Cuteness prevails at county fair

BY LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer

It was cuteness overload Saturday at the Howard County Fair with enough to melt even the most aged and cynical reporter's heart.
 Both the popular Kountry's Kids contest and the pet contest drew a decent crowd to the entertainment tent to watch children ages 5 and younger strut in their finest country clothes and later for dogs (no age limit enforced) standing patiently by, somewhat bewildered while owners proudly showed off their pets.

The Kountry Kids contest was held in the morning with a number of entrants but seasoned contestants James Alexander DeLeon and Story McKinnon stole the show once again. Both were crowned the overall winner for the second year in the row. DeLeon, with his sweet smile, was a man of few words but did sing a few bars of "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star." McKinnon performed a dance routine near the end of the contest. Yet, Pace'Lei Lance should have been crowned the most athletic of the morning, keeping her mother constantly on the chase.

Later that day, dogs and their humans vied for several categories from the ugliest — that went to not so ugly English Bulldog Bullet — to the cutest, earned by Abby, a tiny blue healer mix who also earned second place in the ugliest contest. The overall contest winner was a giant of a mutt, Sadona, owned by Terry and Laura Wofford. Sadona also took second place for best trick which was being hugged and receiving a belly rub at the same time, a trick she really seemed to enjoy performing. Sadona and her human received a large gift box donated by Yellow Rose Animal Rescue. Also donating for first place prizes were Highland Animal Hospital and Griffin Grooming. Judging was conducted by volunteers from the Howard County Humane Society.

Fort Worth boy, 14, drowns trying to recover dove

ALVARADO, Texas (AP) — A 14-year-old North Texas boy has drowned in a stock pond while trying to retrieve a dove that was shot during a hunting trip.

The Johnson County Sheriff's Office on Monday identified the victim as Joseph Lopez of Fort Worth.

Lt. Tim Jones says the boy was part of group hunting on Sunday in a rural area near Alvarado.

Jones says the boy entered the pond to recover a dove but then he never resurfaced. Emergency personnel who responded to a report of a possible drowning used a boat to search for the teen. Divers from the Cleburne Fire Department recovered the body Sunday night.

Further details weren't immediately available.

Coast Guard rescues 3 stranded boaters off Texas

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Three people who reported being stranded and disoriented in their disabled boat off the Texas coast this weekend later turned up on land in a rescue that spanned two days.

The Coast Guard announced the rescue in a statement late Sunday.

The trio called for help Friday night as their 22-foot boat was adrift in Matagorda Bay, but were unsure of their location. The boat had launched from Froggies Bait Dock in Port O'Connor in an attempt to reach a cabin on north Matagorda Island, the Coast Guard said.

The search continued into Saturday amid rain and strong winds. Rescuers in an airplane spotted the three people late Saturday afternoon on the beach 21 miles south of the Matagorda jetties after their boat washed ashore.

A helicopter picked up a man, 56, and a woman, 42, who were treated for hypothermia. The third man said he was unharmed and refused to leave the isolated area, the Coast Guard said. The weather worsened and the Coast Guard contacted personnel with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department in an effort to locate the man, who was found safe Sunday.

"We are extremely happy this case had three happy endings," Lt. Cmdr. Nathan Allen said. "We had great teamwork between our air and surface assets to find the three boaters after a long search. The two who climbed onboard our helicopter made the right decision to be taken away from danger."

"The third man is extremely lucky to be found by our partner agencies," Allen said.

Names of the three people were not immediately released.

Highland Park ISD reverses, drops ban of 7 books

DALLAS (AP) — A suburban Dallas school has reversed course and will let students read seven books removed from an approved list amid some parents' concerns about sex scenes and references to abortion, abuse and rape.

Highland Park Independent School District Superintendent Dawson Orr apologized for the disruption in a statement Sunday.

"All the titles that were temporarily suspended will be restored to the approved reading list," he said.

Orr decided earlier this month to suspend the books that came under question by hundreds of parents, raising concerns about what their children were reading. He acted in an attempt to de-escalate the conflict but his decision had the opposite effect, he said.

