Messages to fallen soldier

NEENAH, Wis. (AP) — She begins each time by sharpening her tools, with the sound of metal on metal echoing through the sunlit old house she calls both home and workshop. Making a violin is a methodical art. For Sonja St. John, that structure is a necessity — and the routine, in many ways, a saving

"It's a way to stay on track even when chaos can be happening right outside," she says.

She finishes each new violin with another ritual, by gluing a small, handwritten message inside.

This began as a light gesture, with favorite fortunes from cookies placed inside with a wink as hidden signatures of sorts from her, the violin maker. But the notes she leaves now have become far more personal and meaningful.

Each is different, but they are often a tribute to those who've given of themselves in some way, members of the military included. Her most recent one reads: "In honor of past, present and future souls of courage and wisdom."

The person foremost on her mind when she writes those messages is her brother, Jon St. John, an Army specialist who died a decade ago when a roadside bomb exploded near the military vehicle in which he was the gunner.

Jon, Sonja's only sibling, was 25. She was 22 and just beginning her career after graduating from the Chicago School of Violin Making. She has a vivid memory of sliding to her kitchen floor, her back against the cupboards, when her parents shared the news in a phone call.

This was her big brother, her fishing buddy and protector, tall and strong-willed but also kind in sometimes surprising ways. Her favorite

Jerry D. McGuire

The Rev. Jerry D. McGuire, 67, of Belton, Texas, passed away on Monday, May 22, 2017, in a Midland, Texas, hospital.

A Memorial Service will be held on Tuesday, May 30, 2017, at 2 p.m., at First Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster, Big Spring, Texas.

Jerry was born in Hale Center, Texas, on April 1, 1950, to Dell and Evelyn McGuire.

He graduated from Big Spring High School, Big Spring, Texas, in 1968, and then attended Southern Nazarene University located in Bethany, Okla., and obtained a Bachelor's of Science Degree with a Major in Physics in 1977. While attending Southern Nazarene University he met the love of his life, Clare Sale of Cozad, Neb., and they were married in December of 1969.

Other than his marriage to Clare, some of the most joyous moments of his life were the birth of his son, Paul, in 1971; the birth of his daughter, Malana, in 1974; and most recently, the birth of his one and only granddaughter, Kaitlin Clare, in 2015. Jerry served two years in the United States Air Force before going into the ministry. He obtained his Ministerial Ordination by the Church of the Nazarene in 2001. He served in many ministry capacities: Youth Pastor, Minister of Music, and Associate Pastor, before serving as a Senior Pastor in Odessa, Texas; Midland, Texas; Lawton, Okla.; and then Belton, Texas, before retiring in 2015. Also, while serving in the ministry, he taught ministerial courses, held special revival services, and supply pastored at many locations.

After receiving his Texas Teacher's Certification he taught classes and coached in Midland, Odessa, and Big Spring, Texas. He also held a teaching position in Killeen, Texas, for several years. He retired from the Texas Educational System in 2011.

He is survived by his wife, Clare McGuire of Belton, Texas; his son Paul McGuire of Midland, Texas; his daughter Malana Miller, and granddaughter Kaitlin Miller, of Temple, Texas; his father Dell McGuire of Midland, Texas; brother and sister-inlaw, Gordon and Pam McGuire of Lompoc, Calif.; sister and brother-in-law, DiAnn and David Fowler of Midland, Texas; and numerous extended family members.

He was preceded in death by his mother, Evelyn McGuire.

Throughout his life, Jerry touched many lives with the love of Christ. He will be greatly missed by all who had the privileged to know him.

The family is requesting that in lieu of flowers, donations be sent as a "Jerry McGuire Memorial for the Building Fund" to Belton Church of the Nazarene, P.O. Box 592, Belton, Texas, 76513. Paid obituary

After trip's final day, Trump to return to tumult at home

TAORMINA, Sicily (AP) — Down to the final day of his lengthy first international trip, President Donald Trump will lift off for Washington having rattled some allies and reassured others, returning to a White House that sits under a cloud of scan-

Trump started Saturday at the second day of the G-7 summit in Sicily, bringing to an end a nine-day trip that started in Saudi Arabia and Israel before moving on to three European stops.

The trip has largely gone off without a major misstep, with the administration touting the president's efforts to birth a new coalition to fight terrorism, while admonishing partners in an old alliance to pay their fair share. After the pomp of presidential travel overseas, Trump will return to Washington to find the same problems that have dogged him. As a newly appointed special counsel is beginning his investigation into links between the Trump campaign and Russian officials, Jared Kushner, the president's son-in-law and close adviser, has become a focus of the probe, according to The Washington His lawyer said Kushner will cooperate with investigators. James Comey, the former FBI director leading the Russian probe until Trump abruptly fired him, is still expected to testify before Congress about the memos he kept on conversations with the president that involved the investigation.

Amid reports the FBI is scrutinizing Kushner's encounters, his lawyer says he stands ready to talk to federal investigators as well as Congress about his contacts and his role in Donald Trump's 2016 campaign.

Federal investigators and several congressional committees are looking into Russia-Trump campaign connections, including allegations that there may have been collaboration to help Trump and harm his Democratic opponent, Hillary Clinton. "The FBI tries to be thorough in their investigations," said defense lawyer Edward MacMahon, who is not involved in the case. "If it's been publicly reported that he met with Russians, and the investigation has to do with administration officials meeting with Russians, well, then, they'll probably want to talk to everybody." Kushner was a trusted Trump adviser last year, overseeing the campaign's digital strategy, and remains an influential confidant within the White House.

One likely area of interest for investigators would be Kushner's own meetings with Russians, given that such encounters with a variety of Trump associates are at the root of the sprawling probe, now overseen by former FBI director Robert Muel-

Carter national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Zbigniew Brzezinski, who helped topple economic barriers between the Soviet Union, China and the West as President Jimmy Carter's national security adviser, died Friday. He was 89. His death was announced on social media Friday night by his daughter, MSNBC host Mika Brzezinski. She called him "the most inspiring, loving and devoted father any girl could ever have."

In a statement, Carter called Brzezinski "a superb public servant" as well as "brilliant, dedicated and loy-

Earnest and ambitious, Brzezinski helped Carter bridge wide gaps between the rigid Egyptian and Israeli leaders, Anwar Sadat and Menachem Begin, leading to the Camp David accords in September 1978. Three months later, U.S.-China relations were normalized, a top priority for Brzezinski. Born in Warsaw and educated in Canada and the United States, Brzezinski was an acknowledged expert in Communism when he attracted the attention of U.S. policymakers. In the 1960s he was an adviser to men, aged between 18 and 44, in custody and have made major progress in their investigation. Mark Rowley, Britain's top counterterrorism police officer, said authorities have dismantled a "large part" of the network around bomber Salman Abedi. But he said there were still "gaps in our understanding" of the plot, as investigators probed Abedi's potential links to jihadis in Britain, Europe, Libya and the Middle East. The 22-year-old Briton of Libyan descent died in Monday's explosion, match the description of one that had recently been stolen from a citizen of Big Spring." After noticing the drugs, police obtained a search warrant for the residence. "Upon searching the residence, more methamphetamine was located, along with a small amount of marijuana, five firearms, the stolen zero turn lawnmower, a generator, a motorcycle, a fourwheeler, and over $1,000 in currency," the release stated. "The generator, motorcycle, and 4 wheeler was seized by the Howard County Sheriff's office and are suspected of being stolen from the county." Last week, the two were among three people including Christopher Andrew Yanez arrested on charges in relation to the investigation into the death of 12-year-old Jose Hernandez. A fourth person, Kim Carson, was arrested this week. In a press conference held Tuesday, May 16, Howard County Sheriff Stan Parker said Hernandez was killed after a gun being offloaded from a truck fired sending a round through the truck's tailgate. Fragments struck Hernandez and a second person. Sheriff's deputies discovered the guns being offloaded from the truck were stolen from a residence in a county south of San Angelo. Both Lopez and Wingo are currently residing at the Howard County Detention Center. Also indicted Thursday were:

their hearts out. It's called the Reilly Springs Jamboree, an event that started sixty-one years ago.

