UK Treasury chief appeals for calm

By DANICA KIRKA
Associated Press

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Treasury chief sought Monday to ease concerns about the vote to leave the European Union, saying the economy is as strong as it could be to face the uncertainty — even as a survey showed many companies are looking to move business out of the country.

In his first public appearance since Thursday's referendum, George Osborne stressed that Britain's economy is in a far better position than it was at the start of the 2008 financial crisis.

"It will not be plain sailing in the days ahead," he said. "But let me be clear. You should not underestimate our resolve. We were prepared for the unexpected."

The leaders of Germany, Italy and France will be huddling in Berlin to discuss the vote, trying to hone a common message that negotiations need to get underway quickly on the exit so as not to continue the uncertainty.

Questions remain about exactly how the exit would happen. German Chancellor Angela Merkel said she understands Britain may need "a certain amount of time to analyze things" before invoking Article 50 of the EU treaty, which will trigger the process for leaving. Prime Minister David Cameron has said he will resign and his successor, to be chosen by the fall, should be the one to navigate that process.

Merkel wouldn't comment on whether it's acceptable for London to wait until October, but said that a "long-term suspension" of the Roof repair tops council meeting

By STEVE REAGAN
 Staff Writer

Roof repair will be among the items on a routine agenda to be considered by the Big Spring City Council when it meets at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers, located at 307 E. Fourth St.

Council will consider awarding bids for roof repair work on the municipal auditorium at the Polly Mays Municipal Building during the meeting.

Repair work at the municipal auditorium is one of several steps the city has taken in the past few years to renovate the structure, while repair work is needed at the Mays Building roof because of damage from a recent fire, officials said.

City staff contacted 10 vendors to bid on the work, and three responded. Officials will recommend the bids be awarded to GKS Commercial, Inc. of Lubbock, which submitted a bid of $52,000 to cover work on both buildings. The other two bids totaled $82,930 and $98,300, respectively. No local firms bid on the project.

In other business, council will consider:

- Special commendations to Big Spring firefighters John Roberts, Joshua Jennings, and Brad Moncrief.
- Amending city ordinances covering cemeteries, parks and recreation.
- A third amendment to the Industrial Park lease between the city and Big Spring Rail System, Inc.
- Consideration of the Howard County Appraisal District Budget for the coming fiscal year.
- Approval of the minutes of the Big Spring Economic Development Corp. board of directors' meeting.

Gas prices edge up in Texas

Special to the Herald

Average retail gasoline prices in Texas have risen 0.3 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $2.11/g yesterday, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 13,114 gas outlets in Texas. This compares with the national average that has fallen 2.4 cents per gallon in the last week to $2.31/g, according to gasoline price website GasBuddy.com.

Including the change in gas prices in Texas during the past week, prices yesterday were 46.5 cents per gallon lower than the same day one year ago and are 3.4 cents per gallon higher than a month ago. The national average has decreased 1.3 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 47.2 cents per gallon lower than this day one year ago.

According to GasBuddy historical data, gasoline prices on June 27 in Texas have ranged widely over the last five years: $2.58/g in 2015, $3.51/g in 2014, $3.37/g in 2013, $3.20/g in 2012 and $3.46/g in 2011.

Areas nearby Texas and their current gas price climate:

Midland Odessa- $2.18/g, up 0.6 cents per gallon from last week's $2.18/g.

San Antonio- $2.07/g, down 0.9 cents per gallon from last week's $2.07/g.

Austin- $2.09/g, down 0.8 cents per gallon from last week's $2.10/g.

"The national average price of gasoline has now slipped nearly 10 cents lower than the 2016 peak, to-date, of $2.39 per gallon, bringing greater likelihood that prices for the Fourth of July weekend will be even lower than where they now stand," said Gregg Laskoski, senior petroleum analyst for GasBuddy.

"And if there was any doubt about the direction of retail gasoline,

'Brexit's impact — strengthening the U.S. dollar; weakening European currencies and weakening global crude oil prices — is expected to add even more downward pressure to summer gas prices despite record-setting demand (9.81 million barrels per day for the week ending June 17)."

EXIT

question wouldn't be in either side's economic interest.

