SA school supply drive under way

By THOMAS JENKINS
 Staff Writer

With a little less than a month left before area parents have to send their children back to school, the local Salvation Army is asking for assistance with its annual Back to School Drive.

And while the trek back to school may elicit groans about teachers and books from students, it will leave many parents in a fiscal pinch as they desperately try to pay for their children's back to school supplies, a task the Big Spring Salvation Army is hoping to step in and assist with.

However, before the first pencil or pen can be handed out as part of the annual Back to School program, the Salvation Army needs help from the community.

"It's really amazing how easily the back to school season can creep up on you each year," Lt. Jeremiah Romack said. "It seems like it comes earlier and earlier each year."

"We're accepting donations for the drive now. Whether people in the community would like to donate school supplies or make a monetary donation, either is fine. We're expecting a pretty heavy demand this year, so everything will help."

Romack said the annual effort makes a big difference in the lives of children who might not otherwise have school supplies to start the year.

"It's hard enough to get back into the books after a whole summer off," Romack said. "When you don't have the things you need — notebooks, paper, pencils — it just makes it that much

A&M club's Shootout Saturday

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

In just a few days, Big Spring is going to be (figuratively) crawling with Aggies.

The Howard County A&M Club will hold its 14th annual West-Ags Shootout Saturday, Aug. 3 to raise scholarship money to support area public school students attending Texas A&M University.

While many A&M lovers expected to attend, the Shootout open to everyone, collegiate allegiance notwithstanding.

Two major events, both held at Big Spring Country Club, will highlight this year's Shootout:

- A four-person scramble golf tournament will tee off at 8 a.m. Entry fee is $100 per person and includes cart and green fees.

Golfers will be allowed one muligan (for $10) and awards will be presented for the longest drive and closest to the pin contests. Prizes will be country club pro shop credits. To enter or for more information, call 267-5354.

The action shifts inside at 5:30 p.m., when the A&M club holds its annual Aggie Live Auction.

Items such as sports memorabilia and vacation trips will be auctioned off. Past memorabilia items have included autographed jerseys, footballs and portraits, while vacation packages up for auction have included trips to resorts such as Cabo San Lucas and Cancun, Mexico.

Healthy Woman seminar focuses on diabetes

Special to the Herald

Healthy Woman — a Scenic Mountain Medical Center Resource — will focus on a growing issue in today's society — diabetes — during its monthly meeting Aug. 8.

There will be a Lunch 'n' Learn at 11:30 a.m. for Senior Circle members and the Healthy Woman program will be at 5:30 p.m. with light refreshments.

"The main point of the Healthy Woman program is to bring useful educational pieces to the community members of Howard County. Over the past few months, we have had several requests for an event focused on diabetes and with our new dietitian coming on board, who just so happens to be certified in diabetes education as well, this seemed like a perfect time to answer that request," Healthy Woman Co-Coordinator Amanda Duforat said.

"Diabetes and Nutrition" will not only focus on statistics regarding diabetes in the United States, but will also cover healthy living tips and an introduction to new outpatient programs that will be available through Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

"Just because a person is diagnosed with diabetes doesn't mean they can't live a normal, healthy life," Paula Sue Sisson will be the featured speaker at the event. She comes to SMMC with 18 years' experience as a dietitian and nine years' experience as a diabetes educator. She received her nutrition degree from California State University. She has practiced in California, Wyoming, Northern Texas and Oregon.

In addition to Sisson providing a short background on herself, she will also speak about the SMMC Nutrition and Diabetes Self-Management Education Program.

Sisson, SMMC dietitian, said. "Diabetes may not be curable, but it is manageable with healthy eating and a healthy

"SMMC understands there is a need for diabetes education here in Big Spring and the surrounding communities. We had been looking for ways to help with that need of education and with the addition of Sisson to the SMMC team and her background in diabetes education, we thought what better way to serve our patients and the community than to start providing a resource that would provide consultations and an avenue for diabetes education," Larry Rodgers, SMMC CEO, said.

