Animal officer placed on leave

Accused of leaving cats in dept. vehicle overnight

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

A Big Spring animal control officer has been suspended from duty pending an investigation into possible animal cruelty charges.

Michael Arista has been placed on administrative leave from Big Spring Police Department's animal control department pending the outcome of a "criminal and internal administrative investigation," a BSPD news release stated.

Arista is accused of leaving "multiple" animals overnight in a department vehicle.

"At approximately 10 a.m. (Saturday), a Big Spring Police Department officer had found multiple cats had been left inside one of the Animal Control vehicles which was parked at the Law Enforcement Center," the release stated. "The officer contacted his supervisor and the animal control officer on call responded. The unit was ... assigned to Animal Control Officer Michael Arista."

Of the cats inside the vehicle, four were dead, officials said.

The initial investigation has indicated the cats were picked up by Arista within 24 hours of being located by the police officer.

The Downtown Revitalization Association's annual Funtastic Fourth celebration is scheduled for this weekend in Big Spring.

Funtastic Fourth this weekend

By JULIE BASS
Staff Writer

This weekend is going to be full of people dancing in the streets at the Funtastic Fourth celebration in downtown Big Spring.

The itinerary is long and full of good-time activities for every member of the family, officials promise.

The opening ceremony will take place at 5:30 p.m. Friday, with Highway Run singing the National Anthem.

Several of the musical groups this year have local roots, such as Highway Run, Jody Nix and Mark McKinney. Tracy Lawrence will close out the Friday evening festivities starting at 10:30 p.m. Friday.

Saturday, the fun will begin at 11 a.m. with a cheer, dance and tumbling performance by Dance Gallery students at the gazebo on Scurry and Third streets. Musicial entertainment will begin at 6 p.m. and be closed out by Mark McKinney from 10:45 p.m. until midnight.

Music is not the only attraction, officials said, as the streets will be full of arts and craft vendors and various other merchandise. The Confederate flag under fire in S.C.

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — For years, South Carolina lawmakers refused to revisit the Confederate flag on Statehouse grounds, saying the law that took it off the dome was a bipartisan compromise, and renewing the debate would unnecessarily expose divisive wounds.

But opinions changed within five days of the massacre of nine people at a historic black church in Charleston, as a growing tide of Republicans joined the call to remove the battle flag from a Confederate monument in front of the Statehouse and put it in a museum.

On Monday, Gov. Nikki Haley did what a previous Republican governor found to be political suicide. Herself a Republican, she not only called for the flag's removal but pledged to call legislators back to Columbia if they don't deal with it in a special session in the next few weeks. Just hours before they return to work Tuesday, a rally to bring the flag down will be held outside the Statehouse.

Haley's announcement came days after authorities charged Dylann Storm Roof, 21, with murder. The white man appeared in photos holding Confederate flags and burning or desecrating U.S. flags, and purportedly wrote of fomenting racial violence.

Haley has for years deflected questions about the flag. But she said Monday she was moved by the outpouring of love and forgiveness that followed the "true hate" of the crime. She noted her entire family attended Emanuel African Methodist Episcopal on Sunday, when the church reopened its doors.

"My children saw what true faith looks like. My children saw that true hate can never, never triumph over true love. My children saw the heart and soul of South Carolina start to mend," she said.

She stressed that, for many South Carolinians, the flag still represents noble traditions of heritage and duty, but for many others, it is a "deeply offensive symbol of a brutally oppressive past."

"The hate-filled murderer who massacred our brothers and sisters in Charleston has a sick and twisted view of the flag. In no way does he reflect the people in our state who respect, and in many ways, revere it," she said.

The governor's declarations sparked leaders of other states to take action: On Tuesday, Virginia Gov. Terry McAuliffe ordered the replacement of vanity license plates depicting the Confederate flag, saying the banner is "hurtful" to too many people.

