Mosquito alert raised

Officials ask residents' help in containing pests

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

All that rain! All that green! All that water! All those mosquitos!

While there's no doubt that the rainy season has had more than its share of benefits — lawns and trees are flourishing and more water is making its way into reservoirs — one big downside is that mosquitos are on the rebound in a major way in the Crossroads. At their best, mosquito bites are irritating, but with the outbreak of the Zika virus — which is carried by mosquitos — area residents are being warned to use extra precaution to avoid the airborne pests.

"We have been blessed with rain, but the mosquitos are already here," Howard County Judge Kathryn Wiseman said. "For your protection and that of your family and neighbors, I'm asking all Howard County residents to help keep the mosquito population down."

Wiseman asked area residents to take the following precautions to help minimize the mosquito population:

- Check your home and

Summers on the Green

Outdoor movie series returning July 15

By LYNDEL MOODY
 Staff Writer

Throw the popcorn in the microwave and bring out the Milk Duds, it's movie time.

The Big Spring Convention and Visitors Bureau is bringing back the Summers on the Green outdoor movie and entertainment series.

"We will continue the automobile theme through 2016 with the showing of 'Grease' and the 1962 Elvis movie, 'Follow that Dream,'" said Hayley Lewis, tourism coordinator. "Before the movie there will be a bounce house and a lot of family fun, including outdoor lawn games, such as corn hole, and giant tic-tac-toe."

The first movie "Grease" will be held on Friday, July 15. The event begins around 6 p.m. at the lawn of the Hotel Settles and the movie will begin about dark, Lewis said.

Made in 1978, "Grease" is set in the fictional high school Rydell High School and stars John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John. A mega hit when released, the film features high school romance, popular musical numbers, bad boys, not so good girls, and of course, fast cars.

On Friday, Aug. 12, the King of Rock himself will return to the Hotel Settles, at least in spirit. "Follow that Dream" is a 1962 musical featuring Elvis Presley who once performed in Big Spring and stayed in the Hotel Settles. The plot of the movie is about a vagabond family whose car run out of gas down on as-yet-unopened section of highway. Presley plays Toby the son of Pop Kwimper played by Arthur O'Connell whose family is made up of various "adopted" children. Toby convinces Pop to take up residence the land. The family builds a thriving business, but of course trouble follows.

The movie series is held to highlight the Bankhead Highway, the first all-weather continental highway

SMMC honored for hepatitis vaccine efforts

Special to the Herald

Scenic Mountain Medical Center has been recognized by the Immunization Action Coalition (IAC) and the Texas Health Department, for achieving one of the highest reported rates in the state for its work to protect newborns from hepatitis B virus infection.

"We are very honored to be named to the honor roll. This recognition falls into alignment with the journey that we are taking here at SMMC. It shows that we are making great strides in the right direction," SMMC CEO Emma Krabill said. "Safety of our patients, from our smallest ones to our most seasoned ones, is our top priority and this award reflects that."

SMMC is the newest entry into IAC's Birth Dose Honor Roll, which recognizes hospitals and birthing centers that have attained high coverage levels for administering the hepatitis B vaccine at birth. SMMC immunized 100 percent of babies born March 2015 through March 2016, and took additional steps to prevent perinatal transmission of hepatitis B. SMMC is one of two facilities in Texas who achieved 100 percent.

"This is a big accomplishment for Scenic Mountain, but also for Big Spring. We cannot stress enough how much of a priority safety is when it comes to our patients and their families; however, recognition like this serves as validation of the efforts that we are putting forth," Krabill said.

The national standards of care to prevent hepatitis B virus infection in babies are to administer hepatitis B vaccine to all newborns before they leave the hospital or birthing center. This standard is being

Seine still rising in Paris as streets flood, landmarks shut

The Associated Press

PARIS — The swollen Seine River kept rising Friday, spilling into Paris streets and forcing one landmark after another to shut on Friday. Across the city, parks and cemeteries were being closed as the city braced for flooding that could take weeks to fully clear.

The Seine, which officials said was at its highest level in nearly 35 years, was expected to peak sometime later in the day. Authorities shut the Louvre museum, the national library, the Orsay museum, and the Grand Palais, Paris' striking glass-and-steel topped exhibition center.

"We evaluate the situation for all the (cultural) buildings nearly hour-by-hour," said Culture Minister Audrey Azouley, speaking to journalists outside the world-famous Louvre. "We don't know yet the evolution of the level of the Seine River in Paris."

Nearly a week of heavy rain has led to serious flooding across a swathe of Europe, leaving 15 people dead and others missing.

Although the rain has tapered off in some areas, floodwaters are still climbing. Traffic in the French capital was snarled as flooding choked roads and several Paris railway stations were shut. Basements and apartments in the capital's well-to-do 16th district began to flood Friday afternoon as the river continued to creep upwards.

At the Louvre, home to Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa," curators were moving some 250,000 artworks from storage areas at risk of flooding and taking them upstairs to safety. The Orsay museum, on the left bank of the Seine, was also closed Friday to prepare for possible flooding. The Grand Palais, which draws 2.5 million visitors a year, was also being closed.

The closures are highly unusual.

The Louvre said the museum had not taken such precautions in its modern history — since its 1993 renovation at the very least. Disappointed tourists were being turned away.

"I am really sorry, but we're closed today," one staffer told visitors. "We have to evacuate masterpieces from the basement."

Elsewhere in Europe, authorities were counting the cost of the floods as they waded through muddy streets and waterlogged homes.

German authorities said the body of a 65-year-old man

Obituaries

Billy Glenn Lain

Billy Glenn Lain of Coahoma achieved greatness on May 31, 2016, at Covenant Hospital in Lubbock after a long and courageous battle with lung cancer.

He was born to Shelton and Etta Dell Lain, in Anson, Texas, on Dec. 8th, 1935. Family and friends will always remember him as strong-willed, caring, and an extraordinary man. Bill's strong will led him to become successful in the oilfield; he later ran his own business, Lain Well Service Inc. He also enjoyed being a cowboy, working hundreds of cattle on thousands of acres by horseback on his ranch, Lain Rod Ranch.

Bill was a loving husband, father, grandfather, and friend. He is survived by his beloved wife, Rosie Lain. He is also survived by son Kenneth Lain of Abilene; daughter Donna Lowrance and husband Donny of Colorado City; stepdaughter Amanda Rivera and husband Armando of Loraine; stepson Arthur Reyes Jr. and wife Merita of Alabama; and stepson Gabriel Reyes of Austin; and grandchildren Jason, Lexi, Christin, Aaren, Leo, Skylar, and Drake.

He is also survived by his brothers, David Lain

Oflia Flores

Oflia Flores, 92, of Big Spring passed away Sunday, May 29, 2016, at Parkview Nursing and Rehabilitation Center in Big Spring.

A vigil service will be held Friday, June 3, 2016, at 7 p.m. at Myers and Smith Chapel. Funeral services will be held Saturday, June 4, 2016, at Holy Trinity Catholic Church at 11 a.m. with Deacon Johnny Arguello officiating. Burial will follow at Trinity Memorial Park.

She was born Dec. 22, 1923, to Anita and Emeterio Rocha in Carrizo Springs, Texas. Oflia married Manuel R. Flores, Sept. 3, 1941, in Corpus Christi. He preceded her in death Feb 24, 2003. She came to Big Spring in 1960, and she was a member of Holy Trinity Catholic Church. Oflia was also affiliated with Guadalupana and was very active at Sacred Heart and St. Thomas in her younger years. She

Lonnie Newton

Lonnie Newton, 66, of Big Spring died Wednesday, June 1, 2016, in a Colorado City hospital.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 4, 2016, at First Baptist Church with the Rev. Mark Lindsey, pastor, officiating. Interment will follow at Trinity Memorial Park.

