Council to consider Spring rental terms at Tuesday meeting

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer
 At its meeting Tuesday evening, the Big Spring City Council will consider adopting guidelines for rental and use of the newly renovated Historic Spring in Comanche Trail Park. The council will meet at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in the the Council Chambers, 307 E. Fourth St. According to the measure, the spring will be available for rental from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. for $200 per day, plus a $500 deposit. Cleaning and repair expenses will be deducted from the deposit, and the balance will be refunded. No food or drink sales will be allowed within the Historic Spring area, according to the proposed ordinance. According to the measure, requests for waiver of fees may be submitted to the City Council prior to the event, and the decision of the council is final regarding use of the spring and fees to be charged. The council reserves the right to allow use of the Historic Spring to any individual or group. Other restrictions on use of the spring include:

 • No broadcasting or television programs from the spring without written consent of the City Manager.

 • Those renting the spring are liable for any damages to the facilities.
 • Those renting the spring are required to clean up debris and trash before vacating the area.
 • Rental of the spring is conditional upon the renter agreeing not to hold the city liable for injuries or damages

Adopt a Military Hero needs volunteers to box care packages

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer
 Looking for a fun, inexpensive way to support America's military men and women? Why not join with the Howard County Adopt a Military Hero organization and help them pack some care packages for some military heroes? This is the eighth year the local organization has prepared, boxed, and sent care packages to American military men and women. "On the 19th, we'll be boxing up items to be sent to deployed military," said Adopt a Military Hero spokesperson Debbie Burrow. "We have 500 boxes. We're sending 500, and we need people to come and help in kind of an assembly line kind of thing. They just go down the line and get one of these, two of these, and one of these."

they donated money and we bought items," she said. Adopt a Military Hero prioritizes servicemen and women suggested by local citizens, and then opens the mailing list to other deployed heroes. "We put out a call when we first started, and we started in February: If anyone has anyone deployed, to give us their (military) address," Burrow said. "So we get them that way, and if we don't get enough - and we don't get even close to 500 - we contact chaplains at the deployment points, and we send them, like, 30 boxes. They usually distribute them to the ones who don't get just box after box after box from home. Some of them don't get anything, except what we send." Burrow said she's proud of the box the group has put together. "We have a pretty good box. It has gloves, socks, caps...it has hand warmers for the cold part of it," she said. "It also has soap and toothbrushes and toothpaste and deodorant, all that kind of stuff. Then it also has fun stuff like snacks...we even make a candy sleigh in August that goes in there. Christmas cards from kids... we have a very diverse box, but it's very good."

 Fourth and fifth graders at Forsan Elementary school presented a musical program called "American Pride" to honor veterans. Students raised $1,134 for Adopt a Military Hero, and during the program, a check was presented to Jan Sims, who will be part of the effort to send boxes overseas to U.S. military men and women. A small reception to honor servicemen and women was held immediately after the presentation.

Concerned group of citizens begin new initiative

 Local residents involved in Keep Big Spring Beautiful, a movement that places emphasis on the betterment and beautification of Big Spring, is now pushing for residents to be more responsible about trash disposal. "I've figured out that a lot of trash we're picking up is coming from people who aren't bagging their trash or properly tying it, leaving trash to fall onto the ground," said KBSB member Liz Hafley. The people of KBSB have created bumper stickers with the phrase "Please bag all garbage, tie bag, and close dumpster lid" on it. "We're trying to spread the word that improper disposal of trash is becoming an issue so we'd like to see our bumper stickers on actual dumpsters and places they'll be easily visible to people in the community," said Hafley. "It's already a city ordinance that residents must bag trash sustained at the spring.

At the meeting, the council also plans to approve a lease with Global Energy Partners LLC, an Oklahoma corporation, for Building 75 at the Big Spring Airpark.

According to its page on LinkedIn.com, Global Energy Partners "...is a premier provider of energy resource planning, program design and implementation, and technical services to public and private organizations."

According to the two-year lease agreement published with the City Council agenda, the city will charge Global Energy Partners $1.50 per square foot for the building, and the company has proposed to make capital improvements to the building during the term of the lease.

Building 75 is an (approximately) 33,944-square-foot facility situated on just over eight acres of land. The city will also provide a mobile office building for Global Energy's use for up to one year, while the company renovates the building.

According to the conditions of the lease, Global Energy will have the option to renew the lease for an additional two-year term, assuming they have complied with the terms of the lease during the first term.

In other business, the council will:

- Hear the quarterly report by the Big Spring Economic Development Corporation;

- Approve authority to negotiate a right-of-way easement with SM Energy;

- Discuss real estate matters, and the performance of Interim City Attorney Marianne Banks.

so this is just a reminder." Bumper stickers can be picked up at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce main office or requested via the KBSB facebook page. According to Hafley, she and a small group of BS residents pick up trash every Tuesday from April to Nov, only stopping from Nov until April of the following year because daylight savings time makes it difficult to continue when they run out of daylight. Another reason KBSB limits trash pickup to certain times of year is that weather during Fall/Winter months isn't conducive to outdoor cleanup activities. "I'd just like to ask that the people of Big Spring pick up trash whenever they see it and help us keep the city clean," said Hafley.

