Drugs, sexual assault spark jury

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer
 Fourteen people were indicted during a Halloween Day session of the Howard Grand Jury Thursday. District Attorney Hardy L. Wilkerson described the session as "business-like." "These cases mostly involved people who are jail or cases we've been waiting for evidence on before we could proceed," Wilkerson said. "It was a very business-like session. We anticipate more high-profile cases being considered by this grand jury before its term is up later this year." Those indicted during Thursday's grand jury session were:

 • Amy Abrego, 32, 1905

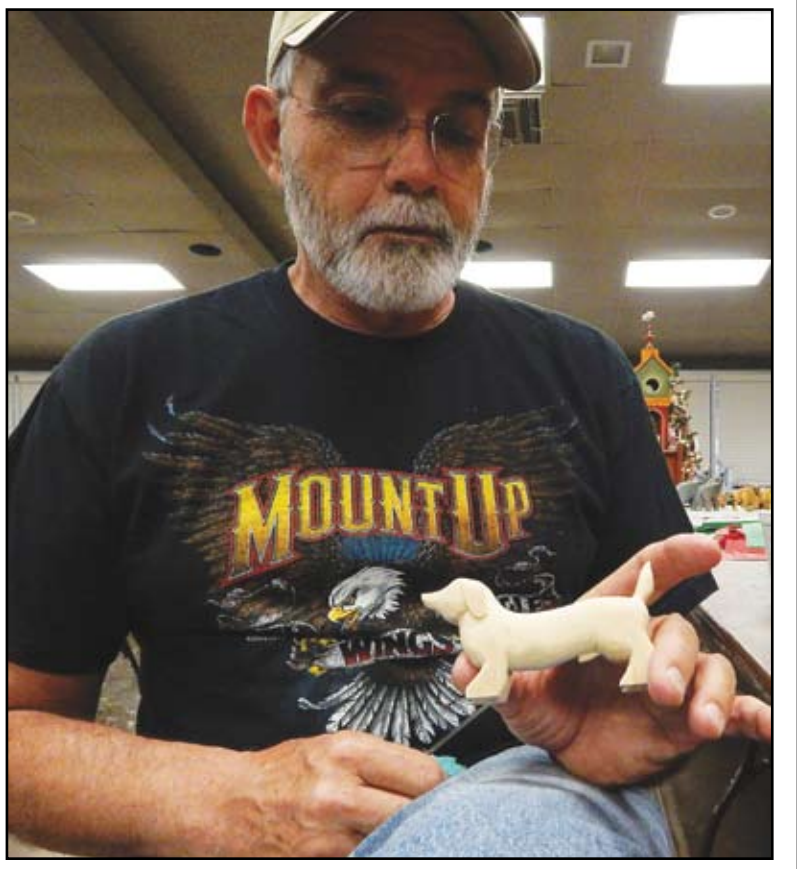

Wasson No. 39, possession of a controlled substance (third degree felony).
 • Paula J. Bulter, 44, currently in Travis County Jail, three counts of delivery of a controlled substance (offenses range from state jail felony to first degree felony).
 • Latonya Cubit, 32, 600 Interstate 20 No. 123, possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver and aggravated assault with a deadly weapon (both enhanced to first degree felonies).

 • Juan Angel Madrid, 27, currently in Howard County jail, delivery of a controlled

True to form, Elvis, aka Moss Elementary teacher Lana Schooler, joined the festivities Thursday afternoon as Moss students paraded in front of the school dressed in their Halloween costumes for family and friends. The Crossroads area was inundated with costume-clad children — small, big, and some very big — who took advantage of a warm Halloween night to search for treats at various businesses and residences.

Local merchants will take part in holiday promotions

By LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer
 Forget Black Friday — let's start shopping now.

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and local merchants are rolling out "The 12 Days Before Black Friday" event to encourage residents to get shopping on their minds.
 "The Chamber Business Development Committee came up with the idea on how to get people to shop locally," said Debbye ValVerde, Chamber executive director. "We want the community to see what unique shops we have now right in our backyard."
 "We have many boutiques that have opened up downtown and several have gone into the Spring Town Plaza. And let's not forget about our longtime favorite retail shops that do offer those unique gifts. We are trying get people to shop locally and make a difference in our community."

 To help foster participation, the Chamber and local retail businesses have teamed up to offer potential prizes for those who browse certain stores. Shoppers may sign-up at any of 17 participating businesses beginning Monday for a gift valued at least $50, ValVerde said. Drawings will be held daily — except Saturday and Sunday — Nov. 12 through Nov. 27. There is no cost to enter.
 "This is just a way for our Chamber to help promote our local businesses and our members," ValVerde said.

Forcing or Nonforcing?

Below are four unrelated bidding sequences. In each case, do you treat the last bid in the sequence as forcing (compelling partner to bid again) or nonforcing (allowing partner to pass)? A bid that merely invites partner to bid again should be treated as nonforcing.

Opener	Responder
1. 1♠	2♣
2♥	3♣
2. 1♥	1♠
2♣	2♦
3. 1♥	2♣
2♦
4. 1♥	2♦

second turn. A typical hand for responder in this sequence might be: ♠7♥J3♦K82♣AQ109752.

2. Forcing. This is in keeping with the general principle that when responder names a new suit, it is a forcing bid. Thus, in the given auction, both one spade and two diamonds are forcing. Note that opener's two-club bid — because it is a change of suit by opener as distinguished from a change of suit by responder — is not forcing (responder could pass with six or seven points and a preference for clubs). Only a rebid of three clubs (a jump-shift) by opener would be forcing.

3. Forcing. Here, because opener has not limited his point count, it would not make much sense to permit responder who has promised upward of 10 points — to pass. Further bidding will be needed to determine whether the partnership has enough points for a game, and whether the game is in a suit or notrump.

4. Forcing. Three clubs promises well above a minimum opening, since opener has voluntarily climbed into the nine-trick level. It shows roughly 17 points or more. Opener should have at least five hearts and four clubs, but could easily have greater length in either or both suits.

Tomorrow: An unusual discard.

