LONGEST DAY

World honors D-Day's fallen, 70 years on

GREG KELLER and LORI HINNANT
 Associated Press

COLLEVILLE-SUR-MER, France — Gone are the screaming shells, seasick soldiers and bloodied waters of 1944. Today, a sun-splattered Normandy celebrated peace, with silent salutes, tears and international friendship marking 70 years since the D-Day invasion helped change the course of World War II and modern history.

Not many of the 150,000 Allied soldiers who slogged onto storm-torn beaches or parachuted into Normandy remain alive to pass on the legacy of that "longest day." Some survivors stood, somber-faced and proud, alongside President Barack Obama and French President Francois Hollande as they paid tribute to history's biggest amp-

Shelton exhibit Saturday

Herald Staff Report

The Heritage Museum will hold a reception Saturday for local photographer Charlotte Shelton. Her work consists of more than 50 varieties of birds as well as squirrels and butterflies.

Shelton has also published a book of the photos entitled "Scenes from a backyard in West Texas." The book contains 53 varieties of birds as well as mammals, insects and flowers.

A reception will be held from 6-8 p.m. at the museum, located at 510 Scurry. For more information, contact the museum at 267-8255.

Howard County Sheriff's Office responded to a two-vehicle collision on Highway 350 this morning. No details regarding the cause of the wreck were available. One female, who is reportedly pregnant, was transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center. No other injuries were reported.

Victim identified as Guzman; husband 'person of interest'

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

A body discovered in Big Spring Wednesday has been identified as a Lubbock woman missing since late Friday.

Lubbock TV station KCBD reported that the Lubbock County Medical Examiner has identified the body as that of Rachel Guzman, 41, of Lubbock.

Guzman was last seen at her home on S. Loop 289 in Lubbock at about 11 p.m. Friday. Family members told KCBD they first noticed Guzman's absence Sunday, then became particularly fearful for her safety when she failed to report for work Monday.

Wednesday afternoon, Lubbock detectives and Big Spring police discovered Guzman's body on an isolated stretch of property in the vicinity of Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

Rachel Guzman's husband, Epifanio Jose "Joe" Guzman, 43, was booked into Howard County Jail Wednesday on a Lubbock County warrant charging him with indecency with a child by sexual contact. Bond was set at $750,000.

Sgt. Jason Lewis, Lubbock Police Department public information officer, told KWES-TV that Epifanio Guzman is a "person of interest" in his wife's death.

Fly In set at airpark

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

The Big Spring Airport will have the welcome mat out for area aviators Saturday.

The airport's annual Prairie Dog Fly In, which offers pilots from across West Texas the chance to visit the airport, tour the facilities and visit with each other, will be held from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Saturday. The pilots will be fed breakfast free of charge and there are other enticements as well. A variety of prizes will be awarded to visiting pilots, such as the oldest pilot, pilot with the oldest aircraft and the pilot who flew in from the furthest away.

Door prizes also will be given away, Airport Secretary Karen Reagan said.

Local residents are welcome to stop by and have some breakfast, although they'll have to pay $2 for the meal.

Aside from a free meal and prizes, the airport will provide static aircraft displays and a free tour of Hangar 25 Air Museum.

For more information, contact the airport at 264-2632.

State park hosts stargazing party Saturday

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

Big Spring State Park is having a party Saturday, and all the stars will be there — real stars, not the two-legged variety.

The park's 22nd annual Stargazing Party, which is scheduled from 8:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., offers area residents a chance to get a closer look at some of the celestial attractions which can be found in the night skies over West Texas.

Members from the West Texas Amateur Club of Midland will be on hand to help out, Park Manager Ron Alton said.

"There will be between eight and 11 telescopes people can look through, including a couple that are 18 inches wide," Alton said. "That should give you a pretty good peak into space ... If you have a smaller child, you might want to bring a step ladder so they can get a look, too."

Admission is free, but donations will be accepted. Alton cautions visitors to arrive a little early to ensure finding a good parking space on top of the park.

"Our town usually rallies to events at the state park," he said. "There's always a good turnout. You always hear people complaining that there's nothing to do in Big Spring. Well, guess what — there's something to do right here and it won't cost you anything."

Sponsors will get significant exposure and there will be plenty of potential customers for vendors. Please consider being a part of something truly good for our entire community.

D-DAY

hibious invasion. The veterans' hands, which once wrested France from Nazi occupation, saluted wizened faces. Some rose to their feet with difficulty. Thousands of onlookers applauded.

"France will never forget what it owes these soldiers, what it owes the United States," Hollande said at the Normandy American Cemetery on a bluff overlooking Omaha Beach.

"Vive l'Amerique! Vive la France! And long live the memory of those who fell here for our liberty."

Taking the stand at a site he called "democracy's beachhead," Obama said: "America's claim — our commitment to liberty, to equality, to freedom, to the inherent dignity of every human being — that claim is written in blood on these beaches, and it will endure for eternity."

In all, 19 world leaders, more than 1,000 veterans and many others gathered to honor the troops and civilians who fell in mighty battles that helped bring Europe peace and unity.

At 6:30 a.m., the moment on June 6, 1944, when Allied troops first waded ashore, a U.S. military band played taps. D-Day veterans from the 29th Infantry Division and serving soldiers stood at attention.

"Twenty-nine, let's go!" they shouted, then downed shots of Calvados, Normandy's apple brandy.

Hundreds of Normandy residents and other onlookers applauded, then formed a human chain on the beach.

The glorious sun that rose as they arrived shone through the day on a land where paratroopers' corpses once hung from trees and medics dragged wounded soldiers from blood-swirled waves.

But the peace and stability that its wartime history brought continues to be challenged, as bloodshed in Ukraine poses new threats to European security and East-West relations.

Hollande, who invited Ukraine's president-elect to the D-Day commemorations as well as Russian President Vladimir Putin, alluded to the conflict.

"It is because France itself experienced the barbarity (of war) that it feels a duty to preserve peace everywhere, at the frontiers of Europe as in Africa," Hollande said.

He was hosting the world leaders in Ouistreham, a small port that was the site of a strategic battle on D-Day.

The secretly planned Operation Overlord included landings on five Normandy beaches, code-named Gold, Juno, Omaha, Sword and Utah.

The D-Day invasion was a turning point in World War II, cracking Hitler's western front as Soviet troops made advances in the east. At least 4,400 Allied troops were killed the first day, and many thousands more in the ensuing three-month Battle of Normandy, before the Allies could march to Paris to liberate the French capital from Nazi occupation.

German Chancellor Angela Merkel and a few German veterans also took part in Friday's ceremony, as a gesture of the European unity that the Allied victory brought. Ceremonies large and small were taking place across Normandy and around the world.

A ceremony with

"It brought it all back, I'm afraid — all the boys I lost, my brother-in-law who was killed almost at the end, and the lovely chaps that fought with me who were older than me and are no longer with us," said England, of the 8th Durham Infantry Battalion. "They weren't here, unfortunately."

Several thousand veterans, family members and others gathered at the Normandy American Cemetery and Memorial, with its 9,387 white marble tombstones on a bluff overlooking the site of the battle's bloodiest fighting at Omaha Beach, the emotional centerpiece of American pilgrimages to honor the men killed in Normandy.

