Cinco de Mayo Music to highlight festivities

BY LYNDEL MOODY

Staff Writer

Get ready, it's almost Cinco de Mayo time.

A number of bands are expected to perform for the two-day Cinco de Mayo festivities, sponsored by the North Side Movement and co-sponsored by Budwieser and Pepsico.

"The North Side Movement (NSM) is very excited on hosting its first Cinco de Mayo," said Nati Saldivar of the NSM. "We have advertised within a 100-mile radius. The musical line up — Revo Live, Kingz1, Grupo Vida and, of course, Latin Grammy nominee Gary Hobbs — all have a large fan base so we are anticipating and preparing ourselves for a large crowd. We look forward to sharing our culture and background with old and new friends."

The event will be held Friday and Saturday, May 1-2, at the Howard County Fair Barns. Admission is $5 for those age 12 and older. Doors open on Friday at 5 p.m. and continue to midnight. The festivities resume Saturday at 11 a.m. and end at mid-LAMESA — Who cares if it's based on a joke, it is still one great reason to have a party. And Lamesa is planning a great one this weekend.

"Back in 2011 (Texas) Governor (Rick) Perry gave us a proclamation deeming Lamesa the legendary home of the chicken fried steak," said Terri Stahl, administrative assistant for the city of Lamesa. "We celebrate that every year the last weekend in April with our Chicken Fried Steak Festival and Crossroads Balloon Rally."

Stahl

Of course replace the word "legendary" with "not true" in the above sentence and you might come closer to the story's origin. According to information provided by the city of Lamesa, the

"The Bankhead Highway in Texas adds to the documentation of one of America's most significant early highways," according to written information provided by the author. "It also provides a guide to the earliest Bankhead route across the state."

The book signing and lecture will be held Saturday, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the museum.

Smith is a graduate of Florida State University and spent 40 years with the National Weather Service. He is retired and lives in Fort Worth where he now devotes his time to historical study. He has published and lectured on steamboats in Florida's Ocklawaha River, and the Florida Merchant Marine Survey (1937-38).

Copies of the Bankhead Highway in Texas will be available for purchase at the event or can be bought over the internet at Amazon.

The museum is open Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m and Saturday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The museum is located at 510 Scurry St.

A wine tasting event sponsored by Delaney Vineyards of Lamesa will be held at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, featuring music by Mike Pritchard/ Mark Wallney. Admission is $10 and all funds raised will go to the Lamesa Police Department.

"Saturday night, we will have a balloon glow and what we call a fire fest," Stahl said. "As long as the wind holds up, the balloons will actually glow and they will look like Chinese lanterns in the night. There so much for everyone to do. We have a huge kid's area with inflatable slides, bouncy castles, pony rides and then we have a lot for the adults, too."

Dr. Maurice Rawlings' story

ast Wednesday evening, many of our church family packed out one of the local theaters to watch "God's Not Dead" and it was a special evening indeed. As an unapologetic Christian, I admit to loving films, books, or real-life experiences that validate my faith in God. There is another movie called "Heaven is for Real" that is stirring the waters about the existence of God, and more specifically the reality of a paradise after death. The movie

PRINCE

Colton Burpo, the 4-year old son of a small town Nebraska pastor who during emergency surgery slips from consciousness and enters heaven. He survives and begins talking about being able to look down and see the doctor operating and his dad praying in the waiting room, and meeting a sister he never knew he had.

I've never been to heaven, or hell for that matter, but I absolutely believe they exist. That conviction is, arguably, the purest definition of faith one can possess. After all, what requires more faith than trusting your eternal afterlife to a God you've never seen, touched, smelled, tasted or felt?

Other than my upbringing in church where heaven and hell were taught from my childhood, my first personal exposure to the debate over the reality of life after death came back in the late 1970s while serving on staff at a church in Tennessee. I became acquainted with Dr. Maurice Rawlings, a specialist in cardiovascular diseases at the Diagnostic Centre and area hospitals of Chattanooga, who graduated with honors from the George Washington University Medical School. He served in both the Army and the Navy and became chief of cardiology at the 97th General Hospital in Frankfurt, Germany. He was promoted to personal physician at the Pentagon for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which included and Dwight Eisenhower, before he became President of the United States.

In civilian life, Dr. Rawlings was appointed to the National Teaching Faculty of the American Heart Association, specializing in the teaching methods for the retrieval of patients from sudden death. He taught at various medical schools and hospitals and conducted courses for doctors and nurses in many countries. He has authored four books on Near Death Experiences: "Beyond Death's Door," "To Hell and Back," "Life Wish: Reincarnation, Reality or Hoax?" and "Before Death Comes."

He didn't believe in God, but maybe I should let him tell you his story. In his own words. "All of the cases of near-death experiences I had heard about, in all the resuscitation we had taught in many countries, had been good experiences, until one day I ran across a negative experience.

"This was a 47-year-old man, a U.S. mail carrier, exercising on the treadmill to reproduce this chest pain he complained about whilst doing exercise at home. Instead of just getting the pain, his EKG went haywire and he dropped dead, moving the treadmill which swept him off like so much trash. The other doctors had left the building, but the nurses were still there and knew what to do. One started an IV and the other breathing with an AMBU bag, more aesthetic than mouth to mouth. I was doing the external heart compressions, and the patient kept saying, 'Doctor, don't stop!' When I would stop to reach for something, he would say, 'I'm in Hell again.'

