US economy grew at solid 2.6 percent rate in fourth quarter

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy grew at a solid rate of 2.6 percent in the final three months of last year, helped by the fastest consumer spending since the spring of 2016 and a big rebound in home construction.

The fourth quarter advance in the gross domestic product, the country's total output of goods and services, followed gains of just above 3 percent in the second and third quarters, the Commerce Department reported Friday. The slowdown in the October-December period reflected a worsening trade deficit and less growth in inventory restocking by companies.

For all of 2017, the economy grew 2.3 percent. That is a significant improvement from a 1.5 percent gain in 2016 but little changed from the modest 2.2 percent average growth rate turned in since the Great Recession ended. Economists are looking for even better growth this year, propelled by the $1.5 trillion tax cut that President Donald Trump pushed through Congress in December. The Trump administration contends that its economic program of tax cuts, deregulation and tougher enforcement of trade laws will lift economic growth to sustained rates of 3 percent or better in coming years. In the 8 1/2 years of the current recovery, the growth rate has averaged 2.2 percent, the weakest expansion since the end of World War II.

Trump has said his tax plan will serve as "rocket fuel" for the economy by prompting Americans to spend more and businesses to step up investment.

Economists, however, believe the growth spurt will be short-lived. They are forecasting GDP this year will be boosted by around 0.4 percentage points by the tax cuts and roughly 0.2 percentage points in 2019. Beyond that, many analysts believe rising interest rates will drag growth back down to around 2.2 percent.

"Deficit-financed tax cuts will provide some near-term juice to the economy but it will prove to be temporary because we are already at full employment and the Federal Reserve will respond by raising interest rates more aggressively," said Mark Zandi, chief economist at Moody's Analytics.

Michael Pearce, senior U.S. economist at Capital Economics, said that the big surge in imports that caused the trade deficit to widen reflected a pay-back from port disruptions caused by hurricanes in the third quarter. He forecast solid growth will continue in coming quarters.

"The U.S. economy had plenty of momentum even before the tax cuts take effect this year," Pearce said.

Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin, interviewed on CNBC, described the modest slowdown in the fourth quarter as a short-term aberration.

"We're not concerned with any one quarter which can be revised up or down," he said. "I think people now expect we're getting to 3 percent GDP."

The fourth quarter growth was spurred by a 3.8 percent surge in spending by consumers, who account for 70 percent of economic activity. That was up from a 2.2 percent rise in the third quarter and was the fastest quarterly advance since the spring of 2016.

led to important discoveries that help people everywhere live more prosperous and healthier lives."

When Trump took the stage, he received modest applause but some people kept their hands at their sides. The crowd was largely subdued as the president spoke but there were boos and hisses when Trump took a swipe at "how nasty, how mean, how vicious and how fake the press can be."

Overall, the two-day dance between Trump and the globalists amid the Alps went smoothly, if uneasily. Long driven to be accepted by the elites, a desire that dates back from his days as a real estate developer out to make it in Manhattan's glitz, Trump appeared to revel in the spotlight, hosting a convivial dinner with business executives and mostly friendly meetings with foreign leaders.

And while Trump reined in his bull-in-a-china shop instincts, avoiding any public upbraiding of allies like he did a year ago at NATO, the crowd at Davos cordially received him, offering him polite applause while straining to get photos of the American president with their cell phone cameras.

Once more shadowed by revelations back home about the ongoing Russia probe, Trump showcased the country's roaring economy and made a pitch to the world leaders that "America is open for business and we are competitive once again."

The gathering had viewed Trump with skepticism, given his "America First" message, but the White House has policies and international cooperation can go hand-in-hand.

Trump addressed the crowd of over 1,500 people packed into a high-ceilinged hall in the modern conference center. Anticipation was high from attendees, who have watched the president closely since he arrived, snapping photos when he entered and as he moved from room to room. As Forum chairman Klaus Schwab introduced Trump, he drew some hisses when he said that the president could be subject to "misconceptions and biased interpretations."

Jay Flatley, executive chairman of California-based genome sequencing company Illumina, said Trump's speech was "a very calming presentation, considering how it could have gone."

