Renal Tambunga will be tried in District Court and the latter two will be tried in County Court as the charges are misdemeanors.

Vehicle Registration Gets Off To Slow Start Here

Motor vehicle registration for 1977 began Monday, Feb. 1, and got off to a slow start in Crockett County, according to Tommy Stokes, Chief Deputy Tax Assessor-Collector. Stokes said as of 2 p.m. Tuesday, his office has sold not more than 30 registration stickers. He said he felt that people came earlier in past years to get the lower numbers, but now that they keep the same number for five years, early sales have fallen off.

Stokes said the 1977 stickers have a solid red background with white year figures and state number, with the serial number printed in blue in the upper right hand corner.

1976 stickers had a blue background, white figures and red serial number in the Bicentennial theme which will be continued in 1977.

Stokes, who oversees registration of motor vehicles in the tax office in the courthouse annex, says he expects less motorist confusion this year in affixing the stickers. The Department of Highways and Transportation first issued multi-year metal license plates in fiscal 1975.

Last year was the first for attaching annual stickers to the plates, and those who failed to read instructions often found they had problems. Stokes said only one motorist came back to complain that his sticker fell off and was lost from his license plate.

The 1977 stickers must be applied to the depressed area in the upper right-hand corner of the rear metal license plate, Stokes cautioned. There will be no sticker for the front plate. Stokes said if Texas continues the multi-year system, he feels that in the near future only one plate would be issued. He also warned that the 1976 sticker should remain in its present location at the upper left-hand corner of the rear plate.

As in the past, mail registration will be accepted from vehicle owners for an additional $1 mailing fee up until March 31. Deadline for having the stickers affixed is midnight, April 1.

Motorists who wish to register their vehicles in person can save time, energy and frustration by visiting the Crockett County Tax office as soon as possible and bring the three-part registration card intact. Stokes said the stickers could be issued without the three part card, but that having the card was quicker and more convenient.

Many motorists have received registration materials in the mail, some as much as a month ago, however, there are many who have not. Stokes said he had had no word of any hold-up in the state mailings, but he was aware that materials had not been received by all.

A $1.35 replacement fee will be charged any motorist who has lost the metal plates.

Lions Pick Up Two Wins In Basketball

By-Gregg Perry
The Ozona Fighting Lions

made their season record 10-6 and their district record 2-1 with two wins last week, the first a non-district contest over McCamey, and the second, an important district game over Sonora.

The Lions completely stalled the McCamey Badgers' effort throughout most of the game last Tuesday night. They pulled ahead early in the first quarter and stayed there, even though the margin was only 6 points at the half.

But the ever-lucky third quarter again proved to be Ozona's best. They hit for 21 points in that period compared to McCamey's 10. That brought the score to Ozona 50, McCamey 33.

McCamey's Badgers rallied for 22 points in the fourth period compared to Ozona's 12. But it wasn't quite enough and the Lions won their ninth game of the season by a score of 62-55.

High point man for Ozona was Vaden Aldridge with 16, while second place went to Sterling Lay with 14.

Ozona seemed to have another field day against the Sonora Broncos Friday night,

Ozona Boot & Saddlery Is Sold

The Ozona Boot & Saddlery changed hands this week and the Ozona Television System moved out of the building and into its new office at 1002 Ave. E.

Oscar Kost, owner of the store for the past 36 years, sold the business to Duane Childress, a native Ozonan. Kost will devote his full time to managing the television system, a post he has held since the system was organized twenty-two years ago.

Kost has managed the boot shop as well as the television system in the same building all these years. The system purchased the building next to Westernman Drug, the old Parker Cleaners building, and completely remodeled it, along with laying carpet. The system began serving Ozona 22 years ago next week. A large expansion and improvement project is under way and new microwave equipment, which should be in operation soon, will bring much improved television reception to Ozona viewers.

Kost purchased the boot shop 36 years ago from A.W. Jones, after being an employee there three years. Since that time the shop has grown from a primarily boot and saddle making outfit to a first class western wear store.

Childress, a graduate of the University of Texas, was employed with an oil company out of Denver, Colo. when he returned to Ozona to purchase the store. He plans to continue upgrading the inventory and offer all the latest in western wear for men and women.

Cold Jan. Leaves .75 Inch of Rain

In spite of a bitter cold January, Ozona received .74 inches of moisture during the month in one form or the other, which is exactly .74 of an inch more than that month brought last year.

During a brief downpour which started with sleet Saturday, .11 of an inch was recorded. Temperatures for the month averaged on the very cold side as one frigid front followed the other. Lows in the high teens were common during the month and the high for each day averaged from 38 to 40 degrees.

Preliminary Census Report Below Expected Figures

County Judge Troy Williams received the preliminary population count for the Special Census of Crockett County which was completed January 11, last week.

According to the preliminary count, the total number of residents in Crockett County is 4,166, only 281 up from the April 1, 1970 count which was 3885. Most officials were shocked at the figure, anticipating a substantial increase over the 1970 count. Most believed the population to be at or around 5,500, with the increased oil activity, the road construction and other indications that the town was on a boom.

Mrs. Coates Services Here Thurs.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ora Taylor Coates, 76, will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Ozona United Methodist Church with burial in Cedar Hill Cemetery under the direction of James Funeral Home.

