Dunnam reception Thursday

VALERIE AVERY
 Special to the Herald
 Big Spring State Hospital Superintendent Lorie Dunnam will be formally introduced to the public Thursday during an afternoon reception for hospital employees and invited guests.
 The reception will be from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Big Spring State Hospital's Allred Building Auditorium. A short recognition ceremony will be at 3:15 p.m.
 Texas Department of State

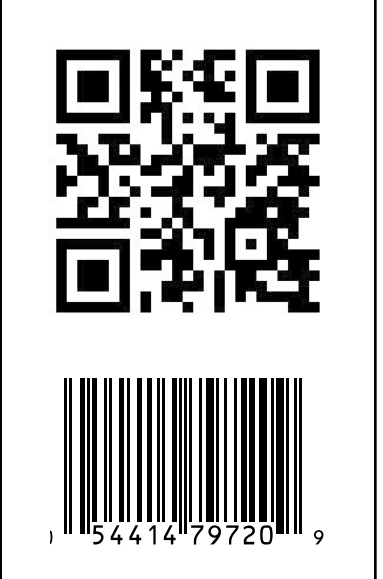

Health Services Commissioner Dr. David Lakey named Dunnam the superintendent of Big Spring State Hospital, effective Sept. 1.
 Dunnam previously served as the hospital's assistant superintendent, overseeing administration of the 200-bed facility, managing more than 625 employees and a $29 million a year operating budget.
 Dunnam assisted long-time Superintendent Ed Moughon until his retirement July 31 after 17 years at the helm of the hospital.

Class size waiver requests on BSISD trustees' agenda

By LYNDEL MOODY
 Herald Staff Reporter
 Big Spring Independent School District Interim Superintendent Chris Wigington said the district will greatly reduce its class size waiver requests from the Texas Education Agency this year.
 "It's a relief to our teachers," Wigington said. "We've had some teachers that had 25, 26 students in a classroom, now they have 18, 19, 20. It's the best practice. The smaller the class, the more individual attention you give to the students."

 Big Spring ISD trustees will consider the waiver request at their next meeting set for 5:15 p.m. Thursday in the board room located at the high school, 707 11th Place.
 TEA caps classroom size at a 22 to 1 student/teacher ratio for kindergarten to fourth grade. Big Spring ISD will request eight waivers from the state to exceed that cap, down from 47 last year, Wigington said.
 "We've had some additional teacher hires, and we've also moved some staff around the district," he said. "Trying to figure out how to lower the number of classroom waivers was one of the main things we looked at when I came on. We are still in the process of looking. If it comes to a point we find enough teachers, then we can utilize some of those folks we moved in a different way. Right now, we feel like those classrooms are the best place to put them."
 Although a lower class size should help with bolstering

Refurbished booth to greet festival goers

 No one can accuse Festival of Lights organizers with waiting too long to prepare for the Christmas season.
 Tuesday afternoon, FoL officials Pat Simmons and Howard Stewart proudly showed off a new greeter's booth that will welcome visitors to the annual Christmas attraction, which will run from Dec. 15-31 at Comanche Trail Park.

 The new booth is far more decorative than its predecessor, highlighted by poinsettias and candy canes. The best thing, Stewart said, is that it's more wind-proof, as well.

County lowers road access permit

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer
 Howard County commissioners voted to chop off $2,000 from a recently approved road access permit during a special meeting Monday.
 In August, commissioners approved a fee of $4,500 for all new access entrances which intersect county roads for commercial purposes — except agricultural related industries. The construction of the entrances are required to conform with county road and bridge department requirements.

 Since that time, however, several businesses, primarily in the oilfield sector, expressed concerns about the new fee and County Judge Mark Barr decided commissioners needed to revisit the idea.

storm," he said. "So, I brought them all the pieces left over from the old booth and they went to work."

The "them" Stewart refers to is the inmate workforce at the Howard County Detention Center, who, in their spare time, constructed a new booth. Several parts of the old booth were reused — as well as material from past festival attractions — said Howard County Sheriff's Office Sgt. John Spence, who supervised the inmates during the refurbishing.

"They didn't have time to work on it during the week, so they'd work on it in their spare time," Spence said. "It's been kind of an ongoing project for the past couple of months ... We still have a little ways to go — we need to install some windows and do a few other things."