Crony capitalism: 1960s legacy

The historic blunders of President Barack Obama's embarrassing health care rollout demonstrate spectacularly the utter failure of what? Let me tell you. They are the blunders of what was once called the “Brightest Generation” in American history, the 1960s generation. It did not start with Obama. His blunders were just a continuance of their blunders.

By the 1960s generation, I mean the pot-smoking, war-protesting, guitar-strumming kids of the left — not the majority from the 1960s generation, not the silent majority, but the minority. They were the miracle workers in politics: Jean-Francois Kerry, the Clintons, Al Gore, Joe Biden and all the rest. Their sages such as Saul Alinsky formalized their balderdash in learned tomes for their successors, for instance, our president. The media kept whooping it up for them. Their every pratfall was portrayed as a great success. Well, make a success of the health care rollout.

The health care disaster, first suggested to the American people by Hillary Clinton in the 1990s, and then rammed through a Democratic majority of both chambers of Congress by Obama and the dunderheads on his staff, is the most incompetent piece of legislation in American history. Not incidentally, it is the most energetic piece of legislation in American history. It envisages a nation of robust Americans mandated by law to have perfect health and then to die, all according to a national standard formulated by the Independent Payment Advisory Board.

Just consider a part of the master plan, the rollout. It utterly failed. When the quacks are done tweaking to its various computer portals and other applications to get them upright and facing the dubious American public, the next disaster will be the hackers' feast.

HealthCare.gov will be a swindler's dream come true. Its problems will go on for years to come. Donald Trump saw it all coming. At The American Spectator's annual Robert L. Bartley Dinner last week, he incisively remarked that all Obama had to do was go to Google or Amazon and they would have gotten it right. They would probably have volunteered their services.

Yet, now we know that the Obama administration had the services of Michelle Obama's college chum. At Princeton, Mrs. Obama became fast friends with Toni Townes-Whitley, who now is employed by CGI Federal. The administration handed CGI a no-bid government contract to build HealthCare.gov, and they blew it. Yet that is the way crony capitalism works, and if it was not such a stupendous disaster, we might never know what a con was at work here.

Crony capitalism is now the 1960s brats' favorite instrumentality. There was a day when the 1960s brats advised America to take up the “mixed-economy” with big government quietly in control behind the scenes. Then they favored big government stepping forward. They favored socialism. Now they favor the likes of CGI with its no-bid contracts. They favor crony capitalism.

With Obamacare, crony capitalism has been given control of fully one sixth of the American economy, and we can see how effective it is. With the military industrial complex, the cronies will have still more of the economy, and with the proliferation of no-bid contracts soon the military will be as effective as Obamacare. Then there is Wall Street. Such monstrosities as Dodd-Frank will soon give the crony capitalists control of Wall Street.

Let the rollout of Obamacare serve as a stark warning to us. America is done with the 1960s brats and their idiotic disciples.

Ugly underbelly of abortion debate

In 1992, in Planned Parenthood v. Casey, the United States Supreme Court reaffirmed its decision in Roe v. Wade holding that a woman has a constitutional right, grounded in the right to privacy, to decide whether to carry a pregnancy to term. That right, of course, is not — and never has been — absolute or unlimited. States may restrict that right (often in the name of protecting the woman's health) as long as the regulation does not impose an “undue burden” on a woman's choice. Past a certain point in pregnancy, abortion is prohibited unless necessary to preserve the life and health of the mother.

In the past 20 years, the “fight” mostly has revolved around two areas: the legal limits that may be imposed and the practical limits, meaning the lack of access. For all of the high-minded rhetoric, it is a very cruel debate because it takes place on the backs of the poorest and most vulnerable women in our society.

Restrictive abortion laws — and the Texas law held unconstitutional this week is example A of this — do not restrict the rights of middle-class women in big cities. The way the “undue burden” standard has played out, those who oppose abortion pass laws that put obstacles in the path of women who are the most vulnerable. Thus, the Texas law, for example, would have barred doctors from performing abortions unless they have admitting privileges at hospitals within 30 miles of the clinic.

Why?

As the judge found, there is no medical reason that the doctor performing an abortion must have admitting rights within 30 miles. Put aside the fact that abortions performed prior to 20 weeks (which is the limit imposed by law) rarely result in emergency room visits. Even if they did, there is absolutely no evidence that the doctor must have admitting privileges in order for the woman to be treated in an emergency room. Women who go to emergency rooms are treated by emergency room doctors, without regard to where the clinic doctor has privileges.

No, the reason for the limit had nothing to do with protecting women's health and everything to do with making it more difficult and more expensive for poor and rural women to exercise their constitutional rights.

In much of this country, outside of the big cities, it is nearly impossible to find doctors who will perform abortions. You shouldn't have to be a hero to be a gynecologist — and certainly not a local hero — but that is how it works. In some areas, doctors come in once or twice a week (sometimes from a distant city or even from out of state) to volunteer at a local clinic. If they can't do that, then women can't get abortions.

So, too, for the law's limits on administering the medicine that induces abortion. When the medical protocols were first established, women were required to come to the clinic to receive two doses of the medicine. Later, many doctors found that a single visit was all that was medically necessary.

Understand, every time a woman must go to a clinic, she must find a way to get there, find someone to care for her children, lose a day of work. It's no problem if you are a wealthy urban woman. It's a potentially insurmountable obstacle if you aren't.

So what did Texas do? They passed a law that would require a woman to personally come to the clinic not once, not twice, but three times. Why? Because it would reduce the number of abortions by making them more difficult and more expensive. The judge upheld these restrictions, finding that they are a burden but not unconstitutional, although he went on to say that an individual doctor should be allowed to use his or her judgment as to what is medically appropriate, a result that left many concerned that doctors still could face discipline if they practice medicine the same way doctors do in states where the governor is not determined to block access to abortion.

What would happen if middle-class women in Dallas and Houston and Austin were suddenly denied access to abortions? What would happen if young women on college campuses in Texas could no longer get safe abortions? Texas Gov. Rick Perry would have a revolution on his hands. The reason he doesn't is because it is the poor and the vulnerable who are the pawns in this fight. And that is so wrong.

Life has no remote

Technology has come a long way since the first black and white television enticed its way into my childhood home. With the advent of television, life in our rural home was never the same. The world outside our little house suddenly got bigger, and the family activities inside became fewer.