Serving soldiers of the 173rd Airborne brigade, the ceremony organizers, served as ushers, wearing maroon berets. For the ceremony, small U.S. and French flags were placed in the ground at each grave.

In addition to the fallen troops, Allied bombardments killed an estimated 20,000 French civilians, and Hollande paid tribute to them Friday in Caen, which like many cities of Normandy was largely destroyed in the bombings.

France has only tentatively come to grips with the invasion's toll on civilians. The Allied bombings — especially the deadly onslaught in Normandy during the invasion launched on D-Day — were used as a propaganda tool by the Vichy government, which collaborated with the Nazis. Historians now believe that nearly as many French civilians died in Allied air raids as Britons during the German Blitz.

"This battle was also a battle of civilians," Hollande said. He said Normandy's residents "helped the victory happen. They opened their doors to the liberators."

Today's commemorations also honored soldiers in today's conflicts.

Jeffrey McIlwain, professor at the San Diego State University school of public affairs, will lay a wreath on behalf of educators who have lost students to wars in Iraq and Afghanistan — himself included.

He wants to keep the memory of D-Day alive as the number of survivors dwindles, and brought 12 students to Normandy for a course on the lessons of D-Day.

"I make them promise to bring their grandchildren," he said, "to serve as a bridge to the next generation."

U.S. Senator John Cornyn (R-Texas) issued the following statement in honor of the 70th anniversary of D-Day:

"On this day, we honor the men who stormed the beaches of Normandy 70 years ago today. These heroes will always be honored by the country they served and the nations they helped to free.

"As we pay tribute to the heroes of D-Day, may we remember their sacrifices and those of their family members. May we remember their bravery and their commitment to the mission that would change the course of history."

DAILY PRAYER

Thank you for sunny days, oh Lord, and ripe tomatoes.

A terrible way to select judges

It happened again this year. At first, I was embarrassed, but now I just laugh. “Who should I vote for?” friends ask. At first, as a lawyer and a law professor, I felt like I should know the answer to that. But I didn’t — and still don’t. In Massachusetts, where I come from, judges are appointed for life. In California, some judges are appointed by the governor, but then they stand for retention after their first term. And there are other seats on the Superior Court, the local trial court, where you don’t get appointed; you just run. “You” meaning former prosecutors.

Superior Court judges don’t just preside over criminal cases. But as I perused my absentee ballot looking for at least a few names I might know and support, I almost started laughing about the many varieties of prosecutors on the ballot — and not just any kind of prosecutor. “Gang prosecutor” sound tough enough? How about gang “predators”? Not just sexual assault prosecutors, but sexual “predator” prosecutors. Prosecutors with 98 percent conviction rates.

Geniuses? Brilliant judges to be?

Not necessarily.

I think I have a pretty good idea of what it takes to be a good judge, having appeared in front of some great judges and some who were not so great.

Certainly, it helps to know your way around the courtroom, how to make easy calls as to what is admissible and what isn’t, and in that, prosecutors, who probably spend more time in court than any other kind of lawyer, are obviously very knowledgeable.

But being a judge, or at least a good judge, also requires other skills. You need to be able to understand almost any area of law, to be able to try a criminal case and also a fraud case, to supervise discovery in a complex business transaction gone wrong, to corral lawyers whose instinct is to fight over everything in endless submissions.

You need to be smart and organized.

As I look at the list of former prosecutors of every stripe asking for my vote, how am I to know who is smart and organized, who will be able — with tight budgets, meaning very little help from clerks and support staff — to move the process forward fairly and smoothly even if some or all of the lawyers have no desire to do so? The short answer: I haven’t a clue.

And being smart and organized isn’t even the most important piece. At the end of the day, at least if you ask me after three decades in this business, the most important quality in a judge is — big surprise — judgment. Dare I call it wisdom? Dare I call it, as it sometimes is, courage?

Every case has winners and losers. Most of the time, cases turn out roughly as they should, roughly as you might predict. But not always. Definitely not always. I’m not (just) talking about innocent people getting convicted (which happens, but rarely). I’m talking about civil cases where truth and justice don’t triumph — maybe because one side had a bad lawyer, or because the other side did a better job of picking a “favorable” jury, or because the hometown team killed the outsiders. I have been involved in cases that made me feel proud of our justice system and cases where the best I could do was to apologize, and not for my mistakes, but for the fact that the rule of law, as administered by men and women, is far from perfect.

What makes the difference, particularly when things go very wrong, is having a judge with the wisdom and courage to right those wrongs. I have seen that, as well, from judges who agree with me on nothing when it comes to partisan politics, but are people of wisdom and courage.

I don’t know how you find such people on a ballot. And if I don’t know, I don’t think my non-lawyer neighbors are likely to fare much better. It is a terrible way to pick judges.

Discovering self-loathing Hispanics

Wherever they went in North America, usually years before any of the other European explorers, the Spanish conquistadores drew a map and named the landmarks they found along the way.

No wonder so much of our country is named in Spanish!

The conquistadores named rivers, mountains, towns and even territories that later became states. They trekked thousands of miles through the North American wilderness, starting some 250 years before Lewis and Clark made their much more famous and historically acclaimed journey.

They were superhumans, those daring hombres of the 16th century. Already hardened by European wars, they accomplished feats that would be legendary today — had it not been for a centuries-old anti-Spanish campaign known as the “Black Legend.”

Promoted by the British, French and the Dutch, who competed with Spain in the conquest of the New World, “The Black Legend” was a campaign to demonize the Spanish conquistadors and their Hispanic descendants.

And yet, some of those descendants, hardened by distorted history, now are the promoters of that insidious propaganda.

Every so often, I hear from a Latino who claims to be offended by my defense of our Spanish ancestors. Mind you, these are people with Spanish surnames who readily renounce the Spanish blood that runs through their veins. These are Hispanics who foolishly judge their 16th-century ancestors by 21st-century moral standards.

With a little help from American history books, which are so influenced by the Black Legend and omit so many Hispanic accomplishments, they only know negative views of the conquistadors and Spanish colonizers who followed them. And in some cases, it turns them into self-loathing Hispanics.

When I use the word “discover” to describe the many places “discovered” by the conquistadors throughout the Americas, I usually get at least one nasty message from a Latino who questions that terminology with the same twisted skepticism used for centuries by the British, French and Dutch to minimize Spain’s accomplishments.

“Please, he (Juan Ponce de Leon) DID NOT discover Florida,” one of them wrote me. “People lived there for thousands of years. Why spread ignorance when we know the facts?”

Following that twisted logic, the only way Spanish explorers could have been credited for a “discovery” was if the New World had been uninhabited. It’s crazy!

In fact, ignorance is not being able to recognize great accomplishments. Ignorance is refusing to listen to the great historians who are clear about what really happened and what words we should use to describe it.

“I would suggest that we say that Juan Ponce’s voyage constituted the first known, or documented, discovery of Florida,” said Dr. Michael Gannon when I met him last year. It was April 2, 2013. People in Melbourne Beach, Florida, were celebrating the 500th anniversary of de Leon’s great discovery, and Gannon, considered the ultimate authority on Florida’s Spanish history, was telling everyone that we were “honored to be alive on an anniversary of this magnitude.”

Because our Hispanic heritage is so often hidden, and because the Black Legend still affects us today, most of the country missed a unique opportunity to celebrate our “Discovery Day.” But yes, we were celebrating a great discovery! And with Gannon as the keynote speaker, no one felt there was ignorance being spread.

