SLYLOCK FOX and COMICS FOR KIDS

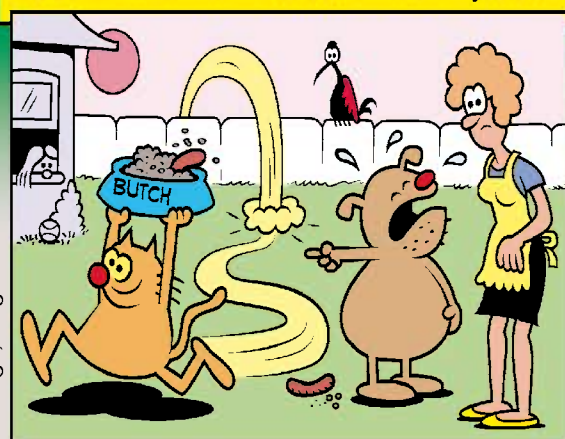

BY BOB WEBER JR

Max Mouse challenged his friends with the following puzzle: Count Weirly served two visitors glasses of iced tea laced with a sleeping potion. One visitor gulped his drink and was unaffected, while the other visitor slowly sipped the drink and fell asleep. Why didn't the visitor who gulped his drink fall asleep? Slylock Fox knows the answer. Do you?

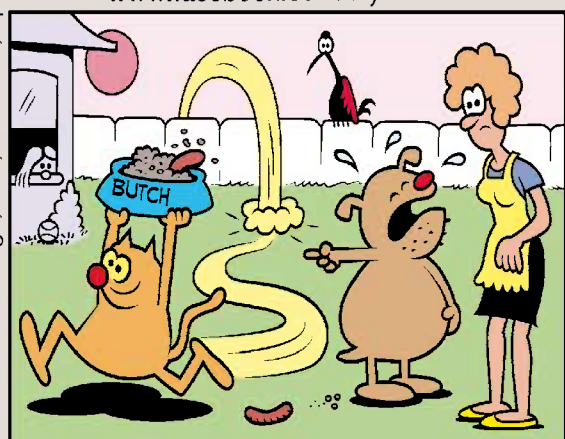

Solution -- The sleeping potion was in the ice cubes. The visitor who drank slowly gave them time to melt. While the other visitor didn't.

Bird Poop:

Mean and Nasty teach orphan the owling way

Late in April, while in Lubbock to deliver a young, great horned owl and four starlings, we were shown a bowl full of baby barn owls brought by a volunteer from Amarillo. Nestled atop each other for warmth and companionship, they, and their mother had been removed from a nest site by a man who didn't want them around his place. The quick thinking of Gail Barnes at South Plains saved their lives.

After learning that the male owl was still in the area, she had the volunteer take the adult female back. Otherwise, she would have killed her young rather than submit them to unknown danger.

As we drove back to Big Spring, I realized that 2014 was beginning to have a similarity to 2011. In May of that year, we had almost become a shuttle service for very young barn owls.

Our first delivery had come from Andrews. An oil field shed built on stilts had been slated for demolition. An alert worker had decided to check inside before having a bulldozer raze the building.

Jumping backward off the ladder that led up to an open door, he had been astonished to see two sets of deep, black eyes staring back at him. Gathering his nerve, he climbed back up. From within the dark enclosure, he could then see little heads with heart-shaped faces. The nestlings' bodies were covered with a dingy-white fuzz.

As he informed the worker about the owls' appearance, a foreman advised, "That's called down."

Adding that in no time the "little boogers" would have feathers, the older and more seasoned oil field veteran remembered other avian families that had set up housekeeping on rigs, and even tanks. At the wildlife center, we learned that the youngest owl was four weeks old.

The other was one and a half to two weeks of age. To be placed with non-releasable surrogate parents named "Mean" and "Nasty," they would be nurtured in a way that only their specie might provide.

Two weeks later we made another trip. Carol Griffin had called from Midland upon receiving word from an oil field worker about a snowy owl. "Those birds don't get this far south, do they?" she inquired.