Mrs. Coates died early Monday in Penrose Hospital in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mrs. Coates was born Feb. 6, 1900, in Juno. She was married to Charles E. Coates Aug. 19, 1919 in Ozona and they ranched in the Ozona area, until moving to Colorado in 1950. They returned to Ozona in May of 1962. Mr. Coates died June, 1966. Mrs. Coates had made her home in Colorado for the past two and a half years.

Survivors include two sons, Lloyd Coates and Jack Coates, both of Hugo, Colo.; four sisters, Mrs. Vera Baker, Mrs. Jessie Deaton, Mrs. Modenia Coose and Mrs. Frances Parker, all of Ozona; nine grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Palbearers will be Charles Applewhite, Kenneth Corde, D.F. Coates, Jr., Roy Coates, John Coates, Tommy Harris, Taylor Deaton, Philip Schneemann, Frank Taylor and Edwin G. Bower.

Mrs. Brown Services

Funeral services for Lucy (Frances Bethel) Brown, 69, were held Monday afternoon in Lampasas at graveside in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Brown, a former Ozona resident, died Sunday morning early in a Lampasas hospital following a lengthy illness. Mrs. Brown was born in Fisher County, Texas, and was married to Melvin Brown Jan. 11, 1930, in Lampasas.

Survivors include two sons, Joe Albert Brown of Oregon and Jack B. Brown of Alabama, two brothers, Chester Bethel of Dallas and Jack Bethel of Grand Prairie, and three grandchildren.

called on by a census taker, not one was asked his or her ethnic origin.

The census was originally ordered taken in order to separate the Mexican-American voters from the Anglo voters and to determine if the M-A voters were being discriminated against as alleged in a civil suit presently pending against county officials.

The Spanish speaking voter in the county had eight categories to choose from, Mexican-American, Chicano, Mexican, Mexicano, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American, and other Spanish. Anglos could choose from German, Italian, Irish, French, Polish, Russian, English, Scottish or Welsh. Other categories were American Indian, Black or Negro, and yet "another group not listed."

The ethnic origin selection is confusing, to both the Spanish speaking and the Anglo, and perhaps this is the reason most of the enumerators choose to disregard the question and make the selection on their own. Other than that, the form is self-explanatory and easy to fill out. Anyone who was not counted is urged to fill out the form for his or her entire household and return it to Judge Williams at once.

Anyone who failed to be counted is urged to fill out the form "Were You Counted," on page 6 of today's edition of the Stockman, and return it to Judge Williams.

According to word received from Charles A. Harris, special census supervisor, U.S. Bureau of the Census, the preliminary figure is subject to review, but is believed to be substantially correct, at least by the Bureau. If county officials feel that residents have been omitted, or if they have any criticism, they have been instructed to inform Harris at once by written communication. Harris informed the judge that if no communication is received within a fifteen day period, he will proceed with the final tabulation.

There was some cause to doubt the preliminary results, apparently, as the form was ordered published. The form has 20 ethnic origin code selections. In a survey of several Ozonans who were

County History Books Arrive

Crockett County's new history book was delivered Monday, and members of the Crockett County Historical Society, whose Bicentennial project it was, are very pleased with the outcome. The 600-page book is bound in laminated green linen and features a full-color picture of the Crockett County Courthouse on the front. The title is done in gold.

Members of the society received 2,000 books at the museum Monday morning. Approximately 1,000 of the books have been sold, including 300 which will be mailed out of town.

The books will be distributed Sunday afternoon, Feb. 6, between the hours of 2 and 5, at the Ozona National Bank. Those who ordered books may pick them up at that time. Anyone who failed to place an order earlier may purchase the handsome book for $16.60. After Sunday the price of the book will be considerably increased. Proceeds over and above the cost of printing the book will go to the Crockett County Museum.

Members of the Crockett County Historical Society will host the event Sunday. Mrs. P.L. Childress is president of the society and spent many hours working on the book. The entire community is invited to the affair, have refreshments, visit and collect autographs in their book if they wish.

The book is the first comprehensive history of the county to be published. Besides the elegant cover, pictures are scattered throughout the book. As one member said, "there is hardly a page in the book without a picture or two." There will be no distribution of the book until Sunday, nor will any previews be given. Sunday afternoon will mark the unveiling, as it were. However, those having pictures loaned to the society for the book, may pick up pictures at the museum during regular hours from 2 to 5 Tuesday through Sunday.

AMERICANISM CONTEST WINNERS--Three winners of the Americanism essay contest, sponsored annually by the Ozona Woman's Forum, are 1. to r., Jack Thompson, third place; Jill Sanchez, second place, and Wendy Hood, first place. The three junior high students presented their winning essays at the Forum meeting Tuesday afternoon. The contest is for junior high students.

THE NEW AND THE OLD OF IT--New owner of the Ozona Boot & Saddlery Duane Childress poses with Oscar Kost, owner of the establishment for 36 years. Childress bought the business from Kost this week. The two paused long enough to pose Monday while they were in the process of taking inventory.

Communists Vs. NATO

If communist parties should enter the governments of Italy or France, NATO probably could not continue as a viable alliance. The United States would be forced to recast its policies toward an increasingly fragmented Western Europe.

The Report, entitled Eurocommunism and the Atlantic Alliance, is co-authored by Dr. James E. Dougherty, a senior staff member of the Cambridge institute, and Dr. Diane K. Pfaltzgraf, a consultant.