It’s simple: Discoveries occur not only when new land is found, but also when new cultures and peoples are encountered.

Europeans had no clue that the New World existed until the Spanish found it. That’s why Christopher Columbus made such a huge discovery! And that’s why those who followed him also made tremendous discoveries throughout the Americas. Those who deny their accomplishments, perhaps unwittingly, are still promoting the Black Legend.

If the Native Americans had crossed the Atlantic and found Europe with all its people, surely they would deserve credit for such a great “discovery.”

But that’s not what happened. So I also ask, “Why spread (Black Legend) ignorance when we know the facts?”

Throughout the Americas, including many parts of the United States, there are countless places that were inhabited by natives and yet “discovered” by Spanish explorers. If the British, French or Dutch had been the first to see and explore these places, surely these accomplishments would not have been censured by the Black Legend or questioned by those who are still misinformed and promoting its twisted propaganda.

That term was coined by Spanish writer Julian Juderias in his 1914 book, “La Leyenda Negra y la Verdad Historica (The Black Legend and the Historical Truth),” where he described the unfair and biased way in which the people of Spain and Latin America had been depicted during the previous three centuries.

Juderias described the Black Legend as “the environment created by the fantastic stories about our homeland that have seen the light of publicity in all countries, the grotesque descriptions that always have been made of the character of Spaniards as individuals and collectively, the denial — or at least the systematic ignorance — of all that is favorable and beautiful in the various manifestations of culture and art, the accusations that in every era have been flung against Spain.”

Yet now, if you express your pride in your Spanish heritage, there are Hispanics ready to accuse you of embracing “white supremacist concepts and colonialism.” It’s absurd!

Every so often, I run into Latinos who — with holier-than-thou attitudes — reject their own roots because of Spanish atrocities that occurred 500 years ago and were no different than those committed by other European explorers.

“And what would you have done if you lived in the 16th century?” I like to ask. “How long could you have survived with your 21st-century human rights and moral standards?”

Throughout the United States, there are numerous places where great Spanish discoveries and Hispanic accomplishments have been hidden right before our eyes. But people need to see them, especially the Black Legend-influenced, self-loathing Hispanics.

America’s hidden Hispanic heritage needs to be uprooted and exposed, and through this column, in the next few weeks, I intend to do much more of that. Stay tuned. You may be fascinated by the places and people we will “discover.”

Each of us must learn to make choices

I was recently made aware that someone disliked me personally and due to that was faced to confront how that made me feel. My first reaction was to be defensive and self-protect my way through the issue, but then those common emotions surfaced eventually and the frustration of knowing that someone had a problem with me became a thorn in my side. I started discerning how important it is for me to be congenial to everyone while also striving to be Christ-like in my everyday life. The longer I thought about the circumstances, the more questions that came to mind:

REV. LESTER W. BROWN JR.

What did I do to deserve this? Why would anyone dislike me? What can I do to fix the situation? Should I say something to the person who dislikes me in order to correct the problem?

The longer I thought about it the more upset it made me until I took the time to pray and realized what the Bible says about these types of situations.

Jesus says in the gospel of John in chapter 15, 18- "If the world hates you, be aware that it hated me before it hated you. 19-

If you belonged to the world, the world would love you as its own. Because you do not belong to the world, but I have chosen you out of the world — therefore the world hates you." (NIV)

Now after processing the words of Christ I was brought to a place in my inner self of accountability.

The awareness of being chosen out of the world is a responsibility to disconnect from the worlds methods.

Christ was hated by the world for being who God created him to be, so why wouldn't God have the same expectancy of me?

In the Old Testament, the prophet Micah asked the question, "What does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with you God?" (Micah 6:8)

I started to feel at peace but mixed with some anxiety as well. The feeling of peace is the result of knowing hate is not something that my Savior has never experienced and overcome.

If Jesus worked through his disputes throughout the gospel message praying to God for strength, that means that I too have been equipped with what I need to move forward beyond this circumstance. Now the anxiety is ever present due to the reality of knowing that my commitment to following Jesus will also lead to my own experiences with persecution.

The truth about Christianity is that pain, distress, hate and crucifixion are all possibilities the further anyone goes forward in life's excursion. The Christian journey requires each of us to make choices and pick a side daily. The battle of good and evil is an internal brawl long before it is ever external to be seen.

Carnality is an untrustworthy source of delight. Which is why the goal is never to gain the applause of mankind, although that would be nice at times. The mission's critical objective is to embrace your cross and live each day filled with prayerful integrity.

Make a choice! And decide if you are a source of sneers or smiles to the world around you. Take the time to investigate yourself and be for sure that you aren't the source of anxiety to those around you.

God expects us all to never allow the security of being Christ centered to be questioned by the principles of mankind. Would you rather please everyone in the world or God?

With a close look at the experiences that Christ faced with the world it's clear that people will turn on you when they can't regulate who you are.

"Sacrifice Is at the Heart of Repentance. Without Deeds, Your Apology is Worthless."

Sunday services will begin at 9 a.m. with Bible study and Sunday school to follow at 10:15 a.m.

Bo Vizcaino will present the readings this week.

Our Wednesday night Bible study is taking a summer break. Class will begin in the fall.

Tune in to 106.3 FM or 1400 AM between 6:45 and 6:50 each morning for these wonderful devotions: "Morning Meditation Thoughts."

First United Methodist Church

First United Methodist Church is located just off Gregg Street at the corner of Fourth and Scurry in downtown Big Spring. Classic worship gathers at 8:30 a.m. and our blended worship is at 10:50 a.m. Both meet in the Sanctuary. Sunday school for all ages meets at 9:45. A nursery is provided at all times. The 10:50 a.m. service can be heard each Sunday morning on KXCS - 105.5 FM.

This Sunday, the congregation will observe Pentecost. Coming 50 days after Easter, Pentecost is the day on which the Lord poured out his Spirit upon the first disciples. It was through that experience that the Lord raised up his church and empowered his people for mission. Pastor Bill Ivins will be sharing a message entitled "Ten Days That Will Change the World" and is taken from Acts 2:1-21.

The summer is in full swing with a whole compliment of activities for children, youth, adults and senior adults. For more information about any activity at First United Methodist Church, visit our website at fumbcs.com or phone 267-6394.

First Presbyterian Church, Big Spring

The Lectionary Bible study, led by the Rev. Craig Holstedt and Tom Koger, meets at 5:17 p.m. and Chancel Choir rehearsal is at 6 p.m. Wednesdays.

The 100th Stated Meeting of Tres Rios Presbyterian began this morning at St. Mark Presbyterian Church in San Angelo. Helen Glass is our commissioner to the meeting.

Our church has a team participating in the Relay For Life 20th anniversary event set tonight at Blankenship Field and several members will take part in the Survivor Walk. Everyone is encouraged to attend, participate at whatever level is possible, and contribute to the event, which will end at midnight.

Presbyterian Women closed the year with a salad luncheon in May. The women viewed an inspirational DVD presentation by Anita Gutschick, who portrayed Lydia, the wealthy purveyor of purple who finds true freedom as a servant of Christ. Marj Carpenter installed the PW officers for 2014-2015: Moderator Helen Glass, Treasurer Neva Green, Secretary Lucy Odom, Stamp Mission Jo Dell Myrick, Historian/Other Mission Marj Carpenter, Yearbook Susan Holstedt, Card Ministry Christine Boling, and Community Action Co-Leaders Louise Hitch and Diane Pippin.

