Blood drive Monday

BY LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer

Scenic Mountain Medical Center is helping to replenish the area's blood supply by hosting a blood drive Monday.

The United Blood Service (UBS) bloodmobile will be at the hospital's parking lot by the front entrance on Monday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. to accept donations of the gift of life.

"Come on out and help save a life by donating blood. There are many ways to play a part in someone's life and make a difference; this is just one of the many needed ways," said Anita Cline, volunteer director at SMMC.

Most blood shortages occur during or after major holidays like the long Labor Day weekend, according to Linda Grace Sr., donor recruitment representative for UBS.

"Only blood donated by volunteer donors can be transfused to save the lives of patients at Scenic Mountain Medical Center," Grace said.

Appointments are being taken now. Walk-ins will be accepted, Grace said, but those with appointments will have priority. To make an appointment, call the UBS Customer Contact Center at 877-UBS-HERO or 877-827-4376. Tell them you want to donate at Scenic Mountain Medical Center in Big Spring. Appointments can be made online at www.bloodhero.com.

County eyes tax rate OK

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners are expected to approve the county's tax rate for the coming fiscal year when they meet at 10 a.m. Monday in the third-floor courtroom at the county courthouse.

The tax rate awaiting approval stands at 37.19 cents per $100 valuation. That rate is 7 cents over the expiring rate, but will bring in the same amount of revenue as the previous 12 months. County Auditor Jackie Olson said the reason for the rate's increase is a significant drop in mineral valuations in Howard County.

'Paint the Town Blue' to show support for law enforcement

BY LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer

A local organization is encouraging the community to show support to law enforcement on Friday and Saturday for Paint the Town Blue and Thank A Police Officer Day.

"Help us support our men and women in blue by painting our Big Spring community in blue," said Amanda Islas of the Big Spring LEO Wives Club. "You can do this by either wearing blue at home, work or school. We are asking all of you to decorate your businesses, schools and homes with strands of blue lights or changing out your porch light to blue. Blue ribbon also is an idea to put around tree posts and doors."

The LEO Wives club is also selling "We See You," window/car decals for $10, Islas said. The phrase is taken from a blog post called "Dear Police Officer, I see you," a tribute to law enforcement written by Elizabeth Shiftwell, which is

Although the county is not taking in any more tax revenue this coming fiscal year, some county property owners will likely see an increase in their tax bills next year. Because of the pending increase in the tax rate, any property owner whose valuation remained stable or increased from last year can expect to pay more in county taxes, Olson said.

Other agenda items commissioners will consider include:

• Discussion and possible action on an agreement between the county and West Texas Centers concerning a mental health deputy program.

• The proposed budget for the Howard County Appraisal District.

• A report on refunding of the 2009 jail bond.

• Permission to proceed on shoulder widening projects for selected county roads.

Walking the Red Road:

A way of life

This column is titled Walking the Red Road. I do not believe I have ever explained what it means. Actually it is a way of life. I will try to explain in this article.

Chief Black Elk, Lakota Nation, first called the way of life of the Native American Walking the Red Road. He was telling his people that even though their way of life had been drastically changed, they were still Native Americans. That they should never give up their beliefs and culture.

Walking the Red Road is not very complicated. There are some simple basics of the way of life that is lived.

The first thing is your belief and faith in the Creator. You understand that the Creator made the Earth, sky and the water for his children. That he made all of the creatures and man as well. We are all his children and should live together in harmony. Never forget these things.

When we pray we pray directly to the Creator. He will hear all of our words. We also pray for others rather than ourselves. The Creator will be understanding to our needs. If you have a good heart he will be kind to you.

If your heart is not good your life will be hard. There are times things will be difficult. The Creator will place obstacles in your path to test your faith and strength. If you pass these tests your life will become much easier.

We must always remember is that all creatures are his children. This makes us all brothers and sisters. All creatures are our relatives and should be well treated.

The Creator made the Earth, sky and water. We are all children of the Earth Mother. We come from the Earth and one day shall return. While we are here we should treat her well and care for her.

Walking The Red Road means living your life with a good heart. Be kind to all people and treat them well. In Walking the Red Road you do not lie, cheat or steal. You do more for others than for yourself. Always be willing to help a brother or sister that needs your help.

When you think or react to anything do not use your head. Instead think with your heart. Your mind will play tricks on you. Your heart will always let you know what is right.

This is the true Native American way of living your life. Not all Native Americans walk the Red Road. Many have learned to think and live as the white man does. However there all still many of us that live the life of Walking the Red Road.

You do not have to be a Native American to live this way of life. Anyone can live their life with a good heart and walk the Red Road. Join with me and walk the Red Road.

Looking for alligator eggs

The blades of the helicopter started with a soft whirr, then became a whomp whomp which dissolved into the usual helicopter clatter as the aircraft headed skyward. The pilot is Dusty Holt of Holt Helicopters in Uvalde. He is taking two of us over marshes near the Anahuac National Wildlife Preserve. The person with me is Herbert Oreschnigg who is diligently looking for alligator nests.

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

He and Dusty have been doing this for 11 years. Dusty's dad did it before he joined the company after college. Herbert hires the Holt company a week at a time to hunt for the nests in late summer. They are hard to spot. They look like a hunk of hay that has washed up near a small lagoon. "They look a lot like muskrat nests," says Herbert. As we fly low over the marshes, I hear Dusty or Herbert say, "muskrat" when they see a clump of hay.

Herbert's partner in the enterprise is Clay Dean. "We got the bright idea of doing this about 25 years ago. We started stumbling thru the marsh together and figuring out how to collect alligator eggs. We locate the nests first. Doing it from the air is best. Alligators don't like to build nests where you can find them easily, so they're located in river bottoms, canal banks, marshes all areas that are difficult to get to."

