Work to begin soon on $1.8 million renovation of community's namesake

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

It is Big Spring's namesake and, for years, it has been not much more than an out-of-the-way curiosity.

The historic Big Spring sits in a seldom-visited corner of Comanche Trail Park, identified by little more than a couple of markers and visited more by accident than anything else. And, in truth, there's little to look at — just a large natural pool of green-tinged water surrounded by walking trails.

City officials want that to change. Construction is expected to begin before the end of spring on a $1.8 million project aimed at both restoring the spring to its former glory and turning the site into an attraction that draws tourism — and tourism dollars — to the community.

When asked why the city is investing so much money in the project, Community Services Director Debbie Wegman had a very direct answer.

"Why not?" she said. "This is our city's namesake. When visitors walk into this building, the first thing they ask is, "Is there really a Big Spring?" ... We want to make it a place people are proud of and want to go see."

Phase one of the renovation project, which begins this year, calls for repair of pumps which help supply the spring with its water, but Wegman said several other items are aimed directly at attracting visitors, including:

- Plaza seating for 1,000+ with full electrical hookups and performance stage.
- Widened trail with security lighting and emergency vehicle access
- Eight storyboards with accompanying educational signage covering

Police: Moore strangled his wife

Former resident faces 1st degree charges following incident at couple's Midland home

By LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer

MIDLAND — A former Big Spring man was arrested Saturday by Midland Police for allegedly assaulting his wife, who remains in critical condition, according to news reports.

Benjamin E. Moore, a Big Spring High School graduate, was being held on a $150,000 bond on a first-degree felony charge of aggravated assault of a date/family/house member with a deadly weapon and family violence, according to the Midland Reporter-Telegram.

Arrest documents state police were dispatched to a residence in Midland where they found Natasha Morris Moore hanging by a curling iron cord in the bedroom closet.

The Reporter Telegram states Ben Moore said he had been arguing with his wife, a former Howard County resident who attended Forsan schools, and she stormed into the closet with a curling iron in her hand. Moore said he heard a commotion from the closet and looked inside. There he saw his wife hanging from the cord.

"Instead of cutting her down, Moore found a stick and poked her to see if she was responsive, according to the affidavit," the newspaper report stated.

"Moore later added that someone might have snuck in and hung her, although there was no back door and Moore was sitting by the front door, according to the affidavit."

Groups to stress child safety at Chamber health fair

By LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer

Scenic Mountain Medical Center is teaming up with the Big Spring Citizen's Police Academy Alumni to spread community awareness with the message to never leave any child behind in the vehicle.

"We have about 100 car window stickers that the alumni will be giving out at their (Health Fair) booth that says 'Please Don't Forget Me'," said Kristina Everett, SMMC trauma coordinator. "I would recommend parents place the sticker on the driver's side window."

According to the website KidsandCars.org, more than 50 percent of child vehicular heat stroke deaths occur when a child is unknowingly left in a vehicle. On average, 37 children died of heat stroke a year in the nation because they were left in a vehicle, the site stated.

The Texas Department of Family and Protective Services recommends the following tips to help prevent this type of tragedy:

Never leave a child alone in a vehicle. According to Kids and Cars, children have died from heatstroke in cars in temperatures as low as 60 degrees. A child's body overheats three to five times faster than an adult body. Even with the window cracked temperatures can rise very quickly in a vehicle.

Make it a habit to look in every seat every time before you exit the vehicle.

Always lock the vehicle and put the keys out of reach of children.

The Police Citizen's Alumni will at the Big Spring Chamber's Annual 2016 Health Care Fair on April 9, from 8 a.m. until noon at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum located on the Howard College campus, 1001 Birdwell Lane. Besides handing out the window

Darlene Minnie Krueger Read

Darlene Minnie Krueger Read left this earth on Feb. 27, 2016. She was born on Sept. 23, 1931 and was 84 years old when she passed away. Darlene was a faithful Christian and treasured her faith.

Darlene was born to George and Lydia Krueger on their farm at Mountain Park, Okla. She graduated from Mountain Park High School in 1949. She worked a short time at a bank in Mountain Park. She then worked as a telephone operator for ATT. Before moving to Texas, Darlene lived on a farm in Roosevelt, Okla. with close ties, church, and friends in Hobart.

Darlene had five brothers and sisters. Earl and Leon preceded her in death. Ruby of Linn, Miss. and Neal Krueger of Bixby, Okla., and Edna Gunn of Houston survive Darlene. She is also survived by her daughter, Lori Wright of Houston, Texas, and step-children Eddie Read of Spring Branch, Texas and Mischa Read Harris of Parker, Texas; five step-grandchildren and seven step-great grandchildren. Darlene moved to Coahoma in 1984 from Oklahoma after her marriage to Bill Read in August. Royce Clay, a Church of Christ minister, was instrumental in their meeting and performed the wedding ceremony in Big Spring.

Bill had just lost his wife the year before and was very lonely. Darlene came into his life and lit it up again. They shared their life together for 24 years before Bill's death in 2009. They not only became husband and wife but best friends also.

Not often do children get to experience a second wonderful mother that loved them and took fantastic care of their father and loved him to her fullest. It was an honor to care for her in her final days. Mischa's undying dedication, compassion, and love made her the perfect fit to manage Darlene's affairs the final six years of her life. Eddie was kept informed, always loved his step-mother and was present as often as he could be.

A memorial service honoring Darlene will be held on April 2, 2016 at 11 a.m. at the Coahoma Church of Christ.

Kathryn Minyonne Lomax

Kathryn Minyonne Lomax, 85, of Alpine, formerly of Big Spring, died Tuesday, March 22, 2016 in Alpine. Graveside services will be held Thursday, March 31, 2016 at Mt. Olive Memorial Park in Big Spring under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home and Crematory of Big Spring.

Minyonne was born in Big Spring, Texas on Sept. 19, 1930. Her parents were Everett and Lille Mae Lomax and her grandparents were Louis and Mollie Lomax, and Henry and Mary Potton Hayden.