He was born Dec. 10, 1949, in Big Spring, Texas, and married Diana Langley June 2, 1970, in Big Spring, Texas.

Lonnie graduated from Big Spring High School in 1968, from Texas A & M University in 1972, and received his masters degree in banking from Southern Methodist University. He was a banker in Big Spring from 1980 until retiring in 2012. He was also involved in various aspects of the agricultural industry.

Lonnie was a wonderful husband, dad and papa. He always put his family first. He was a member of and wife Joleen of Pittsburg, Texas, and Donny Lain of Liberty, Texas.

Last but not least, Bill will be missed by his dogs Jack, Lucy Mae, and Sadie.

He was led to Heaven to join his parents; his son Larry Lain; brothers Delbert and Bobby Lain; sisters Inez Kenney, Willie Ruth Davis, Jo Lynn McEwen, and Mary Helen Hensley.

Pallbearers will be Ricky Lain, Gary Lain, Joe Ditto, Terry Sanders, Tommy Joe Baker, Russell Parks, Lynn Boyd, and Milton Rangel. Honorary pallbearer is Aaren Rivera, his hunting partner, grandson, and best friend.

Visitation for family and friends will be held at Kiker-Seale Funeral Home in Colorado City from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday, June 3rd. Funeral services will be held at Oak Street Baptist Church in Colorado City, with Pastor Jackie Brem officiating, at 2 p.m. on Saturday, June 4th. Graveside services will follow at Mount Hope Cemetery in Anson, Texas, under the care and direction of Kiker-Seale Funeral Home.

The family would like to thank everyone who kept him in your thoughts and prayers.

"His life was a poem of kindness and grace, His hope, like the sun, illumined life's face, He was good to the poor-he exalted his race, He was noble, sincere, and refined!" - Larry Chittenden

According to information released by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, people infected with the Zika virus rarely die or even get sick enough to go to the hospital. Common symptoms include fever, rash, joint pain, and red eyes and usually last from several days to a week.

Zika virus infection during pregnancy, however, can cause a serious birth defect called microcephaly, as well as other fetal brain defects.

adopted by centers of healthcare excellence nationwide as a safety net to protect newborns from a wide range of medical errors that lead to babies being unprotected from perinatal hepatitis B infection.

"Hospitals and birthing centers have a responsibility to protect babies from life-threatening hepatitis B infection," said Deborah Wexler, MD, executive director and founder of

IAC. "SMMC's commitment to the best practice of hepatitis B vaccination at birth has shown them to be a leader in preventing the transmission of the hepatitis B virus."

According to the World Health Organization, hepatitis B is a viral infection that attacks the liver and is transmitted through contact with blood or other bodily fluids of an infected person. It can cause chronic illness putting a person at risk for developing liver failure, liver cancer or cirrhosis.

was found overnight in the town of Simbach am Inn, bringing the country's death toll over recent days to 10. France's Interior Ministry also reported the death of a 74-year-old man who fell from his horse and drowned in a river in the Seine-et-Marne region east of Paris, the second death in France. In eastern Romania, two people died and 200 people were evacuated from their homes as floods swept the area, including one man who was ripped from his bicycle by a torrent of water in the eastern village of Ruginesti.

In Belgium, rescue workers found the body of a beekeeper who was swept away by rising waters while trying to protect his hives. The man had been reported missing in the village of Harsin on Thursday.

The foul weather has added to travel disruption in France, which is already dealing with the fallout from weeks of strikes and other industrial actions by workers upset over the government's proposed labor reforms. French rail company SNCF said the strikes had led to the cancellation of some 40 percent of the country's high-speed trains.

In addition, French energy company Ene-dis says that more than 20,000 customers are without power to the east and south of Paris.

Outside the Louvre, tourists expressed understanding at the museum's closure.

"It's good that they are evacuating the paintings. It's a shame that we couldn't see them today, but it's right that they do these things," said Carlos Santiago, who was visiting from Mexico.

Hillary on the ropes

Late last week, the inspector general of the State Department completed a yearlong investigation into the use by Hillary Clinton of a private email server for all of her official government email as secretary of state. The investigation was launched when information technology officials at the State Department under Secretary of State John Kerry learned that Clinton paid an aide to migrate her public and secret State Department email streams away from their secured government venues and onto her own, non-secure server, which was stored in her home.

The migration of the secret email stream most likely constituted the crime of espionage — the failure to secure and preserve the secrecy of confidential, secret or top-secret materials.

The inspector general interviewed Clinton's three immediate predecessors — Madeleine Albright, Colin Powell and Condoleezza Rice — and their former aides about their email practices. He learned that none of them used emails as extensively as Clinton, none used a private server and, though Powell and Rice occasionally replied to government emails using private accounts, none used a private account when dealing with state secrets.

Clinton and her former aides declined to cooperate with the inspector general, notwithstanding her oft-stated claim that she “can’t wait” to meet with officials and clear the air about her emails.

The inspector general's report is damning to Clinton. It refutes every defense she has offered to the allegation that she mishandled state secrets. It revealed an email that hadn't been publicly made known showing Clinton's state of mind. And it paints a picture of a self-isolated secretary of state stubbornly refusing to comply with federal law for venal reasons; she simply did not want to be held accountable for her official behavior.

The report rejects Clinton's argument that her use of a private server “was allowed.” The report makes clear that it was not allowed, nor did she seek permission to use it. She did not inform the FBI, which had tutored her on the lawful handling of state secrets, and she did not inform her own State Department IT folks.

The report also makes clear that had she sought permission to use her own server as the instrument through which all of her email traffic passed, such a request would have been flatly denied.

In addition, the report rejects her argument — already debunked by the director of the FBI — that the FBI is merely conducting a security review of the State Department's email storage and usage policies rather than a criminal investigation of her. The FBI does not conduct security reviews. The inspector general does. This report is the result of that review, and Clinton flunked it, as it reveals that she refused to comply with the same State Department storage and transparency regulations she was enforcing against others.

Here is what is new publicly: When her private server was down and her BlackBerry immobilized for days at a time, she refused to use a government-issued BlackBerry because of her fear of the Freedom of Information Act. She preferred to go dark, or back to the 19th-century technology of having documents read aloud to her.

This report continues the cascade of legal misery that has befallen her in the past eight months. The State Department she once headed has rejected all of her arguments. Two federal judges have ordered her aides to testify about a conspiracy in her office to evade federal laws. She now awaits an interrogation by impatient FBI agents, which will take place soon after the New Jersey and California primaries next week. Her legal status can only be described as grave or worse than grave.

We know that Clinton's own camp finally recognizes just how dangerous this email controversy has become for her. Over the Memorial Day weekend, John Podesta, the chairman of Clinton's campaign, sent an email to her most important donors. In it, he recognizes the need to arm the donors with talking points to address Clinton's rapidly deteriorating support with Democratic primary voters.

The Podesta email suggests attempting to minimize Clinton's use of her private server by comparing it to Powell's occasional use of his personal email account. This is a risky and faulty comparison. None of Powell's emails from his private account — only two or three dozen — contained matters that were confidential, secret or top-secret.

Clinton diverted all of her email traffic to her private server — some 66,000 emails, about 2,200 of which contained state secrets. Moreover, Powell never used his own server, nor is he presently seeking to become the chief federal law enforcement officer in the land.

The inspector general who wrote the report was nominated by President Barack Obama and confirmed by the Senate in 2013, after Clinton left office. He did a commendable job — one so thorough and enlightening that it has highlighted the important role that inspectors general play in government today.

Today every department in the executive branch has, by law, an inspector general in place who has the authority to investigate the department — keeping officials' feet to the fire by exposing failure to comply with federal law.

If you are curious as to why the inspector general of the State Department during Clinton's years as secretary did not discover all of Clinton's law-breaking while she was doing it, the answer will alarm but probably not surprise you.