To prevent the new booth in sharing its predecessor's fate, it is bolted onto a heavy base. Once this year's festival is over, the booth can be easily disassembled for storage.

The results have Simmons eagerly anticipatoilfield-related people (Tuesday)," Barr said. "They told us their point of view on the new fee ... and eventually, a motion was made to reduce the fee to $2,500 and that passed."

Aside from reducing the fee, commissioners decided to allow companies more time to pay the charge — 45 days from the time people apply for the permit, instead of paying at the time of application — Barr said.

"I've always said that roads are the commissioners' main responsibility — if things are good, they get a lot of the credit, and if the roads are bad, they get a lot of the blame — so I told them that whatever they decided upon, I'd back," Barr said. "Overall, I think this is a fair compromise."

Also Tuesday, commissioners discussed renewal of the interlocal agreement with the city of Big Spring concerning ambulance service outside the city limits.

Big Spring's city council has already tentatively approved an agreement calling for the county to pay $240,000 for service outside the city, then an additional amount to help cover delinquent costs each year of the agreement.

Barr said commissioners offered a counterproposal — the county will pay a flat fee of $390,000 the next two years.

"I called (Big Spring City Manager) Todd Darden and told him our proposal, and he seemed to react favorably," Barr said. "This comes very close to what they're asking. Our main concern was that we want to pay a ing the festival's 17th annual run later this year.

"I'm really looking forward to it," the long-time festival chairman said. "I think with (the inmate workforce's) assistance, things will run pretty smoothly this year."

DAILY PRAYER

Fundamentals can't be compromised

In my opinion, our wonderful country is suffering from a serious erosion of love and respect for fundamental truth. It is painfully evident in Washington, Hollywood and essentially every city, town and community in America. It has caused a near collapse of morality and decency that is at the root of many of society's ills. Like many problems, there may not be a sweeping, one-size-fits-all simple solution to the matter, but I contend that change is necessary or the end result may be more catastrophic than we are willing and able to endure.

According to the Merriam-Webster Dictionary the definition of the word fundamental is "forming or relating to the most important part of something: of or relating to the basic structure or function of something. It further expands the meaning with: "of or relating to essential structure, function, or facts: of or dealing with general principles rather than practical application."

In light of many of America's problems, there are a few words in that definition that need to be closely examined and some deep and serious consideration must be applied to understanding the erosion of some of our nation's most precious fundamentals. Words and phrases like "most important part," "essential," and "principles" need to be reintroduced into the dialogue when our nation's future is being discussed. There are far too many individuals, political groups, and social organizations seeking complete control of our government and our personal lives.

I have done a considerable amount of research and the number of times that President Obama, including the time he was presidential candidate Obama, has stated his objective is to fundamentally change America is astounding and alarming. I would say to our President, to Congress, and the entire populace of the USA that change is desperately needed, but the fundamentals of our nation should not be the focus of that change. The foundation of the United States of America is rooted in fundamentals that don't need changing.

Core democratic values are the fundamental beliefs and constitutional principles of American society, which unite all Americans. These values are expressed in the Declaration of Independence, the United States constitution and other significant documents. From a close and honest study of many of those documents, including A Framework for Civic Education, a collaborative project of the Center for Civic Education and the Council for the Advancement of Citizenship, National Council for the Social Studies, I believe the fundamentals of America that cannot be compromised are:

LIFE: The individual's right to life should be considered inviolable except in certain highly restricted and extreme circumstances, such as the use of deadly force to protect one's own or others' lives. The government should not use the citizen's tax dollars to fund the destruction of life.

LIBERTY: The right to liberty is considered an unalterable aspect of the human condition. The right to liberty includes personal freedom: the private realm in which the individual is free to act, to think and to believe, and which the government cannot legitimately invade; political freedom: the right to participate freely in the political process, choose and remove public officials, to be governed under a rule of law; the right to a free flow of information and ideas, open debate and right of assembly; and economic freedom: the right to acquire, use, transfer and dispose of private property without unreasonable governmental interference; the right to seek employment wherever one pleases; to change employment at will; and to engage in any lawful economic activity: religious freedom: American citizens should be allowed to worship freely without government interference and the will of a few should not be imposed on the masses through foolish lawsuits by individuals or groups seeking to force their beliefs upon everyone.

