President Carter's energy proposals were disappointing to say the least and if enacted will be downright discriminatory against Texas and other oil producing states. It seems the "Tax, Tax - Spend, Spend" theories of latter day Democrats is once again being put into motion. How a gasoline tax of up to 50c per gallon can be used as a means of conserving energy, simply escapes me. The fat cats with the motor homes and fancy rigs will continue to use gasoline no matter the cost. The big conglomerates will absorb the tax and pass the cost on to the consumer. But, small business and the average working person in the state of Texas will be severely deprived. We are unable to take advantage of mass transit, indeed, we can't even ride a bus to San Angelo.

The family automobile will be a thing of the past for us ordinary folks. The price, plus the tax, will make it prohibitive for the majority of us.

The most devastating proposal will be federal regulation of intrastate fuel. For years Texans have been paying higher utility bills than the rest of the nation, but we have had the consolation of having plenty. Now it seems we will pay even higher prices and share our resources unfairly with states refusing to develop their own natural resources and that

OHS Boys Go To Regional Meet Saturday

Regional UIL boys sports will be held Friday and Saturday in Lubbock. Ronnie Schneider, district tennis champ, will participate in boys singles with a good chance of making the state finals.

Regional track qualifiers are Blake Moody and Vaden Aldridge in the pole vault event, Clifford Crawford in the 880 run and 220 dash, and Steve Pagan in the Intermediate Hurdles.

The four boys participated in an area meet for regional qualifiers in Mason last weekend and posted their best times of the season. Participating with other boys who won their district, Moody took first in the pole vault with a leap of 13' and Aldridge was second with 13'. Crawford won the 880 and 220 with his fastest times of the year in both events. Pagan won the hurdles and posted his best time.

First and second places at regional qualify the participant to compete on the state level. The qualifiers will join 3 Ozona girls in state competition, a week later, in Austin at the University of Texas.

County's Share Of Travel Receipts Over $2 Million

Crockett County received $2,324,000 of the state's $5,306,118,000 travel receipts in 1975, a national study commissioned by the Texas Tourist Development Agency has disclosed.

In addition to gross receipts, the study found that Crockett County had 96 of the state's 207,676 travel-related jobs, with an annual payroll of $460,000.

It also estimated $90,000 in State and $20,000 in local taxes were paid by visitors.

The study was done by the U.S. Travel Data Center in Washington, D.C., an independent travel research organization funded jointly by public and private sectors.

It was based on the Center's Travel Economic Impact Model, which for the first time, breaks out a state's share of the national travel market on a county-by-county basis.

The model measures the economic impact of all travel involving overnight trips away from home, and day trips at least 100 miles or more from home. Thus it includes travel by Texans as well as out-of-state visitors, for all purposes.

It includes estimates of the traveler's spending at home in preparation for the trip, his spending en route, and that at his destination.

Basic data for the model comes from the National Travel Survey, conducted every five years by the U.S. Census Bureau, and from the Center's own National Travel Expenditure Model.

It was the latter which, last year, estimated that Texas had dislodged New York for third place in the nation's $75 billion travel industry. Only California and Florida now outrank Texas, the Center said.

"We're pleased that travel research techniques have finally developed to the point that states can determine where, within their boundaries, travel dollars are spent and travel-related jobs exist," said Frank Hildebrand, executive director of the Texas Tourist Development Agency.

"Now we can trace travel's considerable economic impact on a county-by-county basis, observe changing patterns annually, and help direct the rapid growth of this burgeoning industry."

2 Local 4-Hers To Tour Washington

Crockett County senior 4-H members, Gigi McKinney and Cliff McMullan, will be attending the 1977 National 4-H Citizenship Short Course and Heritage Tour in Washington, D.C. on June 14-28. Gigi is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.C. McKinney, Cliff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McMullan, Jr.

The citizenship programs are designed to supplement the citizenship education and leadership development training young people receive through the home, school, church, and other organizations. Citizenship short courses for 4-H members of senior high school age are conducted at the National 4-H Foundation to supplement the on-going citizenship training currently provided by the states.

Listening, sharing, receiving, caring and touring Washington, D.C. are all part of the six-day personal learning experience each 4-Her will have. Citizenship topics relating to the individual's concept and responsibilities of citizenship are covered in assemblies and opportunity sessions at the center. Foundation personnel, summer staff, and guest speakers provide a broad spectrum of resources in each week's program.

A total of 70 4-Hers throughout the state will be making the trip. Six 4-Hers from District 6 will be attending.

The 4-Hers will have an opportunity to tour and do some sightseeing on the way to Washington. A tour of Nashville, Tennessee is on the schedule.

