The Walkers — Baylor, Jamie, Shawn, Lyndee and Mason — will be honored as the Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas Family of the Year during a banquet set for 6 p.m. Thursday at Green Tree Country Club in Midland.

Walkers honored, humbled to be named Family of Year

By AMANDA MORENO

Staff Writer

Family of the Year is a designation Baylor and Jamie Walker of Garden City never expected to receive, but they are honored, none the less.

The Walkers have been named the Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas Family of the Year for this area.

"We can think of many other

The Walkers have three children, Shawn, Lyndee and Mason. The family has been a part of the Garden City community for 12 years, as well as members of First Presbyterian Church.

"We are simply trying our best to raise three children and make the right decisions," Walker said. "Sometimes we do well and sometimes we fail, just like any other family."

Patty Pisklak, development director of Samaritan Counseling Center, said families are nomion commitment to each other, community service and their

"The Walkers were recognized because they are very active in the community, in the church and they are obviously very committed to each other," Pisklak

The family will be recognized with three other families — Jim and Tammy Smitherman of Midland, Dr. Griffin and Donna Jones of Odessa and Boby and Joyce Zap of Andrews —

A change of guard will take place when the Big Spring Economic Development Corporation holds its monthly meeting at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday in the chamber of commerce board room.

"On top of our routine business, we will be installing two new members and go through the election of officers," said Terry Wegman, BSEDC executive director. Incoming board members Scott MacKenzie, an officer at American State Bank, and Jim DePauw, a CPA and Howard College professor, will be installed. Outgoing

District seeking alternate sources

By STEVE REAGAN

Staff Writer

Like most West Texans, Big Spring Independent School District officials are wondering what to do if the area's water supply starts drying up. BSISD has begun looking at alternative sources of water just in case this area's severe drought continues and current supply sources become unreliable. Assistant Superintendent Danny Ferrell said the district is looking at a variety of options,

Big Spring man's conviction affirmed

By THOMAS JENKINS

Staff Writer

A Big Spring man convicted of aggravated sexual assault of a child and sentenced to 45 years in prison in late September 2009 recently had his conviction affirmed by the 11th District of Texas Court of Appeals. Jon Paul Proctor, 34, formerly of 1804 Dixie, was indicted on charges of aggravated sexual assault of a child (two counts, both first-degree felonies) by a Howard County grand jury in late July 2009. Proctor was later convicted of aggravated sexual assault of a child charges Sept. 30, 2009, in 118th

Proctor

District Court following approximately one hour of deliberation by the jury hearing the case. Proctor was convicted of forcing a girl under the age of 14 to perform a sex act on him on or about Aug. 27, 2008. He had been indicted on two counts of aggravated sexual assault of a child stemming from the incident, but was cleared by the jury on one count. He had faced a maximum sentence of 99 years or life in prison. Proctor must serve half his sentence before becoming eligible for parole. Proctor was represented by Midland attorney Tom Hirsch.

According to the appeal filed on Proctor's behalf, the defendant "asserts in two issues that (1) the trial court erred in failing to grant his motion to suppress evidence and (2) the evidence is factually insufficient to support the conviction."

The memorandum opinions were issued by Chief Justice Jim Wright from a panel including Wright, Justice Terry McCall and Justice Eric Kalenak, upholding the conviction.

ranging from drilling water wells to installing artificial turf, to keep its athletic fields in shape. "We're looking toward next year," Ferrell told school trustees last week. "If city water is not going to be available to us, we need to find ways to maintain our fields." Taking a page from recent efforts at Howard College, BSISD is exploring the possibility of drilling wells at two locations — near the baseball field at Eighth and Owens streets, and adjacent to Blankenship Field, situated immediately east of the high school.

"Hopefully, those wells would take care of the baseball field, our practice field and Blankenship," Ferrell said.

The college recently drilled six water wells at the Birdwell Lane campus to provide water for watering athletic fields IN-HOME SENIOR CARE SERVICES and incidental transportation.

and other non-drinking purposes, and water from those sites could end up helping BSISD, also, Ferrell noted.

"I talked to people at the college, and they think they have enough water to let us tap into their supply so we can water the field at Memorial Stadium," he said.

Another option officials discussed Thursday was the installation of artificial turf at Memorial Stadium, although no cost estimates have been obtained at this point.