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS: It is the right of citizens in the American constitutional democracy to attempt to attain — "pursue" — happiness in their own way, so long as they do not infringe upon the rights of others or engage in illegal or immoral activities.

COMMON GOOD: The public or common good requires that individual citizens have the commitment and motivation — that they accept their obligation — to promote the welfare of the community and to work together with other members for the greater benefit of all.

JUSTICE: People should be treated fairly in the distribution of the benefits and burdens of society, the correction of wrongs and injuries, and in the gathering of information and making of decisions.

EQUALITY: All citizens have: political equality and are not denied these rights unless by due process of law; legal equality and should be treated as equals before the law; social equality so as there should be no class hierarchy sanctioned by law; economic equality so that anyone may have equal opportunities to be gainfully employed and provide for their families.

DIVERSITY: Variety in culture and ethnic background, race, lifestyle, and belief is not only permissible but desirable and beneficial in a pluralist society.

TRUTH: Citizens can legitimately demand that truth-telling as refraining from lying and full disclosure by government is the rule, since trust in the veracity of government constitutes an essential element of the bond between governors and the governed.

POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY: The citizenry is collectively the sovereign of the state and hold ultimate authority over public officials and their policies.

PATRIOTISM: Virtuous citizens display a devotion to their country, including devotion to the fundamental values upon which it depends.

When one adds the immeasurable significance of Constitutional Principles to the mix, the argument against fundamental change becomes even more compelling.

RULE OF LAW: Both government and the governed should be subject to the law.

SEPARATION OF POWERS: Legislative, Executive, and Judicial powers should be exercised by different institutions in order to maintain the limitations placed upon them.

FREEDOM OF RELIGION: There shall be full freedom of conscience for people of all faiths or none. Religious liberty is considered to be a natural inalienable right that must always be beyond the power of the state to confer or remove. Religious liberty includes the right to

Obama sold voters a bill of goods

As a candidate for president, Barack Obama sold his signature universal health care plan with the promise that it would "cut the cost of a typical family's premium by up to $2,500 a year."

Now that the Affordable Care Act exchanges are open for business, voters are finding that the biggest problem with Obamacare is not that some websites crashed last week but that the Obama promise of big savings for the average family was too good to be true.

Now that the exchanges are open for business, people who already have individual coverage have something new not to like: sticker shock. The Affordable Care Act isn't affordable after all.

Last week, I began hearing from readers whose individual policy premiums are going up, not down. A local architect sent me a notice he received from Kaiser Permanente informing him that his individual coverage will increase by $199.95 per month, or 78.9 percent. When he added his two sons, the percentage increase was even greater.

A freelance journalist told me she made $98,000 last year. But she and her retired husband, both 51, wouldn't pay $7,200 in premiums for high-deductible coverage. It's cheaper to pay the fine, she said. Besides, she added, "we're healthy."

A reader wrote that her premiums will rise considerably, and she doesn't think she qualifies for a subsidy.

It is becoming increasingly clear that while poor working families will have access to their own health care policies at affordable rates — affordable because they are subsidized — middle-class and affluent people stand to pay more.

Forget that $2,500 savings.

That raises this question: How was Kaiser able to offer bare-bones coverage more cheaply than the Affordable Care Act bare-bones plan?

According to Kaiser spokesman John Nelson, the architect had enrolled in a plan with a "medically screened population" that was very healthy.

Under Obamacare, providers can't screen for pre-existing conditions. So healthy policyholders pay higher premiums to subsidize those with health problems. Also, the Affordable Care Act expands coverage to include maternity benefits and substance abuse treatment.

Older people may see a reduction in their premiums because the law prevents providers from charging older adults more than three times the premium for young consumers. That also means young people can expect to pay even higher premiums than they did under the old market.

With his slick, deceitful sales pitch about lowering people's premiums, Obama now has to contend with voter expectations. Democrats sold this package as a big bonanza for American families who have been squeezed too hard. Now many are finding out not only that there is no $2,500 in savings but also that instead, surprise, their premiums just went up.

The administration won't say how many people have enrolled. Wonder why.

Voters never should have believed that Washington could offer more health care benefits to more people and that it would end up saving families thousands of dollars. It was too good to be true, and now the bill is coming due.