In the first direct reflection of the uncertainty hitting business confidence, a leading business group said 20 percent of its members plan to move some of their operations outside of the U.K. The Institute of Directors said Monday that a survey of its 1,000 members showed that three out of four believe that Britain's exit from the EU, known as Brexit, will be bad for business.

The pound hit a new 31-year record low, dropping another 3.5 percent to $1.3199. Stock markets also declined across Europe. Bank shares were particularly hard hit, as they are considered a mirror on the larger economy. Shares in Royal Bank of Scotland, once the world's largest bank, fell some 20 percent. Osborne pledged not to impose a new austerity budget — even though he said during the campaign that one would be necessary if voters chose to leave the EU. He said another budget would be the task of Cameron's successor.

Osborne also said he had been working closely with Bank of England Governor Mark Carney, fellow finance ministers and international organizations over the weekend.

"We are prepared for whatever happens," he said.

In another move to cushion market reaction, Osborne stressed that only Britain can invoke Article 50. The U.K. "should only do that when there is a clear view about what new arrangement we are seeking with our European neighbors," he said.

Cameron has chaired an emergency Cabinet meeting Monday.

U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry is visiting Brussels and London to address the fallout from the vote.

Political turmoil has roiled Britain since the vote as leaders of the government and opposition parties grapple with the question of how precisely the U.K. will separate from the other 27 nations in the bloc.

Opposition leader Jeremy Corbyn is also facing upheaval within his Labour Party after more than 20 advisers quit his inner circle over that past two days.

Corbyn said he will not resign, and has appointed lawmakers loyal to him to fill the vacated posts. He insists he will run in any new leadership contest, and said he has the support of the party's grassroots.

Many Labour lawmakers accuse Corbyn of running a lukewarm campaign in support of remaining in the EU. They also fear the left-winger cannot win a general election, which could come well before the scheduled date of 2020, as whoever replaces Cameron may call an early election to solidify a mandate before negotiating Britain's EU exit.

The vote is also causing a political schism in the U.K. overall. Scotland's First Minister Nicola Sturgeon said she would "consider" whether to advise the Scottish Parliament to use its power to try to prevent Britain from leaving the EU. Some 62 percent of Scots voted to remain in the bloc. Scottish lawmakers might be able to derail Britain's departure by withholding "legislative consent," she said.

Clinton and Warren meet for first 2016 campaign event

WASHINGTON (AP) — In December, 13 of the 14 Democratic women serving in the U.S. Senate hosted a fundraiser for their favorite primary candidate: Hillary Clinton. The one who didn't show? Massachusetts Sen. Elizabeth Warren.

Six months later, there's little distance between two of the most powerful women in the Democratic Party.

With the primary season over and Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders fading from the spotlight, Warren is stepping up to reclaim her role as leader of the party's progressives. She's mobilizing behind Clinton, lending her presidential bid a powerful boost of liberal credibility.

In recent weeks, the two women have formed a tight electoral alliance — one that could grow even closer should Clinton pick Warren as her running mate. On Monday, Warren will join Clinton for their first joint event at a rally in Cincinnati.

For Clinton, the visit offers an important opportunity to win back some of the liberal and younger voters she lost to Sanders in the primary. Though Sanders said on Friday that he'd vote for Clinton, he's shied away from offering a full-throated endorsement or urging his supporters to back her.

Stocks, pound fall again due to UK vote uncertainty

LONDON (AP) — European stocks and the pound fell further on Monday as concern grew over the potential economic costs of Britain's vote to bring its country, the world's fifth-largest economy, out of the European Union.

The British pound, which last week plunged to its lowest level since 1985, dropped another 2.4 percent to $1.3352, despite the British Treasury's reassurances that the economy was strong enough to withstand the uncertainty.

European stock markets added to their painful losses from Friday, when concern over the vote outcome wiped out $2.1 trillion of stock value from Hong Kong to London to New York.

Britain's FTSE 100 was down 1.3 percent at 6,056 while Germany's DAX shed 1.3 percent to 9,434 and France's CAC 40 dropped 1.3 percent as well to 4,053.