After they spot a nest, they'll mark it on a GPS graph which allows then to come back to it later. "We'll have the co-ordinates laid out on a map, which we print, to guide us, then we'll go back on the ground to get to the nests. Sometimes we'll drop a marker from the helicopter when conditions are favorable to do that. We get to the nests the bet way we can, using airboats, ATV's, whatever it takes to get to them."

Herbert says they often carry a basket of hay to the nests. "Sometimes there's not much vegetation and the alligators make nests out of mud and sticks so there's a lot of fire ants. We take the eggs from the nest and put them in the fresh hay. The average number of eggs in a nest is around 30, but I've found as few as 5 and as many as 60. They're about the size of a grade A chicken egg. The baby alligators are wrapped around the membrane inside the egg-shell and they just unwind once they're out. They're about 8 inches long when they hatch."

Once the eggs are collected they are placed in an incubator to hatch. The young gators are then dispatched to farmers who raise them for their hides and meat. Most of those farms are in Louisiana. Herbert and Clay know of only two other alligator egg collectors in Texas. It is a limited fraternity.

Alligator moms don't like the idea of their eggs being taken. They are very protective. "Sometimes we run," says Herbert. "Sometimes we have to keep her away with a pole or rope her and tie her to a tree or ATV, just anything to keep her off of us." Herbert has been bitten twice. Clay says the most dangerous part is the equipment, having problems with the helicopter or airboat. "It gets a little hairy sometimes."

When we pray we pray directly to the Creator. He will hear all of our words. We also pray for others rather than ourselves. The Creator will be understanding to our needs. If you have a good heart he will be kind to you.

If your heart is not good your life will be hard. There are times things will be difficult. The Creator will place obstacles in your path to test your faith and strength. If you pass these tests your life will become much easier.

We must always remember is that all creatures are his children. This makes us all brothers and sisters. All creatures are our relatives and should be well treated.

The Creator made the Earth, sky and water. We are all children of the Earth Mother. We come from the Earth and one day shall return. While we are here we should treat her well and care for her.

Walking The Red Road means living your life with a good heart. Be kind to all people and treat them well. In Walking the Red Road you do not lie, cheat or steal. You do more for others than for yourself. Always be willing to help a brother or sister that needs your help.

When you think or react to anything do not use your head. Instead think with your heart. Your mind will play tricks on you. Your heart will always let you know what is right.

This is the true Native American way of living your life. Not all Native Americans walk the Red Road. Many have learned to think and live as the white man does. However there all still many of us that live the life of Walking the Red Road.

You do not have to be a Native American to live this way of life. Anyone can live their life with a good heart and walk the Red Road. Join with me and walk the Red Road.

It shouldn't happen to a dog(sitter)

Mass and social media topics are awash with man's inhumanity to man. We now screech to stops without first giving pause. No longer do we "tsk/tsk/tsk" at bizarre, unprecedented violence. Instead, we are stunned, flipping and flopping, fearing what comes next.

What formerly "shouldn't happen to dogs" now is happening to people. Is nothing sacred? We are saddened when peace officers become targets, and likewise reel when Friday night peacekeepers on football fields seem intentionally leveled by "school boys."

When players put "hits" on the refs, it has more impact than man biting dog.

With this in mind, I confess to initiating a 40-minute saga where a "mutt" I'd barely met seemed out to "bite the hand that feeds her." A rescue animal like our "rescues" — Sadie and Sailor — who, by the way, snarl playfully when called "animals" — she was not initially made to feel welcome by her "new cousins."

Lady, a seven-pound Chihuahua — new best friend and selected by our eight-year-old granddaughter Addison — first visited our home en route to her new quarters. Captivity by authorities was in her rear-view mirror.

Had I known she'd make me the laughing stock of friends — two of whom I'd never met — just two days later, I wouldn't have considered a brief "dog-sitting" assignment.

If Lady had something to prove, she did it in spades. Never mind she's little more than "cup-sized" who'd have room to stretch out in a water pitcher.

I'm not saying she'd compete well with greyhounds on a dog track, but she's a world-class "skitterer," faster than lightning, greased or unlubricated. As she darted to and fro — from one unfamiliar yard to another — I was reduced to buffoonery.

My mind raced as she darted to a busy boulevard — not once, not twice, but thrice. What could I say to Addison about the misplaced trust? How could this "easy" assignment be so bungled, yes, even mangled? Such prospect loomed, indeed.

May I set the scene? You know I'm going to.

It was around 9 a.m., and I was prepping to pop a few dozen giant bags of popcorn, a treat I've provided for college students, visitors and unsuspecting folks in audiences I've been addressing for a half-century. (Halloween is big at our house, too. Last year, almost 500 trick-or-treaters came by for their annual popcorn fixes.)

Having worn suits and ties daily for almost 50 years, I prize frequent delicious hours in semi-retirement that permit casual — okay, slovenly — dress. Yes, I thumb my nose at memories of being a suited and tied "stuffed shirt."

Sometimes popping corn with my garage-ensconced, theater-size machine, I'm still in my PJs. Usually, though, I respond to my wife's whimpers to "put on a cap to hide the hair you've yet to ever sleep on properly."

This day, however, was a mish-mash. I was "boat shoe shod" instead of barefoot, still in PJ top, with a billowy swim suit for my bottom half. I was "capless." Remember, it was just me and the dogs.

Lady was to remain in her pet carrier, inside our bathroom, with the door closed.

Sadie and Sailor had the run of the house. It seemed unfair, so they were loosed in the backyard, so why shouldn't Lady enjoy such freedom for an hour or so?

Or, she could bound through a door I thought to be shut for a run of the neighborhood.