But Joseph Stiglitz, a Nobel Prize winner in economics, found it far from convincing, and argued that the new U.S. tax cuts will create a bubble in the housing market. "I've never known an economy to grow long-term by real estate speculation," he said. As if making a salesman's pitch, Trump repeatedly boasted about the nation's economy and pushed for international cooperation combatting terrorism. But he left unaddressed a number of concerns for the globalist community, including climate change, the fate of refugees and diplomatic solutions for a number of finance minister, provided some early international feedback, writing on Twitter "Honestly speaking, a rather ordinary speech from @realDonaldTrump. We didn't need a sale speech for ??? but a vision for a renewed cooperation about growth."

While interest in the president's remarks has been keen, the moment was shadowed by a report in The New York Times that he had ordered the firing of special counsel Robert Mueller last June, but backed off after White House lawyer Don McGahn threatened to resign.

Asked about the report as he entered the conference center, Trump said: "Fake news, folks. Fake news. Typi-

Trump sought earlier Friday to ease tensions with a key African leader, meeting with Rwandan President Paul Kagame and calling him a "friend" in the aftermath of his controversial comments about African countries.

The meeting came after Trump drew widespread condemnation for allegedly referring to African nations as "shithole countries" in discussing immigration, according to those at the meeting. The president has denied using that language. Others present say he did.

And a day after Trump sought to make nice with British Prime Minister Theresa May, he said in a new interview that he "would certainly apologize" for retweeting anti-Muslim videos from a far-right British group.

Trump told British journalist Piers Morgan that "I know nothing about" the Britain First group and "would certainly apologize, if you'd like me to do that." A clip of the interview was released Friday, with the full interview scheduled to air Sunday on ITV.

"The Stock Show serves as a nurturing point for these future business and civic leaders," said Stock Show President and General Manager Brad Barnes. "This commitment is a founding principle of the Stock Show and we remain humbled with the number of Texas youth who choose to exhibit in the many events at the legendary Fort Worth Stock Show and Rodeo."

The Stock Show and Rodeo, with this year's theme of "Buck, Sweat, and Steers" continues through Feb. 3.

Reflections: Jumping fleas & learning to fly

A scientist placed a number of fleas in a jar and they immediately jumped out. He then placed a clear glass plate over the top of the jar. The fleas continued to jump, smashing their heads into the invisible barrier. They kept this up for some time, jumping with all their might, crashing into the glass and falling back. They slowly adjusted the height of their jump to avoid crashing into the invisible lid. The scientist then removed the glass lid, and the fleas remained in the jar, jumping just short of where the lid had been, unable to clear the lip of the jar and escape.

TINSLEY

The jumping fleas are a parable of how we adjust our expectations. Like the fleas, we become conditioned to limitations imposed by others and, sometimes, imposed by ourselves. We no longer try to extend beyond the comfort of what we have done before and we remain trapped by traditions and learned behavior.

Wilbur and Orville Wright were sons of an itinerant preacher, a Bishop in the United Brethren Church. Like their father, they were gentlemen who neither smoked, drank nor gambled. But they learned to dream.

When the Wright brothers arrived at Kitty Hawk, NC, they found an almost deserted island with constant winds, lots of sand and about fifty homes, mostly occupied by descendants of shipwrecked sailors. The residents wore hand sewn clothes and lived in homes with scarce furniture and bare floors scrubbed white with sand.

Wilbur boarded with the William

Tate family and set to work assembling his "darn fool contraption," as the locals called it. Tate later said, "We believed in God, a bad Devil and a hot Hell, and more than anything else we believed that same God did not intend man should ever fly."

The Wright brothers became fast friends with the Tate family and the outer banks people, who helped them immensely. Within 3 years, on December 17, 1903, the Wright brothers lifted into the air. Six years later, Orville Wright circled the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor and the Wright plane flew over the Eiffel Tower in Paris. Aviation was born. The world has never been the same.

Jesus was constantly urging his disciples to think beyond their limited expectations. Often He referred to the twelve disciples as "you of little faith." He challenged them, "If you have faith the size of a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, 'Move from here to there,' and it will move." (Matthew 17:20).