Since we lived a long distance from the nearest television station, programming was limited. Under the best of circumstances, there were only two available channels. In order to change channels, someone had to go outside and turn the antenna toward the preferred station a hundred or so miles away.

Because changing the direction of the antenna could be difficult, we kept a heavy-duty wrench on the porch for that purpose. If the weather happened to be good, the picture on the screen was only slightly fuzzy. However, if the weather conditions were not amiable, all TV programs were cancelled in our house, and we were left to our own devices for entertainment. Even blurry viewing was impossible at times.

Through the years, TV viewing has changed considerably. Two channels, once considered a luxury, have exploded into unlimited options. The pipe wrench has been replaced by the remote control for changing channels. Seeing a clear picture on the screen has become an expectation instead of a rare occurrence.

Perhaps the convenience of clicking from channel to channel has caused us to expect ease in other areas of life. We live in an automated world, and we expect instant gratification when we press a button or flip a switch. We complain when we have to wait more than a few seconds for our electronic devices to process our commands.

When it comes to controlling our lives, it takes a little more than button punching to get the changes that we desire. Someone expressed it this way: "Life has no remote. Get up and change it yourself."

During his earthly ministry, Jesus made a similar statement to a man who had been an invalid for thirty-eight years. Every day, the distraught man lay beside the pool of Bethesda waiting for the curative waters of the pool to be stirred by an angel. He hoped that someone would put him into the water before anyone else got in so that he could be healed.

Upon seeing the man beside the pool, Jesus said, "Do you wish to get well?" (John 5:6b NASB)

When the sick man made an excuse for not being able to get into the pool, Jesus replied, "Get up, pick up your pallet and walk." (Verses 7-8)

If we expect to change our lives, we can't depend on remote controls. We have to pick up our pallets or get off our couches and step out on faith.

Blackwood Legacy Quartet in concert

The Blackwood Legacy Quartet, direct from Nashville, will be presenting a special concert event Saturday, Nov. 16, at Hillcrest Baptist Church.

Admission to the 6:30 p.m. concert is free. An offering will be received.

The group boasts an unbroken lineage to the Dove and Grammy-award winning Blackwood Brothers and link Southern Gospel's traditional sound with today's newer country gospel and worship music.

The Blackwood Legacy Quartet has an all-star line-up. Lead singer Daniel Childs is the great-grandson to Blackwood Brothers founding father, Roy Blackwood. Spokane native Luke Yates sings baritone with the group, and is also an award-winning pianist. Tenor singer Paul Secord, formerly a featured singer for Disney World, is one of the most talented in gospel music today. Group owner and bass singer Rick Price was originally a protégée of the late Cecil Blackwood. He began his 35-year career singing with the Blackwood Brothers in 1977, and was eventually inducted into the Gospel Music Hall of Fame with the legendary group.

Performing since 2001, The Blackwood Legacy Quartet was signed to Mansion Records in 2010, and continues the grand tradition of gospel music, performing nearly 250 dates annually nationwide.

Hillcrest Baptist Church is located at 2000 W. FM 700. For more information, call the church at 432-276-1639.

called "The Story." It is comprised of a DVD segment and study guide, and speaks of how the Bible in all its parts tells God's story.

On Nov. 17, we will have a pancake breakfast at the church at 9 a.m., just prior to Sunday school.

Youth activities are in full swing Wednesday evenings, including a meal at 5:30 and classes for all ages beginning at 6. We have Royal Ambassadors, Girls in Action, Mission Friends, CHAOS (Christ Has All Our Answers) Youth, and an adult Bible study.

Our church is located at 201 Main in Forsan. Sunday school begins at 9:50, with worship services at 10:50 a.m. and 6 p.m. Wednesday services begin at 6 p.m. Rides for all youth activities are available if arranged ahead of time. Call the church at 432-457-2342 or Pastor Darren Weaver at 432-213-2348.

First Baptist Church

Tuesday Nov. 5, join our triple LLL (Living Longer and Loving it) club at noon in the dining room as Bettie Cox shares about her (and Valcee's) recent trip to Paris. Bring a friend and enjoy great food and fellowship.

Sunday, Pastor Mark Lindsey continues the message series "Hope Changes Everything" during the 10:50 worship service. John 4:5-39 is the sermon focus as we hear about the Hope of Christ in "Struggling with Sin." Bring your iPad, smart phone or Kindle fire to interact with the sermon through You Version. Sunday school classes for all ages begin at 9:30.

Come early for coffee and to get acquainted. Sunday evening worship starts at 6, with our message drawn from Ephesians 6:18-20 entitled "Prayer Means Victory." Also, the youth meet in the second floor youth department for a time of worship and study; the children's Bible verse memory program, AWANA, begins at 5:30.

Upward Basketball evaluations will be Saturday from 9-12 and take about 30 minutes. All kindergarten through 6 grade children are welcome regardless of skill level. If you would like to sponsor a child who wants to participate but is unable to pay, the cost is $65 for each scholarship.

The Mission Center will be open Thursday, Nov. 7 from 9-11; this includes the food pantry and the Clothes Closet. Thank you to Forsan ISD, which recently held a children's coat drive, and through their generosity, approximately 300 children's coats were donated to the Clothes Closet. If you know of a child in need of a winter coat, now is a great time to come and choose one. The Mission Center is located on Lancaster behind H-E-B.

Continue to fill those shoeboxes with small toys, games, books and toiletries for Operation Christmas Child. The gift laden boxes will be distributed around the world through Samaritan's Purse. Sunday, Nov. 17 is our collection day; our goal is 300 boxes. For additional information and to help, contact Tiana Hergert at 267-8223.

Friday, Nov. 8, there will be a 'Fifth Quarter' for youth following the area football games. Donations of cookies and soft drinks are appreciated. Contact Youth Pastor Jonathan Raffini at 267-8223 for details.

FBC Wednesday evening schedule begins with a meal served in the Family Life Center from 5-6. Activities are available for all ages starting at 6. Go to fcbigspring.org for more information.

Are you feeling down or hopeless? Stop by First Baptist Church or call 267-8223 and someone will be happy to listen, pray with you, and talk with you about the source of all hope, Jesus Christ. FBC is located at 705 W. FM 700. There is always a place for you at First Baptist Church.

