The Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees met Thursday to discuss new and ongoing items on the agenda for the month of February.

Dr. Raemi Thompson reported on goal progress measures. Thompson first reported NWEA progress measures for the district. "Although we're not seeing a lot of gains in the data, we now have a measure so students and teachers can see where they are," said Thompson. At Marcy Elementary, students are testing at 32 percent on grade level. Kindergarten students at Moss Elementary are 30 percent on grade level, and scores for other grades are one point under the district average. Reading at Washington has gone from 38 percent to 36 percent, which is still on grade level. Goliad went Big Spring Intermediate is at 38 percent. Junior High 8th graders went up from 38 percent to 39 percent, and 7th grade scores went from 38 percent to 39 percent. Thompson closed this topic by saying she "doesn't feel the district is losing ground" but is talking to principals and PLC's to see how these scores can be improved. Checkpoints for January at Big Spring High School were also discussed by Thompson.

Algebra 1 scores dropped significantly, but a plan is in place to bring scores up. The average score at the high school overall is 59 percent and it must be at 60 percent. After the checkpoint report, Thompson said "there are still a few months left" to bring scores up before the school year ends. There was vote to call for

Again? Yup. What to know about the overnight budget shutdown By KATHLEEN HENNESSEY

Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — Again?

Yup. While you were sleeping, Congress was shutting down the government - and then reopening it - in a familiar display of dysfunction. It's the second time this year lawmakers have let funding lapse while they staged standoffs intended to draw attention to their causes. The first was a result of Senate Democrats' strategy on immigration. But Friday's episode was less about strategy and more about aimless drift. After little action Thursday, a single senator dug in, forcing the Senate to stall and miss the midnight deadline. Like kids scrambling to clean up before Mom and Dad get home, lawmakers then had to rush to turn the lights back on before federal employees were due to report to work.

A recap of the action overnight and early Friday: HOW DID WE GET HERE?

The government has been operating on funding from a series of short-term spending measures. Three weeks ago, Senate Democrats dug in and decided to use a deadline to try to force Republicans to work with them on a deal for "Dreamer" immigrants, whose protections from deportation are due to expire in March. No deal came together and the government shut down over the weekend. Ultimately, Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., agreed to hold votes on an unspecified immigration bill in return for Democrats' votes to reopen the government See AGAIN, Page 3

Texas woman shares thoughts in letters to editor

By JON MARK BEILUE

Amarillo Globe-News

HARTLEY, Texas (AP) — This newspaper's most prolific writer of letters to the editor lives in a stucco house in the town of Hartley (population 540), 14 miles south of Dalhart.

The Amarillo Globe-News reports she seldom has the television on and has never had a boring day in her life, which turned 86 years earlier this month. Nona Goodman speaks fluent Portuguese, Spanish and English, but minored in French in college. If called upon – and if not — she can play a tune on the Navajo flute. She is always working on a book, the latest a treatise that is on the floor by her chair in the living room — an opus called "The Complete Writings of Emily Carr." "Look at this thing," she said. "It's so dang big — 900 pages." What Goodman likes to do more than anything is write. Not email or Facebook posts, though she goes to daughter Becky Vincent's home to borrow the computer for that, many of those postings in Portuguese. No, she prefers the old-fashioned way of putting thoughts down on paper

"The post office loves to see me coming," she said. "I buy stamps by the load." Much of Goodman's writings are directed to the Amarillo Globe-News offices — specifically to Director of Commentary David Henry. She gets up in the morning, pours herself a cup of coffee, reads the newspaper — along with a few other things — and then gets out her legal pad and pen.

"I have to write," she said. "It's almost like air or food or water. It just flows. I don't even have to think about what I write. I guess it's stream of consciousness almost. Now, sometimes I have to cross something out and think, 'No. vou better not write that." Henry was recently asked how many letters he's received from Goodman over the years. "Hundreds," he said. "Thousands."

