Trump mixing business with politics as he campaigns

The Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH, Florida — Republican presidential front-runner Donald Trump appeared to be wrapping up a victory speech at his sprawling Mar-a-Lago club earlier this week when he turned to the negative ads flooding the airwaves against him.

Trump recalled being at a professional golf tournament held at his Miami golf course recently. Everything was going smoothly, he said, until one of the ads started playing on TV as he schmoozed with tournament sponsors.

"I'm with these wonderful people from Cadillac and all these top executives, and I'm saying,

'Look over there! Look! Don't watch it! No, you don't want to watch it!'

"Trump said, re-enacting how he tried to distract them. 'I'm saying, 'Isn't the grass beautiful? Look, look, Don't watch! "

It was a rare light moment in an often-heated campaign that offered a glimpse into the way the billionaire businessman's campaign has transformed his day-to-day life. But it also underscored something deeper: As he crisscrosses the country delivering speeches at rallies and calling into cable news shows, Trump's business ventures are never far from his mind and have been playing an increasingly prominent role in his campaign.

In recent weeks, Trump has held election night parties at three of his Florida properties: golf clubs in Jupiter and West Palm Beach, Florida, and twice at his sprawling Mar-a-Lago club nearby. Each evening, members of Trump's clubs have been invited to observe the festivities, followed or preceded by lavish dinners or cocktail parties. Reporters have

District 19 congressional hopefuls Arrington, Robertson gear up campaigns as they prepare for the all-important May runoff election

Arrington stresses ag background

By AMANDA ELSTON

With Super Tuesday behind him and only a few months away from the election that really matters, District 19 congressional hopeful Jodey Arrington is spending most of his free time campaigning and meeting with the citizens of the district.

Backed with endorsements from the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and the Texas Farm Bureau, Arrington continues his campaign around the West Texas region that he has always called home.

"I grew up in the farming community," said Arrington, a Plainview native. "My dad sold tractors and my mom was a public school teacher. My upbringing really has shaped my beliefs, values, and view of politics."

Arrington got an early

I-27 extension high on Robertson's to-do list

By AMANDA ELSTON

Managing Editor

While congressional hopeful for Texas' 19th congressional district seat Glen Robertson can't necessarily call Big Spring home, the Lubbock mayor does have a special interest in the area.

Robertson, who also serves as the Ports-to-Plains committee treasurer, met with Big Spring's Greater Rotary Club recently to discuss Ports-to-Plains and the ongoing campaign to ensure that I-27 will run through Big Spring.

He said the I-27 project is one of his top priorities heading into the congressional race against former member of the Bush administration, Jodey Arrington.

"We've been working with TxDOT and requested that the project continue to be researched," said Robertson. "We want to show them that the idea is worth pursuing. We have also started to work with I-14. The next step is lobbying at the federal level in Congress."

Robertson said another top priority if elected would be West Texas agriculture and energy.

"We can't talk about the district without it," Robertson said of the ag and energy industries. "Sixty percent of the jobs in the district are small businesses and we have to find a way to stop the decline of rural Texas."

On a national level, Robertson's main priorities are national security, border security, the national debt, and repealing the Affordable Care Act.

"We are heading in the wrong direction with policies as a nation," Robertson said. "We have got to reduce the size of the federal government and figure out a way to fix Social Security."

In regards to his opponent, Robertson said that while he has known Arrington for five or six years, he himself left to vie to be the Republican candidate for the U.S. President in the November general election — Donald Trump, a businessman; Ted Cruz, U.S. Senator from Texas; and John Kasich, Governor of Ohio. Although Trump leads the back in delegate numbers, Cruz easily won the Texas primary on March both overall in the state and in Howard County. According to the Republican party website, the party believes in limited government with the largest control on the local level. The party was established in 1854 as a reaction to the Kansas-Nebraska Act that allowed slave or free status to be decided in territories by popular sovereignty, according to History.com.

would be better suited for the position of District 19 congressman. "I am a former small business owner myself," explained Robertson. "I have dealt with the consequences of the vote of elected officials. Jodey is a lifetime bureaucrat. I've lived in the rural world my whole life and I have never been apart of the Washington elite."

A few days before the March 1 primary, Robertson launched an ad campaign attacking opponents Arrington and former Dyess base commander Michael Bob Starr. Along with television ads, Robertson's campaign purchased websites under the domain names jodeyarringtonfortexas.com and michaelbobstarrfortexas.com characterizing Arrington as a "Washington insider" and Starr as "supported by the radical gay lobby".

"Arrington talks about his successes at FDIC and with the Katrina fund, but his record didn't match up," Robertson said, explaining the controversial ads. "He runs on a strong ag campaign, but he's never been involved. In regards to Starr, he has hid behind the troops. He tried to intimidate me at the Level-land debate. He shows himself as a man with conviction but his history proves something else." "I thought voters needed to know what was going on," Robertson continued. "My ads were 100 percent factual. It is all proven and on public record." However, some of Robertson's former opponents have publicly spoken out in favor of Robertson's campaign. Jason Corley, who was running for the District 19 slot in the primary but lost to Arrington and Robertson, has officially given Robertson his endorsement for the position.

"Jason became one of my dear friends during the campaign," said Robertson. "We got along really well. He called me the day after the election and asked about endorsing me. There were no strings attached. I appreciate his endorsement and I think he definitely has a future in politics."

Robertson said he wanted to protect smaller communities like the ones in Howard County.

"I understand wind energy and support the VA hospital," said Robertson. "We have a very diverse economy. Although Abilene and Lubbock are the largest cities in the district, there are more people that live outside those two cities than inside. I am here to protect the smaller communities."

jumpstart into the political arena while he was earning his masters degree at Texas Tech University. Arrington received an internship with then Texas Gov. George W. Bush. According to Arrington, he connected with Bush and was hired to be his advisor.