Jesus chose twelve of the most unlikely men to follow Him. They were common fishermen, common laborers and a tax collector. Without Jesus they would have lived out their lives in their small villages unnoticed. History would have taken no note. But Jesus taught them to believe beyond the limitations of their day. Armed with faith, confident in the power that raised Jesus from the dead, they turned the world upside down and changed the course of human history.

"Nothing," Jesus said, "is impossible with God."

Opportunities abound in Big 12/SEC Challenge this weekend

By The Associated Press

A look at the upcoming week around the Southeastern Conference:

GAME OF THE WEEK-END: Most of the SEC will be competing in the Big 12/SEC Challenge and a good performance on Saturday could be a boost in March if some of the league's teams are on the NCAA Tournament bubble. There are several interesting matchups, including Kentucky's trip to No. 7 West Virginia. The best game might be in Tuscaloosa when Alabama hosts No. 12 Oklahoma. The Sooners have one of the country's best players in freshman Trae Young, who is averaging more than 30 points and nearly 10 assists per game. Alabama counters with its own star freshman Collin Sexton, who returned earlier this week after missing two games with an abdominal injury.

LOOKING AHEAD: How can Kentucky get better? Kentucky is out of the Top 25 for the first time since March 2014. The Wildcats are even younger than usual this season, and although they have plenty of future first-round picks on their roster, they lack the true superstar they've had in years past. Kentucky needs to do a better job of protecting leads. The Wildcats led by nine in a loss at Tennessee and blew a 14-point edge at South Carolina. Although Kentucky trailed most of the way in a 66-64 home loss to No. 20 Florida, the Wildcats did grab a late 56-53 advantage before falling short. Kentucky responded to its drop out of the Top 25 with a victory over Mississippi State on Tuesday.

NUMBERS GAME: No. 19 Auburn (18-2, 6-1 SEC) is enjoying its best 20-game start in nearly two decades - and its fourth-best 20-game start in school history. Auburn started 19-1 in 1927-28, 1958-59 and 1998-99. ... South Carolina owns an 8-4 record against Top 25 teams over the last two seasons. The Gamecocks host No. 14 Texas Tech on Saturday. ... Vanderbilt's Riley LaChance scored 20 points in the first half and 25 in the second half Tuesday in a 67-62 loss to No. 22 Tennessee. The senior guard ended up two points off his career high despite going scoreless in the first half. ... Tennessee's Jordan Bowden is shooting 53.8 percent (35 of 65) from 3-point range. That figure would lead all Division I players if Bowden had enough attempts to qualify. ... In its last 10 games that were decided by one possession, Arkansas has won nine of them.

IMPACT PERFORMERS: Arkansas seniors Jaylen Barford and Daryl Macon give the Razorbacks one of the nation's more dynamic backcourts. Barford averages 19.4 points and has scored at least 23 points in each of the Razorbacks' last three games. Macon averages 16.3 points and has reached the 20-point mark in Arkansas' last two contests. Barford ranks second and Macon seventh in the SEC in scoring. Macon and Barford combined for 49 points Tuesday as Arkansas rallied from a 16-point deficit to win 80-77 at Georgia in double overtime.

ON THE WOMEN'S SIDE: No. 2 Mississippi State has earned its highest Top 25 ranking ever. The Bulldogs moved up from No. 3 to No. 2 after winning 71-52 at Tennessee, which dropped from No. 6 to No. 10 after the loss. ... No. 21 Georgia (18-2, 6-1) already has exceeded its win total from last season and has guaranteed itself a winning season. Georgia, Tennessee and Green Bay are the only Division I programs to have a winning record every year since 1981-82.

No. 3 Baylor women win 15th straight, 81-56 over No. 6 Texas

AP Basketball Writer

WACO, Texas (AP) — With big post players Kalani Brown and Lauren Cox inside, senior guard Kristy Wallace doesn't always have to do a lot of scoring for No. 3 Baylor.

The Aussie can still put up some points.

