New driver ed course required for teenagers

Special to the Herald

The Texas Department of Public Safety Friday announced the implementation of the Impact Texas Teen Driver program (ITTD), which is a new requirement for driver license applicants who complete a teen driver education course. The two-hour ITTD program contains several videos that provide awareness about the dangers of distracted driving.

"Driving is one of the most dangerous things teens do on a daily basis, and it should command their undivided attention," said DPS Director Steven McCraw. "This new component of teen driver education underscores the risks of distracted driving, and is designed to provide young and inexperienced drivers with additional information and skills to help keep them and others safe on the road."

Beginning Monday, anyone who takes a teen driver education course – including Parent Taught Driver Education – must also complete the ITTD program, which consists of watching the video and printing out the ITTD completion certificate.

ITTD should be completed after the classroom hours and all behind-the-wheel instruction, and it is the last step before taking the driving skills examination. Individuals aged 18-24, who choose to complete a teen driver education course, must also complete the ITTD program.

In order to take the driver skills examination, student drivers must present the ITTD completion certificate along with their driver's education course certificate of completion. The skills examination must be completed within 90 days of date on the ITTD certificate of completion. DPS has been providing information about ITTD when student drivers apply for their learner's permit.

For more information about ITTD or to complete the course, visit impacttexasendrivers.dps.texas.gov/.

Not forgotten: For Tarpley, 9/11 memorial a way to honor fallen heroes

BY LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer

Mike Tarpley spent part of his Friday morning at Spring Town Plaza draping flags over the memorials of U.S. military men and one civilian contractor who died while serving in Iraq or Afghanistan. Nine flags were hung over photos of men, all who had strong ties to Howard County.

Each flag corresponds to the men's branch of the service and will remain until Friday, Sept. 11, when they will be ceremonially removed during the 9/11 memorial service.

"This is a chance to show the Gold Star families that their sons were not forgotten," Tarpley said. "A big fear a soldier has is if he gives his life, he will be forgotten. Help DAV Chapter 47 and HCFVD to make sure these men are never

Forsan ISD trustees OK deficit budget

BY LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer

FORSAN — Forsan Independent School District will be seeing red ink flowing for a while as the board adopted a $460,990 budget deficit for the 2015-2016 fiscal year Thursday night.

The district is one of a number of taxing entities caught up in the slow down of the oil and gas industry after a few years of rapid production. Fisd saw a drop in its taxable values of 35 to 40 percent this past year, according to Superintendent Randy Johnson, causing officials to cinch up the district's belt another few notches during the budget process.

"We don't have any money in the new budget for purchases of new buses and we were able to eliminate an administrative position through attrition," Johnson said. "That was some of the

Mary Elizabeth (Marybeth) Gerstner

Mary Elizabeth (Marybeth) Gerstner, 79, of Burkburnett, passed away Wednesday, Aug. 26, 2015.

Funeral Liturgy will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Monday, Aug. 30, 2015 at St. Jude Catholic Church in Burkburnett with Rev. Khoi Tran and Rev. Richard Kirkham, con-celebrants. Rite of Committal will follow at Burkburnett Memorial Cemetery under the direction of Owens & Brumley Funeral Home of Burkburnett.

Marybeth was born on April 19, 1936 in Big Spring, Texas to the late Leslie D. and Mary E. (Morgan) Jenkins. Marybeth graduated from Big Spring High School in 1954 and married Vern, on her parents anniversary; Nov. 24, 1954. She was a faithful Catholic and a longtime member of Saint Jude Parish in Burkburnett. She belonged to the St. Jude Alter Society, was a member of the choir for many years and on the pastoral counsel several times. She also has many God children whom she prays for still. She was a loving daughter, wife, mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother. She dearly loved her family.

Along with her parents, she was also preceded in death by her husband, LaVern M. Gerstner; and her brother, James L. Jenkins.

She is survived by her sons, Paul L. Gerstner and wife Tammy, Daniel E. Gerstner, and Vern A. Gerstner and wife Frankie all of Burkburnett; her brother, Paul D. Jenkins and wife Dee of Big Spring; her grandchildren, Corey, Jarad and wife Kimberly, Amanda and husband Cameron, Elizabeth and husband Joseph, Kyle and wife Johnetta, and Christopher; her great-grandchildren Kiley, Cayden, Emma, and Adrian; and several nieces and nephews.

Rosary service will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 29, 2015 at St. Jude Catholic Church in Burkburnett.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Hospice of Wichita Falls.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.owensandbrumley.com

Billy Brown (BB) Lees

3/23/1931 - 8/24/2015

On August 24, 2015, we lost a wonderful dad, father-in-law, grandfather, great-grandfather and friend. BB was a throwback to an earlier time ... an honorable man and a true gentleman who loved people and never met a stranger.

Through the 60+ years that he attended, coached and served at Eastern New Mexico University, he bled green and silver! He also coached and mentored many young men who are now coaching throughout New Mexico, Texas and the rest of the U.S. He received numerous awards from ENMU, the states of New Mexico and Texas, and at the national level. Rarely could he travel anywhere in the country without being recognized by someone! Everyone knew and loved BB — his name to friends and family alike. We will miss him greatly and strive to honor his legacy.

The love of BB's life was Jimmie Fern. The two met while they attended ENMU, married in 1951 and stayed together until she died in 2009. BB is survived by four children, their spouses, 14 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and one more due in November.

There will be a celebration of his life held at a future date in Portales.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Carl Richardson and B.B. Lees Scholarship Fund to support full-time "walk-on" student athletes on the ENMU football team. Send donations in care of ENMU Foundation, Station 8, Portales, NM, 88130.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home & Crematory of Midland. Online condolences may be made at www.npwelch.com.

big ticket items we've been able to tighten."

Trustees set the tax rate $1.39 per $100 value for M&O and debt service which is the same as the expiring tax rate, but Johnson added, will draw in far less taxable revenue than this past taxable year. The figure breaks down to $1.04 per $100 value for maintenance and operation expenses and 35 cents for debt service obligations.

On the positive side, student enrollment figures remain steady. First day numbers showed Fisd down two students from last year, but by the middle of the week the district had gained two new enrollees, Johnson said. Student enrollment is a continuous fluctuation figure for public schools used by the state in determining funding.

Steadynumbers makes the job a little easier for officials when planning staffing and classroom sizes for the upcoming academic year.