The Report analyzes political trends in Italy and France, as well as western responses to the growing bids for power by the communist parties in both countries. In Italy, where the Italian Communist Party (PCI) emerged substantially strengthened in the June 1976 elections, there is continuing talk of a "historic compromise" which would find the leading, but weakened, Christian Democratic Party and the communists sharing power in an Italian coalition government.

The authors of the Report challenge the optimistic view that the U.S. and the Western Alliance could somehow adapt to the accession of communist parties to allied governments. They question in particular the assumption that the Italian and French parties have been transformed from revolutionary forces into parties genuinely dedicated to parliamentary democracy.

Both the Christian Democrats in Italy and the Socialists in France, argue the authors, are naive if they believe that the communists can be controlled as "junior partners" once they join the government. Rather, they contend, the communist parties would be able to rely on superior discipline and dynamism to entrench their power and influence.

The Report also questions the extent of the independence of both the Italian and French Communist Parties from Moscow. The authors acknowledge that some differences do exist between the European parties and the Kremlin-differences that were manifested at the June 1976 conference of twenty-eight European communist parties held in East Berlin.

The authors of the Report generally view the profestations of "autonomy" by the Italian and French parties primarily as tactical devices aimed at enlarging their electorates. Even if the leaders sincerely want to be independent from Moscow, this course is likely to be challenged by the hard-liners in the ranks once the parties assume power.

The Report considers options open to the United States by blocking the rise of Eurocommunism. The authors conclude that such options are limited. Pointing to negative reactions in Western Europe to past U.S. warnings about the dangerous trends, the authors describe the major dilemma for the United States. Any action by the U.S. draws charges of "interference in domestic affairs"; however, U.S. inaction conveys U.S. tolerance of events. In short, the authors contend, "Washington will find it difficult to avoid charges of interference no matter what course it adopts."

Yet, should the communist parties reach power in Italy and in France, the implications would be grave and the options for NATO would be painful. The Report discusses a variety of alternatives open to the Alliance, ranging from "quarantine" measures to the ejection from NATO of governments with communist participation. The authors also look to the possibility that the United States may in effect have to step outside a moribund NATO and substitute bilateral relations with those countries in Western Europe that would still be willing to share defense burdens.

The Report concludes that there are limits to what the United States can do to alter fundamentally the emerging situation in Western Europe. It is primarily up to the Europeans, argue the authors, "to ask what the ever-fragile tradition of constitutional democracy and individual freedom means to them, and whether they want, and can expect, the United States to continue to contribute substantially to a common defense that must, in the final analysis, be based upon common values."

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Lyndell Williams TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Atty. Gen. John Hill is setting up a new unit to investigate white-collar crime which costs Texans an estimated $840 million a year.

Hill will rely on the Deceptive Trade Practices Act, the State Securities Act and other laws to crack down on so-called "Corporate crim committed with a fountain pen."

Since Hill has only civil powers, he must cooperate with district attorneys and federal officials where criminal violations are suspected.

A unit director, three investigators and two attorneys will be financed by a $235,000 federal grant extending over an 18-month period.

Investigations already under way include South Texas banking irregularities spotlighted by collapse of banks at Carrizo Springs and Rio Grande City, disappearance of a Wichita Falls grain dealer and possible misapplication of state funds by a state highway employee.

A three year old Chamber of Commerce study classifies as white collar crimes deceptive trade practice, embezzlement and pilferage, securities theft and fraud, receiving stolen property, bribery, payoffs, kickbacks and various other forms of fraud.

Attorneys Dominate

As in most other states and Congress, lawyers dominate other professional groups in the Texas legislature.

Of the 150 House members, 38 per cent are attorneys.

And 21 of 31 Senate places are now held by lawyers.

The House includes 30 businessmen, 11 ranchers and farmers, 15 insurance or real estate men, six school teachers, three homemakers and six who classify themselves as full-time, professional legislators.

The Senate includes three insurance men, a housewife and five in business fields.

Speaker Bill Clayton is a farmer and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby is a newspaper and television executive.

Appointments

Gov. Dolph Briscoe named Sam E. Carter of Temple to the State Banking Board replacing James L. Lindsey of College Station whose term actually expired in 1973.

Briscoe reappointed Raul Jimenez of San Antonio to the State Board of Public Welfare and Jackie St. Clair of Austin as Commissioner of the Texas Department of Labor and Standards.

Other reappointments included Gen. Thomas S.

Bishop as Texas adjutant general; Gen. Willie Scott as assistant adjutant general for Army and Gen. Belisario D. J. Flores as assistant adjutant general for Air.

Taxes Booming

Comptroller Bob Bullock reported major state taxes brought in more than $4 billion last year, a 16.8 per cent increase over calendar 1975.

Natural gas tax revenue went up 48.1 per cent and sales tax collection 18.2 per cent, nearly double the national average.

Car sales taxes rose 31.6 per cent and franchise taxes 35.5 per cent.

Bullock noted his earlier projection of $2.9 billion in additional revenue for appropriation by the legislature represents a 34 per cent increase over money available in 1975.

Courts Speak

Finance charges of more than 10 per cent a year cannot be added to customers' open accounts by retail dealers, the State Supreme Court held.

In other actions, the high court:

—Refused to order dismissal of defeated Republican former Congressman Dr. Ron Paul's election contest against Congressman Bob Gammage who defeated him last year by a narrow vote.

—Held a state university cannot legally close a city street without legislative authority.

—Took under study the question whether juries must find "beyond reasonable doubt" that a person should be committed to a mental hospital against his or her will.