A major potential stumbling block for putting down artificial turf at Memorial is potential accessibility issues.

Ferrell said it is unclear at this point if installing artificial turf would mean the district would have to address accessibility issues at the stadium as well, which would drive up costs substantially. "I've talked to two people about that, and I've received two different answers," he said.

Water issues will be revisited at future school board meetings, but Ferrell said decisions will have to be made in a timely fashion.

"We are very concerned about keeping our fields in playing shape," he said. "Without adequate water, that will be very difficult to do."

Gold-medal school fights obesity

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) Five-year-olds dance hip-hop to the alphabet. Third-graders learn math by twisting into geometric shapes, fifthgraders by calculating calories. And everyone goes to the gym — every the middle of America's heartland, a small public school, Northeast Elementary Magnet School, has taken on a hefty task reversing obesity.

And it's won a gold medal for it, becoming the first elementary school in the country to receive that award from the Alliance for a Healthier Generation. The Alliance was founded by the American Heart Association and the William J. Clinton Foundation to reduce childhood obesity. Only two other schools have taken the gold.

The cafeteria here serves fresh fruit and veggies, low-fat or no-fat milk, no sodas or fried foods and no gooey desserts. There are no sweets on kids' birthdays and food is never used as a reward. Teachers wear pedometers and parents have to sign a contract committing to the school's healthy approach.

Northeast Elementary is not in some posh, progressive suburb. It's in Danville, Ill., an economically struggling city of 30,000 in farm country some 150 miles south of Chicago. But teachers, parents and students have embraced the rigorous curriculum and kids even call it "fun."

From the outside, it's a drab 50's-era yellow brick building in a bluecollar neighborhood of modest frame homes, a few blocks from a homeless shelter and a Salvation Army donation center. Inside, it's a cheerful oasis for almost 300 kids and has caught the attention of some of the nation's biggest obesity-fighting advocates.

Former President Bill Clinton says the steps Northeast has taken are an exemplary way to tackle "a terrible public health problem."

"We will never change it by telling people how bad it is. We've got to show people how good it can be," Clinton said, paraphrasing a colleague at the Alliance's June awards ceremony in Little Rock, Ark.

Northeast's strict, nogoodies program might

Halloween Safety

Check out these safety tips to make Halloween a real treat for pets.

 Entertaining Home: Is your dog easily spooked? Even the friendliest pet may be alarmed to find a ghost or witch at the front door. Pet parents can help eliminate unwelcome surprises by establishing a safe, pets-only room in the house. This may also provide some comfort to those trick or treaters who are uncomfortable around pets.

"Before having pets join in the Halloween festivities, it's important to assess whether your pet will be comfortable participating or if the festivities may cause your pet undue stress," says Dr. Robyn Jaynes, DVM, Pet Care Expert at PetSmart. "If you have a young or senior pet or one that is shy around others, it's better to give them a quiet space away from all the activity or host a small family celebration, where they'll feel more comfortable." Pet Friendly Treats: Chocolate is particularly tempting for pets, but it can make them seriously ill. Pet parents should keep all Halloween candy out of pets' reach. Pet parents can choose a treat that will help their pet celebrate Halloween and have health benefits, such as Greenies Dental Chews, which help keep dogs' and cats' teeth clean and breath fresh.

• Safety First: Is your pet ready to step out on the street? Reflective leashes, collars and ID tags with flashing lights are essential accessories to any pet Halloween costume. Pets should also have proper identification that includes their pet parent's coninformation. Finally, make sure that an adult is holding the leash, and that the pet is at ease around strangers and crowds.

But they still jump enthusiastically to the alphabet song, and though chubbier kids struggle to run around the football field during gym class, there doesn't seem to be much grumbling.

Physical education teacher Becky Burgoyne said it's sometimes tough to get kids of "all different shapes and sizes" to be physically active.

"I just ask that students do their best and improve on what they can already do, Burgoyne said.

Some schools "may have physical education twice a week, once a week, and that's not acceptable. Children

The percentage of overweight kids at Northeast increased in 2009, the program's third year, but dropped slightly last year, to 32 percent; 17 percent are obese. Those are similar to national figures, Cheryl McIntire said. With only three years of data, it's too soon to call the slight dip in the percentage of overweight children a trend. But she considers it a promising sign.