"When the school consolidated with Sulphur Springs in 1956 the schoolhouse sat empty for a while," says Enola Gay, producer and emcee of the show. She's also the morning disc jockey at KSST Radio in Sulphur Springs. "But there were some musicians who lived at Reilly Springs. They were from a farming family, the Sheltons, and they played guitar and mandolin and sang. They started doing music shows in the schoolhouse. Two Shelton Brothers achieved some regional success in songwriting.

eilly Springs is a small They wrote Deep Ellum Blues (played by Jerry Lee Lewis and The Grateful Dead, among others) and Because, Just Because (Paul McCartney, Elvis Presley and Breda Lee did it, among others). We have a house band that backs up visiting musicians. We play country and gospel. Mostly country, with a little gospel." Some of the music sounds like a front porch picking parlor because the musicians are relaxed and comfortable. And so is the large audience. It's been going on so long some people recall having their first date at the Jamboree or meeting that special someone there. Older folks remember going to the Jamboree as teenagers. Enola says it was an exciting place to go on a Saturday night. "We have lots of home-grown performers, maybe they write songs or play guitar at home and we have some big name entertainers. Johnny Cash played here, so did George Jones, Hank Snow, June Carter and a whole bunch more. June Carter was so popular we had to do two shows that night."

The Jamboree went away for a while, but twenty-two years ago Enola decided to revive it.

"It has such a rich history I wanted to bring it back. We've had real good success with it. The very first show, which was the Reilly Springs Jamboree Reunion in 1995, was standing room only. We had it at the National Guard Armory in Sulphur Springs." KSST used to have an employee named Peavine Pinion who had enough radio engineering skills to rig up a transmission line so the jamboree could be broadcast on KSST over what he called the Barbed Wire Network. It was like listening to the Grand Old Opry on a small scale. The Jamboree takes place the third Saturday of each month. Enola's favorite types of music are jazz standards and big band songs of the forties, fifties and sixties. She has recorded a CD. Sometimes she sings on stage.

"If we have some real great girl singers, I don't dare sing that night. But if we're short of singers I'll be glad to fill in."

Leg-pulling long gone

ack in the 20th century, kids — as well as adults who sometimes acted like them seemed destined to "make their own fun." Not too much in the way of "time-passing" was in play if it cost anything, thus fertile minds were often in "creative mode," if only in the sharing of jokes and stories.

Many times conwith, "Did you hear the one about...?" Sadly, these words rarely are heard anymore.

My old daddy with the best of 'em, and he'd laugh as heartily as hearers at "punch-line time." Clearly, such banter lessened the cares of the day. Much "fun-poking" came at the expense of youngsters. They took most everything seriously from adults who'd "been there, done that." Carpenters took advantage of to retrieve make-believe items.

Such requests seemed legitimate to the eager-to-please, wide-eyed youngsters. A carpenter, sawing away, exclaimed, "Dad blame it, I sawed this board an inch too short. Would you please run down to the lumber yard and borrow their board-stretcher?" The youngster immediately headed downtown. He returned empty-handed, telling the carpenter that the man at the yard had

"loaned out the board-stretcher, and it's not due back until tomorrow." (The guy was, of course, in on the joke, and played along.).

There was a whole 'nother category for the military, what with a steady inflow of recruits to send hither and you on aimless tasks.

Many wandered around military bases seeking keys to the parade grounds.

Not every installation had parade grounds, and those that did rarely had fences. And if they had fences, the gates were never locked.

Ask locals in resort areas if you'd like to be regaled by dumb questions they've fielded from tourists on first visits to distant locales. One "flat-lander," amazed upon first seeing mountains, asked, "Reckon where they came from?"

When the local answered that the glaciers brought them, the visitor countered, "Where are the glaciers now?"

The local's answer: "They've gone back for another load."

Lonn Taylor, a recognized author/historian/columnist,who traded in life in Washington, D. C. and Austin, Texas to reside in the Big Bend area of Texas, wrote recently about a Marfa hotel clerk who fields questions regularly about the mysterious Marfa lights. Many ask him about the best time to see the lights. "We don't turn them on until after dark," he answers.

I've heard about these lights since Hector was a wee pup, and saw them in the 1960s. (Theories abound, including Taylor's menof radio-active jackrabbits.)

tion that some folks believe the lights can be traced to the glow Sometimes real life occurrences are funnier than made-up stories. Another from the Big Bend is an account of the late Hallie Stillwell, a crusty ranch woman, peace justice and columnist for the weekly Alpine Avalanche.

Pad in hand, she was among journalists and broadcasters invited to a Davis Mountain press conference for America's first astronauts prior to their first moon mission.

Present were nationally-recognized figures from TV networks wire services and major newspapers. Hallie asked just one question: "Now you fellows don't really think you're going to walk on the moon, do you?"

Much has been made lately of "fake news." It has been around for quite a spell. As a lad, I wondered about blaring claims that seemed largely unsubstantiated.

For several years, an over-thecounter elixir called Hadacol was heralded as a cure-all for everything, as were "uranium-sitting" emporiums that attracted sitters from far and wide to claim the magical cures.

Two centers where ailing folks sought magical sand in which to sit were in Marlin and Mineral Wells. (In the latter city, many "sitters" also soaked in the mineral water for which the community is known.)

I never knowingly swallowed Hadacol, or sat in sand beyond the boxes, but many friends did. Bottom line, there may not be much truly new under the sun.

US rig count rises 7 this week to 908; Colorado up 5

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. rose by seven this week to 908.

A year ago, 404 rigs were active.

Houston oilfield services company Baker Hughes said Friday that 722 rigs sought oil and 185 explored for natural gas this week. One was listed as miscellaneous. Colorado added five rigs while Alaska, New Mexico, North Dakota and Oklahoma each gained one.

Texas lost one rig.

Arkansas, California, Kansas, Louisiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming were all unchanged.

The U.S. rig count peaked at 4,530 in 1981. It bottomed out last May at 404.

Colorado oil tank blast kills worker, spurs safety questions oil tank explosion in northern Colorado killed a worker and burned three others, shooting up flames just miles away from an unrelated gas blast last month and prompting fresh questions about safety in one of Colorado's largest industries—oil and gas extraction.

The fire flared Thursday when the workers completed upgrades to an oil tank battery, which is a collection of tanks that receive crude oil production from a well.

The company also owns a well connected to a home explosion that killed two people in Firestone, a city a few miles from Mead. The April 17 blast was traced to a leaky well.

Anadarko says it will permanently shut down the Firestone well and two others in the neighborhood. The pipeline was thought to be out of service, but investigators say it was still connected to a well near the home.

Democratic Gov. John Hickenlooper, a former petroleum geologist, said Friday that the two explosions apparently were not related.

"He was just always a good friend to have around," she said, noting how music had always been a bonding point for them. He'd teach her about his favorite rock bands. She introduced him to jazz violin.

But in the years after his death, Sonja stopped playing, as grief enveloped her.

She got married in 2008 and divorced seven years later. After moving back to Neenah, her Wisconsin hometown, to be near her parents, she increasingly tried to drown that grief with alcohol, so much so that she checked into rehab more than once.

"I was very sick for quite a long time," she said.

Now the head of a nonprofit arts organization for veterans, called Warrior Songs, Moon asked Sonja if she'd be interested in helping create a song for his group's second album. This one will focus on telling the stories of women in combat, as well as the mothers, wives and sisters who've lost loved ones to war.

The Warrior Songs CDs are given free of charge to veterans and are intended to be a source of support and healing.