"I would meet with him (Bush) and make recommendations to him about a variety of things," explained Arrington. "When he became the president I would meet with him once a week in the Oval Office ... I owe a lot of my experience to President Bush."

Arrington said part of his job as an advisor to the president was to assemble the agriculture and energy team and work with the president's appointed cabinet to advise Bush on decision-making. Arrington said that the same decision-making skills he learned during Bush's administration have guided him through his different career paths at the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) and at Texas Tech.

"It all comes down to who has experience and a record that shows tangible results," said Arrington. "When it comes to results in the state, region, and district, it's me. I have a proven, public leadership track record."

Arrington lists border security, the national debt, and local agriculture and energy as his top priorities if he were to be elected. On a regional level, Arrington said he will "champion for rural West Texas and the Big Country and specifically work with Big Spring with its healthcare needs".

"I want to put American farmers on an even playing field," said Arrington. "I support policies that support American farmers. I will provide vigilant oversight to regulatory agencies who are over-regulating beyond their powers in a way that is destructive to the oil and gas industry."

In regards to competitor Glen Robertson's controversial "attack" ads a few days before the March 1 primary, Arrington said he was surprised to see them.

"For him to put those out in the 11th hour of the race, it was surprising," said Arrington. "It was Washington style gutter politics. In the short term, it helped him stay alive in the race, but in the long term I think it will catch up."

The primary race was tight. In the March 1 primary, Robertson pulled ahead in Howard County with 805 votes to Arrington's 514, but in the district as a whole, Arrington was just behind Robertson by 912 votes with Robertson earning 26,848 and Arrington earning 25,936. Abilene's Colonel Michael Bob Starr, who was also a recipient of Robertson's "attack ads," was a distant third in the race with 19,871 votes.

"We had many forums in different parts of the district and he didn't bring up any of the things he brought up in the ads in the forums," said Arrington. "If he wanted to have a debate, he should have brought it up then. It reeks of dirty politics. I am going to continue to run my campaign the West Texas way."

TRUMP

also been invited to transmit images of Trump's particular brand of opulence to the world.

From the beginning of his campaign, Trump has pointed to his business success as his fundamental qualification for the job of president. He likes to say his "whole life" has been about making money, and now he wants to make money for the United States. He often references his assets and projects — from the skating rink in Manhattan's Central Park, which he rebuilt, to his many skyscrapers — as evidence of what distinguishes him from what he describes as the "all talk, no action politicians."

Trump's financial disclosure form released in July listed nearly 500 business entities owned at least partially by Trump, according to the campaign, as well as income from a web of sources ranging from royalties from his books to stocks and speaking fees.

But Trump often sounds like he's promoting products he profits from, such as the WGC-Cadillac Championship. Of particular pride in recent months has been his transformation of Washington, D.C.'s Old Post Office Pavilion into a hotel. "We're building a magnificent hotel," Trump bragged to the crowd gathered at a Tampa convention center for a town hall-style event this week. "I don't even like to say that I'm two years ahead of schedule. I am actually two years ahead. I don't like to say it. You know why? You know why? Because it doesn't sound believable." Trump's business ventures have also left him open to attack from his rivals. Lawsuits filed against Trump's now-defunct "Trump University" business course program by former students accusing him of fraud, for instance, have been featured in attacks ads and the issue has been raised on the debate stage. And Trump, who is synonymous with his brand, has been fighting back, at one point having staff set up displays of various Trump-branded products at a recent event to try to prove that the products were still in existence.

Did you ever wonder – God’s festivals

Now that God has given His people some guidelines for living a life that is pleasing to Him, He turns to festivals that He will celebrate with us. He teaches about holy days (holidays) that are pleasing to Him.

“Three pilgrimage festivals shall you celebrate for Me during the year.” (Exo 23:15)

The first one is in spring, the Festival of Matzos. Matzos is unleavened bread like the Israelites carried with them when they left Egypt.

It is also called Passover because this commemorates when the Death Angel passed through Egypt. The firstborn was killed in every house that did not have the blood of the lamb on the doorposts.

The Hebrews who loved God had placed the blood on the doorposts, and they were spared. This is worth celebrating.

Later, when the Romans forced pagan holidays on the Christians, this was changed to Easter. Ashtera was the Roman goddess of fertility, hence baby chickens and baby rabbits.

The next holy day is the Festival of Harvest or Shavuot. In Hebrew, Shavuot means ‘weeks.’ They count off 49 days or seven weeks from Passover. Shavuot falls exactly 50 days after Passover.

As Greek became the dominant language this holy day became known as Pentecost, which means 50 in Greek.

Grain planted in the spring, just before or after Passover, would be ripe enough to harvest in 50 days.

At that time in history all people were agrarian; in order to have food for his family, a man must raise grain.

Other peoples around the Hebrews attributed a good harvest to Mother Nature. They thought this idol controlled the seasons, weather, rainfall and bountiful crops. God wanted His people to come to Jerusalem and celebrate with Him that they had a good stand of grain ready to cut.

The Festival of the Ingathering, Sukkot, is a joyous celebration after the hard work of the summer. In celebration of this holy day, God told the Hebrews to live in booths or tents for seven days. This was to remind them that they lived in tents when He led them through the wilderness for 40 years.

Sukkot falls either in September or October because the Hebrew calendar is figured on the lunar cycles and the Roman calendar is figured on the solar cycles.

The sages say it was during this holy day that Jesus, Yeshua, was born.

At that time Romans had conquered Israel. The Roman census ordered every Israelite to return to the city of his tribe to be counted. Since Joseph and Mariam were of the tribe of Judah, they traveled to Bethlehem, the city of David.

The city was overflowing with people needing lodging, and there was no room available for them. The kindly innkeeper allowed Joseph and Miriam to stay in the sukkah he had built outside for the festival.