"He had a complication whereby we had to put a pacemaker down his collarbone vein right there on the floor. It had a big effect on me. Blood was spurting everywhere, I was pushing and I told him to shut up and not to bother me with his Hell business. I was trying to save his life, and he was trying to tell me about some nefarious nightmare he's had in the death throes. That's what I thought until he kept saying it. The nurses gave me that look, as if to say, this is a dying man's wish. He then asked me something that was the ultimate insult, which was, 'Doctor, pray for me.' I told him he that was out of his mind, I wasn't a minister. Again he asked me to pray for him, and the nurses were still looking at me with anticipation. So I did. made up a make-believe prayer a nonsense. I just wanted to get him off my back so I told him to say it after me. 'I believe Jesus Christ is the Son of God. Go on, say it. 'Please keep me out of Hell.' Say it! 'And if I live I'm on the hook, I'm yours forever.' I remember that part well, because he's been 'on the hook' ever since. He is a firm Christian man. Each time of interrupted CPR to adjust the pacemaker, he would convulse, turn blue, stop breathing, his heart would stop beating, and I'd reach over and start him up again like you can. Every time I'd let go, he'd be back in Hell.

"After I said this prayer, there were no more writhing experiences, no more negative fighting attitude. He was calm. I asked him the next day to tell me about being in Hell. I told him he had frightened the nurses to death, and he had scared the Hell out of me. He said, 'What Hell? After that prayer you gave, I remember seeing my mother when she was living, although she had died when I was 3 years old.' Impossible! He picked her out of a photograph album his aunt brought in next day, but he had never actually seen her. He identified her from her clothing. He had seen her in Heaven. What apparently happened was that he had sublimated the Hell experiences to painless parts of his memory, but after the conversion he had Heaven experiences. That 'nonsensical prayer I prayed to humor him not only got the man converted but it got me, too. We both became born again Christians."

You may not agree with anything I've said, but I column as I see 'em.

Mercy for low-level drug offenders

'hen Barack Obama ran for the White House in 2008, federal inmates and their families believed that if he won, miracles would follow. They were convinced that the former law professor and critic of federal mandatory minimum sentences would be liberal with his unfettered constitutional power to free low-level and nonviolent offenders sentenced to decades, even life without parole, behind bars.

next five years, criminal lawyers and reformers stood around scratching their heads, wondering why Obama held the worst pardon record of any modern president. He commuted one sentence in his first term. When Obama was re-elected in 2012, they hoped he would open the gates. In December, a small door opened. The president commuted the sentences of eight crack offenders, all of whom had served at least 15 years.

On Monday, Attorney General Eric Holder made the announcement that promises big change. Holder said the Department of Justice will adopt a "new and improved" approach with a bigger team "committed to recommending as many qualified applicants as possible for reduced sentences." Expect the new team to seek out nonviolent, low-level drug offenders with clean prison records.

Sam Morison, a former staffer in the pardon attorney's office, fears that the new clemency project will be a "technical exercise that only an expert in the federal sentencing guidelines can appreciate."

But Mary Price of Families Against Mandatory Minimums is ecstatic. For years, the Justice Department's Office of the Pardon Attorney has served as an "office of no" that has rejected cases of clear sentencing overkill.

In 2012, the Justice Department's Office of the Inspector General informed the department that pardon attorney Ron Rodgers had withheld vital information that probably would have led to a commutation for Alabaman Clarence Aaron, a first-time nonviolent drug offender serving life without parole.

(Obama commuted his sentence in December.) Rodgers has to go.

Holder expects thousands of petitions. Drug lords should expect no favors, as the department should be looking for girlfriends, wives and low-level drones sentenced to decades in prison.

Think Stephanie George of Florida, whose boyfriend stored cocaine in her house. She got life; he got less than 15 years. Judge Roger Vinson didn't believe George's claim that she didn't know about the half-kilogram of powder. But he saw her as merely a "bag holder and money holder" who did not merit a sentence of life without parole. However, he had to impose that sentence on her anyway.

Vinson later told The New York Times: "The problem in these cases is that the people who can offer the most help to the government are the most culpable. So they get reduced sentences, while the small fry, the little workers who don't have that information, get the mandatory sentences." Obama commuted George's sentence last year, but there are others like her.

Like the president, Holder prodded Congress to reform federal sentencing laws. I'm all for that. But it's also important that Holder work to change the culture within his department. If there's a common element in cases of sentencing abuse, it's a federal prosecutor who overcharges low-level offenders for the crimes of their higher-ups, who cut deals.

Nicest man on ship: Captain had 40 years' experience, but abandoned sinking ferry MOKPO, South Korea (AP) - A colleague calls Capt. Lee Joon-seok the nicest person on the ship. With more than 40 years' experience at sea, Lee could speak with eloquence about the romance and danger of a life spent on ships.

But his reputation now hinges on the moments last week when he delayed an evacuation and apparently abandoned the ferry Sewol as it went down, leaving more than 300 people missing or dead, most of them teenagers

"He was generous, a really nice guy," said Oh Yong-seok, a 57-yearold helmsman, adding that the captain always asked about his wife and kids and was happy to dispense personal and professional advice. "He was probably the nicest person on the ship.'

Still, there is no getting away from a video of Lee — on the day his ferry sank with hundreds of people trapped inside — being treated onshore after allegedly landing on one of the first rescue boats.

