Castle Campbell

Castle Berry Campbell, 86, died peacefully at Calvary Hospital, Bronx, N.Y., Friday, Aug. 7, 2015. Close friend. Beloved uncle. We miss him. Blessed with an easy smile and outgoing personality, Castle never met a stranger, nor forgot those who became friends.

He was born in Big Spring, Texas, the son of James Campbell and the former Lula Mae Castle. A graduate of Big Spring High School, he attended Abilene Christian College (now ACU) in Abilene, Texas, then moved to Dallas where he worked as a film booker for RKO Pictures.

By the late 1950s, Castle was working in New York City as an airline ticketing agent. That began a long and varied travel career which culminated at Loew's Hotels, where he worked in travel agency

During the Loew's years, he traveled almost constantly — domestically and abroad. Budapest, Cairo, Lisbon, Bangkok, Hamburg and Taipei were some of the cities he visited and explored. Castle never tired of traveling and used his vacations to do even more. France was always a favorite and the source of many anecdotes, including the time he fell asleep on a sunny afternoon in a cow pasture surrounded by the magnificent Cirque de Gavarnie in the French Pyrenees. Another special travel moment was a motor launch cruise in New Zealand's spectacular Milford Sound. In recognition of his travel experience and industry credentials, Castle was elected a member of SKAL, the international travel fraternity.

Castle liked the theater, movies, mystery novels, Masterpiece Theater series and was a fanatical fan of "Keeping Up Appearances." Then there was ballroom dancing. Just ask SKAL or ASTA members who was the last guy to leave the dance floor at their dinner dances?

After retiring from Loew's, Castle served as a volunteer docent at Carnegie Hall for 20+ years and continued to travel.

Castle was preceded in death by a brother, Woodrow Campbell; a sister, Dorothea Evans; nephews, Warren Evans and Jim Pat Campbell; and a much beloved first cousin, Janice Dunagan.

He is survived by Malcolm Crawford, his longtime friend who patiently cared for him during the final months; a niece, Judy Schoen of Terrell, Texas; two nephews, Roger Evans of Oslo, Norway and Joe Keith Campbell of Tulsa, Okla; plus several cousins and a host of great-nieces and nephews.

Castle adopted New York as his home, but never forgot his Texas roots. He loved his family and friends, never forgot them and kept up with what they were doing until his demise.

Interment services will be held at Mount Olive Memorial Park in Big Spring, Texas at 11 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 26, 2015. A reception and lunch will follow at the Hotel Settles.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Pulmonary Fibrosis Foundation, Carnegie Hall, or the New York Public Library.

Arrangements under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home & Crematory of Big Spring. Please share your remembrances of Castle online at www.npwelch.com

Saudi Arabia's civil defense directorate says at least 220 people dead in hajj stampede

MECCA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — At least 220 people were killed and hundreds injured in a stampede Thursday at the annual hajj pilgrimage, Saudi au-The crush happened in Mina, a large valley about five kilometers (three miles) from the holy city of Mecca. Mina houses more than 160,000 tents where pilgrims spend the night during the pilgrimage.

The Saudi civil defense directorate said at least 450 other pilgrims were injured in the stampede. Photos released by the directorate on its official Twitter account showed rescue workers in orange and yellow vests helping the wounded onto stretchers and loading them onto ambulances near some of the white tents.

Some 2 million people are taking part in this year's hajj pilgrimage, which began Tuesday.

Pope prepares for historic address at US Capitol, and dysfunctional Congress pauses to listen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fresh from enrapturing crowds all over Washington, Pope Francis is bringing his resonant message of humility and hope to Capitol Hill as he becomes the first pontiff in history to speak to a joint meeting of Congress.

Lawmakers of all political backgrounds and reli gious affiliations have thrilled to the pope's arrival, pledging to pause from the bickering and dysfunction that normally divide them and hear him out Thursday morning. Tens of thousands of spectators will be watching from the West Lawn of the Capitol and many more on TV from around the world as the pope addresses a House chamber packed with Supreme Court justices, Cabinet officials, diplomats, lawmakers and their guests.