Wall Street was set to drift lower on the open, too, with futures for the Dow Jones industrial average and the Standard and Poor's 500 index down 0.3 percent each. Earlier, some Asian markets had bounced back somewhat after news reports said Japanese Prime Minister Shintaro Abe instructed financial officials to take steps to stabilize financial and currency markets.

controls parts of northern and western Iraq, including the country's second largest city, Mosul. And the militants have shown they can still launch large-scale suicide bombings and other attacks. Here's a look at what lies ahead for Iraq and the U.S.-led military coalition battling the extremists.

HOLDING FALLUJAH

Fallujah was the first Iraqi city to fall to IS, in January 2014, and the group's last major stronghold in the sprawling Anbar province, a largely tribal Sunni region where distrust of the post-2003 Shiite-led government runs deep. A key task will be to prevent militants from returning to the city, as they did after two major U.S.-led assaults on Fallujah in 2004, when American soldiers saw their deadliest urban combat since Vietnam.

Iraqi authorities will also need to ensure that residents can return to their homes and rebuild, and that powerful Sunni tribes in the area stay on the government's side. Those efforts could be complicated by the ballooning humanitarian crisis in Anbar and the presence of government-allied Shiite militias. The Iran-backed forces kept to the outskirts of Fallujah during the military operation, but could assert their power as the army moves on to other fronts.

Supreme Court set to close out current term with 3 big cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is set to close out its current term with opinions Monday in three remaining cases after a flurry of decisions last week.

It's expected to be the justices' final meeting before they disperse on their summer breaks.

The last three cases concern regulation of Texas abortion clinics, the public corruption conviction of former Gov. Bob McDonnell of Virginia and a federal law that seeks to keep guns out of the hands of people convicted of domestic violence.

Just eight justices are taking part in the cases following the death of Justice Antonin Scalia in February. President Barack Obama has nominated federal appeals court Judge Merrick Garland to take Scalia's place, but Garland has not received a hearing or a vote in the Republican-controlled Senate.

BAGHDAD (AP) — Iraqi forces say they have completely liberated the city of Fallujah from the Islamic State group after a monthlong operation, marking one of their biggest victories since the extremists swept across large parts of the country in 2014.

Late June often is when a retirement is announced, but voluntary departures from the court almost never happen in election years.

BET Awards full of Prince tributes and political moments

The BET Awards — or "The Prince Tribute Show" — featured emotional and energetic performances from Sheila E., Stevie Wonder and Jennifer Hudson honoring the Purple One, along with political statements on issues ranging from racial injustice to the U.S. presidential election.

Sheila E., jamming on the drums and guitar, singing and dancing without shoes, closed the three-hour-plus show at the Microsoft Theater in Los Angeles with "Let's Work," "A Love Bizarre," "The Glamorous Life," "America" and more. She was joined by "Purple Rain" actor Jerome Benton and Prince's ex-wife, Mayte Garcia, who danced alongside the background dancers throughout the set. They ended by raising a purple guitar in the air as the audience cheered them on.

Hudson, rocking a white-hooded blazer, and Wonder, clad in a purple suit, sang "Purple Rain" — a month after the piano-playing icon performed the song with Madonna at the Billboard Music Awards, which BET dissed on Twitter. This time, Hudson was a vocal powerhouse, delivering screeching vocals while Wonder played piano and Tori Kelly was on guitar while a photo montage of Prince appeared on the purple-lit stage.

Janelle Monae was animated and funky as she danced skillfully and ran through Prince tunes, including "Kiss," "Delirious" and "I Would Die 4 U." Bilal was sensual and passionate during "The Beautiful Ones," even lying on the floor while singing near the end of the performance. The Roots backed Bilal, and the band was also behind Erykah Badu as she performed "The Ballad of Dorothy Parker," singing softly as she grooved in place.

After singing an original song, Maxwell went into "Nothing Compares 2 U," changing some of the lyrics while honoring Prince.

All-Stars continue Little League play

Big Spring All-stars go 2-1 in Sunday action as 13s and 14s win, 15s lose

By DREW WILLIAMS

Sports Editor

The 13-year-old intermediate Big Spring All-Stars are advancing to the final thanks to an offensive outpour.

Javarious Ford got things started for Big Spring in the eventual 20-9 win with a leadoff single, eventually scoring to give his team a 1-0 lead after one inning. After Seth Brooks and Javorion Williams got on base to start the second inning, Ford came through again with a two-RBI double.