Sukkot can also mean a tent-like shelter for livestock. The person transcribing the first translation from Hebrew to Greek did not know the Hebrew customs and holy days.

Jesus probably was not born in a dirty stable, but in a new sukkah that had never been used. Instead of lying in a manger, He most likely was laid on a large, decorated bread plate.

What more fitting receptacle for the Son of God, the true Bread of Life.

Church News

First Christian Church

This Sunday is Palm Sunday and as are all our services, should be a blessed one.

Coffee and Fellowship begins at 9:15 a.m.

Sunday School is at 9:45 a.m.

Worship starts at 10:50 a.m.

Our Guest Minister, Joel Miller, will be preaching a sermon called “The Joys of Jesus”. Taken from the scripture text Luke 19: 28 – 40. We remember the passage of Jesus entering on a young colt as praise and honor is shouted out.

Our music has been arranged and we have some beautiful classics like “The Old Rugged Cross”, “What a Friend We Have in Jesus” and some Traditional pieces like “How Can I Keep from Singing” and “I’ll Fly Away”. These have been put together by our Music Director Tara Trowbridge and our accompanist Lawrence Thibeault.

This Sunday our Liturgist will be Paul Smith and helping to serve at our Lord’s Table will be Wanda Brock and Shirley Burgess. Please come visit us.

Just to mention a few goings on at First Christian: Stewardship will meet this coming Wednesday March 23 at noon in our Library.

Also in keeping with ‘Easter Week’ we will be having a “Service of Darkness”; Maundy Thursday at 6:30 p.m. The sun may be shining brightly outside but the mood is that of darkness and sadness as we recall the approaching crucifixion of Jesus.

On Good Friday, March 25 each FCC member is asked to take time out of their day and faithfully be in prayer for an hour. Please feel free to take time out of your day and sit in prayer with our Lord for an hour. “Stay awake and pray lest you be tempted.”

If you have any questions regarding our services, or if you just need someone to pray with you, please call our office Monday thru Friday between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

First Christian Church is located at 911 Goliad St. Big Spring.

On Sunday, the congregation will mark the beginning of Holy Week with its annual Palm Sunday observance. Worshipers at the 9 a.m. service will first gather in Garrett Hall. People are asked to be there by 8:55 am.

The Prelude, announcements, and opening of the service, including the reading of the account of the Lord’s Triumphal Entry into Jerusalem will take place in Garrett Hall. Then, with palm branches in hand, everyone will join in the procession into the Sanctuary.

During the 9 a.m. worship service, the Passion of Our Lord According to Luke will be read. Congregation members will share in Holy Communion as well.

Children only will take part in the Palm Sunday procession at the 11 a.m. worship service. Parents should have kids in place no later than 10:55 a.m. During the 11 a.m. contemporary service, Pastor Ivins will explore the meaning of Palm Sunday with a message entitled “Total Makeover”.

Pastor Ivins will also continue exploring the events of the Lord’s crucifixion from the Gospel of Mark during Noon Bible study on Wednesday. Participants gather in Garrett Hall for a meal and Bible study. Meal service begins at 11:50 a.m. All are welcome.

Our Good Friday service will be Friday evening, March 25 at 7:30 p.m. The Reverend Derrell Patterson will be our guest preacher that evening. Following his message, the reading of the Passion Story will lead us into a period of darkness and meditation at the cross.

The congregation is anticipating a glorious Easter celebration on March 27. Both morning worship services at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. will include the Flowering of the Cross. At 9:45 a.m., our Children’s Ministry will be holding an Easter Carnival in the youth building.

Our Family and Parish Life Ministry Team also will be hosting a Brunch at 10 a.m. in Garrett Hall. The Brunch is in lieu of Sunday school for Easter Sunday only. Everything for the Brunch will be provided by the Family and Parish Life Team.

Our Children’s Ministry has begun work on an Easter Musical entitled “Crown Him with Many Crowns” on Wednesdays at 6 p.m. Children who are age four through fifth grade are invited to participate. # One God and Father

What a blessing a good father can be. Fathers love their family. They provide for them and protect them. A good father will raise his children, training and preparing them for adulthood.

At least, that's the ideal situation. Not everyone is blessed to have a father like that. Some people never even know their father and that is very sad.

The Bible tells us that we have a Father who is better than any earthly father could be. We have a heavenly Father (Matthew 6:9,14,26). Everyone who has ever lived is a child of God from a physical perspective. In Luke's account of the genealogy of Christ, he works his way backwards in time, tracing the lineage of Jesus all the way back to Adam, the son of God (Luke 3:38). He is our Father because he created us.

However, he didn't create us as physical beings only. He created humanity in his image (Genesis 1:26-27). We are more than a body – we have a spirit within us that was given by God (Zechariah 12:1). In the beginning (Garden of Eden), it was a perfect relationship. They were in the presence of God. He would come and walk in the garden (Genesis 3:8).

Sin severed that ideal relationship. Because of sin Adam and Eve were cast out of paradise. Isaiah 59:1-2, Behold, the LORD's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save, or his ear dull, that it cannot hear; but your iniquities have made a separation between you and your God, and your sins have hidden his face from you so that he does not hear (ESV). When we are disobedient to the will of God, we become like the son who left his father's house (Luke 15:11-32). In selfishness we put our desires above God's commands and alienate ourselves from our heavenly Father.

But the Father loves us and wants us to return to him! And it is only through obedience to Jesus Christ that we can be reconciled in a spiritual relationship with the heavenly Father. John 1:12-13, But to all who did receive him, who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God, who were born, not of blood nor of the will of the flesh nor of the will of man, but of God (ESV).

Romans 8:14-17, For all who are led by the Spirit of God are sons of God.

For you did not receive the spirit of slavery to fall back into fear, but you have received the Spirit of adoption as sons, by whom we cry, "Abba! Father!" The Spirit himself bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God, and if children, then heirs – heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ, provided we suffer with him in order that we may also be glorified with him (ESV).