In honoring Jon — and telling her own story — Sonja, now 33, also saw a chance to move forward and to stay sober.

"I just really woke up when I realized I know that my brother was willing to die for me and our country," she said. "I better be willing to live and take advantage of what I DO have."

She agreed to play a violin solo for the song and soon began practicing again.

Trump plan to sell off half of oil stockpile sparks debate

WASHINGTON (AP) President Donald Trump's proposal to sell nearly half the U.S. emergency oil stockpile is renewing debate about whether the Strategic Petroleum Reserve is still needed amid an ongoing oil production boom that has seen U.S. imports drop sharply in the past decade.

Trump's budget, unveiled on Tuesday, calls for selling an additional 270 million barrels of oil over the next decade, raising an estimated $16.6 billion. The proposal, on top of planned auctions expected over the next few years, could push the reserve below 300 million barrels by 2025. It now is at 688 million barrels.

The petroleum reserve, created in the wake of the 1970s Arab oil embargo, stores oil at four underground sites in Texas and Louisiana. The reserve guards against disruptions in the flow of oil from the Middle East and other countries, and lawmakers from both parties have long warned against using it to raise money.

But some Republicans say North Dakota's oilrich Bakken region offers a de facto reserve that can be tapped if needed.

"You know the world's changed a lot," said Rep. John Shimkus, R-Ill., a senior member of the House energy committee. "We're one of the largest oil producers in the world."

Asked if he was worried that Trump's proposal could deplete the reserve, Shimkus laughed. "Not when you have North Dakota and the Dakota (Access) Pipeline," he said.

Stable gas prices expected to boost Memorial Day road trips

Stable gasoline prices are expected to fuel a slight increase in long trips this Memorial Day weekend.

The AAA auto club predicts that 39 million Americans will make a trip of at least 50 miles this weekend, up 2.7 percent from the same holiday last year.

The nationwide average price for a gallon of which analysts attriregular on Friday was bute to stable gas prices.

$2.37. That's unchanged from early January. In recent years, prices have risen 35 to 70 cents per gallon heading into Memorial Day, says Patrick DeHaan, an analyst for the price-comparison site GasBuddy.

Vehicle sales fell about 2 percent through April, but sales of SUVs and trucks held up better, Freedom from joint pain means freedom to move like you used to. Hiking, basketball, gardening or even dancing can be part of your life again because of advancements in today's joint replacement procedures. Techniques, including minimally invasive surgery, are designed to mean less pain, less scarring and a faster recovery. So don't let joint pain get in your way. Call for a consultation to see what we can do to get you moving again.

you tell if you need to consider total knee replacement surgery? While simply experiencing a bit of knee pain from time to time may not mean you need surgery, those who experience long-term pain should make an appointment to consult with their primary care physician.

Knee replacement surgery offers many benefits for those experiencing long-term pain. The Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality reports more than 600,000 knee replacements are performed each year in the United States and one study estimates total knee replacement surgeries to grow 673 percent by 2030.

The surgery not only relieves pain, but improves mobility in the knee joint. According to the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons (AAOS), more than 90 percent of knee replacement recipients experience dramatic pain reduction, increased movement and a better quality of life.

However, not everyone with knee pain is a good candidate for replacement surgery.

If you are experiencing some or all of the below symptoms, you could be a candidate for knee replacement surgery:

 Your pain interferes with daily life. A prime candidate for knee replacement experiences knee pain during simple daily as walking.

 You have limited function and mobility. Knee stiffness makes it difficult to sit and bend at the knee, making it hard to get around and stay mobile.

· You have tried other pain relief methods. Knee replacement should not be considered until other prescribed methods to relieve pain have been exhausted, including weight loss, medication and physical therapy.

· You are between 55 and 70 years of age. Surgeons tend to recommend knee replacement surgery most often within this age bracket because younger patients tend to wear out their knee replacements sooner. Over time, the replacement will wear down so those who receive surgery earlier in life have a higher likelihood of needing a replacement surgery in the future.

 You have advanced joint disorders. Patients with advanced joint conditions such as osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis are good candidates for knee replacement

The decision to undergo knee replacement surgery can only be made by you, your physician and your surgeon. As with any surgery, it is important to consider the rehabilitation and physical therapy that goes along with recovery. Before recommending surgery, your physician will perform a thorough assessment or your current health and medical history to determine if knee replacement surgery is the right option for you.

Report: More Americans with Alzheimer's are dying at home

NEW YORK (AP) — One in 4 Alzheimer's deaths in the United States are now occurring at home - a startling increase that marks a shift away from hospitals and nursing homes, according to a report released Thursday.

Alzheimer's deaths in hospitals and nursing homes or other long-term care facilities shrank from more than 80 percent to 60 percent over 15 years. Meanwhile, those dying at home rose from 14 percent to 25 percent, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found. Alzheimer's disease is a progressive brain disorder that impairs memory, judgment and other mental abilities. It's most common in the elderly. In the final stages of the disease, people have trouble eating and carrying on a conversation, are vulnerable to pneumonia and infections, and often need around-the-clock care.

The Alzheimer's death rate has risen nearly 80 percent since 1999 and the disease is the nation's sixth leading cause of death.

Deaths have been climbing for some time. A big reason is declines in other causes of death particularly heart disease and cancer are enabling more people to live long enough to die from Alzheimer's, experts say.

Astros 2-0 victory over Orioles

HOUSTON (AP) - In his last fewstarts, Houston's Joe Musgrove felt like he had been the weak link on the team with the best record in the majors and he was determined to turn things around.

He was able to do that on Friday night by pitching seven strong innings in the Astros' 2-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Jake Marisnick and Carlos Beltran homered to back his start. Marisnick went deep with one out in the third inning, and Beltran's shot to the second deck in right field came with two outs in the sixth.

Musgrove (4-4) allowed four hits in seven innings before the bullpen closed it out to send the Orioles to their season-high fifth straight loss.

"He pitched with a little bit of edge to him tonight," manager A.J. Hinch said. "He was all over the strike zone which is one thing; he usually is. But I thought the quality of his strikes was a step above where he's been when he's gotten in trouble. I thought the execution of his secondary pitches was a difference in the game.'

Musgrove bounced back after allowing eight hits and a season-high seven runs in a season-low three-plus innings in an 8-6 loss to Cleveland in his last start.

"I'm really just happy about being able to get some of the trust back with some of my teammates and stuff," Musgrove said. "Not to say that they've been down on me, but it's tough to go out there and put together bad outing after bad outing and feel like your teammates are not really confident going into that day. So I'm happy that I can put a good one out and hopefully continue to build off of

The Orioles weren't able to string any hits together until the eighth inning when a double by Hyun Soo Kim and singles by Jonathan Schoop and J.J. Hardy loaded the bases with no outs. But Chris Devenski struck out Seth Smith before retiring Adam Jones and Manny Machado on fly balls to escape the jam.

Bernhard Langer regains Senior PGA lead with late birdie run

By BEN NUCKOLS

Associated Press

STERLING, Va. (AP) Bernhard Langer sat on a bench and ate a sandwich, chatted with his playing partners and signed autographs for fans as he waited out a 41-minute wind delay on the 14th tee at Trump National. When play resumed, he swung two clubs to loosen up and got back to business.

Langer grinded out three pars in the teeth of the wind and, when improve he took advantage, making five straight birdies to regain the lead Friday at the Senior PGA Championship. Langer was 11 under through 13 holes when play was halted because of darkness, one shot ahead of Vijay Singh, who shot 68 amid wind measured at more than 30 mph. Singh was at 10-under 134 through two rounds. Billy Andrade also shot 68 and was one shot behind Singh. Their scores were eight shots better than the field average.

The wind was so strong that golf balls moved on exposed greens, sand blew out of bunkers and whitecaps formed on the muddy Potomac River.