Wallace scored a career-high 27 points while both post players had double-doubles and the Lady Bears won their 15th straight game, overwhelming No. 6 Texas 81-56 in a matchup of the Big 12's top two teams Thursday night.

"How good are we? I think we found out tonight we're pretty good," coach Kim Mulkey said.

the air as the crowd of 9,286 roared. The Bears outscored Texas 14-3 to start the second quarter.

"I just love moments like that. You feed off that," said Wallace, who finished 11-of-16 shooting.

"She has just been a great distributor for our team. She's got 6-7 and 6-4 inside that are having a great year. She doesn't have to score," coach Kim Mulkey said. "Tonight, she just had some openings and she felt it. ... She did what Kristy's capable of doing night in and night out. She just doesn't have to do it all the time."

Brown had 17 points and 11 rebounds, her ninth double-double this season and 21st in her career. Cox had 17 points and 10 rebounds. The 6-foot-7 Brown and 6-4 Cox have combined for 129 points and 83 rebounds the last three games.

Brooke McCarty led Texas (15-4, 6-2) with 16 points on 5-of-19 shooting. Lashann Higgs added 13 points and Ariel Atkins 11.

"It is frustrating when you don't show up," Atkins said. "They outworked us, had more energy, played with passion. They were a team tonight. We weren't."

Texas: Just 10 days earlier, Texas took No. 1 UConn to the wire before falling 75-71 at home. The Longhorns were also coming off a record 51-point win at Texas Tech. But they were only able to tie the game five times in the first 6 1/2 minutes, and never led, before the Lady Bears took over.

"I punched them to try to punch us and that's exactly what they did. A little surprised, a lot surprised by our team's lack of composure and competitiveness," Texas coach Karen Aston said. "It was just a little bit of an old-fashioned butt-kicking."

Wallace scored nine of her points in a game-turning 28-7 run for the Lady Bears (18-1, 8-0 Big 12), who were in control before the end of the first quarter.

"She was dictating this game from the jump," Aston said.

That game-turning stretch included a 14-4 run over the final 3 1/2 minutes of the first quarter, during which Wallace hit a 3-point-er and emphatically punched her fist in

Some liken Michigan State to Penn State amid abuse scandal

By ED WHITE and DAVID EGGERT

Associated Press

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Sports doctor Larry Nassar is on his way to prison for the rest of his life for molesting scores of young female athletes, but the scandal is far from over at Michigan State University as victims, lawmakers and a judge demand to know why he wasn't stopped years ago.

Some are likening Michigan State to Penn State University, where three senior officials, including the school's president, were sentenced to jail last year for failing to tell authorities about a sexual abuse allegation involving coach Jerry Sandusky.

Nassar, a 54-year-old former member of Michigan State's sports medicine staff, has admitted penetrating elite gymnasts and other athletes with his fingers while he was supposedly treating them for injuries.

Some of the more than 150 women and girls who have accused him said they complained to the sports medicine staff, a psychology professor and the women's gymnastics coach as far back as the late 1990s.

In Michigan, it is a misdemeanor punishable by up to three months in jail and a $500 fine for certain professionals to fail to report a suspected case of child abuse.

Lou Anna Simon, who resigned under pressure Wednesday as Michigan State's president, insisted, "There is no cover-up." But the university last week asked Michigan's attorney general to conduct a review.

And in sentencing Nassar to 40 to 175 years in prison Wednesday, Judge Rosemarie Aquilina called for "a massive investigation as to why there was inaction, why there was silence."

Jennifer Paine, a Michigan lawyer who specializes in child protection law and is not involved in the Nassar case, said there are probably grounds for charging some Michigan State staff members for failing to report what victims were saying.

"The obligation to report doesn't mean anything unless people enforce. That's why it's there," she said.

No one has been charged in the scandal besides Nassar.

John Manly, an attorney who represents more than 100 victims in lawsuits, said Michigan State, USA Gymnastics and the U.S. Olympic Committee "miserably failed children." Nassar was a team doctor at USA Gymnastics, which trains Olympians.

"They had an opportunity, instead of being Penn State, to make them a beacon of how to handle this," Manly said. "It's too late. You can't fix it now."

