Buddy's daily survey of 13,114 gas outlets in Texas.

This compares with the national average that has fallen 2.1 cents per gallon in the last week to $2.78/g, according to gasoline price website Gas-Buddy.com.

Including the change in gas prices in Texas during the past week, prices Sunday were 58.7 cents per gallon lower than the same day one year ago and are 23.6 cents per gallon lower than a month ago. The national average has decreased 21.8 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 49.9 cents per gallon lower than this day one year

"Oil prices have been demolished in the last 72 hours as OPEC decided against a production cut, which will open the flood gates to even more gas price declines," said Patrick DeHaan, senior petroleum analyst with Gas-Buddy.

"In my decade of watching oil and gasoline prices, I don't think I've seen as steep a decline in a 48-hour time frame as what we saw on Thanksgiving Day and into last Friday as OPEC put off any decrease in production.

"This is perhaps one of the most astonishing weeks in watching crude prices I've ever witnessed, and motorists will likely be giddy at what I see in our gas price crystal ball: a 15-25 cent drop over the next several weeks, bringing the national average down to the $2.50s by Christmas," DeHann not-

INSIDE KOBANI: Kurdish female fighters play major role in defending town against IS militants KOBANI, Syria (AP) — On the front lines of the battle for Kobani, Kurdish female fighters have been playing a major role in helping defend the Syrian town from an onslaught by the Islamic State extremist group.

Pervin Kobani, the 19-year-old daughter of a farmer, is one of them.

She is part of a team holding an eastern front-line position that comes under regular attack from the extremist fighters, who have been trying to seize the town since mid-September.

The Islamic State group has declared a self-styled caliphate in areas under its control in Iraq and Syria, governing it according to its violent interpretation of Shariah law. The Kurdish men and women fighting in Kobani are determined not to lose the town to the extremists.

An exclusive report shot by videojournalist Jake Simkin inside Kobani late last month offered a rare, in-depth glimpse of the destruction that more than two months of fighting has inflicted on the Kurdish town in northern Syria by the Turkish border.

Obama: Wants to avoid 'militarized' police culture in aftermath of Ferguson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Barack Obama said Monday he wants to ensure the U.S. isn't building a "militarized culture" within police departments, while maintaining federal programs that provide the type of military-style equipment that were used to dispel racially charged protests in Ferguson, Missouri.

Instead, the president is asking Congress for funding to buy 50.000 body cameras to record events like the shooting death of an unarmed 18-year-old Michael Brown and look for ways to build trust and confidence between police and minority communities nationwide. He announced the creation of a task force to study success stories and recommend ways the government can support accountability, transparency and trust in police.

Attorney General Eric Holder announced on Monday new Justice Department plans aimed at ending racial profiling and ensuring fair and effec-

"In the coming days, I will announce updated Justice Department guidance regarding profiling by federal law enforcement, which will institute rigorous new standards — and robust safeguards - to help end racial profiling, once and for all," Holder said in Atlanta.

With protests ongoing in Ferguson and across the country, Obama spoke to reporters at the end of a White House meeting with police, civil rights activists and local leaders and acknowledged the participants told him that there have been task forces in the past and "nothing happens."

Police: West Virginia man fatally shot 4, then himself; his body found in truck in woods

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — After fatally shooting four people, setting off an hourslong manhunt and putting schools and residents on alert for an armed man, the owner of a small towing business was found dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in his truck in the woods, state police said The search for Jody Lee Hunt, 39, began about 10 a.m., when state and local authorities warned people to look out for his black 2011 Ford F-150. Hunt was wanted in three separate shootings — two in the Westover area, outside Morgantown, and another in the Cheat Lake area in Monongalia County, state police said. Officials released the names of two of the victims but little other information until after 7 p.m., when he was found in his vehicle. The truck was in "a power line right of way," state police spokesman Lt. Dennis Johnson said. Medical officials will work to confirm the body's identity, police said, but few other details about the man or the shootings were released. On Tuesday, investigators at each of the three crime scenes will "sit down and piece all those puzzle pieces together and find out how this all happened," state police spokesman Lt. Michael Baylous said.

Hunt owned J&J Towing and Repair LLC of Westover, according to state documents. There was little activity there Monday, and the door was padlocked. Neighbor Frank Brown said business is usually brisk, especially in the early morning.