Blessed Hands Deaf Church

Pastor Jim Walterhouse and wife Debbie invite you to join this growing congregation as they meet together to worship God at 2 Sunday afternoon. Non-denominational Sabbath Fellowship Meeting at 809 Scurry, Saturday morning, 10 until 11.

Looking for something better out of life? Does it seem that something is missing? Just maybe you are looking for what Jesus offers you — peace; joy, contentment, freedom. He says, "Come unto me, all of you that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." That's a promise! Come and study about Him with us.

Remember, what man says is unimportant; what God says is vital.

First United Methodist Church

First United Methodist Church is located at the corner of Fourth and Scurry Street in downtown Big Spring. Classic Worship gathers at 8:30 a.m. and Family Worship is at 10:50. Both services meet in the sanctuary. Sunday school for all ages meets at 9:45. A nursery is provided at all times. The 10:50 Family Service can be heard each Sunday morning on KXCS - 105.5 FM.

This Sunday is "All-Saints Sunday." In the New Testament, the word "saint" simply refers to the people of God. Therefore, our congregation will be honoring the lives of those "saints" who have gone to be with the Lord during this past year. We'll also be observing the Lord's Supper and Pastor Ivins will be sharing a message entitled "Grace Guarantees" from Ephesians 1:11-14.

During the 10:50 a.m. service, our adult ensemble will sing "My Lord, What a Morning!" as the call to worship. The Adult Celebration Choir will also sing "Untitled Hymn (Come to Jesus)" by Chris Rice. Congregational songs will include "Sing with All the Saints in Glory" and "When We All Get to Heaven." We'll close the service with "10,000 Reasons," led by Adrian Calvio.

Along with the adult classes that meet Sunday mornings at 9:45, our youth department also gathers at that time. All students are involved in a study entitled "Generational Change," designed to lead them to a better understanding of God, themselves and their money.

Sunday, children in pre-school through second grade will begin a new series called "Altitude."

Children's Church does not meet on Communion Sundays, due to allowing an opportunity for children to participate in Communion with their families.

A nursery is available for children 3 and younger during the Sunday school hour and 10:50 worship service.

Our College Ministry meets Mondays at 5:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building at Howard College.

Wednesday is always a busy day at First United Methodist Church. Our Noon Bible Study in Garrett Hall includes a meal for a small charge. Serving starts at 11:50. Our Minister of Discipleship, Jim Anderson, will launch a new series entitled "Doing Church by the Book" this Wednesday.

"Real Life" on Wednesday night is filled with food, fellowship, worship, and study. Supper is served at 5:30 p.m. in Garrett Hall. Topics such as how we should treat one another, what God says about money and giving, and the purpose of the church will all be covered.

Our EPIC Youth also shares supper at 5:30 in Garrett Hall on Wednesdays. At 6 pm, students will head to the Partee Youth Building, where they will have a time of worship and a sermon.

Children's Ministry on Wednesday includes our J.A.M. (Jesus and Me) Children's Choir. J. A. M. is for kids in fourth and fifth grade. Other Wednesday night children's activities include "Bible Drills, Skills, and Thrills." This gives children an opportunity to work on Bible knowledge and memorization through activities and games.

The adult Celebration Choir rehearsal rehearses each Wednesday night at 7:30.

A new small group opportunity is available for college-aged and 20-somethings on Thursday nights from 7-8:30 PM at Jim & Bri Anderson's house (706 Baylor Blvd.).

There will be a 5th Quarter tonight after the home football games. Our Epic Youth Ministry is partnering with other youth ministries around the city for one large 5th Quarter at First Baptist Church. Students will roast marshmallows have a movie on the wall, three on three basketball tournaments, bowling, free pizza, and lots of fun!

First United Methodist Church is getting geared up for the 35th annual performance of the Living Christmas Tree, scheduled Dec. 7-8. This year's performance of the Living Christmas Tree will be under the direction of our new music minister, Mrs. Anna Gann.

Children's Day Out is open Monday and Wednesdays from 9 am to 3 pm for children from 4 months to pre-K. Call our office for more information at 267-6394.

For more information on any activity at First United Methodist Church, visit our website at fumchs.com or phone the church office.

Who touched me?

Jesus was busy. He was on His way to the house of a ruler of Judea whose small daughter had just passed away. This ruler was an exception to the rest. He told Jesus, "My daughter is dead. But I believe that if you will just come and lay your hand on her, she will live again." So, Jesus stood up, and began to follow the man to his house.

As He was walking along, a woman who had been terribly sick for 12 years approached Him from behind. She had been to the physicians of her day, but to no avail. No one could heal her sickness. She said to herself, "If I can but touch His garment, I will be healed." So she slipped up quietly, reached out and touched His clothing. Chills ran through her body as she felt the healing power of Jesus surge through her. Instantly, her pain was gone. Vitality such as she had not known for years had returned. Then, something unusual happened. Jesus turned around and said, "Who touched Me?" In the jostle of the crowd, Jesus was aware that power had gone out from Him. Fearfully, the woman fell to her knees and confessed. Jesus smiled and said to her, "Daughter, be of good comfort. Your faith has made you well."

This same Jesus longs to heal you too! He will forgive your sins, give you eternal life, and make you whole. But, you must reach out to Him.

No. 15 Tech to host No. 18 Oklahoma State

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — First-year coach Kliff Kingsbury doesn't think it'll be tough to get Texas Tech motivated after his team's first loss of the season.

The No. 15 Red Raiders fell 38-30 at Oklahoma last week and hope to rebound against No. 18 Oklahoma State on Saturday night.

Kingsbury is using the past two games against the Cowboys as motivation. The number 98 is on signs around the locker room. That's the combined points by which the Red Raiders have lost the past two games to Oklahoma State (6-1, 3-1).

Last year the Red Raiders lost at Stillwater 59-21. Two years ago in Lubbock the Cowboys left with 66-6 win.

"They're coming back home to play against a team that's really embarrassed you the last two years, to put it bluntly," Kingsbury said. "I don't think there should be any problem getting them motivated to play this game."

The Cowboys got their running game going last week, but coach Mike Gundy knows that might not be enough.