The books that had been banned were: "The Glass Castle: A Memoir" by Jeannette Walls; "Song of Solomon" by Toni Morrison; "The Art of Racing in the Rain" by Garth Stein; "The Working Poor: Invisible in America" by David K. Shipler; "Siddhartha" by Hermann Hesse; "The Absolutely True Diary of a Part-Time Indian" by Sherman Alexie; and "An Abundance of Katherines" by John Green.

The district will work to provide greater transparency and inclusion of all viewpoints on its literature review committee, Orr said.

"More information will be provided about literature that might contain potentially objectionable content," he said. "In such cases, a parent permission form will be sent home. If a parent expresses concern, an alternative piece of literature will be provided for his/her child."

The goal is to provide all students with excellent reading material that meets the same instructional objections, the superintendent said.

Jury to decide sentence in poisoned doctor trial

HOUSTON (AP) — It's now up to a jury to sentence a Texas cancer researcher for poisoning her colleague and lover by spiking his coffee with a chemical found in antifreeze.

Closing arguments are set for Monday in the punishment phase of the trial of Dr. Ana Maria Gonzalez-Angulo, a breast cancer doctor based at Houston's famed Texas Medical Center.

A jury convicted Gonzalez-Angulo on Friday of aggravated assault for poisoning Dr. George Blumenschein with ethylene glycol in 2013 after he spurned her in favor of his longtime girlfriend.

Gonzalez-Angulo could be sentenced to up to life in prison. On Friday, however, her colleagues and former patients asked jurors to sentence the 43-year-old doctor to probation, describing her as a compassionate person.

2 charged over 3 boys taken from Texas foster home

SEGUIN, Texas (AP) — A South Texas man and woman have been charged with kidnapping after three boys were abducted from a foster home but later rescued and returned.

KSAT-TV reports 26-year-old Christopher Jasso of San Antonio and 28-year-old Judith Reyes of Seguin are each charged with three counts of aggravated kidnapping.

Jasso and Reyes were being held Monday on $300,000 bond apiece. Online jail records didn't indicate attorneys for the pair. Details weren't immediately available about a possible motive.

Guadalupe County authorities say Jasso had a gun when he and Reyes allegedly took the boys late Thursday. The children are younger than 8 years old.

A deputy later spotted Jasso's vehicle, leading to a brief chase and the arrest of the suspects. The unharmed boys were returned to their foster family.

Police: Texas 7-Eleven clerk helped plan robbery

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Austin police say a 7-Eleven clerk helped orchestrate a robbery at the store.

Police have charged four people with a first-degree felony count of engaging in organized criminal activity. That includes 21-year-old employee Leah Gonzalez.

An off-duty Travis County jail deputy called police Saturday night to report an armed robbery. Reports say the robbers took $250 in cash and $6,000 in gift cards.

The deputy followed a gold minivan that contained the suspects until police arrived. They say the suspects led police on a chase through residential streets and on Interstate 35 that reached 120 mph. They say the clerk's boyfriend, brother and friend were arrested and that all four live together.

All four are each being held in the Travis County jail on $125,000 bond. Online jail records didn't indicate attorneys.

Deputy: Family members foil robbery in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The Harris County Sheriff's Office says a robbery suspect has been apprehended after an armed relative of the victim chased down the man.

Deputies say a man and his daughter had pulled into the driveway of their Houston home when they were approached by three people. They say the trio demanded cash and cellphones before knocking the man to the ground and kicking him.

Several family members heard the scuffle and one ran outside with a gun. Deputies say the suspects scattered and one family member chased down a man and held him until officers arrived. The two others got away.

Police haven't released the identities of the family members or suspects. Neither the family mem-

Sheriff: Texas man dies after being stunned twice

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — The Chambers County Sheriff says an unarmed man who charged at a deputy has died after the officer shot him twice with a Taser.

Sheriff Brian Hawthorne tells the Houston Chronicle 26-year-old Oliver Gregoire of Baytown was pronounced dead on Sunday at an area hospital.

Hawthorne says 911 dispatchers received a call about Gregoire trying to stop vehicles along a road and a second report that he kicked in the door of his home and assaulted a woman inside. The woman was treated for minor injuries.

Deputy Bradley Hasley responded and shot Gregoire with a Taser. Hawthorne says Gregoire ripped the Taser prongs off of himself and charged at Hasley, who shot him again.

Hawthorne says Gregoire became unresponsive and Hasley performed CPR until the ambulance arrived.