Your heavenly Father watches and waits for your return. Become a child of God through obedience to the gospel. We are not promised everything in this life but, if we are faithful, we can be in the presence of our heavenly Father for all eternity! Thank you, Father!

Reflections: the young Messiah

As we approach Easter, Hollywood has again released new movies about the life of Jesus. This year, The Young Messiah, the story of Jesus as a child wrestling with the dawning discovery of his identity as the Son of God.

We don't know much about Jesus' childhood. For the most part, the Bible is silent regarding these years. We do know that Joseph took his family to Egypt following Jesus' birth in order to protect the child from King Herod's paranoid wrath. After their departure from Bethlehem, Herod's soldiers fell upon the small village slaughtering all the male children under the age of two. Joseph made a home for the family in Egypt and waited. When Herod died, they returned to their childhood home of Nazareth. Matthew points out that this was a fulfillment of the Messianic prophecy, "Out of Egypt I called My Son." (Matthew 2:15). The movie focuses on this event, when Jesus was a child returning with his family to Nazareth.

The movie is based on a book written by Anne Rice, Christ the Lord, Out of Egypt. The book and the movie try to imagine what Jesus would have been like as a child, how He and His family would have wrestled with the growing awareness of His identity. The Bible only tells us that "He grew in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man."

Almost as interesting as the movie's plot is the journey of the author who wrote the book upon which it is based. Anne Rice grew to fame writing the Vampire Chronicles while professing to be an atheist. She shocked the secular world when, in 2002, she announced she was done with vampires. After thirty-eight years as a professed atheist, she said she had found faith in Christ and returned to the Catholic Church. Eight years later, she rocked the Christian world by proclaiming she was renouncing Christianity. She stated, "For those who care, and I understand if you don't: Today I quit being a Christian. I'm out. I remain committed to Christ as always but not to being "Christian" or to being part of Christianity." She went on to say, "My faith in Christ is central to my life. My conversion from a pessimistic atheist lost in a world I didn't understand, to an optimistic believer in a universe created and sustained by a loving God is crucial to me."

Anne represents many who continue to believe in Christ but have left organized Christian churches. George Barna, the leading researcher on faith in America, reported in 2008 that "a majority of adults now believe that there are various biblically legitimate alternatives to participation in a conventional church." It appears that there is a growing number of people who claim faith in Jesus but want little or nothing to do with the institutional church.

Worldwide, we are witnessing the largest growth in the number of Jesus followers in history. In China, some estimate that more than 30,000 new believers are baptized every day. The number of believers in Africa grew from 9 million to 360 million in the last century. More Muslims have come to faith in Christ in the last two decades than at any other time in history. Churches, what they look like and how they function, are changing while the number of Jesus followers is growing.

Godwin shines, bats come alive for Steers

Steers pitcher Anthony Godwin pitching during Thursday's 7-2 win over Seminole. He had seven strikeouts in the game.

By DREW WILLIAMS
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers (6-9) beat the Seminole Indians 7-2 Thursday behind solid team hitting and another quality start from senior Anthony Godwin.

Godwin gave up only one earned run on seven hits in his seven innings pitched, adding seven strikeouts along the way. He changed speeds consistently and didn't have any problems locating and getting the Seminole hitters out in front of his off-speed pitches. He finished with 108 pitches thrown.

"That's a typical Anthony Godwin outing. He's going to throw strikes and if we're making plays in the field and we're hitting the ball, it's going to be a good quick game and we're going to have a chance to win," Big Spring head coach Bobby Smith said. "The last time he threw, he threw just as well and we just didn't hit the ball. He's done that the last two years. He's going to look the same every time, and you know he's going to throw strikes and he's going to keep you off balance. Just a great job by number 33 again."

After a scoreless first two innings, Seminole got on the board in the top of the third to take a 2-0 lead. Dylan Marquez led off the bottom half for Big Spring with a single, and advanced to second on an error. Noah Perez followed with a single that scored Marquez and the Steers got within a run. Godwin would walk, and a sacrifice by Riley Henson gave the Steers runners at second and third. Preston Alexander followed with a groundout, but it was enough to get the game-tying run home from third.

"We preach all the time that it's about responding. Sometimes things are going to go bad, and I don't like to say 'react' because sometimes when you react, you react the wrong way. We like to say 'respond' because when it goes bad, you've got to respond. Doesn't matter if it's a game of baseball or if it's life. When something goes wrong, you respond, you pick yourself up, and you try to make something good out of it. And we did that tonight," said Smith.

The Steers ended the game on a 7-0 run that included a three-run fifth inning, highlighted by a two-out, two-RBI single by Elijah Munoz. He finished 1-for-4 with the two RBIs and a stolen base. Marquez and Perez had great days at the bottom of the lineup, going 2-for-2 and 2-for-3, respectively and combined two RBIs and two runs scored.

"We made the plays that we're supposed to make. There weren't any all-star plays, they were just routine plays and that's what we made today. The only thing out of the ordinary was that we hit the ball well tonight. We haven't been doing that all year long. We've had some guys that have been hitting all year long, but as a whole team, getting runners on and hitting the ball and putting it in play, it was a great job tonight. We need to do that every night," Smith said.

The Steers travel to Monahans to take on the Lobos at 1 p.m. today and have a home game at 1 p.m. Saturday against Lubbock Christian. It was also announced that the 7 p.m. game on March 25 against Levelland will include a pre-game memorial service for Dylan Lance, a Big Spring High School student and Steer baseball player who died in a car accident last summer.

Martin helps Butler pull away, top Texas Tech 71-61

By AARON BEARD
AP Basketball Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Butler coach Chris Holtmann wasn't overly concerned when his second-leading scorer Kelan Martin took a quiet first half to open the NCAA Tournament.

No need to worry, he figured. Not the way Martin — and these Bulldogs, for that matter — can break loose, get out in transition and score in bunches.