Before the trustees gave final approval of the tax rate and budget, the board opened the hearing for public comment but had no takers from the general public.

forgotten."

For Tarpley, a disabled veteran who served in the U.S. Army in the Vietnam war, organizing the annual memorial service is a mission close to his heart to help keep alive the memory of those civilians who died in 2001 in the largest terroristic attack on U.S. soil and soldiers who fell in the following conflict on terror.

He organized the first 9/11 ceremony nine years ago and created the memorial display at the Plaza consisting of a photo and a plaque of the nine who are: Steven Evard, civilian contractor who also served as a Big Spring Police Department (1971-2007); PFC Clayton Hensen, U.S. Army (1983-2004); PFC Kristian Menchaca, U.S. Army (1983-2006); PFC Chad Metcalf, U.S. Marine Corp. (1982-2003); SPC Robert J. Volker, U.S. Army (1985-2007); Staff Sgt. Clinton Newman, U.S. Army, (1979-2006); Cpt. Ellery Ray Wallace, U.S. Army (1977-2010); SPC Branden Long, U.S. Army (1987-2007); and Sgt. Conrad Alvarez, U.S. Army (1986-2008).

"Sept. 11th at 6:30 p.m. will be the 9th memorial in Big Spring to honor the men that gave their life to the war," Tarpley said. "All these men have ties to the Cross Roads area. This is the only memorial and service in the area. Please come out and remember the tragedy and events of the attack on our nation, and the lives lost that day and honor the lives given in the war on terror."

Dr. Donald May, an eye surgeon and U.S. Air Force veteran, is scheduled to be the main speaker of the event. The annual 9/11 Memorial is sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans Chapter 47 and the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department. Members of the Big Spring Fire Department will also be participating.

Tribute to a broadcaster

For 3 generations, the Hendryx family has owned and operated radio stations KVLV-AM and KALP-FM in Alpine. Ray Hendryx took over the stations when his dad, former state legislator Gene Hendryx, died. Ray's familiar voice gave residents of Alpine and surrounding communities news, weather and sports about local happenings. People depended on Ray to tell them what was going on in the Texas Mountain Country and beyond. Ray's wife Rita became ill and Ray felt he had to take care of her, so he sold the stations to Martin Benevich, who owns the DISH network franchise in Alpine.

Martin and others hated to see Ray leave and decided to throw a party in Ray's honor. It took place outdoors at Kokernot Lodge.

Martin enlisted the help of several resourceful people who arranged for the chairs, sound system, food, drinks and a lineup of speakers who made remarks about the honoree.

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

Ray received a number of plaques, proclamations and other accolades from city and county officials, Sul Ross State University and others. The first speaker was former US Congressman Pete Gallego, who grew up in Alpine and worked at the Hendryx stations as a young man.

He used weather terms to describe his time in the nation's capitol. "Washington was always a high pressure system with turbulent conditions and a lot of hot air. Many relationships were like a polar front." He said Gene Hendryx was a mentor and described Ray as part of the legend and lore of the Big Bend.

Long time friends said things like: "He's a good man to ride the river with and if you need somebody to watch your back you can't pick a better man."

The tributes were beautiful and emotional and expressed sincere appreciation of the work Ray did as the area's most popular broadcaster. Ray stood quietly and said very little when he was called up to receive a plaque or proclamation. Martin closed out the meeting with these words:

"I've known Ray for a long time. But during the last two years or so I've worked closely with him in the process of buying the station. I got to know the real Ray Hendryx. I found out he was the person I always thought he was. With Ray, what you see is what you get. There is no façade, no pretense, he's an old fashioned, hard working, good old boy who loves what he does. And what he does most is love his community. He's a throwback to a simpler time. He's the kind of guy who will always say sir or ma'am, take his hat off indoors and say gosh or darn when he would like to say something else. If he makes a deal with someone, he'll honor it, even if it doesn't turn out in his favor. He is totally dedicated to his family, the stations and Alpine. It wouldn't be so bad if we were all just a little bit like Ray."

Ray is moving to Kansas where his sons live. His wife is in an assisted living facility there. He did speak briefly and said he couldn't have better friends or better business associates than he has had for the past 30 years. Hundreds of people at the event signed a large banner and wrote notes to Ray.

Home Sweet Home

To the Editor:

This September, we will mark our 30-year anniversary living in Big Spring, Texas. September 1985, I moved my family from Snyder to Big Spring after taking a transfer with Texaco Inc. At the time, Sharon and I thought Big Spring would be nothing more than a stepping stone back to where we were raised in the Wichita Falls area.

As time and fate would have it, the stepping stones were removed with roots taking their place and now, 30 years later, we are still here.

We raised our daughters here, built our careers here, bought and sold a couple of houses and made many, many good friends and associates, and, sadly, we buried our daughter Sarah here.

We have seen a lot of changes over the years — Highland Mall became Walmart, Winn Dixie became a strip mall, the Dairy Queen in Coronado Plaza became McDonald's. We saw an old, rundown 14-story hotel that was abandoned and ready for the wrecking ball become a 5-star historical hotel, the finest in West Texas.

We remember when we were the young couple on our block on Ann Drive and now we are the old folks, even our neighborhood has changed having lived in the same house for more than 23 years.

Yes, we have seen a lot of changes and progress over the years. We actually feel now that we have become part of Big Spring's heritage.

All cities have their problems and issues, crime and drugs, it is everywhere. Big Spring is no different. The way Big Spring is different is the people who make up the city, our town, are good caring people, people who, deep down, really want to help, who want to make a difference in our town.

Sharon and I love our city and we are very proud to call Big Spring home.

Look around at the beauty of South Mountain, or walk around the State Park in the early morning or late evening hours, feed the ducks at Comanche Trail Lake. Look at the majesty of the VA Hospital or stunning rise of the Hotel Settles. We have a lot to be thankful for here in Big Spring. Look around and I am sure you will agree. Think about it, lets all work to build a better Big Spring.

Dreaming with the best of them

An old-timer who gives his age only as "90-ish" is forever reminding himself — and others in earshot — about his inhabiting the planet for quite a spell. And he's as "upbeat" as anyone I know.

Despite his lengthy stretch of life, he says he "still dreams, but they're mostly reruns."

Two other recent comments come to mind: "Show me a man with his head held high, and I'll show you one who's not used to his bifocals." And the other: "The days of 'plugging' watermelons are long since over." (Before you wonder if the guy is Uncle Mort, think again. This one lives on a spread next to my 103-year-old uncle down in the thicket.)