She is survived by her cousins, Evelyn Stalling Adkins of Stanton and her family, Jimmy Stallings of Midland and his family, and Louis Stallings and wife, Luan of Big Spring and their family. Other relatives are Sharon Grewell and her husband, Gene of Phoenix, Ariz., and their daughter, April Meek and her husband, Jake; and Joan Jordan McCowan of Odessa. A special thank you is given to special caregivers during her illness. They are Concha Hernandez, Jean Sierra, Corina Brown, Diana Gonzales and Bobbie Lane.

Minyonne was raised on the family farm in the Lomax community in Howard County, named after her grandfather, Louis Lomax, who settled this community when he acquired ranch land in 1922 and turned some into farm land. Her grandfather gave the land for the first school that was named Lomax School.

Her mother, Lillie Mae was one of the first teachers at Lomax School. Minyonne began her education at Lomax School and graduated from Big Spring High School in 1947 and then Texas State College for Women in Denton, Texas, graduating in 1951. She began her teaching career at Fannin Elementary in Midland, Texas and taught for a number of years where she was known as an excellent and strict teacher by her students. She loved hearing about her former students, one being former First Lady Mrs. Laura Bush. She later moved to Alpine where she helped her sister care for their aging mother.

Minyonne always enjoyed receiving updates on the news of her Big Spring friends and also any updates of her cousin's families. She was a member of the Episcopal Church.

Minyonne and her sister, Mary Helen, donated the Potton House to the Heritage Museum a number of years ago. The sisters spent a lot of their childhood days at the Potton House with their grandparents, the Haydens, who were associated with The Big Spring Weekly, one of the first newspapers published in Big Spring.

Minyonne and Mary Helen also arranged for the Lomax schoolhouse, which was built by their grandparents, Louis E. and Mollie Hill Lomax, to be moved to a "park like" setting in Odessa where it is being preserved and used for various functions.

The family suggests memorial be made for the Potton House through the Heritage Museum, 510 Scurry St., Big Spring, Texas 79720 or The West Texas Boys Ranch, 10223 Boys Ranch road, San Angelo, Texas 76904.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home and Crematory of Big Spring. Online condolences may be made at www.npwelch.com charged by Howard County law enforcement with three counts of aggravated sexual assault, according to court records. In 2003, he was convicted of the charges and sentenced to two years in a Texas Department of Criminal Justice prison, with the convictions probated for five years. His probation was revoked in 2004 and he was sentenced to two years in prison on each count. Moore was back in front of a judge in 2008 when he was convicted of felony theft. He received a three-year prison sentence. According to news reports, his wife remains in critical condition. If she dies, a Midland city spokesman said Moore's charges would be elevated to murder.

Hope everybody has been enjoying the longer daylight hours. Now you have more hours to get a book read! Since I ran out of time last week, I will tell you about a few fiction books first.

Danielle Steel has a novel "Precious Gifts" (F STE D) that tells the story of a man's last wish to make a difference and of the loved ones he leaves behind fulfilling their destinies at last. This story takes readers from New York and Los Angeles to the art capitals of Europe and the South of France. Inspiring and uplifting, it is a deeply moving exploration of the rich territory of loss, inheritance, and reawakening.

"The Girl on the Train" by Paula Hawkins (F HAW P) is an emotionally immersive, Hitch-cockian thriller and an electrifying debut. Rachel takes the same commuter train every morning and night. She starts to feel like she knows the couple she sees breakfasting on their deck at the first stop signal. Then she sees something shocking. It's only a minute until the train moves on, but it's enough. Unable to keep it to herself, Rachel goes to the police. Soon she is deeply entangled not only in the investigation but in the lives of everyone involved.

"The Humans" by Matt Haig (F HAI M) is a funny and most devastating dark comedy. When an extraterrestrial visitor arrives on Earth, his first impressions of the human species are less than positive. Taking the form of Professor Andrew Martin, the visitor is eager to complete the gruesome task assigned him and hurry back home to the Utopian world of his own planet. As time goes on, he starts to realize there may be more to this weird species than he has been led to believe. Slowly, he forges bonds with Martin's family, and in picking up the pieces of the professor's shattered personal life, he begins to see hope and beauty in the humans' imperfections and begins to question the mission that brought him there.

For all the large print mystery book fans, we have many to choose from.

"Ripped from the Pages" by Kate Carlisle (LP M CAR K) is a bibliophile mystery. Book-restoration expert Brooklyn Wainwright attends an excavation of caves deep under her parents' commune in Northern California where a room is unearthed that contains a treasure trove of artwork, rare books, a chest of jewelry, and a perfectly mummified body.

"Peril by Ponytail" by Nancy J Cohen (LP M COH N) is a bad hair day mystery. Hoping for a romantic honeymoon at an Arizona dude ranch, hairstylist Marla Vail and her husband arrive to find a series of mishaps plaguing the resort. More comfortable sleuthing than horseback riding, Marla delves into the investigation and discovers skeletons in the family closet.

Bill Crider's "Between the Living and the Dead" (LP M CRI B) is a Dan Rhodes Mystery. Texas Sheriff Dan Rhodes is called in the middle of the night to investigate gunshots at a haunted house. Rhodes finds the body of meth dealer Neil Foshee who was recently released from jail. Complicating matters is Seepy Benton who wants to solve the murder by communing with Foshee's ghost.

"The Bitter Season" by Tami Hoag (LP M HOA T) tells the story of detective Nikki Liska who is newly assigned to the cold case squad but misses the urgency of hunting killers on the loose. Sam Novak, her old partner, is having a hard time adjusting to Liska's absence but is distracted from his troubles by the brutal double homicide of a university professor and his wife. As the trails of two crimes a quarter-century apart cross, Kovac and Liska race to find answers.

"The Opposite of Everyone" by Joshilyn Jackson (LP M JAC J) is a story of Paula Vauss who spent the first decade of her life on the road with her free-spirit young mother who told stories blending Hindu mythology with southern oral tradition to reinvent their history as the roved. Everything changed the day Paula told a story of her own that landed her mother in prison and Paula in foster care. Desperate to find her mother, Paula sets off on a journey of discovery that will take her back to the past and into the deepest recesses of her heart.