After the sergeant at arms announces him by bellowing "Mr. Speaker, the pope of the Holy See," Francis will enter the chamber and climb to the dais where the president delivers the annual State of the Union address and monarchs and heads of state have addressed Congress. Behind him will sit Vice President Joe Biden and House Speaker John Boehner of Ohio, the first and second in line to the presidency, both Catholics.

Ahead of Francis' remarks lawmakers of both parties have busily sought political advantage from his stances, with Democrats in particular delighting in his support for action to overhaul immigration laws and combat global warming and income inequality. One House Republican back-bencher announced plans to boycott the speech over Francis' activist position on climate change, which the pontiff renewed alongside President Barack Obama But Boehner, a Republican and a former altar boy who invited the pope to speak after trying unsuccessfully to lure the two previous pontiffs to the Capitol, has dismissed concerns that the politically engaged Francis will stir the controversies of the day.

Democrats to filibuster stopgap funding measure over GOP effort to defund Planned Parenthood WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is preparing to vote on legislation that would keep the government open beyond next Wednesday's deadline at a price Democrats are certain to reject — stripping taxpayer money from Planned Parenthood.

The stopgap spending bill is widely expected to fail Thursday. The next steps aren't set in stone, although Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., has promised there won't be a government shutdown. That suggests he would soon press ahead with a stopgap measure that's free of the Planned Parenthood dispute. Some of Capitol Hill's most ardent conservatives are unafraid of extending the battle over Planned Parenthood, even if it would result in a partial government shutdown. GOP leaders, on the other hand, are motivated chiefly by a desire to avoid another shutdown like the 2013 episode that hurt the party politically, and McConnell appears to enjoy support from a majority of the Republican rank and file.

"I'd rather it defund Planned Parenthood, but if the votes aren't there I don't see the point of having a standoff," said Sen. Roger Wicker, R-Miss., chairman of the Senate GOP's campaign committee.

Sen. Ted Cruz, R-Texas, who is using his rivalry with GOP leaders in Washington to help define his presidential campaign, responded in an editorial essay in Politico that simply the threat of a shutdown is sending "Republican leadership running for the hills."

Dealers, owners feel frustrated and betrayed by Volkswagen emissions scandal, seek answers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Rand bought his Volkswagen Passat last year for its clean emissions and high gas mileage. He liked the car so much he convinced his son and a friend to buy one, too.

Now, as Volkswagen comes clean about rigging diesel emissions to pass U.S. tests, Rand is desperately trying to sell the fully loaded model with white leather seats for $10,000 below what he paid. His sole bite has been from a man who offered $7,500 on speculation that he could resell it in Mexico.

"Volkswagen was somebody that you could rely on for cutting-edge products and quality and all those things and now you find out that they're not above lying just flat out," said Rand, who plans to join a class-action lawsuit against VW. "That's probably about as bad a thing as a company can do is lie to your face when you're buying a $35,000 car."

Rand's anger at the world's top-selling car company was echoed Wednesday by private dealers, auto wholesalers and owners across the U.S. as fallout from the smog test trickery mounted.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency first disclosed Friday that stealth software makes VW's 2009-2015 model cars powered by 2.0-liter diesel engines run cleaner during emissions tests than in actual driving. On Wednesday, Volkswagen CEO Martin Winterkorn resigned.

Andrus, Beltre power Rangers past Athletics

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) Elvis Andrus continues to tinker with his swing and its been paying dividends since the all-star break.

Andrus and Adrian Beltre each hit three-run homers in support of Colby Lewis' six strong and the Texas Rangers beat the Oakland Athletics 10-3 Wednesday night to take a threegame lead in the AL West Division.

Rougned Odor also homered, Mitch Moreland, Shin-Soo Choo, Will Venable drove in runs and Prince Fielder ended an 0-for-20 streak as the Rangers magic number fell to eight.

Andrus was hitting .236 a few days before the break and that's when he began working with his swing.