—Agreed arson investigation records cannot be kept out of the hands of the property owner.

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed a five-year sentence for aggravated assault given a Killeen woman on grounds evidence didn't show a knife used was a deadly weapon.

AG Opinions

Rules for conduct of hearings issued by Texas Education Agency are inapplicable to hearings before junior college boards except those on vocational and technical programs.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

—A list of former university students credited with funds remaining in their general property deposit is public information.

—Judges of special juvenile and domestic relations courts retire under terms of the county and district retirement act.

—An agriculture commodity board is not authorized to reduce the number of positions on its board of directors by resolution.

you and the LAW
PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: Is it possible to have my child support payments reduced? Would I need an attorney for this procedure? Can you tell me the legal fee involved?

A: The court which granted your divorce and initially set the child support payments can revise the amount of the child support payments at the request of either parent. The procedure involves the filing of motions in court, and an attorney usually is required to prepare these motions and present them to the court. The amount of the fee would depend on whether your former wife wishes to contest your request and the amount of time involved in preparing and presenting information to the court to justify your request.

Q: Is there any way we can be released from responsibility for our 17-year-old son?

A: Unless you bring suit to terminate the parent-child relationship, and a managing conservator is appointed by the district court to act as a guardian for the child, there are only two possible instances in which you may be released from the responsibilities of being a parent. The first would occur if your son gets married, in which case he would have the rights of an adult. The second would be to file suit asking a district judge to give your son the legal rights of an adult.

Q: I'm planning on moving out of my apartment next month when my lease expires. Can my landlord keep the security deposit I gave when I moved in?

A: State law requires your landlord to return your full deposit within 30 days after you move or provide you with an itemized description of deductions within 30 days. If the landlord fails to comply with this requirement, you can sue for three times the amount of the deposit plus attorneys' fees and a $100 fine. However, your right to a refund of your security deposit may be affected by requirement in your lease concerning advance notification of your landlord.
Q: When I closed the deal to buy a house, the seller refused to sign the papers unless I let him keep his furniture in the house for two more weeks. I finally agreed after he rejected my offer to pay for storage. The result was that he was entering the house he had sold, he had the power company cut off my electricity, and threatened me with law suits. How could I have prevented this situation?
A: Relations between buyer and seller in a home sale are governed by the contract. The contract in this case could have specified how long the seller could leave his furniture, that the seller had to pay rent, the amount of rent, and other restrictions.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Should we have some warm days for a while, early bulbs will be popping up all over our city for the first spring color. Be sure to water your gardens and grass well, if no rain soon.

Before the end of the month, while there isn't very much yard work to do, carefully examine, or have it done, lawn mowers and repaired or sharpened. Make an inventory of tools and implements to be sure all will be in good condition when needed. By avoiding the last minute rush, you are likely to get better work done.

Look over garden furniture and ornaments in storage, clean them, and where needed give them a fresh coat of paint, varnish, or other appropriate finish.

Perennials, including bulbs that have been planted a year or more will benefit from fertilizing as soon as new growth above ground becomes active.

Geraniums, lantanas and hibiscus may be pruned back quite severely now in preparation for repotting next month. After cutting them back, keep their soil on the dry side. Cuttings from a number of plants will root readily now in a 60-degree night temperature. Also, many tropical foliage plants such as Dracaenas, Dieffenbachias, Philodendrons and others root easily in a close propagating case where 70-degree temperature is maintained. Too, it is time to seed marigolds, coleum, portulaca and others in seed flats or cold frames for later transplants. Plant disease-free Irish potato seed.

For your garden, plant beets, carrots, Swiss Chard, collard (Kale), Kohlrabi, lettuce, onions (plants), parsley, English peas, radishes, spinach and turnips. Transplant December seeded broccoli and cabbage.

I was pleased to receive a Garden Calender from Texas Agricultural Extension Service this month. It will help me remind you of some of the planting and chores each month. You should always check for the right varieties of seed, shrubs and fruit trees that do well in our area.

Be sure to do your dormant spraying while buds on fruits are still tight and dormant. Look at the buds on the young growth first. It is safe to spray if tight and no color showing. Lime-sulphur is good for peaches, plums, cherries, apricots and roses, and a miscible oil spray (such as Volck) on apples and pears.

February Is Red, White And Blue Month In Menus

Perk up dreary winter days by entertaining on "February's Three," suggests Mrs. Mary Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist.

February could be a red, white and blue month, with three holidays to celebrate—Lincoln's birthday, Valentine's Day and Washington's birthday.

Start Lincoln's birthday celebration with sausage logs, pancakes and syrup to make a "Lincoln Special" menu.

"For evening festivities, put some patriotic fireproof crepe paper streamers on the table—and serve a Lincoln log cabin cake. It is easily assembled with chocolate lady fingers piled around a mound of ice cream or whipped cream and frozen," the specialist suggested.

"For Washington's birthday, bring forth cherries with the patriotic colors. Use various trimmings already on hand and place red candles on the table. Small flags—or red-white-and-blue stars—surrounding the candles add a festive touch.

Little red paper hatchets also will be in the spirit, while reminding children of the legend of George Washington."

Mrs. Sweeten's dessert suggestions include cherry pudding, cherry cobbler or pie, jellied cherry whip or cherry jelly roll.

To make Washington pie, simply start with a one-layer chocolate cake, split the layer, spread butterscotch pie filling, top with chocolate icing and cut into pie-shaped pieces.