Mississippi House Speaker Philip Gunn becoming his state's first top-tier Republican to call for the Confederate emblem to be removed from the state flag. And in Tennessee, both Democrats and Republicans said a bust of Confederate general and Ku Klux Klan leader Nathan food vendors will offer traditional fair type foods and other menu selections.

A "kidzone" will be set up; admission wristbands will be $20 each. There will be a mini ferris wheel, paddle boats, obstacle course, wild west shoot out movies, popcorn and more. "We will have a rock wall and a mechanical bull again this year. Adults and kids can all enjoy them" said Christy Broman, president of the Fantastic Fourth Committee. "It seems that we will be showing the movie 'Frozen' for the kids and we are going to have two of the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and Disney characters walking around for the kids to see and meet."

A new event has been added this year.

"We are going to have our first ever cook-off during this year's activities. There will be chicken, ribs and brisket," said Broman.

The meeting for the Crossroads cook-off will be at 6 p.m. in the courtyard. The entry fee is $150 and there will be $5,000 in prize money guaranteed. First through fifth places will receive cash prizes and sixth through 10 places will receive certificates. Participants must cook all three meats to qualify to win Grand Champion.

The turn-in time for the meats will be on Saturday — chicken at 1 p.m., ribs at 2 p.m. and brisket at 3 p.m.

Set up for the cook-off will be after 1 p.m. on Friday and must be cleared by 9 a.m. on Sunday June 28.

The children will have their own chance to show off their cooking skills in their own cook-off. Sign-in will be Friday between 5-5:30 p.m. Entry fee for the kids is $20.

Awards for the cook-off will be presented at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

To sign up for the children's and adults' cook-off, visit bigspringdra.com/crossroads-cook-off-sign-ups.

"We are in real need of volunteers still. We have a nice number now, but we could always use more volunteers," said Lana Saverance, committee member and volunteer coordinator. "Especially, anyone willing to help us with clean-up and keeping it clean during the weekend. Hopefully we can clean up a lot Saturday night to be ready for Sunday, but we will need those people to help us with clean up and tear down."

To volunteer, contact Saverance at 816-1058. For any other questions, contact Broman at 466-2268.

Bedford Forrest must be removed from the Senate.

And Wal-Mart announced Monday that it is removing any items from its store shelves and website that feature the Confederate flag.

Removing the flag in South Carolina won't be easy, despite the shifting sentiment.

Making any changes to the banner requires a two-thirds supermajority in both chambers under the terms of the 2000 deal that moved a square version of the flag to a monument to Confederate soldiers out front.

Legislators return to Columbia on Tuesday for what was supposed to be the end of a special session to approve a state budget. Just adding the flag to the agenda will take two-thirds approval by both chambers.

While those standing behind Haley included state and federal Republican officeholders, the top GOP leaders of the Legislature were absent.

But state GOP Chairman Matt Moore said the Republican legislative leaders he's talked with are committed to the flag coming down.

"I think both parties are united that it should be done. The legislative process will obviously be a challenge given the rules of both chambers, but with enough political will anything can be done," he said. "There is a silent majority of South Carolinians who strongly believe we can have a better future without the flag being on Statehouse grounds."

The biggest questions remaining may be how and when legislators take up the issue.

They could take up a resolution Tuesday allowing them to add the issue to their special session. But they are unlikely to begin debating a bill to take the flag down until July — after the funerals — when they return to decide whether to override Haley's budget vetoes.

Senate Judiciary Chairman Larry Martin said he believes it's both impractical and disrespectful to publicly debate the topic this week.

"I prefer us to not do that out of respect for the services that will be held," said Martin, R-Pickens.

The last governor who called for the flag's removal, Republican David Beasley, was hounded out of office in 1998 by the Sons of Confederate Veterans. The group's influence also doomed his front-running Senate campaign for the seat won by Republican Jim DeMint.

"Do not associate the cowardly actions of a racist to our Confederate Banner," the group's South Carolina commander, Leland Summers, said in a statement. "There is absolutely no link between

SLYLOCK FOX and COMICS FOR KIDS

BY BOB WEBER JR.