Some hands played in the annual world championship prove to be downright embarrassing to the participants. For example, take this deal from the 1973 match between the Dallas Aces, who were the defending champions, and another U.S. team that included Paul Soloway and John Swanson.

When Soloway and Swanson were North-South, they got to four spades, making seven, in the manner shown. And when Bobby Wolff and Bob Hamman of the Aces were North-South, they bid the hand exactly the same way and also made

There was no strong feeling at the time that either pair had done anything wrong by raising three spades to four, even though the odds in favor of making seven on the North-South cards were about 3-to-1.

The shortcomings in the bidding methods of the two U.S. pairs were soon made apparent when the Italian team played the same hand against Indonesia in another match. With Benito Garozzo and Giorgio Belladonna of Italy North-South, the bidding went:

Indy 500 winner Dan Wheldon dead after massive 15-car wreck sends cars flying at Vegas race

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Every race car driver heads onto the track understanding this race could be the last and hoping it won't be.

On Sunday, IndyCar drivers got a harsh reminder when the worst happened to one of their own.

Two-time Indianapolis 500 winner Dan Wheldon died when his car got caught up in a 15-car pileup, sailed over another vehicle and smashed into a catch fence at IndyCar's season-ending race at Las Vegas Motor Speedway.

"Things happen in this kind of racing," said

Wade Cunningham, also caught up in the wreck. "It's so close. Not much room for error. I was near the front of what caused all this, so I'm not thrilled about it. At this point, whose fault it was is kind of immaterial."

counter the influence on society by those who hold the purse strings of the world's economies.

The expanding occupation of land once limited to a small Manhattan park in the shadow of the rising World Trade Center complex continued through the weekend, with hundreds of thousands of people rallying around the world and numerous encampments springing up in cities large and small. For the most part, the protest action remained loosely organized and there were no specific demands, something Legba Carrefour, a participant in the Occupy D.C. protest, found comforting on Sunday.

"When movements come up with specific demands, they cease to be movements and transform into political campaign rallies," said Carrefour, who works as a coat check attendant despite holding a master's degree in cultural studies. "It's compelling a lot of people to come out for their own reasons rather than the reasons that someone else has given to them."

The demonstrations worldwide have emboldened those camped out at Manhattan's Zuccotti Park, the epicenter of the movement that began a month ago Monday. But there is conflict too. Some protesters eventually want the movement to rally around a goal, while others insist that isn't the point.

In swing state tour, Obama to urge Congress to get to work this week on pieces of jobs bill WASHINGTON (AP) — President Barack Obama will urge Congress to get to work this week on passing pieces of his larger, now-defunct jobs bill during a three-day bus tour through North Carolina and Virginia, two southern states that could be critical to his re-election campaign.

The two-state swing, which kicks off Monday in Asheville, N.C., is Obama's latest attempt to combine campaigning for his jobs bill with campaigning for his re-election.

While he has pledged to travel the country pitching his plans to get Americans back to work, his stops have focused heavily on political swing states, underscoring the degree to which what happens with the economy is tied to Obama's re-election prospects.

The bus tour comes as the fight over Obama's jobs proposals enters a new phase. The president's efforts to get his entire $447 billion bill passed were blocked by Senate Republicans, leaving Obama and his Democratic allies to push for the proposals contained in the bill to be passed piece by piece.

That means the president's rallying cry this week could go from "Pass this bill" to "Pass these bills."

"Although Congress is adopting a piece-by-piece approach, the president believes that every single piece should pass, and that at the end of the day we should have all of the components of the American Jobs Act passed through the Congress so the president can sign them, even if that means that he has to sign multiple pieces of legislation," White House spokesman Josh Earnest said.

Answers still vary as to what senior CIA clandestine officer is doing at NYPD WASHINGTON (AP) — Three months ago, one of the CIA's most experienced clandestine operatives started work inside the New York Police Department. His title is special assistant to the deputy commissioner of intelligence. On that much, everyone agrees.

Exactly what he's doing there, however, is much less clear.

Since The Associated Press revealed the assignment in August, federal and city officials have offered differing explanations for why this CIA officer — a seasoned operative who handled foreign agents and ran complex operations in Jordan and Pakistan — was assigned to a municipal police department.

The CIA is prohibited from spying domestically, and its unusual partnership with the NYPD has troubled top lawmakers and prompted an internal investigation.