Valentine's Day is a time of year to say "I love you and I'm glad you love me." "It is the once-a-year time to go hearts and flowers, fluffy with frills in entertaining. Decorate the table with red, pink and white ribbon streamers, or ruffled crepe paper.

"Use valentines that you or your children made to brighten the table, enhance a dessert or make plain napkins special."

Entertaining on Valentine's day need not be expensive, the specialist said. Cream of tomato soup is a traditional dish for this occasion. Shape biscuits into heart-shapes.

For salads, use a jellied raspberry or strawberry fruit, Waldorf with red unpeeled apples, stuffed tomato on curly endive or leaf lettuce with a green pepper cut into an arrow, Gulf Coast shrimp and tomato aspic or blushing pear with pink cream cheese shaped into a heart.

"An appropriate Valentine dessert could be a heart-shaped meringue filled with gelatin whip.

"Strawberry shortcake would be another dessert which would signal approaching spring. An inexpensive treat would be iced cupcakes with a candy heart or a heart-shaped iced cookie, and a dessert crepe filled with either cherries, raspberries, strawberries or cranberries would be festive."

One easy dessert for Valentines or anytime is cranberry frozen dessert, the specialist said.

Cranberry Frozen Dessert

- 1 can whole cranberry sauce
 - 1 8 oz. package cream cheese
 - 1 cup whipped topping
- Remove several of the whole cranberries to use as a garnish. In a blender, put cranberry sauce and cream cheese. Blend until smooth. Add one cup whipped topping. (To add special zest you can add several drops of cranberry or cherry liqueur.) Pour into an eight-inch graham-cracker, or mixture of ginger-snaps-and-graham-crackers, pie crust. Garnish with whole cranberries. Freeze.

Reviving wicker furniture takes only the proper cleaning, repairing and refinishing techniques that almost anyone can do.

Wicker, used at one time only for porch furniture, has found its way into every room in the house. Because it is cheerful, lightweight and easy to maintain, it blends with almost any style of furniture. Its openwork construction also makes it a popular choice for furnishings for small areas.

Wicker is a "generic" name for any furniture made of woven reeds. Rattan, for example, is a reed that belongs to the palm family. Unlike bamboo, which is hollow, rattan is a solid wood. The core of rattan is used in furniture for structural support, while the peel is used to lash the supporting elements together.

Unfinished rattan or wicker has a pleasant tan-ivory appearance, although it can be painted and repainted as needed.

Designs range from whimsical reproductions of Victorian motifs to modern. It can be shaped into chairs, tables, stools, mirror and picture frames, headboards, baskets and other items.

Today, new and used wicker pieces are being sought as additions to most every room in the home. It may often be purchased at reasonable prices at garage sales, Goodwill Industries, Salvation Army and other similar outlets and through classified newspaper ads.

It is easy to clean and refurbish, so many setting up housekeeping use it, knowing it will be suitable for other rooms when they can afford more permanent furniture.

Wicker or rattan furniture is made by wrapping or weaving strips of reed over a wood or steel framework. As in other types of furniture, there is a great deal of variation in quality and price in both new and used wicker pieces. Overall strength of the piece should be carefully checked by close examination and by applying weight from different positions. Flimsy, wobbly pieces are difficult to strengthen where a lightweight wood frame is used. Better quality new wicker may have steel framework.

Used wicker that has been abused, that sags, has holes or slits in several places, or that appears to be in generally bad condition is rarely a bargain at any price.

BEFORE YOU JUMP...

...learn how to land

It's easy to jump. Just leave the solid trail behind you and soar into space.

But before you jump—learn how to land! One man can alight gracefully and continue his course. Another will wrap his skis around his head and end up in the hospital.

There are important life-decisions we often describe as "taking the leap." Going to college, choosing a career, getting married—these are just a few. And these "leaps" lead to happiness for some—and tragedy for others.

The Church with its program of worship and religious education makes essential contributions to our life. For what happens after our major "leaps" depends on the character which has been instilled in us, and on the principles by which we live.

Wool Producers May Expect Expanded Market This Year

It's a safe bet that most sheep producers are more concerned with how their stock are wintering than with what's big in winter fashions. With the possible exception of the rise and fall of the miniskirt, ranchers usually have more important things to worry about than staying abreast of the "in" look.

This year, however, may mark a change.

No, we're not suggesting that sheepmen spend their evening hours deciding what original to wear when they feed in the morning. It might be wise, though, to keep an eye peeled for general trends in upcoming fashions--the news could be welcome, fabricly speaking.

Those with their fingers on the garment industry's pulse are predicting a healthy degree of fair weather ahead for natural fibers. The unstable future of synthetics obviously has something to do with it, but woolen mills are presently finding more manufacturers willing, even eager, to pay high prices for their fibers.

Much of it presently is attributed to consumer demand for fabrics such as shetlands, tweeds and flannels, but whatever the explanation, wool is making a comeback.

Fabric men say that a major reason for the increased sales of woolens has been feedback from retailers who claim their customers are willing to spend more money for products with a combination of value and quality. Value and quality--you get what you pay for. Knowledgeable folks have been using terms and phrases like that for a long time, and those who've bothered to listen either knew it in the first place and acted accordingly or smiled knowing smiles and spent their money on synthetics. The latter bunch bought often. They had to.

At any rate, natural fibers, especially wool in the major fashion garments, appear to be the coming thing.