"We need to become a better passing team to give ourselves a better chance to win this weekend," he said.

Both teams need a win to stay in the hunt for the Big 12 title.

The Cowboys come into the game on a three-game win streak.

Until the Red Raiders (7-1, 4-1) loss last weekend, Kingsbury had won 13 straight games — his final six as Texas A&M's offensive coordinator in 2012 and his first seven as the coach in Lubbock. His players know they will have their hands full with the Cowboys.

"We're going to have to take it from them," Red Raiders leading receiver Jace Amaro said. "I feel like they have our number. They've had our number the last two seasons."

Here are five things to watch when Oklahoma State plays Texas Tech:

TEXAS TECH TRICKERATION: Look for more trick plays out of Kingsbury and his coaching staff. The Red Raiders pulled several at Oklahoma — getting a couple of TDs off five unorthodox plays. Kingsbury earlier this week said the team had "used it all up for the year," but after the loss to the Sooners the Red Raiders' WR Eric Ward hinted otherwise. "We're not going to pull out all the tricks."

COWBOYS RUNNING GAME: Oklahoma State junior running back Desmond Roland rushed for 219 yards and four touchdowns on 26 carries in his first career start last week. He got a lot of help from his offensive line. "This was the first game that we were able to play that we had the same starting five, for the most part, as the game before," Gundy said, adding that consistency in practice for two weeks helped. "I would like to think that has an effect and hopefully they will continue to improve as we move forward."

RECEIVER RODEO: Five of the Big 12's top 10 reception leaders will be on the field. Amaro, Ward, Jakeem Grant and Bradley Marquez for Texas Tech and Oklahoma State's Josh Stewart. Stewart's resume also includes punt returns. Twice this season he's returned punts for touchdowns — one was a 95-yarder against TCU, which is the longest in the country this season and a Big 12 record.

RED RAIDERS STAMINA: The Red Raiders will need to hold up better endurance-wise than they did during double-digit drives (16, 11 and 12 plays) the Sooners put together in their win. "I think that wore on them as the game went on," Kingsbury said. "We've just got to find ways to get them off the field." Oklahoma State is fifth in the conference in rushing offense, averaging 166 yards per game.

WEBB'S THE STARTER: Davis Webb, who threw two of his seven interceptions this season against the Sooners, will work to attack the Cowboys' pass defense that's picked off 13 passes in seven games. Webb has thrown for 1,812 yards and 13 touchdowns — seven of those coming in his starts the past three games. "It's the quarterback's accuracy, more than anything," the Cowboys defensive coordinator Glenn Spencer said. "That can be scary."

Safety lifts Miami past Bengals

MIAMI GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Cameron Wake described it as a movie moment.

If so, it would have to be classified as a drama. Third down, getting late in overtime, and the Miami Dolphins had the Cincinnati Bengals pinned deep in their side of the field.

And in the final scene of the night, Wake stole the show.

Somehow unblocked and unnoticed, Wake sacked Cincinnati's Andy Dalton for a safety with 6:38 left in overtime, giving the Dolphins a wild 22-20 win over the Bengals and getting Miami to .500 at the midpoint of its season.

"We don't get too many opportunities to do things like that," Wake said.

You think?

It was just the third time in NFL history that an overtime game ended on a safety, and it came from a Pro

Bowl end who had 2½ sacks in Week 1 and pretty much spent most of the next two months fighting his way through an injury. But he finished with three sacks on Thursday night, the fourth time in his career that he had that many in a game.

Dalton said his eyes were elsewhere on the last play.

"He was there pretty quick," said Dalton, who had four turnovers — three interceptions and a fumble, one caused by Wake, about three hours before the final play of the game and probably forgotten by that point.

The Dolphins led 17-3 at one point, after Brent Grimes jumped a pass by Dalton and took off 94 yards for Miami's longest interception return for a touchdown since 2002.

And then Miami lost the lead by giving up 17 unanswered points in what looked like just another collapse in a free fall of a season.

Giovani Bernard had a brilliant 35-yard touchdown run with 12:37 left to tie it, a play where he took a pitch from Dalton, went right, made two Dolphins miss, cut to the left, made more Dolphins miss, and finally got into the end zone — punctuating it all with a somersault.

Mike Nugent's 54-yard field goal with 1:24 left in regulation gave Cincinnati a 20-17 lead. Caleb Sturgis tied it for the Dolphins with a 44-yarder with 11 seconds left in the fourth, and then Wake ended it as Miami (4-4) snapped a four-game slide.

Here's five things we learned Thursday night:

BENGALS HURTING: In more ways than one, too. Geno Atkins was lost for the remainder of the season with a torn ACL,

Romo backs WR Bryant, just like audio from rant

IRVING, Texas (AP) — With audio now available to back up Dez Bryant's claim that he was saying only positive things at Tony Romo in a sideline rant last weekend, the Dallas quarterback was ready to offer a passionate defense of his top receiver.

Romo took care of it without the arm-waving that landed the emotional Bryant in the headlines again.

"Does he need to sometimes maybe look a little different for what's going to be written and talked about? Sure," Romo said Thursday in the Cowboys' locker room.

"Does it really matter in here? No. He's a positive guy who loves his teammates. What else do you want? He's passionate and he comes to work every day with a great attitude.

"I'd like a lot of teammates like that."

Romo tried to warn the masses in the moments after a 31-30 loss to Detroit.

That's because he knew the cameras would catch what was happening right in front of him — Bryant waving his arms wildly, walking away from the quarterback, turning around abruptly to yell a few more things while coach Jason Garrett made an effort to steer him in another direction.

And he knew Bryant wasn't saying much.

The best sound bite? "We the best in the NFL on that!" Bryant yelled, slamming a fist into an open hand.

Told you so, said Romo. "I'm like everyone's going to go run with it because of the demonstrative hand movements," Romo said.