The children will make use of the computer room and DVDs for the summer under the leadership of Kay Kennemur and Sarah Salinas. The youth Sunday school class will not meet during the summer but is welcome to join the adult Discovery Class or help with the children.

The adult Discovery Class will view the miniseries "The Bible," televised last fall. We will watch 30-40 minutes of the DVD then follow with discussion. All adults, youth, and children are welcome to join this class.

John Ferguson's adult Covenant Class begins a new quarter study "The People of God Set Priorities." Unit 1, "Hope and Confidence Come from God," has four sessions from the book of Haggai. Each session attempts to convey a message of community. The key aspects of living in community are obedience and trust in God, living in a right relationship with God, and maintaining hope in God.

Sarah Salinas is in charge of Take Ten for Sunday. John Farquhar is our Lay Lector for the month. Communion servers are Paula Farquhar, Helen Glass, Susan Holstedt, and Nancy Koger.

The lectionary for the Day of Pentecost is Acts 2:1-21; Psalm 104:24-34,35; I Corinthians 12:3-13; John 7:37-39 or John 20:19-23. The Rev. Holstedt will deliver the sermon and officiate at the Lord's Supper. The Chancel Choir will not present an offertory at them.

Non-pesticide termite treatment now available in Texas

Developed over years of Texas A&M testing, Polyguard Products, of Ennis, Texas introduces TERM Particle Barrier, the first and only Texas termite treatment not classified as a pesticide.

EPA classifies the TERM Particle Barrier as a "device". The concept is simple - quartz particles are carefully sorted and sized to an exact combination. Particles are too large for termites to move, and too small for them to crawl between. The particle barrier simply blocks entry, causing termites to forage elsewhere for food.

TERM Particle Barrier can be installed by Polyguard authorized pest management professionals on the outside perimeter of existing or new homes and schools, as well as in bath traps and wherever plumbing penetrations come through the slab. No building should be built without this particle barrier, as it blocks most places where termites enter structures. TERM Particle Barrier should dramatically reduce the need for pesticides.

EPA Establishment # 89537-TX-1

CHURCH NEWS

Ann Adcock of Lamesa will be our guest organist for the day.

Our worship service begins at 10:50 a.m. for announcements and parish concerns before our radio broadcast starts at 11.

If you cannot attend worship, you may listen in on KBST 1490 AM., beginning at 11:00 a.m. If you wish to have a printed bulletin for Sunday services, call the church office at 263-4211. You may also see what's happening at the church by visiting our website: www.fpcbs.org.

Forsan Baptist Church

This Sunday morning our message is titled "Sinking In" and comes from Matthew 20:17-28. Wednesday evenings, we are in the midst of a verse-by-verse trek through the Old Testament, and Sunday evenings we are in the last weeks of the DVD series called "The Story."

Outdoor movie night is this Saturday in the west parking lot of the church. Festivities will begin at 8:30 with a kids' movie, hot dogs and popcorn to raise funds for the youth group. The movie is "Courageous" and will begin as soon as it gets dark. Bring lawn chairs or sit in the bed of your truck.

VBS begins this Sunday evening with a special kick-off service at 6 in the west parking lot. Monday through Thursday, VBS will begin at 5:30 each evening with a meal and conclude at 8:30 each night. Thursday evening will be family night as our VBS students will present their program at 8:30 p.m.

Starting June 24, we will begin a Bible study about how to study the Bible. This will be a weekly Tuesday study which will continue through the first week of August. The study will focus on how the Bible is put together, how we got it, how it is all connected, and the background involved in the writing.

As we end our DVD study on Sunday evenings, we will begin an Inquiry Study based upon open questions about the Bible. Anyone who wishes to ask a question about the Bible or Christianity is welcome to chime in. These questions will be addressed through Scripture and can be emailed, called in, asked in person, or sent via Facebook message from our church page. You can even text them to the number at the bottom of this article.

Our church is located at 201 Main in Forsan. Sunday school begins at 9:50, with worship services at 10:50 a.m. and 6 p.m. Wednesday services begin at 6 p.m. Rides for all youth activities are available if arranged ahead of time. Call the church at 432-457-2342 or Pastor Darren Weaver at 432-213-2348.

Spring Creek Fellowship

Please keep our youth in your prayers as they go to camp in Colorado this coming week.

We will be having our second annual "Day Before Father's Day" car wash on June 14 at the Spring Town Plaza. This year the Spring Creek Cook Team will be there to sell hamburgers, hot dogs and fries. Car wash will be by donation. All proceeds raised will go to help the ministry efforts of "We sent our Hart's to Zambia."

Vacation Bible School is scheduled for Saturday, June 28 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at The Hayne's Pavilion at Comanche Trail Park.

The Big Spring Christian Academy is opening a preschool in September. It will start out as a two day a week preschool and eventually move into a full-time preschool for ages 3 months through 4 years old. Times will be 8-3:30 pm Tuesdays and Thursdays. For more, go to www.bsccpreschool.org. The BSCA Preschool is selling candles to help raise funds for supplies.

Big Spring Classical Academy classes include junior K through junior high this coming year. Applications are now being taken for the 2014-2015 school year.

Join us at 5:30 pm on Wednesdays for our fellowship meal. Adult Bible Study, Youth, Boy Scouts and children's activities start at 6:15.

Sunday services are at 10:45 a.m. Sunday school begins at 9:15 a.m.

If you would like any further information regarding any of our many ministries or events, contact the church office or visit our website.

Spring Creek Fellowship meets at the College Park Shopping Center. Contact us at 432-714-4584 or visit our website at www.springcreekfellowship.org

Spring Tabernacle Ministries

Bless the Lord, oh my soul and all that is within me, bless His holy name.

Sunday morning at 10, we will be having the ordination service for Juan Jajola. We are excited for him. Many will be coming in from out of town to celebrate what God has done in Juan's life.

Everyone is invited. Spring Tabernacle is located at 1209 Wright St.

First Baptist Church, Big Spring

Vacation Bible School is here! Journey to "Son Treasure Island" will be held each evening from 6 to 9 beginning Monday through Friday, June 13. This is no ordinary tropical escape, and kids will search for hidden riches and find the greatest treasure of all, which is God's love. VBS is for children who have completed kindergarten through those who have completed grade 6.

Our Summerama program (for children of the same age range as VBS) is under way, meeting each Tuesday and Thursday from 9-3. Due to Vacation Bible School, Summerama will not be held June 10 or 12, but will resume Tuesday, June 17. Stop by the church office or call 267-8223 for additional information.

Sunday morning worship service starts at 10:50, and Pastor Mark Lindsey will bring the message titled "Are You a Good Neighbor?" drawn from Luke 10:25-37.

At 9:30, Sunday school groups meet, and Sunday evening, we will gather in homes throughout the community in Missional Groups. Call 267-8223 for more information.

Youth Pastor Jonathan Raffini has planned a summer full of fun activities, service and fellowship, and all area teens are invited to be a part of this great group of young people. Go to fbcbigspring.org or call Jonathan at 267-8223 for details.