Playing in his first Senior PGA, the 54-yearold Singh made par putts from outside 10 feet on 15 and 16 and conditions began to two-putted for birdie on the par-5 18th. Through two rounds, the longhitting Fijian is 7 under on the par 5s, his only par coming when he three-putted the third

Bouncing back from DQ, Lee shoots 2nd-round 66 in Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Minjee Lee cost herself a top-10 finish last week when she failed to sign her

It was quite a gaffe, obviously, but it didn't change the fact that the 20-year-old from Australia was playing pretty well.

"Obviously, it was my fault," Lee said. "I played good last week and I know my game's there."

Lee shot a 6-under 66 on Friday and finished the second round two strokes behind leader Sung Hyun Park at the LPGA Volvik Championship. Park shot a 65 to enter the weekend at 12

Lee and Suzann Pettersen (67) were tied for second.

"I feel pretty comfortable out there," said Lee, a three-time winner on the LPGA Tour. "I mean, I was having fun out there and kept it pretty light with my caddie. Yeah, just played golf really."

Lee, who turns 21 on Saturday, was disqualified from the Kingsmill Championship because of the mistake with her scorecard. She seems to have put that behind her, and she wrapped up her round Friday with a birdie on No. 9.

On that final hole, playing partner Charley Hull's approach shot struck Lee's ball, which was already on the green, so the players had to deal with that unusual situation.

"They said move it three inches so that's what we did," Lee said.

Lexi Thompson, who had her own huge penalty at this year's ANA Inspiration, was in Lee's group. She shot 68 and moved to 4 under.

Park birdied six holes on the back nine, and the rookie from South Korea appears to be playing with confidence. She was the top earning player in the Korean LPGA last year and also had four top-10 finishes in seven LPGA Tour events. She has three top-10 LPGA Tour showings this season.

Raikkonen takes pole for Monaco GP; Hamilton finishes 14th

MONACO (AP) — Ferrari driver Kimi Raikkonen took pole position for the Monaco Grand Prix on Saturday, and title contender Lewis Hamilton failed to make the top 10 in a significant blow

Ferrari has been quick all weekend and championship leader Sebastian Vettel starts on the front row alongside teammate Raikkonen. Vettel left it late but pushed Mercedes driver Valtteri Bottas back to third. Red Bull's Max Verstappen starts fourth ahead of teammate Daniel Ricciardo, last year's pole sitter here.

Raikkonen's last pole was at the French GP as far back as 2008. The 37-year-old Finnish driver got a leading time of 1 minute, 12.178 seconds — just ahead of Vettel's 1:12.221.

"It doesn't guarantee anything for tomorrow. Nevertheless, I'll happily take it," Raikkonen said. "I was very happy with the car. It was nice, straightforward qualifying."

Pole position is even more valuable at Monaco, the hardest track to overtake on in F1.

Given the reliability and speed of Ferrari's car, that offers Raikkonen — the 2007 F1 champion a good chance of securing a 21st race win and his first since driving for Lotus at the season-opening Australian GP in 2013. Raikkonen is fourth in the championship standings and already 55 points behind Vettel. But he dismissed any talk that he might receive team orders in order to make way for Vettel, who has 44 "I don't know why everyone thinks it will be dif-

While Vettel and Raikkonen took 1-2 earlier in final practice, Hamilton was only fifth.

His form failed to improve in qualifying, twice wobbling on the track after losing grip on his car. "This weekend has been a bit tricky for us," said Bottas, who clocked 1:12.223. "It was quite difficult to get a lap together and Lewis also struggled with that. Ferrari had the upper hand in general.' Vettel narrowly missed out on a 48th career pole.

"The car was really nice to drive. I was probably a bit too greedy and wanted a bit too much," Vettel said. "The bottom line is that it's a great result for

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Seven people who threatened basketball referee John Higgins after an NCAA Tournament game in March have been identified. Information on them will be referred to authorities in their jurisdictions and to the FBI's Omaha field office, a Nebraska prosecutor said.

Sarpy County Attorney Lee Polikov said the identities were ascertained after a lengthy investigation following Kentucky's 75-73 loss to North Carolina in the South Region final in Memphis, Tennessee, on March 26. Polikov did not release the names. Kentucky coach John Calipari criticized the officiating during his postgame news conference. Higgins, of Omaha, saw his La Vista-based roofing company inundated with harassing emails, phone calls and voice mails, including death threats against Higgins and his family.

GYMNASTICS

MASON, Mich. (AP) — A gymnast testified that a Michigan sports doctor accused of sexual assaulting dozens of women and girls asked her father to leave the room before he molested her during a 2012 appointment for a heel injury.

The girl, who was 11 at the time, said she didn't object when Dr. Larry Nassar penetrated her with his fingers because she was embarrassed and thought it might be a legitimate

"I remember lots of pain," the 16-year-old, identified as victim A, told a judge.

Judge Donald Allen Jr. must decide whether there's enough evidence to send Nassar to trial on sexual assault charges involving seven women or girls. The judge has so far heard testimony from six of them over two days. The hearing will resume on June 23. Separately, dozens of others are also accusing Nassar of assaulting them and are suing him in federal court. PRO FOOTBALL SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A lawsuit accusing the NFL and team owners of conspiring to suppress wages for cheerleaders lacks evidence to support that claim, a federal judge said. U.S. District Judge William Alsup dismissed the lawsuit by a former

San Francisco 49ers cheerleader. The lawsuit sought class action status on behalf of all NFL cheerleaders. Alsup gave the former 49ers cheerleader — identified in the lawsuit only as "Kelsey K." — an opportunity to amend her lawsuit and refile it by June 15. Her attorney, Drexel Bradshaw, said he plans to do that, saying he has uncovered "significant facts" that he thinks will lead the judge to allow the lawsuit to proceed.

The lawsuit was among a spate of legal actions in recent years accusing NFL teams of failing to pay cheerleaders for hours they spent practicing and making public appearances. TRACK AND FIELD

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Some 10 athletes, including 2015 world champion hurdler Sergey Shubenkov, encountered issues with obtaining visas to compete in the Prefontaine Classic track meet.

The meet is the only U.S. stop for the international Diamond League series.

Organizer Tom Jordan said it was the first time in nearly a decade that athletes had problems securing visas for the meet. Visas were denied or delayed for athletes from various countries, including Russia and Ethiopia, Jordan said.

Asked for comment on the matter via email, the U.S. Department of State replied: "Section 222 (f) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) prohibits us from disclosing details from individual visa cases."

Chip Kelly is getting back into the college football business, this time without a headset.

The former Oregon coach is joining ESPN as a studio analyst next season. ESPN announced it has signed him to a multiyear deal.

Kelly will primarily be part of Saturday pregame, halftime and wrapup shows on ESPN2. He'll also provide NFL analysis on Sundays during SportsCenter. The 53-year-old Kelly spent the last four seasons in the NFL, coaching at Philadelphia for three years and San Francisco for one. Kelly was fired by the 49ers after going 2-14 last season. He was 26-21 with a playoff appearance for the Eagles. BOXING

TOKYO (AP) — The World Boxing Association has suspended two judges after their scoring of the Hassan N'Dam and Ryota Murata WBA middleweight title fight last Saturday Gustavo Padilla from Panama and Hubert Earle from Canada were suspended for six months, the WBA announced on its website. The two judges saw N'Dam win Saturday's bout 116-112 and 115-113. The third had Murata up 117-110. After the bout, WBA President Gilberto Mendoza, who also said he scored it 117-110 in favor of Murata, called for a rematch. Murata, a 2012 London Olympic gold medalist who was bidding to become the second middleweight champion from Japan and the first in 22 years, sent N'Dam to the canvas several times. After the suspension, the WBA said Padilla and Earle will have to pass tests before being allowed to judge WBA-sanctioned fights.