"I'm not really trying to hit the ball hard," Andrus said. "I'm not trying to hit for more power, but I feel like I'm driving the ball and trusting my hands to be on time. I'm still developing my swing."

home run. He has 41 extra-base hits, two shy of his career best three years ago. Andrus also has 59 RBIs on the year, eight away from his best.

Since his low just before the break, Andrus, who hit the first 3-run homer of his career, is hitting .288 and anchors a thriving lower half of the batting order.

"When he's patient, he has a lot of confidence," Rangers manager Jeff Banister said. "There are times he is too aggressive early in the count. The big thing is he's seeing the ball well right now and swinging the bat

Josh Reddick and Eric Sogard homered and Carson Blair drove in a run for the A's, who lost their fourth straight. Reddick committed two errors in the same game for the first time in his career. Sogard ended a > ror night let alone a two-error night," A's manager Bob Melvin said. "There are times in your career that's going to happen but he went up his next atbat and tried to get a good solid at-bat and hit the ball out of the ballpark."

> Lewis (17-8) became the Rangers' first 17-game winner since Scott Feldman won 17 in 2009. He's already set a career high for wins. Lewis walked Brett Lawrie leading off the third, ending a streak of 66 consecutive plate appearances without issuing a free pass. He gave up two runs on five hits, walking two and striking out

> "I can't say enough about what this team has done for me," Lewis said. "Elvis comes up with a huge 3-run homer and I was able to get comfortable. It seems the longer the season goes, the more fun it gets."

subconscious mind is working, creating, but our awareness of its workings ebbs and swells according to our readiness and need. A mental swirl and change in awareness accompany the end of this Pluto retrograde. Some will erect stronger barriers to subconscious thought; others will open the gates.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're not in the mood for a lecture about listening to your heart, making empowered choices, yada, yada, and so let's get to the point. Just say no. Why vacillate and waste everyone's time, especially yours? A fast no is best.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). If you compete with a partner, you'll either lose for winning, or lose for losing. Take your competitive spirit elsewhere, however, and you'll enjoy a good game.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Saying the right thing at the right time is child's play for you. Here's the real challenge: Can you say nothing in the moment that tempts you to state the juicy truth of the matter? You can! (But it takes superhuman good your vote.

taste.) CANCER (June 22-July 22). You have superpowers of recollection. Your imagination provides the booster that fuels your journey to a pleasant past moment. This journey will impact your decisions going forward. LEO (July 23-Aug.

22). Your resistance to an idea could be a sign that the idea is one to explore further. You wouldn't have such a strong reaction if there weren't something to dispel or embrace in this.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You feel an urgent need to do more than you have done in the past. Perhaps this is because someone needs proof that you care. More likely it has to do with improvement.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Don't concern yourself with the secret thoughts of another. You'll never really know. Also, it doesn't matter as much as you fear. Thoughts are like tumbleweeds drifting by. Another moment, and they're gone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). A problem shared should be a problem halved, not a problem doubled. Much depends on with whom you're sharing it. If you team with someone prone to drama, you'll get what you signed up for.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). No experience on the matter? No worries. Your very loosely related experiences will be close enough. The important thing is that Annie's Mailbox ® you have the confidence to confront things head-on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You're so observant. Who needs to know what you've observed? Not everyone. Be strategic. There are things that people around you aren't quite ready for.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). There's a good chance the situation at hand isn't as complicated as you're making it. There are challenges out there, but this isn't one of them. Solve it fast, and a much more worthy endeavor will present itself.

TODAY'S BIRTH-DAY (Sept. 24). You'll celebrate happy news in the next six weeks and be on the receiving end of lovely attention all through this season. You'll decide on a new and very effective way of navigating your love life. Stellar invites come in November. In January, a new goal will ring you like a bell, and you'll work until it's finished in May. Aquarius and Aries people adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 30, 45, 28, 4 and 15.