Diabetes and Nutrition will take place at SMMC in the Nutrition and Diabetes classroom on the second floor. As always, the event is free, but reservations are requested. For more information, 432-268-4842 or 432-268-4721.

harder. Education can make a huge difference in these kids' lives, and we need to do everything we can to support them."

Making a donation to the program is simple, according to Romack.

"If they would rather make a monetary donation instead of going out and buying the supplies, it actually saves a little bit of money," Romack said. "The Salvation Army is tax exempt, so we don't have to pay the taxes on them. But if they prefer to purchase the supplies and bring them to us, it's fine as well. If they make a monetary donation, they also need to earmark it for the back-to-school supplies."

Romack said a tentative date has been set to take applications — and, if approved, parents and guardians will be able to pick up the supplies the same day — Saturday, Aug. 24, with the process set to correspond with a rather festive affair.

"The same day we begin taking the applications and handing out the supplies, we'll be holding sort of a block party here at the Salvation Army office," he said. "We plan to have some inflatable attractions — like bounce houses and the like — as well as hot dogs and other party foods. It should give us a chance to not only begin the school supply distribution, but to have some fun with the local residents and get to know one another."

Romack — joined by his wife, Lt. Missy Romack — have been stationed at the Big Spring office just a short time.

"We're still in the process of getting to know the community, so the Aug. 24 block party should be an excellent chance for that," he said. "We want to reach out to the community and let them know we're here for them."

Romack said the office will continue taking applications for school supplies in the days following Aug. 24, although the exact plan is still up in the air at this time.

"We need people who are coming in to apply to bring a birth certificate or Medicaid card for each child," he said. "We also need to know what school the child is going to and what grade they will be in. Also, bring proof of income and expenses and a picture ID for the person applying for the program."

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: I've been with "Betty" for 20 years. Last week, a repairman came to fix the phone line. On his way out, Betty followed him and said in a sexy voice, "I like bald-headed men. You come back."

Betty didn't know I overheard what she said until I walked in after she had picked up the phone to call her girlfriend. She then told the woman that it probably hurt my feelings.

She's right. It hurt my feelings and made me realize she really didn't care one whit about me. When I called her out on it, she claimed she was just being friendly.

I told her that was a little too friendly -- it was a blatant invitation to see who the winners argument, we suggest you quietly and sincerely tell Betty that you love her and are committed to her, and that you know she wouldn't behave this way if she understood how much it hurts you. (She also could get into some big trouble if she flirts with the wrong guy.) Then let it go. She will be defensive, but we hope she pays more attention in the future.

Dear Annie: A friend used Facebook to set up a raffle as a fundraiser to help a cousin who lost his wife. I donated several things and also attended the dinner held at a church facility and bought many raffle tickets. We were excited to see who the winners were, but toward the end of the event, we were informed that the drawing would be held later at someone's home. The next day, I sent an email through Facebook to the coordinator asking whether the winning names would be shared, and she told me all winners would be notified. I have not heard another word, and a list of the winners was never posted.

KATHY MITCHELL
MARCY SUGAR

Several months have passed, and I'm beginning to get suspicious. A few of the donated jewelry items were not visible the night of the raffle, and a gift certificate donated by another relative was missing. My cousin asked for a list of the winners and never received it. What do you think of this? -- Frustrated Donor

Dear Frustrated: Either the coordinator is poorly organized and hasn't managed to do the necessary work, or she has no intention of doing so. There may be a legitimate reason why no one has been informed who the winners are, but even so, participants deserve an explanation. And there could be legal repercussions if she has kept the donated items for herself. Decide how deeply you wish to pursue this.

Dear Annie: I felt compelled to respond to "Not as Pretty as a Penny," who needed emergency care and worried that her mother cared more about the cost.

I do medical billing and hear daily from people who did not realize that emergency room visits are so expensive. If there are acute care facilities in the area, those charges would be much less costly.

Of course, an office

visit to the family doctor would be the least expensive option. -- DK from SD

"Classic" Ann Landers: The doggone truth

Editor's Note: Hundreds of Ann Landers' loyal readers have requested that newspapers continue to publish her columns. These letters originally appeared in 1999.