As stated on the KBSB facebook page, their "mission" is to empower Big Spring citizens through education to take responsibility for enhancing their community environment and their "vision" is that every Big Spring citizen take individual responsibility for making our city the cleanest most beautiful city in Texas.

Trump barges into tax debate, seeks deeper cut for wealthy

By KEVIN FREKING and MARCY GORDON

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Donald Trump on Monday barged into congressional Republicans' carefully calibrated work on revamping the nation's tax code, calling for a steeper tax cut for wealthy Americans and pressing to add a contentious health care change to the mix.

In a tweet, Trump commended GOP leaders for getting the tax overhaul legislation closer to passage in recent weeks and said, "Cut top rate to 35% w/all of the rest going to middle income cuts?"

That puts him at odds with the House legislation that leaves the top rate at 39.6 percent and the Senate bill as written, with the top rate at 38.5 percent.

Trump also said, "Now how about ending the unfair & highly unpopular individual mandate in (Obama)care and reducing taxes even further?"

With few votes to spare, Republicans leaders hope to finalize a tax overhaul by Christmas and send the legislation to Trump for his signature. House leaders have compromised with some rank-and-file Republicans in hopes of passing their version of the bill this week. The Senate Finance Committee starts work on its legislation on Monday afternoon.

Trump's tweet injects a degree of uncertainty in the process as the GOP tries to deliver on the president's top legislative priority and hold onto their majorities in next year's midterm elections.

Neither bill includes a repeal of the so-called individual mandate of Barack Obama's Affordable Care Act, the requirement that Americans get health insurance or face a penalty. Several top Republicans have warned that including the provision would draw opposition and make passage tougher.

Underscoring the difficulty, the chairman of the House's tax-writing committee said Sunday he was certain that chamber won't go along with the Senate's proposal to eliminate the deduction for property taxes, setting up a major flashpoint.

Among the biggest differences in the two bills that have emerged: the House bill allows homeowners to deduct up to $10,000 in property taxes while the Senate proposal unveiled by GOP leaders last week eliminates the entire deduction.

The deduction is particularly important to residents in states with high property values or tax rates, such as New Jersey, Illinois, California and New York. Rep. Kevin Brady, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said that he worked with lawmakers in those states to ensure the House bill "delivers this relief" and that he was committed to ensuring it stays in the final package.

"It's important to make sure that people keep more of what they earn, even in these high-tax states," Brady, R-Texas, said during an appearance on "Fox News Sunday."

The Senate's tax-writing committee will wade through its newly unveiled measure starting Monday. The legislation in the House and Senate carries high political stakes for President Donald Trump and Republican leaders in Congress, who view passage of tax cuts as critical to the GOP's success at the polls next year.

The House is expected to vote on its measure on Thursday. The House Ways and Means Committee approved it last week on a party-line 24-16 vote.

Democrats are solidly opposed to the GOP revamp, so the Republicans must find agreement among themselves to have any hope of passage.

Both the House and Senate versions of the legislation would eliminate deductions for state and local income taxes and sales taxes paid. Sen. Chuck Schumer, D-N.Y., said in response to Brady's pledge that Republicans should fully restore what is referred to as the SALT deduction, or millions of middle-class families would end up paying higher federal income taxes, not less.

"The House's so-called 'compromise' would be saying to the middle class we'll only chop off four of your fingers instead of all five," Schumer said in a statement.

Texas town holds 1st Sunday service since church attack

A memorial for the victims of the shooting at Sutherland Springs First Baptist Church, including 26 white chairs each painted with a cross and rose, is displayed in the church Sunday, Nov. 12, 2017, in Sutherland Springs, Texas. A man opened fire inside the church in the small South Texas community last week, killing more than two dozen.

By CLAUDIA LAUER

Associated Press

SUTHERLAND SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — Hundreds of mourners crowded into the tiny town of Sutherland Springs for the first Sunday service since a gunman stormed the First Baptist Church a week earlier, killing more than two dozen people in the worst mass shooting in Texas history.

After an emotional sermon held outdoors under a massive white tent, congregants and the public were invited to return to the church for the first time since the tragedy. A chilling memorial set up inside the church included 26 white chairs — including one for the unborn baby of a victim who was pregnant — bearing each victim's name or nickname painted in gold.

Pastor Frank Pomeroy shared his personal heartache and a message that the community bound together by faith can move past the evil that attacked the church seven days earlier.

"Rather than choose darkness as that young man did that day, we choose life," Pomeroy said during the service, his voice cracking as he spoke about his 14-year-old daughter, Annabelle, who was among those killed in the Nov. 5 rampage.

"I know everyone who gave their life that day," he said, pausing to gather himself. "Some of whom were my best friends and my daughter." He wiped his eyes, then added, "I guarantee they are dancing with Jesus today."

Initially, the church had planned to hold Sunday's service at an adjacent community center, which can accommodate a few dozen people. But when organizers realized hundreds planned to attend, the service was moved to a massive white tent erected in a baseball field.