These comments "hit home" — the "dream thing" dead center. Currently in the final stages of writing and editing a book about Mort, I have learned dreaming doesn't require absolute slumber. Dreams can pop up during moments in my lounge chair, when I'm "puttering" around the house or yard, as well as in the pantry "hide hole." That's where I've found my wife's stash of dark chocolate.

Maybe I was dreaming, too, when an email came with an attached likeness of my old uncle. Perusing it carefully, my wife and I nodded approvingly.

"I'm glad the eye glasses were added," Brenda said. "I'm sure Mort needs them, if only for reading." I agreed, then made a "thank you" call to Debbie Fraser, an Amarillo friend designing the book cover for Mostly Mort.

"I was able to make some changes, thanks to Photoshop," she said. Shucks, the only photo shops I knew about sell post-cards in resort areas. She asked if we liked "the eyes and eye-glasses."

Eyes? We hadn't noticed the eyes. "The eyes are yours; I got them from a photo," Debbie said.

Though I don't think Brenda ever said anything about my eyes being "dreamy," I did overhear her telling friends my eye color a time or two in the past — I mean really distant past. That's the way it is when the 50th year of marriage is reached, as ours has. However, I still drive at night. And having "my eyes" may open a whole new world for Mort.

I hadn't thought about plugging watermelons in years. Time was, we'd cut plugs from melons before handing over the cash. Usually, this was from back of pick-up truck or fruit stand.

If tasting the plug didn't result in immediate salivation, we'd move on to the next melon.

Nowadays, I guess the closest we get to "sampling" produce occurs when we sneak a grape — OK, sometimes two — before plunking down several dollars for a bag. This practice may soon be outlawed. Even now, I wonder if there are cameras and sirens "at the ready" to identify grape thieves. If I'm at mid-crunch when the alarms go off, I'll get over to frozen foods in record time, donning a fake mustache en route.

Uncle Mort sees the government's growing encroachment into our daily lives as inevitable. Safety and personal freedoms are in peril.

Terrorism is a familiar topic, and theaters may be the next target. With two major tragedies there recently, one chain already has announced searches of purses, backpacks and bags upon entry.

"This could be a ploy," Mort warns. "They may rarely find guns and explosives, but what they're really looking for are candy, gum and similar items patrons are trying to smuggle in despite warning signs posted for years indicating they can't."

So much boils down to "what-are-the-odds" scenarios. If we happen to be in a theater at the rare time violence occurs in the audience instead of on screen, mayhem becomes real indeed.

Before atrocities of terrorism hung like heavy clouds throughout the world, many dangers seemed remote, unlikely to occur.

Back when tensions were merely creeping instead of running at full gallop, someone said the odds of getting on a plane with explosives on it were ten million to one. A pessimist who didn't like the odds was told he might want to take some explosives on board himself. Why? Because the odds of his being on a plane with two bombs are 100 billion to one.

News in brief

Egyptian court sentences 3 Al-Jazeera English journalists to 3 years in prison

CAIRO (AP) — An Egyptian court on Saturday sentenced three Al-Jazeera English journalists to three years in prison, the latest twist in a long-running trial criticized worldwide by press freedom advocates and human rights activists.

The case against Canadian national Mohammed Fahmy, Australian journalist Peter Greste and Egyptian producer Baher Mohammed embroiled their journalism into the wider conflict between Egypt and Qatar following the 2013 military ouster of Islamist President Mohammed Morsi.

It wasn't immediately clear how the sentence would affect the three men. Greste, earlier deported in February, spoke to Al-Jazeera from Sydney and said he believed an Egyptian appeals court would overturn the verdict. Fahmy and Mohammed, both on hand for Saturday's hearing were immediately taken away by police after the hearing.

Mostefa Souag, Al-Jazeera English acting director-general, also criticized the verdict, saying it "defies logic and common sense."

Police arrest suspect, seize bomb materials in investigation of deadly shrine blast in Bangkok

BANGKOK (AP) — Thai police arrested a foreign suspect and seized bomb-making materials Saturday in the investigation of a deadly shrine bombing, officials said.

"It is most likely he is related to the bombing at Rajaprasing, deputy police chief Chakthip Chaijinda said of the suspect. The blast at the Erawan Shrine in the commercial Rajaprasing district of the capital on Aug. 17 killed 20 people, including foreigners.

The man was arrested Saturday in Nong Jok on the outskirts of Bangkok. Chakthip said, "We found bomb materials in his apartment."

National police spokesman Prawut Thawornsiri said that the arrested person is a foreigner, but refused to say if he was Turkish, as was reported by some local news organizations.

He said a news conference was planned later Saturday.

Sheriff's deputy ambushed while pumping gas in Houston, shot multiple times from behind

HOUSTON (AP) — A sheriff's deputy in uniform was shot and killed Friday night while filling up his patrol car at a suburban Houston gas station, according to authorities.

Deputy Darren Goforth, 47, was pumping gas into his vehicle about 8:30 p.m. Friday when a man approached him from behind and fired multiple shots, Harris County Sheriff's Office spokesman Ryan Sullivan told The Associated Press. Once the deputy fell to the ground, the suspect fired more shots.

Police described the suspect as a dark-complexioned male who is believed to be between 20 and 25 years old, and stands about 5-foot-10 to 6-feet tall. He was wearing a white T-shirt and red shorts and driving a red or maroon pickup-style truck with an extended cab. Police said an intensive search for the suspect remained ongoing Saturday morning.

No motive was determined for the shooting. Harris County Sheriff Ron Hickman said Goforth, who was a 10-year veteran of the force, had a wife and two children.

"She just laid there playing possum": Survivor's husband recounts story of on-air shooting

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The chamber of commerce official who was answering questions about her community on live TV when gunfire erupted said she never saw the gunman walk up to the group.

Vicki Gardner, who is executive director of the resort area's chamber of commerce, says the camera's bright light blinded her. She was wounded as she fell to the ground after hearing the first shots, her husband said Friday.

The gunman, Vester Flanagan, ambushed WDBJ-TV cameraman Adam Ward and reporter Alison Parker during the interview Wednesday at the Smith Mountain Lake Visitor Center.

The first four shots were aimed at Parker, and two more were aimed at Ward, Gardner's husband Tim said in a telephone interview from the hospital where she is recovering. Then he fired at Gardner, though his first couple of shots missed her.