Dear Ann Landers: The following appeared in the San Pablo Catholic Church bulletin. I hope you think it's good enough to print.
— Marathon, Fla.

Dear Marathon: I do, and I will. Here it is:

If you can start the day without caffeine,
If you can get going without pep pills,
If you can resist complaining and boring people with your troubles,

If you can eat the same food every day and be grateful for it,

If you can understand when your loved ones are too busy to give you any time,

If you can overlook it when something goes wrong through no fault of yours and those you love take it out on you,

If you can take criticism and blame without resentment,

If you can ignore a friend's limited education and never correct him,

If you can resist treating a rich friend better than a poor friend,

If you can face the world without lies and deceit,

If you can conquer tension without medical help,

If you can relax without liquor,

If you can sleep without the aid of drugs,

If you can say honestly that deep in your heart you have no prejudice against creed, color, religion or politics,

Then, my friends, you are almost as good as your dog.

Dear Ann Landers: Please publish this letter. I would like to send it to a young woman who needs to see it in print. As of now, she has done nothing to indicate that she knows how to behave decently.

My son recently attended the wedding of a friend who married the woman I'm writing about.

Three days after the wedding, the groom told the bride (on their honeymoon) that he didn't love her and he was sorry he didn't have the courage to tell her so long before the ceremony.

They came home and are now being divorced. Somehow, the bride ended up with all the money (a considerable amount) they received as wedding gifts.

The people who gave the couple money intended to help them start their lives together. I feel that by keeping the money, the woman is being selfish and behaving in a manner that is socially incorrect.

That money, along with all the other wedding gifts, should have been returned to the senders.

She has no right to benefit financially from this unfortunate incident. What do you think, Ann? — Outraged in New York

Dear New York: I agree with you. I hope the ex-bride sees this column and decides to do the decent thing.

What's the truth about pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, crack, speed and downers? "The Lowdown on Dope" has information on drugs. Texas Manager Ron Washington looks on from the dugout during the sixth inning as the Rangers fell 6-0 to the Cleveland Indians — who completed a sweep of Texas — Sunday night.

Rangers' bats silent in 6-0 loss to Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rangers manager Ron Washington didn't mince words about his team's lost weekend in Cleveland.

"If you're playing bad, you're playing bad," he said. "It's that simple. This is a tough game and everybody struggles, but you've got to be tough every day. Today was a different animal. It looked like we were sleepwalking out there."

Indians right-hander Ubaldo Jimenez and reliever Vinnie Pestano combined on a two-hitter Sunday, completing Cleveland's three-game sweep of Texas with a 6-0 victory.

The Rangers were shut out over the final 21 innings of the series — marking their longest drought since going 25 games without a win from Sept. 15-19, 2009 — and have lost four games in a row.

Following the final pitch, Washington kept the clubhouse closed for 44 minutes as he held a team meeting. Texas is 2-8 since the All-Star break, making it 8-15 since July 1 when it last led the AL West.

"Win or lose, we should bring the same energy and effort to the field every day," left fielder David Murphy said. "We've been kind of up and down on that this year. After the meeting, I think everyone is on the same page now and we can get back on track."

Elvis Andrus and A.J. Pierzynski accounted for Texas' two hits, with Pierzynski the only player to reach third base.

Andrus doubled in the first inning to extend his hitting streak against Cleveland to 37 games. It is the third-longest streak in major league history against one opponent, trailing Vladimir Guerrero's 44-game run against Texas from 2004-06, and Jacoby Ellsbury's 38-game streak against Baltimore from 2009-12.

Rangers right-hander Alexi Ogando (4-3) made his second start since spending six weeks on the disabled list with a sore shoulder.

He only lasted 4 1-3 innings, allowing one run on six hits with a pair of walks, but said his "shoulder is very good, strong."

Washington was less complimentary of Ogando's performance, citing the 92 pitches he threw and the 10 Indians that reached base against him.

"He had baserunners every inning and was fighting every inning, so I thought he was struggling at that point," Washington said sternly.

Left-hander Robbie Ross followed Ogando and allowed three runs in the sixth, extending Cleveland's lead to 4-0. Michael Bourn's two-run double to the wall was the big blow.