One of these two suspects stole Tiffany Fox's digital camera. Before Max Mouse found the hidden camera, the thief took pictures with it. How will the photographs help Slylock Fox determine who is guilty?

Solution -- When examining the photos, Slylock discovered they were shot from close to ground level. This evidence led Slylock to strongly suspect the short toad stole the camera.

Bird Poop: The congregation's new member

The game warden quickly asked me if I'd be home that morning. As soon as he heard I'd wait on him, he added he would call as soon as he knew something.

The puzzled look on my face prompted Art to ask, "What does he have?" After telling him I didn't know, I added, "But he's going to church!"

BEBE McCASLAND

Prompted by a frightened member of a congregation, the officer had driven to the location of an old church. As he and the caller stood outside the structure, he could see the scaffolding erected to remove a deteriorating steeple.

Constructed of wood, and whitewashed for preservation, the steeple had served two purposes. Whether an architect's theme had been Gothic, Colonial, Victorian, or European, additional height would lend to an impression of a greater size. Pointing toward the heavens, it also encouraged a spiritual mindset.

Obviously, it would have been a maintenance nightmare. The game warden could see that some louvers were missing on the sides of the spire. Shingles on the area beneath a rising cross had been rearranged or taken by West Texas winds. "Is there a bell inside?" was his next inquiry. "Yep, sure is," came a quick reply.

"In those days," continued the old timer, "they attached the steeple to an open roof." His implication was the interior of the steeple was open to the interior of the church below.

Louvers aided in ventilation. They were also thought to extend the durability of the exterior.

When the man had found water on the floor from a hard rain the night before, he realized water and critters could easily enter the church.

"When did you first see the owl?" continued the officer. "As it flew down the aisle and right at me!" was the reply.

It wasn't difficult for the church member to figure out how the bird had entered the building. His and the game warden's concern centered on the question of whether or not there were young in the belfry.

With access already provided by the construction crew, the officer climbed up on the roof. Looking inside the steeple, he saw a young owl standing on a wide ledge. Upon seeing him, it leaned forward. Simultaneously, its wings spread while its feathers puffed up to give an appearance of a much larger being. From the popping of its beak came an ominous warning.

Unable to enter the steeple from the rooftop or to see if there was another youngster, he climbed down from this lofty aerie. With scaffolding erected inside the church, he would be able to enter the belfry area and determine if there were any more owls. While he waited as the scaffolding rose toward the ceiling, the game warden called again. Having a breather, he was able to describe the problem with the owls.

Adding that they had opened the doors and every window in the sanctuary, he felt the parent owl could be coaxed to leave on its own. Once the young were removed from the belfry, the contractor would seal the outside access.

Several hours later, our doorbell rang. Obviously, the officer had endured quite an experience that morning. Normally pressed without a wrinkle, his shirt was disheveled and stained with perspiration and dirt; his pants didn't look much better. In the creases of his arms, neck, and brow, more dried dirt told of his morning's effort. Inside his carrier was a great horned owl. As it glared at us with its large yellow eyes, we could easily see the remaining wisps of down interspersed within the feathers on the top of its head. As it spread its wings in defiance as I opened the gate, down could also be seen on the undersides. Throughout the feathers on its body were these telltale remnants.

Sporting the typical mottled brown feathers above while being heavily barred below, it had a distinct white throat. Its talons and beak completed its upright stature.

Its older siblings had probably followed a parent into a late night sky. As possibly the youngest, this great horn had remained behind. It was fortunate that its parent had continued to feed and encourage it.

If it had followed its siblings, it, and they would have been dependent upon their parents for months. While being fed and protected by them, the youngsters would have learned how to hunt and acquire their food. Unfortunately, this one had missed that opportunity.