When Goodman heard that, she cackled, something she does a lot. "I always look forward to going to my mailbox, and seeing an envelope from Hartley," Henry said. "The letters come on an almost daily basis — rain, sleet or snow, as the saying goes." "Nona is what I wish more readers would be — dedicated and opinionated, but never disrespectful or inappropriate," Henry said. "She says what is on her mind, has her say, and moves on. And she is not afraid to have her name tacked onto her thoughts." Goodman prefers to keep her opinions quiet on political figures. Let's just say she has a bit of voter's remorse. She's an avid reader of the opinion page obviously, even grudging respectfulness for syndicated liberal columnist Leonard Pitts. "If I react to something, I want to tell somebody about it," she said. "I'm sure he (Henry) gets tired of it, but the thing about letters, they're not invasive. You can take it or leave it. With a phone call, it takes up your time. You can't get away. And TV, it just assaults you." Goodman has outlived two husbands, but will never outlive life. She was the daughter of Baptist missionaries, and lived from age 8 to high school graduation in Brazil, one reason she speaks fluent Portuguese.

Her dad was an interim Baptist pastor in Dalhart while she was in college in Arkansas. She came to visit her parents about the same time Dennis Schulz returned home from college at Texas Tech and went to his old home church. They met, and a couple of years later, they married. Dennis left Tech to attend school with Goodman at Ouachita Baptist in Arkansas. "Oh, he griped the whole time — 'Oh, these roads are terrible.' I just wanted to say, 'Why don't you go back to Texas?'" she said. They were married for more than 40 years, spent time in Brazil as missionaries before he returned to a family farm near Hartley. He died in 1997. Delano Goodman, a second husband, died in

In addition to writing and reading, Goodman paints, goes to the senior citizens center in Dalhart, heads to an assisted living center there as well, and just listens as residents talk. She has little time for TV. She might call her daughter to see if the cable can be repaired after it's been a month without service. "Now sometimes I turn it on at 5:30 and watch (ABC news anchor) David Muir," can understand every word he says." But most of the time, this delightful woman stays in her kitchen/office/art studio. Silence has a sound all its own. It's a beautiful hum that can scare people, she said, but one she craves. That's when she does her thinking and writing.

she said, "because he's so cute and you

"Thinking is fun. That's one of the advantages of getting old. You can put your feet up and go anywhere in the world. It's right up here," said Goodman, pointing to her busy head.

Poland and the United Arab Emirates as a couple of the most interesting places she's performed.

"Poland was really interesting to me because I got to visit Chopin's birthplace in Zelazowawola," she said. "Chopin has always been one of my favorite composers. In addition to his birthplace, I visited the church where his heart is kept as well. I've always felt that Chopin is very close to my heart, but that was the first time I was geographically so close!"

The UAE is where Harmony participated in - and won - the World Youth Chess Championships. "Highlights of UAE were riding a camel, getting on the top floor of Burj Khalifa

- the tallest building in the world, and interacting with dolphins and starfishes!" she said. Even with all her extracurricular activities, Harmony still finds time to attend school on a regular "I go to regular school during the week like everyone else! I love school!" she said.

"I'm an A+ student so I don't need a tutor. I have to say I love all my school subjects. If I had to pick a favorite though, I'd say math, art, history, and P.E."

Harmony usually spends her weekends at Juilliard.

"I attend Juilliard on Saturdays for a bunch of awesome classes like ear-training, music theory, chamber music, etc." she said. "Saturday is my absolute favorite day of the week!"

Harmony was scheduled to perform at the noon Rotary Club meeting today at the Hotel Settles, before her main event concert Saturday night.

Tickets for Saturday's concert are $20 for adults and $15 for seniors, while college and high school students will be admitted free. Children 15 and under must be accompanied by an adult. Tickets can be purchased at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, Blum's Jewelers, H-E-B, and the Heritage Museum of Big Spring. Tickets are also available at the door.

for three more weeks. DIDN'T THEY HAVE A DEAL?