"And then when she dove down and got shot, he stopped shooting and took off," he said. "But she wasn't sure he was gone so she just laid there playing possum until first responders showed up."

With church bells, brass bands, Gulf residents remember Katrina's wrath, celebrate recovery

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — With prayer and the somber ringing of church bells and the uplifting sounds of brass bands and music, residents across Mississippi and Louisiana Saturday will pay homage to those who died in Hurricane Katrina, thank those who came to rebuild and celebrate how far the region has come from that devastating day when the hurricane struck.

Ten years ago today Katrina made landfall, in what turned into one of the deadliest storms in American history. The hurricane's force and flooding ultimately caused more than 1,800 deaths and roughly $151 billion in damage across the region. In New Orleans, wide scale failures of the levee system protecting the city left 80 percent of New Orleans under water.

In Mississippi, churches will ring their bells to remember when the storm made landfall. In Biloxi, clergy and community leaders were to gather at MGM Park for a memorial to Katrina's victims and later that evening the park will host a concert celebrating the recovery.

Katrina's force caused a massive storm surge that scoured the Mississippi coast, pushed boats far inland and wiped houses off the map, leaving only concrete front steps to nowhere.

Swaziland rights group says 38 girls and young women killed in crash traveling to festival

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — A Swaziland rights group says 38 girls and young women were killed in a crash while travelling to a famous traditional festival.

The Swaziland Solidarity Network said in a statement on Saturday that about 20 others were injured when the truck they were in collided with another vehicle on Friday.

The Times of Swaziland reported that the truck smashed into the back of a van and was then hit in the rear by another truck.

The women were on their way to the Swazi king's royal residence for the annual reed dance.

A government website says about 40,000 girls and young women participate in the eight-day ceremony each year in which they bring reeds to reinforce the windbreak around the royal residence.

Donald Trump speaks at $100-per-person event; says it's not a fundraiser

NORWOOD, Mass. (AP) — Donald Trump held a $100-per-person campaign event — which he repeatedly insisted wasn't a fundraiser — outside of Boston on Friday evening as he backpedaled on his previous pledge not to accept contributions for his campaign.

"This is not a fundraiser tonight, just so you understand," Trump told reporters at the sprawling Norwood property owned by local car dealership owner Ernie Boch Jr. A combination of die-hard fans and those curious to see the spectacle were treated to food from chef Tony Ambrose and a live cover band, in addition to a speech from the billionaire businessman and Republican candidate.

Trump said the money raised was only being used to offset the costs of the event and said people attending could choose to pay whatever they wanted.

That's despite multiple signs that were posted at the property's entrance telling those arriving, "Please have cash ready or make checks payable to: Donald J. Trump for President, Inc." and "Entry Fee $100 Per Person."

Katrina-scattered families rebuild separately, together

HOUSTON (AP) — Bunk beds dominate the narrow living room of Chevelle Washington's modest three-bedroom brick townhouse apartment. A large box in the corner is piled high with kids' shoes. The 51-year-old is raising six of her grandchildren. Her home is a refuge, a haven.

It was that way back in her native New Orleans, too — never so much as on Aug. 29, 2005, when Hurricane Katrina struck.

"I had 21 people at my house," she says of that horrible night. "They came to my house for shelter, because I had an up- and downstairs." The water rushing through the city's breached floodwalls climbed all 17 of those front stairs, stopping just below the porch. It had receded to the 11th step by the following day, when a uniformed man appeared in a motorized flatboat.

As their anonymous savior steered the craft into the lake that the Upper Ninth Ward had become, Washington burst into tears.

"My beautiful house," she cried. "It ain't never going to be the same no more."

Her youngest son, Steven, remembers how the man at the helm tried to comfort his mother. "You're moving on to something better," he said.

An estimated 1.5 million Gulf Coast residents fled Katrina, scattering like wind-tossed seeds to all 50 states. Many thousands of them, like Chevelle Washington, have taken root where they landed.

A decade after the storm, she cannot quite bring herself to call Houston "home." Still, with two sisters living just a couple of miles away, and the occasional New Orleans-style "po boy" from her resettled brother's nearby sandwich shop, it's as close to it as she can imagine.

But for son Steven, the pull of home, of New Orleans, was too strong.

A few months after Katrina, he returned to his ruined city, hoping to recapture that sense of belonging he couldn't find in Texas.

Like so many families splintered by the storm, the Washingtons are still searching.

The storm did not "drown" New Orleans. But there's no denying it is a changed city.

Although today's population of 384,000 represents about 84 percent of the pre-Katrina level, many of those residents are new.

Then-Mayor Ray Nagin famously vowed that New Orleans would once again be the "chocolate city" it had been before the storm. Convicted of corruption, Nagin now sits in a federal prison cell; his city's complexion is a bit milkier than he'd hoped.

The black population has dropped from nearly 67 percent in 2000 to 59 percent today; whites, once about one-quarter of residents, now account for nearly a third.

This is "the new New Orleans," says University of South Carolina psychologist Lynn Weber.

"The people who have not returned have been disproportionately African-American, renters, low-income, single mothers and persons with disabilities," says Lori Peek, an associate professor of sociology at Colorado State University and co-editor, with Weber, of the book, "Displaced: Life in the Katrina Diaspora."

Since the storm, rents in the Crescent City have skyrocketed — up 33 percent for a one-bedroom apartment and 41 percent for a two-bedroom.

Following Katrina, officials demolished four of the city's notorious projects, vowing to replace them with modern, mixed-income developments.

Despite much progress, there are still about 3,200 fewer low-income, public housing apartments than before the storm, and more than half of the completed units are priced too high for pre-Katrina occupants, says Bill Quigley, director of the Gillis Long Poverty Law Center at the city's Loyola University.

Most of those residents were black.

One was Linda Nellum. Revitalization had already pushed Nellum out of the murder-plagued Magnolia projects. Living in temporary Section 8 housing when Katrina hit, Nellum was evacuated to Houston.

From Texas, she applied for return and was put on a waiting list. She's still waiting.

"Every now and then, you think about going home," the 43-year-old says, a tear trickling down her cheek. She feels "trapped" in Houston.

Mtangulizi Sanyika has chosen not to see it that way. When the Dillard University professor and his wife boarded up their home in New Orleans East and climbed into their cramped car, he assumed he'd be back in three days.