So many people turned up that the tent's side flaps had to be opened for an overflow crowd so that those who couldn't get a seat could see and hear what was going on inside. Mark Collins, a previous pastor at First Baptist, said it was the largest gathering in the church's 100-year history.

The front three rows were reserved for survivors of the attack and the families of those killed. Many arrived early, as a steady rain fell on the tarp roof, offering hugs to each other and prayers.

Congregants wept during the service and a moving version of "Amazing Grace," led by three singers and a man on guitar, as the voices of hundreds sang along.

Some bowed their heads, others raised their hands and swayed as the music played, and tears streamed down their faces.

"Amazing Grace" was also played at halftime at Floresville High School at Friday night's game, in tribute to the victims.

Later Sunday, the First Baptist Church opened its doors for the first time since the shooting. The inside had been transformed into a memorial with its walls, floor and pulpit painted white.

Broken windows and ceiling tiles had been replaced and bullet holes filled. The church's pews, the carpet and all equipment had been removed. All that filled the space were the 26 white chairs, each with a red rose tied to it except for one that had a pink rose for the unborn baby.

A line of about 85 people snaked from the church entrance and curved around the block, including people who traveled from as far away as the East Coast, said Collins, the church's former pastor who has returned to help in the tragedy's aftermath.

Constructing the memorial wasn't an easy decision, he said. Some members have said they never wanted to step foot inside the site, he said, while others have said they needed to see it.

Next Sunday's service is expected to take place on the grounds of the church, likely in a makeshift structure, Collins said. Church members will have to decide whether to demolish the church, as some have said is likely, he said, but plans are also being discussed to build a new structure nearby.

The gunman, Devin Patrick Kelley, went aisle to aisle looking for victims and shot crying babies at point-blank range, according to witness accounts. The dead ranged in age from 18 months to 77 years old. About 20 people were wounded in the shooting.

Kelley died of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound after he was shot and chased by two men who heard the gunfire at the church. Investigators have said the attack appeared to stem from a domestic dispute involving Kelley and his mother-in-law, who sometimes attended services at the church but wasn't there the day of the shooting.

Kelley had a history of domestic violence: He was given a bad conduct discharge from the Air Force after pleading guilty to assaulting his first wife and stepson.

The church has reached out to Kelley's family and was praying for them, Collins said.

"Our hearts and prayers go out to his family," he added.

For Sunday's service, people from other churches dropped off handmade prayer cloths and tiny wooden crosses, among other gifts. Mental health organizations provided tissues and brought therapy dogs to the service.

Republican Sen. John Cornyn spoke at the service, saying lives were stolen as darkness overtook one man's heart.

"The pain of losing 26 members is overwhelming," Cornyn said. "Many lives have been changed forever. ... I can't imagine what you've been grappling with ever since."

Vietnam strong market for Texas cattle

By ANDREA RUMBAUGH

The Houston Chronicle, writer

HOUSTON — Ten Brahman bulls sat patiently in 10-by-8-foot crates as the doors were drilled shut. They peeped through slats when lifted some two stories into the air and onto a Boeing 747 cargo plane at George Bush Intercontinental Airport. They would go much higher and farther during the 30-hour-plus journey to Vietnam.

The Houston Chronicle reports international sales of Texas cattle are not new, but they are increasing as population growth and rising incomes around the world have more people introducing beef, pork and other meat-based proteins into their diets.

"As their incomes go up, people eat more meat," said David Anderson, a professor and agriculture economist at Texas A&M University. "And so there are countries who want to upgrade their quality of meat production and quantity of meat production."

In Vietnam, specifically, beef production has been relatively stagnant while demand has increased. Imported beef made up 19 percent of consumption in 2016, compared with 5 percent in 2011, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Seeing the strong demand, Vietnamese producers have been investing in their herds. The USDA reports the value of U.S. shipments of live cattle and bovine semen reached $11.6 million and $1.1 million, respectively, between January and August.

Houston-area exports of live animals to Vietnam was worth $731,554 last year, according to WISERTrade data provided by the Greater Houston Partnership.

The 10 Brahman flown out in late October will be bred with local cows to improve Vietnamese beef's quality and quantity. Texas cattle have more meat with better marbling and tenderness.

And since one bull produces 30,000 units of semen throughout his lifetime — about two units of semen are required to inseminate a cow — each of these 10 bulls could produce 5,000 calves.

Alfredo A. Muskus, of the family-owned Santa Elena Ranch in Madisonville, first went to Vietnam a year ago on a trade mission with the American Brahman Breeders Association, based in Houston, and Holstein Association USA. Santa Elena sent its first shipment of bulls to Vietnam in March.

"I think a lot of cattlemen in the United States need to start realizing that there's a lot of international markets," Muskus said.

Eight of the bulls headed to Vietnam were from Santa Elena Ranch. The other two were from Detering Red Brahman.

After the cattle were loaded onto the plane in their two crates, Muskus climbed aboard himself. As the livestock attendant for the flight, he would sit on the 747's upper deck while the cattle, with some room to lie down inside their crates, are in the bottom portion of the plane. Muskus will feed the animals and be available should they need anything.