Since we had worked with Carol as a contact for years, we knew she was thorough in trying to identify species. In the past, during extremely frigid winters, snowy owls had been verified as far south as Oklahoma, Florida and Bermuda. To be in West Texas in May was a stretch for any imagination.

Later, she called to say it was what we thought it was, a young barn owl. Found on the ground with two, much younger downy siblings, it had been the only survivor.

"The man was quite upset by the discovery," she continued. Apparently, someone took the threesome from a nest and left them on the ground. The two smaller infants were dead and covered with maggots.

When Carol met us in Stanton, she had the remaining sibling wrapped in towels inside a thick, cardboard box.

Weak and thin, the little being had a noticeable lack of feathers on the back of its head.

How long the bird had been exposed to the heat and arid conditions of the oil field was unknown.

Through rehydration, then a feeding of tiny baby mice called "pinkies," the result was positive.

Soon, the young owl was eating as if nothing had happened. In Lubbock, Gail said it was a chick.

Placed with Mean and Nasty, it was welcomed immediately, even though they had the two nestlings we had delivered earlier.

Covered with down, these baby barn owls from Amarillo have heart shaped faces and dark eyes. Surrogate parents will raise the helpless raptors. As adults, their superb hearing and sight will enable them to hunt silently in open fields during the night.

Basin, the new environment had been a god-send.

An old wooden stable offered security and privacy; they were less likely to imprint upon humans. Fed and nurtured by their adoptive parents, the young owls would mimic the mannerisms of the older birds.

Three years later, the Amarillo infants, that we had just seen nestled in the large bowl, would receive the same care and daily lessons.

The barn owl couple had inherited their names from an earlier pair of surrogate owls. Mean is female and a formidable protector while raising young. Nasty, the male, quickly teaches the impressionable nestlings what to expect from his temperament and demeanor.

For nearly 18 years their nesting urges in the spring have been satisfied by displaced youngsters such as these.

To Gail, the surrogates are "worth their weight in gold."

Upon cautiously entering the mew in the stable on some of our visits enables us to see the "white" and "golden" parents.

Males are usually lighter or whiter below, while females are darker.

In defense of their charges, they are capable of pretending to attack, and might actually do so.

Their mean and nasty greeting on some days is for the protection of the young and earns respect.

When the Amarillo youngsters are finally released in the future, they will take with them the knowledge of what it truly means to be "mean and nasty."

'Success in never final; failure is never fatal'

Recently, I was looking at some statistics of the universe, noticing the size of earth as compared to some of the other planets and comparing our solar system with others that stretch across the universe and I began to feel so very insignificant.

I guess there are times when we consider all the things around us that insignificant feelings can almost overwhelm us. I have felt insignificant when I have made big and little mistakes in life and when I have not been able to do something that I think I should be able to do.

It's at times like this that I must remind myself that I should never feel insignificant because my value doesn't diminish just because I have not lived up to my own or others expectations. As Winston Churchill once said,

"Success is never final, failure is never fatal. It is courage to continue that counts." And continuing and being productive can eliminate the feelings of insignificance and persistence is the mother of all productive effort.

Failures, small and large, happen every day to the best of us. The strongest, most productive people aren't the people who always succeed. The successful people are the ones who don't give up when they lose.

Our ability to set clear, realistic goals and then to discipline ourselves to work toward them every single day will do more to guarantee our success than any other method of productivity. We must remember it's never too late to choose differently and make something new happen; that is the moment of a new beginning.

Complaining about squandered time and lost opportunities from the past is pointless; we can't do anything about these things.

Our future is immediate.

Grab it with both hands and carry it forward with us

When we come up on a roadblock and are faced with the choice of sitting down and doing nothing or doing something to make further progress, choose the latter.

We have to keep moving forward and be productive, not just busy. We must put first things first and be aware that our goals will not be easy for in life; there are no shortcuts to any place worth going. A successful life is one that is lived through understanding and pursuing one's own path, not chasing after the dreams of others.

We have to do what's right for us; no one else walks in our shoes. We must stay positive and believe in ourselves and our ability to succeed. It has been said that negative people make lots of noise about how bad things are, while positive people quietly and steadily improve things.