"He rolls out of bed ready to score the ball," Holtmann said.

Martin proved his coach right, too, hitting consecutive 3-pointers during a critical second-half stretch to help Butler beat Texas Tech 71-61 in Thursday's first round of the NCAA Tournament.

Kellen Dunham scored 23 points to lead the Bulldogs (22-10), including a critical 3 of his own with 2:29 left as the Midwest Region's No. 9 seed pulled away in the final minutes. Butler shot 52 percent after halftime, using some NCAA Tournament experience to rally from an early eight-point deficit and push ahead midway through the second half.

Butler is in the tournament for the eighth time in 10 years, and now has won at least one game in eight of its last nine appearances.

Martin, a 6-foot-6 sophomore, came in averaging 16.1 points but had gone scoreless on 0-for-4 shooting when he scored 11 points in the final 8½ minutes.

"I know I didn't score the first half or the beginning of the second half," Martin said, "But Coach was telling me on the bench just let the game come to me — it's going to come, I'm going to make plays — but just impact the game defensively and rebounding."

He first hit a 3-pointer in transition to snap a 48-all tie with 8:22 left. Then, after a miss by Texas Tech, Roosevelt Jones found Martin again for another 3 — a shot that rolled around the inside of the rim at least twice before finally dropping through the net.

"Those 3s that Kelan Martin made were a dagger," Texas Tech coach Tubby Smith said.

And coming out of a timeout, Martin followed with a steal and a breakaway dunk for a personal 8-0 spurt that suddenly had Butler up 56-48 with about 7½ minutes left.

That shifted momentum to the Bulldogs, who played from in front the rest of the way. Dunham buried his late 3 to push the lead to nine and all but seal the win.

Devaughtah Williams scored 18 points to lead the eighth-seeded Red Raiders (19-13), who were making their first tournament appearance since 2007. But Texas Tech made just 2 of 9 shots to close the game as Butler began to take over in the critical moments.

Smith had made history with this group in his third season at Texas Tech by becoming only the second coach to take five schools to the NCAAs. The Red Raiders shot 46 percent in this one, but had trouble keeping up with Dunham all afternoon — and Martin during the game-changing sequence.

TIP-INS
Butler: Tyler Wideman had 14 points on 6-for-6 shooting. ... Butler had a 34-28 rebounding advantage. ... The Bulldogs made 9 of 17 3-pointers.

Texas Tech: Justin Gray and Aaron Ross each scored 10. ... The Red Raiders made just 4 of 9 free throws. ... Top scorer Toddrick Gotcher (11.1 points) finished with five on 2-for-7 shooting.

Women's NCAA Tournament set to tip off with 16 games Friday

By DOUG FEINBERG
AP Basketball Writer

Let the madness begin — in the women's NCAA Tournament.

While the men's tourney is already under way, Friday marks the start of the women's quest for the Final Four with 16 first-round games set to be played. Top seeds Baylor and South Carolina are in action, and we probably won't see a 16-seed upset them — although it has happened once before.

The opening round will be a chance to watch some lesser-known stars play, such as Army's Kelsey Minato, George Washington's Jonquel Jones and Albany's Shereesha Richards. Friday will also be a chance to see seventh-seeded Tennessee. The Lady Vols, who have their worst seed ever, are out in Tempe, Arizona, facing a very talented Green Bay squad.

Maybe this will be the year that a No. 14 or 15 seed finally wins a game in the women's tournament. New Mexico State, Buffalo, Troy and Central Arkansas will try and break the drought.

Here are a few other tidbits:

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Danuel House cringed as soon as he heard the word "overlooked" during a question about Texas A&M's season on Thursday.

Baylor makes 2nd straight first-round exit from NCAA tourney

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Baylor entered the NCAA Tournament hoping to wipe away the raw feelings from its first-round exit a year ago on a last-second shot.

It left with another heartbreaking loss.

Taurean Prince scored 28 points, but the fifth-seeded Bears were unable to stop Makai Mason and lost 79-75 to Yale on Thursday. Mason had a career-high 31 points, including six of the Bulldogs' final nine points.

Baylor (22-12) lost its tournament opener last season on a last-second 3-pointer in Georgia State's memorable victory.

"I thought Yale did a great job in the second half making things tough for us to score," Bears coach Scott Drew said. "We only shot 38 percent. But I thought Mason really controlled the game."

Johnathan Motley added 15 points and seven rebounds for Baylor, which shot 44 percent from the field.

The Bears kept pace with an energized Yale team in the first half, trailing by five at the break. They quickly tied the game in the opening minutes of the second half, but were also dominated inside and trailed by as many as 13 with about seven minutes to play.

"We just got outrebounded and they played harder than us the whole 40 minutes," Prince said. Yale (23-6) earned its first NCAA Tournament victory. It comes in its first appearance since 1962.

Justin Sears scored 18 points for the Bulldogs, and Brandon Sherrod finished with 10.

"This was bigger than us, and we wanted to do it for all the Yale faithful out there," Sears said. "It's great right now. I don't think it's really hit us how big this is yet."

Yale played a chunk of the second half without Sears and Sherrod after both picked up their fourth fouls. Both returned with just over four minutes to play.

Even after their return, Baylor kept eating away at the Bulldogs' lead and eventually closed to 76-75.

Baylor applied full-court pressure on the inbounds play, but Yale got a long pass into Nick Victor, who was fouled with 6.8 seconds left.

Victor connected on the first, but air-balled the second attempt. Baylor got the ball into Lester Medford. He slipped on his way to the basket, turning it over.

"I think the biggest thing anyone can mistake is where someone, what conference, what school, whatever, that's what makes March Madness March Madness," Drew said. "It's not who's the best team four out of seven games like the NBA. It's who's best for that 40 minutes. Yale was better than us today for 40 minutes, and that's why they won this game."

a long absence.