Yes. Senate leaders used the three weeks to hash out a two-year, $400 billion budget agreement. McConnell and Senate Democratic leader Chuck Schumer announced it Wednesday, lauding it as a major breakthrough. The deal found support in both parties largely because it has something for everyone — both the military spending Republicans wanted and the money for domestic programs Democrats sought. It also includes $89 billion for disaster relief sought by both parties. WHAT WAS THE PROBLEM?

The bill does nothing on immigration.

That's the problem for Democrats, especially in the House, where no vote has been promised on Dreamers, who have lived in the country illegally since they were children. For some Republicans, the problem was spending, specifically too much of it. The budget will put the U.S. on track to reach a $1 trillion deficit. For some fiscal conservatives who just spent years opposing President Barack Obama's deficits, that's tough to swallow. Still, leaders expected they to pass the bill in both the House and WHERE DID THIS GO WRONG?

From the beginning. The Senate had to move fast to pass the deal. But Sen. Rand Paul, R-Ky., a fiscal conservative and resident contrarian, pumped the brakes, using his objection allowed under Senate rules to delay a vote until after 1 a.m. Friday. By the time the Senate passed the deal just before 2 a.m. the government had been officially shuttered for nearly two hours. The House rushed to approve its version, wrapping up the vote just after 5:30 a.m. UPCOMING President Donald Trump signed the register for most people. Congress and the president acted in time to allow federal employees to get to work on Friday, keeping disruptions to a minimum. The budget deal approved by Congress matters a lot to the Pentagon, and for domestic programs for opioids, health centers and research funding. The Timeless Struggle eople have been fighting and killing one another since the beginning of the world when Cain murdered his brother, Abel. Ever since, there have been battles fought within resulting families in bloodshed. There have been feuds between families, some of which have gone on for generations. There are always wars among various nations, some of these even go back to ancient family feuds.

However, there is a struggle older than all of these. The battle of good and evil. This war is not waged with military might, with guns and ammo and physical weapons. The Apostle Paul put it this way in Ephesians flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the cosmic powers over this present darkness, against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly places (ESV). You may have heard a politician

6:12, For we do not wrestle against or military leader use the phrase, "A war of ideas." Well, the battle between good and evil is fought in a person's mind, in their heart, in their soul. We may not realize it, but we all end up taking sides in this war. At the end of time, there will be punishment and there will be reward. In Matthew 13:36-43, Jesus explains another one of the parables he used. Then he left the crowds and went into the house. And his disciples came to him, saying, "Explain to us the parable of the weeds in the field." He answered, "The one who sows the good seed is the Son of Man. The field is the world, and the good seed is the sons of the kingdom. The weeds are the sons of the evil one, and the enemy who sowed them is the devil. The harvest is the close of the age, and the reapers are angels. Just as the weeds are gathered and burned with fire, so will it be at the close of the age. The Son of Man will send his angels, and they will gather out of his kingdom all causes of sin and all law-breakers, and throw them into the fiery furnace. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. Then the righteous will shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears, let him hear." (ESV)

You may not be aware of this struggle. You may think that you can avoid fighting in this war. Regardless, everyone is involved. The question is - which type of plant are you? Or we may ask ourselves, whose child am I am I a child of the kingdom or a child of the evil one?

There will come a day when the Lord will return in judgment. On that day, a great separation will occur. There will be only two possible outcomes, punishment or reward. If you are not a child of the kingdom, it's not too late. But, we do not know when Jesus will return with his angels for the final harvest. So don't wait any longer!