"The Chocolate Falcon Fraud" by JoAnna Carl (LP M CAR J) finds Lee Woodyard preparing a delicious chocolate noir tie-in at TenHuis Chocolate. Lee isn't prepared for a blast from the past in the form of her former stepson, Jeff, who wound up being accused of murder the last time he showed up in town. He says he's only in town for the film festival but ends up missing. Then a body falls at Lee's feet when she opens the front door—just like in the movie.

Joy Fielding's "She's Not There" (LP M FIE J) thrusts Caroline Shipley fifteen years into the past to a resort in Baja, Mexico. Caroline's husband convinces her to leave their two young daughters alone in their hotel suite while they enjoy dinner in the restaurant downstairs. Upon returning, they discover their two-year-old daughter has vanished. Her heart nearly stops when she hears the words "I think I'm your daughter" over the phone. Plunged back into the heartbreak of her daughter's disappearance, Caroline doesn't know what to believe. One thing she is sure of is that someone is determined to hide the truth of what happened.

"Clawback" by J. A. Jance (LP M JAN J) is an Ali Reynolds novel. When Ali Reynolds's parents lose their life savings to a Ponzi scheme, her father goes to confront his longtime friend and financial advisor, only to stumble into the scene of a bloody double homicide. With her father a prime suspect, Ali and her husband work to clear her father's name, while at the same time seeking justice for her parents as well as the scheme's other suddenly impoverished victims, one of whom is a stone cold killer.

"Devonshire Scream" by Laura Childs (LP M CHI L) is book 17 in the Tea Shop Mystery series. Catering a high-class trunk show is a shining achievement for Theodosia and the Indigo Tea Shop. As Theo settles in to enjoy the fruits of her labor, the party is crashed by a gang of masked muggers who steal the gems and jewels on display. Although the last thing Theo wants is to get involved, she can't help but intercede when the owner and dear friend begs for help in figuring out who committed the brutal burglary.

James Patterson's "NYPD Red 4" (LP M PAT J) chases a ruthless murderer with an uncontrollable lust for money and blood. NYPD Red is a elite task force assigned to protect the rich, famous, and connected in the city where crime never sleeps. Detective Zach Jordan and his partner and former girlfriend, Kylie MacDonald, are the best that Red has to offer. Both are brilliant and tireless investigators who will stop at nothing to crack a case, even if it means putting their own complicated lives on the back burner. From celebrity penthouses to the depths of Manhattan's criminal underworld, Zach and Kylie are soon in hot pursuit of a cold-blooded killer with everything to lose, and millions to gain if he can just shake the detectives on his trail. With the city on edge, the mayor out of patience, and the flames of their personal relationship threatening to reignite and ruin everything, Zach and Kylie are facing down their worst fears and their worst enemy yet.

If the suspense is killing you, come find out how the story ends. These books and more are ready to hit the shelves. John Locke said, "Reading furnishes the mind only with materials of knowledge; it is thinking that makes what we read ours". Come gain some knowledge and make it your own.

Charge against Trump campaign manager overshadows primary

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The 2016 presidential race may have descended on Wisconsin — but most of the campaign buzz surrounds an incident that happened nearly a month ago in Florida.

Police there charged Donald Trump's campaign manager with simple battery Tuesday as a videotaped altercation with a reporter transformed what was another messy campaign sideshow into a criminal court summons. Trump decried the charges.

Jupiter, Florida, police determined that probable cause existed to file a criminal complaint against the Republican front-runner's most trusted political adviser, Corey Lewandowski, for an altercation that took place after a campaign appearance earlier in the month. Police on Tuesday morning issued Lewandowski a notice to appear before a judge on May 4 for the misdemeanor charge.

The unexpected development injects a court battle into an already contentious Republican primary season just a week before a high-stakes election in Wisconsin.

It came on a day that all five presidential contenders campaigned in the state, overshadowing Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker's endorsement of Ted Cruz and Bernie Sanders' push to narrow Hillary Clinton's delegate lead.

Speaking to reporters on his airplane in Wisconsin on Tuesday, Trump vowed to stand by his campaign manager and lashed out at the young female reporter who conveyed the incident to police.

"How do you know those bruises weren't there before?" the New York businessman charged.

"I'm not going to let a person's life be destroyed," Trump said of Lewandowski. "No jury, in my opinion, would convict a man and destroy a man's life over what you witnessed." He repeated that stance Tuesday night during an interview on a CNN-sponsored town hall event in Milwaukee.

Trump took his argument to the Wednesday morning network news shows as well, making reference to video surveillance film of the incident and telling NBC's "Today" show, "What's clear is that she was touching me and she broke through the Secret Service and was asking me questions."

"She wasn't yanked down," Trump said of reporter Michelle Fields, who was working at the time for Breitbart News. "She was hardly even touched. You look at her face ... I mean, her face isn't that of a woman screaming in pain."

Brad Cohen, Lewandowski's lawyer, said "the policereport doesn't match the video" of the incident. Interviewed on ABC's "Good Morning America" Wednesday, he acknowledged the video "shows contact" between Lewandowski and Field, but said, "I certainly see that she didn't lose her balance. When you watch it in real time, it's literally a half a second."

He noted Lewandowski's background as a former New Hampshire state trooper and said,

"If he sees a threat ... or something that's irregular, he thinks he can take action. It's not just a job of the Secret Service."

Police charged Lewandowski after reviewing the video, obtained from security at the Trump-owned property. Police determined the video shows Lewandowski grabbing Fields as she tried to ask Trump a question after a March 8 appearance.

It's unclear what impact, if any, the news will have on Trump's march toward his party's presidential nomination. Critics cast it as another example of why the brash billionaire would struggle to attract women in a prospective race against Clinton, the Democratic front-runner.

"What Donald Trump has been doing over these last months is inciting violent behavior, aggressive behavior that I think is very dangerous and has resulted in attacks on people at his events including this charge that has now been brought against his campaign manager," Clinton said in La Crosse, Wisconsin. "I think ultimately the responsibility is Mr. Trump's."