Pluto comes out of his retrograde with a question: Why do we believe what we believe? It is easy to say "because it's true," and yet it is often that the overly simplistic claim can't be proved, at least not by mere mortals with such a limited understanding of the nature of reality, let alone truth. Still, we do our best. More often, we believe not because something has been proved true, but because it is believe it. The weeks ahead invite us to examine even the most fundamental of our beliefs. This starts by tuning in to the mental playlist. Certain thoughts are louder than others. It's important to note that much of our mental chatter doesn't originate with us, but can be given to us by influential people and/or society at large. Pluto is in Capricorn, and so the power structures that govern our particular place in the world will strongly play into our inner dialogue.

severely abused, physically and emotionally, when I was growing up, mostly by my mother and older sister. After many years of therapy, I have turned my life around and finally am able to feel like a worthwhile person.

Dear Annie: I was

The trouble is, my older sister continues to be verbally abusive every time we get together, which, fortunately, is not too often. I recently bit the bullet and tried again, getting together with her and my two other sisters. Sure enough, "Betty" took the opportunity to taunt and yell at me, and ended up swinging her fists at me. This resulted in a PTSD episode

I've finally decided to have nothing further to do with Betty, but it leaves me with feelings of guilt, since she is my sister. Am I justified in cutting off our relationship? -- Tired of Being Abused for me.

Dear Tired: Yes. Your abusive mother obviously left Betty with some anger issues of her own, but being related to someone doesn't mean you have to put up with abuse. Ever. You were wise to get therapy so that you could improve your life. It might help to ask your therapist to work on developing coping strategies for situations that could be triggers for you. Overcoming abuse can be an ongoing process.

Dear Annie: My

22-year-old son trequently has his buddies drop over for a visit. Sometimes I'm a captive audience to their conversations. These guys (and sometimes gals) don't seem to understand that they should show some respect in their conversation due to the age difference between us.

I realize that they frequently use vulgar language when in the company of their peers, but am I out of line asking them to curtail their potty mouths in my presence?

Not only does it annoy and sometimes embarrass me, but also it makes them sound like illiterate heathens. I guess they're not out to impress. -- Annoyed Mother Dear Annoyed:

Some parents would find it flattering that their children's friends feel comfortable enough around them to speak freely. But you are right that it is also disrespectful, treating you as though your sensitivities don't matter. It is OK for you to say, "Your language is making me blush. I would appreciate it if you would keep it under control." Or you can speak to your son and ask him to tell his friends that they need to be more careful in your pres-

But you also do not need to be in the room when they are visiting. If your son lives with you, then he should be able to invite his friends over without his mother listening to the conversation. In fact, their vulgar language may be their way of getting you to leave the room. Unless you are willing to tell your son that his friends are not welcome, we suggest you absent yourself as much as possible, even if it means taking a long walk or going out to a movie. It also might be time to encourage your son to find a place of his own.

and losing a trump to East's ace, South ruffs the heart return, draws one more trump and plays the ace and another club, finessing the jack In the actual case, East wins, and South goes down one. But the most obvious approach is not always the best approach. Here, there is a far better line of play available that offers an additional chance of success, and declarer should try it before resorting to the straightforward finesse Instead of attacking clubs at trick five, South should lead the six of

This Date In History Today in History

Today is Thursday, September 24, the 267th day of 2015. There are 98 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History:

On September 24, 1890, the president of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Wilford Woodruff, wrote a manifesto renouncing the practice of plural marriage, or polygamy.

On this date:

In 1789, President George Washington signed a Judiciary Act establishing America's federal court system and creating the post of attorney general. In 1869, thousands of businessmen known as "Black Friday" after financiers Jay Gould and James Fisk attempted to corner the gold market. In 1929, Lt. James H. Doolittle guided a Consolidated NY-2 Biplane were ruined in a Wall Street panic over Mitchel Field in New York in the first all-instrument flight. In 1934, Babe Ruth made his farewell appearance as a player with the New York Yankees in a game against the Boston Red Sox. (The Sox won 5-0.) In 1948, Mildred Gillars, accused of being Nazi wartime radio propagandist "Axis Sally," pleaded not guilty in Washington D.C. to charges of treason. (Gillars, later convicted, ended up serving 12 years in prison.) In 1955, President Dwight D. Eisenhower suffered a heart attack while on vacation in Denver.

