end, you'll have good answers.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You don't have to like everyone you meet, but it just so happens that you will. You can't help it. You're determined to see the best in people, and they will make it easy for you to do so.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It will be a little too easy to get caught in the tangles of negative thinking. That's why you can't risk hanging out with people who bring you down. Turn up the lights, put flowers in a vase, and go where people are laughing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Contact with others will be fun and easy, as almost everyone can relate to who you are. You are driven by a higher purpose to connect with certain people, and it is effortless for you to do so.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You take responsibility before it is assigned to you. This is generally a mark of high character, but you must be careful, too. There is a fine line between helping and meddling. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). No one in the world needs to eat a creamy, sugary dessert, but needing it is not the point. If it delights you, it just may be healthier for you than it looks. You can afford to be a little bit frivolous now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Do what it takes to keep your confidence high. Take stock in your assets, give yourself props, and surround yourself with great people. If you let yourself doubt, you'll be out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You are forever branching out. Your courage and range is impressive, and yet there are still some days when it's better not to be quite so adventurous. Today, stick with what you do best.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). We all live in our own separate psychological bubble. Though a loved one does share some of your reality, he or she cannot share your reality completely. Explain yourself and how you see things.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You will offer your opinions sparingly if at all today. There's a wise, intuitive part of you that knows when it's appropriate and advantageous to back off and quiet down.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). The thoughts that fill your head are not necessarily the truth. But if you take them seriously, your reality will form in a way to match up with those thoughts and make them true.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 22). You draw people in with your stellar sense of humor, and you're constantly surrounded by fun and laughter. You don't have to pursue love; it comes for you. December brings meaningful work. There's a move or a new job in March. Hobbies take you to interesting places in April. Family celebrations fill the summer. Cancer and Aries people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 30, 14, 33, 20 and 18.

Cowboys cruise by Lions

BY JAIME ARON

AP Pro Football Writer

ARLINGTON — The punt was bouncing into the end zone and Detroit's John Wendling played it perfectly, leaping just before the goal line and tapping the ball toward the field. For the fourth time this game, the Dallas Cowboys were about to be pinned inside their 5-yard line.

Only this time, the ball took a waist-high hop, right into the hands of Dallas' Bryan McCann. And the speedster knew exactly what to do with it.

"I saw the edge," he said, "and kept running."

McCann returned the batted punt 97 yards for a touchdown, putting the Cowboys ahead and sparking them to a 35-19 victory Sunday.

Jon Kitna added three touchdown passes for Dallas in its first win at home this season and improved to 2-0 under interim coach Jason Garrett.

The new boss has it all figured out. Just make sure the ball finds a way to McCann and victory follows. The previous week, this undrafted rookie who was on the practice squad at the start of the month returned an interception 101 yards for a pivotal touchdown in a stunning road victory over the Giants.

Now he's come through again, breathing life back into the club when it was down by five points and starting to fall apart — "seeing the Grim Reaper," as team owner Jerry Jones put it.

Better still, it happened because McCann understood the rule. Once a ball is touched by the kicking team, there's no downside to the return team trying to advance it. Even if they fumble it away, they would get the ball back where it was first touched.

"I was tired of seeing the offense start out at the 5 all day, so really I just wanted to make something happen," McCann said. "Everybody wants to be the guy to make that play and it just felt good to be able to do it two weeks in a row."

Replays showed McCann may have gone out of bounds about 30 yards before scoring. But the replays were slow in coming, so Detroit (2-8) didn't challenge.

Given a 14-12 lead, the Dallas defense pried away a turnover two snaps later. Then an offense that had been in a huge funk turned into a scoring machine, getting touchdowns on three straight drives.

Kitna threw short touchdown passes to Miles Austin on the next two series, then the 38-year-old backup capped the following possession with a 29-yard TD run; it was the longest jaunt of his 14-year career.

"You just keep on running 'til they get there," Kitna said.

From McCann's timely plays to Kitna finding the fountain of youth, everything seems to be clicking for the Cowboys (3-7) since Garrett took over.

"When you are looking for crumbs, it doesn't take but a little piece to get you to smile, and these (wins) have been a couple of nice little pieces," Jones said.

Next up for Dallas is the challenge of back-to-back games against last season's Super Bowl opponents — the Saints at Cowboys Stadium on Thanksgiving, then at Indianapolis.