Homeland Security chief faces GOP critics on immigration WASHINGTON (AP) — Homeland Security

Secretary Jeh Johnson is defending President Barack Obama's executive actions on immigration even as GOP lawmakers work to find the best way to stop them. Johnson was to appear Tuesday before the House Homeland Security Committee in the administration's first testimony on the issue since Obama announced plans two weeks ago to shield some 4 million immigrants here illegally from deportation and offer them work permits. The action applies to people who've been in the country more than five years and have kids who are citizens or green card holders.

"The reality is that, given our limited resources, these people are not priorities for removal. It's time we acknowledge that and encourage them to be held accountable," Johnson said in prepared testimony. "This is simple common sense."

SLYLOCK FOX and COMICS FOR KIDS

Mrs. Rabbit has accused Shady Shrew of stealing her daughter's playset. But Shady insists he's innocent and claims he bought the set last year. He says his nephew comes over nearly every day to play on the swing. What evidence did Slylock Fox observe that led him to doubt Shady's story?

Solution -- If Shady's nephew played on the swing nearly very day, there would probably be an area under the swing where the grass is worn away. There is no worn area, only grass.

Wounded bird touches a senior citizen's heart since that day in November. As we often drive by Canterbury of 17th and Lancaster, haunting is the remembrance of the effect an event had.

Late that afternoon, the game warden had called. When told we were on our way, his comment was "...wait for you."

Having been in on the inception and growth of the two Canterbury facilities, I was quite familiar with the entrance to the north building. Turning into the drive that led downward and under the extended porch, we readily saw the game warden and a policeman standing nearby.

Our approach and conversation with the two led to their pointing toward the entrance. Underneath a bench stood a Cooper's hawk. For it to be so passive in full view of the growing crowd meant something was terribly wrong.

With little resistance in my capturing it, I carried the raptor away from the entrance. Through years of experience came the knowledge of how upsetting the sight of an injured bird can be to caring individuals.

After Art spread a towel on the pavement, I knelt, and then laid the hawk on its back. Its wings were extended. From a hole in its upper right side had come a significant loss of blood. Its wing had an abnormal hump where it joined the body.

"What do you think?" asked the game warden as I continued to examine the bird. "Pellet gun or 22," was my reply. "Definitely shot." "Or a 38!" said a voice from beside me. Unaware that one of the residents had followed me into the driveway, I turned to see two house slippers resting on the metal steps of a wheel chair.

Looking up at the man who was slumped in the conveyance, I told him if the shooter had used that caliber, there would be little left of the bird. "Is it going to make it?" he asked.

Although my answer included a promise that we would do everything we could to save the bird, I briefly pointed out the severe damage that might have been inflicted inside the hawk.

Its chances were "iffy."

After absorbing that information, he was quiet for a moment.

"I don't like people who do things like that!" he said emphatically. Then he turned, and wheeled himself back toward the entrance and the residents standing inside behind the glass frontage.

It was obvious the hawk had not traveled far after being shot. City law enforcement would have to do what they could in finding someone firing within the city limits near the retirement/handicap community.

Without the culprit, Texas Parks & Wildlife could not assess any citations regarding the federally and state protected raptor.

During the drive home, we were both silent. The emotions that had been generated by the elderly man's concern for the hawk were profound.

Although his physical presence had diminished with age, his mental acuity had sensed the severity of the bird's plight.

Limited in mobility, he must have struggled to leave the building and come to the hawk's aid.

To accommodate the weakened and helpless raptor, we placed it in a warm, quiet environment. To once again have the opportunity to observe one was to appreciate its mousy-gray coloring from above.

Below, we had noted earlier its creamy chest and belly accented with abundant, tawny bar-

If the specie had not already been named "Cooper's," the word "copper" would have been ideal to describe these markings on its feathers.

Its long, gray tail, enhanced by blackish bars, was tipped with white and rounded at the end. A dark gray cap, and the lightly streaked sides of its head, completed its regal presence.

To the west of Canterbury, the Park Hill neighborhood had offered this winter migrant a varying menu of small birds. To thin overabundant populations, this accipiter was nature's way of providing sustenance for the specie while at the same time, controlling another.

On our final glance at the bird we noticed its orange-red eyes remained wide open. I wished it a silent goodbye.

No longer would it maneuver in flight around and through trees in quick pursuit of sparrows and doves. With patient and secretive manners, it had been a superb hunter.

At Canterbury, the senseless destruction of the vibrant bird was reflected in the old man's face. In spite of his inability to express his deepest feelings, tears had welled up in the man's eyes before he turned to reenter the building.

VINELAND, N.J. (AP) — Police in New Jersey say a man told officers he fled the scene of an auto accident because he "didn't want to deal with his girlfriend yelling at him."