"But it's just not who Dez is. I said that after the game and kind of what happened was obvious what was going to happen, people were going to

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Libra Moon Rules All Saints Day

A social Libra moon rules this All Saints Day, a day celebrated with prayers, offerings and services. Many around the globe are thinking of ancestors and others whose part in the human story is now history, even those who don't traditionally celebrate the Feast of All Saints. The Scorpio sun loves to ponder such things.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You think you know a person well, and then you get surprised again. Fresh interest ignites in you. This is part of the joy of socializing. Adjust your expectations accordingly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). As the sign that rules appetite, you sometimes wonder whether it's possible to subdue your cravings, and if so, how? The key is in finding the right alternatives. Do this and willpower will be unnecessary.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You have a talent for making up funny scenarios in your mind. This is something you might keep to yourself or translate into a bit of fiction or a journal entry. Sharing in other ways isn't advised.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Work you do with family will benefit all, and it will be a good feeling to flourish collectively. Handle repairs while they are still manageable. If you wait, complications will arise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). This is an excellent day for writing, designing or developing mechanical or technical skills. What you learn will stick with you and apply directly to the job you'll do next week.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). There's nowhere you will go where you won't run into someone you know, so look your best. You could possibly find yourself in the same room as an ex love or former boss.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Your enthusiasm will lead to a sale. If you're not selling goods and services, you'll be selling someone on an idea or on the prospect of getting to know and like you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Avoid a contest of wills. Back down or stay neutral. It's true that neutrality won't induce the same surge of excitement as victory, but it's better than risking a terrible loss of friendship, work or love.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). When confidential matters are revealed, it will be embarrassing or liberating for the one whose secret is out — or maybe a mix of both. You'll be sensitive and empathetic in this case.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Slow down. Take something off of the schedule completely instead of rushing around frantically trying to fit it all in. Rushed people do dangerous things such as eating or driving too fast.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). If you decide that it's really time to find a new routine to help you deal with everyday challenges (because the old one is causing you more harm than good), the planets will support your search for a new way.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Success might be temporarily threatened, and this is just the challenge that is needed to strengthen your resolve for long-term victory. Hard-won battles are always more fun anyway.

TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY NOTICE OF RECEIPT OF APPLICATION AND INTENT TO OBTAIN AIR QUALITY STANDARD PERMIT REGISTRATIONS PROPOSED AIR QUALITY REGISTRATION NOS. 112904L003 and 100079L006

APPLICATION Golden Spread Redi-Mix, Inc., has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for an Air Quality Standard Permit, Registration Nos. 112904L003 and 100079L006, which would authorize construction of two Concrete Batch Plants. The applicant provides the following directions to the site: from the intersection of F.M. 33 and F.M. 270, go east on F.M. 270 for 2.5 miles to plant site on south side of road, Garden City, Glasscock County, Texas 79739. This link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and not part of the application or notice. For exact location, refer to application.

<http://www.tceq.texas.gov/assets/public/hb610/index.html?lat=31.758678&lng=-101.424344&zoom=13&type=r>
The proposed facility will emit the following air contaminants: particulate matter including (but not limited to) aggregate, cement, road dust, and particulate matter with diameters of 10 microns or less and 2.5 microns or less. This application was submitted to the TCEQ on October 25, 2013. The application will be available for viewing and copying at the TCEQ central office, the TCEQ Midland regional office, and the Glasscock County Courthouse, 117 East Currie, Garden City, Glasscock County, Texas, beginning the first day of publication of this notice. The facility's compliance file, if any exists, is available for public review in the Midland regional office of the TCEQ.

The executive director has determined the application is administratively complete and will conduct a technical review of the application.

PUBLIC COMMENT / PUBLIC MEETING You may submit public comments, a request for a public meeting, or request a contested case hearing to the Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below. The TCEQ will consider all public comments in developing a final decision on the application. The deadline to submit public comments is 15 days after newspaper notice is published. After the deadline for public comments, the executive director will prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. Issues such as property values, noise, traffic safety, and zoning are outside of the TCEQ's jurisdiction to consider in the permit process.

The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or ask questions about the application. A public meeting about the application will be held if the executive director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

If only comments are received on the application, the response to comments, along with notice of the executive director's action on the application, will be mailed to everyone who submitted comments or is on the mailing list for this application. The executive director will complete the technical review, issue a preliminary decision on the application, and a Notice of the Application and Preliminary Decision will be published and mailed to those who are on the mailing list for this application. That notice will contain the final deadline for submitting public comments. If a hearing request is timely filed in Response to this Notice of Receipt of Application and Intent to Obtain Air Permit, the time period for requesting a contested case hearing will be extended to thirty days after the mailing of the executive director's response to comments.

After the final deadline for public comments following the Notice of Application and Preliminary Decision, the executive director will consider the comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. If any comments are received, the response to comments, along with the executive director's decision on the application, will then be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments or who is on a mailing list for this application, unless the application is directly referred to a contested case hearing.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING You may request a contested case hearing. The applicant or the executive director may also request that the application be directly referred to a contested case hearing after technical review of the application. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in state district court. Unless a written request for a contested case hearing is filed within 15 days from this notice, the executive director may approve the application. If no hearing request is received within this 15 day period, no further opportunity for hearing will be provided. A contested case hearing will only be granted based on disputed issues of fact that are relevant and material to the Commission's decision on the application. Further, the Commission will only grant a hearing on those issues raised during the public comment period and not withdrawn.

A person who may be affected by emissions of air contaminants from the facility is entitled to request a hearing. To request a hearing, a person must actually reside in a permanent residence within 440 yards of the proposed plant. If requesting a contested case hearing, you must submit the following: (1) your name (or for a group or association, an official representative), mailing address, daytime phone number, and fax number, if any; (2) applicant's name and Registration Number; (3) the statement "[I/we] request a contested case hearing;" (4) a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the application and air emissions from the facility in a way not common to the general public; (5) the location and distance of your property relative to the facility; and (6) a description of how you use the property which may be impacted by the facility. If the request is made by a group or association, the one or more members who have standing to request a hearing, and the interests which the group or association seek to protect, must also be identified. Requests for a contested case hearing must be submitted in writing within 15 days following this notice to the Office of the Chief Clerk, at the address below.

Following the close of all applicable comment and request periods, the executive director will forward the application and any requests for contested case hearing to the Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting. If a hearing is granted, the subject of a hearing will be limited to disputed issues of fact relating to relevant and material air quality concerns raised during the comment period. Issues such as property values, noise, traffic safety, and zoning are outside of the Commission's jurisdiction to address in this proceeding.