There was no inspector general at the State Department during Clinton's tenure as secretary — a state of affairs unique in modern history; and she knew that. How much more knowledge of her manipulations will the Justice Department tolerate before enforcing the law?

Springtime for Adolf and Donald, too

Adolf Hitler is making a big comeback this year. The leader of Germany from 1933 until his suicide in 1945, he was responsible for the murder of millions of civilians, mainly Jews, during World War II. He is considered the very embodiment of evil in our time.

So why Hitler's big bounce this year? Two words: Donald Trump.

Trump has murdered nobody. He does not advocate genocide against anyone, though he does believe in banning Muslim immigrants and visitors from entering the United States, at least temporarily, lest some carry out terrorist attacks here.

The comparison of Trump to Hitler on the internet and in the mainstream media is not meant to be an exact one. It is meant to be a warning.

It is meant to say: Hey, the good guys didn't take Hitler seriously in the 1930s and never expected him to rise to power and take over most of Europe while coming close to taking over most of the world.

But Hitler got as far as he did because of what Edmund Burke said in his most quoted quotation: “The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing.”

And the question that should be asked today with regard to Trump is, therefore, simple: Are good people doing nothing?

A lengthy, deeply researched piece on the front page of The New York Times recently quoted everyone from Holocaust scholars to Hollywood superstars to Anne Frank's stepister.

The question: Should we be worried that Trump is the thin edge of modern fascism with real menace to follow? And should we be reporting on him the way Hitler should have been reported on when he first started amassing power?

The New York Times piece, by Peter Baker, one of the most respected journalists around, at one point says: “President Enrique Pena Nieto of Mexico criticized Mr. Trump's plans to build a wall on the border and to bar Muslims from entering the United States. ‘That's the way Mussolini arrived and the way Hitler arrived,’ he said.

The real shocker, however, came not with the quotes but with the illustrations that accompanied the article. One was a photograph of Hitler and Benito Mussolini standing side by side in full military uniform and delivering the fascist salute.

Even some months ago, it would have been hard to imagine a mainstream newspaper running such a photograph. Two thoroughly loathsome mass murderers illustrating an article on the presumptive Republican nominee for president? That would have been considered way over the line — a few months ago. Today it is considered a justifiable warning.

From the Times piece: “This could be one of those moments that's quite dangerous and we'll look back and wonder why we treated it as ho-hum at a time when we could have stopped it,’ said Robert Kagan, a scholar at the Brookings Institution known for hawkish internationalism.” The piece was careful, however, to find a Trump defender or two, such as Newt Gingrich, who said: “Trump does not have a political structure in the sense that the fascists did. He doesn't have the sort of ideology that they did. He has nobody who resembles the brownshirts. This is all just garbage.”

But the piece also began by quoting William Weld, a former Republican governor of Massachusetts who a few weeks ago compared Trump's call for the deportation of 11 million undocumented immigrants in the United States to Hitler's infamous “Night of Broken Glass,” a night that marked a wave of anti-Semitism in 1938 in Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

“I can hear the glass crunching on Kristallnacht in the ghettos of Warsaw and Vienna when I hear that, honest,” Weld said of Trump's deportation plan.

Though Weld declined to call Trump a fascist, Weld did say: “My Kristallnacht analogy does evoke the Nazi period in Germany. And that's what I'm worried about: a slippery slope.”

“Analysts say Hillary Clinton's plan to defeat Donald Trump involves painting Trump as ‘dangerous and bigoted,’” Conan O'Brien said. “She plans on doing this by quoting Trump accurately.”

Which could really do him in.

Do you feel like Gideon?

If you are my age (let's just say middle-age) or older, you might have thought to yourself, "Sometimes I don't even recognize our country anymore." I know things change, time changes, and people change, but it seems that rate of change has accelerated in the last couple of decades. The United States does not seem to be the one that I learned about in history class. I recall studying the founding fathers and their belief in God, but now I see a society and culture not just drifting away from God but running in the opposite direction.

GREG SURLES

In Judges 6, God calls Gideon to deliver His people from the oppression of the Midianites. In verse 11, the angel of the Lord appears to Gideon while he was beating out wheat in a winepress in order to hide what he was doing from the Midianites. Times were tough for the Israelites. The Midianites controlled every part of their lives including their food supplies.

Normally, in those days, a person would put a threshing floor on a hill so that the breeze could carry away the chaff from the kernels of wheat. But that would have been noticed by the enemy who would come and confiscate their grain. Winepresses, on the other hand, were cut out of the bedrock at the foot of the hills, down in the valley. This location would be more concealed and this is where Gideon was forced to thresh wheat for his family.

"Now wait a minute," you may be thinking, "this is America and we are free to do what we want." Yes, this is America and we still have more liberties than many countries around the world. But let a young person pray to God in many of the public schools or read from the Bible and see what the reaction is. Our society is becoming increasingly secular, moving away from God. Religious people are told that they can practice their beliefs as long as they keep them to themselves and do not offend.

In Matthew 5:14-16, Jesus said, "You are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hidden. Nor do people light a lamp and put it under a basket, but on a stand, and it gives light to all in the house. In the same way, let your light shine before others, so that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father who is in heaven. Are you practicing your Christianity down in the valley and trying not to attract any attention from people around you? If so, maybe you have become afraid of what other people will think of you.

"We should obey God rather than men" (Acts 5:29). We must shine the light of Christ in a dark, sin-filled world. We are waging a spiritual war and fighting against the evil forces of Satan (Ephesians 6:10-18). Psalm 118:6, "The LORD is on my side; I will not fear. What can man do to me?" Proverbs 29:25, "The fear of man lays a snare, but whoever trusts in the LORD is safe." Isaiah 51:7, "Listen to me, you who know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my law; fear not the reproach of man, nor be dismayed at their revilings." And finally, Hebrews 13:6, "So we can confidently say, 'The Lord is my helper; I will not fear; what can man do to me?'"

Greg Surles is the preacher at Birdwell Lane Church of Christ.

"Big Spring's Finest Singers" in concert

Special to the HERALD

A local church is teaming up with the Big Spring Symphony Association to highlight some of the city's finest singers.

The concert, titled "Big Spring's Finest Singers," will be at 7 p.m. June 11 in the sanctuary of First United Methodist Church, located at the corner of 4th and Scurry in downtown Big Spring.

"For us it's just a real honor to be able to host the concert," said the Rev. Bill Ivins, FUMC pastor. "It's just a thing we enjoy doing, to be able to host community events at our facility."

Tickets for the concert are $10 each and can be purchased at the door the night of the concert. Advance tickets can be purchased at H-E-B supermarket, the Settles Hotel, or the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce office. Proceeds from ticket sales will benefit the Big Spring Symphony Association.

The concert will feature 60 former students of Jack Bowers. Bowers was the choir teacher at Big Spring High School from 1971 to 1979. The choir will be under the direction of Jack Bowers himself, and will also include a variety of other singers from around Big Spring.

The concert will include noted composer Randall Bass. A graduate of Lee High School in Midland, Bass earned his bachelors degree in 1976 from the University of Texas at Austin, a master of music degree in choral conducting in 1980 from the College-Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati, and pursued doctoral studies in choral and wind conducting at both Ohio State University's Robert Shaw Institute and UT-Austin.

Mr. Bass has achieved an impressive array of performances and commissions by highly-respected and prestigious ensembles. These include the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the National Symphony of Washington, D. C., the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, and the Boston Pops Orchestra.

For more information, contact First United Methodist Church at 432-267-6394.

First Christian Church

First Christian Church welcomes new and old members alike.

Mr. Dan Miracle will be guest minister for the month of June. This Sunday, he will preach a sermon on Luke 7:11-17, in which Jesus shows compassion to a widow and raises her son from the dead.