DEBRA SAUNDERS

Check this out! At the library

The Friends of Library Book Sale continues in the basement. The prices remain the same but there are certainly bargains to be had. If you missed the sale the past weekend, do come and see what is left for you to look at. We have some new Westerns in. From Ralph Cotton comes "High Wild Desert"

HOLLIS McCRIGHT

(LP W COT R), a tale of Arizona Ranger Sam Burrack, who is headed for Yuma, escorting Cisco Land to prison and Adele Simpson to safety. Sam knows full well that Sam and Adele have a romance thing going on, and he has to keep a keen eye on both of them to make sure nothing happens. Well, something happens and you will have to read the book to find out!

In "Man from Durango" (LP W PAIL) by Lauran Paine, are a duo of stories. "Prairie Guns" is the story of a couple of homesteaders, Buff Brady and Luther Hart, who hope to throw their quarter sections together to form a cattle ranch. But that really hacks off local baron Colton Miller who is determined to run them off, come heck or high water. In "Man from Durango", Bent Ander returns to Winterset, Texas, after living as a fugitive in Mexico. Winterset is a small ranching town that lives under the iron hoof of the Clancy family who terrorizes the town and controls the largest ranch around. As usual, the town marshal is shot, and guess who is asked to take the badge and break the Clancy's grip.

The last two Westerns are Wayne D. Overholser's "Gunlock" (LP W OVE W) and "Burn English" (LP W LUC W) by William A. Luckey. The first is about homesteaders coming into open range country and the second is about an old cowboy who finally finds love.

Richard Castle writes the Derrick Storm thrillers (also the Castle tv series) and I don't think I have ever read any of them (looks like we only have two in print version), they look pretty good. From Tokyo to London, high-level bankers are being gruesomely tortured and murdered. The killer, caught on a surveillance camera, has an eye patch, so that means it is Gregory Volkov. He is Storm's nemesis. Desperate to find out whom Volkov is working for, the CIA call upon Storm to find him and take him down. In the process, Storm discovers a plot that could destroy the global economy, and only he can prevent it. Such a hero. Oh yes, the book is "Storm Front" (M CAS R), it is by Richard Castle and the other one that we have on hand in print is "Heat Rises" (M CAS R).

"Naked Heat" (AUCD F CAS R) is in CD form and can be listened to while at home or in the car.

We have two cute little cookbooks that will entice you to do "101 Things to do With Chicken" (641.665 KEL D) by Donna Kelly and "101 Things to do With a Potato" (641.652 ASH S) by Stephanie Ashcraft. Have you ever had a Potato Crust Pizza? Then check out page 44. When was the last time you actually fried potatoes or chicken? I cannot remember, the brain cells that contained those memories have died or atrophied from lack of use. However, on page 88 of the potato book you can refresh your memory on how to fry potatoes. On page 107 of the chicken book, there is an Oven-Fried Buttermilk Chicken recipe. Oh, and did you see on the news, the report on what is actually found in some chicken nuggets (and I just ate some on Friday!)? Suffice it to say, it ain't necessarily all chicken meat. Page 106 shows you how to make your own breaded chicken nuggets. Now I'm hungry.

Interest has really risen with Jane Austen fan-fiction spinoffs. The library has received "Longbourn" (RN BAK J), a novel from Jo Baker that looks at "Pride and Prejudice" from a different angle, that of the servants. From the book flap, it reads: If Elizabeth Bennet had the washing of her own petticoats, Sarah often thought, she'd most likely be a sight more careful with them. In this irresistibly imagined below stairs answer to Pride and Prejudice, the servants take center stage. Sarah, the orphaned housemaid, spends her days scrubbing the laundry, polishing the floors and emptying the chamber pots for the Bennet household. But there is just as much romance, heartbreak and intrigue downstairs at Longbourn as there is upstairs. When a mysterious new footman arrives, the orderly realm of the servants' hall threatens to be completely, perhaps irrevocably, upended. Jo Baker dares to take us beyond the drawing rooms of Jane Austen's classic into the often overlooked domain of the stern housekeeper and the starry-eyed kitchen maid, into the gritty daily particulars faced by the lower classes in Regency England during the Napoleonic Wars and, in doing so, creates a vivid, fascinating, fully realized world that is wholly her own. Another McNaughton book to favor is Ann Rule's "Practice to Deceive" (364.152 R). In "Practice to Deceive", her first book-length investigative chronicle since "In the Still of the Night," Rule unravels a shattering case of Christmastime murder off the coast of Washington State presented with the clarity, authority, and emotional depth that Rule's readers expect. It's a case with enough drama, greed, sex, and scandal to be called "The Real Housewives of Whidbey Island," but this was not reality television. This was murder: pure, cruel, ugly, and senseless. And someone had to pay the price. Remember we are open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.; the internet/video room closes at 5:30. You may reach us at 264-2260; fax number is 264-2263. Our website is <http://wtls.tsl.state.tx.us/howard-county>.