Alex Leuschner, Brayden Cruz, and Brooks each led off the third innings with a single, and all three came around to score to give Big Spring an 8-1 lead after three innings.

The Odessa East All-Stars wouldn't go quietly as they scored three runs in the fourth inning and two runs in the fifth. Big Spring starting pitcher Gaige Hill pitched effectively and efficiently in the first three innings, but a high pitch count forced Kyler Seymore into the game in the fifth.

Hill and Seymore got the run support they needed in the sixth and seventh innings as the bats came alive for 12 more runs. The game turned on a three-run home run from Williams in the bottom of the sixth that made the score 14-6 and gave Big Spring the breathing room they needed. Seymore then closed the game out in the seventh with a 1-2-3 inning and with Big Spring on the right side of a 20-9 final score.

The intermediate All-Stars will play again tonight at 7 p.m. at the Roy Anderson Sports Complex.

The 14-year-old junior Big Spring All-Stars needed to rally, and they did in a 13-12 win over the Odessa West All-Stars.

Down 12-7 after four innings, Trey Brockman and Jace Hernandez both had one-out walks. They came around to score on RBI singles by Zack Schneider and Isaac Murillo to make the score 12-9 after five innings.

In the sixth inning, Jonathon Schneider had a one-out walk and Jordan Enriquez followed with a single. Izaiha Valle then had a two-out single, and all three came around to score after another single by Jeremiah Johnson, tying the game at 12.

With the game still tied in the bottom of the final inning, Zack Schneider led off with a hit-by-pitch. Gabe Gomez and Joshua Wood both had one-out walks to load the bases, and following a strikeout, Enriquez ended the game with a bases loaded walk-off walk on four pitches to win the game 13-12.

The junior All-Stars will play again tonight at 6 p.m. at Steer Park.

The 15-year-old senior Big Spring All-Stars seemed to be rolling before falling to the Odessa East All-Stars, 6-3.

Big Spring started off with a lead after one inning thanks to some erratic pitching from Odessa East. Jason Miramontes, Elijah Munoz, and Edward Aguilar loaded the bases on free bases, Aguilar's due to being hit by a pitch. With the bases loaded, two more walks to Alex Biddison and Kobe Gutierrez gave Big Spring a 2-0 cushion.

Biddison threw 2.1 shutout innings before being pulled because of a pitch count, and Odessa East took advantage of the new pitchers by greeting them with six runs in the fourth inning. Three walks, a hit-by-pitch, and two singles did the damage, and Big Spring couldn't come back from the 6-2 deficit. Big Spring got their third and final run on the heels of back-to-back-to-back singles in the fifth inning from Brayden Sizenbach, Zach Holmes, and Brett Berringer.

Big Spring will play again as part of the loser's bracket tonight at 8:30 p.m. at Steer Park.

Perez, Rangers take another series with 6-2 win over Red Sox

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Martin Perez won his sixth straight decision and helped the surging Texas Rangers to yet another series victory.

The left-hander kept rolling despite a bout with control issues that had his manager questioning his body language on the mound.

Perez pitched six solid innings while working behind a number of hitters, the first six Texas batters reached for an early lead and the Rangers beat the Boston Red Sox 6-2 on Sunday.

"The thing that I like is that he continues to search and find ways to get himself out of the inning," manager Jeff Banister said. "He seemed to throw just enough strikes to get them into swing mode. There's still a learning process, but it's getting better."

Prince Fielder hit a two-run homer for the Rangers, who are 11-0-1 in series since getting swept at Oakland in mid-May. Texas improved to 8-1 in deciding games this season.

Perez (7-4) was working on a shutout before Bryce Brentz hit a solo drive with two out in the sixth for his first major league homer. Perez matched the longest winning streak of his career, from 2013, despite throwing more balls than strikes into the fifth inning.

"Sometimes with the first pitch, trying to throw a strike and sometimes to push the ball there," said Perez, who improved to 6-1 in Arlington. "And I can't do that anymore. Sometimes you're trying to push the ball and you miss. You miss close, but you miss."

Shin-Soo Choo, Ian Desmond, Nomar Mazara and Adrian Beltre opened Texas' three-run first with four straight singles. The last two drove in a run apiece, to go along with Rowned Odor's bloop to left against Clay Buchholz (3-8).