Lee and eight members of his crew have been arrested on suspicion of negligence and abandoning people in need. On Saturday, the handcuffed captain was paraded before flashing cameras, his face hidden beneath the dark hood of a windbreaker. He brusquely denied fleeing the ship, without elaborating, and said he delayed evacuation because of worries about sending passengers into cold waters and fast currents before rescuers arrived.

S. Korea ferry toll hits 150 as search gets tougher; divers break cabin walls to reach victims

JINDO, South Korea (AP) - The grim work of recovering bodies from the submerged South Korea ferry proceeded rapidly Wednesday, with the official death toll reaching 150, though a government official said divers must now rip through cabin walls to retrieve more victims.

The victims are overwhelmingly students of a single high school in Ansan, near Seoul. More than threequarters of the 323 students are dead or missing, while nearly two-thirds of the other 153 people on board the ferry Sewol when it sank one week ago mourning families to funeral homes in nearby cities.

On Jindo island, where bodies recovered from the ferry are taken, descriptions of the dead are read over a loudspeaker. Relatives rush over to the main notice board and peered at details added by an official.

Some relatives cry out and run from the tent. Others stand red-eyed and shell-shocked.

Material that washed ashore in western Australia being examined in Malaysian jet search

PERTH, Australia (AP) – Authorities say unidentified material that washed ashore in southwestern Australia is being examined for any link to the lost Malaysian plane.

The search coordination center said Wednesday evening that police secured the material that washed ashore 10 kilometers (6 miles) east of Augusta in Western Australia. Its statement did not describe the material found.

The Australian Transport Safety Bureau is examining photographs to assess whether further investigation is needed and if the material is relevant to Flight MH370.

Dozens of Sherpas leave Everest following deadly avalanche; some expeditions cancel climbs KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) - Dozens of Sherpa guides packed up their tents and left Mount Everest's base camp Wednesday, after the avalanche deaths of 16 of their colleagues exposed an undercurrent of resentment by Sherpas over their pay, treatment and benefits.

With the entire climbing season increasingly thrown into doubt, the government quickly announced that top tourism officials would fly to base camp Thursday to negotiate with the Sherpas and encourage them to return to work.

But while Nepal's government has been heavily criticized for not doing enough for the Sherpas in the wake of last week's disaster, the deadliest ever on the mountain, one top official blamed the walkout on "hooligans."

"It was crowd behavior — some hooligans were creating problems, but things are getting back to normal," said Sushil Ghimire, secretary of Nepal's Tourism Ministry. He and other top officials were to fly by helicopter race as a factor in college admissions, the Supreme Court ruled Tuesday in a blow to affirmative action that also laid bare tensions among the justices about a continuing need for programs that address racial inequality in America.

The 6-2 decision upheld a voter-approved change to the Michigan Constitution that forbids the state's public colleges to take race into account. That change was indeed up to the voters, the ruling said, over one justice's impassioned dissent that accused the court of simply wanting to wish away inequality.

The ruling bolsters similar voterapproved initiatives banning affirmative action in education in California and Washington state. A few other states have adopted laws or issued executive orders to bar race-conscious admissions policies.

Justice Anthony Kennedy said voters in Michigan chose to eliminate racial preferences, presumably because such a system could give rise to racebased resentment. Kennedy said nothing in the Constitution or the court's prior cases gives judges the authority to undermine the election results.

"This case is not about how the debate about racial preferences should be resolved. It is about who may resolve it," Kennedy said.

Missouri executes inmate William Rousan, who was convicted of killing a farming couple in 1993

BONNE TERRE, Mo. (AP) – Missouri executed an inmate early Wednesday only a few miles from the farm where prosecutors say he orchestrated the 1993 killing of a couple whose cows he wanted to steal.

William Rousan's last words were, "My trials and transgressions have been many. But thanks be to my Lord and savior, Jesus Christ, I have a new home in his heavenly kingdom."

Before dying, Rousan, 57, mouthed words to his brother-in-law and a minister he had invited. As the drug was administered, Rousan breathed deeply twice and then was still. He was declared dead at 12:10 a.m., nine minutes after the procedure started.

Michael Lewis, the son of the slain couple, Charlie and Grace Lewis, spoke afterward.

"I draw no real satisfaction from Mr. Rousan's incarceration or execution, for neither can replace or restore the moments lost with my parents or give my sons back the grandparents they never got to know," he said

Diagnosed with retinitis pigmentosa as a teenager, Pontz has been almost completely blind for years. Now, thanks to a high-tech procedure that involved the surgical implantation of a "bionic eye," he's regained enough of his eyesight to catch small glimpses of his wife, grandson and cat.

"It's awesome. It's exciting — seeing something new every day," Pontz said during a recent appointment at the University of Michigan Kellogg Eye Center. The 55-year-old former competitive weightlifter and factory worker is one of four people in the U.S. to receive an artificial retina since the Food and Drug Administration signed off on its use last year.

The facility in Ann Arbor has been the site of all four such surgeries since FDA approval. A fifth is scheduled for next month.

Retinitis pigmentosa is an inherited disease that causes slow but progressive vision loss due to a gradual loss of the light-sensitive retinal cells called rods and cones.

Patients experience loss of side vision and night vision, then central vision, which can result in near blindness.