President Donald Trump's course about 25 miles outside Washington is exposed to the wind in part because Trump decided to cut down more than 450 trees to create scenic riverfront holes. The conditions were reminiscent of another Trump course, Turnberry in Scotland, which has hosted multiple British Opens. There were 23 rounds in the 80s and one round of 90.

Playing with Singh, Corey Pavin made a quadruplebogey 7 on the fourth hole and followed his first-round 69 with an 82 to miss the cut. Fran Quinn shot 80 but will play the weekend on the strength of his first-round 66.

Dixon has pole, Alonso has spotlight for wide-open Indy 500 time greats will lead the field to green at the Indianapolis 500. All eyes, though, will be one row behind Scott Dixon as Fernando Alonso makes his debut in "The Greatest Spectacle in Racing." Alonso has never raced on an oval before, never raced an Indy car and hasn't done a rolling start in 20 years — and that was in a go-kart.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)

- One of IndyCar's all-

So, yeah, Alonso lingered long after all the other competitors in the final driver meeting before Sunday's race. The two-time Formula One champion peppered race director Brian Barnhart with questions for a solid 15 minutes before riding off through Gasoline Alley on his skateboard.

He's as ready as he can possibly be, and ranked fifth — the fastest rookie — on the speed chart during the final day of practice. Alonso has enjoyed every minute at Indy, but he's not letting the hype around his quest to win racing's version of the Triple Crown — he's already won at Monaco in F1 and would like to someday run Le Mans — distract him from his mission.

"There is still no emotion. Until Monday, there are no emotions allowed to enter your mind," Alonso said. "The mind is so focused on the race. There is no space for the emotions right now."

That's the intensity it will take to win the 101st running of the Indy 500. Still, it is Dixon who should be the favorite to win.

The New Zealander had the fastest qualifying effort in 21 years to win the pole, and he'd like to drink the victor's milk for the second time. Dixon won this race in 2008, he's a four-time series champion and ranks fourth on the career win list behind only A.J. Foyt, Mario and Michael Andretti.

"In my generation he's the best," said Tony Kanaan, the 2013 winner of the Indy 500 and Dixon's teammate.

It doesn't hurt that Dixon this year is in a Honda, which has dominated the buildup to Sunday over rival Chevrolet. The Chevy camp particularly Team Penske — has been dramatically overshadowed so far but finally showed better speed Three-time Friday. Indy 500 winner Helio Castroneves, veteran of the Penske camp, was fastest on Carb Day

"We keep working, digging, obviously finding a way," Castroneves said. "We're going to fight extremely hard out there and showing a little bit of speed certainly. We're going for the big one on Sunday."

Team Penske has four of the top five drivers in the IndyCar standings, has won the last three races of the season and added two-time 500 winner Juan Pablo Montoya to its lineup.

Still, a win by a Chevy driver might be considered an upset based on how strong Honda has been. Although reliability on the Honda engines has been spotty James Hinchcliffe had a failure during Friday's practice the speed is there and Honda won last year with Alexander Rossi, a rookie who coasted across the finish line on Rossi is part of the massive effort from Andretti Autosport, which expanded to six cars when it took on Alonso last month. Most teams might have flinched at taking on such a heavy workload for the biggest race of the year, but the Andretti camp did not back down. "It has to make sense from a business standpoint," said Marco Andretti, son of the team owner and a driver eager to win his first Indy 500. "At first I was like, 'Man, six cars?' Then I found out who it was, and I was like, 'Well, we have to do that.' It's a lot for the team. But it's all good things, man. It's good for the sport."

There has certainly been a buzz around the Brickyard for Alonso, and worldwide television ratings should get a significant boost. IndyCar drivers are smart enough to understand that Alonso is good for all of them now.

With no clear favorite, questions about Honda's reliability, Penske's power and Alonso's lack of experience in this race, there could be a surprise winner in a race Roger Penske believes could be even more exciting than last year's historic 100th running.

Kanaan, a driver who had his heart broken repeatedly at Indy before his breakthrough victory four years ago, can't predict what might happen.

'The track is a she, first of all, and she picks the winner," Kanaan said. "I mean, look how many chances I had, not just me, but good drivers, led races. We can make a list of people who should have won this race, and then all of a sudden something happens.

"That's why every time I drive into the track, I say, "Hello, beauty" and kind of kiss the asphalt, don't do burnouts in the parking lot, and try to treat her nice. Every time I get to the track, I just give her a little French kiss."

"It got pretty tight there that last batter," Griffin said. "It felt more like a cramp earlier on in the game. Sometimes those come and you can just pitch through them. It just kept tightening more and more, grabbing more and more." Austin Bibens-Dirkx replaced

Griffin and pitched four innings. The Rangers put Griffin on the 10-day disabled list and recalled right-hander Dillon Gee from Triple-A Round Rock. Griffin will undergo an MRI when the Rangers return home Monday. Toronto also got a grand slam from infielder Ryan Goins in Wednesday's win at Milwaukee. The last pair of Blue Jays to hit grand slams in consecutive games was Brad Fullmer and Raul Mondesi, who did it April 20

TRAINER'S ROOM

Rangers: 3B Adrian Beltre (right calf) went 4 for 6 with a double in six innings in an extended spring training game. He will play six innings again Saturday, his third rehab game, and could return Monday.

Blue Jays: LHP J.A. Happ (elbow) made his first rehab start with Class A Dunedin on Thursday. Happ allowed three runs and seven hits in three innings. ... LHP Francisco Liriano (shoulder) will make a rehab start with Triple-A Buffalo on Sunday.

"But we've been challenged to try and figure out a way to get a little deeper in some of the games, and it doesn't really matter who we've got in the bullpen if we don't."

MOVES

The Astros optioned C Juan Centeno and RHP Jordan Jankowski to Triple-A Fresno after the game to make room on the roster for the expected return from the DL of ace LHP Dallas Keuchel and C Brian McCann on Saturday. Keuchel is on the 10-day DL with the pinched nerve in his neck and McCann is on the 7-day concussion list.

Orioles: Wade Miley (1-2 2.59 ERA) is scheduled to start for Baltidick reached on an er- takes a guy that's been more on Saturday. He allowed six hits and three runs in seven innings of a 3-1 loss to Toronto in his last start and hasn't gotten a win since April 14.

Astros: Keuchel is expected to come off the DL to start on Saturday after missing just one start with his injury. The 2015 American League Cy Young Award winner has brushed off a tough 2016 season by opening this year 7-0 with a 1.84 ERA. The left-hander has the second-lowest ERA in the majors and his wins are tied for most in the big leagues.

Wood stays undefeated as Dodgers blank Cubs 4-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alex Wood has turned a substitute stint into a full-time gig in the rotation, and isn't showing any sign of letting go.

He allowed two hits over five scoreless innings, Chase Utley and Adrian Gonzalez homered, and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Chicago opener.

"It was a pretty beautiful game, for sure," Wood said.

He extended his career-high scoreless innings streak to 25 1/3, longest in the majors this season. The left-hander began the season in the bullpen and has capitalized after getting a chance to fill in for some of the Dodgers' injured starters.

definitely feel confident now," Wood "The consistency of my stuff has been there and that's where my confidence is coming from."

Wood (6-0) struck out eight and walked

"I thought it was somewhat of a victory getting Wood out after five," Cubs manager Joe Maddon said. "He started out hot. His numbers were high, but then all of a sudden his velocity came back down. But their bullpen was that good."

After Wood departed, Pedro Baez and Chris Hatcher combined to toss four hitless innings.

The Dodgers have won nine of their last 11 at home, and their 19-8 home record is second-best in the ma-

Jake Arrieta (5-4) continued to struggle for the World Series champions, whose three-game winning

"The one that Utley hit out was on the corner," Arrieta said. "That's a good piece of hitting.' The Dodgers made it 2-0 in the fourth. Corey Seager drew a leadoff walk and came home on Yasmani Grandal's double to deep left center. Seager's helmet went flying off as he rounded third and narrowly beat the tag at the plate with a head-first slide.