I gave chase, speaking alternately in soft tones and threatened screams, sometimes within six feet of my prey.

Joining the chase were David, a Sunday school friend out on his morning walk, and two additional pursuers I'd never met — Todd and Whitney, new friends whether they want to be or not.

Whitney was out for a run and Todd watched the repeated scene which more than once reached his front yard. Twenty minutes down with 20 to go, we finally "herded" Lady between two houses. Whitney's voice, dripping with honey, lured Lady. My day was saved.

It will be a while, though, before I think of her as a "lady."

For the "umpteenth" time, thanks Whitney, Todd and David. Because of you grand people, they can't say "there went the neighborhood." Finally, from a purely personal standpoint, this heart patient got his exercise for September.

Perry exits GOP race

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rick Perry's political career ended with a whimper, a remarkable if predictable fall for the longest-serving governor in Texas history and a leader many considered the Republican Party's savior just four years ago.

History may judge it an end sealed back in 2011, when Perry froze on a debate stage and tried to recover with an embarrassed "oops." Others may remember the former governor with the movie-star looks and resume to match as Donald Trump's first political victim.

Perry all but declared war on the billionaire businessman in July, calling Trump "a cancer on conservatism" who could destroy the Republican Party. On Friday night, Trump's campaign was soaring while Perry was pulling out of the race for the White House.

More than a dozen major Republican candidates remain in the 2016 field, yet Trump's dominance is suffocating his rivals. In still-early polls, the real-estate mogul and realty TV star has more support than the once-top-tier trio of former Florida Gov. Jeb Bush, Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker and Florida Sen. Marco Rubio combined.

In second, by the way, is another political rookie: retired surgeon Ben Carson.

"There is no play in the playbook for where we are right now," said John Jordan, a California winery owner and major Republican fundraiser. "Donors don't know what to think. Nobody saw the Trump phenomenon coming. Probably a lot of Jeb donors wish they had their money back."

Kentucky Sen. Rand Paul put it a different way on Twitter after Perry's exit: "What does it say about GOP when a 3 & half term Gov w/ a successful record of creating jobs bows out as a reality star leads in the polls?"

Perry was more gracious as he surprised a gathering of social conservatives in St. Louis by announcing his departure.

"We have a tremendous field of candidates — probably the greatest group of men and women," Perry said. "I step aside knowing our party is in good hands, as long as we listen to the grassroots, listen to that cause of conservatism. If we do that, then our party will be in good hands."

Perry also made several sly references to Trump, offering a last warning of sorts to a GOP experiencing its most serious identity crisis in a generation. Trump may favor tax increases on the rich, once supported abortion rights, given money to Hillary Rodham Clinton and said kind things about government-run health care in other countries, but he's become the GOP's unquestioned presidential front-runner.

Former Arkansas Gov. Mike Huckabee, who took the stage in St. Louis after Perry, said Trump's ability to command media attention puts other candidates at a distinct disadvantage.

"I think in many ways it doesn't change the big picture," Huckabee said of Perry's exit, "but it does show that with this many candidates on the stage, it's very, very difficult to get noticed."

Added Huckabee, "The rules right now are not really favoring the challenger candidates."

That included Perry, who had stopped paying most of his campaign staff in recent weeks because he couldn't raise the money.

While his allies at three super PACs are sitting on a small fortune devoted to his White House bid, they couldn't share that money with his campaign — or coordinate their activities with it.

Austin Barbour, a leader of the pro-Perry super PACs, said the groups have as much as $13 million in the bank. He planned to talk Saturday morning with lawyers to "see what the law says we can do with this money."

After that, and following consultation with the donors, he said, "we will see if we want the super PAC to move in another direction, or if we give it back."

Perry was quickly praised by his Republican competitors, who publicly and privately began courting his political network. In a statement, Texas Sen. Ted Cruz's campaign called Perry "a proud veteran who bravely served our nation" and "an extraordinary governor of Texas."

News in brief

AP Exclusive: EPA suspends new work at 10 mine sites across US to avoid repeat of huge spill BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Site investigations and some cleanup work at 10 polluted mining complexes in four states were suspended because of conditions similar to those that led to a massive wastewater blowout from an inactive Colorado gold mine, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency officials said.

The sites include three in California, four in Colorado, two in Montana and one in Missouri, according to details obtained by The Associated Press following repeated requests for the information.

They have the potential for contaminated water to build up inside mine workings, EPA Assistant Administrator Mathy Stanislaus said. That would set the stage for a possible spill such as last month's near Silverton, Colorado, where an EPA team triggered a 3 million gallon blowout of toxic sludge while doing excavation work on the inactive Gold King Mine.

The accident fouled rivers in three states and attracted harsh criticism of the EPA for not being prepared despite prior warnings that such a spill could happen.

"We want to take extra caution before we initiate any work," Stanislaus said of the work suspensions. Some of the mines were abandoned decades ago and have grown more unstable over time, raising the risk of an accident.

Saudi official: Strong winds caused construction crane to smash into Mecca mosque, killing 107

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The head of Saudi Arabia's civil defense directorate says high winds caused a massive crane to topple over and smash into Mecca's Grand Mosque, killing at least 107 people ahead of the start of the annual hajj pilgrimage.

Director General Suleiman bin Abdullah al-Amro told satellite broadcaster Al-Arabiya on Saturday that unusually powerful winds in the area also tore down trees and signs as a storm whipped through the area.

He denied reports that lightning brought down the red-and-white crane or that some of those killed died in a stampede.

The civil defense directorate says 238 people were injured in the accident late Friday afternoon at the mosque, which houses the cube-shaped Kaaba and is ringed by several cranes engaged in ongoing construction work to expand the site.