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: Recently, I was introduced to an older gentleman. He has never been married, but he did have a son through artificial insemination. His son passed away, and he talks all the time about how special he was.

He has a very strong and commanding personality to the point of sometimes being a bit of a bully. It seems like he is always demanding that things be done his way or else. What bothers me most is that he has a low opinion of women. He's often said that women should do what they are told and stay home and take care of the house and family. And worse, he's even said how "dirty" women are in regard to their menstrual cycles, and that is why he has never talked about sex.

He does seem like a good person — he's very intelligent and many people like him. He says he loves me, but he says that to everyone. I'm not sure about his intentions and wonder whether I should pursue this relationship or not. — California Gal

Dear California: Run, don't walk, from this relationship. This man is not partner material. He may seem intelligent and nice, but he will expect you to be at his beck and call, and he will have little respect for you. And intimacy? Forget it. The most you can expect is a bossy kind of one-sided friendship, and we don't need a crystal ball to know that he won't make you happy. Sorry.

Dear Annie: When my neighbors take their annual two-week vacation, I water their extensive flowers every day and take in their mail. I've been doing this for 10 years, and all I ever received was a thank-you and a few daylily transplants.

Recently, I had a severe bout with diverticulitis and was in a lot of pain. I could hardly pick up my own mail, much less theirs. This didn't make the wife happy. I also need surgery and asked whether she would take my terrier, and she refused. She's taken care of other people's dogs, so I don't understand this.

I know she will want me to water all of her plants next year, but I don't think I will, considering she won't help me in my time of need. I feel used. My dog is 16 years old and healthy, but I worry he won't survive in a kennel for five days. My handyman is willing to take care of my dog, but he wants $90 per day to come and let him out three times a day. What would you do? — Hurt and Worried

Dear Hurt: We assume your dog is as easy to care for as you claim. If so, your handyman is overcharging you. Most dog-sitters charge between $15 and $30 per day. If someone has to come multiple times, they may charge $15 per visit, but it still doesn't add up to $90 a day. Make sure he didn't mean $90 for all five days, which would be more than reasonable. You can find reliable pet-sitters online or get a referral from your veterinarian's office. And if you are not able or willing to take care of your neighbors' mail and flowers, so be it. It is a kindness, not an obligation.

Dear Annie: This is for "Leave Us Alone," who is getting pressure from their families about having children.

My wife and I were married at 26 and had our children when we were in our 30s. We spent the first six years of our marriage establishing our careers, beginning our savings, buying our home and taking some great vacations that involved lots of camping and low-cost motels.

Reflecting back, I think those years provided a solid foundation for our now 38-year marriage by giving us the experience of working together as a team, providing mutual support to each other as we tackled the challenges of building our careers and sharing our lives. — Still Going Strong

Three former Big Spring football players honored at Sun Bowl

EL PASO — Three former Big Spring football players were among those honored recently at the 50-year anniversary of the Sun Bowl — the University of Texas at El Paso's venue and also where Jack Ed Irons, Jerry Tucker and Dexter Pate played collegiate football. Except five decades ago, it was known as Texas Western University.

While at Big Spring, the trio were all captains of the football squad. They played baseball together and led what Irons described as a very close-knit Steer team back in 1961.

"We've been together for a long time," said Irons, who now lives in Dallas. "And we're still good friends. There was a real close group of 11 or 12 of us seniors. Our time in El Paso was fun because I knew them. Of course, we were small, we are all about 5'1", 165 pounds, but we played hard. We called ourselves the Raiders. We wanted to be called something different. The Raiders stormed the beach at Normandy."