Though still more expensive than synthetics, woolens won't have a disturbing effect on the cost of major items; an international manufacturer of men's suits says the cost of the fabric used today represents a diminishing percentage of the total cost of the finished product, labor, natural being the big item. "Many manufacturers would still have a $175 suit even if they paid nothing for the cloth," he explains.

There you go--your product is in demand. Even if the current demand is explained as a fashion whim, it's a good bet that the scarcity of petroleum for future synthetics will eventually take over. All the wool producer has to do is see that his scarcity doesn't exceed that of the artificials. And who knows, with the present decline in sheep numbers, Washington might some day declare them an endangered species--an allow their protection from other so-called "endangered" species.

Tennis sweater, anyone?

Crockett Co. Landowners File $1.7 Million Suit

Several Crockett County landowners have filed suit asking more than $1.7 million in damages, naming Northern Natural Gas Co. of Dallas as defendant, according to a story in the San Angelo Standard Times Sunday.

Dan J. Harrison Jr., nineteen other persons with interest in three tracts of land in the county, and Dow Chemical Co., filed the suit, which was transferred to federal court from district court in Crockett County.

According to the article, the petition claims that after three natural gas wells were drilled and completed on the land in question, the gas company asserted title to the gas from the wells under contract for sale of gas from lessees whose leases had expired before the plaintiffs had obtained the lease. Thereby, alleges the petition, the plaintiffs were left unable to sell the gas and a cloud was imposed on the plaintiff's title to the land.

Also filed with the suit was the defendant's answer, which says the original petition is "too vague" in that it does not enumerate how or when the defendant allegedly asserted a right to the gas.

The plaintiffs have asked $435,000 in actual damages stemming from their alleged inability to sell the gas from the wells and $1,305,000 for exemplary damages.

Other plaintiffs listed in the suit include: Dan J. Harrison III, Bruce Finch Harrison, Ed F. Feyne, Charles E. Davidson III, Joanne B. Davidson, William J. Grimmer, Frank McMullan, Jr., Dixie McMullan Pettigrew, John Rae Powell, Jr., Charles E. McDonald, Donald Bryan McDonald, Dick Lee McDonald, Billy Lee McDonald, Dixie D. Meybin, R.J. Meybin, Jr., Elizabeth Garver, Joe Tom Davidson, John W. Henderson III, and Dorothy Henderson Pierce.

Fabric Covered Walls Dress Up Your Home

Fabric is one way to "gussy-up" walls, according to Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist. "After enduring decades of dark mahogany paneling a textured white gypsum-board, many home dwellers are ready to break with monotonous tradition and add vivid colors and patterns to the walls of their home—and they can do the job themselves with a few simple instructions."

Mrs. Berry is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"If you're skeptical about what color and pattern can do for your home, thumb through any monthly shelter magazine to start your imagination soaring," she suggests. "Papers, vinyls, foils and even fabrics are being used extensively throughout homes today as a means of adding 'oomph' and individuality."

"Perhaps you question the practicality of fabric on walls. Rest assured that for installation in certain areas of the home, fabric has more to offer than does either paper or vinyl roll goods," she said.

"Fabric tastefully applied to one or more wall areas may exceed the decorative results achieved by using traditional papers and vinyls. The depth of design and intermingling of colors and textures create with a woven fabric are almost impossible to duplicate by any other means.

Other "plus" features of fabric wall coverings include these factors: Installation is fast, easy and may be either temporary or permanent.

Depending on the kind of fabric used, you'll likely be working with wider widths than if you were using paper or vinyls.

Fabric width ranges from 36-inch-wide dress fabric to the 120-inch-wide, king-size sheet. You may have fewer seams to match or maybe even a seamless wall.

Fabric may cost less than would a paper or vinyl. This isn't always true, but it can work out that way with some careful and persistent shopping.

Depending on the fabric chosen and the way it is applied, you may discover that the fabric has sound-absorbing acoustical properties that make the area quieter.

A tough protective finish can be applied in permanent installations that will increase durability and lessen maintenance of the covered wall areas.

Most retail outlets for wall coverings have one or more lines of fabric wall coverings with an adhesive backing.

To apply, all you have to do is peel off the paper and press the fabric on the wall.

Felt, burlap, grasscloth, and many other textures and weaves are available in this type wall covering. These materials are inexpensive only when applied yourself on one wall or a small area. Obviously, they are easier to apply than an ordinary length of dress or upholstery fabric.

"Luckily there are many sources you can turn to in your search for economical, interesting and attractive wall fabric," Mrs. Berry said.

"Check outlets for dress, upholstery and drapery fabrics. Mail-order catalogues, department stores, 'bargain basements,' mill outlets and other sources of bedsheets offer some of the most attractive, economical and appropriate designs you'll find anywhere. Just think how much wall area you can 'wrap' in a full or king-size sheet."

"Many import shops carry inexpensive lightweight bedspreads in stripes, plaid and interesting designs. Don't overlook the decorating impact that can be made with burlap, muslin and ticking."

The population of the United States in the year 1900 was 75,994,575!

Texas Sheep And Goat Industry In Decline

Why is it that an industry enjoying, overall, the highest profits it has ever seen, is facing the danger of extinction due to severely declining production? And why is it that the industry's leaders have found it necessary to encourage production above every other concern, when economics principles tell us that shortages lead to even higher prices?