In 1957, the Los Angeles-bound Brooklyn Dodgers played their last game at Ebbets Field, defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-0. In 1960, the USS Enterprise, the first nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, was launched at Newport News, Virginia. "The Howdy Doody Show" ended a nearly 13-year run with its final telecast on NBC. In 1976, former hostage Patricia Hearst was sentenced to seven years in prison for her part in a 1974 bank robbery in San Francisco carried out by the Symbionese Liberation Army. (Hearst was released after 22 months after receiving clemency from President Jimmy Carter.) In 1988, Canadian sprinter Ben Johnson won the men's 100-meter dash at the Seoul (sohl) Summer Olympics ,Äî but he was disqualified three days later for using anabolic steroids. Members of the eastern Massachusetts Episcopal diocese elected Barbara C. Harris the first female bishop in the church's histo-

In 1991, kidnappers in Lebanon freed British hostage Jack Mann after holding him captive for more than two years. Children's author Theodor Seuss Geisel (GY'-zul), better known as "Dr. Seuss," died in La Jolla, California, at age 87.

In 1995, Israel and the PLO agreed to sign a pact at the White House ending nearly three decades of Israeli occupation of West Bank cities. Eric Borel, a 16-year-old in Cuers, France, shot and killed 12 people before taking his own life, a day after he'd killed three family members.

Ten years ago: Hurricane Rita struck eastern Texas and the Louisiana coast, causing more flooding in New Orleans.

Five years ago: Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg pledged $100 million over the next five years to Newark, New Jersey, schools a week before the release of the biographical movie "The Social Network." Gennady Yanayev, 73, a leader of the abortive 1991 coup who had briefly declared himself Soviet president, died in Moscow.

Homecoming weekend brings tough test for surging Steers

A dominant running game and hard-nosed defense have been the calling cards of the young Steers, but that will be challenged by the Graham Steers (1-3) this Friday night.

Graham returns nine starters from their state semifinalists team last season, including senior quarterback Landry Turner, who will give the Steers' talented defense a difficult chal-

"Their quarterback is the most dangerous we will face all year long because he can scramble and is a good passer," Steers head coach Phillip Ritchey said. "He's a nightmare to face for defenses."

In the last three seasons, Turner has thrown for 6,746 yards as a starting quarterback. He will be a handful for the defense and the major focal point of the game plan.

Last season, Turner hurt Big Spring against the three-man rush, which is forcing Big Spring to commit an tasked with containing the elusive 5"11' quarterback, who may also be spied by linebacker Garrett Wigington.

"You need a spy on him and that player has to be a great athlete and open field tackle because he is shifty and elusive, Ritchey said.

Graham travels to Big Spring on a rare three game losing streak with losses to Brownwood, Abeline Wylie and Argyle. The first two of that threesome reside in Big Spring's district.

The Graham defense, which historically has been a strength, have not had sustained success dering big plays in the passing game, and have been unable to force turnovers. Graham had a record 12 takeaways at this point last season, but have just two thus far. Despite the unimpressive performances, Graham will still pose a true challenge for the maturing Big Spring offense. "They are one of the best defensive teams we see all year and last year they were the best defense we saw," Ritchey said.

Graham runs a 3-3 stack, similar to several district foes, which will struggled with surrenearly preparation for district play. The young offensive line will have to be mindful of Graham's front seven that like to get pressure on the quarterback early.

Big Spring will look to establish the run early, and from there allow Wigington to attack the zone of Graham through the air. Wigington and wide receiver Daniel Luna could have another prolific passing night like they did against Monahans.

"They're tough team, much better than their record shows and it'll take mistake free football to beat them,"

This Friday the Coahoma Bulldogs (3-1) will take on traditional powerhouse Iraan (4-0).