The Indians closed out the scoring in the eighth when Mike Aviles clubbed a two-run homer off Ross Wolf, completing their 13-hit outburst.

Hoosier Ryan Newman wins Brickyard 400 at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A born and bred Hoosier, Ryan Newman spent his childhood racing everywhere from Anderson to Winchester and every short track he could find in a state mad about racing.

He graduated from Purdue and landed a summer job working in Jeff Gordon's old race shop in Pittsboro. One of the perks? He got to live in the shop and sleep alongside the cars.

And like many Indiana kids, he revered Indianapolis Motor Speedway, the track he first visited in 1986 and later accidentally stumbled upon NASCAR's inaugural 1992 test while out buying tires with his mother.

A win at the famed Brickyard? That would be a dream come true for the South Bend native.

Newman made the boyhood dream a cool reality, taking the checkered flag Sunday to end a 49-race winless streak in front of his home state fans. His parents, who fueled his love of racing and took him to the 500 as a kid, joined him for his biggest win in Indiana.

Newman was as cool and collected in Victory Lane as he was on the track when he held off Jimmie Johnson. There were no tears, no quiver in his voice and no need to collect himself as Newman was strangely stoic.

"I don't show a lot of emotion, I think everybody knows that," said Newman, who likened the victory to his 2008 win at the Daytona 500. "I had the same emotion, the same thankfulness I did when I won the Daytona 500 because I feel everybody that has been a part of my racing career — from people that bought my racing uniform, bought me a right rear tire, given us a credit card to get to some race track at some point in my career — those are the people that helped me get to where I am today.

"To me, it's awesome to be here at Indy. It's awesome because it's my home state. I've raced go karts at pretty much every go kart track around here, been kicked out of half of them. Those are the things that make it special. I think about those things more than I carry the emotion on my cheeks."

So the emotion was seen in father Greg, who spotted for Newman on Sunday, and his mother, Diane.

Newman kept it together during his celebratory burnout and the drive to Victory Lane, a hallowed area that he twice had to ask his crew over the radio for directions how to get there. He took the customary ride in a convertible around the track with his wife and two young daughters, and happily bowed again and again to kiss the Yard of Bricks.

Sure, he smiled, and shared some tender hugs with one of his daughters. But that was the most anyone was getting out of Newman, who had admitted to getting emotional after winning the pole on Saturday but seemed almost numb following Sunday's win.

"I'm not sure (how I feel) at this point. I know it's an amazing feeling," he said. "I was more emotional yesterday after winning the pole than I was two laps after my donuts and everything else today. I'm not sure why. I took an emotional hit yesterday. Just an awesome day."

Newman beat Johnson twice on this Brickyard weekend, first when he set a NASCAR track record in knocking Johnson off the pole in qualifying, then Sunday with a fast final pit stop to snatch the win from the four-time Indianapolis winner.

The two were the class of the field — they combined to lead 118 of the 160 laps — but it

Parcells always gave team the best chance to win

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Bill Parcells learned a life-changing lesson in his first coaching job at little Hastings College — give your team the best chance to win.

If that later meant cutting a couple of popular guys to get his type of tough-minded players or tearing down a perennial All-Pro linebacker to make him better, patting a shy player on the butt instead of yelling at him, spending the endless hours on the Xs and Os or even looking the other way with Lawrence Taylor, at times, Parcells did it.

It was a way of coaching that helped Parcells change the fortunes of four struggling franchises, win two Super Bowls with the Giants, go to a third with New England and win election to the Pro Football Hall of Fame on his fourth attempt.

Parcells will enter the Canton, Ohio shrine Sunday with a 172-130-1 record in a 19-year head coaching career.

"He worked hard, and he had the ability to get along with people and motivate people, and he had a burning desire to win," said 82-year-old Dean Pryor, who had coached Parcells at Wichita and then hired him at Hastings after he was cut by the Lions. "You know, he got his butt chewed as much as the players, but boy, I mean, if Bill made a mistake or he did something right, he didn't forget it."

Grand sextile!