"A three-day odyssey has become 10 years," he says.

The city of Houston offered the couple free housing for a year. Around the time that was set to expire, Sanyika's wife found a great job.

Now 72, Sanyika is at the age where he is increasingly dependent on the health care system, which he believes is better in Houston.

"I've not given up the thought of perhaps one day going back, but right now, that's not pragmatic," he says. "But do I feel like I'm in exile? No."

When the floodwaters had been drained, community organizer Barbara Major located buses to bring displaced black residents back to New Orleans. She says the city and state have made it difficult for many to return.

"Everything demonstrates that you're not welcome here anymore," says Major, who says her own insurance has ballooned. "The people who were here pre-Katrina have been invisibilized."

Chevelle Washington says the New Orleans she knew no longer exists.

Growing up, sisters Chevelle and Champernell Washington never saw any reason to fear the landscape around them. And later, Chevelle's home on Lesseps Street was near one of the many pumping stations built to handle any storm water that got through or over the levees.

"We never ran nowhere," she says. "Cover up the windows. Cover up the mirrors. And we just ride 'em out."

But there was something different about that mid-summer's day 10 years ago, says Champernell.

Chevelle, recovering from gallbladder surgery days earlier, couldn't sleep as the house shook and rain pelted the windows.

Finally, when the skies began to clear, she thought all was well — until she opened the door to the garage below. A refrigerator and her grandson's basinet swirled up toward her, "like trying to see who was going to get up the stairs first."

Steven, then 16, waded down the front steps and stared as shrimp and crawfish skipped past. Later, he and older brother, Jeffery, swam to a nearby store, returning with a cooler full of soda, potato chips and bread.

When the rescue boat arrived the next day, Chevelle Washington was reluctant to get in, not wanting to split up the family. Her children convinced her to go. Her sister and others would later be picked up by helicopters.

The boatman dropped them on a nearby street where, hours later, a military truck took them to the Superdome.

The Washingtons managed to find space in the hometown Saints' end zone. Steven says he was standing beside the goalpost the next day when he was nearly trampled by armed soldiers in pursuit of a fleeing man. Surely, this dangerous, leaky-roofed open latrine was not the "something better" they'd been promised.

After a few days, the refugee family escaped New Orleans. They were all soon reunited in Atlanta — but not to stay.

Champernell had once lived in Houston. She'd loved the schools there, and there always seemed to be plenty of work.

And so, she, Chevelle and other family members resettled in Texas.

In southwest Houston, far from Galveston Bay and flood-prone Buffalo Bayou, the Washington clan has created a little slice of New Orleans.

Chevelle, raising the grandchildren, lives just a couple of miles from Champernell and her two girls. About a 10-minute drive east, in a strip mall, brother Rene's restaurant, Sleepy's Po Boys, offers fellow Katrina refugees a taste of home, right down to the French loaves from Leidenheimer's Bakery in New Orleans.

On a recent blistering hot day as the kids watched TV inside, the sisters sipped ice water in the shade of Champernell's patio and took stock.

Each has been back to New Orleans numerous times. Despite obvious progress, "It's still that sense of death in the air," said Champernell, 45, night manager at a hotel. "Everything is just scattered, you know?"

THANK YOU!

The Life in Full Color Glow Run was a HUGE success, and we couldn't have done it without all of you! This was a fundraiser for the families of Dylan Lance, Blantyn Gusman and Zach Duncan.

We want to thank all who participated in the Glow Run, those who came out just to lend a helping hand, and those who helped spread the word about the event!

We couldn't have asked for better results!

Our families wish to thank these special people who helped in the planning, the preparation, and making the event one to remember!!

These people are the reason this event was possible!

Forsan spoils Fred Dietz's debut, beating Coahoma 53-26

By TAYLOR ELLIS
Sports Editor

This years' Howard County Bowl certainly had more action than last year's 6-2 thriller.

Forsan beat their Howard County rivals 53-26 in an offensive showcase at Memorial Stadium Friday night.

Senior running back Tyler Franks got Coahoma on the board with a 51 yard touchdown run on 4th and 1. Forsan quickly responded, mounting a 10-play drive capped off by a 21 yard strike from senior Jesse Cervantes to Junior Blaze Yeater.

After a sloppy first quarter ended tied 6-6, Forsan exploded for 27 points. Forsan took advantage of good field position as Cervantes hooked up with Yeater again on a quarterback bootleg. On Coahoma's next drive, quarterback Kody Barber fumbled in his own backfield, allowing senior Walker Park to scoop and score to increase the lead to 20-6.

Coahoma coughed up the ball for a third time as it entered Forsan territory. Two plays later, junior Tearell McVae busted a 73-yard touchdown run. Forsan scored 20 points in less than four minutes thanks to costly Coahoma turnovers.

"We moved the ball pretty well in the first half, just had too many turnovers," Coahoma coach Fred Dietz said.

Coahoma answered on the following drive with a six-play drive culminating in Franks plunging into the end zone.

After Forsan recovered the on side kick, Cervantes drove the ball into Coahoma territory. On the final play of the half, Cervantes bought time with his legs and found a wide open Akkey McVae for a touchdown. Forsan entered halftime leading 33-12.

Coahoma's offense looked considerably better in the second half, though they managed only two touchdowns against a stout Forsan defense that had few miscues all night. Tyler Franks took more snaps at quarterback in the second half, providing some bruising runs. Barber connected with senior wide out Jon Bermea twice in the second half.

Coahoma's defense saw a lot of time on the field due to turnovers. It showed as they missed tackles both in the backfield and at the first level. Jesse Cervantes avoided tacklers all night with his legs, recording 100 yards passing, 99 yards rushing and three passing touchdowns.

"At first the pressure wasn't that heavy, but as the game progressed they changed their defense a bit," Cervantes said. "They brought more blitzes and I had to use my legs to get out of the pocket and make plays happen."

Park had a dominant game for the Buffaloes with 172 rushing yards and one touchdown. He averaged 12.3 yards a carry thanks in part to his offensive line.

"Our offensive line played a really good game tonight," head coach Jason Phillips said. "They had some breakdowns up front, but offensively they make us go."

Forsan's offense generated 26 first downs, 11 for Forsan Coahoma.

Forsan will take on Plains at home next Friday night starting at 7:30.

Coahoma will look to get more comfortable with its new offense as it faces McComey on the road Friday.