In the 60s, BSHS was a 4A program, the biggest it got. The Steers competed in a district known as the Little Southwest Conference and included schools such as Odessa Permian, Midland Lee and Abilene High.

"We were definitely the smallest 4A school," Irons said. "But we were all competitive."

When their time in Big Spring was up, Irons, Tucker and Pate stormed into Sun Bowl stadium, too. Irons remarked that one of his most memorable moments on the field was the opening kickoff of the inaugural game at the brand new stadium in 1963 in a game against North Texas State.

"Our halfback Larry Durham ran 54 yards for a touchdown on the very first play from scrimmage in the first ball game," Irons recalled. "That was very memorable. It was a great experience. I have a lot of good memories with these guys."

Though the Miners only went 3-7, the following year, Bobby Dobbs was tapped to lead TWU and a new era was born. The next season, a much better 8-2 record was posted and Miner football gained steam. Dobbs left the school having compiled an overall record of 41-35-2, including two Sun Bowl victories.

Irons' teammate and Miner QB Billy Stevens went on to play for the Green Bay Packers. Another, Chuck Huges, played for the Philadelphia Eagles and Detroit Lions.

But Irons is still proud of his high school alma mater and all of the success it has had in turning out pro athletes. Though the unofficial count is 19 former BSHS players to go on to the NFL, Irons said there's likely more.

"I saw a list with the names from Big Spring and my brother, Mikel Irons, wasn't on it. He played for Green Bay," Irons said. "So there's probably even more that have gone to the NFL."

Lady Steers roll over Sweetwater

By BRIAN MCCORMACK
Sports Editor

Big Spring cruised past Sweetwater last night at Steer Gym, defeating the Lady Mustangs 25-6, 25-23, 25-16. with a Top 25 state rank, a 24-10 overall record and only one district loss. BSHS Head Coach Lynn Osborne is confident her team is ready for a playoff run — which will be clinched with one more 4-3A victory.

The Lady Steers came out strong, holding Sweetwater to single digits in the first set and closing it out with a 10-2 run. Big Spring may have gotten a little cocky, as the Lady Mustangs fell behind early and were forced to fight their way back. A service ace by Julianna Rodriguez gave BSHS a 6-5 lead and at one point, the Lady Steers led by six.

A huge, late-set run by Sweetwater made things interesting. Six unanswered points knotted the set at 23, but a kill by Morgan Seaton ended it.

"We just had a lull in our game," Osborne said. "That happens sometimes when it's a little slower a game."

The Lady Steers still face state-ranked Wylie and have a rematch against Monahans — the only district squad to hand Osborne's girls a loss. "That was a really tough loss," she said. "I think we went in knowing it was going to be a battle and we were really disappointed in that loss. We were really looking forward to revenge."

When asked if she anticipates a playoff run, Osborne said, "We're certainly expecting that. That's what's in our heads."

BSHS junior varsity won 25-23, 25-17. Freshmen won 25-21, 25-18.

Osborne gave credit to junior varsity's Alyssa Armentrout (server), August Alexander (offense) Emily Smith (setter) and Alexis Garcia (defense), as outstanding players against Sweetwater.

Freshmen receiving recognition were Megan Magallanes (offense) and Caitlyn Aaron (defense and server).

Next up will be a road trip to Wylie on Friday.

Individual results

Setters: Morgan Seaton, 14 assists, 13 kills, 5 digs, 2 blocks, 1 ace; Kinsey Wash, 11 assists, 4 digs, 3 aces, 1 kill.

Offense: Erin Pollard, 7 kills, 4 digs, 1 assist; Ebony Zavala, 9 digs, 7 kills, 3 aces, 1 block.

Defense: Julianna Rodriguez, 20 digs, 1 ace; Stevi Ward, 7 digs, 1 ace.

Red Sox hold off Rays, 3-1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — When the champagne stopped flowing in the visitor's clubhouse, the Boston Red Sox took the celebration back out to the stands at Tropicana Field so that family and friends could share some of the fun.

A year after finishing in last place, the AL East champion Red Sox won 97 games to match St. Louis for the best record in baseball. Now, they're moving on to the AL championship series for the first time in five years.