This is a rare alignment: a grand sextile, which is a six-pointed star formed in the heavens with a luminary at each point. The lineup today is Jupiter, Venus, Saturn, Pluto, Neptune and the moon. Half of the luminaries are in earth signs and half are in water signs, lending a balance of healing and nurturing. Growth happens when you relax and let nature lead.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You have stupendous ideas now.
For any given problem you put your mind to, you can think of multiple solutions that are worth a try. Avoid, however, trying to solve another person's problem if they haven't asked you to.

TAURUS (April 20-
May 20). The sociologist Erving Goffman suggested, "The gestures which we sometimes call empty are perhaps in fact the fullest things of all." You'll give and receive such gestures today in the form of casual compliments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21).
Sometimes people just need to vent. You'll be there for them when they do. But when it's time to concentrate on you, close up shop.
Protect your time and the sanctity of your good mood.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). After a long day of sitting in a chair, it makes no sense to decompress by sitting in another chair. You are best when in movement. The

HOLIDAY
MATHIS

Tomorrow's Horoscope

hardest part is starting from an immobile state, but push through.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Living up to your own expectations seems like it would be easy. But actually, in the world of expectations, yours are the most demanding you could choose. Go easy on yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You know but one thing about another person. But all you have to do is begin an interaction, and before you know it, you will know two to five things, which is enough to break past the "acquaintance" stage.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You'll start a new project with good intentions and then proceed to fumble and falter a bit, which is completely normal and to be expected. Take it as your cue to stand up and try again. Don't give up too soon!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21).
Better is better. If it's only a little bit better, feel good and take the win. A little bit better plus the magic ingredient of every day equals something you can be proud of in the end.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21).
If illness can be psychosomatic, wellness can be, too. That is precisely why the entertainment you call a "guilty pleasure" is actually a necessity for your health and happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19).
Minimizing and oversimplifying a challenge won't help you succeed.
If you're struggling, assume there's a good reason. Avoid being needlessly frustrated. Take a break and come back to the issue later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18).

Excitement doesn't always lead to closeness between people. Some relationships are like the birth of the universe. They start with a Big Bang and then spread apart and drift in different directions toward outer space.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You think you're merely recounting recent happenings, but you also may be inspiring spontaneous wonder and entralling someone who is intrigued by your lifestyle.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (July 29).
Feed your plans to the paper
shredder — a whimsical, unforeseen opportunity brings August adventure. Follow your winning instincts to a new job in September. A wish for your family is granted in October. November brings a fast-paced learning environment. You'll go into the new year with a life-enhancing set of skills. Aries and Virgo people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 3, 1, 22, 7 and 18.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: "How
I Met Your Mother" star Josh Radnor is also an acclaimed movie writer and director. This Leo entertainer was born when the moon and Neptune were both in fiery, passionate Sagittarius, lending the desire to see other worlds. Those placements are offset by Mercury, Venus and Saturn in Cancer, the sign that loves to stay home. Through writing, Radnor can fulfill both desires at once.

PARCELLS

He was extremely bright. He could evaluate a player, watch him and make him better.”

Parcells still stays in touch with Pryor, who intends to make the trip from Jonesboro, Ark. to Canton this weekend. The message that Pryor preached about giving players a chance to win never left Parcells.

“You as an individual coach have a responsibility to try to give those players who put themselves at risk and in harm’s way a chance to achieve success, and that goes for universities and professional teams, as well,” Parcells said. “I know I preached that to every organization and to every coaching staff I ever had. These guys deserve a chance to win, and we have to give it to them.”

Fellow Hall of Famer Harry Carson was already on the Giants’ roster when Parcells was hired. Despite being one of the best linebackers in the league, Carson said Parcells didn’t hesitate to tell him he had bad habits as a middle linebacker and that he could be better, and then riding him on it.

When Carson was at his lowest point, Parcells built him back up and made him better.

“Bill is not for everybody,” Carson said. “But he is a coach who knows his stuff and he was able to implement what he wanted to do with players like me, who were willing to bite the bullet and be patient with him and not take it personally or be bruised by the criticism he might level at you.”