His role is important because the last time a CIA officer worked so closely with the NYPD, beginning in the months after the 9/11 attacks, he became the architect of aggressive police programs that monitored Muslim neighborhoods.

With the earlier help from this CIA official, the police put entire communities under the microscope, according to internal police documents, based on ethnicity rather allegations of wrongdoing.

It was an extraordinary collaboration that at times troubled some senior CIA officials and may have stretched the bounds of how the CIA is legally allowed to operate in the United States.

Analysis: At King dedication, Obama draws parallels between his struggles and King's WASHINGTON (AP) — Standing beneath the looming presence of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., President Barack Obama carved out his own version of black leadership with a message of racial unity.

A sense of inescapable blackness surrounded Sunday's dedication ceremony for the King memorial. The 30-foot-tall granite likeness is the first on the National Mall to honor an African-American, joining memorials for two white presidents who owned slaves and a third who ended such bondage

Obama responded by stirring the loyalty of his restive black base while reaching to include all Americans, linking himself to King's "constant insistence on the oneness of man" and the slain leader's efforts to help not just black people, but all those in need.

He used the colorblind suggestion that Americans look at the hard times King conquered, and understand the challenge of navigating the troubles of today

"At this moment, when our politics appear so sharply polarized, and faith in our institutions so greatly diminished, we need more than ever to take heed of Dr. King's teachings," Obama said. "He calls on us to stand in the other person's shoes, to see through their eyes, to understand their pain."

Rangers face Cards in World Series

Albert Pujols and Josh Hamilton in a matchup of MVP sluggers. Nelson Cruz and David Freese becoming bigger names with each home run swing. Pitching staffs full of shaky starters and shutdown relievers.

Plus a Rally Squirrel and the Claw.

The Texas Rangers and St. Louis Cardinals, with a lot of symmetry, are all set to get acquainted in the World Series.

Leave it to ol' Arthur Rhodes to make the introductions. The 41-year-old lefty specialist began the year with Texas, wound up in St. Louis and is likely to get a ring either way.

Besides, it takes someone who's been around a bit to remember the last time these teams played.

It was 2004, in a threegame set in Texas. Even in this era of interleague play, that's the only time the Cardinals and Rangers have met when it meant something. According to STATS LLC, that matches the fewest games between a pair of opponents in the majors, tying Mets-White Game 1 is Wednesday night in St. Louis, with aces Chris Carpenter of the Cardinals and C.J. Wilson set to start. The opening odds see Texas as a small favorite.

"The Rangers are scary. They're a scary team," said Freese, the NLCS MVP. "You look at that lineup, you look at that staff. It's going to be a battle."

"I think we're a team that can match up with them a little bit. And they're confident, we're confident. It's been a tough road. I've definitely been watching the ALCS for sure. That's some good ball over there," he

Cowboys fall in close one

FOXBOROUGH (AP) — Tom Brady was having his worst game of the season. Then he did what he does Trailing by three points with 2:31 left, the NFL's reigning MVP marched the New England Patriots down the field for an 8-yard touchdown pass to Aaron Hernandez with 22 seconds remaining that capped a 20-16 win over the Dallas Cowboys on Sunday.

"You're a long way away from the goal line and you haven't really moved the ball that well," Patriots coach Bill Belichick said. "I've said it before, there's no quarterback I'd rather

The Patriots trailed 16-13 when they got the ball at their 20-yard line after a punt. At that point, Brady had completed just 19 of 32 passes for 211 yards with one touchdown, two interceptions and three sacks.

Starting with a 16-yard completion to Hernandez, Brady went 8 for 9 for 78 yards. The other 2 yards came on Brady's 2-yard sneak for a first down.

"When you have a quarterback like Tom, anything can happen as long as there's time on the clock," Hernandez said.

It was the 32nd successful comeback of Brady's career in games the Patriots trailed or were tied in the fourth quarter. And it came against a solid defense ranked fourth in the NFL — that had allowed just one touchdown on the Patriots' first nine possessions.

"When you're playing against a quarterback like Tom Brady, he's going to go down as one of the all-time greats," Cowboys coach Jason Garrett said. "So you have to try to make it hard on him."

The Patriots improved to 5-1, the best record in the AFC. The Cowboys fell to 2-3, but two of those losses were by four points and the other by three.

"This isn't a 2-3 team," said Dallas cornerback Terence Newman, who had an interception and a fumble recovery. "We've got some good pieces here."