They say David Scarpa was having an argument with his girlfriend Sunday night when he backed into a utility pole in Cumberland County. The caller who reported the hit-and-run said he heard people "yelling" and then heard a bang and saw debris on the ground by the pole. Police say the 21-year-old Scarpa then took off and didn't report the accident immediately.

Scarpa went to police headquarters to turn himself in Monday.

28-year-old man who they say broke into an Austin business, stole a couple of sausages and fell asleep.

Surveillance video from Hudson Meats shows the man trying to break down the front door for about 20 minutes. The intruder then takes some sausages from the

Tannehill rallies Dolphins past Jets, 16-13

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The Miami Dolphins were tired of the New York Jets running all over them.

Whether it was Chris Johnson, Chris Ivory or even wide receiver Greg Salas, the Dolphins couldn't stop them on the ground. So, Miami waited for New York to make mistakes — and then took advan-

"We had to draw a line in the dirt. No more," Dolphins defensive end Cameron Wake said after Miami's 16-13 win Monday night. "We came out in the second half schemewise the same, but guys played the way they're supposed to play."

So, despite the Jets rushing for 277 yards - 210 in the firsthalf — Miami made the plays it needed in the second half to rally for a comeback victory that kept the Dolphins (7-5) right in the middle of the AFC playoff race.

"Scratch, claw, bite, kick," Wake said. "Whatever you have to do to make a play and win."

Caleb Sturgis hit a 26-yard field goal with 1:57 remaining to put the Dolphins ahead, and Reshad Jones' interception of Geno Smith's pass to Jeff Cumberland sealed the victory.

"It's December," Dolphins rookie receiver Jarvis Landry said. "The only thing that matters is winning, no matter how you get it done."

Smith threw only 13 times, fewest in the NFL this season. The usually reliable Nick Folk missed two field goals for the Jets (2-10).

"I feel sick," coach Rex Ryan said. "Our guys just played great, for the most part, in a lot of areas. Dang. We can't buy a

After trailing most of the way, Miami tied it on Lamar Miller's touchdown run with 10:24 remaining. New York got into field-goal range after Miami made it 13-all, but Koa Misi's sack pushed the Jets back to the Miami 27 and Folk missed wide left for the second time. Folk had made 18 of 20 entering the game.

That's the way the Jets' season has gone, of course.

"I can't believe we're 2-10," Ryan said, shaking his head and pausing. "It's a joke."

Ian Park had a season that had many Forsan High School football fans shaking their heads in disbielf.

Earlier this week, the Buffaloes' linebacker found out just how impressed the coaches in District 3-2A were.

A junior, Park was ranked among the nation's leaders in sacks for much of the year. He finished the season with 16.5 quarterback sacks - almost half of the Buffaloes' entire sack totals.

As a result of his play, Park earned high praise from the district coaches as he was named the 2014 co-Defensive Player of the Year. He shared the award with Christoval's Colten Buie.

For the year, Park finished the season with 48 tackles.

Park was far from the only FHS player being honored by the district's coaches. In all, 10 Buffaloes were names to the first- or second-team roster.

Brycson Pineda joined Park in receiving hefty postseason honors, the freshman offensive tackle was chosen as the 2014 3-2A Newcomer of the Year recipient.

Ozona tight end Daniel Lombrana earned the district's top honor, receiving the overall MVP award. The Ozona senior led his team to the district title and a berth in the playoffs.

Christoval's Jakob Whitworth was the district's Offensive MVP.

Forsan had six players selected to the first-team, including four on the defensive side of the ball.

Forsan defensive end Walker Park and linebacker Garrett Kligora highlighted the Buffaloes' first-team defen-

Dear Annie: Five years ago, my husband's best friend, "Cary," was in financial trouble and asked my husband for a loan, which he sent. I only found out about it when the bank sent a receipt to our house. It was for $25,000. I nearly fell over. I questioned my husband, and he said our loan kept Cary out of bankruptcy, so I dropped the subject. Last year, Cary told my husband he still wasn't able to pay back any of the money, and my generous husband said he'd forgive the loan altogether. I found out about this when we planned a trip to Cary's area. I told my husband I didn't want to visit Cary because he'd made no attempt to pay back any of the loan, and that's when my husband dropped the bombshell.

I am angry that my husband didn't discuss either of these decisions with me. He has worked hard for his money, and we've had many ups and downs financially. We don't take extravagant vacations, my car is eight years old, and we are paying three college tuitions. My sister is struggling, too, and I would love to help her, but wouldn't even consider it without talking it over with my husband.