In the company of owls at the Eos Wildlife Sanctuary in Midland, this young raptor made rapid progress with its adult role models. Midge Erskine's long flight cages assured the development of its flight abilities.

The bird of prey's "early owlhood" had not been disturbed by the use of the belfry due to its disrepair. In the near future, however, both the bird and the bell would issue their sounds again.

Through a night sky would echo the courting cry of a healthy, robust great horned owl. Daytime would once again resound with calls to worship, and the tolling for weddings, funerals, and the time of day.

U.S. women advance past Colombia

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Now that Alex Morgan has a goal, she doesn't want to look back on the opportunities she's missed.

She wants to look forward to the goals to come.

"I don't remember the last goal I've had with this team," said Morgan, who had been hampered by a bone bruise in her left knee going into the tournament. "And that's not a good sign. I don't want to look back and see when the last one was because now I've scored, and it's a fresh start moving forward."

Morgan scored her first goal of the Women's World Cup and the United States advanced to the quarterfinals with a 2-0 victory over Colombia on Monday night.

Her previous U.S. goal came March 6 in the Algarve Cup. Abby Wambach's penalty kick early in the second half went wide after Colombia goalkeeper Catalina Perez — a backer herself — was ejected for a foul on Morgan. Stefany Castano, who replaced Perez in goal, got a hand on Morgan's shot five minutes later, but couldn't stop the goal to put the United States up 1-0.

"It didn't have much power on it as I wanted, but it went in and that's all that matters," she said about her right-footed goal.

Usually she's lefty: "It comes in handy when it needs to," she smiled.

Carli Lloyd also scored for the second-ranked Americans, who will face No. 16 China on Friday in Ottawa. The United States is seeking its third World Cup title, but first since 1999.

The Americans have not allowed a goal in 333 minutes.

Colombia has never won soccer's premier tournament, but the No. 28 Las Cafeteras pulled off one of the biggest upsets in any World Cup in the group stage when they defeated third-ranked France 2-0.

Morgan and Wambach started up top for the United States, which used the same starting lineup as it did in the group-stage finale against Nigeria — a first since Jill Ellis became coach.

It was Morgan's second straight after working her way back from a bone bruise in her left knee. Morgan came in as a sub in the first two matches of the tournament.

Morgan missed all three send-off matches because of the injury. Her last match with the U.S. team was on April 4, a 4-0 exhibition win over New Zealand in St. Louis.

Three earn all-state nods

Three Howard County high school players earned Texas recognition on the Texas High School

Baseball Coaches Association All-State team, which was announced this week.

Big Spring High School had two players on the Class 4A squad — Gary Watkins, a senior catcher, was named to the THSBCA first team, while senior shortstop Hunter Hill was named to the third team. Watkins, who has signed with Navarro College, and Hill, who will play next season at Howard College, helped lead the Steers to a tie for first in District 2-4A this past season.

The third area player to earn all-state recognition was Forsan's Ryan Pearson, who was named Class 2A first-team catcher. Pearson, who also was most valuable player in Forsan's district, helped lead the Buffaloes to the playoffs this past season.

Volleyball skills camps scheduled

Two volleyball skills camps will be held July 27-30 at the junior high school gymnasiums.

The first camp, open to players in grades 3 through 9, will be held between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. Cost is $25; campers may purchase a T-shirt for $10.

The second camp, supervised by former BSHS players Cerbi Ritchey, Taylor Seaton and Kinsey Wash, will be held from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. and is open for players in grades 9-12. Cost is $35; campers may purchase a T-shirt for $10.

For more information on either camp, contact Lynn Osborne at 254-246-2148.

College World Series

Vandy ace shuts down Virginia

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Vanderbilt coach Tim Corbin doesn't get into ranking the performances of his ace Carson Fulmer.

Rest assured, most of them are pretty good.

Fulmer was sensational again Monday night while limiting Virginia to two hits over 7 2/3 shutout innings in the Commodores' 5-1 victory in the opener of the College World Series finals.