Parcells also knew he wanted hard-nosed players who knew their roles. He never asked them to do things they couldn’t do.

“He gets his players’ expectations so high, they don’t have a choice but to succeed,” Cowboys tight end Jason Witten said.

Despite living on the edge off the field, Taylor respected Parcells non-nonsense style.

“Don’t get me wrong the guy could coach his (butt) off and you gotta remember that was one helluva staff, but what struck me in the early days about Bill was his ability to motivate,” Taylor said in statement released through his agent, Mark Lepselter.

“He’d always try to tweak me and I’d give it right back but I knew he knew that I was a little different.”

Parcells was a little different, too. He was a Jersey guy, even before Tony Soprano or Bruce Springsteen made that popular. Coming from a family that by his own admission was confrontational, he loved the give and take.

Giants coach Tom Coughlin, who worked under Parcells from 1988-90, recalled being dragged to a deli one morning during training camp in his first season.

“As soon as he opens the door of the coffee shop it’s like old home week,” Coughlin said. “He’s busting everybody’s chops in the deli and he’s busting their chops and it’s back and forth, back and forth.”

Parcells cared about his people and let them know, Coughlin said. As important as Parcells’ congratulatory calls after Coughlin won Super Bowls with the Giants, Coughlin also recalls the call he got from him after being fired in Jacksonville. It was just as important.

Even if he didn’t know you, Parcells doesn’t hesitate to share his knowledge.

For all of Parcells’ success, there was almost another ending to his Giants story and maybe his coaching career. After posting a 3-12-1 record in his first season, his future was in doubt. Owner Wellington Mara and general manager George Young eventually decided they had not given him enough of a chance after a season marked by an unusually large amount of injuries.

“I can still remember George Young saying, he was interested in (then Miami coach) Howard Schnellenberger at the time and I can’t get him this year, but maybe I can get him next year, let’s give Parcells another year,” current Giants co-owner and chief executive John Mara said. “That year was ‘84. We got to the playoffs, and the rest is history.”

was Johnson who dominated the race and appeared to be just a bit better. But Johnson pitted from the lead with 27 laps remaining and it was a slow final stop for the Hendrick Motorsports crew.

Newman pitted after that and took only two tires to move into the lead after the green-flag stops cycled through the field. The closest Johnson would get to him again was when he paid a congratulatory visit to Newman in Victory Lane.

The victory comes as Newman is looking for a job.

Stewart-Haas Racing has signed Kevin Harvick to join the team next season, and team co-owner Tony Stewart informed Newman two weeks ago he won’t be brought back in 2014. It didn’t change the post-race mood, as Stewart hustled to Victory Lane, lifted Newman from behind and the two shared a long embrace.

“He just had an awesome weekend,” Stewart said. “I kept looking up the board and watching and I was scared to ask where he was at and how big of a lead he had. I didn’t want to jinx him. Just really proud of him — he’s a great teammate and an even better friend.”

Johnson, the Sprint Cup Series points leader who was hoping to tie Formula One’s Michael Schumacher as the only five-time winners in Indy history, finished 2.657 seconds behind Newman in second.

“There’s definitely disappointment there, but that’s racing. It happens,” Johnson said. “We win as a team, lose as a team. There’s been some late race mistakes on my behalf that have taken race wins away from us. Granted, not a major event like this. We still ended up second.

“We have a lot to be proud of over the course of the weekend. We’ll do the best to let it roll off our shoulders by tomorrow afternoon.”

Kasey Kahne, Johnson’s Hendrick Motorsports teammate, was third and Stewart was fourth as Chevrolet swept the top four spots. All four cars were also powered by Hendrick Motorsports.

“We had pretty good power all day long. There were a lot of scenarios where I noticed how good it was,” Stewart said. “That’s what you expect out of the Hendrick engine department. That’s the standard that they set.”

Matt Kenseth was fifth in a Toyota and followed by Hendrick’s Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Jeff Gordon, as all four Hendrick entries landed inside the top seven. Earnhardt rallied from a loose wheel on the opening run of the race to grab his top-10 finish.