Then fight! Not with physical weapons, but with the word of God. Fight for the heart and soul of your loved one. Fight for the mind of a coworker. Fight with the sword of truth (the Bible) to bring others into the kingdom. Spread the seed. Share the gospel with as many as you can.

love church pot-luck din-

One church called a new pastor who was nor familiar with the culinary traditions of the community. He was staunchly set against all forms of gambling and soon railed against the very idea of a pot "luck" anything. The deacons and the women of the church got together and came up with an idea. "How about pot providence dinners?" This seemed to calm the theological storm so that everyone could once again enjoy the cooking with plates running over.

I know it sounds a little odd. But strange things happen in churches and it does raise a question. How much of life is providence and how much is just plain good and back luck? For some, of course, there is no such thing as chance. Everything, down to the smallest detail of every day is providential. And for others, there is no such thing as providence. Life is just the luck of the draw. But is it?

Forest Gump, in the classic movie, contemplated the question that faces us all. Is life the result of random chance, like a feather balanced on the breeze, or does destiny direct our path?

Mathematics contains an entire field of probability and chance. Any single flip of a coin cannot be predicted. But if that coin is flipped enough times, it will eventually sustain the laws of probability. It will turn up tails just as often as it lands on heads. This is called the "law of large numbers."

At the same time, some of the greatest men in American history have recognized the power of a providential presence. Benjamin Franklin opened his famous autobiography by saying, "I desire with all humility to acknowledge that I owe the mentioned happiness of my past life to His kind providence." George Washington repeatedly referred to "providence" as a guiding force throughout his life.

In 1862, during the Civil War, Lincoln stated, "If after endeavoring to do my best in the light which He affords me, I find my efforts fail, I must believe that for some purpose unknown to me, He wills it otherwise..... and though with our limited understandings we may not be able to comprehend it, yet we cannot but believe, that He who made the world still governs it."

Reflecting on his life, King David wrote, "Your eyes saw my unformed body; all the days ordained for me were written in your book before one of them came to be.Psalm 139:16).

Isaiah declares, "And the Lord will continually guide you, and satisfy your desire in scorched places, and give strength to your bones; and you will be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water whose waters do not fail."(Isaiah 58:11)

While God has established laws of probability in the universe as real as the physical law of gravity, He has also established His providence. He has a plan and purpose for our life.

Lady Hawks dominate Lady Cougars 11-0, 9-1

Tony Claxton (www.claxtonphotography.com) Howard College's Madoline Seumalo lays down a bunt during one of the Lady Hawk's games played with Western Nebraska Community College on Thursday, February 8, 2018.

Special to the Herald

It was an outstanding grand opening for the Howard College Lady Hawks softball team. The Lady Hawks, coming off last year's fourth place finish at nationals, swept the Western Nebraska Community College Lady Cougars 11-0, 9-1 in their home-opener on Thursday.

The win evens Howard's record at 3-3. Western Nebraska, on a trek through Texas, falls to 2-2 with the Earlier this week they won a double header against Frank Phillips, outscoring their opponent 30-3.

Against the Lady Cougars, Howard defended it's home turf well as they run-ruled the Cougars in five innings for both games. The Hawks did it with strong pitching from Kylie Shay and Angelina Garcia, as both went the distance.

The first game was a case of the Shays that Western Nebraska couldn't handle. Kylie, a sophomore left-hander, and her sister Jenna Shay, also a sophomore, each hit three-run homers, powering the Hawks to victory.

Kylie was dominant, pitching a onehitter while going the distance. She struck out eight and walked three.

Tony Claxton (www.claxtonphotography.com) Howard College's Kylie Shay delivers a pitch during one of the Lady Hawk's games played with Western Nebraska Community College on Thursday, February 8, 2018.

The only hit she allowed was a single by Alyissa Guymon in the third inning. In that inning the Cougars loaded the bases. Kylie Shay ended the threat by forcing Lova to line out to Howard right fielder, Madison Neff.

The Lady Hawks wasted little time in taking control of the game and scored six runs in its first at-bat. It started with lead off hitter Madoline Seumalo as she bunted a single, and Paige Hallam followed with a single to left field. After Alyssa Graft reached on an error by the Western Nebraska second baseman, Madison Neff hit a double into the right field gap to give Howard a 3-0 lead.