The New York businessman's Republican rivals also seized on the news.

Texas Sen. Ted Cruz said the incident is "the consequence of the culture of the Trump campaign — the abusive culture when you have a campaign that is built on personal insults, on attacks and now physical violence."

Ohio Gov. John Kasich said he "probably would suspend somebody" depending on the evidence available.

President crystalizes criticism of campaign coverage

NEW YORK (AP) — President Barack Obama's turn as a media critic this week may not have thrilled many journalists, but it has forced a new look at how a media-saturated presidential campaign is being covered.

Obama's challenge to reporters to be more probing comes at a time the media is facing two seemingly contradictory strains of criticism for its treatment of Republican front-runner Donald Trump: that it has covered him too much, or not done enough to look into his background.

Obama, speaking Monday night at a Syracuse University awards ceremony honoring the late political journalist Robin Toner, said he's not the only one dismayed by the tone of the campaign to succeed him. "I was going to call it a 'carnival atmosphere,' but that implies fun," he said. He said he always believed there was a price to pay if a politician said one thing and did another and wondered "in the current atmosphere, is that still true?"

For reporters, he said "a job well done is about more than just handing someone a microphone." The billions of dollars in free media should come with "serious accountability, especially when politicians issue unworkable plans or make promises they can't keep," he said.

Steve Capus, executive producer of the "CBS Evening News" and a former NBC News president, said Tuesday that he's wary of politicians who become media critics. Lumping all of the media together is not accurate.

"When he calls for holding people accountable and talks about the role of the press in a free society, we would agree," Capus said. "I kind of think that's part of our marching orders on a daily basis."

Obama's criticism fell flat on MSNBC's "Morning Joe." Host Joe Scarborough and Politico founder Jim VandeHei said that while Obama is urging the press to do better, he's had his own challenges running an open government.

Much of the criticism seems directed at cable news networks, which have been covering the campaign virtually nonstop for the past several months. They've been rewarded financially: Fox News Channel reported Tuesday that it will finish the first three months as the top-rated network in all of cable TV, the first such quarterly victory in the net-work's history.

CNN's chief executive Jeff Zucker has refined the strategy of "flooding the zone," or staying on one big story nearly exclusively while it's hot, and driven the use of town hall meetings with candidates to feed the political interest. Since the beginning of 2016, CNN has averaged 1.62 million viewers in prime time on weeknights, the Nielsen company said. Last year, CNN had 572,000 viewers during the same period.

News in brief

Unusual dissent erupts inside Cuban Communist Party

HAVANA (AP) — Days after President Barack Obama's historic visit, the leaders of Cuba's Communist Party are under highly unusual public criticism from their own ranks for imposing new levels of secrecy on the future of social and economic reforms.

After months of simmering discontent, complaints among party members have become so heated that its official newspaper, Granma, addressed them in a lengthy front-page article Monday, saying the public dissatisfaction is "a sign of the democracy and public participation that are intrinsic characteristics of the socialism that we're constructing."

The article did little to calm many party members, some of whom are calling for a Communist Party congress next month to be postponed to allow public debate about the government's plans to continue market-oriented reforms for Cuba's centrally controlled economy.

"The base of the party is angry, and rightly so," party member and noted intellectual Esteban Morales wrote in a blog post published before Obama's visit. "We've gone backward in terms of democracy in the party, because we've forgotten about the base, those who are fighting and confronting our problems on a daily basis."

Across the country, Cuba's ruling party is facing stiff challenges as it tries to govern an increasingly cynical and disenchanted population.

Two Republican governors, two different calculations

ATLANTA (AP) — Two Republican governors. Two proposals at the heart of LGBT rights. One rejection. One new law.

Georgia's Gov. Nathan Deal said he was preventing discrimination and protecting commerce when he announced his veto of a measure that would have allowed certain individuals, businesses and faith organizations to deny services based on "sincerely held religious beliefs."

In North Carolina, Gov. Pat McCrory said he was protecting his citizens' privacy and using "common sense" when he signed into law a bill that, among other things, prohibits local anti-discrimination ordinances and obligates transgender people to use restrooms matching the gender on their birth certificates.

Their moves highlight a familiar GOP fault line between business conservatives, led by large corporations that have embraced LGBT rights, and social conservatives, who have ramped up their calls for their own legal protections since the U.S. Supreme Court legalized same-sex marriage last year.

The tussle is particularly fierce in statehouses like those in Atlanta and Raleigh, where the GOP holds overwhelmingly majorities.

US to beef up military presence in Eastern Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say the Pentagon will be deploying an armored brigade combat team to Eastern Europe next February as part of the ongoing effort to rotate troops in and out of the region to reassure allies worried about threats from an increasingly aggressive Russia.

The officials said the Army will announce Wednesday that it will be sending a full set of equipment with the brigade to Europe. Earlier plans had called for the Pentagon to rotate troops into Europe, where they would have used a set of training equipment pre-positioned there.

The new proposal would remove the pre-positioned equipment, send it to be refurbished, and allow the U.S. forces to bring more robust, modern equipment in with them when they deploy. There are about 4,500 soldiers in an armored brigade, along with dozens of heavy vehicles, tanks and other equipment.

Wednesday's announcement is also aimed at easing worries in Europe, where allies had heard rumblings about the pre-positioned equipment being removed and feared the U.S. was scaling back support.

Officials also said the Army would send additional communications equipment to Europe so that headquarters units could have the radios, computers and other equipment needed to work with the brigades.

Ally to power broker Suu Kyi sworn in as Myanmar's president

NAYPYITAW, Myanmar (AP) — Htin Kyaw, a trusted friend of Nobel laureate Aung San Suu Kyi, took over as Myanmar's president on Wednesday, calling it a "historic moment" in the country's long-drawn transition to democracy after decades of military rule.

In a day full of ceremony and symbolism, Htin Kyaw was sworn in along with his two vice presidents and 18-member Cabinet. Suu Kyi, the face of Myanmar's pro-democracy movement, takes on a prominent role as the country's new foreign minister and the head of three other ministries.