1 killed, 1 hurt in crash of homebuilt Texas plane

SHEPHERD, Texas (AP) — One person has been killed and a second injured when a homebuilt, single-engine plane crashed at a private airport in Southeast Texas.

Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Lynn Lunsford says it's not clear what caused the unregistered plane to crash late Saturday afternoon near Shepherd. Witnesses told law enforcement that the craft struck a stand of trees at the end of a runway.

The bidding:

Opening lead — five of spades.

Before the U.S. team rallied over the last two boards to win the 2003 world championship by 1 IMP, Italy had staged its own rally to erase a 28-IMP deficit and take the lead midway through the final 16 deals. This was the hand that put the Italians ahead at that time.

When the deal was first played, Norberto Bocchi and Georgio Duboin of Italy bid and made three notrump with the East-West hands. Bocchi, East, took 10 top tricks after an opening spade lead by South to score 430 points.

At the other table, with Lorenzo Lauria and Alfredo Versace sitting North-South, the bidding went as shown. Versace's two-diamond bid showed a long major suit, and Lauria did not really care which one it was. Thus the Italians ended in four spades doubled, which seemingly was destined to go down two.

Bob Hamman, West, led a low spade, taken by Paul Soloway with the ace. The defenders could have collected two hearts and a club at that point to hold the U.S. loss to 8 IMPs, but Soloway, no doubt thinking he would have plenty of time to take tricks later, and hoping to stop club ruffs in the dummy, continued with a trump. That gave Versace a chance for a huge pickup.

He won the return with dummy's king and now had the opportunity for a rare "backward" finesse — leading the jack from dummy, in the hope that East had the queen and West the ten. Given East's one-notrump opening, Versace felt the queen was much more likely to be on his right, so after a long study he led the jack from dummy and, when Soloway followed low, let it ride.

This gave Versace five diamond tricks and 11 in all for a score of -690. Added to the 430 registered by his teammates at the other table, the result was a 15-IMP gain for the Italians, giving them a 3-IMP lead with just eight deals to go in the match.

Tomorrow: Heads I win, tails you lose.

Annie's Mailbox®

Dear Annie: I recently married a man who has never been married before, although he lived with a woman for 15 years. They never had children, and "Vic" cheated on her for years. He paid for everything, and she had a free ride. He essentially paid her off to leave.

I have three grown children from a previous marriage. After our wedding two months ago, we planned on moving into my house until I can sell it. (Part of my divorce agreement is to split the proceeds of a sale when our youngest child turns 18.) Vic's house is in a rather scary neighborhood. It has a structural defect and won't sell for what he owes the bank. I arranged for reliable renters, but four days before they were to move in, Vic backed out of the deal. He said he needed more time and didn't want to resent me for making him move and then move again once my house sells.

Vic promised to move out of his place on August 1, but didn't, so I've been living there in order to be with him. We both agreed to get a new place when my house sells, and he promised this arrangement would be temporary. I really hate his rundown neighborhood, and worse, his ex lives two blocks away.

When we are together, he treats me very well, but I worry that he'll never move out of his place. Could he have terminal bachelor disease? I am fantasizing about selling my place, taking the check and driving to Vegas to open my own business. I love

Vic, but I didn't bargain to live the rest of my life in this lousy neighborhood. -- Unhappy in Rhode Island

Dear Unhappy: Set a time limit on staying at Vic's place -- perhaps three months after your house is sold. But don't wait until the sale to start looking at other neighborhoods -- that way Vic can see the benefits of a nicer home in a better area. Help him pack up his stuff so that his house appears less comforting and more transitional. A new marriage and a new home can be traumatizing for some people, and you have to give Vic time to adjust.

Dear Annie: I am the woman who wrote the letter signed "Fluffy's Competition," about my husband's fondness for his cat. You printed several responses from readers, one of whom said the cat was there first and another who thought it was perfectly OK for my husband to drop me at the hospital for a seven-hour surgery while he spent the day with Fluffy at the vet. I didn't mention that the day I had my surgery, there were complications and I ended up in intensive care. My daughter couldn't reach my husband because he wouldn't return her phone calls. He didn't show up at the hospital for two days.