Our Mother's Day Out program continues throughout the summer months each Tuesday and Thursday from 9-3. For information about available openings for your children, contact Tracy Boeker at tboeker90@gmail.com or call the church at 267-8223.

Wednesday evenings begin with a meal served from 5-6 in the Family Life Center, followed by activities for all age groups. Our regular Wednesday schedule is suspended June 11, due to Vacation Bible School.

If you have questions about God or if the Bible is really true, call 267-8223 or stop by the church and someone will be happy to listen, pray with you, and talk with you about the promises in the Bible and the God who keeps them.

First Baptist Church is located at 705 W. FM 700. There is always a place for you at First Baptist Church.

Blessed Hands Deaf Church

Join Blessed Hands Deaf Church for worship services Sunday afternoon at 2. Pastor Jim Walterhouse and wife Debbie invite you to be a part of this vibrant, growing congregation. If you would like more information about BHDC, contact Pastor Walterhouse at jwalterhouse@gmail.com.

Currently, Blessed Hands Deaf Church meets inside First Baptist Church at 705 W. FM 700. Come praise the Lord with us this Sunday!

Non-denominational Sabbath Fellowship

Meeting at 809 Scurry, Saturday morning from 10 until 11.

My, have we had a wonderful set of studies on the reward of God's saved people. It's wonderful what He has in store for us who serve Him.

But Jesus made it clear that He wants us to be happy here and now while we wait for His return. The "Beatitudes" are the "Blesseds." Some translations of the Bible say "Happy." We are starting a new series on the "Happys." Come study with us. Find out all the "Happys" He has in store for us.

Remember, what man says is unimportant; what God says is vital.

Bob and Marla Rainwater, moderators. 432-264-9937.

Catholic group exempt from contraceptives rule

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A federal judge has granted nearly 200 Catholic employers an injunction to temporarily prevent the U.S. government from forcing them to provide insurance coverage for contraceptives.

The Catholic Benefits Association filed a lawsuit in March alleging that a provision of the Affordable Care Act forced them to violate their religious objections to contraception and abortion-inducing drugs.

On Wednesday, U.S. District Judge David Russell of Oklahoma City granted an injunction that exempts members from any fines or penalties arising from not complying with the provision while their objections are litigated.

The association — which includes archdioceses, an insurance company and a nursing home across almost 2,000 Catholic parishes nationwide — believes in the Catholic teaching that their ministries should include health care to their employees. But members "also believe in the Catholic teaching that any artificial interference with the creation and nurture of new life is wrong," Russell said.

At retooled Belmont, stars align for Triple Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Martin Panza celebrated California Chrome's charge to Preakness Stakes victory three weeks ago like most fans at the packed Pimlico Race Course — bumping fists, slapping hands and thinking ahead to Saturday and the possibility of the first Triple Crown winner in 36 years.

And then Belmont Park's director of racing operations thought about everything else: the tens of thousands of additional people who show up for the Belmont Stakes whenever a horse has a chance at history; the millions more in expected wagers; and the need for more of everything, from seating, concessions to bathrooms, security and about 1,000 additional workers.

Local officials and business leaders celebrated too, seeing the race and the added interest of a Triple Crown contender as a boon of sold-out hotel rooms, dinners out and free publicity, so long as the writers and broadcasters were aware the track is actually on Long Island, as NBC's Bob Costas noted Wednesday, and not in New York City.

If California Chrome triumphs, it will happen on Panza's turf — or rather, his dirt — at a marquee New York area event that the track's new management team reimagined earlier this year as a fusion of sports and entertainment worth attending even when the Triple Crown is not on the line.

They have filled the under-card with high-stakes races, increased the day's total purse to $8 million — the second-richest day in American horse racing behind the final slate of the Breeder's Cup — and surrounded the action with music from rapper and actor LL Cool J, former New York Yankees center fielder Bernie Williams and Frank Sinatra Jr. singing "New York, New York."

"For the first year of us doing this, under this new format, it's not going to get any better than this," Panza said in an interview near his track office, which was filled with boxes of Belmont Stakes caps.

"From our end, what we need to do now is observe how the day goes and see what we can do for next year, always thinking that there could be another Triple Crown on the line."

California Chrome is the 12th horse to reach Long Island with wins in the first two legs of the Triple Crown, the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness Stakes.

Duncan, Spurs roll past Heat in Game 1, 110-95

With warmer than 90-degree temperatures at court-level at the AT&T Center, the NBA Finals rematch between Miami and San Antonio began Thursday setting off a firestorm of "beat the Heat" puns nationwide.

The air conditioning failed early, LeBron James was carried off late and the Spurs rolled in the fourth quarter at home picking up a 110-95 victory in Game 1.

"It was tough on both teams," said San Antonio head coach Gregg Popovich of the air conditioning failure stemming from a power outage. "They were pretty dead. We tried to get guys in and out. It was really hot out there."

"Hopefully, we can pay our bills." As those in the audience fanned themselves through the duration of the game, players were affected as well. None suffered more than James, who struggled to stay on the court throughout the entire fourth quarter. First James asked out of the game with 7:31 remaining. He came back three minutes later but lasted just 30 seconds before cramping up after a layup cutting the Spurs' lead to 94-92.

In the final four minutes without James on the floor, San Antonio outscored the Heat 16-3 on its way to the victory. The Spurs are now 6-0 all-time in the first game of the NBA Finals, with half those wins against James.

As he began cramping, James was unable to move. He stood in place until Miami head coach Erik Spoelstra told his team to foul on the other end of the court. James slowly made his way to the press table but from there had to be carried to the bench by his teammates. He said the pain from the cramp was a "10 out of 10."

"The best option for me to do was not to move. I tried and any little step or nudge, it would get worse," said James, who spoke exclusively with a "pool reporter" while receiving treatment after the game. "It was the whole left leg, damn near the whole left side. I was losing a lot throughout the game. It was extremely hot in the building and both teams, fans and everybody could feel it."

While James struggled, others excelled in the high temperature. No one was better than San Antonio forward Tim Duncan, who racked up 21 points on 9-of-10 shooting with 10 rebounds. He became the first player since Wilt Chamberlain in 1972 to score at least 20 while grabbing double-digit rebounds and shooting 90 percent from the floor in a Finals game.

At 38 years old, he also became the oldest player to lead his team in scoring in the championship series since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (40) in 1987.

"I don't think I've ever played in anything like this since I left the islands," said Duncan of his birthplace, the U.S. Virgin Islands. "It was pretty bad out there. I thought we played through it well. I think it affected both teams. Pop continued to switch guys in and out, keep us as fresh as possible and we finally got to a point where we took care of the ball and we got a chance to make a run and made them pay."

The heat was clearly a factor, but the NBA was unapologetic for not postponing the matchup following the game. NBA president of basketball operations Rod Thorn addressed the issue afterwards claiming the electrical issue which resulted in the broken air conditioning unit wasn't an unplayable situation.

"Had the referees felt at any time or had I felt at any time — I was in sitting in the second row midcourt — that the game shouldn't be continued, then they would have come over and said something to me. Never did," Thorn said. "I never said anything to them regarding the fact the game should be canceled. In live sporting events, sometimes things transpire that you don't expect. Obviously, the conditions were the same for both teams. There wasn't anything that could be done about it. We ascertained that very early."