Orioles shut down by Rangers' Hamels in 4-1 loss

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles let Cole Hamels off the hook in the third inning and spent the rest of the night regretting it.

Hamels recovered from a shaky start to performance yet for Texas, striking out 10 in eight innings and allowing two hits during the Rangers' 4-1 win over the Orioles.

Baltimore was limited to three hits — one over the last six innings — while losing for the eighth time in nine games to fall 3 1/2 games behind Texas in the race for the American League's second wildcard berth. In each loss, the Orioles have scored three runs or fewer.

"We just not stringing much together offensively," Baltimore manager Buck Showalter said. "It's tough on our pitchers because they know runs are going to be at a premium."

"(Hamels) was good, and we weren't very good. So, that was a bad combination. That's the kind of guy you get for six prospects."

Hamels gave up a second-inning single to Matt Wieters and a third-inning double to Paul Janish, the latter followed by three walks that scored Baltimore's run.

Following the bases-loaded walk to Chris Davis, Hamels retired the next 14 batters. Jonathan Schoop struck out three times against Hamels and also for the nine hits in 6 2/3 innings. He has made 11 starts this season, beginning in late June, with one win.

"To have a little skid like this obviously doesn't feel good," Gausman said. "But we're one hit away, one hit away. I think that's the biggest frustrating thing."

Star outfielder Adam Jones started for the Orioles, a day after he ran into a wall and was forced to leave. Jones went 1 for 4 with two strikeouts and three out. Prince Fielder trying to stretch a single into a double in the fourth inning.

Showalter said Jones looked "OK" both at the plate and in the field.

"I think Hamels had as much to do with that as anything," Showalter said. "He had one of our three hits. Made a throw that not many people could."

Baltimore outfielders had two assists. The Orioles entered the game with 37 outfield assists, tied with Minnesota for the major league lead.

"I tip my cap to him," Schoop said of Hamels, the three-time All-Star who was acquired from Philadelphia just before the July 31 non-waiver trade deadline. "He threw his curveball for a strike. Threw a cutter. Everything was working for him."

final out to Shawn Tolleson, who earned his 27th save.

"I tip my cap to him," Schoop said of Hamels, the three-time All-Star who was acquired from Philadelphia just before the July 31 non-waiver trade deadline. "He threw his curveball for a strike. Threw a cutter. Everything was working for him."

Kevin Gausman (2-6) allowed four runs and

ALVAREZ'S DEBUT

Orioles outfielder Daniel Alvarez made his major league debut after being called up from Triple-A Norfolk earlier in the day. The Cuban went 0 for 3. In the second inning, Alvarez ran hit by Elvis Andrus and threw home to nab Adrian Beltre to complete a double play. "He's definitely kind of a freak athlete," Gausman said.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Orioles: SS J.J. Hardy (groin) rejoined the team while on the disabled list through Sept. 8. He'll go through light workouts before swinging a bat or running.

Rangers: OF Josh Hamilton (sore left knee) took batting practice. He's eligible to come off the disabled list on Monday, the day before rosters are expanded.

UP NEXT

Orioles: RHP Ubaldo Jimenez (9-8) has lasted six innings in one of five August starts.

Rangers: LHP Martin Perez (1-3) will pitch on eight days' rest. In his seven starts since being activated in mid-July following Tommy John surgery, Perez hasn't allowed a home run in 37 1/3 innings.

Local Bowling Scores

By JULIE BASS
Staff Writer

Men's Caprock, the Monday evening men's bowling league, started the fall season back up on Aug. 24.

Since it was the first night of the league, rules were addressed and assignments picked.

League officers are as follows:

Steve Barker, president; Kyle Lacey, vice president; Claud Fryar, Secretary/treasurer; and Josh Rochelle, sergeant at arms.

"The league started off with a bang. The league has 21 teams and there is room for three more teams still," said Fryar.

"This is the biggest men's league that has been formed that I can remember."

The three top scratch games were: Steve Barker, 259; Armando Gutierrez, 259; and Jerry Barns, 246.

The three top scratch series were: Armando Gutierrez, 694; Claud Fryar, 679; and Phillip Ringener, 679.

The top three four teams after opening night are: 1. C-J's, 2. Elite Pipeline, 3. Team 21, 4. Nix.

If interested in joining the Caprock Men's league, contact Fryar at the Big Spring Bowl-A-Rama at 267-7484.

Life in Full Color Glow Run - In memory of Dylan Lance

The Life in Full Color Glow Run in memory of Dylan Lance had around 160 participants according to Angela Lance event organizer. The people showed up in their neon shirts with glow sticks, bracelets, necklaces and other glowing items to light up the night as they ran and walked the course set through the Comanche Trail Park. Afterwards, there was Zumba and dancing as YMCA instructor Elvira Conner led them in Zumba and Diamond "D" D.J. Services played the music late into evening. There were awards for the best costume and the most glowing competitors. Proceeds went to benefit the Lance family as well as the families of Zach Duncan and Blantyn Gusman, who were injured in the wreck that took the life of Dylan.

Interact Club is back at the Big Spring High School

By JULIE BASS

Staff Writer
In the past, there was an Interact club at the Big Spring High School. Over the years, the club faded away to nothing.
Now, Ms. Elissa Bancroft, a Big Spring High School English teacher, is putting time and effort into reviving the club by being its sponsor.
"The Interact is the high school level of Rotary Club," said Bancroft. "The college level is called Rotoact and then of course is the Rotary Club. These kids must be community service oriented and participate in one international service act every year."

At the Aug. 24 Friday meeting at the Settles Hotel, the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club welcomed Interact club members Zaniel Luna, vice president; and Alma Pina, historian for the 2015-2016 school year. They presented them with a gavel and bell to officially welcome the Interact club back to the Big Spring High School and to the Rotary Club family.

Fast-food's new target: The snack attack

NEW YORK (AP) — Forget the Big Mac attack. Now is the time of the snack attack.
After years of slinging super-sized servings, some fast-food chains are starting to see the benefits of offering daintier bites. That includes mini-hot dogs, little chicken sandwiches and shakes that are smaller than a small.
It's all intended to entice people who are searching for a small treat between meals, a cheap bite or a little something extra at mealtime.
This week, Arby's introduced a lineup of sliders, with the miniature versions of its regular sandwiches costing less than $2 each. Earlier this year, Sonic introduced "Lil Doggies" and "Lil Chickies," or petite hot dogs and chicken sandwiches, for around the same price.