I don't understand how anyone could borrow money with no intention of paying it back. How can Cary sleep at night? Should I call Cary and express my disappointment that he's taken advantage of his best friend? --Loser Friends

Dear Friends: Your problem isn't Cary. It's a husband who thinks he should be making major financial choices without consulting his life partner. He didn't want to get into a disagreement with you, so he made a unilateral decision. It's also possible he believes that if the money comes from his salary, it's his to do with as he chooses. For minor purchases, that's fine, but $25,000 could put a dent in his family's living situation and affects all of you. You need to discuss this with him, calmly, and explain why his actions were both hurtful and disrespectful. If he cannot understand your position, ask him to come with you to see a counselor who can mediate. We wouldn't want this to happen again.

Dear Annie: I have a plea for anyone who has a pool, pond or other body of water around their home. This past Monday, my beautiful, active, mobile 11month-old grandson got out of the house and fell into the koi pond. Instead of planning his first birthday, we are planning his funeral.

Please, if you have any type of standing water, put a fence around it. No parent, grandparent or sibling should go through what we are dealing with right now, especially for something so preventable. -- A Grieving Grandmother in Redondo Beach, Calif.

Dear Grieving: This is so heartbreaking. Please know that your words of warning will save a life. Little children can drown in very little water, and they do not have the understanding or the physical dexterity to avoid a tragedy. And no matter how closely you watch your child, accidents happen. Readers, whether the children are yours or someone else's, fence off these areas or keep them behind lock and key so they are safe for everyone. Our deepest condolences to your family.

Dear Annie: I read of so many happy reunions with birth parents, but I certainly did not have one.

I found my birth mother when I was 35. I discovered a halfbrother who didn't know about me and resented me a great deal. We have no contact. My birth mother lied to me with three different stories about why I was adopted. She stayed with me for a week, demanded all of my time and expected to hug me constantly. I did not care for her "concern" after 35 years.

She visited twice more and nothing improved. I eventually cut off all correspondence with her. -- Iowa

Cosmic Deja Vu

If you liked how much you accomplished with yesterday's fire-sign passion fueling your efforts, today's Aries moon plays out similarly, with two motivating lunar fire trines in the a.m. hours. Also like yesterday, challenging lunar square, this time to Mars in the latter degrees of Capricorn. Finish what you need to before sundown.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). If it feels like you're not getting where you want to go, consider that a piece of karma needs to be cleared before you can progress. The wheels that will move you forward are propelled by giving back.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Keep smiling even when the bottom seems to be dropping out. Sometimes the bottom dropping out just makes more room for everyone as it provides an exciting ride.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Leaders need to know how to respond graciously to success, and they also need to know how to handle things when they look bad. It's fine to admit the flaws now and then.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It's said that being too cautious is the greatest risk you could take. Tell that to the cliff diver who is no more. The question is: How cautious is too cautious? LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). One way of preserving the peace in your domestic environment is to maintain friendly but firm boundaries between housemates and neighbors. Too much involvement and VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The restrictions come down this afternoon, but no matter. This is merely another opportunity to find true freedom, which is a state of being that has always existed inside familiarity will backfire.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

KATHY MITCHELL

MARCY SUGAR

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Worrisome matters are dropped, not because they are completely solved, but because more important challenges call you to act. Tonight, a brief and to-the-point talk is better than a prolonged heart-to-heart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Developments in your finances are exciting, but keep it to yourself for now. The appropriate time for sharing is when you are sure about every aspect of this, including your opinion on the best way to spend it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Everyone succumbs to bad moods now and then -- the kind that make it seem like nothing at all is going right. If you feel yourself falling into a funk, you can fend it off by focusing on the thing that's so good now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Beware of "love" that's based in fantasy. Infatuation can be temporarily wonderful but equally horrible when the illusion is shattered. No one can be another person's be-all-end-all.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Don't be surprised if an evening event causes you to horripilate. The question is: Will it be due to cold, fear or excitement? Probably the latter, as your stars indicate an unexpected twist.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Sometimes love is saying the thing that will help the other person get through the moment. It might not be the most accurate statement, but it's the most compassionate one.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 2). Make a firm decision in the next three weeks, and suddenly 2015 represents a new lease on life. Family bonds grow in February. March features extra work and pay. Your aspirations change once more in April. Personal fulfillment moves higher on the list, and you'll love what your leisure brings you. Cancer and Leo people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 7, 5, 30, 22

and 14. HOLIDAY HACKS 2014: The term "hack"

could refer to cutting something with many blows, or it could refer to a person who turns in uninspired, inadequate work. There's even a "hack" definition that has to do with feeding hawks and drying cheese. But among the more common "hack" references these days is the Internet slang for breaking into systems software. This usage has evolved and extended into breaking into any system, including life itself. So what hacks might you apply to create a shortcut, easy-button direct route to holiday happiness?