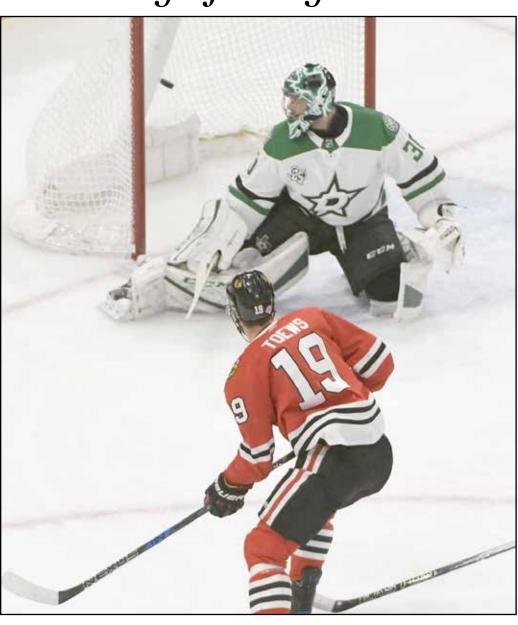

Alexis Velasquez singled and shortstop, Jenna Shay, blasted a homer deep over the left wall to boost Howard to a 6-0 lead.

The Lady Hawks added a run in the second with an Evelyn Loyola sacrifice fly that scored Seumalo, who had earlier walked. They put the game on ice the next inning when Kylie Shay, who bats right-handed, hit a threerun shot, also to left like her sister. That brought in Alex Velasquez and Jenna Shay.

Stars edge fading Blackhawks 4-2 for 4th straight win

Chicago Blackhawks center Jonathan Toews (19) scores a goal on Dallas Stars goaltender Ben Bishop (30) during the first period of an NHL hockey game Thursday, Feb. 8, 2018, in Chicago.

By MATT CARLSON. Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — Tyler Seguin's scoring touch and Ben Bishop's fine work in net was enough for the surging Dallas Stars.

Seguin scored twice, Bishop made 37 saves and the Stars beat the fading Chicago Blackhawks 4-2 on Thursday night for their fourth straight victory. Tyler Pitlick connected with 4.5 seconds left in the second period and Stephen Johns also scored for the Stars, who strengthened their hold on the top wild card in the Western Conference and remained one point behind third-place St. Louis in the Central Division.

"Greasy," said Seguin, who ran his team-high total to 28 goals by scoring for the fourth straight game. "I don't think it was the best effort by any of us, starting with myself and our line.

'I think it's a great thing that we still hung in there to get two points. That's a playoff-type game where it's not going to be perfect, not going to be the prettiest, but we found a way."

Dallas jumped on a handful of Chicago mistakes while completing a sweep of the four-game season series. The Stars have outscored their opponents 16-5 during their winning streak.

"I thought we beat a desperate hockey team, a club that played very well," coach Ken Hitchcock said. "Ben was great. The defense battled like crazy and we had some of our workers come through for us up front."

Jonathan Toews and Artem Anisimov scored for Chicago, which lost its fourth straight overall and sixth straight at home for its longest skid at the United Center since losing eight in a row in 2006-07. Anton Forsberg blocked 26 shots.

"For whatever reason, we're having a hard time putting the puck in the net and the little mistakes seem to be costing us," said defenseman Brent Seabrook, who had two assists. "It's tough to recover."

Toews' 15th goal at 9:07 was the lone score in the first period. After taking Seabrook's bank pass off the boards, Toews gained a step on defenseman Dan Hamhuis and snapped off a shot from the left circle that ticked off Bishop's right

The captain snapped an 11-game drought with his first goal since he scored twice at Ottawa on Jan. 9. During the span, the veteran center had just three assists.