Aside from my severe allergies (for which I take medication), Fluffy currently has body mites, and my husband refuses to get her treated because vets are "too expensive." I agree with you that his priorities are screwed up. -- Still Fluffy's Competition

Dear Still: Whatever reservations we had about your husband are gone now that we know he didn't turn up at the hospital until two days after your surgery. Is there a reason you cannot pay for Fluffy's mite treatment yourself? It seems worth it. But only you can decide whether you love your husband enough to play second fiddle.

Dear Annie: This is for "Cornered in New York," whose boss makes them eat lunch together.

The New York State Department of Labor has clear guidelines about work hours, including breaks for meals. If the employees must participate in a joint lunch as a team-building exercise, then they are not being given the required break for lunch that the law requires. She should contact the state Department of Labor (anonymously) and request that they investigate. -- A.

Venus Change

Venus moves from Virgo to Libra now, trading in her nurturing spirit and tough work ethic for a long flowing evening gown -- she's ready to mix and mingle. Libra is a favorite realm for Venus; it's where her natural endowments shine. Use this moment for your own political and social gain. The wheels are greased -- all you have to do is steer.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). There is no benefit to be had in quitting right now. As nerve-racking as the situation may be, your best bet is to see it through to the logical conclusion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The best time to negotiate responsibilities is when they first come to you. You don't have to accept everything that is dumped on your desk. Think about the precedent you're setting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). It's important to you to behave in a fair and impartial manner today. You will not respond to people according to how much you like them. Your response will be based on what seems right.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You will be aware of the energy exchange that is occurring in each of your interactions. You can practically see feelings. You'll form a quick notion about what is really going on beneath the surface.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Your maturity keeps you from letting short-term frustration get in the way of your long-term benefit. Patience isn't only a virtue; it's also a winning tactic. Virgo is on your side.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Each one of the responsibilities that fall to you is a new chance to look and do good for your organization. So when they come to you with a pile of work, you feel excited about the prospects.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You could flatter, bring good news and like everything the boss has to say. But instead, you give your true opinion and speak sincerely about what's next. That's why you'll be promoted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). It's said that the harder the battle the sweeter the victory, but that's not always so. There's a point at which you realize that the fight is taking much more energy than the victory is really worth.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). If you're not happy in your job, your work will suffer and so will you. That's why the efforts you make toward comfort and joy are not selfish at all -- they are necessary!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). People change one another just by knowing and interacting with one another. Therefore, no one is the same at the start of a relationship as they are later on, and it would be unreasonable to expect this.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). A focused mind is a remarkable thing to achieve, especially on days like today when there are so many distractions. Put positive thoughts toward the day's challenge. If you think you can, you can.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). What you are is not who you are. Neither is what you have. Even your own thoughts cannot define you. Ignore the impositions and definitions. You're more than all of these things.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 29). You have talent and power. You're more important than you think, so speak up, because the plot won't go right unless you do. A special someone meets your offer in November. December ends a bad condition and starts a good one. There's freedom on the other side of your work in January. Aquarius and Scorpio people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 3, 24, 39, 21 and 17.

ASTROLOGY 101: WHAT IS LEO LIKE? There is an entertainer inside each Leo. The fifth sign of the zodiac has something to express and would prefer to do it in front of an audience. Whether it's a small group of family members, colleagues around the water cooler or a room of classmates, Leo is driven to make them pay attention. Often Leo doesn't even know what it is that he or she wants to say and will discover his or her own unique point of view in the process of performing. Not every Leo will actually take to the stage -- life is the stage on which Leo really shines. However, the Leos who do choose to be in the entertainment industry -- and there are more than a few who have a Leo sun or other prominent planets in Leo -- have an extra edge. Their desire to delight others drives them forward. Leo is also the sign of creativity and children. In many ways, Leos never grow up. Many of them maintain a rich inner life. Some cannot relate to Leo's overactive imagination and may consider it a function of immaturity. However, it is precisely this childlike quality that makes Leos irresistibly playful. There is often brilliance in their silliness.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Libra actor Doug Brochu has starred in some of the Disney Channel's most popular television shows, including "Sonny with a Chance" and "Pair of Kings." Born under an Aquarius moon, Brochu's cosmic alignments indicate that he will measure his success by the amount of good he does in the world. For Aquarius people, the more philanthropic they are the more successful they feel.