The swearing in was held in an austere hall of parliament, with lawmakers dressed in traditional costume. A few hours later, outgoing President Thein Sein shook hands with his successor and handed him a letter officially transferring power.

While it was a momentous day in the history of this impoverished Southeast Asian country, democracy still feels incomplete. The military retains considerable power in the government and parliament, and the president himself will play second fiddle to Suu Kyi, who has repeatedly said she will run the country from behind the scenes because the military has ensured — through a constitutional manipulation — that she cannot be the president.

Flint official: State overruled plan for corrosion control

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Shortly before this poverty-stricken city began drawing its drinking water from the Flint River in April 2014 in a cost-cutting move, officials huddled at the municipal water treatment plant, running through a checklist of final preparations.

Mike Glasgow, the plant's laboratory supervisor at the time, says he asked district engineer Mike Prysby of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality how often staffers would need to check the water for proper levels of phosphate, a chemical they intended to add to prevent lead corrosion from the pipes. Prysby's response, according to Glasgow: "You don't need to monitor phosphate because you're not required to add it."

Recalling the meeting Tuesday in an interview with The Associated Press, Glasgow said he was taken aback by the state regulator's instruction; treating drinking water with anti-corrosive additives was routine practice. Glasgow said his gaze shifted to a consulting firm engineer in attendance, who also looked surprised.

"Then," Glasgow said, "we went on to the next question."

Caregivers of people with dementia face financial hardships

CHICAGO (AP) — Many relatives and friends providing financial support or care to people with dementia have dipped into their retirement savings, cut back on spending and sold assets to pay for expenses tied to the disease, according to a survey released Wednesday by the Alzheimer's Association.

About one in five go hungry because they don't have enough money.

"This was a big shocker for us," said Keith Fargo, Alzheimer's Association director of scientific programs.

Fargo said he didn't expect so many families to be struggling. He said the survey shows that people are not prepared for the high costs of home care or nursing home care. The median cost of a home care aide is $20 per hour and the average cost of a semi-private room in a nursing home is $80,300 per year.

YMCA Party Planner

Party planners conceive, organize, and execute special affairs such as corporate receptions, weddings, birthday parties, anniversaries. They custom design an event to suit their customers' needs and budgets.

Party planners often do extensive research and assume all responsibilities for planning a party, from ordering the food and sending the invitations to making special parking arrangements. They must also be present during the event to handle any problems that arise. In addition, they remain at the site after the affair is over to supervise the cleanup.

Forsan sweeps Ira in district doubleheader

Forsan's Bryce Hergert throws the ball back into the infield after fielding a ground ball in Tuesday's 7-5 win over the Ira Bulldogs.

By DREW WILLIAMS

Sports Editor

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes (9-5, 3-0) are off to a perfect start in district play after sweeping the Ira Bulldogs in a doubleheader Tuesday.

The Buffaloes followed their district-opening 19-2 win over Rotan March 21 with two wins on Tuesday over Ira, 18-0 and 7-5.

In the first game, Forsan was able to take advantage of Ira's mistakes because Ira wouldn't stop making them. The first innings saw five Buffalo runs score without the team notching a single hit. The second inning was more of the same as nine runs were scored for Forsan, while only getting four hits in the inning. Errors throughout the defense from Ira, including multiple dropped balls by their shortstop, were a huge benefit for Forsan. The 14-0 lead on four hits was enough for the Buffaloes to coast to the 18-0 run-rule win.

The second game was vastly different from the first. It started out a pitcher's duel, with the score 2-1 until the bottom of the second inning. In that frame, Forsan's Hayden Tubb started things off with a single to right field. He would steal second base, and after a failed pickoff attempt that sent the ball past the center fielder for two errors on the play, he tied the game at 2-2 by crossing home plate.

The Buffaloes got the lead later in the inning. With two outs, Bryce Gartman walked and Austin Darden was hit by a pitch. Blaze Yeater followed with a triple to the right-center gap that brought in both runners, and Yeater later scored in the inning on a passed ball that gave Forsan a 5-2 lead after four innings.

But Ira battled back in the top of the sixth. Forsan pitcher Braden East got the leadoff hitter, but three straight singles by the Bulldogs put East in trouble. A passed ball allowed Ira to get within one, and with two runners on in scoring position, Ira's Hunter Cotton singled past the second baseman to knot the game at five.

In the bottom half, the Buffaloes started things off with a Gartman hit-by-pitch and a Darden walk, bringing up Yeater again with two on. He hit his second triple of the game into the gap to drive in both runs, and East pitched his way around a walk and a single in the top of the seventh to give Forsan the 7-5 victory.

"Hats off to their pitcher in the second game, he did a good job. We just didn't put the ball in play like we're capable of, but we were able to scratch out a few runs here and there to pull it out. Braden East up there on the mound competed

Harden, Rockets rally to stuns LeBron-less Cavs, 106-100

By STEVE HERRICK

Associated Press

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Cavaliers appeared headed to a victory without LeBron James.

Then James Harden and the Houston Rockets had the final say.

Harden scored 27 points and the Rockets rallied from a 20-point deficit for a 106-100 victory over the Cavaliers, who rested James.

Cleveland led 62-42 early in the third quarter before Houston, fighting to make the playoffs, roared back. Harden scored 18 points in the fourth and Houston outscored Cleveland 35-16 in the period.

"That's what the first three quarters were for — to figure out what they were doing," Harden said. "Even when we got down 20 points, we felt confident because they weren't shooting the ball well, even when they were winning."

Dwight Howard's free throw with 2:13 left put Houston ahead 95-94. Harden's 3-pointer made it 98-94 before Kyrie Irving hit a 3-pointer with 1:30 left, making it a one-point game.

Both teams missed shots on their next possession, but Trevor Ariza's 3-pointer from the corner with 17 seconds left gave Houston a 101-97 lead.

Irving scored 31 points for Cleveland, which fell to 1-3 this season and 4-13 over the last two when James doesn't play.

The victory marked the 12th time Houston has come back from a double-figure deficit to win a game.

"I don't think we pay attention to the score at all times, honestly," Howard said. "Tonight, we just kept fighting and pushing through, so I'm happy."