Police swarm convenience store, question man in string of shootings that have rattled Phoenix

PHOENIX (AP) — Police have detained a man who they believe may have ties to a string of freeway shootings that have rattled Phoenix over the past two weeks.

It's not clear whether the man detained Friday after he was arrested at a convenience store near Interstate 10 is the only person of interest. The shooting scenarios have varied, said a spokesman for the Department of Public Safety. Some shootings involved bullets fired at random cars, others involved projectiles — possibly BBs or pellets — and one was apparently road rage, spokesman Bart Graves said.

Phoenix drivers have been unnerved since the shootings began Aug. 29, mostly along Interstate 10, a major route through the city. Many drivers have avoided freeways since then. Eight of the cars were hit with bullets and three with projectiles that could have been BBs or pellets. One girl's ear was cut by glass as a bullet shattered her window.

In a press release, the Department of Public Safety identified the man detained on Friday a 19-year-old from a Phoenix suburb. The department would not provide more information linking him to the shootings other than to say he was being questioned and that he had been booked into jail on an unrelated possession of marijuana charge.

New procedure triggers spike in people losing health law coverage due to immigration issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — A change in government procedures has led to a big jump in people losing coverage under the Obama health care law because of immigration and citizenship issues.

More than 400,000 had their insurance canceled, nearly four times as many as last year.

The Obama administration says it is following the letter of the law, and this year that means a shorter time frame for resolving immigration and citizenship issues. But advocates say the administration's system for verifying eligibility is seriously flawed, and consumers who are legally entitled to benefits are paying the price.

"Same dog, different collar," said Jane Delgado, president of the National Alliance for Hispanic Health, evoking an old Spanish saying about situations that do not seem to change. "The bottom line is people got taken off health insurance when they applied in good faith."

The National Immigration Law Center says it believes the overwhelming majority of the 423,000 people whose coverage was terminated are legal U.S. residents and citizens snared in a complicated, inefficient system for checking documents.

Hollywood pilot working on Tom Cruise movies killed in air crash

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A small plane assigned to the crew of a movie starring Tom Cruise crashed in the Colombian Andes on Friday, killing two people, including a Los Angeles-based film pilot, and seriously injuring a third, the country's civilian aviation authority said.

An official with the aviation agency, who spoke on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to discuss the matter, said Cruise was not on the aircraft.

The official said an American, Alan Purwin, was killed along with the Colombian Carlos Berl. A third person aboard, Jimmy Lee Garland, a pilot from Georgia, was rushed to a hospital in Medellin, where he was in intensive care.

The official said the twin-engine plane ran into bad weather late Friday afternoon after taking off from the colonial town of Santa Fe de Antioquia for a short flight to Medellin.

No emergency was reported to air traffic controllers.

The Piper Aerostar-600, with tail number N164HH, appears to be the same aircraft that Cruise, a trained pilot, was photographed exiting the cockpit from upon his arrival in Medellin on Aug. 20 to start work on his new film.

Dogged by critics, Baltimore mayor drops re-election bid, saying she'll focus on governing BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Mayor Stephanie Rawlings-Blake is abandoning her re-election bid, dogged by critics who questioned whether she was fit to lead a city still reeling from a black man's mysterious death from injuries received while in police custody.

The mayor of this majority black city, still 15 months away from election day, said at a news conference Friday that she wanted to focus on governing, not campaigning. Rawlings-Blake said she wanted to guide the city through a difficult time and pointed to her achievements: ethics reforms to combat fraud, reducing the city's $100 million budget deficit by half, adding 12,000 jobs and demolishing more than 3,000 vacant structures.

Her five years in office have been marred in the months since Freddie Gray's death, however. In April, the day of Gray's funeral, rioters smashed windows, set fires and caused millions of dollars in damage. In the aftermath, the head of an already troubled police department was fired, with one of his deputies tapped to restore trust in the community.

Systemic issues, including racial inequality and economic disparity, became all the more stark after festering for decades. And now, after reaching a $6.4 million settlement with Gray's family, the prosecution of six officers charged in his death must continue.

"Many important decisions lie ahead, both from recovering from April's unrest and managing our city through the multiple trials we have coming up," said Rawlings-Blake, referring to the prosecution of the six officers charged in Gray's death.

Coahoma runs away with homecoming win

By Taylor Ellis
Sports Editor

Coahoma made their way at a crawling pace, but quickly exploded into a full sprint.

The Bulldogs (2-1) defeated rival Reagan County 33-14, outscoring the Owls 27-8 in the second half.

In the first half the Bulldogs struggled to establish rhythm on offense. The offensive line struggled and junior quarterback Kody Barber was inaccurate at times. Barber threw his only interception of the game less than three minutes into the game, which was returned for a touchdown.

As the first half wore on, Coahoma seemed desperate for some offense. With 4:00 minutes remaining, senior running back Kyler Franks returned a Reagan County punt to the Owls 37 yard line. Barber found Franks for a 34 yard pass over the sideline to the three yard line. Barber punched it in to tie the game.

It looked like Coahoma would score two more times before the half ended. After recovering an inside kick, Coahoma was faced with Coahoma and one on the Owls 28 yard line. Barber appeared to get the first down, but the officials disagreed.

On the following drive, Coahoma ripped the ball out and recovered the fumble on the Owls 49 yard line. Coahoma would drive the ball to the three yard line, but mass confusion by the referees, in part, kept Coahoma out of the endzone.

Coahoma carried that momentum into the second half, driving 82 yards in 5 plays in less than two minutes. Barber took a 10-yard sweep play into the endzone

Stanton edges Forsan

STANTON — The Stanton Buffalos used a hard-nosed running game to gain control, then held off the Stanton Bulldogs late to take a 21-20 victory in non-district football action here Friday night.