With James playing just five minutes in the fourth quarter, San Antonio was better than ever. The team made 14 of its 16 attempts in the final period including all six shots from behind the arc. The Spurs outscored Miami 33-12 without James on the floor in the second half.

No longer being blanketed by one of the top defensive players in the league, guard Danny Green finally broke free in the fourth scoring 11 of his 13 total points. Point guard Tony Parker shook off an ankle injury which had his status of playing as questionable and racked up 19 points and eight assists.

Tiago Splitter also scored 14 points improving San Antonio's record to 34-1 when the center scores at least seven.

"I'm just very proud of my team," Parker said. "We kept believing, kept pushing. We know it's not easy."

With James on the bench, the rest of the "Big Three" was just as absent down the stretch. Center Chris Bosh started the period with his team's first eight points but both he and guard Dwyane Wade were held scoreless after James' injury. Wade and Bosh finished scoring 19 and 18 points, respectively.

Holding just a slight 12-11 lead in the first quarter, the Spurs bench controlled the rest of the period. The second unit scored the next 14 points to give the team a 26-20 edge at the end of the first — outscoring the Miami bench 14-0 in the opening 12 minutes.

San Antonio's bench taking over is far from unusual, as the team averaged 45.1 points in the regular season — a franchise record.

Guard Manu Ginobili led the way on Thursday with 16 points, 11 assists and five rebounds.

Error lifts Texas to win

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — J.J. Hardy and the Baltimore Orioles were ready to go home at the end of a long trip that ended with their All-Star shortstop's unprecedented three-error game.

After only one two-error game in his career before Thursday night, Hardy made two errors in a span of three batters that led to the tiebreaking run for the Texas Rangers in their 8-6 victory to avoid a three-game sweep.

"It's just one of those nights you want to put in the back of your mind," said Hardy, who had an earlier throwing miscue to give him three errors for the first time in 1,153 career games at shortstop since 2005. "I definitely want to forget about it. Just a night for me I'd like to forget."

The Rangers blew an early 5-0 lead, but their three-run seventh started when speedy No. 9 batter Roney Odor had an infield single off reliever Brian Matusz (2-2). Hardy made a nice fielding play in the hole, but his errant throw let Odor advance to second.

Odor scored when Hardy misplayed a ground hit by Elvis Andrus to make it 6-5. Alex Rios and Chris Jimenez then added consecutive RBI singles off Preston Guilmet, the fifth Baltimore pitcher.

"I had to make a quick throw on (Odor) and I just threw it a little too low. The next one, I can't explain it. I just missed it," Hardy said. "It's been a long road trip — like a really long road trip — so it'll be good to get home."

Hardy, an All-Star for the second time last season, had only one multi-error game before then. That came seven years ago Friday, when he had two in a game for Milwaukee.

"Nobody in this clubhouse thinks twice about it," Baltimore manager Buck Showalter said. "It's an honor to watch him play every night and I'm blessed to have had him pass my way."

Adam Jones had three RBIs for the Orioles, who after going 5-5 on the trip play their next 10 games, and 20 of 26, at home.

Oklahoma State, UC Irvine to meet for World Series berth

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma State coach Josh Holliday wants to take the Cowboys back to where they were during his playing days.

Holliday was a senior on the 1999 team that reached the College World Series, the school's most recent team to get to Omaha, Nebraska.

For Holliday to come full circle, Oklahoma State (48-16) will need to beat UC Irvine in a best-of-three super regional starting Friday night with Game 1.

Holliday said it felt a bit like old times when the Cowboys knocked off Cal State Fullerton in regional play to advance.

Oklahoma State features Big 12 Player of the Year Zach Fish. The outfielder sprained an ankle during the Big 12 Tournament, but he recovered and played in the regional. Shortstop Donnie Walton, the st/1pUleLq) that recently released documents in Hamilton County confirm the license suspension effective starting May 27. Police and prosecutors have declined to discuss the case.

Irsay refused a blood test after his March most valuable player of the Stillwater Regional, said the Cowboys are confident. Oklahoma State has come from behind in 28 of its 48 wins, so an early deficit won't be a concern.

"We put a lot of hard work in throughout the season," he said.

"We had some ups-and-downs. One thing about this team is that we're resilient. Even when we're down, we're calm, and we can come back."

Police later obtained a warrant ordering Irsay to submit to a blood draw.

Ohio official's idea: Bad pro teams get less money

CLEVELAND (AP) — To downtrodden fans accustomed to heartbreak, it might seem an exercise in futility: A top county official and gubernatorial candidate has suggested divvying up maintenance money for Cleveland's three professional sports venues based on the teams' performance.

Ed FitzGerald said Thursday that the idea hasn't been tried elsewhere.

But how do you decide who performs best when these teams typically wallow in mediocrity — or worse?

Cuyahoga County voters in May approved a 20-year extension of a sin tax on alcohol and cigarettes that's projected to raise $26 million annually. FitzGerald wants the three teams to compete for 20 percent of that money based on how well they play.

He would create a fan advisory committee to establish the criteria for judging performance and which team gets the biggest share of the cash, which like all sin tax money can only be spent on maintenance for the venues.

FitzGerald on Thursday called it a "win" tax.

He noted that a Cleveland team hasn't won a world championship in 50 years, something fans don't need to be reminded about.

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A court has suspended Indianapolis Colts owner Jim Irsay's driver's license for one year following his arrest for driving while intoxicated.

Texas Commission On Environmental Quality
Notice of Application and Preliminary Decision for hazardous Industrial Waste Permit/Compliance Plan Renewal

Permit/Compliance plan No. 50140
APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY DECISION. Alon USA, LP, 200 Refinery Road, Big Spring, Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for a permit/compliance plan renewal to authorize storage and treatment of industrial and hazardous waste as part of the production operations, continue post-closure care on two (2) closed land treatment units, continue compliance monitoring for the Site E LTU and continued operation of a pump-and-treat system in the Boundary Interim Corrective Action (BICA) area to remediate contaminated groundwater. The facility is located at 200 Refinery Road, Big Spring, Texas, 79720 in Howard County, Texas. TCEQ received the application on January 14, 2011. The following link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and is not part of the application or notice: <http://www.tceq.texas.gov/assets/public/hb610/index.html?lat=32.269444&lng=-101.421388&zoom=13type=r>. The TCEQ Executive Director has completed the technical review of the application and prepared a draft permit/compliance plan, if approved, would establish the conditions under which the facility must operate. The Executive director has made a preliminary decision that this permit/compliance plan, if issued, meets all statutory and regulatory requirements. This permit application, Executive Director's preliminary decision, and draft permit/compliance plan are available for viewing and copying at the Howard County Library, 500 Main Street, Big Spring, Howard County, Texas, 79720.

PUBLIC COMMENT/PUBLIC MEETING. You may submit public comments or request a public meeting about this application. The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or to ask questions about the application. TCEQ holds a public meeting if the Executive Director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

Legals

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING. After the deadline for submitting public comments, the Executive Director will consider all timely comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material or significant public comments. Unless the application is directly referred for a contested case hearing, the response to comments will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments and to those persons who are on the mailing list for this application. If comments are received, the mailing will also provide instructions for requesting a contested case hearing or reconsideration of the executive director's decision. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in a state district court.