The Cowboys were coming off a bye. Next up are the St. Louis Rams.

The Patriots are heading into a bye and return for a road game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"We're still building," Brady said. "We're nowhere near where we need to be and nowhere near where we're going to be in a couple of months."

Dallas quarterback Tony Romo was 27 of 41 for 317 yards with one touchdown and one interception in his first game since a 34-30 loss to Detroit in which the Cowboys squandered a 24-point, third-quarter lead and Romo threw two interceptions that were returned for TDs.

"This team is continuing to grow and get better,"

Romo said. "We just need to finish a game like today and we will, I think."

The Cowboys, who trailed 13-3 midway through the second quarter, took a 16-13 lead with 5:13 left on Dan Bailey's third field goal of the game, a 26-yarder.

The Patriots then punted, but the Cowboys were content to use up the clock by running the ball — three rushes for 5 yards, plus a 5-yard penalty — and punted right back.

"You have to run the ball in that situation because of the time situation," said Garrett, who trusted his defense to stop the Patriots. "It's one of the best offenses in the league. You're challenging your defense, no doubt about it."

Until the final drive, Cowboys defensive coordinator Rob Ryan was headed for his second straight strong game against the Patriots.

He held that job with Cleveland when the Browns beat the Patriots 34-14 last Nov. 7. Since then, the Patriots had scored at least 30 points in 13 consecutive games. That streak ended Sunday, but New England still won.

Stephen Gostkowski's 31yard field goal gave the Patriots a 3-0 lead before Bailey tied it with a 48-yarder. Gostkowski connected again early in the second quarter, this time from 26 yards, before Brady and

NFL coaches square off on field after Sunday's game

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Harbaugh and Jim Schwartz have helped turn San Francisco and Detroit into contenders, earning plenty of attention for the energy and attitude they bring to the sidelines.

That intensity was on full display Sunday during a postgame dustup after the 49ers handed the Lions their first loss of the season.

Harbaugh, the San Francisco coach, came running across the field and gave his Detroit counterpart an exuberant handshake and then a slap on the back. Schwartz took exception and chased Harbaugh back toward the tunnel, but the two were kept separated. Players gathered and appeared to restore or-

"I went to congratulate Coach Harbaugh and got shoved out of the way," Schwartz said after his team's 25-19 loss. "I didn't expect an obscenity at that point. Obviously, when you win a game like that, you are excited, but there is a protocol." Schwartz wouldn't elabo-

NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said the incident will be reviewed.

Alex Smith threw a goahead 6-yard scoring pass to Delanie Walker on fourth down for San Francisco with 1:51 left, and the 49ers added a field goal less than a minute later for the final margin. Detroit (5-1) lost for the first time in 10 regular-season games dating to last year. The Lions also won all four of their preseason games. Walker's touchdown stood after video review didn't show definitively whether the San Francisco tight end's right knee was down before the ball reached the goal line.

"I knew I got in there," Walker said. "I crossed the plane, but we were in their house and we got some bad calls early on in the game. But I didn't think twice about After Walker's touchdown made it 22-19, Detroit had a chance to drive for a tying field goal or a go-ahead TD, but couldn't get a first down against a swarming defense that hit and confused quarterback Matthew Stafford from the start.

Mercury and Jupiter in opposition suggests that the truth will be elusive. "When distant and unfamiliar and complex things are communicated to great masses of people, the truth suffers a considerable and often a radical distortion. The complex is made over into the simple, the hypothetical into the dogmatic, and the relative into an absolute." — Walter Lippmann

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You'll do something creative. People will come together to experience your work. This is one of the most satisfying feelings — to know you've contributed to the bonds between peo-

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Though you are as concerned with physical necessities like eating and sleeping as everyone else is, you have one foot in the spiritual realm today. You'll feel connected to the wind.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). When you expand your identity, you don't all of a sudden leave the old you behind. It's more like that version is absorbed into the new you. There are new layers and dimensions to you that form every time you

CANCER (June 22-July 22). A loved one's history will color the action today. Romantic matters may figure into the plot, as well. Here's a tip to remember: It's better to be a person's last relationship than his or her first one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The motivational speaker Zig Ziglar suggested that people hide their goats. He said, "They can't get your goat if you don't tell them where it is." You'll communicate wisely, telling people only what you want and need them to training requires repetition. So be happy for any chance to practice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You may lose track of something or have so much going on that a key element falls through the cracks. Forgive yourself. Vow to slow down. You deserve to go at a comfort-