Detroit is headed home for Thanksgiving still lugging its woeful NFL record for road losses: 26 in a row, and counting.

Romo throws for 1st time since breaking collarbone

ARLINGTON (AP) — Cowboys quarterback Tony Romo has done some light throwing for the first time since breaking his left collarbone four weeks ago. Team owner Jerry Jones says Romo threw on the field before the Cowboys' 35-19 victory Sunday over the Detroit Lions when backup quarterback Jon Kitna threw three touchdown passes and ran for another score.

After Romo was hurt Oct. 25 against the New York Giants, the team said he wouldn't need surgery but would be out six to eight weeks. So he could still miss another two games or more.

Jones indicated that there would be X-rays on Romo, but that any decision on the quarterback's return will "be how he's feeling."

Dallas (3-7) has won consecutive games for the first time this season.

Holmes' score gives Jets win over Texans

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Nailbiting, racing hearts and stunning comebacks.

They're all in the playbook lately for the New York Jets.

Santonio Holmes caught a 6-yard touchdown pass from Mark Sanchez with 10 seconds left, lifting the Jets to an unlikely 30-27 comeback victory over the Houston Texans on Sunday.

"I want to apologize to all the Jets fans for affecting the heart a little bit," coach Rex Ryan said. "But we'll take the win."

Especially since it appeared the Jets were on their way to a heartbreaking loss.

"We don't think we're ever out of it at all," tight end Dustin Keller said. "We tick ourselves off when we put ourselves in those situations, but we know that we're always capable of coming back in any game in any situation."

They've certainly proven that during the last three weeks with consecutive overtime wins on the road and now a victory that appeared improbable.

"I swear it's like 'Groundhog Day,'" a beaming Sanchez said.

After blowing a 16-point lead in the fourth quarter, the Jets (8-2) trailed 27-23 with less than a minute left. But Sanchez completed two passes to LaDainian Tomlinson and then had a pretty 42-yard toss to Braylon Edwards with 16 seconds remaining. Edwards was knocked out of bounds by Eugene Wilson, stopping the clock and giving the Jets a chance to win.

On the next play, Sanchez coolly found Holmes streaking into the left corner of the end zone for the winning score, sending the New Meadowlands Stadium crowd into a frenzy.

Pats edge Colts 31-28

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. (AP) — Tom Brady passing, Danny Woodhead running — and tackling. An unbeatable combination, even for Peyton Manning.

Brady was brilliant for the second straight week, outdueling Manning in their annual meeting, a 31-28 New England victory Sunday over Indianapolis. Coming off a 350-yard, three-touchdown performance against Pittsburgh, Brady had only six incompletions in 25 passes and threw for two TDs.

Woodhead, picked up when the Jets cut him in September, scored on a weaving 36-yard burst, showing power, speed and agility. Seconds after his brilliant run, Woodhead made a sensational tackle on the ensuing kick return, drawing as many cheers as he did while scooting into the end zone.

Brady not only beat four-time MVP Manning, the only other quarterback of the last decade in his class, but tied another QB icon for an NFL mark. Brady has won 25 straight regular-season home starts, equaling Brett Favre's record when he was with Green Bay.

The win kept the Patriots (8-2) tied with the Jets atop the AFC East; they meet in two weeks.

Indianapolis (6-4), which has faced New England eight straight seasons, staged a spirited fourth-quarter comeback. But Manning was picked off by James Sanders in the final minute.

Indy had beaten the Patriots in five of the last six matchups. The Colts, who won their first 14 games a year ago en route to the AFC title, lead the AFC North. But they're so banged-up — they were without five key players Sunday — that considering them a Super Bowl contender right now might be a reach, even with Manning's magic.

Manning finished 38 of 52 for 396 yards, four TDs and three interceptions.

He got the Colts within 31-28 with 4:46 left on an 18-yard pass to Blair White, who earlier in the fourth period caught a 5-yard TD toss.

And Manning brought them within range of a stunning win before Sanders' pick.

Manning's inaccuracies early on were costly. He misfired high several times, including a throw to Blair White that sailed directly to safety Brandon Meriweather. A 39-yard runback set up the Patriots at the Indy 32 and, four players later, Brady hooked up with Wes Welker over the middle for a 22-yard score.

Unable to apply any pressure on Brady, the Colts' defense then was torn apart on a 15-play, 82-yard drive capped by Aaron Hernandez's 8-yard TD catch.