Vanderbilt (51-19) can repeat as national champion with one more win. The Commodores will send Phil Pfeifer (6-4) to the mound Tuesday night. Virginia coach Brian O'Connor said he wouldn't decide on a starter until the morning.

Fulmer led Vanderbilt to the brink of the title with another outstanding performance. He's gone at least five innings in 20 straight starts. He allowed four hits and three runs in a strong outing against Cal State Fullerton in Vandy's CWS opener and was even better against Virginia.

"I'm not going to say the best, because he's had so many," Corbin said. "You can go on and on about him. He just gives you a chance to win every single time. The game never gets away from him."

Fulmer's outing against the Cavaliers was his last as a collegian. He was the No. 8 overall draft pick by the Chicago White Sox.

"It's such a great memory for him to pitch his final game," Corbin said. "That eighth inning was the right time to get him. Personally, I was glad to be able to do that so he would be able to address the crowd and the crowd could address him."

The Vanderbilt section gave him a standing ovation as he descended the dugout steps. His virtuoso performance put Vandy in position to become the seventh team to win back-to-back national titles, and the third to do it in the last 10 years.

Fulmer (14-2) was the Southeastern Conference pitcher of the year after leading the conference in wins, strikeouts and ERA.

"What made it big for me was not only did I have coach there but the whole infield around me," Fulmer said of his last moments on the mound. "To spend that moment with them and to look back at the brotherhood we created, and to win the game, it's a moment I'll remember for the rest of my life. I couldn't have asked for it to happen any better."

Fulmer outdueled Virginia starter Connor Jones (7-3), who allowed three hits over five shutout innings before the Commodores got to him for two runs in the sixth. Will Toffey's two-run double broke a scoreless tie, and Vanderbilt added three more runs in the seventh.

Virginia (42-24), the Commodores' finals opponent for the second straight year, scored in the ninth to end the Vandy bullpen's streak of 22 shutout innings.

"We've been in this situation before this year," Cavaliers coach Brian O'Connor said. "We were in this situation going into Saturday, that if you win you get to continue your season and if you don't,

ESPN: Rose bet on games as a player

BRISTOL, Conn. (AP) — ESPN says it obtained a notebook that shows Pete Rose bet on Cincinnati Reds games during his last season as an active player in 1986.

The career hits leader agreed to a lifetime ban from baseball in 1989 after an investigation by John Dowd, a lawyer retained by Major League Baseball, concluded he bet on the Reds to win from 1985-87 while he was a player and manager.

Rose repeatedly denied the allegations before admitting in a 2004 autobiography he bet on Cincinnati to win while he managed the team. Rose became player-manager in 1984.

ESPN's "Outside the Lines" said it obtained a notebook seized by U.S. Postal Inspection Service in October 1989 from Rose associate Michael Bertolini, which reflect betting records from March to July 1986. The documents are under seal and stored in the National Archives' New York office, ESPN said.

Astros rally in 8th but lose to Angels

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — After scoring twice to tie the game in the eighth inning, the Houston Astros gave the lead right back in the bottom half on a do-or-die play that first baseman Chris Carter couldn't pull off.

Erick Aybar scored the go-ahead run on a safety squeeze by Daniel Robertson, and the Astros absorbed a 4-3 loss Monday night to the Los Angeles Angels that included two very loud home runs by Albert Pujols.

Aybar began the winning rally with a lead-off single against Chad Qualls (1-4) and advanced on a wild pitch.

One out later, Joe Thatcher walked pinch-hitter Matt Joyce while Aybar stole third.

In came Will Harris, and Robertson bunted up the first base line. Carter charged the ball and made an errant, backhand flip past catcher Jason Castro as Aybar crossed the plate.

"That's as close to a defenseless play as you can have," Houston manager A.J. Hinch said. "I mean, I can put the first baseman at the 45-foot line and have him sit there and let the guy steal second. It was going to have to be a hard bunt for him to be able to make that play. If they execute the play like that, that's manufacturing a run. And they did. That's how they won the game."