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). There will be interesting people around for you to talk with, though you might feel at a loss about what to say. Observe your environment. Comment on what you see and hear. A lively conversation will come out of this.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). It is sometimes hard to let things go. Then again, being just a tad obsessive does have its benefits. For instance, you can focus intently on something you want to accomplish and not quit until it's done.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). There is some kind of magic in the ritual of writing. Commit your goals to paper. You will stick to them if they are written down. Also, write down your wishes and AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You'll go to a quiet place to get away from problems. When you return to the noisy world at a later date, you'll feel refreshed and able to handle all that needs resolu-PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). It will be important to take notes and keep them somewhere you can return to easily later. Labeling things well and being organized with your work will also be key.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 17). You believe that you deserve to have good things in your life, and you do what it takes to make it happen. The next five weeks bring unusual attractions and adventurous whims. You look out for loved ones, and your loyalty and protection help them to thrive. Your talents grow through 2012 with the help of a teacher. Pisces and Capricorn people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 8, 25, 41, 2 and

THE MAJOR ARCANA OF THE TAROT --THE MOON XVIII: It's no wonder the moon brings out our more primal instincts. With all of her changing, reflecting and hiding, she invites chase. Even the oceans race to find her. On the 18th card of the tarot, the full moon arouses wild creatures of the night, starring a moon-loving crab. The Cancer symbol emerges from the water onto a path flanked by a wolf and a dog. One canine may be tamer than the other, but make no mistake: They are all feral beings. Even if the crab makes it past these creatures, the road ahead is long and winding, leading seemingly to nowhere.

If you draw The Moon card in a reading, you may feel a kinship with that noble crab. The creature clearly has aspirations and seems determined to move things along — to travel and evolve. Yet there are all of these elements to contend with: getting past the canines, handling the curves of the road, trusting that it's all going somewhere or, if it's not, that the journey is still worthwhile. The Moon card might inspire you to do some serious reflecting, just as she does.

"Classic Annie"®: Two tales of grandmother's role as family member

Editor's Note: Hundreds of Ann Landers' loyal readers have requested that newspapers continue to publish her columns. These letters originally appeared in 1999.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the grandmother of a child who was put up for adoption. It was an open adoption, which means the adoptive parents send my son photographs and letters so he knows how his child is doing. The adoptive parents are lovely people, and my grandson is doing wonderfully. Not a day goes by that I don't thank God for them.

Every Christmas and birthday, I send gifts to my grandson because I want him to know I care about him.

The adoptive parents have a second child, and I make sure to send gifts to that child, too. The rest of my family disagrees with this. They say I should distance myself from the boy and stop keeping in touch with the adoptive par-

Tell me, Ann, are they right? Is it a mistake for me to maintain a relationship with this

The adoptive parents have never asked me to back off, nor has my son objected to my presence in the boy's life. Christmas will be here soon, and I would appreciate your opinion. — Torn in Texas

Dear Texas: Who, exactly, is "the rest of the family," and what business is it of theirs?

These people who are giving you this bum advice should be told you are dealing with the matter in vour own way and that all parties involved are satisfied with how things are being handled. (That is shorthand for MYOB, and if they don't get it, spell it out for them.) Keep reading for a different kind of Grandma story:

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell the grandparents in your reading audience to cultivate a warm and loving relationship with their grandchildren before it is too late.

I have a 9-year-old son and a 7-year-old daughter. We visit my mother every week, but I'm about ready to call it Every time we get together, Grandma picks on my daughter and totally ignores my son. She feels it is her place to correct and discipline them.

My children's behavior is fine, Ann. They are good kids and well-behaved. My mother freaks out over issues that make very little sense and bother no one but her.

Mom doesn't seem to realize that she is going to leave my children no happy memories of their grandmother.

The way things stand now, they don't want to be around her because she is always "bossing them around."

I love Mom dearly, but frankly, I do not LIKE her. I wish my children could enjoy having a grandmother, but this doesn't seem possible.

Please, Ann, I know she reads you every day. Maybe if she sees this in the newspaper, it will help. — J.W. in Southern Calif.