There are always problems, there are always challenges, and there are always people willing to transform those problems and challenges into great opportunities. Those who have the courage, commitment and discipline to do so, create a better life for everyone.

If we are using negative energy to push something away, we are inviting it to stay. Choose to accept what is, be positive and proactive, let go of the need to control every tiny detail and embrace peace in the process. We must not stumble over something behind us.

Choose to believe that we can and will change lives with what we do each day, and we will. No matter how overwhelming life's challenges and problems seem to be, or how small we feel at times, we can make a difference in the world.

What we do truly matters. In fact, the vast majority of positive changes come about in someone's life simply because one other person cares for them, believes in them and motivates them. So be that one person, even if it's to only one other person.

Forsan, Coahoma playoff game slated

By TOMMY WELLS
Sports Editor

When it comes to the high school softball playoffs, the Coahoma Bulldogettes and Forsan Lady Buffaloes are familiar names. Both have won state championships and made extended runs in the postseason in recent years. Both will be looking to add an extra page to their history books this weekend when they kick off play in the regional quarterfinal round. Coahoma, 16-14 for the season, is scheduled to face Bushland in the Class 2A regional quarterfinal round this Friday. The two teams will stage a one-game playoff, starting at 6:30 p.m. on Friday at Cooper High School in Lubbock.

The Bulldogettes, the third-place team in the District 4-2A race this season, roll into the regional quarterfinals on a roll. Coahoma defeated Muleshoe by a 4-3 margin on Friday, netting their second straight trip to the third round.

The Bulldogettes opened the postseason on April 29 with a rout of Post.

In their two playoff games, Coahoma has outscored its opponents by a 15-3 clip.

Bushland enters the showdown as the winner of the District 1-2A race. They opened their playoff run with a pair

How will Manziel fare in the draft?

HOUSTON (AP) — And now comes the great leap to the NFL for Johnny Football.

Johnny Manziel, a Heisman Trophy winner and one of college football's most entertaining players, looks to translate his improvisational game to the next level. But questions abound about the quarterback's skills and hard-partying habits.

That's why opinions vary on where he'll end up on draft night. Many believe he should be picked early in the first round. Others, like former NFL quarterback and current ESPN analyst Ron Jaworski, don't think he should be taken before the third round.

If teams are sold on him as a player, he may face obstacles from those reticent to deal with the circus-like atmosphere that seems to follow him everywhere.

It's difficult at times to separate Manziel from his over-the-top Johnny Football persona and this 21-year-old Texan is. Is he the beloved teammate who piled up almost 10,000 yards in just two seasons and put the Aggies back on the football map? Or the petulant, swag-dozing figure who mocked Rice defenders by fake-signing autographs after he was suspended by the NCAA for an autograph offense? The answer: probably a little of both.

But even some who question his character are still enamored of what he could bring to a team.

"As far as the face of the franchise, sometimes that's not definable," NFL Network lead draft analyst Mike Mayock said. "I look at Johnny Manziel, whatever it is, he has it. I know on Sunday ... he's going to show up with an edge about him, thinking he's the best guy on the field and he's going to elevate the play of those around him. (But) I also struggle with him a little bit with his off-the-field antics."

Manziel's recent pro day was more like a Hollywood production than an NFL workout. There was a soundtrack featuring Drake songs; a customized wardrobe from Nike; and former President George H.W. Bush, his wife Barbara and their two dogs watching from the sidelines.

He attended this year's Final Four with Drake, and the rapper dropped the track "Draft Day" last month in which he mentions the quarterback by name.

"When you're dealing with a high-profile position like the quarterback, obviously there's some well-documented things to cover and to consider," said Jon Gruden, the "Monday Night Football" analyst and former NFL coach. "Manziel brings a lot of excitement and interest to your organization. Maybe some people don't want to be part of it. That will be up to them."