The Tigers are the No. 9 seed in the Dallas Region and in the 64-team field for the first time since 2009, ending their longest-ever NCAA absence.

Williams-Flournoy was an assistant coach when Georgetown made its first NCAA Tournament in 1993. After time on staffs at Georgia and Southwest Missouri State, and more NCAA trips, she became the Hoyas head coach in 2004. They made their second NCAA appearance in 2010, the first of three in a row before she went to Auburn.

"It's not that much difference because you're so excited," said Williams-Flournoy, in her fourth season as an SEC head coach. "As a player, I went to the NCAA tournament. As an assistant coach, I went to the NCAA tournament, and then as a head coach taking your team for the first time, it's a different type of excitement because you're no longer excited for yourself. You're just truly excited for your players."

Auburn (19-12) plays St. John's (23-9) on Friday in Waco, Texas.

20 IN A ROW:

Baylor, the No. 1 seed in the Dallas Region, has a 20-game winning streak since its only loss in the Big 12 opener Dec. 30 at Oklahoma State.

That certainly got the notice of the Lady Bears (33-1), who went on to sweep the Big 12 regular-season and tournament championships for the sixth year in a row.

"I think it grabbed our attention right out of the gates. I think it made us think about not the end result, but the next game more so than any team I've ever had," coach Kim Mulkey said before the Lady Bears' NCAA opener on their home court Friday against Idaho. "You could not afford to lose another one. Because you didn't know what it was going to take to win the Big 12, and I just know that got our attention."

Especially the group of Baylor freshmen that includes two post players who have had such an impact this season.

"In their little world, it was, well, 'Coach, it's only one game.' They don't understand that one game can cost you a championship," Mulkey said. "They do now."

BACK TO THE FUTURE

For a few hours on Thursday, the women's official NCAA website tournament bracket had Michigan State advancing to the second round with a 79-66 win over Belmont. The problem is: Those two teams don't play until Friday. While the fourth-seeded Spartans winning wouldn't be a shock, if that final score holds, that would be something.

SEEDING SNUB:

Not again?

That was Army coach Dave Magarity's initial reaction when the Black Knights earned a 13th seed in the women's NCAA Tournament, and has them opening against the Orange at Syracuse. For Magarity, this was no different than what happened in 2014, when 13th-seeded Army opened the tournament a 90-52 loss to Maryland on the Terrapins' home court.

"I mean, to have to play on the host team's floor for the second time in three years is something that we're trying to avoid, to be honest with you," Magarity said Thursday, a day before their opener. "So you can read between the lines how I feel about the seeding."

Magarity is upset because the Black Knights (29-2) have set a school record for wins and have won 19 in a row since a 79-69 loss at Patriot League rival Bucknell on Jan. 2. Their other loss? A 72-61 defeat at then No. 14 Duke on Nov. 22.

And what stings worse is Albany earned a No. 12 seed despite a 65-62 loss to Army on Dec. 5.

"When I look at the criteria and what people were supposed to be looking at, I'm a little confused," Magarity said.

A&M

Southeastern Conference championship victory.

And House, a senior guard, was ready with his response to how third-seeded Texas A&M (26-8) felt following Calipari's comments heading into its first-round game against Green Bay (23-12) on Friday.

"Not respected," House said. "Not respected at all is the right word."

Whether House was more frustrated with Calipari or an overall lack of national attention for Texas A&M was unclear. What was certain was the Aggies, making their first NCAA Tournament appearance since 2011, feel they belong among any mention of the country's best — and that they are every bit of a No. 3 seed.

It's a role of favorite the Aggies haven't played all that often since joining the SEC in 2012, though they've experienced a steady climb under fifth-year coach Billy Kennedy. And they would like nothing more than to cap that success with their first NCAA Tournament win since 2010, proving they belong as a No. 3 seed in the process.

However, that will be no easy task against a Phoenix team that is in the tournament for the first time in 20 years. Green Bay secured its berth by winning the Horizon League Tournament, and enters Friday having won eight of its last nine games — though its players were quick to embrace the underdog role.

"We really don't have much to lose right now," Green Bay senior Jordan Fouse said. "They're the ones feeling the pressure."

Some things to watch in this matchup:

KENNEDY'S TRIO: Kennedy is in the NCAA Tournament for the third time as a head coach, and with his third school. Kennedy first took Southeastern Louisiana to the tournament in 2005 and then Murray State in 2010, and he is 1-2 in tournament games entering Friday.

TECH

TURNOVER FACTOR

Both teams had 14 turnovers, though the Bulldogs did a better job of converting those into points. Butler finished with a 16-9 edge in points off turnovers.

"Live-ball turnovers just killed us," Smith said, "and they made good on it."

Holtmann called it "probably the difference in the game, really."

"I thought defensively, we were good at times, and not as good at other times," he said. "We did have some activity which created some turnovers ... but the flipside of that is we don't typically have 14 turnovers."

NCAA EXPERIENCE The Red Raiders are hoping this trip to the NAAs is the first of several more.

"It definitely sets a standard that we can be here and we belong here," said Gotcher, a fifth-year senior. "It's good seeing that going forward, Texas Tech has a basketball team because we're not known for that."

UP NEXT

Butler advances to Saturday's second round to face top-seeded Virginia.

MARCH SUCCESS: First-year Green Bay coach Linc Darner will make his tournament debut, but he is no stranger to postseason success — having led Division II Florida Southern to a national championship last season. Including Green Bay's Horizon League championship run two weeks ago, Darner has won 13 straight games in March. "We can just go out and play and relax and have fun," Darner said.

LATE-SEASON RUN: Texas A&M's tournament hopes appeared in jeopardy last month after it lost four straight games and five of six overall. However, following a 76-71 loss at LSU on Feb. 13, the Aggies won eight straight games before losing in the SEC championship game to Kentucky. The winning streak included an overtime win over the Wildcats, giving the Aggies plenty of confidence entering the tournament.