Choo had three hits and scored twice, the second time on another RBI single from Beltre.

"In the first inning, it wasn't really a whole lot of balls that were hit hard, they were just hit where we weren't,"

Buchholz said. "That was basically the difference."

The Rangers, who have the best record in the American League at 49-27, won a three-game series for the seventh time after dropping the opener.

Perez gave up six hits, walked two and struck out two.

Buchholz issued two of his season-high five walks in the first inning of his second start since coming back from a brief demotion to the bullpen. He gave up seven hits and five runs — four earned — in 5 1/3 innings, falling to 1-6 against Texas.

"There was a stretch where we've seen in a number of his starts where he was very good, but there's an inning inside of it that's the one you can point to," manager John Farrell said.

ONE MORE TIME

David Ortiz pinch-hit with two runners on in the eighth inning of the retiring slugger's final regular-season game in Texas. It prompted a move to lefty reliever Jake Diekmann and a standing ovation from the crowd, including plenty of Rangers fans.

Ortiz pulled a run-scoring single through the shift in right before Travis Shaw flied out. Former closer Shawn Tolleson pitched a scoreless ninth for a Texas bullpen that surrendered four runs with two outs in the ninth of an 8-7 loss in the opener.

Chile wins Copa; Messi says he's quitting Argentina

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Lionel Messi put his penalty kick over the crossbar, grabbed his shirt, clenched his teeth and covered his face with both hands.

A few minutes later he walked off the field, a dazed, pained look on his bearded face. The greatest player of his generation, perhaps soccer's best ever, he was still without a title on Argentina's national team — one he says may never come.

"The national team is over for me," he told the Argentine network TyC

Sports after Chile beat the Albiceleste on Sunday night for the Copa America title. "It's not meant for me. I tried. It was the thing I wanted the most, but I couldn't get it, so I think it's over."

Chile beat Argentina in the final for the second straight year, 4-2 in the shootout following a 0-0 tie that ended an expanded 16-nation Copa in the United States to mark the championship's 100th anniversary.

Messi, five-time FIFA Player of the Year, winner of four Champions League titles and eight Spanish La Liga crowns with Barcelona, was crushed. Much of his nation had counted on him and the top-ranked Albiceleste to bring home the nation's first major championship since 1993.

Playing two days after his 29th birthday, Messi lost a final for the third year in a row and the fourth time overall with Argentina. There was also the 2007 Copa final against Brazil, when he was still a wunderkind, and then an extra-time loss to Germany in the 2014 World Cup.

Considered alongside Brazil's Pele and Argentina's Diego Maradona as the sport's greatest, Messi won the titles at the under-20 and Olympic (under-23) levels for Argentina. But in the minds of many he needs a championship with the senior national team to solidify his place in history.

"Messi's numbers are unparalleled and I think they'll remain that way forever, because it's impossible for a football player to do what Messi has done," said Chile coach Juan Antonio Pizzi, who is from Argentina. "My generation can't compare him to Maradona — that's for my generation, because of what Mardona did for Argentine soccer. But I think the best player ever played today here in the United States."

Dble

Opening lead — king of clubs.
Bridge is basically a game of probabilities. Whenever you're faced with a choice as to whether to make this or that bid, or this or that play, you try to choose the one that is likely to work out best in the long run.

Consider this deal where Raymond Chow, Hong Kong movie magnate and former president of the Far East Bridge Federation, got to six hearts doubled on the sequence shown. West's opening club bid was artificial, showing at least 17 high-card points, and North's five-trump bid asked South to bid either six hearts or six diamonds.

West led the king of clubs against six hearts and shifted to the ace of spades. Chow ruffed and quickly concluded that West, having bid for 11 tricks all by himself, very likely had at most two red-suit cards.

So, acting on the high probability that East had both missing red jacks, Chow ruffed a club in dummy at trick three, led a heart at trick four and finessed the ten!

When the ten held, Chow ruffed another club in dummy, returned a low diamond and again finessed the ten! When this likewise succeeded, Chow was home free. He cashed the A-K-Q of trumps, then the Q-K-A of diamonds, and scored his 12th trick with dummy's nine of diamonds.