Pope John XXIII, soon to be saint, ushered in Vatican II and changed face of papacy

VATICAN CITY (AP) — On the night of Oct. 11, 1962, Pope John XXIII did something so natural that it's astonishing it was so revolutionary at the time. He came to the window of the Vatican's Apostolic Palace and spoke to thousands of candle-bearing faithful below — not in the arcane, scripted words of pontiffs past but in those of a father and pastor looking out for his flock.

"Going home, you will find your children. Give them a caress and tell them 'This is the caress of the pope,'" John said to the torch-lit cheers from St. Peter's Square.

While much of the focus of Sunday's dual canonization will be on the globetrotting, 26-year papacy of Pope John Paul II and his near-record sprint to sainthood, many older Catholics will be celebrating the short but historic pontificate of the "Good Pope," John XXIII.

John's words, delivered on the opening night of the Second Vatican Council, came to define his papacy. The speech epitomized how John captured the hearts of Catholics with his simple, paternal affection while using his intuitive cunning to launch Vatican II and bring the 2,000-year institution into the modern world. It's a combination embodied by the current pope, Francis. "He was courageous. A good country priest, with a great sense of humor and great holiness," Francis told reporters last summer when asked about John's attributes. "He was one of the greats."

Even with about 150 people still missing, the funeral halls in Ansan are already full, Oh Sang-yoon of the government-wide emergency task force center said in a statement. He said the center "is taking measures to accommodate additional bodies by placing mortuary refrigerators at the funeral halls in Ansan," and directing Thursday to base camp.

Perry challenges N.Y. Gov. Cuomo on business

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) -Texas Gov. Rick Perry is countering Gov. Andrew Cuomo's latest initiative to lure businesses from out of state with a renewed bid to snag jobs from New York, a tactic he has tried from coast to coast.

Perry, a Republican, is slated to be in New York City on Wednesday to meet business owners and try to convince them to move their operations to Texas, where he says the business climate is friendlier.

"Business men and happy to sit down and women in New York know instinctively that they are taxed too much, the regulatory climate is too onerous," Perry said during a radio interview with New York Post columnist Fred Dicker on Tuesday.

Perry would not detail how many business meetings he has or with whom.

He said he'd like to debate Cuomo, a Democrat, over economic policies.

"I'd be more than have a thoughtful conversation, a debate with Gov. Cuomo over the issues that face us as a state and talk about the economic policies and compare New York to Texas," Perry said.

Cuomo's $100 million Start-Up NY initiative, which allows businesses that locate near college campuses to operate tax-free for 10 years, is being touted in TV commercials playing in Texas.

Texas has also bought promotional in New York in recent years.

While Perry praised Cuomo for the initiative and his advocacy for charter schools, he managed to throw some jabs as well.

Last week, the Washington-based Tax Foundation announced that changes in New York airtime tax policy mean the state's ranking will improve from last to 48th nationally, a development Perry sniped at.

With potential presidential runs in 2016 for both Perry and Cuomo, the Republican said he'd wait until next year to make a decision.

A spokesman for the Democratic Governors Association said in an email, "a little free advice for Rick Perry: the fewer debates with anyone, the better. Oops." It included a link to a video of Perry during the Republican Presidential Debate in 2011 when he forgot the name of the third agency he would eliminate if he were to become president.

FEATURE 6 BIG SPRING HERALD Wednesday, April 23, 2014 Relics of NYC World's Fair: Eyesores or icons?

NEW YORK (AP) -They were designed for the 1964 World's Fair as sleek, space-age visions of the future: three towers topped by flying-saucer-like platforms, and a pavilion of pillars with a suspended, shimmering roof that was billed as the "Tent of Tomorrow."

That imagined tomorrow has come and gone. Now the structures are abandoned relics, with rusted beams, faded paint and cracked concrete.

As the fair's 50th anniversary approaches, the remains of the New York State Pavilion are getting renewed attention, from preservationists who believe they should be restored and from critics who see them as hulking eyesores that should be torn down.

Neither option would come cheap: an estimated $14 million for demolition and $32 million to $72 million for renovation.

"It is the Eiffel Tower of Queens," says Matthew Silva, who's making a documentary about the pavilion in Queens' Flushing Meadows Corona Park, comparing it to a remnant of the 1889 Paris Exposition that was also threatened with demolition before it was saved.

Designed by famed architect Philip Johnson, the New York structures debuted with the rest of the World's Fair on April 22, 1964, and quickly became among its most popular attractions.

Visitors rode glass 'Sky Streak" elevators to the observation deck of a 226-foot tower — the highest point in the fair. The two shorter towers, at 150 and 60 feet, held a cafeteria and a VIP lounge.

Queens Borough President Melinda Katz has formed a task force dedicated to preserving the pavilion, noting that other structures from the World's Fair have been saved, most notably the 12-story-tall metal globe called the Unisphere, the Hall of Science and the Queens Museum.

Among the ideas are to convert the towers once again into observation decks or an elevated garden or even a platform for bungee jumping, with the open-air pavilion turned into a performance space with a removable stage and bleachers.

While that debate plays out, a small group of World's Fair buffs has formed to repaint the pavilion so it can be open to the public briefly for an April 22 anniversarv event. The towers will still be off limits. "I just loved this pa-

Police: Man 'armed' with potato in robbery

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) – Police say a man used a potato to pretend he had a gun while trying to rob a Rhode Island business.