Last season, the Iraan Braves blitzed through the 5-2A DII district, but left o f f s with an "We need to early expand and round exit which created a lingering taste of dissatisfaction. This season develop in the passing game, but it is a process," Dietz said.

Iraan is looking to being even more physical, which starts in the trenches for the Braves. Iraan returns four of five offensive lineman-- Wyatt Banner, Rolandon Olivo, Shellion Rodriguez and Steven Garlock-- and all three on the defensive front – Banner, Canon Andrews and Daryel Lozoya. The Braves have a new quarterback in converted linebacker Clayton Kent, who filled in for departed two-year starting quarterback Jarret Doege, who moved to Lubbock in the spring. "He's done a great job. He picked it up well in the spring and hasn't missed a beat," head coach Mark Kirchhoff said. Kirchoff and Lozoya are the keys in a virtually new-look Iraan offense, Wide receiver Kyle O'Bannon (19 catches, 402 yards and four touchdowns) is the only other returning offensive starter besides the four lineman.

The Braves run the veer on offense, which provides multiple challenges for a Coahoma defense use to facing spread offenses.

"We will have to play really good assignment football," head coach Fred Dietz said. "We've got to start by stopping the dive in between the tackles where they've hurt a lot of people this year. If it gets pulled we have to rally to the football and our outside linebackers will have a tough task all night. It's about trusting your teammates and executing tackles."

The Coahoma offense, which has increased their point total after each week, will face a 4-2 man coverage defense, giving them an opportunity to expand the passing game.

"Obviously we will use the run because it's our strength, but the man coverage allows us to put guys in space and make plays," Dietz said.

The Coahoma offense runs through senior Kyler Franks and junior Kody Barber. The duo ran the ball 54 times for 476 yards and nine touchdowns behind an offensive line that is replacing five starters from last year. The prolific run game is impressive, but Dietz is still not satisfied with his offense as a whole.

"We need to expand and develop in the passing game, but it is a process," Dietz said. Coahoma has improved in the quick and short passing game, but a lot still remains in the vertical game. It's a total offense problem, not just on one player or group. "We need to get better at passing protection, our route running and anticipation at the quarterback position in the vertical set," Dietz said. Despite the lack of a true vertical threat on offense, Coahoma continues to score points and will look to match or beat the 66 points put up last week this Friday.

After a 2-0 start and an explosive offense, the Forsan Buffaloes (2-2) are a much different team.

They've suffered injuries, which for a 2A school is especially crippling, and are struggling to find the end zone in recent weeks like an author with writer's block. "We've been able to move the ball really well between the 20s, but we haven't finished drives," head coach Jason Phillips said.

This Friday the Buffaloes will look to find their early season magic against the Miles Bulldogs. Miles lost a lot of size and talent to graduation last year, but they still have a dynamic dualthreat quarterback in 6'3" 200 lb Cody Kruger.

"He's the focal point of the offense, they put the ball in his hands to make plays," Phillips said. "The focus on defense is slowing him down because the offense goes through him." Last season Kruger had 38 total touchdowns, mostly through the ground. He has the ability to pass, but can also take it up the middle for a 70-yard run. He offers the same skill set as Forsan quarterback Jesse Cervantes, but with a more gifted physical skill set.

Kruger's favorite targets are Brett Hedden, a down field threat, and Cody Rathmell. Forsan will have their work cut out for them on defense stopping a team that has only been held to under 30 points once this season.

"We need to tackle much better than we have. Part of that is new guys playing more, but it comes down to effort and execution," Phillips said.

Execution will be a key aspect for Forsan's preparation leading up to their homecoming game. Turnovers and penalties have become common place, replacing touchdowns and takeaways. Forsan will have to find a way to overcome the injuries they've suffered to return to their efficient offense from earlier in the year.

Luckily for Forsan, Miles is quite similar to them in many ways.

"They have a dynamic dual-threat quarterback like Jesse. They also run a similar 4-3 scheme like we do so that will be good for our scout team in practice,"

Phillips said. There's no time like the present to put your best foot forward, especially homecoming.