West's magnificent hand thus wound up costing him the princely sum of 1,210 points. It also taught him that you don't take movie moguls or presidents of bridge federations too lightly.

Tomorrow: You too can be a genius.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Cosmic Water Music

Yesterday it was the resonance between

HOLIDAY MATHIS

Jupiter and profound Pluto that gave off an atmospheric shimmer of hope. Today that hope softens into a dreamy haze, with the arrangement of Venus and Neptune in water signs. What's your tolerance for surrealism and poetry? You're about to find out.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). To allow for greater awareness, don't require yourself to always act on everything you learn. Sometimes it's enough to open up and sit with the information awhile.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). The ones you admire like you, too. This sense of belonging is a good dynamic, a safe, comfortable feeling and a well-earned moment not to be taken for granted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). A theme is developing in your personal life. This is all headed in a fortifying direction. There are some ideas you find so beneficial that you'll come back to them again and again.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). What you're experiencing may be a troubled situation where happiness seems elusive, but it's also just one place in one moment. Keep moving. You're passing through this.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The true pleasures of life will contribute to your health and well-being, not strip away from it. Be skeptical of anything that gives you a short-term rush. What's good for you will both take and last longer.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Usually, upon meeting someone for the first time, you're able to form an impression in less than 10 seconds. Today you'll meet someone who requires and deserves a much longer assessment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). The oldest trick in the book is also one of the most effective, otherwise it wouldn't have lasted this long. Fortune follows old-school methods. Do it the way your grandparents would have.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Don't get too ambitious for the favor of the group. This particular mix may seem prestigious today, but it's a social sheen that will wear off over time. Engage with energy, but not too much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). New expenses turn your head and make you realize that you must decide how far to take things. How deep should you invest yourself and your resources? Your mindfulness now will prevent regret later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Whether it's outside of you or self-generated, there is a larger purpose being fulfilled. You feel that you're an instrument of a more powerful will than the impulsive one that moves you through the typical day's minutiae.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Most human suffering is self-inflicted, and yet that doesn't make it any easier to stop. The small steps you take to be more disciplined reinforce your sense of power over yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Enjoy your temporary golden status, as you're in a position to bring the joy and good tidings while someone else delivers the less joyful news, the unpopular idea or the difficult work that no one is looking forward to.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 27). You're self-assured and autonomous, though over the next three weeks there's something to be gained from letting another person care for you. You enter a November situation with a kind of amused detachment and quickly see how to turn this to your advantage, financially and otherwise. The phone rings in December with that special call. Capricorn and Aries adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 9, 1, 22, 38 and 15.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "My husband likes my hair long, and I like my hair short. My husband also likes his own hair long, and I like that short, too. This didn't used to be a problem, when we were younger. I guess I've changed. I feel like he'll have a better chance at getting a good job if he cuts his hair. He calls me Delilah. Who is right? I'm a Scorpio and he's a Leo."

Though these lovers have been depicted at times on Tuscan wedding trays, do not mistake the tale of Samson and Delilah as a romance. In the Bible story, Samson is extraordinarily strong because he promised God he wouldn't cut his hair. It is very possible that Samson was a Leo, as they are especially fond of their manes. Delilah was hired by the enemy army to figure out the source of his strength. Samson lies to her several times, but finally Delilah wins his trust and figures out his hair secret. Then she has him shaved, and in his weakened state, the enemy blinds and beats him and he's forced to work in a prison. The moral of the story is clear: Real love is staying out of each other's hair.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Khloe Kardashian is a Cancer entrepreneur who has a sixth sense about products that will intrigue and delight the general public. She's worked in jewelry, clothing and fragrances, but for this Cancer the world of home decor could prove the most lucrative business to be in. Cancer natives are on a constant quest for the coolest creature comforts.

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: My 55-year-old daughter is a hoarder. She cannot pick up her clothes or keep them in order. She lives in two bedrooms in our mobile home and they are both a complete mess. Lately, it's been so difficult for her to get into her rooms that she has started sleeping on the couch. She picks clothes off of the floor to wear. (She's been doing that her entire life.)

In the past, I have cleaned up her room, but it isn't long before it's a complete mess again. Right now, it's overwhelming. Please help. -- Mom of a Hoarder

Dear Mom: Why does my 55-year-old daughter live with you? Does she not have a job? Is there a history of mental illness that makes her incapable of living on her own?