He compared it to flying in first class with food and a few lie-flat beds. The cattle might as well be flying first class, too, as the cost to ship a bull to Vietnam is similar to the cost of a premium airline ticket.

The 747 departed for Anchorage, Alaska, and will then fly to Taipei, Taiwan. The crates are unloaded in Taipei and placed onto another plane that will travel to Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam, and then their ultimate destination in Hanoi.

The cattle will be taken to a breeding station that, according to an article in the Brahman Journal, is run by the Vietnamese government. It collects semen from beef and dairy bulls to sell to local producers.

Vietnam is just one of the markets where Texas cattle are being sent. Muskus said 60 percent of his ranch's business is with international customers. He's sent live Brahman cattle, frozen semen or frozen embryos to countries including Thailand, Pakistan, Venezuela, Paraguay, Colombia and Mexico.

The Texas Department of Agriculture has also expanded international agriculture trade programs. It has coordinated activities on every continent, except Antarctica, and the department said trade missions to countries like China have opened new markets for Texas.

Texas Tech ends 4-game skid with 38-24 win over Baylor

By STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Sports Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas — Texas Tech hadn't started a game like this since 1973. The Red Raiders hadn't finished one like this in more than a month.

Keke Coutee had their first game-opening kickoff return for a touchdown in 44 years, and the Red Raiders got plenty of help from their defense to end a four-game losing streak with a 38-24 win over Baylor on Saturday.

"It was big. We needed this one, been right there the last four games ... just couldn't pull it out," quarterback Nic Shimonek said. "I felt like we played one of our most complete games start to finish than we have all year. Good confidence builder."

Texas Tech (5-5, 2-5 Big 12) still needs one more win to get bowl eligible, and there is still uncertainty about coach Kliff Kingsbury's future at his alma mater. The Red Raiders won their first seven games after the former quarterback became coach in 2013, but are 22-31 since and missed out on bowl games two of the last three seasons.

Even though the Bears (1-9, 1-6) had 523 total yards, they were stopped on a fourth-and-goal from the 1 and had four turnovers. One of their two fumbles on quarterback-running back exchanges came inside the 10, and there was an interception in the end zone and another late fumble returned for a touchdown after a receiver got stripped.

"Turnovers erase all the ugly things that happen," said defensive tackle Broderick Washington, relaying one of defensive coordinator David Gibbs' messages to them. "We didn't even know they had that many yards."

Coutee took the opening kickoff back 93 yards to start the game with a touchdown return, the first for Tech since Lawrence Williams opened a 1973 game against New Mexico with a 95-yard TD.

"We put a huge emphasis on kickoff return unit this week. We knew we could make plays on those guys," Coutee said. "The first one worked out perfectly."

Baylor got even when Charlie Brewer threw a 4-yard TD to Gavin Holmes on its opening drive, but the Red Raiders went ahead to stay on Tre King's 1-yard TD run that capped their first offensive possession.

Shimonek threw for 246 yards

With Elliott out, Cowboys falter in 27-7 loss to Falcons

By PAUL NEWBERRY

AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA — The Dallas Cowboys knew it would be tough to get by without Ezekiel Elliott.

Turns out, they missed Tyron Smith even more.

With their starting left tackle sidelined by back and groin injuries, the Cowboys surrendered six sacks to Adrian Clayborn in one of the greatest pass rushing performances in NFL history.

The result: an ugly 27-7 loss to the Atlanta Falcons on Sunday.

"The next man up has to be ready on a moment's notice," Cowboys coach Jason Garrett said. "We didn't handle the adversity of the day."

After three legal reprieves, Elliott finally began serving a six-game suspension for allegations of domestic abuse. There was certainly no replacing a dynamic back who led the league in rushing as a rookie.

Alfred Morris started in Elliott's place and broke off a 20-yard run, but the former Pro Bowler really didn't have much of an impact. He finished with 11 carries for 53 yards.

Rod Smith carried three times for 14 yards, while Darren McFadden was stuffed for a 2-yard loss on his lone run.

"We became one-dimensional," Morris said. "We got behind. I take full ownership of that. We'll learn from this game."

Chaz Green certainly has a lot to learn.

The third-year lineman stepped in for Smith — and spent most of the game grasping at air.

Clayborn was simply too quick off the edge, blowing by Smith time after time.

"It was more me not sticking to what I know,"

Annie's Mailbox

Making Eyes With Men

Dear Annie: My husband of 45 years and I are at our wits' end. We have seen counselors and even tried hypnosis, to no avail. I have a very unusual problem: I am not able to stop looking at men sexually.

I have had this problem all my life. A lot of the times, I don't remember even looking; my husband points it out to me. I wink and look at them below the belt to get them to hit on me, and I get turned on by this. I ignore my husband and tune him out. I'm in my own little world. I shut out everything and everyone else around me except my victim.

It doesn't matter what the man looks like. Even when I'm not looking at them in a flirtatious manner, I tend to stare at men for longer than is appropriate.