Pujols, who won two Gold Gloves at first base with the St. Louis Cardinals, acknowledged the degree of difficulty Carter was faced with.

"It's a hard play to defend," Pujols said. "You can't break too soon from the bag because the guy from first could steal, and it's a safety squeeze. Obviously, it worked out perfect for us."

The Angels (36-35) moved within 4 1/2 games of the AL West leaders. Texas is three games behind the Astros, who have dropped three of four after winning five straight.

"Those are the guys we're chasing, so this is a big series. And to be able to win the first game is huge," Pujols said. "I thought it was going to get away from us, but we just never gave up. Erick had a big at-bat and got on base, and we were able to execute on the bunt."

The Astros were held to two hits by left-hander Hector Santiago through the first six innings, including rookie Domingo Santana's leadoff homer in the third. Houston tied Castro with an RBI single by Castro and a run-scoring double by Jose Altuve against Joe Smith.

Altuve, the All-Star second baseman and batting champion, was 1 for 3 after missing the previous four games because of a right hamstring strain. In the third inning, he sent a towering fly to the short fence in the right-field corner, where Kole Calhoun reached over and easily took a home run away from him.

"The thing I worry about most with a guy coming back after a layoff is strike-zone judgment. But he battled, and it was good to see," Hinch said. "I mean, he looked a little antsy early on, trying to swing at a lot of pitcher's pitches. But with the game on the line, I trust him as much as anybody to put a good at-bat together."

HERALD

Daily Horoscope

HOLIDAY
MATHIS

Why waste a lot of time and energy trying to prevent anything bad from happening? You're better off kicking back and watching television, because at least it's relaxing; whereas, trying to control the uncontrollable is exhausting and pointless. Jupiter and Uranus in harmony will smile on you as you trust life's process.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). There is a shared space between you and the people in your life. What is it filled with? You'll feel more inclined to tune in and understand where you overlap and why. It's the first step to resolving an issue.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You don't have the support for your endeavor that other people around you have. Instead of resenting this, accept it and know that you're stronger and completely capable, or you wouldn't have taken on the challenge.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Some people are too embarrassed about their mistakes to really examine them. You realize the value in reflection and evaluation. You're determined not to make the same mistake twice.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Absorb your social media with a grain of salt. Everyone is putting forward an image they want the world to see. Trying to keep up with others robs you of the peace that might come with being satisfied with what you have.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). It takes maturity to keep your long-term picture in mind. The action that gets immediate results often robs you of the bigger result you could have down the line.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You'll get that scenery change you probably didn't even know you needed. This new scene will be invigorating, if not for its beauty, then for its capacity to keep you alert and reactive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). The thing you want will require upkeep, time and energy. The big question is: Is it worth it? Remind yourself that happiness does not depend on what you have, especially when what you have actually has you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Tell the people on your team how they can best help you. Some don't know the difference between pressure and support. You have a talent for tenderly teaching others how to treat you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Not all negative self-judgments are bad. When you're pretty certain you could do better, you'll mentally prod yourself to the level you know you can achieve.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Relationships have seasons. When the emotional weather starts to change, don't panic -- this is part of the natural process. Adjust instead. How can you outfit yourself to accommodate the change?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Seek a friend who is like a business manager, or a business manager who is like a friend -- someone who can give you a better idea of what you need to do to move to the next level and still have a little fun.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You don't have to make people happy today. Make yourself happy. Also, you'll get the kind of invitation you would usually accept automatically. Think it over first.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 23). Because of your confidence and position, people will expect you to know what you're doing. Whether or not you do, your talent for diving in, learning on the fly and pulling off great feats will make this an exciting year. Your influence will grow as your skills do. July features a journey. September heals a relationship. Virgo and Pisces people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 30, 36, 28 and 49.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS:

"I know you believe in many magical things, and I was wondering whether you think unicorns ever really existed? They are my favorite animal. I'm a Taurus, but I just can't get into claiming the cow as my favorite animal."