While this kind of spectacle might scare some away, from a marketing standpoint it could be a goldmine. Ken Ungar, president and founder of U/S Sports Advisors, a sports and entertainment marketing agency, says Manziel is a "marketer's dream." But he's careful to point out that Manziel will have to produce in the NFL to fulfill his marketing potential.

TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

NOTICE OF RECEIPT OF APPLICATION AND INTENT TO OBTAIN AIR QUALITY STANDARD PERMIT REGISTRATION

PROPOSED AIR QUALITY REGISTRATION NO. 119426

APPLICATION Sundt Construction, Inc., has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for an Air Quality Standard Permit, Registration NO. 119426, which would authorize construction of a Concrete Batch Plant. The applicant has provided the following driving directions to the site: from the intersection of Interstate 20 and U.S. Highway 87, go west on Interstate 20 approximately 2 miles from the south service road of Interstate 20, and turn south and go approximately 0.40 miles to the plant, Big Spring, Howard County, Texas 79720. This link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and not part of the application or notice. For exact location, refer to application. <http://www.tceq.texas.gov/assets/public/hb610/index.html?lat=32.22212&lng=-101.551676&zoom=13&type=r>. The proposed facility will emit the following air contaminants: particulate matter including (but not limited to) aggregate, cement, road dust, and particulate matter with diameters of 10 microns or less and 2.5 microns or less. This application was submitted to the TCEQ on April 22, 2014. The application will be available for viewing and copying at TCEQ central office, the TCEQ Midland regional office, the TCEQ Midland regional office, and the Howard County Courthouse, 300 South Main Street, Room 207, Big Spring, Howard County, Texas, beginning the first day of publication of this notice. The facility's compliance file, if any exists, is available for public review in the Midland regional office of the TCEQ. The executive director has determined the application is administratively complete and will conduct a technical review of the application.

MEETING you may submit public comments, a request for a public meeting, or request a contested case hearing to the Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below. The TCEQ will consider all public comments in developing a final decision on the application. The deadline to submit public comments is 15 days after newspaper notice is published. After the deadline for public comments, the executive director will prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. Issues such as property values, noise, traffic safety, and zoning are outside of the TCEQ's jurisdiction to consider in the permit process. The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or ask questions about the application. A public meeting about the application will be held if the executive director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing. If only comments are received on the application, the response to comments, along with notice of the executive director's action on the application, will be mailed to everyone who submitted comments or is on the mailing list for this application. The executive director will complete the technical review, issue a preliminary decision on the application, and a Notice of the Application and Preliminary Decision will be published and mailed to those who are on the mailing list for this application. That notice will contain the final deadline for submitting public comments. If a hearing request is timely filed in Response to this Notice of Receipt of Application and Intent to Obtain Air Permit, the time period for requesting a contested case hearing will be extended to thirty days after the mailing of the executive director's response to comments. After the final deadline for public comments following the Notice of Application and Preliminary Decision, the executive director will consider the comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material, or significant public comments. If any comments are received, the response to comments, along with the executive director's decision on the application, will then be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments or who is on a mailing list for this application, unless the application is directly referred to a contested case hearing. OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING You may request a contested case hearing. The applicant or the executive director may also request that the application be directly referred to a contested case hearing after technical review of the application. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in state district court. Unless a written request for a contested case hearing is filed within 15 days from this notice, the executive director may approve the application. If no hearing request is received within this 15-day period, no further opportunity for hearing will be provided. A contested case hearing will only be granted based on disputed issues of fact that are relevant and material to the Commission's decision on the application. Further, the Commission will only grant a hearing on those issues raised during the public comment period and not withdrawn. A person who may be affected by emissions of air contaminants from the facility is entitled to request a hearing. To request a hearing, a person must actually reside in a permanent residence with 440 yards of the proposed plant. If requesting a contested case hearing, you must submit the following: (1) your name (or for a group or association, an official representative), mailing address, daytime phone number, and fax number, of any; (2) applicant's name and Registration Number; (3) the statement "[I/we] request a contested case hearing;" (4) a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the application and air emissions from the facility in a way not common to the general public; (5) the location and distance of your property relative to the facility; and (6) a description of how you use the property which may be impacted by the facility. If the request is made by a group or association, the one or more members who have standing to re- quest a hearing, and the interests which the group or association seek to protect, must also be identified. Requests for a contested case hearing must be submitted in writing within 15 days following this notice to the Office of the Chief Clerk, at the address below. Following the close of all applicable comment and request period, the executive director will forward the application and any requests for contested case hearing to Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting. If a hearing is granted, the subject of a hearing will be limited to disputed issues of fact relating to relevant and material air quality concerns raised during the comment period. Issues such as property values, noise, traffic safety, and zoning are outside of the Commission's jurisdiction to address in this proceeding. MAILING LIST In addition to submitting public comments, you may ask to be placed on a mailing list to receive future public notices for this specific application mailed by the Office of the Chief Clerk by sending a written request to the Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below. AGENCY CONTACTS AND INFORMATION Public comments and requests must be submitted either electronically at www.tceq.texas.gov/about/comments.html, or in writing to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Office of the Chief Clerk, MC-105, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087. If you communicate with the TCEQ electronically, please be aware that your email address, like your physical mailing address, will become part of the agency's public record. The bidding:

South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
4 ♠ Dble

Opening lead — jack of hearts.
Let's say you're West and the bidding goes as shown. Whether you should double four spades depends almost entirely on how familiar you are with South's card-playing skills.
If he is a good cardplayer, you will do best in the long run by passing. A double would alert him to the fact that the trumps were stacked against him, and this in turn might enable him to make the contract by means of an endplay.
But if South is not a skilled player, the double would probably work out OK. He might be the type who wouldn't recognize an endplay if it bit him on the shin, in which case he would lose three trump tricks and a diamond and go down one.
The hand actually occurred in a masters pairs championship, and quite a few Wests doubled four spades. How successful they were depended on how well South performed his task.
Those declarers who appreciated the significance of the double executed a trump endplay and made the contract. The sequence of plays varied, but in general it followed this pattern:
South won the heart lead with the ace, cashed the A-K of clubs and then played the king of diamonds. West took the ace and led another heart. Declarer won with dummy's king, ruffed a club, cashed the Q-J of diamonds, discarding a heart, and ruffed dummy's last diamond.
To this point, nine tricks had been played, and the defense had won only one of them. South's remaining cards were the A-J-9-8 of spades, while West had the K-Q-10-5. When South next led the jack of spades, West found it impossible to win more than two trump tricks, and the contract was home.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