ARIES: The holidays tend to widen the emotional spectrum for everyone, making the highs seem loftier and the lows abysmal. With your hotheaded, fire-hearted nature, the widening range sometimes causes you to react in ways you didn't plan. Some of these reactions are inspired, others regrettable. What's needed most when emotions run high is the voice of reason. That's why your life hack is a holiday friend you can call when you suspect you might be acting out of the heat of a passionate moment instead of a calm and centered mind. Who is a most reliable and compassionate influence on you?

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Last month, pop princess Britney

Spears was awarded the key to Las Vegas in part to celebrate the Sagittarian showgirl's smash hit production at Planet Hollywood. Spears' sun, Mercury, Uranus and Neptune are all in Sagittarius -- that's unstoppable firepower. Her moon in Aquarius rolls with the times and has an ever-current attitude. Her Venus in Capricorn promises innate business savvy.

In 1804, Napoleon crowned himself Emperor of the French.

In 1814, French author Donatien-Alphonse-Francois, Comte de Sade, better known as the Marquis de Sade, died in an insane asylum at age 74 after a lifetime of notoriety for his sexual perversities and writings. Petty expects to play on Saturday

WACO, Texas (AP) Baylor quarterback Bryce Petty plans to play Saturday night with another Big 12 title on the line, even while still experiencing some concussion-related symptoms.

Petty said he felt great even after waking up with a headache Monday, two days after getting knocked out of the fifthranked Bears' 48-46 win over Texas Tech. "(The headache) is kind of off and on, and it's starting to get shorter on and longer off," Petty said. "And then when it is hurting a little bit, it's a lot lighter than it used to be."

Petty hopes to practice, but on Monday had not yet gone through any concussion testing that fending Big 12 champiwould determine if he is clear to do that. The fifthyear senior didn't anticipate any tests until being free of symptoms after what he said was his first concussion at Baylor.

"I'll be fine. I think it's exercise-induced kind of stuff, go through things, make sure everything's OK," he said."

Baylor (10-1, 7-1 Big 12), which didn't practice Monday, plays No. 9 Kansas State (9-2, 7-1) with the winner of the regularseason finale guaranteed at least a share of the Big 12 title. If No. 5 TCU loses earlier Saturday to lastplace Iowa State, they would be playing for the outright title.

The Bears are the de-

ons, having clinched the 2013 title outright with a home win over Texas in the regular-season finale.

Coach Art Briles does expect to have Petty back against the Wildcats. "He actually felt pretty good at the end of the game the other day," Briles said. "Of course he took a hard shot, clean shot. But I just saw him 10 minutes ago and he's Petty threw for 210 yards and two touchdowns against the Red Raiders before taking a high hit from linebacker Sam Eguavoen, who was penalized for a personal foul. Petty walked slowly to the sideline and then to the locker room, but was back on the sideline before the end of the game.

"I'm in good hands and we'll make sure that everything is 100 percent," Petty said. "I know for a fact I will be ready to go."

Petty missed

lor's second game of the season Sept. 6 against FCS team Northwestern State because of two small cracked bones in his back. He got hurt in the first half of the season opener the previous week, and didn't play after halftime in that game. He threw for 416 yards and four touchdowns in his return, a 63-21 win at Buffalo on Sept. 12.

In 10 games this season, Petty has 2,893 yards passing with 25 touchdowns.

SC women stay No. 1 in AP women's poll

South Carolina is No. 1 in The Associated Press poll for the second straight week Monday after winning the Junkanoo

Gamecocks. who ascended to the top spot last week for the first time, beat Wisconsin and then-No. 22 Syracuse. Notre Dame, Connecticut, Texas and Texas A&M round out the first five. The Irish play No. 15 Maryland on Wednesday before hosting the Huskies on Saturday in a rematch of last season's title game.

Texas achieved its highest ranking since Dec. 29, 2008, when the Longhorns were also fourth. They beat then-No. 4 Tennessee on Sunday. The Lady Vols had a rough week, losing twice and dropping 10 spots to No. 14. Five of the top 10 teams in last week's poll lost over the past seven days.