This has become a horrible habit. It has to stop. My husband has been very patient with me over the years and has tried to help me with this but now has given up on me. I feel worthless and often don't want to live anymore. I have hurt him so badly that I can never be forgiven. He can never trust me again. He is afraid to go anywhere with me, not knowing what I'll do next. Please help me! -- Desperate in Montana

Dear Desperate: You've tried therapy before, and now it is time to try again. If you didn't feel that the previous counselors were a good fit, do not hesitate to ask your primary care doctor for other recommendations. Even if a therapist can't fix the problem, he or she can at least provide support, which you very much need right now. Lastly, I must implore you not to hurt yourself -- and if you feel that you might, call 911 or the Suicide Prevention Lifeline (800-273-8255).

Dear Annie: I read the column about "Jenna," who is a hoarder, and how terrible the conditions of her house have become. At first, I had nothing but sympathy for that situation, but

I thought about how the letter mentioned that this woman has two nearly grown kids, one going to be a sophomore, the other a senior. It is difficult for me to fathom how these teenage children, despite their mother's problems, haven't learned how to clear the table, wash the dishes, clean the litter box, put out some pest poison, do the laundry or sweep out the feces. They could not learn this on their own? This is what I have a problem with. If they could not learn to do these things, then what have they learned at all? I learned how to do chores when I was 7 years old, including washing dishes and housecleaning. On my own, I learned to help my mother do things when she was too busy doing other things. I'm sorry I am not more sympathetic, but for these conditions to exist even with teenage children, I just don't understand it.

-- James
Dear James: You cannot expect children who grow up in a hoarder home to develop good housekeeping skills. Additionally, hoarders tend to hold tightly to a sense of control over their surroundings. (Never mind how out of control the situation looks to everyone else.) It's very possible that these children have tried cleaning up their home but were met with Mom's resistance. So though I commend you for helping out around the house as a child, I wouldn't be so quick to judge these kids.

The bidding:

Opening lead — seven of clubs.

This deal was played many years ago by Guglielmo Siniscalco, a member of the Italian Blue Team that dominated world bridge in the 1950s and '60s.

Siniscalco was South and got to five diamonds as shown. There would have been no problem had he been able to run five clubs after drawing trumps. But he realized that if West actually had a singleton club, which seemed likely from his lead, the suit was internally blocked. Regardless of the order in which he played the clubs, he would inevitably end up in his hand on the fourth round of the suit.

This in turn raised the prospect of losing three spade tricks, and, as can be seen from the diagram, that is exactly what would have happened. Nevertheless, Siniscalco found an elegant solution to the problem.

He won the club lead with dummy's ace and led the jack of hearts, covered by East with the queen. Siniscalco ruffed with the nine, led the six of trumps to the eight and then played dummy's ten of hearts.

When East covered with the king, declarer ruffed, crossed to the queen of diamonds and led the heart eight. This time East was unable to cover, whereupon Siniscalco discarded the eight of clubs!

West took the trick with his nine but could not stop declarer from making the contract. With the clubs now untangled, Siniscalco could ruff West's probable heart return, draw the missing trump, cash the Q-K of clubs and then discard two spades on dummy's 5-4 of clubs to finish with 11 tricks.

Note that if East had elected to play low on either the jack or ten of hearts when they were led from dummy, declarer would have discarded a club then and there. With West on lead, no harm could come to South at any stage, and 11 tricks thus became a virtual certainty.

Tomorrow: Brilliant defense.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