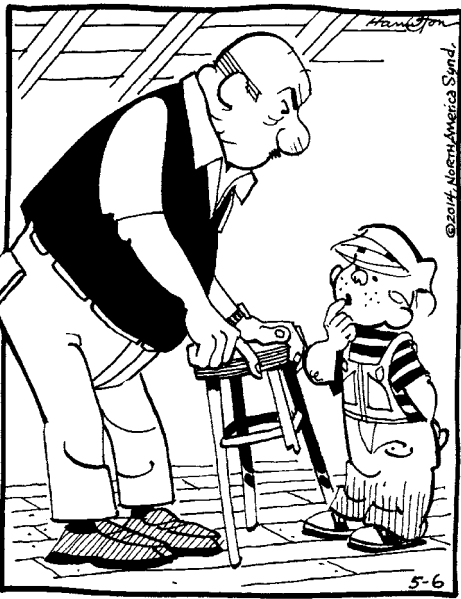

Drama Moon
The Leo moon brings out the theatrical lighting as we watch the dramas of our lives unfold in scenes. The tendency toward exaggeration will be excused, but if there's one thing that is inexcusable, it's dullness. "Imperfection is beauty, madness is genius, and it's better to be absolutely ridiculous than absolutely boring." -- Marilyn Monroe
ARIES (March 21-April 19). There's a job with your name on it, and you'll do this as only you can. Your signature style won't emerge as a creative effort; rather, it's the natural outcropping of your work.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You bring an elusive quality to your work this week, and even though no one will name it and it can't easily be described, it's what distinguishes you from the others.
GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Handle a niggling responsibility. It's like a tiny pebble in your shoe: It may seem insignificant, but if you're continually stepping on it, it will become the foremost thing on your mind.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Someone you know acts differently depending on the venue and who's involved. This is normal and true of everyone to a degree. However, when the inconsistency is glaring, beware the red flag and proceed accordingly.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The work you are doing may be serious, but you don't have to match that seriousness with your attitude. You can't build relationships from a rigid stance. Rapport is a kind of play, and it requires you to stay flexible in the moment.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You know better than to share your First World problems with those who have seen real hardship in their time. You like such people. They help you keep a proper perspective.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). One who lacks confidence and command is actually highly accomplished and knowledgeable with much to offer you. You'll also encounter the opposite scenario: one who knows nothing and does so quite loudly.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). It feels as though you can't help a certain person, but you can. You don't have to do much. Just show up. Small assurances can in no way make up for the vast, empty enormity of unanswerable questions, but they are something.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Everyone loves a mystery, even those who insist you give them all of the information because they hate surprises. Let the suspense build. Do not reveal all that you know.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You're in a position to close the deal, so don't procrastinate. When you seize the moment, you make a positive impression. Be confident -- if not for you, then because they need that from you.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Unimpressive exteriors have been known to hide truly impressive interiors. You'll train yourself to stay open-minded and to ask questions instead of assume.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Not only do you think before you act, but you also think about what you think about. There is no danger of over-thinking things now; you'll get clearer with each new idea.
TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 6). You connect with an interesting new project and happily let it take over your world in May. In June, remarkably, everyone on your team will agree, and you'll build something together that will last for many years to come. July is for making over your domestic life. Organization and simplicity lead to good fortune. Aries and Sagittarius people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 23, 44, 49 and 50.
MERCURY IN TAURUS: Tomorrow, Mercury will leave the realm of Taurus with one final reminder: Anything worth doing is worth doing right. It takes diligence. The current zeitgeist doesn't readily support diligence. An endless supply of immediately gratifying distractions makes diligence seem like an antiquated virtue. Yet, when the devices and media are turned off, it becomes clear that what we build in the real world takes careful and persistent work. The thing in your life that you have built through diligence will be a source of confidence and identity, a symbol of strength and a guide for future creations. The enemy of diligence is having too many things to do to commit to doing any of them exceptionally well. This is an excellent time to pull back and look at your life and roles with an objective eye. What can be axed that you wouldn't miss? Look for activities that have lost their luster, interests that might be retired and all of the clutter of material possessions that come with them. Paring down will liberate new sources of energy to be applied to the things that really matter to you.
CELEBRITY PROFILES: Actor, director, activist, producer and style icon George Clooney long has been lauded for bringing old Hollywood glamour back to the world of movie-star menswear. His sign is ruled by Venus, and with communication planet Mercury in Taurus, as well, Clooney is drawn to all things timeless and classic. Currently, Clooney is filming the time-travel pic "Tomorrowland."

Astros drop 3rd straight decision

DETROIT (AP) — Jarred Cosart gave the Houston Astros a shot to knock off the Detroit Tigers, and they wasted the opportunity.

Cosart was the loser even though he did not give up an earned run in Houston's 2-0 setback against the Tigers.

The Astros, who had scored 20 runs in their previous three games, failed to bring one runner home and could not make a routine play in the field that proved to be costly.

Detroit's Nick Castellanos reached in the seventh inning because first baseman Marc Krauss dropped a perfect throw from third baseman Matt Dominguez and ended up scoring the game's first run when Rajai Davis hit an RBI single.

"I just took my eye off the ball," Krauss said. "That was a pretty bad time to do something like that because Cosart was pitching his guts out against one of the best teams in baseball, and I handed them another out in a key situation."

"I feel horrible because I cost him a great shot at a win," he said.

Cosart (1-3) allowed four hits in seven innings. The Astros, who have the worst record in the majors, had a team meeting recently and manager Bo Porter told his players that they need to realize there is a lot of baseball left to play this season.

"I wanted to make sure that as a team, we don't lose sight of that," Porter said.