WPRI-TV reports that the man entered a convenience store Monday with a potato and shouted: "Give me the money." A police report says the store manager chased him off with a baseball bat. Police provided a description of the suspect. They say officers later went to a laundromat where an employee told them a man fitting the description came in carrying a potato and yelled: "I need the money."

battle fatigue as do many of the soldiers who come home. But when he receives a call from a source deep within the FBI that reignites a story Dawson wrote some 40 years ago, he cannot help but investigate. He is soon investigating the story of the disappearance and presumed? murder of the son of two terrorists that remain on the FBI's most wanted list. Meticulously plotted and expertly paced, "Deadline" (F BRO S) is one of Sandra Brown's most "unputdownable" (is that even a word?) novels to date.

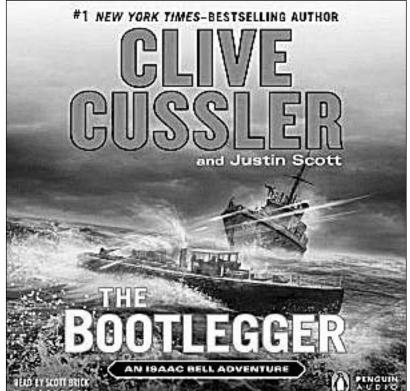

Clive Cussler and Justin Scott have joined together to write "Bootlegger" (F CUS C), the seventh in the Isaac Bell series. As you can tell from the title, it is 1921 and both Prohibition and bootlegging are in full swing. When Bell's boss, VanDorn, is shot and nearly killed, Bell is determined to hunt down in a manner the lawbreakers. However, when the witnesses to VanDorn's shooting are executed reminiscent of the Russian secret police, it is evident that these are no ordinary criminals. From post-World War I to the speakeasies of New York, Detroit and Florida's lavish beaches, Isaac tracks the criminal enterprise that stretches into some surprising places. It is not merely a bootlegging operation, but one that is determined to bring down the United States in the process; and it is pretty good!

"Black Horizon" (F GRI J), by James Grippando, brings back Jack Swyteck and his new wife Andie Henning. Still on their honeymoon in the Florida Keys, Andie, still an undercover agent for the FBI, is called back for an assignment shrouded in secrecy. Jack is back at work, working for an American woman whose Cuban husband was killed in a rig explosion, in Cuban waters, just 50 miles from the Florida coast.

Cuba has refused American help with the cleanup, threatening to fire on "hostile" U.S. vessels that might enter their territorial waters. Soon, Andie and Jack are tied into the looming environmental disaster and the business consortium of Chinese, Russian and Venezuelan government will appear to play a very important part in the whole conundrum.

Now for a sweeping historical novel of Richard I, first begun in "Lionheart" (which we do not have, but have ordered) by Sharon Kay Penman and completed in "A King's Ransom" (F PEN S). It is November 1192. A storm appeared without warning and its fierce winds propelled the ship onto the Sicilian shore and when dawn appeared, her torn sails were evidence of the storm's fury. Richard I and his crusaders had no time to give thanks for they saw two galleys pulling swiftly toward them; they could only be pirates who inhabited the sea. But they were Tancred's men and this would be the only good news for many months to come. For Richard would be taken prisoner on Dec. 21, 1192, in a tiny Austrian village as he was sick with fever and exhaustion; for the first time in his life, he felt fear. Now that I have whetted your curiosity, lovers of English history come check this out.

In a review from Publishers Weekly, Australian author Moriarty, "The Husband's Story' puts three women in an impossible situation and doesn't cut them any slack.

Simultaneously a page-turner and a book one has to put down occasionally to think about and absorb, Moriarty's novel challenges the reader as well as her characters, but in the best possible way. I have read it, and it is a great read. More good fiction to check out: "The Chase" (F EVA J) by Janet Evanovich and Lee Goldberg; "Watching You" (FROBM) by Michael Robotham; Fern Michaels' "Blindsided" (F MIC F); Laura Lippman's "After I'm

Four people think they can build a 'space elevator' - cheap, fast, affordable space flight. It won't be easy, there is violence and heroism: love and death: spellbinding beauty and heartbreaking betrayal, but humanity's salvation from pandemic drought, dwindling energy supplies and water wars make it necessary.

Wylie claims 10-5 victory in 4-3A finale

By TOMMY WELLS

Sports Editor

The regular season is over for the Big Spring High School Steers.

Unfortunately, for Big Spring, it didn't end the way they had hoped.

The Wylie Bulldogs used a 5-fun outburst in the bottom of the second inning on Tuesday in Abilene to race to a 10-5 victory in the final regular season game for both squads.

With the win, the Bulldogs nailed down the District 4-3A championship and earned the district's No. 1 seed for the upcoming playoffs. The Bulldogs posted a 9-1 loss in district play, with their only loss coming in a 5-4 setback to Big Spring on April 4.

Despite the loss, Big Spring finished second in the district standings with a 6-4 record. The Steers will advance to the Class 3A state playoffs as the 4-3A runner-up. Big Spring will face either Fort Stockton or Presidio in the first round.

Wylie got off to a quick start against the Steers, After BSHS starter Gary Watkins had held the Bulldogs scoreless in the first, the Steer defense faltered in the second. Big Spring committed a pair of errors in the second and paved the way for a 5-run outburst.