TO REQUEST A CONTESTED CASE HEARING, YOU MUST INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING ITEMS IN YOUR REQUEST: Your name; address, phone; applicant's name and permit number; the location and distance of your property/activities relative to the facility; a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the facility in a way not common to the general public; and the statement "[I/we] request a contested hearing." If the request for contested case hearing is filed on behalf of a group or association, the request must designate the group's representative for receiving future correspondence; identifying an individual member of the group who would be adversely affected by the facility or activity; provide the information discussed above regarding the affected member's location and distance from the facility or activity; explain how and why the member would be affected; and explain how the interests the group seeks to protect are relevant to the group's purpose.

Following the close of all applicable comment and request periods, the executive Director will forward the application and any requests for reconsideration or for a contested case hearing to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting. The Commission will only grant a contested case hearing on dispute issues of fact that are relevant and material to the Commission's decision on the application. Further, the Commission will only grant a hearing on issues that were raised in timely filed comments that were not subsequently withdrawn. The TCEQ ma act on this application without providing an opportunity for a contested case hearing if certain criteria are met.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR ACTION. The Executive director may issue final approval of the application unless a timely contested case hearing request or requested for reconsideration is filed. If a timely hearing is request or requested for reconsideration is filed, the Executive Director will not issue Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting.

MAILING LIST. If ow submit public comments, a request for a contested case hearing, or a reconsideration of the Executive Director's decision, you will be added to the mailing list for this application to receive future public notices mailed by the office of the chief clerk. In addition, you may request to be placed on: (1) the permanent mailing list for a specific applicant name and permit number; and/or (2) the mailing list for a specific county. To be placed on the permanent and/or the count mailing list, clearly specify which list(s) and send your request to TCEQ Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below.

AGENCY CONTACTS AND INFORMATION. All public comments and requests must be submitted within 45 days from the date of newspaper publication of this notice either electronically at www.tceq.texas.gov/about/comments/html or in writing to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Office of the Chief Clerk, MC-105, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087. If you choose to communicate with the TCEQ electronically, please be aware that your email address, like your physical mailing address, will become part of the agency's public record. For more information about this permit application or the permitting process, please call the TCEQ's Public Education Program, Toll Free, at 1-800-687-4040. Further information may also be obtained from Alon USA, LP at the address stated above or b calling Mr. Robert L. Sherrill at (512) 327-0288. Issuance Date: April 02, 2014

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Split Moon Dilemma

Stay or go? Sing or listen? Call or wait? Don't be surprised if you answer one way under the industrious Virgo moon and then go with the opposite decision tonight when the moon changes to a Libra mood. Making decisions never was the Libra moon's forte anyhow. Exploring the options, well, that just sounds like a whole lot more fun!

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The environment isn't what you said you wanted, but there's a hidden greatness in it. If you can find things to appreciate in this and articulate that appreciation well, you will come out of this a winner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Lately, you wonder whether you really are on the best eating program for you. Some adjustments could be made to improve your health, but which way would be best? Start the experimental process.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You're emotionally ambitious and filled with courage, which makes this the perfect time to pick the issue looming largest in your mind and work on it.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). If you can do a little, do it. It will turn out to be not only better than nothing, but also what inspires and motivates others. You'll be surprised at who is paying attention.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Nobody is chasing you, so why are you running? Stop. There was a reason you split, but that reason no longer applies. Re-evaluate. There's something you'd rather be doing than bolting around at top speed.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). It's better to be social and open-minded than to guard your ideas too closely. So throw your ideas out there. You won't be sure of how big or small they are until you share and get feedback.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Each story you hear will have a bit of learning inside for you, and the same goes for the stories you tell. This is one of your favorite ways to absorb and process the beautiful world you live in.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Paying homage to other worlds is both respectful and enjoyable. Sure, you don't belong there permanently. But you applaud and honor another person's world by participating in it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The project you used to approach with sheer will you now approach with intelligence. Is there a smarter way? And here's an even better question: Is there a wiser way?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Look for opportunities to bond. Small interactions will pay off in ways you might not have considered, and more significant or formal exchanges will have an even more profound impact.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Coming and going are the same. It's as important to finish strong as it is to start strong. There may be some nervous energy throughout the day, so try to channel it toward creating a happy ending or a new beginning.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Grudges are heavy. Holding on to them makes your way cumbersome. Your heart will be lightest when you honestly can say that there is no one you blame, despise or wish ill.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 6). You give of yourself constantly. Downtime alone is a positive thing, and you'll use it well. Delve into your own unique psyche. You're fascinating, and the more you know and love yourself the more you have to offer the world. July features a big purchase. The family dynamic changes for the better in September. Aries and Libra people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 19, 32, 16 and 20.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES: There's no right way to combine your family and personal life; there's only the way that's right for you. TAURUS: Your key to popularity and social success is simple: You remember people's names and use them often. GEMINI: Don't let your loved ones drift off distractedly. There are plenty of exciting ways to bring them back into the moment. CANCER: An unexpected touch will start the romance ball rolling. LEO: Want to know how a person feels about you? There are a million better ways to find out than asking directly. VIRGO: Reveal less and watch the other person wonder about you more. LIBRA: Your way of driving someone crazy will be unique and effective, so trust your instincts. SCORPIO: Gushy compliments won't work, but praising a specific talent or quality will draw someone near. SAGITTARIUS: Competition is good for sparking romance, as long as the competition involves a third person. Couples shouldn't compete with each other. CAPRICORN: For your loved one to reach out to you, there needs to be a space to bridge. Create space. AQUARIUS: Be mysterious. Loved ones will listen better if forced to ask questions (because you're not giving up the story so readily). PISCES: Delay gratification. A sense of longing will be good for the relationship. COUPLE OF THE WEEKEND: The Libra moon and the Gemini sun are complementary air-sign influences that introduce a warm breeze into relationships between these two signs. Libra and Gemini are bright, adept communicators who enjoy keeping up with the times. Dates to trendy places are favored. Also, what they teach each other will build the bonds of love and friendship even faster than what they experience together.

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

Opening-Lead Quiz

The bidding has been One Spade on your left, Two Notrump (13-15 points, balanced distribution) on your right, Three Notrump on your left. Which card would you lead in the following four hands?

- ♠ 5 ♥ 952 ♦ 8743 ♣ AK963
- ♠ 1042 ♥ J105 ♦ 764 ♣ 10872
- ♠ 10 ♥ 84 ♦ A9653 ♣ KJ943
- ♠ 73 ♥ AQ642 ♦ 96 ♣ QJ108

1. Six of clubs. The opening lead frequently determines the outcome of a hand. Unfortunately, opening leads are not always clear-cut and often present a serious challenge. The leader is normally guided by two factors: the bidding and the hand he is looking at. Later on, after seeing dummy, he is in a much better position to make critical decisions, but at the outset he must, in effect, take a shot in the dark. Here the best chance of stopping three notrump lies in establishing your clubs. You should be willing to concede the first trick to declarer in the hope that partner will gain the lead early enough to return a club and sink the contract. The alternative lead of the king of clubs might prove fatal to your cause. If partner started with only two clubs, it would become impossible for you to run that suit, since you have no outside entry card.