Saturday was the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club's annual Lucky Duck Race. This fundraiser's proceeds went to the Isaiah 58 food pantry and the Rotarians local service project.
The winners this year are:
1. Tammie Davis who won a Texas Rangers memorabilia bag.
2. Carl Condray who won the Johansen's Nursery gift card.

- Mendi Strickland who won the Lane Bond's Photo of Spring.
- Mark Morgan won a one night stay at the Hotel Settles.
- Andrea Moreno won two tickets to a Texas Rangers baseball game.
- Clara Hilario won a membership to the YMCA.
- Patricia Smith won a decorative boot from Locos Flamingos.
- Molly Rupard won a gift certificate from Moonridge Landscape.

Kids and adults alike watched as 1,000 ducks slid down the slide at the Russ McEwen Aquatic Center for the Greater Big Spring Rotary Club's annual Lucky Duck Race. The ducks left the slide and floated around the lazy river as volunteers trapped them to award prizes to the number holder.

Young visitors will play-act parallel parking, driving a taxi and writing a parking ticket inside an interactive 3,000-square-foot gallery.

They can pretend to be a construction worker by moving blocks with a conveyor. Or they can serve up their own creations at "Taste of NYC Food Cart."

They can also create their own music inside a soundproof laser tunnel.

Thank You

On behalf of the Morales & Salinas family, we would like to thank everyone who reached out to us during our difficult time.

We have been and continue to be overwhelmed with calls, cards, and letters of condolences.

A special "thank you" to Bill Myers and The staff at Myers & Smith Funeral Home: you were all so kind and personal and made us feel like family while helping us arrange J.J.'s funeral services.

To Leandro Gonzales, Jr., and Luis Gonzales: it is with much appreciation our family and friends felt, with the heart warming words of wisdom spoken of J.J.; especially in sharing a few cherished memories of him with us all. It was undoubtedly genuine, touching and sentimental.

With Heartfelt Gratitude,
The Morales & Salinas Family

Student loan scams, college debt advice

For millions of college students in the U.S., student loans are a sort of necessary evil. You dream of college for years, but the cost can be an enormous financial burden. In 2014, 70 percent of college students graduated with $33,000 in debt. The average student in Texas graduates with $25,000 in debt.

According to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, over 40 million Americans owe more than $1.2 trillion in outstanding student loan debt. Consumers spend an average of 10 years paying back student loans. As a result, major life choices like purchasing a car or home may be affected.

Unfortunately, because student loan debt is so common, scammers use this as an opportunity to take advantage of consumers. In April, the Wisconsin Better Business Bureau released an alert warning consumers of a scam that promises to forgive student debt. The scam begins with a phone call, email or letter to the consumer that claims their company can alleviate all debt with an upfront fee. They also claim to have helped other student loan holders; however, student loans can only be forgiven under specific circumstances, which are not fast or easy. Instead of helping, they will take your fee and disappear.

In another version of this scam, the scammers claim that they can save you money by combining your loans. Others may move your loans to a private lender with a higher interest rate. Remember, if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

BBB serving Central, Coastal, Southwest Texas and the Permian Basin advises student loan holders to look out for red flags and follow these tips to avoid being scammed:

- Never pay upfront fees. Avoid deceptive phrases like, "We do the work for a fee." Real lenders will take a percentage once their service is complete, and will never demand a fee upfront.

- Never give a third party power of attorney. Don't sign anything giving a company the power to negotiate on your behalf. A fake company can use this to take control over your loans.

- Do your research and ask questions. Check to see how long the company or lender has been in business and ask questions. Does the lender appear to be well-established? Are they pushing you to make a fast decision? Remember, don't give out any personal information, including your Social Security number, to unfamiliar parties.

- Know your options. If you are having trouble paying back your student loans, contact your lender directly to discuss ways to make it easier to repay your debt. Options may include making lower payments or suspending loan repayments for a while. The type of student loan you have and the type of lender (government or private) will impact the kinds of options available to you.

- Don't ignore payment notices. Don't wait to deal with the issue and never ignore legal notices about past due loans. Be aware that loan delays or other changes to loan terms will probably result in higher total loan cost over a longer period of time. For more information about coping with student loan debt, visit Student Loan Borrower Assistance.

- Keep your student loan debt under control. The Institute for College Access & Success works to increase public understanding of student debt. For more advice about student loans and debt, check out their Top 10 Student Loan Tips for Recent Graduates.

For more consumer information, to file a complaint or report a student loan scam, visit bbb.org/central-texas. For additional student loan information, visit FTC.gov.

U.S. stocks edge lower after wild week of trading

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. stocks edged lower in afternoon trading Friday, at the end of a volatile week for the market.

Stocks fell heavily in the first two days of trading this week on concerns about the health of China's economy. The market then rebounded sharply over the next two days as investors decided the sell-off was overdone.

"People are taking a little bit of a pause," said Paul Springmeyer, senior portfolio manager at the Private Client Reserve at U.S. Bank. "We're finally winding down here where maybe we're seeing more rational behavior."

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 40 points, or 0.2 percent, to 16,614 as of 3:05 p.m. Eastern time Friday.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index slipped three points, or 0.2 percent, to 1,983. The Nasdaq composite rose two points, or less than 0.1 percent, to 4,815.

Despite recovering their losses from earlier in the week, stocks are still on course for their worst monthly performance in more than three years. The S&P 500 is down 5.7 percent in August, and the Dow is down 6.1 percent.

Markets have been volatile since China decided to weaken its currency earlier this month. A move that investors interpreted as an attempt to bolster a sagging economy.

Traders are also jittery about the outlook for interest rates. The Federal Reserve has signaled it could raise its key interest rate for the first time in nearly a decade.

News in brief

Weekly US oil and natural gas rig count down by 8 to 877

HOUSTON (AP) — Oilfield services company Baker Hughes Inc. says the number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. this week declined by eight to 877.

Houston-based Baker Hughes said Friday 675 rigs were seeking oil and 202 explored for natural gas.

A year ago, with oil prices nearly double the prices now, 1,914 rigs were active.

Among major oil- and gas-producing states, Texas gained three rigs.

Louisiana lost six rigs, New Mexico was down by two and Colorado, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania each decreased by one.

Alaska, Arkansas, California, Kansas, North Dakota, Ohio, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming were all unchanged.