MAILING LIST In addition to submitting public comments, you may ask to be placed on a mailing list to receive future public notices for this specific application mailed by the Office of the Chief Clerk by sending a written request to the Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below.

AGENCY CONTACTS AND INFORMATION Public comments and requests must be submitted either electronically at www.tceq.texas.gov/about/comments.html, or in writing to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Office of the Chief Clerk, MC-105, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087. If you communicate with the TCEQ electronically, please be aware that your email address, like your physical mailing address, will become part of the agency's public record. For more information about this permit application or the permitting process, please call the Public Education Program toll free at 1-800-687-4040. Si desea información en Español, puede llamar al 1-800-687-4040.

Further information may also be obtained from Golden Spread Redi-Mix, Inc. P.O. Box 31660, Amarillo, Texas 79120-1660 or by calling Mr. Michael Mayfield, Quality Control Manager at (806)373-4951.

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: I am one of six boys. We are all very different. My oldest brother, "Tanner," just turned 20. He is more of an introvert, and we realize this, but he has done nothing with his life and shows no interest in doing so. He doesn't have a job and refuses to look for one. He also hasn't applied for college.

We've tried everything from coaxing and bribing to threatening, but nothing has worked. My parents are at their wits' end. We've tried talking to him and asking why he has shown so little interest in anything and why he won't even help with housework when he's home all day. He just sits, stone-faced, and can't provide a reason for being a freeloading slug.

I am out of high school and have a part-time job. My parents both work, and so does my 16-year-old brother. Please tell me what we can do to help get this kid out into the world. — End of the Rope

Dear End: Has your brother been screened for depression? Is there a possibility of drug or alcohol use? Any of these things could be contributing to his lethargy and lack of motivation. If he is simply freeloading, the easiest way to fix that is to make him support himself and be responsible for his own living arrangements. But he sounds depressed to us. Your parents can visit HelpYourselfHelpOthers.org for screening information.

KATHY MITCHELL

Dear Annie: I had emergency gall bladder surgery last July. Thinking it was indigestion, I ignored the symptoms until the pain became severe.

Here's what flummoxed me: While I was in the hospital, my husband called a close friend to let her know. She said she would be right over. I was in a lot of pain, had an oxygen tube in my nose and also was dozing off from the medication. She swooped in and immediately started grilling me, asking why I had oxygen, who did the surgery, and on and on. She kept asking more probing questions until she made me uncomfortable, as if I were wrong to have had the surgery in the first place.

I tried to change the subject, asking about the memorial service for a friend. My husband then made a stupid, flippant comment about open caskets, and my friend just exploded and ran out of the room. I haven't heard from her since. We live in a small town, and whenever she sees me, she scuttles away.

I sent her a note to find out what caused this rift, but she ignored it. I think she's ashamed of her behavior, and rightly so. I'm not interested in renewing the friendship, but I am still angry at how she treated me. I wish my husband had asked her to leave the hospital when she couldn't stop criticizing my doctor. Should I try to speak with her? — Sadder but Wiser Behind the Redwood Curtain

Dear Sadder: There are people who react poorly when confronted with a friend who is ill. Some become so distressed that they lose control of their behavior. Others need to be in charge of your care and resent learning about it secondhand, becoming irrationally angry. You are not likely to get a satisfying explanation, and she doesn't seem willing to admit how inappropriate her behavior was. Forgive her and then move on.

Dear Annie: I want to respond to "Frustrated in Louisville," whose husband constantly interrupts her.

On several occasions, I've been asked a question, only to have someone else answer it or interrupt my answer. When this happens, I simply say, "It's tough being a ventriloquist, but the best part is having your dummy speak for you." After the usual laughter, the offending person learns not to do it again. Of course, this might not be the best response to a spouse. — Ventriloquist in Ohio

Dear Margo

Little Pitchers and All That

Dear Margo: My wife has always had what I refer to as a "trucker's mouth." Her whole family does. They can have conversations averaging at least one swear word per sentence. I'm no puritan and can swear with the best of them, but when I do, I try to do so only in appropriate company.

In the two years since our daughter, "Gloria," was born, I've been asking my wife to curb her swearing. Alas, the cursing continues. I wasn't so worried during the first 12 months, figuring I'd give my wife some time to transition herself, and also because my daughter was too young to understand a swear word from any other word.

Now Gloria is 2, and she's talking up a storm. This battle came to a head last night when my wife was so wound up that she kept swearing about this and that, even after I repeatedly asked her to stop. (We were out for a walk with Gloria at the time.) She didn't, and so I walked away from her, taking Gloria with me. We haven't spoken since. — Cursed in Massachusetts

Dear Curse: Well, at least you're not hearing her swear. (Kidding.) This is a problem you are unlikely to be able to fix. People who overly rely on swear words reveal a poverty of language skills, and to retrain an adult would be very difficult.

MARGO

You are right about kids picking up on this language, however. Perhaps the first time your wife hears Gloria mention &^%$# to her grandmother, she might rethink what she says. Failing this, should Gloria start talking like a sailor before she even knows what the words mean, you need to be the one to tell her that while Mommy is saying a no-no, Gloria is not allowed to.

I do believe there's a way to use an occasional vulgarity in conversation and still stay within the bounds of polite society. Ahem. But you have to gauge where you are. I had a bit of a potty mouth when my kids were little, but they were somehow able to understand the restriction: "Not in front of Gram!" Good luck. — Margo, discriminatingly

ARE THANK-YOU NOTES OLD-FASHIONED?

Dear Margo: My husband's sister has two children, ages 7 and 5. Every year for their birthdays, we send them a card and a check. For the first year or two, we always received a thank-you email. The last couple of years, though, we have received no acknowledgement at all.

I was raised to believe that not acknowledging a gift is the height of rudeness. My husband, however, says I am being "old-fashioned" and that people just don't have time to write thank-you notes anymore (though I manage it, somehow).

I know the classic response to an unacknowledged gift is to call the recipient and inquire whether they received it. But because I mailed a check, it would be obvious to both of us that I would know they had received it if it cleared my account (which it always does, of course).

Is my sister-in-law in the wrong here, or is my husband right that I am just demanding to expect an acknowledgement? — Aunt Fussy?