Stanton used a punishing 15-play, 80-yard drive — almost all of it via the running game — capped off by a Tristan Graves touchdown pass with 8:14 remaining to take a 21-14 lead with 8:14 remaining in the contest.

Forsan responded, however, with a touchdown drive of its own and, with 2:54 left in the game, quarterback Jesse Cervantes scored from 47 yards out to cut the deficit to a single point. Forsan elected to go for the two-point conversion attempt, but Cervantes was stopped on a keeper play.

Forsan's defense forced a punt on the ensuing Stanton drive, but fumbled the kick, which was recovered by Fryar, allowing Stanton to escape with the win.

Cervantes led Forsan with 200 rushing yards, while Stanton's Estavan Chavez and Adrian Roriguez rushed for 66 and 64 yards, respectively.

Forsan (2-1) returns to action Friday at Reagan County, while Stanton (2-1) travels to Abernathy. Both games begin at 7:30 p.m.

yards in the second half thanks to unrelenting determination to stay up and the big five in front of him.

"Our offensive line played much better in the second half," head coach Fred Dietz said. "We made some adjustments, but it was more so their attitude and the way we went about our business. They bowed up and got off the ball quickly."

Franks also found the endzone three times in the second half, lining up at quarterback, running back and even wide receiver.

"I'll line up wherever coach tells me to. I just wanna help our team and make plays," Franks said.

With the offensive line playing with more attitude, this offense looked like a well oiled machine. Barber and Franks always threaten to run the ball and run it well, but the passing game was also utilized throughout the second half. The offense continues to take another step each week, increasing their point total every week.

"It's a hard offense to get good at, but we're doing a good job picking it up," Franks said.

Along with being the team's top two rushers, Barber and Franks are also crucial elements of the Bulldogs defense, which only allowed the Owls into the endzone once Friday night. Both had an interception, and in total the defense had five turnovers, six if you include the on-side kick recovery.

"They are great football players. We feel like we are a whole different defense when they play and they're both difference makers," Dietz said.

Early on in the season, it seems that the team will go as far as Franks and Barber can take them, which at this rate of improvement may be a playoff berth.

"We knew coming from the beginning of the season we (Barber and Franks) would have to lead this team," Franks said. "We just try to give 110 percent all the time."

no lead is safe in six-man football, the Sands Mustangs raced to a 77-52 fourth-quarter lead, then had to hang on for dear life as New Home mounted a furious late rally which fell just short.

The two teams took different routes to their respective offensive bonanzas — the Mustangs did most of their damage through the air, completing 24 passes for 387 yards and five touchdowns, while New Home collected 304 yards on 37 rushing attempts.

The Mustangs didn't ignore the ground game, however. Dayton Eddleman passed the century mark rushing with 114 yards on 14 carries, but he was sterling in the air, completing 32 of 20 passes for five TDs and no interceptions.

Two Mustangs collected more than 100 yards receiving — Dylan Tyndol gained 140 yard and scored three times, while Juan Diaz caught nine passes for 119 yards and a touchdown.

New Home held a slight 569 to 503 edge in total yardage.

The Mustangs return to action Friday at Blackwell. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

A Weekend of Healing and Bonding

Story and Pictures
by: Lyndel Moody

It was a weekend meant for to give four U.S. Veterans who suffered combat injuries time away from their daily lives, time to share some fellowship with fellow warriors, time to heal those unseen wounds and a moment for a community to honor and lift up four men as heroes.

A community dinner held at Moss Creek Ranch Saturday, Sept. 5 capped off a weekend dove hunting trip for Donovan Wainright, Darrell Butt, Adam McCarty, and Matt Davis. The four men left the dinner that night with the arm-full of gifts from the community and sore arms from shaking hands with the nearly 200 people who wanted to stay thank you.

"I would like to say thank you to the community," U.S. Navy veteran Butt said to the crowd. "I've been living in this community since 2007. I've worked here the whole time. It's a wonderful community. Lots of support for our veterans and active duty. Thank very much for this tonight."

Coming is the second Dove Hunt sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans Chapter 47. Mike Tarpley organized the weekend after participating in a similar hunting event for Purple Heart veterans. As a Vietnam Veteran who continues to live with disabling physical and mental wounds from his time in combat, Tarpley said he knew personally the healing power such an event can have on one who has seen war.

After his last Purple Heart hunt, Tarpley said he came back to Howard County with conviction that this community could create something special for veterans. And he went about doing just that.

This year, the men honored include a U.S. Navy Corpsman who received four Bronze Stars during his time in the service, two men who were seriously injured in combat and a Big Spring High School graduate who served tours in both the Iraq and Afghanistan conflicts and is also a Bronze Star recipient. The Bronze Star Medal is awarded to members of United States Armed forces for heroic achievement, heroic service, meritorious achievement or meritorious service in a combat zone.

The weekend started Thursday night as each veteran came into Howard County to spend a few days at the ranch. This first night was a time to meet each other and a time of bonding. Most of Friday and Saturday were spent in hunting. Various churches and civic groups provided breakfast and lunch for the men during their stay.

On Saturday, Lisa Brooks, representative of U.S. Congressman Randy Neugebauer, presented each veteran with an American flag flown over the U.S. Capitol on Sept. 11, 2014.

"There is a precious baby out in the audience whose name in Noah I overheard," an emotional Brooks said. "When I saw him I couldn't help but think of that poor unfortunate baby on that beach this week of the refugees leaving Syria. (Brooks referred to two-year-old Aylan Kurdi, whose body washed ashore in Turkey. He, his brother and his mother died in a journey across the Mediterranean Sea to escape the violence in Syria. A photo of Aylan's body lying in the shore made world news.) I am so honored to be in the presence of men who stepped up, saw something horrible that happened in our world and came forward without regard for their own safety and put on the uniform. I am humbled and honored to be in your presence."