Dear Southern Cal.: I doubt that reading your letter in the paper will change Grandma's behavior. She sounds pretty set in her ways, but it's worth a shot. For her sake, I hope she can stand back and view her situation with a bit more objectivity. The message, Grandma, is: "Don't try to train them. Just love them."

St. Louis has won 10 Series titles, second most to the New York Yankees' 27. Manager Tony La Russa, Pujols and the Cardinals last took it in 2006, helped by Series MVP David

This year, hardly anyone expected St. Louis to make it this far, especially when it was $10\frac{1}{2}$ games out of a playoff spot on Aug. 25. A sensational run in the last month, plus a tremendous collapse by Atlanta, gave the Cardinals the NL wild-card slot on the final day of the regular season. The Cardinals did what many fans considered almost impossible in the first round — they eliminated the heavily favored Phillies. Carpenter outdueled Roy Halladay 1-0 in the decisive Game 5, then

St. Louis relied on its bullpen every day to beat Milwaukee in the NL championship se-

Jason Motte, Fernando Salas, Octavio Dotel, Marc Rzepczynski and the Cards' crew shut down Prince Fielder and the Brewers, capped by a 12-6 win in Game 6 Sunday

A resurgent Lance Berkman, Matt Holliday and the emerging Freese got a boost in the lineup from tradedeadline addition Rafael Furcal, one of several moves by general manager John Mozeliak that worked out well.

The Cardinals also got help — some might believe — from a squirrel that scampered right in front of home plate during a playoff game in St. Louis.

The Rangers powered to the AL West title this year and hope to show the Claw, their hand signal for big hits, a lot starting this week.

Texas began the playoffs by beating Tampa Bay in four games and mashed Detroit in the six-game ALCS. Cruz was an MVP monster against the Tigers, hitting an LCS-record six home runs with 13 RBIs.

Closer Neftali Feliz, Alexi Ogando, Scott Feldman and two of GM Jon Daniels' additions - Mike Adams and Michael Gonzalez — keyed a bullpen that dominated the postseason.

Now it's on to Busch Stadium for the opener. The NL holds home-field advantage this year because it won the All-Star game, with Fielder's homer off Wilson the big hit. The weather forecast calls for clear skies, a welcome relief in a postseason dotted by rain.

And, oh, about those Cardinalsprevious Rangers games. St. Louis won two of three in June 2004. , with the Cardinals' lone loss coming when Young and Texas hammered Carpenter.

Carpenter will see a packed Texas lineup, including Young, in the opener.

"I haven't thought a lick about it," Carpenter said after Sunday night's clincher. "I'm excited for our ballclub, I'm excited for our organization. Unbelievable. This group of guys, I've been saying all year long, it's the most amazing group of guys I've Francisco (5-1) a six-point lead with 1:02 to go with a 37-yard field goal, and the Lions did no better with their next attempt at a winning drive.

Smith was 17 of 32 for 125 yards, going early and often to Michael Crabtree, who had nine receptions for 77 yards. Frank Gore ran 15 times for 141 yards and scored a TD that pulled the 49ers within three after they were outscored 10-0 in the first quarter.

The 49ers are not only atop the NFC West, but they're opening up some ground. Second-place Seattle (2-3) had an open date.

"I've never been a part of anything like this, especially since I've been a pro," Smith said. "The defense played a hard time getting the run game going. When it's one-dimensional that way, and I think it was, you're going to have a difficult time.'

Detroit ran for only 66 yards.

Jason Hanson missed a 52-yard field goal attempt that would've given Detroit a four-point lead late in the first half, then Akers made a 55-yard kick. That put the 49ers ahead 12-10 as time expired in the half.

In the fourth, Stafford connected with Nate Burleson on a 5-yard pass into the end zone that was ruled incomplete on the field. It was overturned after video review, giving Detroit a 19-15 lead. Burleson caught the ball and got both feet down, then lost the ball after tumbling beyond the end zone — a play similar to Calvin's Johnson's well-documented play in the end zone that was ruled incomfirst quarter and another in the third. "We're not going to go 16-0," Schwartz said. "We have to protect the quarterback better, have to run the ball better, make more plays down the field. We have to stop the run better, we have to convert field goals."

The 49ers overcame 15 penalties, including five false starts at raucous

Ford Field. "Once you get a couple false starts, it's like throwing gasoline on a fire,