Big Spring got one of the runs back in the third and trailed by a 5-1 margin heading into the bottom of the third.

Wylie, which finished the regular season at 22-3, tallied a run of its own in the bottom of the third and held a 6-1 cushion heading into the sixth.

Big Spring pushed across another run in the top of the sixth. Haegan Rodriguez and Tate Kennedy posted back-to-back hits in the frame and helped BSHS cut the Wylie lead to four, at 6-2.

The Bulldogs came roaring back

Lobos, Mustangs to play for third

The Monahans Lobos and the Sweetwater Mustangs will play a one-game district playoff on Friday to determine the third- and fourth-place teams in the District 4-3A standings. Both teams finished the district schedule with 5-5 records.

The one-game playoff will be held Friday at Steer Park, starting at 7 p.m.

FHS girls ranked No. 12 in 1A poll

By TOMMY WELLS

It took several months, but the Forsan High School Lady Buffaloes are finally starting to earn some respect from the state's pollsters.

Forsan, which recently claimed the District 6-A softball championship, cracked the top 15 in the latest Texas Girls Coaches Association Class 1A softball poll earlier this week. The poll, which was released on Monday, ranks the top 30 teams in each of the state's five classifications.

The Lady Buffaloes, who put together a 22-4 record during the regular season, are ranked No. 12.

Alto (20-3) was tabbed the state's top-ranked Class 1A team. Beckville (29-2), Stamford (21-2), Hubbard (20-2) and Weimar (17-6) rounded out the top five spots. Junction (19-3) edged out Thrall (18-7) and Archer City (20-5) for the No. 6 spot in the list. Windthorst (24-3) and Santa Anna (14-3) closed out the top 10.

Coahoma's Kyla Clanton delivers a pitch to the plate during the Bulldogettes' recent home game against Colorado City. The Bulldogettes will begin their postseason run on Thursday with a game against Post.

Frost was ranked No. 1 in the poll, finishing just ahead of Forsan.

Shiner, Fruitvale and Ozona finished off the top 15 spots.

Forsan's first-round opponent for the Class A state playoffs has not been determined yet.

The Lady Buffaloes won't be the only area teams competing in the postseason in the coming days. The Coahoma Bulldogettes will be representing the area in the 2A playoffs, as will the Colorado City Lady Wolves. Coahoma, the third-place seed in the District 4-2A race, will face Post in a best-of-3 series beginning on Thursday.

Colorado City will face Lubbock Roosevelt in a one-game playoff on Monday, starting at 6 p.m., in Snyder.

Bulldogettes to kick off playoff run against Post on Thursday

By TOMMY WELLS

Sports Editor

It might not have been pretty at times, but the Coahoma Bulldogettes are right where they wanted to be when the 2014 high school softball season got under way. They're in the postseason.

Coahoma, a longtime state power in softball, will get its 2014 playoff run started on Thursday when they face Post in the first game of their best-of-3 series in the bi-district round, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in Andrews.

The Bulldogettes enter the matchup as the No. 3 team in the District 4-2A race. Coahoma finished the regular season at 10-12 and finished behind Colorado City and Lamesa in the district race.

CHS head coach Jill Bradshaw said she thought her team could compete with Post for the bi-district championship.

"I think as long as we come to play, we'll be fine," she said.

The Bulldogettes' won't be returning to Andrews for Games 2 and 3 of the series. Following Thursday's opener, the series will shift to Herml; eigh High School on Saturday. Game 2 of the series will begin at 4 p.m., with Game 3, if necessary, starting at 6 p.m.

Post enters the playoffs after having finished second in the District 3-2A race.

Hawks claim 7-6 win over Chaps

By TOMMY WELLS

Sports Editor

The Howard College Hawks' baseball team scored a run in the top of the eighth inning on Tuesday and then held on to claim a tough 7-6 victory over the Midland College Chaparrals in Western Junior College Athletic Conference action at Christensen Stadium.

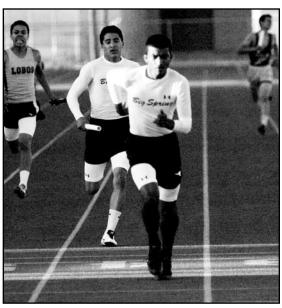

Howard jumped on the Chaps early in the contest. The Hawks ripped off five runs in the first inning of the matchup and seemed to be in control.

Midland College came roaring back, however. After scoring two runs in the bottom of the third and another in the fourth, the Chaparrals' Chris Thibideau delivered a two-run home run in the fifth to tie the game at 5-5.

Both teams managed to push across a run in the seventh, sending the game into the eight with the score knotted at 6-6.

Ty Pennington worked the eighth inning and picked up the victory for Howard. Dustin Angiel suffered the loss for MC.

Howard College will return to play this weekend when they host Clarendon College in a fourgame series on Friday and Saturday. Friday's doubleheader will begin at noon at Jack Barber Field. Saturday's twinbill starts at noon, too.

Big Spring's Ryan Lopez takes the hand off for the final leg of the 4x400-meter relay at the area track meet last Thursday. The Steers enter the Region I-3A Track and Field Championships with one of the fastest times. The meet will be held Friday and Saturday in Lubbock.

Ramsey hired as Coogs' new coach

By TOMMY WELLS

Sports Editor

The Klondike Cougars have found the man they feel can bring the Cougars' back to the state basketball playoffs.