Dear Aunt: Guess what? Five- and 7-year-olds aren't so busy that they don't have time to acknowledge gifts — particularly since they've done so in the past. I agree with you. Their mother has dropped the ball. She clearly "guided" them to write thank-you notes in the past — in an e-mail form, yet, not even a note in the mail.

My own response to the kids' non-response would be to skip the check with the next birthday greetings. Your ability to find out whether the check cleared in no way negates the necessity of a thank-you note. — Margo, graciously

The Spider

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was the editor of a small Missouri paper.

One day, he received a letter from a subscriber stating that he had found a spider in his paper and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck.

Twain replied, "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever after."

Kentucky No. 1 in NCAA preseason poll

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Every time Kentucky coach John Calipari starts to praise his latest crop of talented freshmen, he's just as quick to point out that it is a work in progress.

As the Wildcats take the first step toward coming together, Calipari will also have to remind his players to get through those growing pains quickly, because they are now the team to beat in college basketball.

Kentucky — with a collection of high school All-Americans — is ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press' preseason Top 25, a significant step considering the Wildcats finished 21-12 last season and were upset by Robert Morris in the first round of the NIT.

It's Kentucky's third preseason No. 1 and first since 1995-96 when the Wildcats won the national championship. The other preseason No. 1 was in 1980-81.

To say that a ninth national championship is this year's goal is an understatement considering Kentucky has social media and blogs suggesting an unbeaten season is possible.

Calipari would just like to get to the Nov. 8 opener against North Carolina-Asheville first. The Wildcats begin the exhibition season Friday.

"It's a nice honor, but it's way too early to figure out who's the best team in the country," Calipari said. Kentucky beat out Michigan State in a close vote from the 65-member panel.

The Wildcats received 27 first-place votes and 1,546 points in the poll released Thursday. The Spartans, who return four starters from the team that lost to Duke in the NCAA tournament's round of 16, snared 22 first-place votes and 1,543 points.

It won't take long for the schools to settle the issue. Kentucky and Michigan State meet on Nov. 12 at the State Farm Champions Classic in Chicago.

The polling also enhances what already figured to be a strong showdown between two heavyweights.

"A 1-2 matchup is a win-win deal," Spartans coach Tom Izzo told the AP. "If you win, you understand where you are and what you have as a team. If you lose, you've got time to figure out what you need to do to get better. I'm not sure, though, how kids and fans will react to winning or losing that game."

Of his team's ranking, Izzo added, "it's exciting because it means a group of people think we're good, and we've got a chance to be great."

Defending national champion Louisville received 14 first-place votes and was third.

take it and run with it. Even though it's wrong."

There's no audio of a heated exchange between Bryant and tight end Jason Witten after the Lions scored the winning touchdown with 12 seconds left, but the intent there was pretty clear — and later backed up by both players.

Bryant was agitated by the sudden turn of events, and Witten was afraid his teammate wasn't ready to go back on the field. Regardless of the hopelessness in those final seconds, Witten wanted Bryant ready for a couple more plays.

Witten had forgotten about the tiff almost as soon as he turned away from Bryant.

"I know he's got a lot of respect for me, and I've honestly got a lot of respect for him," Witten said. "It's a close relationship, and really it's a handful of guys. He wants to make Tony proud and know that he can throw it up to him in any of those situations. That's what makes him such a great teammate. If it was just about him, it would be different."

Bryant offered his defense Monday, a few hours before NFL Films released the audio that showed he was telling the truth.

Beyond clarifying what he said, Bryant reiterated the strength of his relationship with Romo and Witten and scoffed at the question of whether he had lost credibility in the locker room.

"Don't think that I (don't) know there's not a million and one cameras out there on that field," said Bryant, who is tied for the NFC lead with eight touchdowns heading into Sunday's home game against Minnesota.

"You can't worry about who's watching, who's paying attention. It's all about motivating, trying to get guys' minds right and things like that."

Bryant's gyrations are always news because commentators presume No. 1 receivers are always hollering for the ball. And since Bryant was targeted just six times against the Lions, it was easy to forget he had two touchdowns.

Garrett said Bryant is the "farthest thing" from a receiving diva.

"Somebody told me a long time ago that it took 13 guys to get Secretariat into the gates when he won by 33 lengths," Garrett said. "What's the lesson there? You know what I'm saying. You love the enthusiasm. You love all that. You've just got to channel it and get him in the gates and let him run."

suffered on a play in the second quarter. It's a major loss for Cincinnati (6-3), which is assured of heading into next week with the lead in the AFC North. That, combined with losing the late lead, combined with eventually losing the game on a safety, left a very sour taste in the Bengals' mouths.

RUNNING WORKS: The running game has been more than conspicuously absent from Miami's repertoire at times this season. But when the Dolphins were at their best on Thursday, they were getting ground production. The Dolphins had 142 first-half rushing yards, the first time they had that many 30 minutes into a game since 2002. Lamar Miller finished with 105 yards for Miami, the first triple-digit game of his pro career, and now has 194 yards in the last two weeks.

SHORT WEEK WOES: No one in the Cincinnati locker room used it as an excuse, but traveling on a short week sure made the Bengals seem much less sharp than they looked throughout their now-kaput four-game winning streak. Dalton threw 53 passes, none of them going for touchdowns. That ties the highest number of throws by an NFL quarterback in a touchdownless game all season, matching the mark of Josh Freeman for Minnesota against the New York Giants on Oct. 21.

SEASON SAVER?: Dolphins players said afterward that they challenged themselves this week, knowing that the stakes were high — a four-game slide, a massive sacks-allowed total, an off-the-field issue that is keeping offensive lineman Jonathan Martin away from the team ... it was all taking a clear toll. Now they go into a quick break on an absolute high. "It was time for us to step up and we had to make a decision — what are we going to be?," Dolphins coach Joe Philbin said.

Sturgis, the Dolphins' rookie kicker, started the year 10 for 10. He struggled from there, and his first-quarter miss was his fifth one in his last six kicks. But he delivered when he had to, the 44-yarder at the end of regulation obviously doing wonders for Miami — and probably quite a bit for his confidence going into the second half of the year.