Seguin and Johns scored on consecutive shots 59 seconds apart early in the second to put Dallas ahead 2-1. Capping a quick transition, Seguin streaked down the slot ahead of defenseman Connor Murphy and tipped in

Alexander Radulov's nifty backhand pass at 5:44. After Chicago turned over the puck behind its net, Johns' screened snot from the left point appeared to hit traffic and sailed past Anisimov's power-play goal at 12:48 tied it at 2. He batted in the puck from the left side of the net after Seabrook's shot from the top of the slot went wide and bounded off the back boards.

Pitlick put Dallas back ahead in the final seconds of the period. His shot from the right circle beat Forsberg over the right shoulder and landed in the upper-left corner of the net.

Chicago coach Joel Quenneville said Forsberg should have stopped Pitlick's shot — and the chance shouldn't have materialized in the first place.

"I thought our best period in a little while (was) the second period and we gave up three goals," Quenneville said. "The game turned on the goal at the end of the period."

Tommy Wingels' point-blank shot for Chicago hit the post 6:12 into the third. Bishop made a handful of closein saves in the third before Seguin scored into an empty net with 58 seconds left.

UP NEXT

Stars: Scheduled to return to Dallas and host Pittsburgh on Friday. A snowstorm hit Chicago on Thursday night and disrupted air traffic.

Blackhawks: At Minnesota on Saturday night to start a three-game trip.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

1. Six notrump. Partner's threenotrump bid indicates a relatively balanced hand of about 20 points since your one-spade bid did not guarantee more than six points. Partner is thus expressing a willingness to play in game opposite even that meager holding.

With 13 points facing 20, a slam must be undertaken; nothing less is acceptable. A bid such as four spades or four notrump runs the risk of partner's misinterpreting your intentions. ner's misinterpreting your intentions

This Date In History

Today is Friday, Feb. 9, the 40th day of 2018. There are 325 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: On Feb. 9, 1943, the World

War II battle of Guadalcanal in the southwest Pacific ended with an Allied victory over Japanese forces.

On this date:

In 1773, the ninth president of the United States, William Henry Harrison, was born in Charles City County, Virginia.

In 1825, the House of Representatives elected John Quincy Adams president after no candidate received a majority of electoral votes.

In 1861, Jefferson Davis was elected provisional president of the Confederate States of America at a congress held in Montgomery, Alabama.

In 1870, the U.S. Weather Bureau was established.

In 1893, Giuseppe Verdi's last opera, "Falstaff," was first performed in Milan, Italy.

In 1942, the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff held its first formal meeting to coordinate military strategy during World War II. Daylightsaving "War Time" went into effect in the United States, with clocks moved one hour forward. The SS Normandie, a former French liner being refitted for the U.S. Navy at a New York pier, caught fire (it capsized early the next morning).

In 1950, in a speech in Wheeling, West Virginia, Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis., charged the State Department was riddled with Communists.

In 1964, The Beatles made their first live American television appearance on "The Ed Sullivan Show," broadcast from New York on CBS.

In 1971, a magnitude 6.6 earthquake in California's Fernando Valley claimed 65 lives. The crew of Apollo 14 returned to Earth after man's third landing on the moon.

In 1984, Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov, 69, died 15 months after succeeding Leonid Brezhnev; he was followed by Konstantin U. Chernenko (chehr-NYEN'-

In 1991, voters in Lithuania overwhelmingly endorsed independence from the Soviet Union in a non-binding plebiscite.

In 2002, Britain's Princess Margaret, sister of Queen Elizabeth II, died in London at age 71.

Ten years ago: Democrat Barack Obama swept the Louisiana primary and caucuses in Nebraska and Washington state: Republican Mike Huckabee outpolled John McCain in the Kansas caucuses and Louisiana primary, while McCain won the Washington caucuses. A suicide bomber blasted a political gathering in northwestern Pakistan, killing at least 27 people. Space shuttle Atlantis, carrying a European-built science lab, docked with the international space station.