Cleveland (52-22) leads Toronto by 2 1/2 games for the top seed in the East. The win moves Houston (37-38) a half-game ahead of Dallas for the eighth spot in the West.

"A few plays didn't go our way in the fourth quarter and that kind of cemented them getting back in the game," Irving said.

Michael Beasley scored 17 points while Ariza added 15 for Houston. Howard had 11 points and 11 rebounds.

Cavaliers forward Tristan Thompson, who played in his 362nd consecutive game, the longest streak in franchise history, scored 16 points and had 10 rebounds. Kevin Love added 13 points and 11 rebounds.

Houston won despite a dreadful night from the foul line where the Rockets were 21 of 42 and Howard was 7 of 22.

Cleveland led 91-83 on Thompson's basket with 6:36 to go, but the Rockets used a 12-0 run to go ahead. The Cavaliers didn't score again until Irving

Curry, Warriors a victory closer to season wins record

By JANIE McCAULEY

AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Steve Kerr and his do-everything superstar, Stephen Curry, expected Golden State to build on its championship run of last season.

This record, though? No way.

And 60 games over .500 at this stage? Yeah, right.

Curry knocked down six more 3-pointers to increase his record total on Tuesday to 26 points, and Warriors beat the Washington Wizards 102-94 on Tuesday night to stay on track for the all-time wins record.

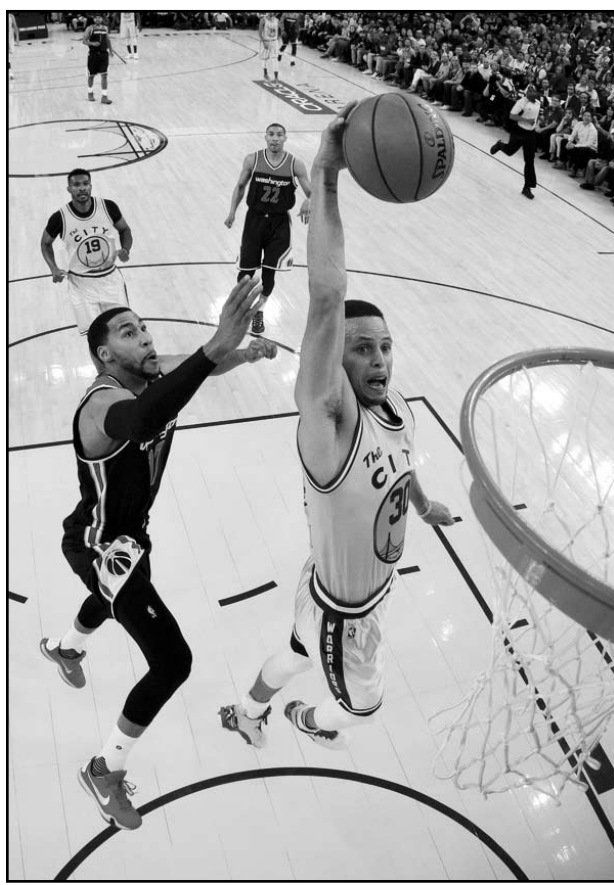

Klay Thompson followed back-to-back 40-point games with 16 as Golden State (67-7) stayed a game ahead of the 1995-96 Chicago Bulls' pace during their 72-10 season. The Warriors matched their win total of last season and must go 6-2 over the final eight games to have the record all to themselves.

Kerr thought "maybe our record would get a little worse" as defending champs.

"I was under the same impression that our record might not be indicative of the progress we might have made over the course of the season. And not to get discouraged if we couldn't match what we did last year knowing that the ultimate goal is to win a championship," Curry said.

"As you go through the season and kind of get lost in the journey, we should be able to accomplish both: be a better team and better our record, which we're on

Rangers get C Holaday in trade with Tigers

Carlos Osorio/Associated Press

SURPRISE, Ariz. (AP) — The Texas Rangers have acquired catcher Bryan Holaday in a trade with the Detroit Tigers.

Holaday hit .281 with two homers and 13 RBIs in 24 games with Detroit last season. The Dallas native played college ball at TCU.

Detroit received minor league right-hander Myles Jaye and catcher Bobby Wilson in Tuesday's deal. Wilson played for Tampa Bay and Texas last season, batting .189 with a homer and 14 RBIs in 56 games.

The Rangers said Holaday will join the team on Friday. Holaday, who made his major league debut with Detroit in 2012, is a .251 hitter with three homers and 30 RBIs in 108 career games.

Texas also designated left-hander Sam Freeman for assignment.

Lost & Found

We found an injured female dog, medium size brown and looked as if she may have just had a litter of puppies, on Gregg and 12th st. She had just been struck by a vehicle. She had a pink collar but no tags. We took her to the animal shelter on Friday night as instructed by the sheriff department dispatch. We hope that the owner could find her so that she can nurse her puppies.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Clash of Mercury and Pluto