A multi-family garage sale is planned in the fellowship hall at the church on June 11, starting at 9 a.m.

Each Sunday a fellowship hour is hosted in the church's sitting area starting at 9:15 a.m. Sunday School follows at 9:45 a.m., and worship begins at 10:50 a.m.

The church is located at 911 Goliad St. The phone number is 432-517-4821. Hours of operation are usually Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. There is always someone available through the noon hour as well. However, emergencies or appointments do come up, during those times Shirley Lee, board chair is available for assistance at 432-816-6968.

Blessed Hands

Deaf Church

Pastor Jim Walterhouse and the congregation of Blessed Hands Deaf Church encourage you to gather with them in worship of Jesus Christ, Sunday at 10:50 a.m. or 2 p.m. Currently, BHDC meets inside First Baptist Church at 705 W FM 700. For detailed information about Blessed Hands Deaf Church, including Wednesday evening schedule and activities, contact Pastor Jim at jwalterhouse@gmail.com.

First Baptist Church

First Baptist Church invites everyone to the Vacation Bible School Kick-Off party, Sunday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. There will be bounce houses, carnival foods, and games for all. Vacation Bible School will be held June 6 to 10 from 6 to 9 p.m. The VBS theme is "Submerged: Finding Truth Below the Surface". The theme is drawn from Psalm 139:23-24; VBS participants will discover that Jesus sees people for for who they are on the inside, down deep, as they are 'submerged' in God's Word.

Sunday morning worship service starts at 10:50 a.m., and Pastor Mark Lindsey and the people of FBC invite you to join them for the service. If you are unable to attend, you can join in through the live stream on their website at fbcbigspring.org.

Before the service at 9:30 a.m., Sunday School groups meet throughout the building. Children come together in the Good News Garage on the first floor; while youth, college students, and adults gather in second-floor classrooms. "Journey" is a new Bible class led by John and Lucy Long; it meets in room 234 (west of the main foyer). Greeters are available to help you find a class and direct you to coffee. Come early to get acquainted and enjoy a time of fellowship.

The Triple LLL(Living Longer & Loving It) group invites you to join them Tuesday at noon in the Family Life Center for a tasty lunch and fun time with friends. Enter through the east kitchen doors.

Mother's Day Out and children's "Summerama" will not meet next week due to Vacation Bible School.

There's a summer of great activities planned for your teens, and Youth Pastor Jonathan Raffini encourages you to contact him at 267-8332 or call the church at 267-8223 for more information.

FBC is located at 705 W FM 700.

Forsan Baptist Church

This Sunday morning the message comes from Romans 7 and is called "Walking Papers."

This Saturday morning, men's breakfast will be served at the church starting at 9 a.m. Those who wish to help cook can be there as early as 8 a.m. Movie night also takes place this Saturday evening at sunset. Refreshments will be sold as a fundraiser for GA and RA camps.

The Sunday evening study is called "Does This Mean Me?" It will deal with discerning which passages in the Bible are descriptive stories, which are instructions for believers in the modern day, and which are examples for the lives of everyday

Reflections: Rescued

Every year I write at least one column about my dog, Buddy, a tri-color Pembroke Corgi who found his way into our home seven years ago. Animal Control picked him up off the streets of Fort Worth, skinny and sick. They called Corgi Rescue and Corgi Rescue called us.

BILL TINSLEY

When we met Buddy it was love at first sight. We adopted him, kennel cough and all. He was little more than a year old, I think. Now he is approaching middle age in dog years. He is not as fast as he once was and he carries a little more weight in his mid-section.

Buddy has a way of teaching me things about God if I take the time to listen and watch and reflect on our relationship. Shortly after we adopted him, he told me his story: how he got lost on the streets of Fort Worth, was befriended by Barney the Bloodhound and ended up in "dog jail" when the "dog police" caught up with them. I wrote it down for my Amazon, Buddy the Floppy Ear Corgi.

Buddy likes to go fishing in my flat-bottom boat. The front of the boat is his. He stands in the front and sniffs the wind to locate the fish. He is good at it. At least he thinks he is. Corgis think they are good at anything.

Once, he leaned too far and sniffed too hard and fell in the lake. Corgis aren't built for water. Their stubby legs don't give much traction for swimming. He coughed, sputtered, went under and splashed for all he was worth until I grabbed him and hauled him back into the grandchildren and published it as an e-book on boat, soaked and shivering. It reminded me of Peter's experience when he leapt from the fishing boat to meet Jesus on the Sea of Galilee. I expect Peter was a better swimmer than Buddy, but there he was splashing and floundering around in the sea, helpless. Until Jesus reached out, lifted him up and hauled him back into the boat.

God has done that for me many times. Across the years I have fallen out of the boat financially, unable to sleep at night, worried about how to make ends meet. I have sunk over my head in work, overwhelmed by responsibilities and challenges. I have found myself drowning in grief with the loss of someone I love.

Every time I have fallen into waters over my head, He has pulled me up and hauled me back into the boat. He is strong enough to save me and He will not let me drown when circumstances threaten to overwhelm me.

Jesus said, "In the world you have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world" (John 16:33). "The Lord Himself goes before you and will be with you. He will never leave you nor forsake you" (Deuteronomy 31:8).

Birdwell Lane Church of Christ

Birdwell Lane Church of Christ is located at the southwest corner of 11th Place and Birdwell Lane

The church will hold Vacation Bible School June 6 to 8 from 6 to 8 p.m. Classes are available for children of kindergarten age through sixth grade. Parents stay for the adult class in the auditorium.

Sunday Bible study starts at 9 a.m., followed by worship at 10 a.m. Evening worship is at 5 p.m., and Wednesday Bible study and devotional start at 7 p.m.

First United Methodist Church

First United Methodist Church is located just off Gregg Street at the corner of Fourth and Scurry streets in downtown Big Spring.

Each Sunday morning, the 9 a.m. Traditions service features the church's pipe organ, the Celebration Choir, and classic hymns of the faith. The Bridge worship service at 11 a.m. is led by the church's worship band and includes contemporary, upbeat music. Worship at The Bridge is led by Adrian Calvio and many others. The Bridge is broadcast live each Sunday on radio station KXCS-105.5 FM.

This Sunday during both services, Pastor Ivins will launch a new message series entitled "Summer of Love." Through the series, the congregation will explore what it means to share the love of Christ with others inside and outside the church. Sunday's message is entitled "What the World Needs Now" and is taken from Matthew 22:34-40.

On Wednesday, Pastor Ivins will continue his study on the Gospel of Mark during Noon Bible Study in Garrett Hall. A meal will be served beginning at 11:50 a.m. for a small fee. All are welcome.

On Thursday, Pastor Bill Ivins and lay delegates Paul and Ann Townsend will attend the 107th Session of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church. Alternate lay delegates are Buddy and Beverly Logsdon.

During the conference, delegates will hear reports from the quadrennial General Conference recently held in Portland, Ore. The conference will act on changes to clergy health insurance, approve the annual conference budget, honor retirees, and celebrate the ordination of several men and women into the Gospel ministry.

Also at the conference, Bishop Earl Bledsoe will appoint Pastor Bill Ivins for his sixth year of ministry at the First United Methodist Church in Big Spring. Held at the Overton Hotel in Lubbock, the three day long conference will conclude on June 11.

Preparations are also underway for the "Big Spring's Finest Singers" Concert at First United Methodist Church. The concert

Did you ever wonder? God and Moses

Let's recap and get back to our story. Moses was on Mt. Sinai for 40 days while God gave him all of the instructions. Moses came back to find the people had made an idol. They thought Moses must be dead; they needed a strong leader.

I hear comments that Moses smashed the tablets because he was high tempered. Reading the whole passage of Scripture, God saw the unfaithfulness of the people and was about to annihilate them. Moses was very humble before God. He spoke on their behalf and begged for God's forgiveness.