Five years ago: Hundreds of mourners and dignitaries, including first lady Michelle Obama, packed the funeral service for Hadiva Pendleton, a 15-year-old honor student who was shot and killed Jan. 29 as she stood with friends at a neighborhood park about a mile from President Barack Obama's Chicago home in the Kenwood neighborhood. One year ago: A federal appeals court refused to reinstate President Donald Trump's ban on travelers from seven predominantly Muslim nations, unanimously rejecting the administration's claim of presidential authority, questioning its motives and concluding that the order was unlikely to survive legal challenges. President Donald Trump reaffirmed America's longstanding "one China" policy in a phone call with Chinese President Xi Jinping, potentially alleviating concerns about a major shift in Washington's relations with Beijing.

Texas guard Jones engaging public as he battles cancer

In this Jan. 14, 2017, file photo, Texas guard Andrew Jones (1) brings the ball up court during the second half of an NCAA college basketball game against West Virginia in Austin, Texas. The announcement that Jones was diagnosed with leukemia prompted concern and well wishes from across college basketball. He is now starting to offer glimpses of how he's coping with his treatment, and sending "thank you" messages for the emotional and financial support that have poured in to help.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The announcement that Texas guard Andrew Jones was diagnosed with leukemia prompted concern and well wishes from across college basketball.

coping with his treatment, and sending "thank you" messages for the emotional and financial support that Jones is now starting to has poured in. After several started posting messages on social media, including a short Twitter video Wednesday night of him shooting baskets at what appears to be a gym at the Houston hospital where he's undergoing treatment. In the videos, Jones wears a surgical mask and never leaves his feet while shooting about five shots. The basket appears to be about 8 feet high. "I have to be active, can't just stay in one spot all day," Jones tweeted shortly before Texas played Kansas Texas announced on Jan.

10 that Jones had been diagnosed with leukemia after complaining of constantly feeling tired. He had been trying to come back from a wrist injury but hardly played in the two games when he returned to the court. The last game he played was at Iowa State on

"He spent the last almost month not on his feet. It's good to see him moving around," said Texas coach Shaka Smart, who has spoken with or visited Jones regularly. "He's got a heck of a fight in front of him. But you love seeing a guy with a twinkle in his eye and just a spirit about him, and he showed that on the basketball court when he played."

Details on Jones' diagnosis and treatment have not been released and the family isn't yet ready to make more information public, a team spokesman said. Jones is being treated at the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston.

The Longhorns (15-9, 5-6) play at TCU (16-8, 4-7) on Saturday.

Jones' diagnosis prompted an outpouring of support across the Big 12 as well as messages from college basketball programs around the country. Opponents have regularly worn shirts with messages supporting Jones during pregame warmups or sent their own messages to Jones via social media.

Shortly after he was diagnosed, Texas set up an NCAA-approved donations webpage to support the family and it has raised about $170,000 so far. Jones, who is from Irving in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, averaged nearly 12 points as a freshman and considered leaving for the NBA draft after but returned to Texas after attending the scouting combine. His sister, Alexis, was a standout at Baylor and plays for the WNBA champion Minnesota Lynx.

Jones' family has dealt with challenges in the past. Andrew was 7 in 2007 when his father was paralyzed in a car accident on an icy road. Jones was ejected from the car but escaped with only some bruising.