Penn State's former president, Graham Spanier, and two other ex-administrators, Tim Curley and Gary Schultz, were prosecuted for child endangerment for not reporting a 2001 complaint about Sandusky showering with a boy. Sandusky's arrest a decade later blew up into a scandal that brought down legendary football coach Joe Paterno.

Sandusky is serving 30 to 60 years in prison for sexually abusing 10 boys.

As of last year, Penn State had paid nearly $250 million in fines, settlements and other costs associated with the scandal.

Nassar has also been sentenced to 60 years in federal prison for child pornography. Federal prosecutors have declined to say if they are looking at any other aspects of the case.

Elsewhere, in Texas, the Walker County sheriff's office said it is investigating the Karolyi Ranch, which was a training site for Olympic gymnasts.

Some gymnasts said Nassar assaulted them there.

In Washington, U.S. senators from both parties are calling for creation of a select committee to investigate the U.S. Olympic Committee. The NCAA said it has sent Michigan State a letter of inquiry about potential rules violations.

In the Penn State scandal, the NCAA fined the school $48 million, reduced the number of football scholarships, barred the team from post-season play and invalidated 112 victories.

Some penalties were later eased.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Mars Change

By HOLIDAY MATHIS

Today Mars breaks into Sagittarius, the realm of exploration. New worlds will be experienced in the weeks ahead. Maybe the discovery of one will come by way of physical travel, but it is also likely that the discovery mission is intellectual in nature -- a journey that starts with opening a book or making a new friend.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Your best friends aren't the ones who go along with everything you say without question. They're the ones who will challenge you once in a while and, in doing so, either cause you to take a stronger stand or change your mind.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). There's something in you that will keep you doing things the way you've always done them. It's not that you can't fall in line and follow the directions; it's that you think there might be a better way. So go on and find it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Some people love sentimentality. There's hard evidence of this in box-office statistics and television-watching trends everywhere. But you'd rather take tenderness, sadness and nostalgia in small doses.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Three is an age-old magic number, from building seating, to knocking on wood, to setting up the punchline of a joke. Three will be present in the magical triptych of this day.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Life is rooting for you, though you may not love the cheer. It's aggressive-sounding. Unnecessarily acrobatic. But the players aren't the ones who get to choose the cheerleaders. Give in to life's enthusiasm, whatever form it takes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Talent creates opportunity. Opportunity creates talent. Neither are crucial to success. Desire is the magic. Desire will bring you everything you need: talent, opportunity and the work ethic to keep going until you get there.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). People's bad vibes can affect you even if they are not about you. Who needs that? Get away. Don't wait for them to be directed toward you. The minute you get a whiff of less than optimal environs, enact a location change.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You have an especially tight bond with family these days. There are those who might get a little jealous of the love flowing between you and your favorite people. Be sensitive to the feelings of others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Even loners are better off with a little social support. And for the socially motivated, it's especially important to gather a team. Accountability is key in goal getting. Build some into your plan in the form of other people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). If you can't figure out how to eliminate the obstacles in your path, maybe you can imagine a way to arrange them differently. For instance, stack them like stairs you can climb up and get over.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Since you live inside your own head, you're acutely aware of your insecurities in a way that no one around you could ever be. So stop worrying and project yourself as you would like to be. They won't know the difference.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Older people find the banter of younger people amusing, or possibly obnoxious, as it's a reminder of how they themselves used to relate to others before they knew so much of life.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Jan. 26). You are driven by strong forces within and guided by angelic benefactors around you. A team effort will be rewarded in February. You could support, or even save, another person in April by sharing your expertise and resources. Your family will grow in March. Life gets lighter and more fun with new friends in May. Capricorn and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 2, 24, 1, 28 and 6.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES:

You'll want to do some things without a clue as to why. There's intelligence in this. Trust yourself. TAURUS:

There's much that you could find a way to take personally if you wanted to, but what would be the point? GEMINI:

Know your boundaries; honor them; and steer clear of those who are likely to ignore them and intrude. CANCER:

If you never act bored or roll your eyes or get lost in a glowing screen, you'll be the hottest date someone has had in a long time. LEO: Music is an essential part of a romantic environment. VIRGO: Presentation matters. Put your ideas into a form with which the other person will have fun getting involved. LIBRA: Make a decision and get started, and someone will fly to your side to assist you. SCORPIO: Your friends are part of the package. Hopefully they'll rise to the occasion. SAGITTARIUS: You're attracted to those who have the motivation to put the necessary time and discipline into an endeavor to become an expert!