Gonzalez extended the lead to 4-0 on his two-run shot that scored Seager with two outs in the sixth.

Chicago got its only two hits back-to-back in the second on singles by Jason Heyward and Javier Baez. The Cubs had hit 26 home runs in their previous 14 games.

Big Spring and Howard County have some outstanding artistic talent, and this month, some of that talent has been on display at the Heritage Museum of Big Spring and Howard County in the Big Spring Art Association's 2017 Area-Wide Art Show.

"This is our yearly Area-Wide Show where we invite everyone in the area to come in and be a part of the Art Show," said Art Association member Sandee Lockhart.

Artwork in the show was judged in three categories: Acrylics, Watercolor, and a third "Combined" category, including Photography, Graphite, Mixed Media, and 3-D entries. Also one work was named "Best In Show."

That honor went to longtime local artist Estelle Howard, for her acrylic piece "Evening Glow," displayed at the top of this page; a diffuse, colorful still-life of a flower arrangement in a

"She is our only founding member," Lockhart said. "She has painted for many, many years and is just an excellent artist. The acrylic that she entered this year, it's just like the title says, it glows."

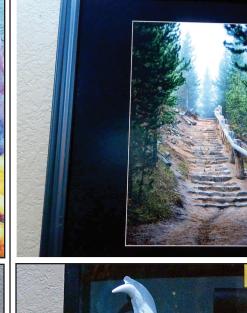

Artwork earning ribbons in the show are shown here in columns, first place at the top down to third place at the bottom. In the Acrylic category, first place went to Angeline Collier's "Summer Son." Collier also took second in the category for "To the Sky", while third went to Grace Phelps for "Welcome." Winning watercolors include first place "Wistful Kitty" by

Kaye Smith, second "Summer Time Sip" by Linday Rupard, and third "Wild Horse Lilies." In Combined, Donnie Tubb took first for "Winter Windmill," Bruce Schooler got second for "Stairway to Heaven," and Tex Irwin received third place for his "Damascus Bowie Knife." Trey Cauble took an Honorable Mention for his graphite sketch of the slain Big Spring Police officer in "Portrait of Troy Hogue."

The show will be on display at the museum through June 3.

Saldana and Del Toro help open new Disney 'Guardians' ride

By MARCELA ISAZA Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Stepping inside Disney's latest theme park attraction, Guardians of the Galaxy: Mission BREAKOUT!, is like being thrust into one of blockbuster films' pulsating, action- The Collector's latest acquisition, the Guardians, packed trailers.

Music blares throughout the tower drop ride as guests are treated to a visual feast of images from the "Guardians" universe, as well as cameos by series stars Chris Pratt, Zoe Saldana and others. The motion of the ride, set primarily in a prison tower elevator, depends on which of six songs from the '60s, '70s and early '80s is playing. That variety is what Disney is hoping will keep guests returning multiple times.

The attraction, Disney's first based on its slate of Marvel films, debuted Thursday night for journalists and VIPs at an elaborate grand opening.

The ride at Disney California Adventure Park in Anaheim opens to the public on Saturday.

The attraction offers numerous visual and audio treats, starting with the 8-foot (2-meter) gilded statue of Benicio Del Toro's flamboyantly-dressed character, The Collector, which greets visitors when they walk in.

Del Toro called the statue, which he saw for the first time inside the attraction Thursday, surreal.

"Actually I look pretty cool in that statue," he said. Howard graduates from Coahoma

The attraction is housed in a 183-foot (55-meter) tower that's been transformed into a prison where Guardians characters are held by The Collector. Riders are told they are part of a VIP group touring before being enlisted in a plot to help the heroes

In keeping with the film, music and irreverent humor are frequently used throughout the ride.

The ride's action is centered in an elevator that ascends and drops through the tower during the rescue mission. The elevator's movements change depending on which song is playing. On one ride guests might get an experience tailored to Elvis Presley's "Burning Love" while others will have the elevator controlled by the rhythms of a hit from The Jackson 5 or Pat Benatar. The media preview was set to Benatar's "Hit Me With Your Best Shot."

The ride was developed with Gunn's assistance. Through two "Guardians" films, he's transformed the characters from little-known denizens in Marvel's universe into household names. Gunn directed scenes with Pratt and other characters during shooting of "Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2," which has earned more than $300 million in its first three weeks in theaters.

Gunn said working on the ride was radically different from filming a movie. "Everything is a little

Roger's Reviews:

Alien: Covenant

The "Alien" franchise of sci-fi horror films, which kicked off with 1979's "Alien," generally shows outmatched, unprepared humans combating the series' eponymous H.R. Giger-inspired Aliens. That's fine. Usually the humans, at least some of them, manage to adapt and overcome to some degree. On the other hand, however, "Alien: Covenant," the latest installment in the saga, challenges the Aliens with a group of humans that's every bit as savvy as a bag of hammers. These guys are real Darwin Award material, dear readers. "Covenant" begins with Synthetic (think "android") David (Michael Fassbender – remember him from "Prometheus"?) waking up for the first time after being created by Peter Weyland (Guy Pearce), head of the shadowy Weyland Corporation that pervades all the films.

Cut to the colony spaceship Covenant (guess that's where the film gets its name), carrying more than 2,000 sleeping, frozen colonists and a bunch of embryos to make more. It's also carrying synthetic Walter (also Michael Fassbender – these synthetic dudes all look alike), who is the only one awake on the ship at the beginning of the film. The rest of the crew is frozen just like the colonists. The ship deploys solar sails to collect energy, but a nearby neutrino burst (read "explosion") rocks the ship and fouls the solar sails. The incident also causes several crew members to wake up seven years early, while others, including the captain, are killed. This puts Christopher Oram (Billy Crudup), first mate and true believer in the science-fictiony religion in the "Alien" films, in charge. Other crew include Daniels (Katherine Waterston), wife of the deceased captain; Tennessee (Danny McBride), chief pilot; Lope (Demián Bichir), head of security; Hallett (Nathaniel Dean), security crewman, Lope and Hallett are a couple; Karine (Carmen Ejogo), chief biologist and wife of Christopher Oram; Maggie (Amy Seimetz), lander pilot and Tennessee's wife; Upworth

(Callie Hernandez), Ricks (Jussie Smollett),

Roger

worth's husband; etc. etc. etc. There are some others, but they're kind of like Star Trek redshirts. So anyway, the crew is trying to figure out what to do when they pick up a garbled transmission which good old boy Tennessee identifies as John Denver's "Take Me Home, Country Road." They trace the transmission to its source and discover it originates at a nearby Earth-like world. They can either get back in their sleep pods (in which they witnessed the captain burn to death) and travel seven more years to get to their intended destination, or they can travel a couple of weeks to this new prospect. They opt for the latter, despite Daniels' objections. Upon arrival, they discover that it is indeed an Earth-like world, with breathable atmosphere, plenty of water, and vegetable life. It is a little more stormy than Earth, which will make communications between the Covenant and the landing craft difficult, but they go for it anyway. After landing in the middle of a lake because the land is all steep mountainous terrain, the crew, garbed in pretty normal-looking coveralls, heads

Ok, let me pause the narrative there for a minute. Remember I referenced "bag of hammers" earlier in this review? These guys might have known what to expect, biology-wise, on their original target planet. Sure, it could have been pre-scanned and dangerous microbes and fungi and poisonous nasty kill-you type stuff might have been discovered and categorized and eliminated as threats. But this is a whole 'nother world. They have no idea what's out there, and they just walk out of the ship with nary an environmental suit, disease-detection apparatus, or even gas mask to be seen. In fact, the screenshot I've included along with this review shows them piling out of the landing craft, faces and fragile human immune systems open to the wind. The biologist thinks she might do some tests on a puddle, after the entire landing party is already tromping across the countryside. And naturally, a little fungus-looking organism sprays her assistant with some spores, and he gets sick. Sick with Alien, which comes bursting out of him later in the show. Please, for the love of God, if you're ever about to head out of your spaceship to explore a completely unknown world, take a moment to put on a space suit or, at least, an environmental suit. You'll thank me later.