God decided to be merciful, but He sent them to camp a distance from His holy mountain. There the people began to construct the Tabernacle and all of its furniture. Moses carved two stone tablets, and on Mt. Sinai God engraved them.

Until the Tabernacle was completed, Moses set up a Tent of Meeting outside the camp. A pillar of cloud would descend and stand at the entrance to the tent. There God met with Moses and spoke to him "face to face, as a man would speak with his friend" (Ex 33:11).

EUNICE
FILLER

God spoke to other prophets in dreams or through angels, but He spoke to Moses face to face. This was a form that Moses was permitted to look upon because in Ex 33:20 God says, "No human can see Me and live." Yet God arranged for Moses to see God and live! Because of this, Moses is called a friend of God.

When Moses emerged from the Tent of Meeting, his face was bright red, so red that people said it glowed. The people were frightened to even stand before him and hear what God had said.

So Moses covered his face with a veil. After a few days, the red faded and he removed the veil, until God summoned him to the Tent of Meeting again.

God told Moses that He was giving the land of Canaan to the Israelites. They would have to fight to take the land from its inhabitants, but He would fight with them.

He gave them strict instructions not to mingle with the Canaanites: "Do not inter-marry or make a covenant with them because they worship idols."

He knew that eventually the lustful practices of these people would cause the Hebrews to worship their gods. God said, "The very name of Hashem is Jealous One" (Ex 34:14).

God also gave Moses a list of thirteen names by which He is known.

Each name describes a specific attribute of God's nature. Some of them are: "Compassionate and Gracious," "Slow to Anger," "Abundant in Kindness and Truth," "Preserver of Kindness for Thousands of Generations (of those who love Him)."

"Forgiver of Iniquity, Willful Sin, and Error, and Who Cleanses – But Does Not Cleanse Completely" does not translate well into English. In Hebrew it means if we truly repent for sin we committed intentionally, He will forgive but it remains written in His Book.

"Recalling the Iniquity of Parents Upon Children and Grandchildren, to the Third and Fourth Generations" is also hard to explain. If not repented, this becomes a generational curse seen in family traits like extreme anger or violence. But it can be repented and broken off! By any generation!!

Some you may have heard are: Jehovah Jirah (My Provider) and Jehovah Rofah (My Healer).

Steers receive All-District honors

By DREW WILLIAMS

Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers announced their players represented on the All-District teams earlier this week. Though there weren't any MVPs, the list had plenty of Steers.

Senior pitcher Anthony Godwin and freshman third baseman Elijah Munoz were the Big Spring players on the All-District first team.

"Godwin was an All-District outfielder his sophomore year, MVP last year, and first team this pitcher this year, rounding out a great career for the Steer baseball program," Big Spring head coach Bobby Smith said. He added that Munoz "was moved up to varsity about three weeks into the season and never missed a beat. He only made one error the whole season."

The second team All-District players for Big Spring were senior pitcher Matthew Wood, junior first baseman Matthew Tarrats, and senior catcher Bryson Burt.

Wood "got hot the last half of district and threw well, keeping the Steers in games giving us a chance to win" and Tarrats "moved in from Florida and had a good season at first base in his first year with the Steers," according to Smith.

Burt started the season at third base until Munoz was called up, eventually making his way to the designated hitter and then catcher.

"Bryson moved to catcher the last half of district when we lost our starting catcher to grades. In just a few games at catcher, Bryson did a great job earning second team honors," Smith said.

The Steers had a third pitcher on the list as sophomore Tristan Myrick was given honorable mention. "Myrick was hitting his stride and throwing well coming in as a reliever before he was injured in the second half of district. Tristan will be a good building block for the Steers pitching staff next year."

Kerr pushes all the right buttons in Game 1 win over Cleveland

By JON KRAWCZYNSKI

AP Basketball Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. — Even as he spent the first 43 games of the season on the sideline while recovering from back problems, Steve Kerr always kept his finger on the pulse of the Golden State Warriors.

That connection, the sense of what buttons to push and what whiteboards to smash, was all over Game 1 of the NBA Finals.

"He has just a great feel for the energy and the temperature of the team," said Warriors guard Shaun Livingston, who scored 20 points in Golden State's 104-89 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers on Thursday night. "He's great at just taking the temperature and finding the right matchups for us and putting us in places where we can excel."

The Warriors sent a statement to the Cavaliers that the "Strength In Numbers" message on those gold shirts that were draped over the seats at Oracle Arena is so much more than just a catchy slogan.

Kerr's first big move of the series was the one he didn't make. After veteran Andre Iguodala helped the Warriors tilt the Western Conference finals and come back from a 3-1 deficit to beat the Oklahoma City Thunder, Kerr resisted the temptation to start him against LeBron James and the Cavs.

Astros fall to D-backs

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Dallas Keuchel had a solid start on Thursday.

Unfortunately for the Houston Astros, Arizona's Zack Greinke was better.

Greinke struck out a season-high 11, and the Diamondbacks used a three-run seventh inning to beat the Astros 3-0 in a matchup of AL Cy Young Award winners.

"It just seems like every pitch I throw, the game hinges on it, and that's a tough feeling," Keuchel said. "But Greinke was as good as advertised. I thought the game was a very good pitcher's duel."

Greinke (7-3), the 2009 winner with Kansas City, allowed a season-low four hits — all singles — over seven innings and walked none. He won his fourth straight start and stopped Arizona's three-game skid.

"He throws first-pitch strikes, he throws every pitch for a strike, he pitches on the margins, he does things to entice you to swing a lot, and he had his put-away pitches going for him," Houston manager A.J. Hinch said. "It was certainly his day."

Houston, which has won its previous five games, missed a chance to sweep the four-game, home-and-home series.

Daniel Hudson struck out two in a perfect eighth. Brad Ziegler allowed one hit in the ninth and got his franchise-record 38th straight save, his 10th this season. He has the longest active saves streak among big league relievers.

Keuchel (3-7), last year's Cy Young winner, gave up three runs and six hits in six-plus innings. He has lost six of seven decisions. His struggles come a year after he won a career-high 20 games with a 2.48 ERA.

"Nobody wants to win more than I do, and I don't take these losses lightly," he said "It wears on you, and I've just got to be better."

The game was scoreless before Wellington Castillo's RBI double off Keuchel put Arizona ahead. Chris Owings added a run-scoring single and Nick Ahmed a sacrifice fly.

"They put two swings on Dallas, really the whole day, that created any sort of havoc," Hinch said. "He didn't have much room for error against Greinke."

It was the first scoreless outing this season for Greinke, who is 7-1 in his last 10 starts to lower his ERA to 4.29; he started 0-2 with a 9.90 ERA.

Greinke didn't allow a hit until George Springer's fly ball to shallow center dropped for a single starting the fourth.

Houston didn't get another hit until Tony Kemp singled with one out in the sixth. Jose Altuve singled with two outs to send Kemp to third, but they were stranded when Carlos Correa grounded out.

Keuchel had allowed just two hits, which were both singles, and had retired 10 in a row when Rickie Weeks singled to start the seventh. Castillo's double, which rolled to the wall in center field, scored Weeks.

Houston catcher Jason Castro was out with a fever.

Big leaguers may balk at Olympics

By RONALD BLUM

AP Baseball Writer

Baseball appears set to return to the Olympics for the 2020 Tokyo Games. Major leaguers may balk.

"It's not going to happen. I don't think it's fathomable," Los Angeles Dodgers ace Clayton Kershaw said.

Astros shortstop Carlos Correa wasn't sure he'd play for a gold medal even if he could.

"2020 will be my year before free agency," he said. "We'll see in 2020 what my situation is, and we'll go from there."