CAPRICORN: It's much easier to enjoy people when you don't want anything from them. AQUARIUS: Love from a distance is often love mixed with great amounts of rather favorable imagination. PISCES: You're too deep to let some small, fixable flaw hold you back from loving someone.

COUPLE OF THE WEEKEND: Gemini and Aquarius are in the intellectual, social club of air signs. It's an exclusive feeling arrangement, and outsiders need not apply; they wouldn't understand the zingy banter, the inside jokes, the up-to-the-moment newsy excitement buzzing around these two lovebirds. Their relationship is a country, their communication its own culture. The prime date time will be midday on Saturday.

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker
Test your play

Players who enjoy solving double-dummy problems should get a particular kick out of this one. South is declarer at Seven Hearts, and West leads the jack of spades. South is to make the contract against best defense by East-West. As in all double-dummy problems, you are permitted to look at all four hands in seeking the solution.

♥ A 10 8
♦ A Q 8 6 3
♣ Q 5 4

WEST
♠ J 10 9 8 5

♣ K 3 2

SOUTH
♥ 7 3 2
♠ K Q 7 6 5 2
♦ K
♣ A 10 7

Answer: Win the spade lead with dummy's king and play a low diamond to the king. Then lead a low trump and finesse the eight. Ruff the six of diamonds with the queen of hearts and return a low heart to dummy's ten. Next ruff the eight of diamonds with the king of hearts, cash the ace of clubs, then lead a trump to the ace and cash the ace of diamonds, discarding a club. This is now the position:

♦ Q
♣ Q 5

West
♠ 10 9
♣ J 9

East
♠ Q 4
♣ K 3

South
♥ 7 3

Cash the queen of diamonds, discarding the ten of clubs. East cannot afford to discard a club on this trick because you could then ruff the five of clubs to establish the queen. So assume East discards a spade.

West, in turn, also cannot make a satisfactory discard. If he elects to let go of a spade, you cash the ace of spades and score your 13th trick with the seven of spades. If he discards the nine of clubs instead, you lead the queen of clubs from dummy, catching East's king and West's jack on the same trick and establishing dummy's five as your final trick.

Of course, if East doesn't cover the queen of clubs with the king, you simply discard a spade to make the grand slam.

Tomorrow: Performing a difficult task.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Houston-area homeless count finds some displaced by Harvey

By ALYSON WARD

Houston Chronicle

HOUSTON — Just a bit after sunrise Tuesday, sleeping bodies lay cocooned in bedspreads and blankets on block after block beneath the Pierce Elevated, the stretch of Interstate 45 that cuts through the southern edge of downtown.

The Houston Chronicle reports Preston Witt walked up to a lump in a turquoise sleeping bag and leaned in.

"Good morning! How are you, sir?"

The sleeping bag stirred. A man poked his head out. He looked at Witt and said hello, but he didn't want to have a conversation.

That's OK. Witt merely needed to count the man, along with everyone else sleeping unsheltered in the blocks of Houston where downtown melts into Midtown.

The annual Homeless Count and Survey, ending Thursday, is a three-day census that tallies the homeless in the Houston area. More than 300 volunteers fan out across Harris, Montgomery and Fort Bend counties, counting and — when possible — interviewing people who are sleeping on sidewalks and in cars, sheltering in tents or under piles of blankets.

The federally mandated census, coordinated by the Coalition for the Homeless of Houston/Harris County, helps secure funding from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. It also helps local agencies figure out where and how they are needed.

Last year's assessment located 3,605 homeless people in Harris, Fort Bend and Montgomery counties — 2,287 of them sheltered and 1,318 unsheltered. In Houston, Harris County and Fort Bend County, that's a 60 percent decline since 2011, when the number was higher than 8,500.