Klondike High School officials announced recently they had hired former Gustine head coach Brock Ramsey as the Cougars' new head basketball coach.

Ramsey replaces Andrew Tijerina at the helm of the KHS basketball program. Tijerina will serve as the school's head football coach and athletic director.

Ramsey, who has coached teams to postseason berths in 14 of his 18 years as a head coach, said he will stress fundamentals with the Cougars.

"Like in anything else, it all starts with the fundamentals. Helping kids improve their skills is the first step toward competing. The more fundamentally sound kids can get, the better players they're going to become."

Tijerina said he was excited for Ramsey to join the Cougars' coaching staff.

"Coach Ramsey knows coming in how it'll be a battle every night out here. But we feel like we're getting a guy who's not only got a good work ethic but also a passion for these kids as well as the game."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Mercury Enters Taurus

Mercury in Aries has been something like listening to an audio book sped up by 1.5 times the recorded pace: The story comes faster. You still get the details, but there's no time to answer back with your mind's voice or relax into the sage.

HOLIDAY MATHIS

emotion of it. Mercury now enters slower Taurus, giving us a chance to mentally respond at our own pace.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Good stories need conflict, and heroes need an enemy. As you're a lover and not a fighter, you'll be more comfortable with an impersonal enemy like weather, the elements or the evils of society at large.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You'll live simply and freely following these rules: 1. Don't acquire what you don't need. 2. Purge possessions periodically. 3. Have a place for things, and keep things in their place.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You've heard hundreds of times that life isn't fair, but today will bring evidence to the contrary. Your favorite kind of justice will be dealt -- and that's poetic justice!

> CANCER (June 22-July 22). Each of your projects has a beginning, a middle and an end, though not necessarily in that order. Today you'll start and stop in odd places, but like a cleverly edited movie, it all works out before the credits roll.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You'll meet someone who likes what you like. It's a significant connection for many reasons, not the least of which is that your shared common interest is relatively rare.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Ideally, you strive to unselfconsciously make connections and remain considerate of the feelings of others. When you're not this way, you haven't failed -- it's all part of a learning process.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Touch base physically if possible. The exchange of ideas and information will go smoothly and will be far more helpful in face-to-face encounters. No matter how hard you try to give, you'll be on the receiving end.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Meetings and forums are part of the action. You realize how hard it is for the person in charge, and so you give full attention and empathy to that person, who may in turn lean on you for support.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Trying to get through to a certain emotionally distant person is like grasping at wind. Instead, get comfortable with yourself, and the contentment you feel will warm everyone around you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Your participation in groups may be minimal, but in a short amount of time, you'll still manage to inspire others to take action. You won't have to tell anyone what to do. You'll do it yourself and make it look cool.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Socializing is a game, and in this game, status is both a choice and a strategy. There are many benefits to adopting both the high and low status positions, so choose carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You'll get the chance to demonstrate your knowledge and expertise. Seize the chance only if you really feel ready. Being ready will entail knowing the order in which you'll do things and having at least some of it memorized.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (April 23). Because you're openminded and guided by sublime intuition, you'll experience a change you didn't anticipate or necessarily want, and vet it will improve your life in many ways. June brings the revival of a dream or relationship. August makes you work and pays you well, too. You'll be a mentor in September. Cancer and Gemini people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 40, 3, 11, 28 and 33.

COSMIC ANXIETY ALERT (PART THREE): For those who are sensitive to tense vibrations, the current cosmic weather may trigger extra nervousness and negative stress. If you feel anxiety creeping in, do not try to muscle through it. Instead, be kind and gentle with yourself as you react quickly, helping yourself to calm down. Monday and Tuesday featured stressreducing exercises, and here's another one to try:

SENSORY FOCAL POINT: Find a focal point in the moment, and observe it through the lens of each of your senses. For instance, if you find yourself freaking out while stuck in traffic, an immediate focal point might be your interior car environment. Bring your attention to the textured feel of the sturdy wheel in your hands. Notice the color gradations around you and, through your window, the sounds of humanity and the unique taste and smell of your earthly location. Know that this moment is somehow unlike any other that ever has been or ever will be. Consider that anxiety is usually occurring in some projected, distant reality of your mind's making. Any one of your senses can provide a way back to the serenity there is to be found in the present moment.

CELEBRITY PROFILES:

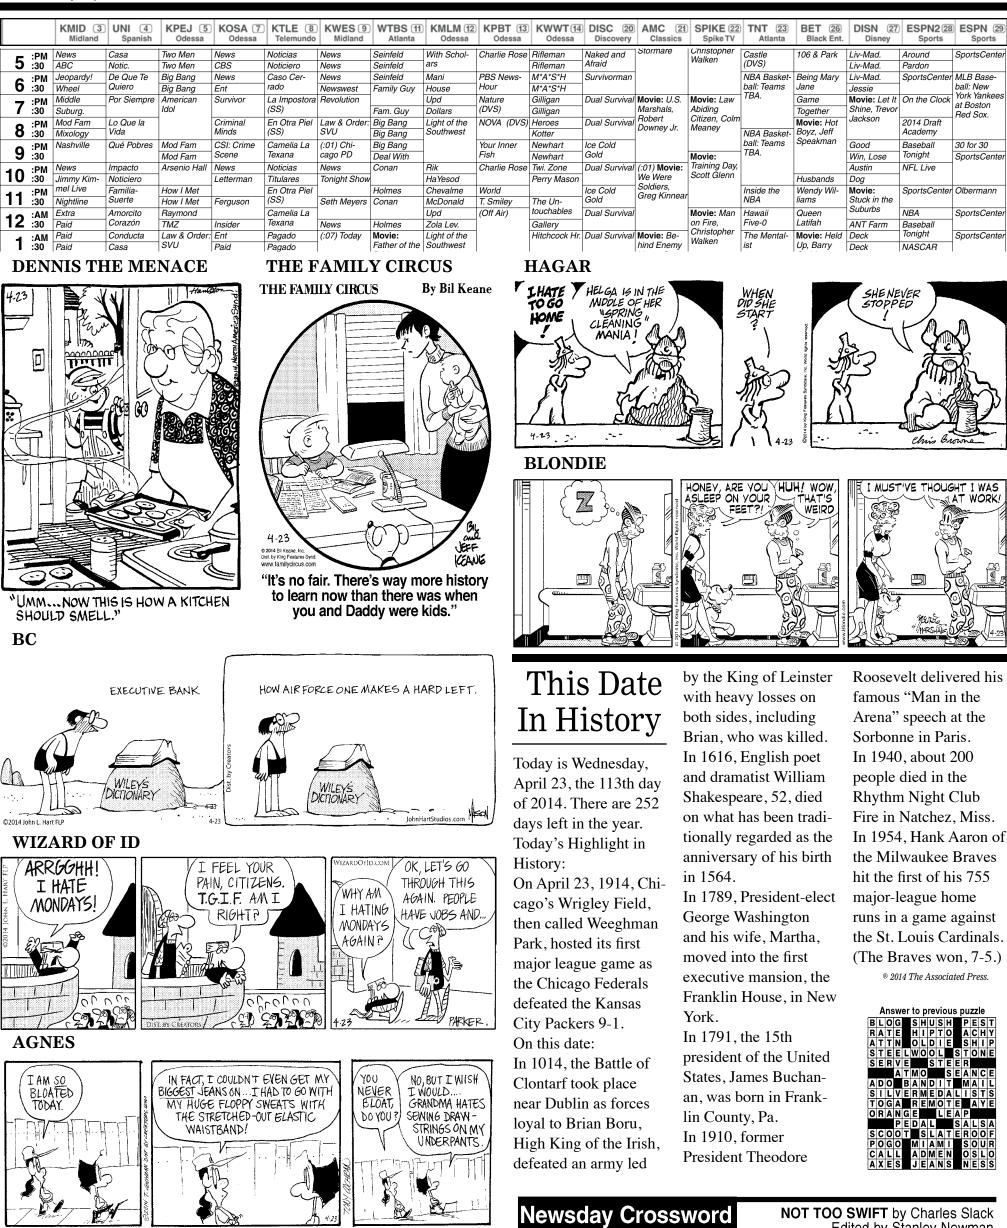

This year we mourn the passing of the world's biggest little movie star Shirley Temple, a Taurus who tapdanced into the hearts of millions and brought hope and entertainment during an extraordinarily tough and wartorn time in history. Curlytopped Temple had four natal luminaries in Aries, the sign of youth, vitality and the warrior spirit. Her Neptune, the dream planet, was in entertaining Leo.

Pujols is first to hit HRs No. 499, 500 in same game

WASHINGTON (AP) -Albert Pujols smiled as he explained why he felt the need to apologize to his wife for hitting homer No. 500 so quickly after No. 499.

She had planned to be there in person once he got within one of the milestone. He didn't give her the chance.

Pujols became the first major leaguer to get his 499th and 500th homers in the same game, connecting twice Tuesday night and driving in five runs in the Los Angeles

The Bulldogs carried a 10-2 lead into the seventh.

Big Spring whittled the WHS Lead to five with a 3-run surge in the seventh.

Rodriguez led the BSHS offense in the contest. He collected two of the Steers' five hits. Kennedy, Josh Gutierrez and Hunter Hill also notched hits.

With the loss, Big Spring finished the regthe Washington Nationals. He's the 26th player in big league history to reach 500.

"I went and made a phone call and I called her, and she was doing her nails. And everybody in the salon, I guess, was telling her, 'Congratulations!' And she was like, 'Did you just hit your 500th?' I was like, 'I'm sorry," Pujols said.

"She would have loved to be here with my kids and my family. She drives me every day to try to be a better person, ular season at 15-11.

For Wylie, the win means they will face either Clint of Fabens in the first round of the state playoffs. Clint held a one-game lead over Fabens heading into their final District 3-3A game on Tuesday.

Fort Stockton is third in the 3-3A race.

Angels' 7-2 victory over a better player," he added. "I would have loved to share this moment with her here."

Hitting like the Pujols of old, the three-time NL MVP delivered a threerun homer in the first inning and two-run drive in the fifth, both off Taylor Jordan (0-3).

"I knew this year, it was going to happen, whether it was tonight, tomorrow, two months from now," Pujols said.

He also hit his 400th homer at Nationals Park.

"I admire his ability and the way he goes about playing the game, and I have for some time," said Washington manager Matt Williams, who played against Pujols. "I just wish he'd do it against somebody else."

About three months past his 34th birthday, Pujols is the third-youngest to get to 500; Alex Rodriguez and Jimmie Foxx were 32.