2. Jack of hearts. Defense is essentially a partnership project — without a good suit of his own, the opening leader may decide to try to establish tricks for his partner rather than for himself. Here the heart lead is made in the hope of finding partner — who has virtually all of your side's high-card strength — with length in hearts plus enough side entries to allow him to eventually establish and run the suit.

3. Four of clubs. This offers a better chance than a diamond lead. If partner has either the ace or queen of clubs, you are in business right away, while he would probably need two diamond honors for a diamond lead to prove effective. A club is therefore the better percentage lead.

4. Four of hearts. This is a very close proposition, and a good case can also be made for the queen-of-clubs lead. Sequence leads are usually better than broken-suit leads, for they seldom cost a trick, while leading low from an honor-card holding can hand declarer a trick he could not get otherwise. On the other side of the coin, however, is the matter of timing. Here, it might take a while to establish two tricks in clubs if the enemy has the A-K of that suit, whereas a heart lead, if successful, may establish the rest of your suit — and four tricks — immediately. Either lead can of course succeed or fail; the problem is to estimate which one is more likely to succeed in the long run.

Kentucky gives Calipari 7-year, $52.5 million deal

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky gave coach John Calipari a new seven-year, $52.5 million contract that will pay a base package of $6.5 million next season and $8 million over each of the final three seasons.

Already one of college basketball's highest-paid coaches, Calipari led the Wildcats to the 2012 NCAA championship and is coming off his third Final Four appearance in five years with Kentucky, a 60-54 title-game loss to Connecticut in April. He has often been rumored as a potential candidate for NBA coaching openings.

Calipari quickly reiterated his happiness with Kentucky, later using social media to state his commitment after Los Angeles fired coach Mike D'Antoni. He continued that theme with his new contract that pays more than most pro coaches.

"I've said over and over that I have the best job in the country," Calipari said in a release Thursday night. "With the continued support from our administration and the greatest, craziest, fans in college basketball, we have accomplished a lot in our five quick years, but we still have lofty goals for the future.

"We want to continue to help young people and their families reach their dreams, while at the same time maintaining our success on the basketball court, in the classroom and in the community."

Besides building a 152-37 record at Kentucky, Calipari has established himself as a master recruiter in landing top-three freshman classes annually. That includes next year's group which figures to make the Wildcats a title contender again, and with this contract the school appears to have locked him in for the long term.

"It has long been our goal over the last three to five years that Cal enjoy this as his final stop in coaching," athletic director Mitch Barnhart said in the release.

Saunders to coach Timberwolves

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Timberwolves' best days came with Flip Saunders on the sideline.

Now that the organization is shrouded in uncertainty surrounding the long-term future of star forward Kevin Love, Saunders is returning to the bench to try revive a franchise that hasn't made the playoffs in 10 years.

With the team's coaching search complicated by Love's status, the Timberwolves decided the best course of action was to have Saunders, who was hired last season as president of basketball operations, step in for a second stint as coach until the situation stabilized, two people with knowledge of the situation told The Associated Press on Thursday. The people spoke on condition of anonymity because the team has not officially announced the move. A news conference was scheduled for Friday.

Saunders previously coached the Timberwolves from 1995-2005. He won 411 games in 10½ seasons in Minnesota and guided the Wolves to the only eight playoff appearances in franchise history, including the Western Conference finals in 2004. He has a career record of 638-526 in 16 seasons as an NBA head coach, a career that also includes stops in Detroit and Washington.

Saunders is joining a short list in the NBA of coaches that also have final-say executive authority, one that includes newly hired Stan Van Gundy in Detroit, Doc Rivers with the Los Angeles Clippers and, to a certain extent, Gregg Popovich in San Antonio. Saunders will continue to work closely with GM Milt Newton in the front office while handling coaching duties.

When Rick Adelman retired at the end of the regular season, he did so in part to try to help the Timberwolves move forward with a plan to show Love, a three-time All-Star who can opt out of his contract next summer, that there was a long-term plan in place.

But Love's tenuous situation didn't help the search process, with trade rumors serving as a caution sign for several high-profile candidates.

Saunders was in the market for a coach with extensive head coaching experience, either in the NBA or at a major college program, one that could command the respect of a young locker room and also handle the media scrutiny that comes with the questions surrounding Love. Names like Tom Izzo, Billy Donovan and Fred Hoiberg came and went without any traction.

The Wolves hosted Memphis coach Dave Joerger for an interview two weekends ago, but Grizzlies owner Robert Pera sweetened his contract to keep him around. Sam Mitchell, Lionel Hollins, Scott Skiles and several others received consideration as well.

Unable to find what they felt was the right fit for a delicate job, Saunders and owner Glen Taylor met this week to reassess the situation. Taylor said when he brought Saunders back as team president that he would not put him back on the bench. He fired Saunders as coach once before, in 2005 when Latrell Sprewell and Sam Cassell, unhappy with their contracts, submarined the follow-up to the team's stirring run to the Western Conference finals.

Saunders was also hopeful that he could find someone other than himself to take over the team. But with Love's status preventing them from pursuing the coaches they felt would fit best, the two decided that Saunders should take over for at least this season if not longer.

The Timberwolves have not given up on convincing Love to play out this season in Minnesota.

Bradley Wiggins set to miss Tour de France

LONDON (AP) — Former Tour de France winner Bradley Wiggins expects to miss this year's race, complaining that his team is focusing on his bitter rival and defending champion Chris Froome's title defense.

Wiggins, who became the first British rider to win cycling's showpiece two years ago, was not selected to compete with Froome at the Criterium du Dauphine, the tuneup event for the Tour.

It was a clear indication that he was unlikely to line up in Yorkshire on July 5 for the Tour's start in England.

Speaking to the BBC Breakfast program on Friday, the 34-year-old multiple Olympic gold medallist voiced his disappointment at being left out by Team Sky despite a recent surge in form and his victory at the Tour of California last month.

"I am gutted," Wiggins said. "I feel I am in the form I was two years ago. Now if I want to go to the Tour again, the reality is that I might have to go elsewhere. I also understand that cycling is a team sport and it is all about Team Sky winning and Chris is defending champion."

Wiggins' contract with Sky expires at the end of the season.

Although Wiggins told French newspaper L'Equipe there is still a chance he may make the Tour if Froome picks up an injury at the Dauphine from June 8-15, it's unlikely Wiggins will be riding in France this summer.

"Having missed the Tour again this year, I wouldn't like to leave it there," said the former pursuit specialist, who could now turn his focus on competing on the track at the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow, Scotland, in August. "I'd love to go back at some point so there is the chance that I would go back to the Tour next year."

Froome will warm up for the Tour at the Dauphine while Wiggins is still expected to compete at the Tour de Suisse.

Froome, who also won the weeklong Dauphine in France last year as part of his dominant season, will be surrounded by a team made of strong climbers in the mountainous event, including last year's Dauphine runner-up Richie Porte.

IOC to contribute to Munich memorial

MUNICH (AP) — The International Olympic Committee will contribute $250,000 toward a memorial for the victims of the attack on the Israeli team at the 1972 Munich Games.

The Sueddeutsche Zeitung newspaper reports the IOC, headed by the German Thomas Bach, pledged the contribution toward the $2.3 million project.

The IOC confirmed the report when contacted by The Associated Press on Thursday.

The German Olympic Sports Confederation has already pledged $27,000 for the project. Taxpayers will fund the rest.