“I knew it was loose,” said Earnhardt, adding it was a no-brainer to pit. “You have a wheel falling off, you have something serious happening. Come in, it’s dangerous staying out there. You can hit the wall, or wreck something, or wreck some other people. I don’t want to do that. It is a long race. We had an early chance to fix that, and that is fine. It gave us an opportunity to try some different strategies, and it worked out for us.”

Joey Logano was eighth in a Ford, and followed by Juan Pablo Montoya and Kyle Busch, who picked up his first career win at the Brickyard in Saturday’s Nationwide Series race.

NASCAR’s 20th running at the historic Brickyard wasn’t the most exciting race — there were three cautions, for stalled cars or debris, and no accidents or spins — and the field spread out into single-file racing and passing wasn’t easy. Montoya complained at one point over his radio that attempting to pass another car only cost him position on track.

“It’s just Indy, it’s always hard to pass,” Kahne shrugged. “The competition’s close, so you can get runs and then you can kill your run a little bit if that guy runs a certain part of the race track. So the guys that know where to put their car when a car being them is faster, it’s tough to pass them.”

The in-race intrigue came via varied strategies among the teams as they all tried different methods to steal a good finish in a race that logged as the fastest Brickyard in history at 2 hours, 36 minutes and 22 seconds.

“Overall I thought it was an exciting race,” said Kenseth. “I thought there was a lot of different strategies there at the end and the two fastest cars ended up battling for the win. It wasn’t any harder (to pass) than normal. It’s just always hard to pass here.”

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

In 1998, Rita Shugart of California, Andy Robson and Tony Forrester of Great Britain and Geir Helgemo of Norway won the Reisinger Board-a-Match Teams. An article in this space at that time pointed out that for Shugart in particular, the victory was a stunning accomplishment, since she was the first woman since Helen Sobel in 1957 to win the grueling three-day, six-session contest.

The feat was all the more remarkable in that the Shugart team consisted of only four players rather than the usual five or six, so that all four had to play every board of the event with no substitution.

As if to prove this achievement was no fluke, the same foursome then went on to capture the 1999 Reisinger, winning by the near-record margin of eight boards!

In today’s deal from the final, Shugart (North) and Robson displayed excellent judgment to reach the fine contract of three diamonds, which East not unreasonably doubted after his partner had opened and taken a second bid. Shugart’s decision to pass three diamonds rather than return Robson to hearts proved decisive, as three hearts would have failed by at least one trick.

Robson won the club queen with dummy’s ace and played the A-K and another heart, ruffing with dummy’s eight. East overruffed with the queen and returned a club to South’s king, and Robson ruffed another heart, establishing his last heart as a trick.

East could have overruffed dummy’s deuce with the five (which would have held South to his contract), but he discarded instead, hoping declarer might eventually lose control of the hand.

After the deuce held, however, Robson simply started leading trumps and finished with an over-trick for a score of 1870, losing only the three top diamonds.

Texas right-hander Tanner Scheppers, in his first appearance since being involved in a physical altercation in downtown Cleveland early Friday morning, tossed a perfect seventh. The 6-foot-4, 200-pounder sustained cuts above his nose and a bruised left eye.

Jimenez (7-5) matched his longest start of the season by going eight innings for the Indians, who lead the majors with 14 shutouts. He received some help in the eighth from right fielder Ryan Raburn, who robbed Mitch Moreland of an extra-base hit by making a leaping catch before crashing into the wall. Moreland is hitless in his last 20 at-bats.

Jimenez retired 10 straight Texas batters before Pierzynski’s leadoff single in the fifth, then set down nine Rangers in a row to end his afternoon. Pestano allowed a walk to Andrus to open the ninth before completing the shutout.

Texas went 0 for 3 with runners in scoring position, making it 1 for 9 since Andrus crossed the plate with two outs in the eighth inning of Cleveland’s 11-8, 11-inning victory Friday night.

“There is a difference between getting beat and losing. The first two games here, we got beat,” Washington said. “I don’t get frustrated, but I am a little upset. And the upset is more today than it was yesterday or Friday or Thursday or Wednesday or Monday or Tuesday. I need to get my guys going back down the yellow brick road.”