Cosmic Insights
Galore

The cosmic insights keep coming. Venus and Jupiter align in Scorpio to draw attention to the underlying meaning and motives at work in our relationships of all kinds, especially relationships that involve deep love. Then Mercury and Neptune form a stressed angle to make subtext and the subconscious desire suddenly rather obvious.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The beginning of love is intoxicating, ravishing, irresistible even. The middle mellows out. There's no shame in that mellow middle stage. Some actually prefer it. Before you decide to fight it, give it a chance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You're not the only one who loves a good joke. That's why you'll take the time to carefully construct one for someone else today. Pranking, silliness and the like can be an act of love.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). When you want to see someone badly enough, you'll make it happen. The same principle applies for those who seek an audience with you. The trick today is in finding those irresistible triggers that will build desire.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). As respectful as you are (and you definitely have no desire to overstep boundaries or make anyone feel defensive), you also have a good sense of when to move forward with certainty. Don't wait to be chosen. Take the position.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). It feels pretty bad when your loved ones aren't supportive. It's hurtful when they ignore your efforts, dismiss your work or just don't seem to get what you're doing. On the bright side, the more you love your work the less you need them to.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You'll get some attention, but that's not really what you were going for, nor is it the pressing need of the moment. What's more important and lasting than attention is respect. It's a good day to make "respect" your mantra.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You're always going for greatness. Part of the reason is that so many people do good work that "good" becomes the new "mediocre." Today's version of greatness will include tenacity and originality, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Editors looking for mistakes in a text will often change the font to keep their eyes from glossing over what's very familiar. It really works! Some version of this trick will work for you today, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The reason you help people is that helping people is who you are. There's nothing that could be offered -- no reward or incentive -- that could ever motivate you more than the caring heart that is your nature.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You'll be sharing your memories with people who really want to know you better. Inside jokes are born out of this and will be perpetual, strengthening the tie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You're the master of being you. Others will make suggestions -- audacious, really! Just remember that you are not beholden to anyone in this regard and have only to please yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). This is one of those times when it's best to do nothing. But why do nothing passively when you can do nothing with a vengeance? Better yet, take it to the level of art, doing nothing passionately, almost actively.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 13). To others, it will seem that you have the secret, and maybe you do. Your exceptional listening skills will make your life easy. You'll understand what's needed and supply it. You'll be paid extremely well. There's a move in March that's a game changer. New friends come into your world in June. Sagittarius and Aquarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 2, 15, 33, 28 and 11.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "I'm a Scorpio, and maybe that makes me cynical, but I have a request for the general public. Stop telling me what to do! I'm tired of seeing posters and canvases and wall vinyl suggesting that I Live, Laugh, Love, Dream Big, Believe, Be Kind, etc. I'm sick of all the memes with clever sayings and quotations. Does your T-shirt really need to tell me your philosophy of life? Please tell the bumper of your car to shut up, too, while you're at it. Just because I'm driving behind you doesn't mean I want you to tell me what Bible verse to read or whom to vote for. Whatever happened to live and let live? From now on, I will only follow people who maintain healthy social boundaries and respect my right not to hear dumb dictates about how I should live my life. OK, that's all I've got. Thanks for the horoscopes."

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Beginner

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

This Date In History

Today is Monday, Nov. 13, the 317th day of 2017. There are 48 days left in the year.

Today’s Highlight in History:

On Nov. 13, 1777, the satirical comic strip “Li’l Abner” by Al Capp appeared in newspapers for the last time.

On this date:

In 1789, Benjamin Franklin wrote in a letter to a friend, Jean-Baptiste Leroy: “In this world nothing can be said to be certain, except death and taxes.”

In 1849, voters in California ratified the state’s original constitution.

In 1909, 259 men and boys were killed when fire erupted inside a coal mine in Cherry, Illinois.

In 1927, the Holland Tunnel opened to the public, providing access between lower Manhattan and New Jersey beneath the Hudson River.

In 1937, the NBC Symphony Orchestra, formed exclusively for radio broadcasting, made its debut.

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a measure lowering the minimum draft age from 21 to 18.

In 1956, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld a lower court ruling that struck down laws calling for racial segregation on public city and state buses.

In 1969, speaking in Des Moines, Iowa, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew accused network television news departments of bias and distortion, and urged viewers to lodge complaints.

In 1974, Karen Silkwood, a 28-year-old technician and union activist at the Kerr-McGee Cimarron plutonium plant near Crescent, Oklahoma, died in a car crash while on her way to meet a reporter.

In 1985, some 23,000 residents of Armero, Colombia, died when a volcanic mudslide buried the city.

In 1994, Sweden voted in a non-binding referendum to join the European Union, which it did the following year.

In 2015, Islamic State militants carried out a set of coordinated attacks in Paris on the national stadium, restaurants and streets, and a crowded concert hall, killing 130 people in the worst attack on French soil since World War II.

Ten years ago: Pakistani opposition leader Benazir Bhutto (BEN’-uh-zeer BOO’-toh) demanded the resignation of U.S.-backed President Gen. Pervez Musharraf (pur-VEHZ’ moo-SHAH’-ruhv), dashing Western hopes the two would form an alliance to confront strengthening Islamic extremists. French rail workers went on a nine-day strike over President Nicolas Sarkozy’s (sahr-koh-ZEEZ’) bid to strip away labor protections. CC Sabathia won the AL Cy Young Award to become the first Cleveland pitcher in 35 years to earn the honor.

Five years ago: President Barack Obama put a hold on the nomination of Afghan war chief Gen. John Allen to become the next commander of U.S. European Command as well as the NATO supreme allied commander in Europe amid questions over documents and emails involving Allen and Tampa socialite Jill Kelley (a Pentagon investigation cleared Allen of professional misconduct). Christie’s auctioned off the Archduke Joseph Diamond in Geneva for nearly $21.5 million, a world auction record price per carat for a colorless diamond. Davey Johnson of the Washington Nationals and Bob Melvin of the Oakland Athletics were named managers of the year by the Baseball Writers’ Association of America.

One year ago: President-elect Donald Trump named Republican Party chief Reince Priebus (ryns PREE’-bus) as White House chief of staff and conservative media executive Stephen Bannon as his top presidential strategist. Leon Russell, who performed, sang and produced some of rock ‘n’ roll’s top records, died in Nashville at age 74.

Houston Texans in trouble after 3rd loss in 4 games, 33-7 to Los Angeles Rams

By DAN GREENSPAN

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Although the Houston Texans said the right things after a 33-7 loss to the Los Angeles Rams on Sunday, their words belied the frustration of a team that sees its season slipping away.