"I think at this point it really doesn't do any good to kind of look at where we were," reliever Craig Breslow said after coming out of the bullpen to give the team a huge boost in a 3-1 victory that ended Tampa Bay's season.

"We had guys come to spring training, everybody bought in," Breslow added, explaining Boston's quick turnaround after going 69-93 last year.

The resilient Rays won four win-or-go-home games over the previous nine, but couldn't win another to send the best-of-five matchup back to Fenway Park for a decisive Game 5.

Shane Victorino's infield single snapped a seventh-inning tie and Dustin Pedroia's ninth-inning sacrifice fly provided insurance for the Red Sox.

Koji Uehara got the final four outs — one night after giving up a game-winning homer — and Boston rebounded to take the series in four games.

The Red Sox will open the ALCS at home Saturday against the Athletics or Tigers. Oakland hosts Detroit in a winner-take-all Game 5 on Thursday.

There was a sense of relief in finally getting past the Rays, who have been a tough matchup for Boston over the past six seasons. Counting three wins in the ALDS, the Red Sox won 15 of 23 meetings between the teams this season.

"I'm assuming that the next opponent we have is going to be as tall a challenge as Tampa is," manager John Farrell said.

"You never feel like you're comfortable going against them."

Tigers rally past A's, 8-6

DETROIT (AP) — Justin Verlander is again standing between the Oakland Athletics and the AL championship series.

But only after Max Scherzer — the man who supplanted Verlander as Detroit's top starter this year — kept the Tigers' season alive with a relief outing to remember.

Scherzer escaped a major jam one inning after two fans reached out to try to reel in Victor Martinez's disputed home run, and the Tigers rallied past the Oakland Athletics 8-6 Tuesday to force a decisive fifth game in their AL division series.

Verlander will start at Oakland on Thursday night, almost a year to the day after he shut out the A's at the Coliseum in Game 5 of the division series last season. Scherzer was in line to start Game 5, but the 21-game winner came on Tuesday instead for his first relief appearance since the 2011 postseason. He wriggled out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the eighth inning and got the win.

"That was amazing," Verlander said. "He got himself in trouble and got himself out of it. That was pretty intense. I think all Tigers fans and Tigers players would have rather it be three up, three down, but it made for a great story, didn't it?"

Oakland hasn't announced a starter for Thursday. It is Bartolo Colon's turn in the postseason rotation, but rookie Sonny Gray could also come back on normal rest after a brilliant performance in Game 2.

"We haven't decided anything yet," manager Bob Melvin said.

Playing catch-up most of the way in Game 4, the Tigers tied it first with Jhonny Peralta's three-run homer in the fifth and then on Martinez's solo shot in the seventh. A couple of fans attempted to catch Martinez's drive, and at least one of them bobbled the ball while reaching for it over the railing above the wall.

That prevented right fielder Josh Reddick from having any chance at a leaping grab. Reddick and center fielder Coco Crisp immediately protested, pointing up at the stands in the hope of a fan-interference call. But umpires upheld the home run after a replay review.

"I have no doubt I was going to catch that ball. When I looked at the replay, that's what I thought," Reddick said. "It's totally frustrating that a fan can influence the game."

Gary Darling, the crew chief, was umpiring in right field. He disagreed, even after the replay.

"It was clear he was not going to catch the ball, so it was clearly going to be a home run," Darling said. "There wasn't any other evidence on replay to turn it another way."

Detroit manager Jim Leyland wasn't about to wait on a report from the clubhouse for a replay of this magnitude.

"I usually wait for the guys to come out of the video room and let me know, but in this case, I went down there to look at it," Leyland said. "Not a home run."

Scherzer came out of the bullpen in the seventh and gave up a run.

Opening lead — nine of diamonds.

One of the gratifying aspects of bridge is that careless or thoughtless play does not often go unpunished. Perpetrators usually pay for their indiscretions.

Consider this case where South reached three notrump on the bidding shown. East won the diamond lead with the king, cashed the ace and returned a diamond. West discarding a club. Declarer now cashed his four club winners, hoping to induce a spade discard from one or both opponents. But both defenders hung on to their spades, discarding hearts when they ran out of clubs.