Baseball became a medal sport for the 1992 Barcelona Olympics but was dropped for the 2012 London Games and won't be played this year in Rio de Janeiro.

With the 2020 Games in Japan, where baseball is popular, the International Olympic Committee executive board voted this week to establish a six-nation tournament that year in both baseball and women's softball. The full IOC is to vote in August.

Chicago Cubs star Kris Bryant is torn.

"I wore 'USA' across my chest one time in college, and it was an awesome experience. It'd be fun to do that again," he said. "But baseball games are so long the way it is. You play 162 games and to add another two weeks, I don't know if it would be the best decision for ourselves and our bodies."

Because the Tokyo Olympics are from July 24-Aug. 9, Major League Baseball would have to interrupt its schedule, a 162-game-in-183-day grind that has little flexibility unless owners and the players' association are willing to cut games — and lose revenue.

"I will not comment until I have a chance to review the recommendation," Commissioner Rob Manfred said Thursday.

Speaking to the Associated Press Sports Editors in April 2015, Manfred sounded reticent.

"The Olympics are a challenge because of the calendar," he said then. "They are particularly a challenge when the site is halfway around the world and the date falls in the middle of our regular season."

Swiss police raid FIFA

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Switzerland's attorney general's office has raided FIFA again to get more evidence in its ongoing investigations of Sepp Blatter and Jerome Valcke.

"Documents and electronic data were seized and will now be examined to determine their relevance to the ongoing proceedings," the federal prosecution office said Friday, one day after the latest search at FIFA headquarters in Zurich.

Swiss attorney general Michael Lauber opened criminal proceedings against former FIFA president Blatter last September, and in March against former FIFA secretary general Valcke.

Both are suspected of criminal mismanagement of FIFA money.

"The investigations still relate only to the persons named in earlier statements issued by the OAG (office of the attorney general) and further persons unknown," Lauber's office said, adding that the search was conducted with the "aim of confirming existing findings and obtaining further information."

Blatter and Valcke deny wrongdoing but were banned for six and 12 years, respectively, by FIFA's ethics committee.

Three weeks after new FIFA President Gianni Infantino claimed that "the crisis is over," the turmoil rocking soccer's world governing body continues.

Last week, FIFA fired its longtime finance officer Markus Kattner over alleged irregular bonus payments totaling millions of dollars.

Kattner was finance officer for the last 13 years of Blatter's 17-year presidency and had been Valcke's deputy since 2007.

Blatter and Valcke are also targets or witnesses in an American investigation of bribery and corruption implicating FIFA.

Several former FIFA vice presidents are among more than 40 soccer and marketing officials, plus marketing agencies, who have been indicted by or made guilty pleas to U.S. federal prosecutors.

NBA

Iguodala was the Finals MVP a year ago for his all-around performance against the Cavaliers, but Kerr stayed with the same starting lineup that had worked during a record-setting 73-win regular season. The oft-criticized Harrison Barnes started at small forward and hit 3 of 4 shots in the first quarter to get the Warriors rolling.

"Harrison has started for two years and it's been a pretty good two years for us," Kerr said. "We've had a good run. It's been very effective playing the way we've played in terms of the lineup and the rotation. I didn't feel any need to change our lineup for Game 1 of the series."

The ability to step back and look at the bigger picture in the chaos of the moment has always been one of Kerr's strong suits and the Warriors have flourished under his even-keeled approach.

Even watching Stephen Curry and Klay Thompson morph from the greatest shooting tandem in NBA history into a pair of brick layers wasn't enough to rattle the seemingly unshakable coach.

The Splash Brothers combined for just 20 points on 8-for-27 shooting and were 4 for 13 from 3-point range. The Warriors' bench rose to the occasion, with Livingston, Leandro Barbosa and Iguodala picking up the slack and Kerr rode them during the turning point in the game, a run that really caught fire after guard Matthew Dellavedova swiped at the ball but hit Iguodala in the groin.

The Cavaliers had come back to take the lead in the third quarter, and Curry just couldn't find the mark. But Kerr trusted the depth of his team, and let his reserves take center stage for the first five minutes of the fourth quarter.

The lead ballooned to 20 points during that stretch.

"He obviously plays the matchups well," Livingston said. "Just to be able to kind of rotate is impressive."

The only time he lost his cool was when the ball stopped moving and the turnovers started coming in the third quarter. The Cavs jumped in front and Kerr shattered his whiteboard with his marker like a judo champion breaking a stack of bricks.

BASEBALL

He urged the World Baseball Softball Confederation to push for inclusion in multiple Olympics, which could become a bargaining position in negotiations among MLB, the MLBPA and the IOC.

"Conceptually, I think it would be good for our game, for baseball generically defined, to be an Olympic sport," Manfred told APSE. "I think it would be a mistake for our sport to make an arrangement with the Olympics whereby we go in for Tokyo and not have some commitment that the Olympics were going to commit to baseball over the longer haul."

The IOC wants the top players to appear in the Olympics. The NBA has sent its players since 1992 and the NHL since 1998 — although the NHL has not yet committed for the 2018 Games in Pyeongchang, South Korea.

At the 2008 Olympic baseball tournament, only those not on 25-man big league rosters as of late June were allowed to compete. The American prospects there included Jake Arrieta, who struck out seven over six innings to beat China. Stephen Strasburg defeated the Netherlands and lost to Cuba, which eliminated manager Davey Johnson's team in the semifinals.

"With regard to professional players competing in the games, as we have stated publicly in the past, we are committed to finding the best possible and most reasonable solution for 2020," union head Tony Clark said.

Wedded to routine and used to the comforts of spacious big league clubhouses, baseball players are reluctant to divert from their norm. It has taken effort from management and the union to persuade them of the benefits of regular-season games that have been played in Australia, Japan, Mexico and Puerto Rico.

"You could get a quality representation of each country if you were open to it," San Francisco catcher Buster Posey said. "I think that would be the problem, getting everybody on board. I think it'd be pretty difficult — not just players obviously, but owners and management."

MLB and the union are partners in the World Baseball Classic, a quadrennial tournament for national teams whose fourth edition is scheduled for next March. But with the Olympics, they wouldn't split any revenue. And teams likely would lobby for certain players not to risk getting hurt while with national teams.

And then there is the problem of inactivity for players who don't go to Japan.

"It depends on if the players not playing with those national teams would be OK with it, having those two weeks off," said Minnesota outfielder Max Kepler, who has played for Germany. "They'd probably be a little rusty from all that."

"I think it would have to be Triple-A guys," Baltimore's Adam Jones said.

GLASSCOCK GROUNDWATER CONSERVATION DISTRICT

NOTICE OF PUBLIC COMMENT PERIOD ON DESIRED FUTURE CONDITIONS OF DISTRICT AQUIFERS

Notice is hereby given that a 90-day public comment period opened on May 13, 2016 to take comments on proposed Desired Future Conditions for the District's aquifers which were adopted by designated representatives of Groundwater Management Area 7 at a joint planning meeting held on April 21, 2016, pursuant to Section 36.108 (d-2) of the Texas Water Code.

The proposed Desired Future Condition for Glasscock County 2070 are as follows:

Edwards - Trinity (Plateau):

Total net drawdown not to exceed forth (40) feet in 2070, as compared with 2010 aquifer levels.

Ogallala Aquifer:

Total net drawdown not to exceed 6 feet in 2070 as compared with 2012 levels. The District will schedule a Public Hearing to take oral and written comments on the proposed Future Condition prior to the expiration of the public comment period on August 11, 2016.