Hoarding is a serious problem, especially when it means your daughter can no longer enter her rooms because the clutter is piled so high. Please contact the International OCD Foundation (iocdf.org) for information on hoarding and perhaps some referrals for therapists who may be able to help.

Dear Annie: I am tired of women using menopause as an excuse not to be intimate with their husbands. Marrying someone includes a commitment, and sex is part of that commitment. I don't understand women who think they can just say, "We're not going to have sex anymore."

I am a 63-year-old woman and a breast cancer survivor. Yes, intercourse can be extremely painful, but why does everyone think that sex has to be intercourse? There are other ways to satisfy your partner that don't involve anything painful. I am sure most of these sex-starved men would be deliriously happy with the alternatives.

If you love someone, you work on it. Instead, these women decide they're no longer interested, so their husbands shouldn't be interested, either. And then we wonder why men stray. We vilify men for wanting something that's a natural function of being human. I don't believe women should kowtow to men. I simply think that in a marriage, love should trump excuses for putting yourself first.

-- Austin, Texas
Dear Austin: We agree -- although some of our female readers will not. But we've said it many times. Marriage is a partnership. You cannot make a unilateral decision that affects the other partner negatively and not expect repercussions.

According to our mail, most of the men who are unhappy with their sex lives aren't looking to stray. They love their wives and want to show that love in a physical way. And they want their wives to love them enough to be physical, as well. This is how they demonstrate their affection.

Intimacy is not all about sex, and sex is not all about intercourse. It is important to make the effort, whatever the result, and be willing to discuss what can be done to make both partners reasonably happy. This usually requires compromise, something that seems to be in short supply these days.

This Date In History

Today is Monday, June 27, the 179th day of 2016. There are 187 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On June 27, 1966, the Gothic soap opera "Dark Shadows," having to do with mysterious and supernatural goings-on in Collinsport, Maine, premiered on ABC-TV.

On this date:

In 1787, English historian Edward Gibbon completed work on his six-volume work, "The History of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

In 1844, Mormon leader Joseph Smith and his brother, Hyrum, were killed by a mob in Carthage, Illinois.

In 1864, Confederate forces repelled a frontal assault by Union troops in the Civil War Battle of Kennesaw Mountain in Georgia.

In 1905, the Industrial Workers of the World was founded in Chicago.

In 1922, the first Newberry Medal, recognizing excellence in children's literature, was awarded to "The Story of Mankind" by Hendrik Willem van Loon.

In 1944, during World War II, American forces liberated the French port of Cherbourg from the Germans.

In 1957, more than 500 people were killed when Hurricane Audrey slammed through coastal Louisiana and Texas.

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy spent the first full day of a visit to Ireland, the land of his ancestors, stopping by the County Wexford home of his great-grandfather, Patrick Kennedy, who'd emigrated to America in 1848.

In 1974, President Richard Nixon opened an official visit to the Soviet Union.

In 1986, the International Court of Justice at The Hague ruled the United States had broken international law and violated the sovereignty of Nicaragua by aiding the contras. (The U.S. had already said it would not consider itself bound by the World Court decision.)

In 1990, NASA announced that a flaw in the orbiting Hubble Space Telescope was preventing the instrument from achieving optimum focus. (The problem was traced to a mirror that had not been ground to exact specifications; corrective optics were later installed to fix the problem.)

In 1991, Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall, the first black jurist to sit on the nation's highest court, announced his retirement. (His departure led to the contentious nomination of Clarence Thomas to succeed him.)

Ten years ago: A constitutional amendment to ban desecration of the American flag died in a Senate cliffhanger, falling one vote short of the 67 needed to send it to states for ratification. "Railroad Killer" Angel Maturino Resendiz, linked to 15 murders, was executed in Texas for the slaying of physician Claudia Benton in 1998.

Five years ago: Former Illinois Gov. Rod Blagojevich (blah-GOY'-uh-veech) was convicted by a federal jury in Chicago of a wide range of corruption charges, including the allegation that he'd tried to sell or trade President Barack Obama's U.S. Senate seat. (Blagojevich was later sentenced to 14 years in prison.)