Once words leave the lips their journey is uncontrolled. Who knows how they will land on distant shores and what the reception will be there? Today, Mercury, minister of communication, throws fighting words at Pluto, lord of the underworld. However brief the strike, it will be unsettling and not without long-term residue.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Your posture, tone and word choice will telegraph your status. Note that it is not automatically better to try and claim a higher status. There will be many benefits to showing deference to the others involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Being a know-it-all has surprisingly few perks, but there are quite a few bonuses that go along with being someone who is willing and eager to learn from the knowledgeable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You'll be privy to problems that fascinate you and problems that bore you to tears. Pick your company carefully. Since you're likely to get involved, it may as well be with problems you find interesting.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). When you want to go where the action is, you have to expect the traffic. You'll get stuck in some metaphoric version of this and the best way to handle it is to relax, listen to music and accept that this comes with the territory.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). It is said that nature abhors a vacuum, and so do cats. As the lion of the zodiac, you should know! As soon as one thing drops out of your schedule and energy field, you'll prepare to fill the void with something better.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You may offer to help people out of a need to be useful, but please know that you do not need to be useful to be loved. Also consider that the easiest way to keep your word is not to give it in the first place.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). It is said that there are no mistakes, only lessons. However, when one misses the freeway exit, thus adding 10 miles to the journey and arriving quite late, one can't help but think that some "lessons" are truly unnecessary.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Humans are not born knowing how to be moderate, restrained and emotionally mature. Those who display these qualities have blundered plenty. If you happen to misstep, forgive and correct yourself. Don't dwell on it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Yours is the plan that's going to work -- once you convince the others, that is. Persuasion will be tricky, requiring that you lay back, play it cool and let them think it's all their idea.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). When you expose your feelings, you reveal your true self. You think it's going to cause a commotion, but really it will just cause others to know you better and feel closer to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). It will flow better if you give without anticipating a return. You'll relax into your usual easy charm and mine something wonderful out of the situation you wouldn't have seen had you held on to prior expectations.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You really click with someone. This doesn't happen every day. Act on it, immediately. Maybe you won't become best friends, or even associates, but there's a drop of magic in this connection.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 30). You don't have anything to prove, and when you give up trying, you gain access to that club you've been trying to get into. Singles: Next month sparks new love connections. Couples: A shared interest will bond you. June features family helping family. August brings fresh financial resources. Virgo and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 50, 33, 10, 28 and 14.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "I'm nine and I already know that I want to be a stand-up comedian. There's one problem. My mom says I'm not funny. Do you have any advice? I'm a Cancer."

Comedy mostly comes from pain. Also, it's not as easy as it looks. Your sign is sensitive, and that will be an advantage for you. You'll be hurt by things and eventually find a way to turn that into laughs.

Know the difference between "jokes" and "material." Generally, jokes aren't that funny, even though the whole purpose of a joke is to make people laugh. But the material you come up with on your own will have a better chance of being funny, because you created it.

Take note of what makes you laugh and think about what makes it funny. Is it a tone of voice? Is it the subject matter? Was it that you were not expecting the character to react in a certain way? When you're watching television and something makes you laugh, think about why.

When your mom says that you're not funny, don't take it personally. She probably means that you're annoying her in some way. Annoyed people don't laugh.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: The start of 2016 was earth-shattering for Celine Dion, with the loss of both her husband and her brother to cancer. Part of the healing prescription for this angel-voiced Aries was to get back to work, sharing her love and heartbreak through song in her smash-hit Vegas show. Dion was born when the moon and Mars were in Taurus, which rules the voice.

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: I have a beautiful daughter who is in rehab for drug addiction. For the past two years, she has had an abusive boyfriend who also encouraged her drug use. He broke up with her before she entered the facility, but I just discovered that she has been calling him.

I want to call the boyfriend and tell him not to accept her calls or I will turn the names of his dealers over to the police. What should I do? -- Worried Mother

Dear Mother: Instead of issuing threats, contact the facility and let them know that your daughter is maintaining contact with an abusive, drug-using boyfriend. This is probably against the rules, in which case, they would take away her phone privileges.

Ask the facility for help with the drug dealers. This could be dangerous.

Then contact the National Domestic Violence Hotline (thehotline.org) and ask for their help in disentangling your daughter from her abusive relationship. This is not going to be easy, Mom. We hope you can transmit some of your strength to your daughter.

Dear Annie: I am writing about the responses to "Please Leave Animals at Home." I am touched by the people who wrote in support of service animals. I know firsthand the independence they bring through their trained skills. I have been using a service dog since 2001. However, I feel it is important to correct some information that these supporters mentioned.

Service animals are defined by the Americans with Disabilities Act. They include only dogs or miniature horses. They must have a trained skill that is directly related to the individual's disability. Emotional support and companionship are NOT service dog skills.

Service animals are allowed in all places the public is allowed to go. They are to be under control of their handler and working when in public. Stores cannot require that they ride in shopping carts. When it is not obvious what service an animal provides, only limited inquiries are allowed. Two questions may be asked: (1) Is the dog a service animal required because of a disability, and (2) what work or task has the dog been trained to perform. You cannot ask about the person's disability or demand medical documentation, nor can you ask that the dog demonstrate its ability.

Service animals are not required to wear special vests or tags. But they must be harnessed, leashed or tethered, unless this interferes with the animal's work. The team should have good public behavior. Allergies and fear of dogs are not valid reasons for denying access or refusing service to people using service animals.

The rules for visiting therapy dogs or emotional support animals are different. They must have documentation and do not have public access rights. Emotional support animals are addressed under the Fair Housing Act and the Airline Carrier Access Act. Service dogs deserve respect and access for the work they are doing.

-- Kristin Hartness, Executive Director, Canines for Disabled Kids

Dear Kristin Hartness: We appreciate your clarifying the difference between trained service animals and emotional support animals. Thank you for writing.

Opening lead — six of hearts.
It was pointless to ask Sylvia why she had made a certain bid or play, even though the bid or play might have been one that — if they had made it themselves — would cause most players to question their own sanity.
Sylvia had her own conception of how the game should be played. Her thoughts followed what seemed to her to be logical lines, and yet, at the same time, these thoughts appeared to others to be as far removed from reality as it was possible to get.

Naturally, Sylvia's pyrotechnics produced many weird results, but not all of them worked to her disadvantage. Every once in a while, she scored a totally unexpected triumph, and it was these occasions that made her the most talked-about member of the club.
Sylvia was playing in the expert game one day and held the East hand. West led a trump against six hearts, and after taking Sylvia's nine with the ace, South led a low spade to dummy's eight.
Most players would have won the eight with the queen, but Sylvia, true to herself, took the trick with the ace and returned a trump to South's king. Declarer then drew Sylvia's last trump, cashed the king of spades and continued with the jack.
After West followed low, South confidently discarded a club from dummy, certain that Sylvia could not have the queen. He then went into a state of shock when Sylvia produced the queen to set the slam.

Tomorrow: There's only one right play.

This Date In History

Today is Wednesday, March 30, the 90th day of 2016. There are 276 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 30, 1981, President Ronald Reagan was shot and seriously injured outside a Washington, D.C., hotel by John W. Hinckley Jr.; also wounded were White House press secretary James Brady, Secret Service agent Timothy McCarthy and a District of Columbia police officer, Thomas Delahanty.