The district will accept written comments on the proposed Desired Future Conditions at any time until 5:00 p.m. on Thursday, August 11. Comments should be mailed to:

Glasscock Groundwater Conservation District
PO Box 208
Garden City, TX 79739

Copies of the Desired Future Conditions and supporting materials, including explanatory reports, technical memoranda and groundwater availability model runs are available at the District office.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Grand Trine Public Service Announcement

Not all the ones you call family are familiar with you. "Familiarity" is a word that describes a comfort level and depth of knowledge that doesn't always come with a shared bloodline. People have to make an effort to understand one another, regardless of DNA. This message is brought to you by a grand trine and the Taurus moon.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Cosmic rule of thumb: If you hear the same thing three times from unrelated sources, listen. Maybe you don't agree, but that's not the point. Listening -- that's the point.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Who is dragging you down? Don't be fooled by power plays and positions. Cranky people are weak people today. Stand your ground and things will go your way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). What will it take to get the attention flowing your way? You'll be weighing this out, judging your crowd and deciding what you're willing to do for a smile or an opportunity.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You've been wounded, and you'll seize the chance to help those who are currently going through similar pain. Wounded healers are the best healers, because they understand what life is like from the patient's position.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). If and when you choose to forgive, it won't be about the other person; it will be about you. It takes up a lot of energy and mental space to hold a grudge. Just think of what you might do with the extra RAM!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You'll interact with people who are so different from you that you won't even be sure how to talk to them, but it's never stopped you before. Common ground will be easily found and then come the real treasures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You'll find yourself torn in the middle of ideas about who you've been and who you want to be. This is about habits. The old habits call you back, and the new ones beckon you forward.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You don't idolize anyone; nor do you demonize anyone. You really have a balanced view of who people are and why they do what they do. This will serve you well in the afternoon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The crowd will come to you with outstretched hands. If only you could help them all. Who knows, maybe you will! If you do, it will be a byproduct of you following the impulses to help yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You'll do a new thing, the most important moments of which will be the first moments. Your brain will store those away as nuggets of inspiration and solace for years to come.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). The wise thing to do will be to hang back and quietly observe the social dynamics going on in the moment. When the time comes, you'll insert yourself into the situation that's a fine fit.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Whose agenda are you attending to? Everyone seems to want something from you. But what do you want? If you don't know yet, all will be fine. If you decide by tonight, all will be better.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 3). There's none

cooler than you this year. "Cool" is not an easy thing to be, by the way. It involves a level of self-possession that few can attain. You'll be celebrated in July and again in November. Hopefully this won't be more attention than you can handle! The friendships that sustain you will provide fun extras in September. Capricorn and Aries adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 5, 9, 20, 50 and 5.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES: Do it when you feel it. If you're afraid, feel that and proceed as though you didn't. TAURUS: People might shout at you, and that only means they feel passionately about what you're bringing. GEMINI: You're the star now, so don't let that go to your head. CANCER: If they heard you were available they would throw themselves at you. LEO: You're likely caught in the middle of two very appealing scenarios. VIRGO: The one who doesn't make contact in this age of digital wonderment and connection is telling you something. Listen up. LIBRA: As a Venus-ruled individual, you totally appreciate the fleeting nature of beauty -- you'll capture it this weekend, and how! SCORPIO: The ones who can listen between the lines will delight you now and again later. SAGITTARIUS: If you can do it on your own, it's really not a big enough goal for you. CAPRICORN: So, you got jealous. No big deal. Use it. Envy is a teacher. Who are you jealous of? What can you learn from that person? AQUARIUS: If only your exciting mind could be stylishly photographed! PISCES: Your private life will remain such for as long as you protect your own secrets.

COUPLE OF THE WEEKEND: Two Gemini are a bit much, right? That's a set of twins and another. Could they all really find a way to get along? Well, if not now then never. The Gemini sun and moon are rooting for double trouble this weekend. The real pleasure will go to the audience of a Gemini/Gemini match. These two will provide mighty entertainment in the form of tremendous wit and a graceful romantic dance.

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: My wife and I have been good friends with "Bill and June" for 30 years. Twelve years ago, my wife had surgery and lost all desire for sex. She isn't even interested in cuddling. Last year, Bill had a heart attack and is now afraid to exert himself in the bedroom.

Recently, June told me that Bill has given her permission to seek satisfaction elsewhere and asked if I was interested. I am, but I do not know how to approach the subject with my wife. Last year, when she discovered that one of our friends was cheating on his wife, she stated that if I ever did that to her, she would drop me like a hot potato and take me for everything I'm worth. I don't want June's offer to end our marriage or destroy the friendship we have with Bill.

My wife goes on a lot of overnight trips for work, so I'm sure that June and I could get together without her finding out. But I do not want to go behind her back. What do you suggest? -- Confused Husband

Dear Confused: You cannot guarantee that your wife will not find out, and the worry and guilt would eat at you. Please don't do this. Instead, have a frank discussion with your wife. Tell her that the lack of intimacy has been difficult for you and that you've had an offer for a commitment-free affair. (Do not mention June's name.) Ask her how she would feel about this. If she agrees, the rest is up to you, although sleeping with a close friend is likely to lead to all kinds of trouble.

Of course, your wife may be appalled at the suggestion, so your next step is to ask whether the two of you can do something else to regain intimacy. Ask her to discuss this with her doctor or come with you for counseling. Do whatever you can to repair the things that need fixing within your marriage before you start looking for "solutions" that could destroy it.

Dear Annie: This is in response to "Morose Mom," whose children keep borrowing money and never pay it back. Your advice was spot on.

One of our sons is like that. It was a continual cycle of borrowing money, even though he has a well-paying job. No loan was paid back. Since he also has children, we were reluctant to say "not another dime" for fear of getting locked out of our grandchildren's lives.

One day, we decided that a financial counselor would be the answer. We selected one who understood both the problem and the fact she would most likely not be successful. We agreed ahead of time that if my son "bailed," we would be responsible for any unpaid fees. We then contacted our son and gave him the counselor's contact information with the ultimatum that there would be no more loans unless he met with the counselor and followed her financial program.

After a couple of months, the counselor billed us for the unpaid balance and said my son indicated he could not work within the terms of her findings. But it's been five years with no further requests for money and, amazingly, we still have a good relationship with our son. -- Relieved Mom and Dad

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker
Bidding quiz

You are South, and the bidding has gone:

West North East South
1♦ Dble Pass ?

What would you bid with each of the following five hands?

- ♠83♥K8743♦54♣AQ72
- ♠109♥J82♦KJ94♣AQ53
- ♠J642♥754♦83♣KQ107
- ♠Q3♥AQ9743♦7♣Q842
- ♠J853♥A96♦A42♣KQ6

1. Two hearts. Partner's double indicates the values for at least an opening bid, as well as implying good support for the unbid suits. Because you are required to answer the double regardless of the strength of your hand, you must distinguish between a forced response based on conceivably no high-card points, and one where you hold values that could potentially produce a game.

In general, you respond by bidding the cheapest amount of your longest suit with zero to eight points; jump to the next level (as in the present case) with nine to 11; and leap to game or cuebid the opponents' suit with 12 or more points. The single jump-response is highly invitational, but not forcing.

2. Two notrump. This hand also has game potential — you have 11 points and might have had none — so again you make a jump-response. The only genuine suit you could have bid was clubs, but there's not much when in aiming for an 11-trick game point a nine-trick game offers better prospects. True, you lack strength in spades and hearts, but partner is virtually certain to have both suits well covered.

3. One spade. There's little hope for game unless partner bids again, so all you can do for the moment is bid one spade. Note that you respond in spades rather than clubs even though the clubs are much stronger. If there is a game, partner is more likely to bid again over one spade than two clubs.

4. Four hearts. The short route to game is the best route. You should expect to make at least 10 tricks, and the simplest way to express that conviction is to leap directly to game.

5. Two diamonds. Since you have an opening bid and partner has the equivalent of one, you should assume that your side can make a game. However, a jump to three notrump is risky with only one diamond stopper, and so is a jump to four spades with such a shabby suit.