So yeah, everything kinda goes sideways with their little landing party. The alien which erupted from said assistant did so in the sick bay, after they had gotten him back to the landing craft. Another crewmember also succumbs to chestburster disease, and the resulting alien calls some buddies who happen to be on the planet, and they start running amok among the crew.

Luckily (or so we think) a mysterious figure shows up, shoots a flare scaring the aliens away (?) and guides the crew to his home – a mysterious stone building surrounded by petrified corpses. Turns out he's David, and this is where the Prometheus landed after that movie.

I'll stop the summary there. Let's just say not all is as it seems, and the crew continues their Darwin-award eligibility exam by wandering off alone, and then wandering off alone to look for the people who originally wandered off alone, etc. These aren't the brightest bulbs on the Christmas tree.

That said, "Covenant" does have some interesting interactions and twists and turns. I was interested in what was going on even as I was berating the crew for their abject stupidity. Definitely not the best in the "Alien" saga. Perhaps it would have made more sense had I seen "Prometheus," but I doubt it. I'll just give this movie a flat five stars out

Tips for Memorial Day traveling ummertime is almost here, which means vacations and road trips are on the horizon for millions of Americans. Memorial Day travel will be the busiest since 2005, according to the American Automobile Association (AAA). Whether you're hitting the road Memorial Day weekend or for an upcoming vacation, Better Business Bureau serving the Heart of Texas advises people to prepare for safe travels.

Despite higher gas prices this year, AAA Travel predicts that more than 34 million Americans will hit the road this Memorial Day weekend. AAA also expects more than 330,000 motorists will need roadside assistance due to car troubles such as lockouts, flat tires and battery-related issues. However, there are some preventative steps drivers can take to avoid any mishaps. The National Highway

Traffic Safety Administration (NHSTA) recommends H_{EATHER} getting your vehicle serviced Massey before you hit the road, especially if you plan on taking a long road trip. Regular maintenance such as oil changes, battery checks and tire rotations could prevent breakdowns, or worse, accidents.

So, before you hit the road, BBB recommends the following tips:

Check with BBB. When looking for an auto mechanic, check out a company's BBB Business Profile at bbb.org. Business Profiles include contact information for a business, complaint history and customer reviews.

• Get a quick tune-up. Have your entire vehicle thoroughly checked by a trustworthy auto mechanic. According to AAA, batteries and tires are the most common mechanical reasons for Roadside Assistance calls. Vehicles can also suffer from unforeseen engine, transmission and brake problems. A vehicle tune-up may include the following mainte-

 Tire check – Make sure to put air in your tires or have them rotated before a road trip. Flat tires are a common reason for roadside assistance calls. Also, unusual wear patterns, improper inflation or a hidden puncture can lead to more serious problems later.

• Battery check – Like flat tires, dead batteries are another reason for roadside assistance calls. If your car now struggles to start, or if your battery is more than three years old, get a check-up to avoid possibly getting stranded.

• Create a vehicle safety kit. Holiday driving means a lot of drivers will be traveling and even a well-maintained vehicle can break down. Basics for an emergency roadside kit include blankets, a flashlight with extra batteries, a radio, a first aid kit and jumper cables. You may also consider packing non-perishable foods, like granola bars and nuts, and bottled water.

• Check for recalls. On the NHTSA's website safercar.gov, car owners can search for recalls by the Vehicle Identification Number (VIN). NHTSA also offers additional safety information based on a vehicle's make, model and model year.

• Bring extra set of keys. According to the AAA, getting locked out of your car makes up a substantial portion of calls, even though wireless "smart key" technology is more common. To avoid lockouts, replace your smart key's battery every two years, and keep it in your pocket (versus somewhere in the car) or have a passenger bring a spare key.

Heather Massey is the regional director for the Permian Basin office of Better Business Bureau serving the Heart of Texas. Heather is available for media interviews and speaking engagements.

World stocks dip, oil price stabilizes after big slide

by KELVIN CHAN AP Business Writer

HONG KONG (AP) — World stock markets mostly weakened Friday as investors watched the G-7 summit of leaders and oil prices stabilized after falling sharply over a production cut deal. KEEPING SCORE: In Europe, France's CAC 40 was down 0.7 percent to 5,301 and Germany's DAX lost 0.5 percent to 12,562. Britain's FTSE 100 rose 0.2 percent to 7,529. Wall Street was poised to open lower, with Dow and S&P 500 futures both slipping 0.1 percent.

WORLD LEADERS: President Donald Trump and other leaders of the Group of Seven wealthy nations are meeting in Italy. The leaders, who once found broad agreement but are now increasingly divided, will be looking to build trust among themselves as they try to find common ground on issues including climate change, trade and the global economy.

QUOTEWORTHY: "The G-7 summit that is starting today is unlikely to bring a much brighter outlook in terms of U.S. policy. As Trump meets with the other world leaders, differences remain large," Bas van Gaffen of Rabobank said in a commentary. 'Indeed, Trump's protectionist tone doesn't appear to be weakening.' CRUDE CUT: Oil prices bottomed out after a sharp selloff triggered by a deal by an alliance of oil-producing nations to extend production cuts for nine months to shore up crude prices. The deal was widely expected by analysts, but disappointed investors who were hoping for a longer extension. Benchmark U.S. crude lost rose 14 cents to $49.04 a barrel in electronic trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange. The contract shed $2.46, or 4.8 percent, on Thursday. Brent crude, the international standard, rose 21 cents to $51.67 a barrel in JAPAN PRICES: Inflation ticked up to a two-year high last month on rising energy costs, according to the latest official data. The figures offer some hope that people in Asia's second-largest economy might be spurred to start spending more as growth recovers although economists say the consumer price index's 0.3 percent increase is not likely to rise further.

ASIA'S DAY: Japan's benchmark Nikkei 225 index shed 0.6 percent to 19,686.84 but South Korea's Kospi climbed 0.5 percent to 2,355.30. Hong Kong's Hang Seng was nearly unchanged at 25,639.27 and the Shanghai Composite index in mainland China climbed ended less than 0.1 percent higher at 3,110.06. Australia's S&P/ASX 200 lost 0.7 percent to

A woman poses next to French designer Gael Langevin's InMoov robot after he unveiled it at a technology fair in Bucharest, Romania, Friday, May 26, 2017. The robot can be programmed to speak English, Spanish, French, Russian and Dutch, with a basic model costing about 1,500 euros, $1,665.

French designer shows off DIY robot in public for 1st time

by ALISON MUTLER

AP Business Writer

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — A French designer has shown his humanoid DIY robot to the public for the first time.

The life-size plastic model responded to English-language commands Friday, picking up and dropping a small ball and swiveling its head to follow people.

Designer Gael Langevin unveiled the robot at a technology fair in Romania this week. The idea developed from a prosthetics hand he made in 2011, the first-ever made on a 3-D printer. The robot is made with a 3-D printer and micro-cameras.

It is hoped the robot will be used to help children in schools and hospitals. If connected to the internet, it can answer a variety of questions taken from Wikipedia.

Langevin admits his model, generically called InMoov, is not yet perfect.

"This is a little bit like Geppetto building Pinocchio. You make a robot and you send it in the world and you see what the others are going to do with it," he said.

Children visiting the fair seemed "He is awesome," said Adrian Margineanu, a student at Bucharest's elite St. Sava school. "I like it a lot. I'm tempted to make one."