The U.S. rig count peaked at 4,530 in 1981 and bottomed at 488 in 1999.

US oil prices climb again after Thursday's big jump

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices surged again Friday, a day after recording their biggest gain in more than six years.

U.S. crude rose 6.3 percent to finish at $45.22 per barrel after climbing 10.3 percent on Thursday. That was the biggest one-day gain for U.S. oil since March 2009.

The price of U.S. crude is still down 15 percent in 2015.

Brent crude, a benchmark for international oils imported by U.S. refineries, rose 5.2 percent to $50.05 a barrel. Brent also rose 10.3 percent Thursday.

U.S. oil had fallen to a 6 1/2 year low on Monday because of a global supply glut and worries about the health of China's economy.

The gains ease some concerns about the economic impact of falling oil prices on oil-producing regions and the economy at large.

PRECEDING YEAR'S TAX RATE	$0.300687 per $100
EFFECTIVE TAX RATE	$0.371885 per $100

The effective tax rate is the total tax rate needed to raise the same amount of property tax revenue for Howard County from the same properties in both the 2014 tax year and the 2015 tax year.

YOUR TAXES OWED UNDER ANY OF THE ABOVE RATES CAN BE CALCULATED AS FOLLOWS:

$$\text{property tax amount} = (\text{rate}) \times (\text{taxable value of your property}) / 100$$

For assistance or detailed information about tax calculations, please contact:

Contract Bridge

The bidding:

East South West North
Pass 2 NT Pass 3 NT
Opening lead five of hearts.

There's surely something paradoxical about the statement that bridge is a relaxing game, when the fact is that you can't ever afford to relax — if you want to do well.

Take this hand, for example, where West leads a heart against three notrump. Declarer plays low from dummy and wins East's ten with the king. He then cashes the ace of clubs and continues with the queen, but West plays low, and East shows out.

This is a disappointing development for South, because if West had taken the king, a minimum of 10 tricks would have been ensured.

But South sees there is still a chance to make the contract, so he leads a low heart and, after West plays low, finesses the nine. When the nine wins, he leads the jack of clubs, forcing West to take the king either now or on the next trick, and South's troubles are over.

The finesse of the nine is certainly unusual, since South started with three sure heart tricks and appears to be jeopardizing one of them. However, it is necessary because he needs an extra entry to dummy to establish the clubs and then get back to cash them later.

However, the fact is that West was asleep at the switch at the critical point in the play. Having smartly refused to take his club king at trick three, he relaxed at trick four — and, as we said at the start, you just can't afford to do that in bridge. When South led the low heart toward dummy, West should have put up the jack. Had he done that, nothing could have saved declarer.

West knows from East's play of the ten at trick one that South has the king and queen of hearts. West should therefore try to prevent declarer from gaining an extra entry to dummy by inserting the jack when South leads the six. It can cost West nothing to make this play, and might wind up gaining him a great deal.

Tomorrow: Famous Hand.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

The Sun Opposes Neptune

The opposition of the sun and Neptune brings with it an interesting tension between who we are and who we want to be. Also, our dreams will seem to call to us from across the sky, begging us to join them. Ambitions rise and practicalities will get quickly worked out. It's amazing what can come together when great intention is applied.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You'll spend some time chasing down the item you'd like to add to your collection. It's almost more fun finding it than owning it. If it can be obtained just through money, it's not that interesting to you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Your brain thrives on short learning stints. You could amass solid skills and/or great knowledge 15 minutes at a time. Whatever endeavor you concentrate on, you'll excel at.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You'll show your feelings in depth without even trying. You know, they know, and so does everyone else within a 20-foot vicinity. Don't be surprised if your interactions inspire some jealousy.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Change will be slow and all for the better. This is completely inevitable. There's no benefit in resisting. Go on and take the risk you've been afraid to take. You have a good instinct about where to take your life.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Your nearest and dearest care about you immensely, though they may be experiencing a kind of blindness that comes with familiarity. A stranger will extend kindness beyond what your closest loved ones offer.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). So much happens inside you while you sleep. You're being healed, rebuilt, changed... Today's new information will process over the course of several nights. By the end of the week, you'll be someone different.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Dramatic people attract dramatic happenings. It's something to steer clear of now. Complication is avoidable. Surround yourself with people you enjoy on many levels.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). A short attention span can be a good thing -- it will keep you from wasting your time today. You'll ask the questions that lead to brief and immediately applicable instruction.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You see friendships as a creative endeavor -- something you build together. Exercise your social muscle, especially through humor. Your levity will be infectious.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You care. You want to stay in touch with the latest and greatest developments. And yet, in some ways, you're not affected by the passage of time or the changes in fashion.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You have the uninhibited energy of a child for most of the day. Your active life will take so many turns before the sun goes down that you will need to fill your evening hours with soothing, quiet activities to help you relax.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Even those who don't believe in destiny want to know what theirs is. You'll run into such a conundrum today, and you'll play in the world of theory and conjecture to try to work it out.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 30). You like to have "no" people around you because they make you better, stronger and sharper. Every once in a while, you need a "yes" person, too, because your confidence will suffer without such an influence. Now through the end of the year offers you a stellar social mix. You'll enter 2016 on a lucrative plan. Cancer and Taurus people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 40, 17, 22, 2, and 19.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: The sun opposes Neptune to heighten our awareness of now. What could be more life enhancing than a beautiful experience of the moment? Nothing. There is only one time that can be vividly felt and impacted. That time is now. Anything before now cannot be changed. Anything after now is beyond our control. It might be argued that now is the only moment that exists.

On Tuesday, Sept. 1, there will be a meet-up of Venus and Mars that rocks the dynamic between boys and girls of all ages. Relationships, especially romantic ones, will be the main focus. It's a hot time for singles, in which the initial feeling you get from meeting a person will have within it the entire destiny of the relationship. In other words, you'll feel connected, or not, from the get-go. This is convenient and will prevent anyone from wasting time. Trust what you know even if you can't figure out how you know it. There's a deep logic in the body that may never be figured out by the mind.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Lovely Virgo Cameron Diaz began her career as a fashion model and was a cover girl by the age of 17. As an actress, she has never relied on her beauty to carry the picture -- her stellar sense of humor and tendency not to take herself too seriously combined with impressive acting skills have made her a box-office favorite. Diaz was born when Mercury was in creative, fun-loving Leo.