You can best show your strength, and at the same time your uncertainty about where to play the hand, by cue-bidding West's suit, and partner's response will very likely help you find the best final contract. There is no good reason to make the decision unilaterally when you have a partner who can light the way.

News in brief

Protesters punch, throw eggs at Trump supporters in San Jose

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A group of protesters attacked Donald Trump supporters who were leaving the presidential candidate's rally in San Jose on Thursday night. A dozen or more people were punched, at least one person was pelted with an egg and Trump hats grabbed from supporters were set on fire on the ground.

Police stood their ground at first but after about 90 minutes moved into the remaining crowd to break it up and make arrests. At least four people were taken into custody, though police didn't release total arrest figures Thursday night. One officer was assaulted, police Sgt. Enrique Garcia said.

There were no immediate reports of injuries and no major property damage, police said.

The crowd, which had numbered over 300 just after the rally, thinned significantly as the night went on, but those that remained near the San Jose Convention Center were rowdy and angry.

Some banged on the cars of Trump supporters as they left the rally and chased after those on foot to frighten them.

Crews search for 4 missing in Texas from flooded Army truck

FORT HOOD, Texas (AP) — Army teams and other emergency crews searched along a Fort Hood creek for four soldiers still missing from a truck that overturned in the swift water, killing at least five and injuring three.

Fort Hood spokesman Chris Haug said the search continued after teams late Thursday night found the bodies of two soldiers who had been in the vehicle. Three others were found dead shortly after the 2 1/2-ton truck overturned in Owl Creek during a morning training exercise on the sprawling Central Texas army post.

Three soldiers were rescued and were hospitalized in stable condition.

Aerial and ground crews searched the 20-mile creek that winds through heavily wooded terrain on the northern fringe of the base. Army aircraft, canine search teams, swift-water rescue watercraft and heavy trucks were being used.

The Army did not release the names of the dead because it was still notifying relatives.

Japan praises boy who survived after abandonment in forest

TOKYO (AP) — Nearly a week after he was abandoned in the forest by his parents, the boy did not shed a tear when he was found safe Friday. The soldier who discovered him by chance in a military hut gave him two rice balls, which 7-year-old Yamato Tanooka ate ravenously. He looked a bit worn out but was "genki," the military said, using a Japanese word describing healthy children.

The boy's safe return was welcomed in a nation riveted by his disappearance and undergoing intense soul-searching about how it raises and disciplines its children.

Yamato's story, as pieced together from comments from the military and police, was admirable in resourcefulness and resilience.

His parents, trying to teach him a lesson for misbehaving and throwing rocks, made him get out of the car last Saturday on the northernmost main island of Hokkaido in a forest reputedly ridden with bears. They couldn't find him when they returned several minutes later.

Apparently walking for several kilometers, the boy found the empty hut in a military drill area and entered a door that had been left open. The long-house-style hut had no heat or power and no food, but Yamato huddled between mattresses on the floor and drank water from the solitary faucet outside the hut for several days, local media reported.

Zoo dangerous-animal squads arm for a weighty responsibility

When a 400-pound gorilla grabbed a 3-year-old boy at the Cincinnati Zoo, the sharpshooter who killed the ape wasn't from the police. Instead, the shooter was a specially trained zoo staffer on one of the many dangerous-animal emergency squads at animal parks nationwide.

The teams train at firing ranges, stash rifles and shotguns around the grounds, and rank the most hazardous species in their care. Members train in elaborate drills for situations like what unfolded in Cincinnati, when the child fell into the gorilla's enclosure Saturday. The staffer who fired hasn't been publicly identified.

It's a weighty commitment for people who work among animals they might one day have to kill. But team members understand the need to do it if a human life is in danger.

"We all know, every day that we go to work, that we are responsible for the safety of not only the animals in our care, but our co-workers and the visiting public," said Denise Wagner, a member of the response team at the Phoenix Zoo, where she's a senior primate keeper focused on orangutans. "We take that responsibility very seriously."

The Cincinnati gorilla's death has created cross-currents of outrage over the vigilance of both the zoo and the child's mother. But it also has highlighted the unusual work of zoos' homegrown emergency-response teams.

Finding overdose killed Prince just the beginning of probe

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Word from authorities that Prince died of an overdose of fentanyl, a powerful opioid that is up to 50 times more potent than heroin, is far from the end of the investigation. In some ways, it's just the beginning.

After Thursday's announcement about the superstar's death, investigators in the months to come will try to determine whether the singer had a prescription for the drug or whether it was supplied illegally. If it's latter, someone could face criminal charges carrying years, or even decades, in prison.

Prince was found dead April 21 at his Minneapolis-area estate, and at least one friend has said he suffered from intense knee and hip pain from many years of performances.

Although the death was formally ruled an accident, that merely signified that it was not intentional and does not preclude a criminal prosecution.

According to a one-page report released by a medical examiner, Prince administered the drug himself on an unknown date. The office said the death investigation is complete, and it had no further comment.

Carter: Military will learn from 2 fatal training accidents

SINGAPORE (AP) — The U.S. military will investigate and attempt to learn from the tragic loss of life in two incidents Thursday, one in Texas, the other in Tennessee, U.S. Defense Secretary Ash Carter said Friday.

Speaking in Singapore, where he was conferring with his Singaporean counterpart on Southeast Asian security issues, Carter expressed condolences to the families of those killed.

"With respect to the fact that both of these were losses, safety issues, in training we are going to make sure that we learn lessons that we can from investigations that we conduct after these incidents and take actions in the future to prevent such accidents," he said.

Five soldiers were killed and four were missing after a troop carrier overturned Thursday in a rain-swollen creek at Fort Hood. In the other incident, a pilot was killed when his Blue Angels fighter jet crashed near Nashville.

Deaths of despair: Overdoses, drinking, suicides hit whites

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising drug and alcohol overdoses, suicides, and disease from chronic alcoholism — labeled "deaths of despair" by one expert — are cutting the lives of white Americans short by nearly a half a year on average.

Increases in these types of deaths among whites means that life expectancy for whites is not increasing as fast as it is for other groups, according to a government report that offers an unusual look at how different threats are affecting U.S. lifespans.

"Things are moving in the wrong direction," said Anne Case, a Princeton University researcher, of what she calls "deaths of despair."

Drawing from death certificate data, the new report from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention focuses on what happened to white life expectancy between 2000 and 2014.

The work was a reaction to recent research that suggested drug overdoses and suicides have caused alarming increases in death rates for middle-aged white Americans. The new report, which did not perform the same analysis for blacks and Hispanics, was posted online Friday.

With new tactics, Taliban gain ground in south Afghanistan

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — In the rugged terrain of the Taliban heartland in southern Afghanistan, the fight against Kabul has become a war for control of key stretches of main roads and highways as the insurgents use a new tactic to gain ground.

First they storm a checkpoint, kill all the policemen, seize their weapons and equipment and effectively cut off the main road to a remote village. They raise the white Taliban flag and plant roadside bombs to prevent cars from coming through the checkpoint. Any vehicle that attempts to pass through is either blown up or attacked, residents and local leaders say.

Then they wait. Faced with shortages of basic food items and price hikes as their supplies dwindle, the villagers are eventually forced to abandon their homes and to move to a place where they can afford to eat and live. Most sneak out on foot or on donkeys through backroads and mountain paths, leaving many of their belongings behind.

Though the new tactic may be obviously simple, it has helped the Taliban gain ground — albeit at a slower pace than a deadly, surprise raid on an entire village.

The Taliban have been waging war against the Kabul government since 2001, when their regime was overthrown in the U.S.-led invasion. Since the international combat troops pulled out of Afghanistan at the end of 2014, leaving behind only a largely training and advising contingent, the insurgency has intensified as Afghan forces struggle to take the lead in the battle.