Linebacker Brennan Scarlett said the locker room would never point fingers. Quarterback Tom Savage took the rap for the offense's struggles. Coach Bill O'Brien assigned the blame entirely to himself.

"I haven't done a good job coaching this team this year, and that was my message to the team," O'Brien said. "I have to figure out how to coach this team better and try to get them to play better."

No matter the culprit, there was a clear delineation between how the Texans (3-6) played in the first half compared to the second. Houston held the NFL's top-scoring offense out of the end zone in the first half before allowing three touchdown passes by Jared Goff in the third quarter.

The Texans actually outgained the Rams in the first half, even outrushing Todd Gurley's Rams by 46 yards. But they also turned the ball over twice, including a red-zone interception with 1:35 left in the half that allowed the Rams to drive for a 9-7 lead on Greg Zuerlein's 50-yard field goal.

Savage threw the ball up into a crowd where there were two Texans and three Rams, including linebacker Mark Barron, who made the pick.

"Maybe should have run it there," O'Brien said. "I don't know, just kick the field goal and try to go in 10-6, but thought we had a good pass call there and just threw an interception."

Over the final 31:35, the Rams had 355 yards to the Texans' 96 and scored on five of their final eight possessions.

O'Brien was even blunter in his assessment of why the defense imploded from that point on.

"We weren't doing anything offensively," O'Brien said. "It's a team game. If you're not doing anything offensively, it's hard to be on the field all that time."

Scarlett and Savage were both confident that despite their coach's acknowledgement of the divide between offense and defense, it would not spill over into the locker room.

"The most important part is just to stay together, you know. We all have a part in this and we all got to be better," said Scarlett, who had three tackles for loss and two sacks.

"I think if you go in that locker room, you can tell that's not the way this team operates," Savage said. "I've been here for four years and I've seen it. I've seen bad and I've seen good, and I can promise you that those guys in that locker room are not going to stop competing or point fingers or do anything like that. We're family in there. You are not going to find a better group of guys to go out there and kind of go on this side of the journey with. I wouldn't choose another group."

Edge rusher Jadeveon Clowney came the closest to laying out the team's growing disappointment and anger since promising rookie quarterback Deshaun Watson was lost to a season-ending knee injury in practice on Nov. 2. The Texans have lost three straight games, the last two without Watson.

Clowney pointed to the play that changed the game, a 94-yard touchdown pass from Jared Goff to Robert Woods early in the third quarter. The dramatic score allowed the Rams to create separation from the Texans at 16-7.

"You seen that touchdown pass he got? There was a holding on that. He pulled me by my waist in the end zone," said Clowney, referring to Rams right tackle Rob Havenstein. "It should have been a safety, but they don't call them calls all the time. But it happens. That was the momentum swing right there."

Clowney, who had three tackles for loss and one sack, was on the sideline for the entirety of the Rams' next scoring drive.

"I'm not a coach. I play," Clowney said. "They made the decision to have me on the side. I don't argue with the coach. Just do what they ask me to do, and that's what I was doing."

TECH

and two touchdowns, the eighth time this season the fifth-year senior had multiple TD passes for Tech. Shimonek completed his first 10 passes for the third time this season, and finished 24-of-29 passing.

Brewer completed 43 of 63 passes for 417 yards and three touchdowns in his second start for the Bears, a week after they beat Kansas in his starting debut. Denzel Mims had 12 catches for 152 yards and a late score.

"I felt like we moved the ball very well throughout the game but those four turnovers really killed us," Brewer said. "Very frustrating, we need to find a way to be more efficient in the red zone."

THE TAKEAWAY

Texas Tech: Coutee entered the game tied for the Big 12 lead with 69 catches, or 7.7 per game. He had only two catches against Baylor, but had the big play to start the game. Dylan Cantrell had 11 catches for the Red Raiders.

Baylor: Brewer and the young Bears can't overcome so many turnovers and mistakes. Brewer is among 17 true freshmen who have played this season. They have two more games in coach Matt Rhule's first season.

ALMOST IN, THEN OUT

On Tech's opening drive of the second half, Shimonek kept the ball and stretched out when trying to get into the end zone. The play was initially ruled a touchdown, but overturned on a replay review that put the ball back inside the 1.

On the next play, King took and handoff and leaped toward the end zone with the ball in both hands extended in front of his body trying to reach into the end zone. The ball popped out of his hands after hitting the helmet of a defender. The fumble call was upheld, though some angles showed how close the ball was to maybe breaking the line for a touchdown.

UP NEXT

Texas Tech: The Red Raiders hosts No. 8 TCU in their last home game of the season next Saturday.

Baylor: The Bears play their home finale next Saturday against No. 24 Iowa State.

DALLAS

Green said. "A lot of my issues were self-inflicted. It just hurts because I feel I let the team down."

Clayborn, who had two sacks on the season and 22.5 in his seven-year career before Sunday, broke the Atlanta team record and equaled the second-most sacks by any player in a game.

Only the great Derrick Thomas has ever been credited with more, recording seven sacks for the Kansas City Chiefs in a 1990 game against the Seattle Seahawks.