QUICK SUCCESS: After playing with a slowed-down, defensive-first approach the last few seasons, the Phoenix embraced Darner's up-tempo "RP 40" style this season. The motto stands for "Relentless Pressure for 40 minutes," and it applies to both ends of the court. One of the biggest benefactors of the new approach has been senior guard Carrington Love, who is averaging a career-high 17.7 points per game this season after averaging 10 a year ago.

NCAA EXPERIENCE: Texas A&M senior Anthony Collins is the only player in the game who has played in the NCAA Tournament. The guard, who transferred from South Florida, helped the Bulls reach the third round in 2012.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Leaning Into Fire

We are leaning toward a Grand Fire Trine on March 20. This solar journey through Aries will be particularly heated with Mars, Saturn and Uranus also in fire signs, which makes it all the more important to use these final Pisces sun days to plan ahead.

How can you make your life less stressful in the weeks to come?

ARIES (March 21-April 19). So you're not who you wanted to be? Excellent -- because who you are is the best person to be. You'll get proof of this in the afternoon, and hopefully it will relax you. You are enough!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Boredom can be a positive force. If you were never bored, you wouldn't be half as creative as you are. In order to really feel your boredom, don't rush to fill the void of inactivity.

GEMINI (May 21-

June 21). Think ahead to next week. How can you make your life less stressful? It will take some planning, but all the efforts you make today on the matter will be so worthwhile. Future you will be thanking current you.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You know what you're doing. You're very aware of the big picture and the minutiae, too, and you're able to zoom in and out at will. Because of this, you'll accomplish what you couldn't when you were being less flexible.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You're very aware of your most attractive qualities, and you try to lead with them, but it doesn't always work out that way. The ones who you feel very close to will get the real you and love you all the more for it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The order you create around you will contribute to an excellent "user experience." This is part of why so many people want to be near you. You're a stabilizing influence. Tend to those systems. They support the best in you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Slipping into an excellent mood is the first order of business. The small challenge you can easily win -- that's the one to start with. It will set you up for bigger and better things.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You'll check quite a lot off your list today. This is a good time to remember that the spirit in which things are done is even more important than what it is that you do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). While you chew on a hard truth, a white lie is on your lips. This might be the more compassionate thing to say, but just so you know, the truth is going to come out eventually.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Your contribution is huge, though it doesn't feel that way to you. You have no idea how much your cooperation matters. In fact, you set the whole tone of a group. Everything goes better because of you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You can't always tell the difference between good luck and bad luck, but today it will be extremely clear. Your stomach will let you know. Delays could be very positive, giving you the chance to connect with someone.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You may feel like you need to go out of your way to explain yourself, but resist. Less is more. You have nothing to prove. Besides, if they don't understand you by now, they might just be the wrong audience for you.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 18). Your efforts to educate yourself on a subject will turn into an entirely new career trajectory. Because you have a tendency to become captivated by your interests, others will find you captivating as well. You could become a teacher in April. June features luck through markets and festivals. You'll travel far in August. Leo and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 31, 3, 22, 48 and 9.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES: You open people up. You'll be amazed at what you can accomplish with a well-placed question and the timing of your touch. TAURUS: Avoid giving instructions or advice. Teach through your example. GEMINI: Shine your light at full wattage. If they can't take it, it's better to know now. CANCER: In some way, a friend knows you better than you know yourself. LEO: It's time to detach again, if only to see what comes back to you. This is how you know what's really yours. VIRGO: How much freedom do you really have to relax and be yourself? LIBRA: Someone is taking forever to get back to you. Deciding not to choose is a choice, too. SCORPIO: You are ready to take it to the next level. Is the other person ready, too? SAGITTARIUS: That little change you make in your approach will get you the "yes" you seek. CAPRI-

CORN: All you have to do is look the slightest bit disappointed and it's like your love feels totally mortally wounded. Did you know that you had this kind of power? AQUARIUS: Your warmth is addictive and that's why they keep coming back. PISCES: Take it slow. There will be plenty of time to get to know your new friend. No need to rush.

COUPLE OF THE WEEKEND: The sun moving into Aries and the fiery Leo moon is a heated, passionate sky for potential partners of these signs. These two immediately hit it off and have a tendency to take things much faster than is good for either of them. In fact, they could wind up on the other side of this weekend completely enmeshed in one another's lives without so much as a clue to how this happened!

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: My husband, "Derek" and I have been married for 18 years and we have four children. Lately, I feel like a piece of meat. Derek wants sex every day and grabs my breasts constantly. If I refuse, he pouts.

Derek recently lost his job and we were evicted, so we moved in with my mom. The longest Derek has ever held a job is four years. He looks for work, but then sits and plays games on the computer while my mom and I do chores and help the kids with their homework. I was raised with a strong work ethic, and have been the primary breadwinner for most of our marriage.

I resent Derek for not respecting me when I say no to his constant demands for sex. Even in the midst of a kidney infection, he still wanted me to mess around. I am ready to leave him over these issues. Please help. -- Indiana Sex Object

Dear Indiana: We think Derek feels inadequate as a provider, and instead of fixing that, he uses sex as a way to control the relationship and keep you in what he sees as a subservient position. But lest we be accused of practicing psychiatry without a license, we strongly urge you to get into counseling and figure this out. Derek may have adult ADD or some other problem that interferes with his ability to hold onto a job. Obviously, it would be best if Derek would go with you for counseling, but if not, go on your own. Check to see if your workplace has an employee assistance program that can help. There also are low-cost counseling options available through your clergyperson, United Way, Catholic Charities and the Department of Children and Family Services.

Dear Annie: Wow, I was so surprised by your comment to "Outraged in Pennsylvania," that her husband's girlie calendar was none of her business.