The oil and gas industries have certainly reaped the profits of shortages in the last few years and it would seem that American sheep producers would follow the lead of the world's largest money-makers, wouldn't they? Not necessarily. In fact, sheep producers have been leading the energy people in the shortage field during the last few years, but with the opposite ultimate effect.

The industry is in a paradoxical and potentially dangerous position, due to just such shortages. Meetings of sheep producers and sheep product promoters in recent times have been monopolized, for the most part, not by exultations over generally favorable lamb and wool prices, but by predictions of severe future crises.

The basis for such predictions is the simple fact that, faced with too severe a shortage of a particular product or market, consumers and service groups will find alternate products to consume, or markets to serve.

At a time when synthetic fibers promise to become too expensive for extensive use, wool, an extremely efficient natural fiber, could provide an outstanding replacement. Manufacturers, however, openly question the strength of supply and could turn to alternate fibers.

Lamb, the other major product of the sheep industry, is rapidly becoming a specialty item. A number of complicated factors are responsible for the overall decline in lamb consumption; one absurd-sounding, but surprisingly important contribution to the decline was heavy consumption during the Pacific campaign of World War II. American sailors were essentially "burned out" on large amounts of rather gamey Australian lamb ineptly prepared by Navy cooks. Family dietary habits tend to be passed down, and an entire generation of Americans have grown up without lamb on the table. Crazy, but it's true.

Lamb today is confined, for the most part, to ethnic and seasonal consumption. Even at that, large portions of the individual carcass are not utilized, greatly increasing the retail price of the portions that are sold and enhancing the feeling among dealers that they are providing a special service to their customers, rather than simply marketing a form of red meat. Add to these pricing pressures a shortage of supply, and it is easy to see how lamb could lose its place on meat counters.

So much for cries of doom and gloom. On the brighter side, sheep producers, through their representative and promotion groups such as the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, have been engaged in long and objective looks at their own situation.

Educational seminars and research experiments have made it possible to increase lamb crops, lower labor demands, judge market pressures and otherwise update an ancient industry. Industry cooperation has made it feasible to fight arbitrary governmental decisions and to present an accurate picture of the needs and potentials of sheep and sheep production.

Sheep producers have found that they can reverse the trend toward decline and extinction—that cooperation is the key, now more than ever.

SWAHRF Has Board Meet In McAllen

New trustees were elected to the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation (SWAHRF) board at a January reorganization meeting in McAllen.

SWAHRF is the non-profit corporation which served as the coordinating and fund raising organization to start the Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program in the early 1960's.

Trustees have voted to continue SWAHRF now that screwworm eradication is an international effort with sterile fly production plants operating in both Mexico and the United States. They see it as a link to the livestock industry, as an intermediary between the program and Congress, and also as a link with Mexico's livestock industry.

Presiding at the McAllen meeting were T.A. Kincaid, Jr., of San Antonio and Ozona, president; Ed Ketchum of Duncan, Okla., vice president; and Jerry Puckett of Fort Stockton, secretary-treasurer. Kincaid has served as a trustee since the organization's start in the early 1960's.

Tips On Selecting A Nursing Home

Finding a nursing home which provides the services and atmosphere a person needs and prefers takes time and effort, as well as information, Mrs. Vivian Blair, family life education specialist-aging, says.

"Considering that a nursing home becomes a person's home and community for as long as he remains there explains how necessary and worthwhile the search can be.

"It helps to plan ahead for the future of older members of your family as well as your own later years. Advance planning makes one better able to locate the right nursing home care at the right price-or to find suitable alternatives to nursing home care. It also enables one to accept the decision to enter a nursing home in the event it becomes necessary," she said.

Mrs. Blair is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Explore the alternatives to nursing home care in your community or area. There are increasing services available such as visiting nurses, homemakers and home health aides. These services enable a person to remain in his own home longer, she pointed out.

"When an older person needs help with dressing, shopping, meal preparation and personal chores, and when these needs cannot be filled by his family or community services, then nursing home care could be needed. It is also needed when the older person requires medical attention which the family cannot provide at home or when keeping him at home severely upsets family life.

"The decision should be discussed among family members-including the patient. Consult your physician. Always consider the patient's needs and preferences. After all, his lifestyle may be changed. Everyone, regardless of age or degree of health, has a right to influence his own fate. Consider family needs. No one needs to feel guilty about a loved one moving into a nursing home if all alternatives and consequences have been carefully weighed and if the nursing home is chosen with care," she said.

The specialist pointed out that contrary to general belief, only five per cent of all people 65 years of age or older reside in nursing homes or similar institutions. But if you live to be 65, there is one chance in five that you will die in a nursing home.

Manufacturing In Texas Taking On Importance

Texas has never ranked among the big manufacturing states.

Only about two-thirds of its industrial production comes from manufacturing, most of the rest being oil and gas. Nationwide, manufacturing accounts for close to 90 percent of the industrial production.

But manufacturing is taking on new importance in Texas.

For all the increase in demand, production of Texas crude oil has increased little over the past ten years.

Production of natural gas has declined.

With oil and gas prices up, income from petroleum has climbed. But as reserves dwindle, reducing the capacity to produce petroleum, more of the physical output from Texas industry will have to come from manufacturing.

Manufacturing has done well in taking up the slack. That has been true in recession and recovery.

During the recession, output from manufacturing fell nationwide by more than 17 percent. In Texas, the drop was less than 12 percent.

At the peak just before the downturn, output from Texas manufacturing was running 35 percent higher than the 1967 average that provides the base for the seasonally adjusted Texas industrial production index prepared by the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.