Clayborn also forced two fumbles by Dak Prescott and recovered one of them, simply ripping the ball out of the quarterback's hands.

"Give them a lot of credit for completely compromising everything we did offensively," Cowboys owner Jerry Jones said.

With the running game bogged down and Prescott running for his life, the Cowboys (5-4) never got much going offensively against an Atlanta team that has lost four of five games.

Dallas finished with just 233 yards, its worst showing of the season.

In all, Prescott was sacked eight times — just two fewer sacks than he endured through the Cowboys' first eight games. The second-year quarterback had never been sacked more than four times in a game.

"When we got in those passing situations, we couldn't slow them down," Garrett said. "We didn't protect well enough, and they put too much pressure on Dak."

The dismal performance in Atlanta capped a tumultuous week for the Cowboys, who had been riding a three-game winning streak.

Jones is upset about a contract extension for NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell and didn't dispute reports that he has threatened to sue the league.

While unhappy about with the way Goodell handled Elliott's case, Jones said he is mainly at odds with the league over a committee of six owners, chaired by Arthur Blank of the Falcons, negotiating an extension without another vote of all 32 owners. Blank was also at Sunday's game, but there was no indication that he spoke with Jones about their differences.

As for Elliott's case, the Cowboys are moving on.

"He intends to come back with a fresh approach," Jones said. "He's learning things every day. What I want for Zeke is that he is a better person."

Starkel has 4 TD passes as A&M trounces NM 55-14

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — Nick Starkel threw for a career-high 416 yards and four touchdowns before sitting down at halftime as Texas A&M built a huge lead and cruised to a 55-14 win over New Mexico on Saturday night.

Starkel had appeared in each of the last two games, but was starting for the first time since Texas A&M's opener against UCLA when he broke his left ankle in the third quarter. He threw TD passes of 60, 10, 1 and 36 yards before he was replaced by freshman Kellen Mond for the start of the third quarter with A&M (6-4) up 48-7.

Damion Ratley had two touchdown receptions and Christian Kirk had 120 yards receiving and a touchdown and added a 90-yard punt return score to help the Aggies snap a two-game skid.

"This gives us a lot of momentum," Ratley said. "We knew we needed this, after coming off those two tough losses. We knew we needed to have a good game, and come in here and blow them out."

Elijah Lilly had a 100-yard kickoff return for a touchdown for New Mexico (3-7), which lost its fifth straight.

The Aggies finished with 499 yards passing and New Mexico managed just 24.

"We couldn't really cover them and couldn't really tackle in space," New Mexico coach Bob Davie said. "It was eye-opening for us and our players."

Starkel didn't waste any time getting going, connecting with Kirk on a 60-yard touchdown pass on the second play of the game. The kick failed to leave Texas A&M up 6-0.

"Nick is building every week and getting confidence back," Kirk said. "I'm sure he'll be better and better."

The Aggies extended the lead to 13-0 when Jhamon Ausbon grabbed a 10-yard touchdown reception on their next drive.

Keith Ford's 12-yard touchdown run capped a 97-yard drive to leave Texas A&M up 20-0 early in the second quarter.

Lilly looked to have returned the ensuing kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown. But Texas A&M challenged the call and it was brought back after a review revealed that Lilly's knee hit the ground at the New Mexico 39-yard line.

Ratley caught a short pass and darted into the end zone for a 1-yard touchdown reception that pushed A&M's lead to 27-0 with about 9 1/2 minutes left in the first half.

The Lobos punted on their next possession and Kirk returned it 90 yards for his sixth career punt return for a touchdown and first this season. Kirk dashed up the middle of the field and evaded two diving defenders before breaking outside and running down the sideline for the score.

Ratley made a nifty one-handed catch for a 36-yard touchdown later in the second quarter to make it 41-0.

Lamar Jordan threw an interception on New Mexico's next possession to give the Aggies the ball back and Trayveon Williams cashed in on the miscue with a 7-yard TD run.

Lilly's kickoff return cut the lead to 48-7 late in the second quarter. It was the second of his career and New Mexico's first since he had one for 93 yards on Oct. 22, 2016.

The Lobos ended a streak of 46 straight possessions on the road without a touchdown on offense when Daryl Chestnut scored on a 3-yard run late in the third quarter to make it 48-14.

Mond connected with Camron Buckley on a 7-yard touchdown pass to extend the lead to 55-14 early in the fourth quarter.

THE TAKEAWAY

NEW MEXICO: While the Lobos can't be happy with their performance against the Aggies, the silver lining could be that they took care of the ball much better than they have recently. New Mexico entered the game with the third-most turnovers in the country with 25 after committing 11 combined in its previous two games, but lost the ball just once on Saturday.

TEXAS A&M: Starkel looked great against a lesser opponent on Saturday night, but the real test will be if he can replicate that success next week when the Aggies return to Southeastern Conference play.

UP NEXT

NEW MEXICO: Hosts UNLV on Friday night.

TEXAS A&M: Visits Mississippi on Saturday.