With extraordinary political optics, Winter Olympics begin

By FOSTER KLUG

Associated Press

PYEONGCHANG, South Korea (AP) — In an extraordinary show of unexpected unity, North and South Korea sat side by side Friday night under exploding fireworks that represented peace, not destruction, as the 2018 Winter Olympics opened on a Korean Peninsula riven by generations of anger, suspicion and blood-

The sister of North Korea's leader, Kim Jong Un, shook hands with South Korean President Moon Jaein — and appeared genuinely pleased — while they watched an elaborate show of light, sound and human performance. Minutes later came a moment stunning in its optics and its implications: the United States, represented by Vice President Mike Pence, sitting a row ahead of Kim's sister, Kim Yo Jong, and the North's nominal head of state, all watching the games begin — officials from two nations that many worry have been on the brink of nuclear conflict. Not long after, North and South Korean athletes entered Olympic Stadium together, waving flags showing a unified Korea — the long-time dream, in theory at least, of many Koreans both North and South. It was the rivals' first joint Olympic march since 2007. International Olympic Committee President Thomas Bach then handed the podium to Moon, who declared the Olympics officially open.

The ceremony's signature moment delivered another flash of unity and deft political stagemanaging, too. Two athletes from the joint Koreas women's hockey team climbed stairs to the cauldron with the Olympic torch. At the last moment, though, they handed off the flame to former Olympic champion figure skater Yuna Kim, arguably South Korea's most famous person. She actually lit the cauldron as the home crowd roared. Moon, in a statement, said athletes from North and South will "work together for victory." And Bach lauded the joint march of the two Koreas as a 'powerful message."

"We are all touched by this wonderful gesture. We all join and support you in your message of peace," After years of frustration, billions of dollars and a nagging national debate about their worth, the opening ceremonies took place before a world watching the moment not only for its athletic significance and global spectacle, but for clues about what the peninsula's political future could hold. There is a palpable excitement in this isolated, rugged mountain town, as one of the poorest, coldest and most disgruntled parts of an otherwise prosperous South Korea kicks off two weeks of winter sports, spectacle and, from the looks of things, some inter-Korean reconciliation. After a chaotic year of nuclear war threats and nuclear and missile tests from the North, the opening ceremony proved to be an evening of striking

> The significance of Pence and the North Koreans sitting in the same box was not immediately clear, though it seemed to run counter to the mission he was supposed to undertake. He'd been dispatched from Washington for the Olympics in part, he said, to make sure the world didn't forget that North Korea was a misbehaving and dangerous neighbor in the community of nations.

What did seem clear was that, deliberately or not, the North Korean government had managed to edge its way onto center stage during the South's biggest global moment in years.

A huge crowd gathered in the freezing Olympics Stadium as performances displayed the sweep of Korean history and culture. The march of athletes from the world's many nations saw them girded against a frigid Korean night with temperatures that dipped below freezing and biting winds.

Members of a delegation from North Korea, part of an Olympics partnership between the two Korean rivals, watched from high in the stadium a performance called "The Land of Peace" and as past South Korean athletes paraded a large southern flag. The North Koreans, dressed in identical garb, cheered in careful coordination.

Howard College's Kylie Shay hits a home run during one of the Lady Hawk's games played with Western Nebraska Community College on Thursday, February 8, 2018.

LADY HAWKS

The second game started out as a pitcher's duel. Howard's Angelina Garcia vs. Reagan Solomon. Both pitched well early on. The Cougars led 1-0 in the second inning. Howard scored two runs in the third to take the lead, and eventually got to Solomon in the fifth as they scored seven runs via eight-run mercy rule. Garcia was steady the entire route. She got out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning by getting the batter to pop up. She gave up her run when Lady Cougar, Madi Jackson, hit her second double of the game to drive in Garcia went the distance and allowed four hits, striking out three. Both teams made outstanding defensive plays, snaring line drives and making diving catches.

Howard's big fifth was highlighted with a pinch hit double by Kylie Shay, scoring sister Jenna. Seumalo and Alyssa Graft got base hits and catcher Addison Lewis doubled.

Howard coach Kelly Raines said this is all about a feeling out process.

"We come out to see what we can do. You never know what to expect at this time of the season. That's why we have these preseason games," she said." I thought our hitting was good, obviously look how we hit. I saw a lot of improvement."

Howard will play today and Saturday in the Midland College tournament.