Most women I know would be upset if their husband willingly encouraged the exploitation of women by allowing this calendar to hang for all the other boys to ogle in the bathroom. This is sleazy.

If a woman has any class or values, this would bother her, as it goes against everything women have been fighting for -- not to be looked at as sexual objects and to be taken seriously. It's offensive at any workplace, whether women are present or not.

If it were my husband, this would be a huge character issue. For women like you to say this is OK is shocking! -- K.

Dear K.: Please read more carefully. We did not say this was OK. In fact, we agree with everything you say about it being sleazy and exploitative. Here is where we differ: She should not be telling her husband how to run his office. We would say the same if her husband objected to something at his wife's office -- it's none of his business. She has registered her complaint with him, but how he deals with it is entirely his decision, not hers. If she finds his response to be inadequate or offensive, and it changes how she feels about him, that is a different matter and should be taken up with the nearest marriage counselor.

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker
Bidding Quiz

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:
North East South West
1♦ 1♠ ?

What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

- ♠AQ5♥985♦863♣10842
- ♠72♥AKJ9♦K4♣QJ875
- ♠QJ93♥KJ6♦5♣A9862
- ♠—♥KJ76♦AQ93♣AJ743
- ♠KQ6♥AJ5♦J843♣AJ9

1. Pass. When your partner opens the bidding with one of a suit, you are required to keep the bidding open with six or more points. However, this obligation is suspended if the intervening player overcalls the opening bid. Since this assures that partner will get another turn to bid, there is no necessity to enter the fray with flimsy values in order to keep the bidding alive.

The only possible response in the present case is one notrump, but a voluntary notrump response is normally based on more than six points. So, despite the attractive spade holding, a bid of one notrump in these circumstances would be overstating your values.

2. Two clubs. This follows the general principle of naming a five-card suit before a four-card suit (provided you have enough points to do so). Your plan is to bid hearts next so that partner will know you have only four of them, as well as a strong hand.

3. Double. Game is by no means certain, so the best chance for a significant plus score lies in trying to exact a penalty from the opponents at one spade doubled. If partner passes, indicating a normal opening bid, you are likely to collect 500 or 800 points. If you play "negative" doubles in this situation, your best action would be to pass and hope partner reopens with a double, which you could then pass for penalties.

4. Two spades. Game is virtually certain, and slam is just around the corner. The best way of expressing this is by a cuebid. Two spades implies excellent support for diamonds and interest in reaching a game or slam. If partner is weak in spades, which would mean he is strong elsewhere, a slam can almost surely be made.

5. Three notrump. This is a quantitative bid showing 16 or 17 points, balanced distribution (usually 4-3-3-3) and scattered high-card strength. Since that is exactly what you have, you can best transmit this message by leaping directly to three notrump.

This Date In History

Today is Friday, March 18, the 78th day of 2016. There are 288 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: On March 18, 1766, Britain repealed the Stamp Act of 1765. On this date: In 1837, the 22nd and 24th president of the United States, Grover Cleveland, was born in Caldwell, New Jersey. In 1910, the first filmed adaptation of Mary Shelley's novel 'Frankenstein,' a silent short produced by Thomas Edison's New York movie studio, was released. In 1925, the Tri-State Tornado struck southeastern Missouri, southern Illinois and southwestern Indiana, resulting in some 700 deaths. In 1937, some 300 people, mostly children, were killed in a gas explosion at a school in New London, Texas. In 1940, Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini met at the Brenner Pass, where the Italian dictator agreed to join Germany's war against France and Britain. In 1959, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed the Hawaii statehood bill. (Hawaii became a state on Aug. 21, 1959.)

AGNES

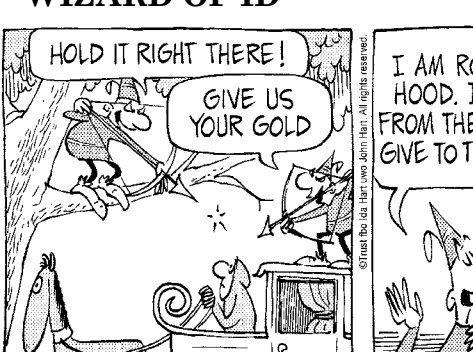

In 1962, France and Algerian rebels signed the Evian Accords, a cease-fire agreement which took effect the next day, ending the Algerian War. In 1965, the first spacewalk took place as Soviet cosmonaut Alexei Leonov went outside his Voskhod 2 capsule, secured by a tether. Farouk I, the former king of Egypt, died in exile in Rome. In 1974, most of the Arab oil-producing nations ended their 5-month-old embargo against the United States that had been sparked by American support for Israel in the Yom Kippur War. In 1980, Frank Gotti, the 12-year-old youngest son of mobster John Gotti, was struck and killed by a car driven by John Favara, a neighbor in Queens, New York. (The following July, Favara vanished, the apparent victim of a gang hit.) In 1990, thieves made off with 13 works of art from the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum in Boston (the crime remains unsolved). In 1996, rejecting an insanity defense, a jury in Dedham, Massachusetts, convicted John C. Salvi III of murdering two women in attacks at two Boston-area abortion clinics in Dec. 1994. (Salvi later committed suicide in his prison cell.) Ten years ago: Thousands of anti-war protesters took to the streets around the world, marking the third anniversary of the U.S.-led invasion of Iraq. Five years ago: President Barack Obama demanded that Moammar Gadhafi halt all military attacks on civilians and said that if the Libyan leader did not stand down, the United States would join other nations in launching military action against him. Former Secretary of State Warren M. Christopher died in Los Angeles at 85. Princess Antoinette of Monaco, the late Prince Rainier III's oldest sister and a prominent advocate for animal rights, died at 90.

Thought for Today:

"No man has a right in America to treat any other man tolerantly, for tolerance is the assumption of superiority." Wendell Willkie American politician 1892-1944