That was well above the national average. Nationwide, manufacturing had increased a little over 32 percent since 1967.

At the trough of the recession, manufacturing in Texas was still nearly 21 percent higher than the base. Across the country as a whole, manufacturing had lost all but a little over 9 percent of the gains made since 1967.

So far in the recovery, manufacturing in Texas has continued to stay well above the national average.

Not until August, a year and a half after the downturn, did the country approach its previous peak in manufacturing output. But in Texas, manufacturing was fully recovered in a year, passing its previous peak last March.

With gains since, manufacturing in Texas has been pushed to new heights. About 37 percent higher than in 1967, production now is about 14 percent higher than at the trough.

But as the recession in manufacturing was more severe for the nation than for the state, output over the country as a whole still averages only 30 percent higher than in 1967.

The upshot has been that where the nation's industrial production fell 14 percent during the recession, the decline in Texas was only 8 percent.

Though petroleum accounts for far more of the industrial production in Texas and demand for domestic petroleum is up sharply, production in Texas fields has been too weak to make the difference. It was manufacturing that had the strength to brake the recession decline in Texas industry.

When the recession began, the state's industrial production was 31 percent higher than in 1967. At the trough, it was 20 percent higher.

Nationwide, industrial production was not 30 percent higher than the base when the recession came. And it fell to a level less than 12 percent higher.

Since then, even with gains in manufacturing coming faster for most of the country than for Texas, the nation has just barely regained its previous level of industrial production.

But in Texas, where manufacturing was not set back as much as in the rest of the country, industrial production has been brought a little higher than before the recession.

THANK YOU OZONANS

For 36 years of patronage and good relations. Your support helped us build a small boot and saddle shop into one of the most complete western wear stores in this area.

As of February 1, the business was sold to Duane Childress, and I took over full time as manager of Ozona Television Service.

I feel that Duane will give you the same service you have come to expect, and hope you will give him your support in the future as you have given it to me over the past years.

beating them by a score of 62-51.

The first quarter reflected pretty much how the rest of the game would go. The Lions drew a big early lead and remained there throughout the game. The Lions led at the end of the first quarter 18-7.

The Lions were at the controls again in the second quarter. They scored 14 points, 8 of which were accredited to Sterling Lay, the game's high point man. Thus the Lions went in with a big 32-13 halftime lead.

Ozona accumulated its biggest lead of the game in the third quarter. The Lions scored 18 points compared to Sonora's 10. So when the period ended, Ozona held a commanding 27 point lead. In the fourth quarter though, Sonora came out of their cocoons and exploded for 28 points, led by their high point man, John Elliot. But time ran out for the Broncos, and the Lions won their second district game, 62-51.

High point man for Ozona was Sterling Lay with 15. Second were Orlando De-Hoyos and Mike Fay, both with 10.

Ozona's district win over Sonora puts them alone in second place of District 7-AA. Kermit, with their win over Crane, 64-52, remains in first place while Crane drops to third, and Sonora remains last.

The Junior Varsity was also in action against McCamey and Sonora.

Ozona won the first one over McCamey, 51-34. High point man for Ozona was Victor DeLa Garza with Clair McDaniel taking second place.

They also took the second game over Sonora, 35-32. High point man in that game was Joey Borrego with 10. Danny Sewell took the second spot with 7.

The Ozona Freshmen played the Sonora Freshmen Thursday. Ozona lost that close one, 32-30. High point man for Ozona was Freddy Garza with 12, while Shane Fenton had 11.

The boys Varsity and Junior Varsity played Iraan here Tuesday night. The boys and girls Varsity and JV will play Crane there Friday night. Good Luck Lions!

Local Man Injured In 2 Car Accident

One automobile accident was reported over the past week in Ozona. Investigating officer was Trooper Joe Miles, DPS.

The accident occurred at Ave. H and 12th St. around 5 p.m. Thursday. Fats Alford, driving a Chevrolet pickup entered the intersection and was hit by a Dodge driven by Bud Meinecke. The pickup went out of control, hitting the rear of a parked pickup which was parked in a private drive, bouncing off and hitting the front of a compressor trailer and coming to rest under a large butane tank.

Alford was taken to Crockett County Hospital where he was treated for cuts and bruises and kept overnight for observation. Meinecke was not injured. The pickup was heavily damaged, but the Dodge sedan had almost no damage.

Cox Twin Has Heart Surgery

One of the twin girls born Dec. 31, to Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Cox in Crockett County Hospital, is recovering from heart surgery performed Jan. 21, at Bexar County Hospital in San Antonio.

The little girl, whose lung collapsed following heart surgery to correct a birth defect, is fighting for her life and has been given a 50-50 chance of survival.

The child's parents are facing thousands of dollars in hospital and doctors' bills. Friends have set up a fund at Ozona National Bank and are asking for contributions. Anyone wishing to make a donation may deposit their check in the Glenn and Debra Cox Baby Fund.

OZONA SEVENTH GRADE WINS OVER McCAMEY
The Ozona seventh grade boys picked up their 6th consecutive win Monday in McCamey.

After a cold first half the Cubs were down by 10 points. They came back and overcame the McCamey Badgers in the second half, outshooting them 19 points to 6. Leading scorers for Ozona were Hector Leal with 13 points and Ernie Borrego with 8. The seventh grade will play Sonora here Feb. 7.