For those who don't want to assemble it, InMoov offers a list of builders in different countries. Langevin estimates that more than 1,000 DIY robots have been made by people who followed his design.

His robot can be programmed to speak English, Spanish, French, Russian and Dutch. But Romanian graphic designer Paul Popescu, 35, has been assembling his own robot and has plans to program it to speak Romanian.

A basic model costs about 1,500 euros ($1,665).

US stock indexes slip after push to record highs

by MARLEY JAY

are little changed Friday, keeping indexes near record highs following a six-day winning streak. Technology companies, which have led the market's recent rally, are slightly lower as video game companies skid and energy companies are sliding. Household goods companies are rising as beauty products makers Ulta and Coty climb.

KEEPING SCORE: The Standard & Poor's 500 index dipped 1 point, or 0.1 percent, to 2,413 of 11:45 a.m. Eastern time. The Dow Jones industrial average gave up 17 points, or 0.1 percent, to 21,066. The Nasdaq composite stayed at 6,204. The Russell 2000 index of small-company stocks sank 2 points, or 0.2 percent, to 1,380. Trading was light ahead of the Memorial Day holiday in the U.S. on Monday.

Small-company stocks made huge gains last year following the presidential election, but they haven't done as well as the rest of the market this year. Investors hoped that President Donald Trump's agenda of tax cuts and looser regulations would boost the U.S. economy and help those companies do more business. This year they are still waiting for that to happen.

EARNINGS: Without much major news to move stock prices, investors continued to trade on company reports. Beauty products retailer Ulta Beauty gained $10.20, or 3.5 percent, to $303.25 after reporting a strong quarter. Competitor Coty picked up 45 cents, or 2.4 percent, to $19.06. That helped household goods companies rise more than the rest of the market. Uggs maker Deckers Outdoor turned in earnings that were stronger than expected, and its stock gained $8.37, or 14.8 percent, to $64.94. Costco Wholesale rose $3.13, or 1.8 percent, to $177.86 after the warehouse club had a strong quarter as sales and member payments both increased.

GAME OVER: GameStop's firstquarter results were stronger than analysts expected, but sales of wireless devices were weaker than investors expected. The stock gave up $1.76, or 7.5 percent, to $21.86. Video NEW YORK (AP) - U.S. stocks game publishers also fell. Activision Blizzard lost 78 cents, or 1.3 percent, to $58.44 and Electronic Arts declined $1.33, or 1.2 percent, to $112.50. That helped pull technology companies > SOOTHED: The VIX, an index that is called Wall Street's "fear gauge" because it measures how much volatility investors expect to see, fell for the seventh day in a row. After a huge spike last Wednesday, the VIX is again trading around its lowest levels since 1993. It reached a low of 9.77 on May 8 and was at 9.82 Friday.

OIL: Crude oil prices inched higher after a sharp drop the day before. Benchmark U.S. crude lost rose 28 cents to $49.18 a barrel in New York. Brent crude, the international standard, rose 15 cents to $51.61 a barrel in London. On Thursday a group of 24 nations including the OPEC countries agreed to a nine-month extension of a cut in oil production.

Energy companies, which have lagged the market dramatically this year, continued to struggle. The S&P 500's energy company index is down 12 percent in 2017 while the broader S&P 500 is up almost 8 percent. ECONOMY: The Commerce Department said the U.S. economy grew 1.2 percent in the first quarter, which was still weak but better than it originally estimated. Orders for long-lasting goods fell in April, and a category that tracks business investment fell for the second month in a row. BONDS: Bond prices were little changed. The yield on the 10-year Treasury note held steady at 2.25 per-CURRENCIES: The dollar sank to 111.25 yen from 111.80 yen. The euro fell to $1.1178 from $1.1205.

OVERSEAS: The French CAC 40 fell 0.1 percent and Germany's DAX lost 0.2 percent. In Britain the FTSE 100 rose 0.4 percent. Japan's benchmark Nikkei 225 index shed 0.6 percent but the South Korean Kospi climbed 0.5 percent. Hong Kong's Hang Seng was nearly unchanged.

North East Pass 2 🏚 Opening lead — queen of diamonds. There is no difference between making a contract on its merits and making a contract because your opponents don't find the best defense. Many a contract is made because of a defensive error or misjudgment, and anything declarer can do to induce a misplay is a step in the right direction.

Consider this case where West leads a diamond against four spades. South sees four losers — a heart, two diamonds and a club - and must try to avoid one of them.

If the defenders could see South's hand, they would surely stop the contract. But since declarer's specific assets and liabilities are concealed from the prying eyes of the defense, he can often trade upon this advan-

South's best method of play is to win the diamond in dummy and immediately return a low heart. East follows low, and the jack loses to the ace. The defenders cash two diamonds and switch to a club.

Declarer wins with the king, draws trumps ending in dummy and leads the queen of hearts. This traps East's king, and sooner or later South disposes of his club loser on one of dummy's heart honors. The only way East can foil declarer is by rising with the king when the three of hearts is led from dummy at trick two. However, going up with the king of hearts is a lot easier when you see all four hands than when you see only the East hand and dummy. The fact is that not many players would make this play, and, in any case, nothing is lost by putting East to the test.

Note that declarer makes his move as soon as possible - without drawing trumps and without giving the defense the slightest inkling of what he is up to.

Queen Elizabeth visits young survivors of concert blast

Britain's Queen Elizabeth II. right, speaks to Millie Robson, 15, and her mother, Marie, as she visits the Royal Manchester Children's Hospital in Manchester England, to meet victims of the terror attack in the city earlier this week and to thank members of staff who treated them Thursday May 25, 2017.

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II met Thursday with children injured in the Manchester concert bombing, consoling them and pronouncing the attack at an event attended by so many young people "wicked."

The 91-year-old monarch visited Evie Mills, 14, Millie Robson, 15, and other youngsters recovering from severe shrapnel wounds at the Royal Manchester Children's Hospital.

"It's dreadful. Very wicked, to target that sort of thing," the queen told Evie and her parents.

Millie, wearing an Ariana Grande T-shirt, told the queen she had won VIP tickets to the pop star's Monday night concert at Manchester Arena and been injured in the bombing attack after the end of the show. The teenager said she felt fortunate to have survived.

"I have a few, like, holes in my legs and stuff, and I have a bit of a cut, and my arm and just a bit here, but compared to other people I'm quite lucky really," she said.

The queen broke her normal custom of wearing a matching outfit by visiting the children in a blue coat topped with a jaunty orange hat as if to try to lighten the gloom.

Elizabeth told Millie she thought Ariana Grande was a "very good singer," adding, "She sounds very, very good."

Millie was one of 12 children under the age of 16 taken to Royal Manchester Children's Hospital by ambulance after the blast that killed 22 people and the suspected bomber.

She said she was walking toward the exit to meet her father when the bomb went off. She remembers the explosion, an intense ringing in her ears, and people screaming. Millie didn't know it right away, but she was bleeding badly from her legs.

"My dad ran over to me and picked me up and then like, we tied jumpers (sweaters) and stuff around the main wounds in my leg," she recalled Thursday. "He just picked me and we ran outside and then a lot of paramedics outside and strangers were just helping us, really."

It was a parent's nightmare. Her father, David Robson, said he was with his partner waiting for Millie when the explosion happened.

"It was surreal, it was just quiet," Robson said. "And I saw Millie, at the bottom of the stairs, I just ran down, picked her up."

He was running from the scene when he noticed her bleeding legs. They used a sweater and a shirt to try to staunch the flow and keep her alive. "I just said, 'Look at me, just don't look anywhere else," the father said. "Because it was just, obviously as you can imagine, carnage, bodies and stuff."

Emergency teams eventually helped treat Millie and got her to the hospital. She was well enough Thursday to enjoy the queen's visit.

"She is lovely," the teen said. "It's like mindblowing, really."