On this date:

In 1822, Florida became a United States territory.

In 1867, U.S. Secretary of State William H. Seward reached agreement with Russia to purchase the territory of Alaska for $7.2 million.

In 1870, the 15th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which prohibited denying citizens the right to vote and hold office on the basis of race, was declared in effect by Secretary of State Hamilton Fish. Texas was readmitted to the Union.

In 1909, the Queensboro Bridge, linking the New York City boroughs of Manhattan and Queens, opened.

In 1923, the Cunard liner

RMS Laconia became the first passenger ship to circle the globe as it arrived in New York.

In 1945, during World War II, the Soviet Union invaded Austria with the goal of taking Vienna, which it accomplished two weeks later.

In 1959, a narrowly divided U.S. Supreme Court, in Bartkus v. Illinois, ruled that a conviction in state court following an acquittal in federal court for the same crime did not constitute double jeopardy.

In 1964, John Glenn withdrew from the Ohio race for the U.S. Senate because of injuries suffered in a fall. The original version of the TV game show "Jeopardy!," hosted by Art Fleming, premiered on NBC.

In 1975, as the Vietnam War neared its end, Communist forces occupied the city of Da Nang. James Ruppert, 41, killed 11 members of his family at his mother's home in Hamilton, Ohio, on Easter Sunday.

In 1986, actor James Cagney died at his farm in Stanfordsville, New York, at age 86.

In 1991, Patricia Bowman of Jupiter, Florida, told authorities she'd been raped hours earlier by William Kennedy Smith, the nephew of Sen. Edward Kennedy, at the family's Palm Beach estate. (Smith was acquitted at trial.)

In 2002, Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth died at Royal

Lodge, Windsor, outside London; she was 101 years old.

Ten years ago: American reporter Jill Carroll, a freelancer for The Christian Science Monitor, was released after 82 days as a hostage in Iraq. Five years ago: A top Libyan official, Foreign Minister Moussa Koussa, defected to Britain, dealing a blow to leader Moammar Gadhafi. Tiliuk, the killer whale that had drowned trainer Dawn Brancheau in 2010 at SeaWorld in Orlando, Florida, resumed performing for the first time since the woman's death.

all day, and he did a good job," Forsan head coach Dave Park said. "We didn't change anything from game one to game two, they just had a better pitcher on the mound."

The wind played a big factor in both games, benefitting Forsan in the first, and giving both teams trouble in the second.

"A lot of their hits were little dinkers that normally I think would've been outs, but they put the ball in play when they had to," Park said.

East finished the day with 15 strikeouts in 10 innings over the course of both games, and Yeater followed his four-run first game with a four-RBI second game to lead the offense.

"We've definitely got to get better in all phases of the game," Park said. "Borden County is going to be really good and they'll be out for us, but it's good to be looking forward to that challenge. It's going to be a battle this year. Ira's got a pretty good little group, and Hermleigh and Rotan are better than they were last year, so we've got to come to play every night."

The Buffaloes take on Hermleigh at 4:30 p.m. Monday in their next district game, where they'll look to improve upon their 3-0 start.

Forsan pitcher Braden East throws a pitch in Tuesday's 7-5 win over Ira.

hit a free throw with 2:44 left. Irving's jumper with 2:17 to go tied the game at 94 but Houston then went ahead for good.

"They got stops and we couldn't make a shot," Cleveland coach Tyrone Lue said. "They were able to get out in transition and that kind of got James Harden going. That got him feeling good about himself."

Lue announced Monday that James would sit out the game as the Cavaliers try to rest their key players as much as possible over the final games of the regular season.

James, dressed in a suit, jumped up from the bench several times to encourage his teammates and joined Lue near midcourt to bark out instructions late in the second quarter.

Cleveland made six 3-pointers in the second and built a 59-40 halftime lead, but finished 14 of 40 from behind the arc.

IRON MAN

Lue praised Thompson for his durability during his consecutive-games played streak.

"There are a lot of times when guys are sick or you could be hurt and he still plays through the pain," Lue said. "For a guy who plays hard like he does and takes the pounding he does, it means a lot. It's a tribute to him."

our way to doing. For us to be playing at such a high level for two straight years and have our eyes set on the ultimate goal, it's fun."

Draymond Green had 15 points, 16 rebounds and nine assists to just miss back-to-back triple-doubles in the Warriors' 54th straight regular-season home win and 36th consecutive this season.

Bradley Beal scored 17 for the Wizards, who lost their fourth straight to Golden State.

Curry, who scored 51 points with a career-high and franchise record-tying 11 3s in the first meeting Feb. 3, shot 9 for 20 overall and 6 of 8 from long range. He added seven rebounds, seven assists and five steals.

Curry (356) and Thompson (255) already had the most combined 3-pointers by a pair of teammates in a season. Reigning MVP Curry, the first player in NBA history with 300 3s in a season, has eight games left to chase 400. Thompson is aiming to top Curry's previous record of 286 3s.

Washington was content to keep pace on both ends with the Warriors and took advantage of Golden State's sloppy execution on the offensive end. Curry missed an open layup after going around Marcin Gortat and Thompson was called for traveling driving to the basket soon after with his team down by nine.

But the Warriors finished the first half on a 12-0 run for a 49-46 lead at the break.

"Against a team like this that's fighting for history, 12-0 at the end of a half when you're up nine hurts," Wizards coach Randy Wittman said.

SAGER'S SPIRIT

Craig Sager worked the game for Turner Sports, his outlook as bright as his attire even after announcing last week his leukemia is no longer in remission.

"I think my demise has been prematurely reported," Sager said. "I think I'm going to kick this and make medical history and I really believe that."

The 64-year-old Sager is set to work Thursday in Houston, where he receives his chemotherapy treatments — eight days of chemo starting the final week of the regular season and into the first week of the playoffs.

Sager said there's "no doubt about it" that he'll work through the playoffs. He hopes to be assigned to San Antonio in the first round so he can go back and forth to Houston.