Brooks was just one of a number of speakers to present gifts to the four men.

"My brother was a Devil Dog Vietnam veteran," said Tommy Sullivan, Howard County Volunteer Fire Chief. "My heart is with you and what you do. He came back from Vietnam with PTSD (Post Traumatic Stress Disorder) and as his nine-year-old brother, I was his counselor. I understand what you are going through and we've got your back brothers."

Tarpley read the dedication card from the foundation.

At the end of the evening, all four veterans received their own shotgun provided by the estate of E.D. "Wimp" Holcomb as a token of the weekend.

"Wimp came to me when I was thinking of having a dove hunt and he said 'No Mike we are having a dove hunt,'" Tarpley told the crowd. "Wimp donated shotguns and donated money to the DAV to make this happen. We lost him two weeks before we had the first dove hunt last year, so we didn't know what was going to happen after that. His wife Evelyn stepped up and she said 'As long as there is a dove hunt, the Holcomb family will be giving the shotguns.' It doesn't get any better than that. Good ol' West Texas"

At the end of the dinner, the public was encouraged to touch the quilts and shake hands with all four veterans, a gesture to let them know that their service is not forgotten.

"The general public, they are used to seeing physical injuries. But when it comes to injuries above and beyond that, for instances traumatic brain injury and PTSD and others, the general public isn't usually aware of that," said Ed Meiser, DAV Chapter 47 commander. "This weekend was a special weekend. It gives the veterans time to get out and share camaraderie and share experiences of the past and just go out and enjoy the weekend. It is more therapy than going through a PTSD program."

Marriage fraud scheme aimed to help Chinese get US residency

LOS ANGELES (AP) – An American man was told he could make $18,000 for marrying a Chinese woman who needed a green card, so he agreed to get hitched at a California wedding studio and then took an all-expenses-paid trip to Las Vegas where he posed in photos with his new wife.

But the man was gay and vacationing with his boyfriend, while the woman already had a husband. Until he revealed his sexual orientation to an immigration officer during a green card interview, both couples had been caught up in an elaborate marriage fraud scheme that has netted organizers $3.5 million since 2006, authorities say.

Federal authorities on Wednesday arrested Jason Shiao, a 65-year-old Southern California man they say posed as an attorney, and his 43-year-old daughter, Lynn Leung, on charges of conspiring to commit visa fraud by arranging phony marriages between Chinese citizens seeking legal residency and American spouses.

Authorities also charged Shannon Mendoza, 48, with recruiting Americans for the scheme. Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents were still searching for Mendoza on Wednesday afternoon. Shiao and Leung's Pasadena-based business filed more than 70 fraudulent immigration petitions since October 2006, authorities said.

Air Evac Life Team earns base of the year honors

The Big Spring, Texas, Air Evac Lifeteam base was recently honored as the Region 5 Base of the Year. Region 5 consists of 21 bases in Texas. The Regional Base of the Year award is presented to the base in the Air Evac Lifeteam system that best exemplifies the company's mission, including community service, education, and scene work.

Pete Wolf, regional director of base operations for Region 5, said the Big Spring base sits in a sparsely populated area.

"The first three to four years were a struggle for the base," he said. "Just getting their foot in the door was a huge accomplishment, but the team came together, recommitting themselves to making the base successful."

Growth in outreach education, a never-say-die attitude and tremendous family culture is now paying off, and Big Spring is exceeding expectations.

"I am proud to award the Region 5 Base of the Year to Big Spring!" Wolf said.

Debra Wallace, program director for the Big Spring Air Evac base, said it is an honor to accept the Region 5 Base of the Year award on behalf of the entire crew.

"This honor would not be possible without the ongoing support we receive from the agencies we work with each and every day," she said. "The communities we serve have embraced Air Evac 54 and our mission."

Find, report a scam on BBB Scam Tracker

In February, Better Business Bureau serving Central, Coastal, Southwest Texas and the Permian Basin unveiled Scam Tracker, an interactive tool consumers throughout the U.S. and Canada can use to find and report scams and fraud.

BBB's Scam Tracker website enables BBB to collect and track that information in a meaningful way.

With BBB Scam Tracker, consumers can find scams in an area near them, by state and city. Scam reports can also be sorted to reveal trends by date or the type of scam. So far this year, over 300 scams have been reported in Texas.

BBB launched Scam Tracker as another way to promote a more ethical marketplace and help shed light on schemes and fraud. Although BBB has extensive data on substandard marketplace behavior among legitimate companies, Scam Tracker is unique because it compiles comprehensive data on illegal schemes or individual scams. Scam Tracker is supported by a grant from Target Corporation.

BBB works as a third-party intermediary to resolve almost one million marketplace disputes involving known businesses each year.

Rather than a disagreement involving a product or service, scam reports allege attempted or actual dishonest schemes or fraud. Also unlike complaints, scam reports are not addressed individually, but serve as a means to warn others and get the word out to the public about scams.

In the future, scam reports will be shared with the National Cyber Forensics and Training Alliance for analysis and collaboration with law enforcement to help stop the most flagrant scammers through prosecution and other legal means.

The release of Scam Tracker to every BBB across the U.S., including Canada, is expected to be complete by November 2015. If BBB Scam Tracker is not yet available on your local BBB's website, you can still research and report scams in your area here.

For more consumer information, BBB Business Reviews, to schedule a guest speaker or to file a complaint, visit Better Business Bureau online at bbb.org/central-texas.

Producer prices unchanged in August as gas prices fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prices charged by U.S. manufacturers, farmers and other producers were unchanged in August, the latest evidence that inflation is tame.