When declarer next played the A-K of spades, East's jack fell, but South was in no position to enjoy this windfall. If he cashed dummy's ten, he could not get to his hand to collect the queen, while if he overtook the ten with the queen, West's nine would become the high spade.

South's downfall can be attributed directly to his misguided attempt to induce a defensive error by cashing his clubs immediately. In so doing, he gave up a perfectly legitimate chance to score four spade tricks if either opponent started with the singleton or doubleton jack of spades — about an 18 percent possibility. This, combined with the 36 percent chance of a 3-3 spade division, would have given him better than a 50 percent chance of making the contract.

Had South simply cashed the A-K of spades while he still had the ace of clubs in his hand, he would have had no difficulty collecting the nine tricks he started with.

Tomorrow: A simple rule of thumb.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Mercury/Saturn Hangover

The residue of yesterday's meeting of Mercury and Saturn still lingers, suggesting a day of contrasting scenes. Venus in Sagittarius is full of energy and passion, and yet there is also a nagging sense of doubt. Opening one door means not choosing any of the other paths. You may find yourself wondering what you passed up.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Compassion starts at home. It is hard to be kind to others if you haven't been kind to yourself. With this in mind, take the time to do the things that make you smile.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Negative attitudes are contagious. Avoid the complainers and malcontents lest you become part of their clan. Make a move away from them to assure that you stay self-contained.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Whatever you believe about yourself, whether it's accurate or completely off base, is likely to become true. With that in mind, try this one on for size: You are at the beginning of a cycle of prosperity.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Your desire to overcome a problem or limitation is admirable, and yet you may be overlooking the main asset of your particular personality makeup. What if you embraced the flaw instead of trying to change it?

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You'll be in charge in a hands-off kind of way. You'll be the responsible party and a guide for others without micromanaging their efforts. They can feel that you trust them, and they'll work to maintain that trust.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You don't require a lot of external stimuli in your environment. In fact, you do your best work when the sound, light and personality of the room is muted enough to allow your rich inner life to take over.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Your moral compass is spinning, and you'll strive to settle the dial in the right direction. You'll act because you're driven to do what you think is right, not because you want praise or attention.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). There will be good news. This could have to do with an inheritance, a happy outcome from applying your personal talent or the acquisition of property. Enjoy this bounty.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Tenderness is the essential ingredient that will make your relationships work. It is the glue that holds your familial bonds and friendships together. It may seem counterintuitive, but tenderness makes you strong.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You will build your assets by focusing on what you do have instead of on what you don't have. Put your energy into highlighting your best work. No one has quite your lineup of gifts and talents.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You admire people of action, but today it's more important to consider the action itself and not just the person who moves on an impulse. As for you, you're better off thinking things through for another day.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Groups are powerful and sometimes not in a good way. Beware: The dominant forces in the room gain followers precisely because of their dominance, even though their message may be terribly off.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 9). You'll definitely sing your own song this year, and it all starts with the passionate and creative influence of the next six weeks. There will be pleasure in research, and by November, you'll apply what you know and make a significant change. December shifts your focus. You'll move forward with plans for family life in January.

Cancer and Scorpio people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 17, 1, 22, 24 and 38.

12 MAPS TO NOW: Do you sometimes stray so far from Now that you have trouble finding your way back? Here's another map to return you to the present.

MAP No. 9: The Art of Waiting
Most people don't wait well. When the line at the grocery store or the gas pump seems excruciatingly long, it is only natural to feel trapped by the circumstances and respond by mentally squirming around them or ranting about them. The next time you are hanging around in some in-between bit of time, challenge yourself to take a different point of view. Perhaps this is the perfect opportunity to clear your own agenda and take in the moment.

What if the place and time in which you stand waiting are the only place and time that exist at all? What do you gather in that case? Do people's faces have greater significance? Can you sense the emotional timbre of the room? Do the sights and smells mean something different to you?

If you can make yourself relax into the in-between time, you might find that it will be the most revealing of your true nature and of the nature of those around you.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: It's difficult to believe that the baritone-voiced Scotty McCreery is just now, for the first time, leaving his teenage years behind. This platinum-selling "American Idol" will celebrate his birthday week by releasing a new album and making promotional appearances. The country star was born when the sun and lucky Jupiter were in harmonious Libra and the moon was in soulful Cancer.