Though unicorns are today widely believed to be mythological creatures, they have been referred to in ancient texts as common animals -- no more special than dogs, horses or cows -- which is part of the reason that many people believe unicorns once existed and have since become extinct. There is an animal mentioned in the Bible -- the Hebrew word for it is "re'em," which translates into "unicorn," although it also has been translated into English as "wild bull." Some scholars believe the biblical unicorn was actually a one-horned ox and not a horse at all. This theory is supported by Cro-Magnon cave drawings of a one-horned ox that's now extinct. You are right -- I am one who tends to go with the magical theories. That's why I side with those who say unicorns exist in some remote region of the world and can only be found by someone with exceptional honesty and virtue -- both qualities generally attributed to Taurus.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Frances McDormand follows up her critically acclaimed role of the abrasive mother Olive Kitteridge by voicing the role of Momma in Pixar's upcoming family comedy "The Good Dinosaur." Her sun and moon in maternal Cancer emphasizes nurturing instincts and perhaps psychic ability. Her Venus in Taurus is the grounded energy that brings normalcy to the life of even a top Hollywood actress.

Declarer next cashed the ace of spades. Had both opponents followed suit, he would have led another spade to clinch the contract, later discarding the diamond queen on dummy's fourth spade.

But when West showed out, South had to find another solution. Certain that a diamond finesse would fail if he attempted it — West had to have the king of diamonds for his opening bid — South led a diamond to the ace and exited with the queen.

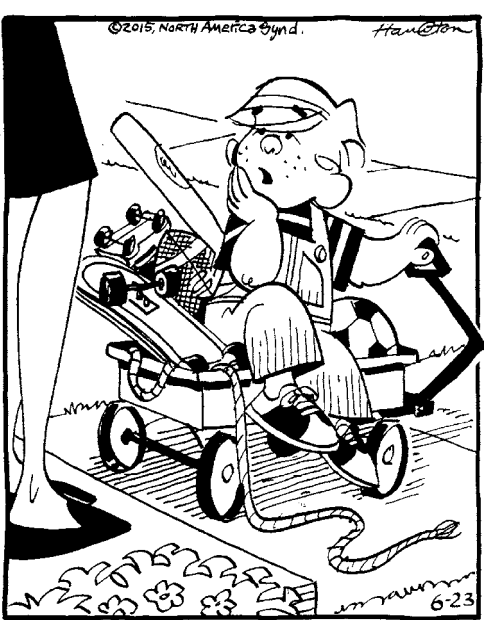

West won with the king but was stymied. He had no choice but to return a diamond or a club, allowing South to discard his remaining spade as he ruffed in dummy, and the contract was home.

Tomorrow: A necessary assumption.

This Date In History

Today is Tuesday, June 23, the 174th day of 2015. There are 191 days left in the year.

Today's Highlights in History:

- On June 23, 1972, President Richard Nixon and White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman discussed using the CIA to obstruct the FBI's Watergate investigation. (Revelation of the tape recording of this conversation sparked Nixon's resignation in 1974.) The same day, President Nixon signed Title IX, which barred discrimination on the basis of sex for "any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."
- On this date: In 1314, during the First War of Scottish Independence, the two-day Battle of Bannockburn, resulting in victory for the forces of Robert the Bruce over the army of King Edward II, began near Stirling.
- In 1757, forces of the East India Company led by Robert Clive won the Battle of Plassey, which effectively marked the beginning of British colonial rule in India.
- In 1812, Britain, unaware that America had declared war against it five days earlier, rescinded its policy on neutral shipping, a major issue of contention between the two countries.
- In 1904, President Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for a second term of office at the Republican national convention in Chicago.
- In 1931, aviators Wiley Post and Harold Gatty took off from New York on a round-the-world flight that lasted eight days and 15 hours.
- In 1938, the Civil Aeronautics Authority was established.
- In 1947, the Senate joined the House in overriding President Harry S. Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley Act, designed to limit the power of organized labor.
- In 1956, Gamal Abdel Nasser was elected president of Egypt.
- In 1967, President Lyndon B. Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin (ah-LEK'-say koh-SEE'-gihn) held the first of two meetings at Glassboro State College in New Jersey.
- In 1969, Warren E. Burger was sworn in as chief justice of the United States by the man he was succeeding, Earl Warren.
- In 1985, all 329 people aboard an Air India Boeing 747 were killed when the plane crashed into the Atlantic Ocean near Ireland because of a bomb authorities believe was planted by Sikh separatists.
- In 1995, Dr. Jonas Salk, the medical pioneer who developed the first vaccine to halt the crippling rampage of polio, died in La Jolla (HOY'-ah), California, at age 80.
- Ten years ago: The White House defended presidential adviser Karl Rove against Democratic demands he apologize or quit for saying "liberals saw the savagery of the 9/11 attacks and wanted to prepare indictments and offer therapy and understanding for our attackers." The San Antonio Spurs won a thrilling Game 7 over Detroit Pistons, 81-74, to claim the NBA championship.

it's over. This team has handled that kind of adversity all year long and I would imagine tomorrow night will be no different. Fulmer retired nine in a row from the fifth to eighth inning before Adam Haseley bounced a ball over the left-center fence for a ground-rule double. Ben Bowden came on for Fulmer with because regular goal-keeper Sandra Sepulveda was suspended for yellow-card accumulation. Sepulveda had six saves in Colombia's win over France. Castano had started in Colombia's World Cup opener, a 1-1 draw with Mexico. The teams played to a goalless first half, with the United States unable to finish several good chances. Wambach was offside on her rebound goal in the fourth minute. Morgan later had a chance, but her shot bounced in front of Perez, who tipped it up and over the crossbar, one of her three saves in the first half. Lauren Holiday got a yellow card in the 17th minute, her second of the World Cup. She'll have to sit out the quarterfinal, as will Megan Rapinoe, who got her second yellow in the 41st. "I feel confident in the players we have to come in and contribute," U.S. coach Jill Ellis said about facing China without the pair. Perez was sent off at the start of the second half after sliding into two outs and two runners on in the eighth and got Matt Thaiss to fly out. "It was just special to see (Fulmer) acknowledged by the crowd and the guys on the team," Dansby Swanson said. "He's meant not so much just to the team but the university as a whole." Fulmer attacked Virginia with his fastball all night, and four of his eight strikeouts ended innings. "I saw Carson pitch in high school, and he's continued to develop," O'Connor said.

Morgan, who was charging toward goal. Wambach fooled Castano on the right side, but the penalty kick sailed well left of the post. Wambach took full responsibility for the miss, which she took with her left foot — not her usual right. "It was a weird moment in the game where they get a red card, and the goalkeeper has to get subbed out. I'm not giving myself excuses. I need to bury that," she said. "If that's in a different moment, if that's in the 89th minute to win us a World Cup and I miss, and it sends us to overtime? That's on me. That's all on my shoulders." After Morgan's goal in the 53rd minute, Lloyd scored on a penalty kick in the 66th, Lloyd's first goal of the tournament. "We keep telling people that we haven't peaked yet," Lloyd said. "We still have a few more games for that." The U.S. won the previous two meetings. In the 2012 London Olympics, Colombia striker Lady Andrade sucker-punched U.S. star Abby Wambach in the eye, drawing a two-match suspension. In the days before the match in Edmonton, some of Colombia's players said they felt disrespected by the Americans ever since. "Because of something that happened three years ago, they've said things that have not been taken by us in the best way," midfielder Yoreli Rincon said. Andrade told reporters she thought the Americans had "belittled" the Colombians. Colombia, the third-place finisher in Group F behind France and England, was making its second World Cup appearance.