The Labor Department said Friday the producer price index, which measures price changes before they reach the consumer, was flat after a 0.2 percent increase in July. Excluding the volatile food and energy categories, core prices rose 0.3 percent last month.

In the past year, wholesale prices have actually fallen 0.8 percent, the seventh straight 12-month decline. Core prices have risen just 0.9 percent during that time.

With oil and gas prices falling and most other costs little changed,

American consumers are enjoying mild inflation. The dollar has risen about 15 percent in value in the past year, which makes imports cheaper.

Yet tepid price increases pose a dilemma for the Federal Reserve. It wants to see inflation closer to its 2 percent target before raising interest rates, potentially as soon as its meeting next week.

The Fed targets 2 percent inflation as a cushion against falling prices, or deflation, which can drag down wages and is hard to counteract.

Wholesale gas prices fell 7.7 percent in August, the government said, the biggest drop since January. Home heating oil prices fell 11 percent. The cost of airline tickets and pickup trucks also fell.

A gallon of gas cost an average $2.37 on Thursday, 22 cents cheaper than a month earlier and down by $1.06 in the past year.

But there are also some signs of rising costs. In the past three months core prices have increased at a 3.4 percent annual rate, compared with a 1.8 percent decline in the preceding three months. Much of that increase has been driven by rising profit margins at retailers and wholesalers.

Greg Daco, an economist at Oxford Economics, said wholesale prices should move up later this year as oil prices stabilize and the economy continues to grow.

Food costs rose 0.3 percent, driven higher by a 23.2 percent jump in egg prices.

Stock market wavers between gains, losses

NEW YORK (AP) — Major stock indexes flipped between slight losses and gains on Friday as traders turned their attention to a long-awaited meeting of the Federal Reserve next week. Oil and gas companies dropped as the price of oil took another fall.

U.S. crude sank after Goldman Sachs said that the global glut of oil could push prices as low as $20 a barrel. Drilling companies had some of the biggest losses, with rig operator Transocean sliding 5 percent.

KEEPING SCORE: The Standard & Poor's 500 was down two points, less than 0.1 percent, to 1,949 as of 1:25 p.m. Eastern time.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 12 points, or 0.1 percent, to 16,343, and the Nasdaq edged down four points, a sliver of a percent, to 4,792.

Traders observed a moment of silence on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange before the opening bell to observe the 14th anniversary of the Sept. 11 attacks.

REACTION: The early drop on Friday looked like the natural response to the day's news, said Phil Orlando, chief equity strategist at Federated Investors, the money-management firm. A reading on consumer confidence this month sank to its lowest level since September of last year.

"Reading through the report, it seems people are focused on the market's volatility and the potential impact of a slowing China," Orlando said. "I understand why folks are nervous. I think eventually things will settle down."

NEXT UP: Wall Street is divided over whether the Fed will raise its benchmark lending rate next week for the first time in nine years. The Fed slashed its key rate to near zero during the financial crisis, supporting the stock market's seven-year run. Uncertainty over the Fed's next steps have kept investors on edge.

CRUDE: Benchmark U.S. crude fell 79 cents to $45.13 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange. Brent crude, an international benchmark, fell 38 cents to $48.51 a barrel in London. That drove oil and gas companies to losses. Energy shares in the S&P 500 sank 1.4 percent.

ZIG-ZAG-ZIG: Major indexes are on track to finish the week solidly higher following deep losses last week. News about China's slowing economy and other concerns have knocked the market down 6 percent over the past month. It has been a staggered fall, with sharp drops one week followed by slight gains the next.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

New Moon, New Future, New Past

HOLIDAY MATHIS Usually, the new moon in Virgo is all about nurturing hope and looking to the future, but this partial solar eclipse puts a twist on it, suggesting a journey into the past first. After all, prediction is based on the past. Without reconstructing your perceptions of the past, how can you find the pattern that will help you know about the future?

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're equal parts practical and frivolous today. A Chinese proverb suggests that when you only have two pennies left in the world, you should use one to buy bread and the other for a lily.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Everyone wants a happy ending, but stories don't wrap up neatly, if they wrap up at all. Today you'll have to shut the book where you shut it and make up your own ever after.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). If you're going to fail (and everyone is at some point), then fail forward by trying something new, doing something daring, singing your own song.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). A forthright response is what's needed. Your assertiveness will make the difference. Where do your needs meet their needs? It may help you to picture the Venn diagram of it all.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Your complaints will be heard and respected. Yes, things need to change. It is recommended that you create a real haven or an emotional one -- something to shield you from the harsh realities of the world.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Your journey will bring you into the sunlight. You will be wiser today than you were yesterday. Talking to one person will change everything. Which person? You already know. Trust your instincts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Maternal relationships are always touched with complexity -- that's the beauty. The maternal influence will be pronounced today, and hopefully you'll be able to embrace it, even when it's not that easy to understand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). It might seem improbable, but you can believe it. There are more than 7 billion people in the world, and yet there are still things that you and only you can do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Every once in a while, in the middle of an ordinary life, a fairytale drops in to take over the plot. What would your fairytale sound like? It's a day to get in touch with what you want.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You'll teach the hard lessons, do the right thing, be the one they look up to. Because you see the wonder in the world, they will bring more imagination to it, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). If it were easy, everyone would do it. Everyone is not doing it. It is not easy. That doesn't mean it's not worthwhile, though -- it is extremely worthwhile. In fact, you'll start getting rewarded this very evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Chronic tension -- who needs it? You'll handle the day-to-day things that are taking a toll on your mind and body with the help of an encouraging earth sign (Taurus, Virgo or Capricorn).