But those who work with the homeless worry that something might have upset that downward trend: Hurricane Harvey, which hit Texas in late August.

"That's why I'm out here," said a 24-year-old man who sleeps on Austin Street.

"I had a pretty good job just before Harvey," he said.

But he said he lost his transportation after the flood and things snowballed from there. He spent the month after Harvey in the George R. Brown Convention Center shelter and has been out on the streets ever since.

That interview information is invaluable, said Eva Thibaudeau-Graczyk, Coalition for the Homeless director of programs.

"We're trying to capture the number, but we're also really trying to capture the experience," she said. "And, it's an incredible opportunity to detect really vulnerable people and get them immediately connected to assistance."

Betty Thornton, 62, said she's been on the streets for 13 years. She had a deep, wracking cough and was interested in going to rehab for drug abuse.

Witt, who works as chief services officer at the non-profit Harmony House, told Thornton he should be able to get her help. He could do a housing assessment on the spot.

"Are you really for real?" she asked. She's been promised some things before.

He nodded. "We don't want you out here," he said.

Using an iPad, Witt searched for Thornton in a regional database and frowned: She'd been on the list for housing before. But without a phone number or an address, no one could ever locate her when her number came up.

"They haven't been able to get in touch with you," Witt told Thornton.

"Because I'm homeless!" she said, exasperated.

Witt took the woman to McDonald's in the neighborhood and bought her an Muffin and a large coffee.

The official tally will be published in May.

Everyone acknowledges that the annual homeless tally is likely on the low end of reality. But the census methodology has remained the same since 2012, and that provides a consistent annual snapshot, Thibaudeau-Graczyk said.

"When you compare that year after year, you can get a sense of the trends," she said.

Harvey might have an impact on this year's numbers, but on Tuesday morning, ev-

Davison interviewed a man who said he's been on the streets for about a month.

She peppered him with survey questions: What's your age? Any disabilities? Mental health issues? Substance abuse? Are you a veteran?

The man nodded. "Meg, he says he's a vet," Davison called out.

"Really?" said volunteer Meg Pohodich, who's CEO of Harmony House. She approached the man.

"What are you doing out here?" she asked.

A military veteran like him

"I've got some anger issues right now," he said.

On Austin Street, a woman in a black hooded sweatshirt sat on a pile of blankets with her hands tucked into her pockets. "The last time I was in a shelter was 2014, 2015," she told Pohodich.

Why hadn't she tried to get more of the services available? Pohodich asked.

"I always feel like somebody's situation is worse than mine," she said. "That's why I never do anything — I feel like somebody's situation is always worse than mine."

Texas woman sentenced to 10 years in Iowa fatal car crash

Lauria Kelly

DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP) — A Texas woman was sentenced to up to 10 years in prison for causing a car crash in eastern Iowa that killed one person.

Lauria Lee Kelly, 58, of Alvarado, Texas, was sentenced Wednesday in Scott County District Court, the Quad-City

Times reported. Kelly was found guilty of homicide by vehicle-reckless driving for the January 2017 wreck that killed Cynthia Jones.

Witnesses told police Kelly was speeding and running through red traffic lights in downtown Davenport. Kelly's vehicle struck Jones' car, which was stopped at a red light.

The collision caused Jones' car to push into the rear of another vehicle. That driver, Jessica Russell, was seven months pregnant at the time. Russell was taken to the hospital, but did not sustain life-threatening injuries. Russell's unborn child wasn't harmed.

"I just can't take it back," Kelly told Jones' family during the sentencing hearing. "I just want you to forgive me."

Kelly's attorney, Harlan Giese Jr., asked Chief District Judge Marlita Greve for a suspended sentence and probation considering Kelly's mental health issues. Greve previously said a notebook was found in her truck filled with random and repeating words.

The judge said the prison sentence was appropriate based on the offense's severity, Kelly's mental health issues and her criminal history, which included drug-related offenses. Greve also ordered Kelly to pay $150,000 in restitution to Jones' family. Kelly has 30 days to file an appeal notice.