TODAY'S BIRTH-

DAY (Sept. 13). This is your new moon birthday! And with the partial solar eclipse also happening on the day you were born, the theme is reinvention -- not that you need it. It's just that lately your potential has been calling to you, wanting your embrace. Finances get the first makeover before 2016 starts. Your love life is next. Leo and Capricorn people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 24, 30, 38, 12 and 49.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD:

The realm of Virgo favors practical thought, communication and action. So at the start of the week, when the moon is invisible to us -- and for a moment the sun partially, too -- all the practicalities we took for granted come into question. Are the practical matters as important as we were making them? Does the meaning really matter, and does the matter really even exist? Our identity gets a similar shakeup with a different set of questions along the lines of: If I'm not my body (or my clothes or my belongings or my family or my personality or...), then who am I? Don't expect to come up with answers. Do expect that you'll be different on the other side of the questioning.

These themes carry through with a Jupiter-Neptune opposition and a Mercury retrograde. You can't look forward without looking back. You can't look back without wishing, longing, cringing, resolving to do it differently and returning to the bliss of going forward. All this interplay of time travel, dreams, resolution and impractical practicalities isn't designed to confuse or confound. It's all part of the growing-up process (applicable to any age), and regardless of age, it hurts.

CELEBRITY PROFILES:

One Direction's Niall Horan has a broad range of musical tastes, and he's a fan of Frank Sinatra, Michael Buble, Oasis and Bon Jovi. For a Virgo, it's more about style and quality than genre. Horan was born when the moon and Venus were in Leo, indicating that his emotional landscape sparkles and his love life thrives as long as he's seizing the chance to be creative and entertain others.

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass 2 NT Pass 3 NT

Opening lead — five of hearts.
Assume you're declarer at three notrump and West leads a heart. You win East's jack with the queen, and the question is how to continue.

There is a strong temptation to try a club finesse at this point, hoping to find West with the king. If he has it, you're sure to wind up with at least 10 tricks.

But since the contract is certain to make whenever West has the king of clubs, you should start thinking in terms of what you can do if East has the king.

In that case, if you lost an early club finesse, you could duck East's heart return, but a third heart would then drive out your ace. Since you would have only eight sure tricks at that point, you would eventually have to try a diamond finesse. If it lost and West started with five hearts — as in the actual deal — you'd go down one.

For this reason, the correct play — strange as it may seem — is to lead the diamond jack at trick two! This ensures the contract against any distribution of the adverse cards (assuming West started with at least four hearts).

If the jack holds, you next try the club finesse, guaranteeing nine tricks even if the finesse fails. If the diamond jack loses, you duck the heart return before taking the ace and then attempt the club finesse.

If the finesse wins, you have at least 10 tricks. If it loses and East has no more hearts, you're also home. And if East has a heart, which means the suit was originally divided 4-4, nine tricks are again assured.

The recommended approach to the play defuses the lone danger to the contract — the possibility that West has a long heart suit and a side entry. Since that entry can only be the king of diamonds, you must deprive him of that card before it can be used to defeat you.

McALISTER'S DELI

Study backs more aggressive treatment of high blood pressure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aiming lower saves more lives when it comes to controlling high blood pressure, says a major new study that could spur doctors to more aggressively treat patients over 50.

Patients who got their blood pressure well below today's usually recommended level significantly cut their risk of heart disease and death, the National Institutes of Health announced Friday. The benefit was strong enough that NIH stopped the study about a year early.

"This study provides potentially life-saving information," declared Dr. Gary Gibbons, director of NIH's National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute.

Doctors have long debated how low blood-pressure patients need to go, especially as they get older. Friday's results are preliminary, and researchers stressed that they shouldn't alter patient care just yet. But if the full results pan out, they eventually could influence treatment guidelines.

"This study certainly supports that lower is better," said Dr. Mark Creager, president of the American Heart Association, who wasn't involved with the new study. He called the research a possible roadmap to treatment strategies "that will save a significant amount of lives."

About 1 in 3 adults in the U.S. has high blood pressure, raising the risk of heart attacks, stroke, kidney failure and other health problems.

Normal blood pressure is less than a measurement of 120 over 80. High blood pressure is diagnosed once that measurement reaches, or passes, 140 over 90. Only about half of diagnosed patients have their blood pressure under control.

Today's treatment guidelines are mixed but generally recommend getting that top number — called the systolic pressure — down to about 140 in generally healthy adults and to 130 in patients who also have kidney disease or diabetes.

The institute sponsored a nationwide study to test if that's the best goal, or if aiming lower would either help or harm. Starting in 2010, more than 9,300 high blood pressure patients were enrolled in the SPRINT study, the Systolic Blood Pressure Intervention Trial. Half received an average of about two medications with the goal of lowering their systolic pressure below 140. The other half received an average of three medications with the goal of getting below 120.

The more aggressively treated patients saw their risk of death drop by almost 25 percent compared to the less controlled patients, researchers said. And rates of cardiovascular problems dropped by almost 30 percent in the better-controlled group.

Researchers wouldn't give precise numbers, or information about side effects, data that's expected when the full study is published in a scientific journal by year's end.

But preliminary results suggest treatment was "extremely well tolerated," said SPRINT investigator Dr. Jackson Wright of Case Western Reserve University.

One question is whether older patients need to get their blood pressure as low as middle-aged patients do, or if doing so increases the seniors' risk of side effects including falls. Last year, an expert panel sparked debate by recommending that the treatment target for patients over 60 be a systolic pressure of 150.

The average age of SPRINT participants was 68, and a quarter of them were over 75. The heart association's Creager said doctors will examine closely how those older patients fared.

Researchers also will continue tracking SPRINT participants to see if kidney disease, brain function and dementia were affected by more aggressive care.

Meanwhile, what's the advice for patients now struggling to control their blood pressure?

"The important public health message is to speak with their health care providers," said NHLBI heart specialist Dr. George Mensah.