Boosters Honor Band Members With Banquet

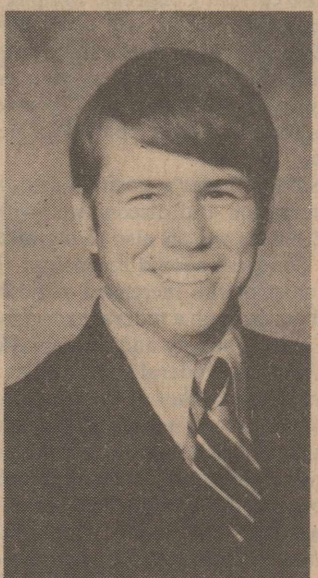

Ozona Band Boosters honored OHS Band students with a banquet Monday night at the Civic Center.

Mrs. Don Yeager, Booster president, registered guest. Lane Scott, Ozona Band Director, announced that Hope Phillips had been chosen Band Sweetheart. Later in the program, Superintendent Foy Moody spoke to the band and commended them for their hours of practice and preparation, remarking that one reason the football team did so well last season was because the band was behind them all the way—all thirteen games. The Superintendent then named Carmen Delgado as the winner of the John Phillip Sousa Award.

Outgoing band officers spoke briefly as each introduced his or her successor for 1977-78, namely: Michelle Jones, president; Debora Galvan, vice-president; Delia DeHoyos, secretary and Rhonda Yeager, reporter.

Guest speaker for the evening was Kirk McKenzie, Kermit Band Director. McKenzie, addressing the students, encouraged them to start working for next year now, and said "Do your darnedest to win, but don't go trophy seeking...achieve the goal that is behind the trophy." He indicated that working together as a band in an organized manner, and learning self-discipline was preparing them for success in other fields later in life.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

"ENERGY: SACRIFICE TODAY OR CRISIS TOMORROW"

President Carter's speech before Congress and the American people last week was the necessary first step in solving our energy supply problems. Mr. Carter attempted to bring home to the average citizen the reality of a developing energy crisis which, although it may not paralyze our society today or tomorrow, may create serious hardships in the future if certain events transpire abroad.

What the President said was not news to experts who have studied national and international energy supplies for the past two decades; rather, the news lay in the fact that an American President at the peak of his popularity took these facts to the people and made his suggestions known to a Congress composed overwhelmingly of members of his own party. As you and I know, the Congress, President, and the American people must act together to respond to any great challenge facing our country. The Congress passes laws and the President administers them, but little progress can be made without popular support for those laws. Historians may argue for some time what the deep meaning of the Vietnam War was for our society, but I think that its greatest significance was this: national policies requiring substantial sacrifice must command the support of the people and their representatives in Congress; otherwise those policies fail, regardless of their merit. You cannot have that support and cooperation unless the citizens are informed, and now the President has supplied that necessary link.

Thus we must hope that the pieces fall into place for a drive toward greater energy supply and conservation. Once we have accepted the existence of an energy shortage and have abandoned all the conspiracy theories offering Arabs and giant oil companies as the scapegoats for the current state of affairs, we can move on to discuss and debate a multitude of proposed solutions. This should be a stimulating exercise, and the final decision we reach will largely determine the quality and direction of American life in the remainder of this century.

My position on energy matters evolved during my first term in Congress as we sought, unsuccessfully, to redefine our national energy goals and restructure our various energy pricing policies. I hope that the current Congress, in light of greater public awareness of the energy crisis, will make some hard choices and opt for the free market as the best means of increasing energy supply. Only the free market system can automatically match supply with demand and provide sufficient incentive for exploration and development of new energy sources for the future.

Although I agree with President Carter's position that we must encourage energy conservation and discourage waste, our quality of life will decline unless we act also to stimulate new supplies. Therefore, the Congress should reconsider the President's suggestion that most of the increased price we pay for oil should be siphoned off through a federal excise tax. It is difficult to conceive how energy supply and conservation will be stimulated by a policy using the federal government as an agent to transfer dollars from one pocket of the consumer to another; yet, the combined excise tax-rebate will do just that. Likewise, the President's decision not to recommend deregulation of natural gas prices disappoints many people. The proposed gasoline tax, too, has flaws, and could result in discrimination against areas like our own, which lack adequate public transportation alternatives to the use of private automobiles.

In short, the Congress must weigh carefully the various elements of the President's plan. At this point, it appears that many of his suggestions should be adopted, but a few of them should be modified. The major significance of this week's action, however, lies in the fact that our new President has acted in the best tradition of his office in bringing a serious, if unwelcome, matter to the full attention of 210 million Americans. We must now commit ourselves to action in fulfillment of our obligations to others who overcome similar difficulties in the past and to those who will face problems of equal significance in the future. Fortunately, the courage, tenacity and innovative talent necessary for success are fundamental elements of the American spirit.

IN TIME OF GREAT SORROW . . .

It is often difficult to face the practical realities of life. This is one of the reasons that many people have acquired their family cemetery lot and memorial in advance of need. In this manner, the head of the house assumes his responsibility and relieves his family of a very difficult decision at the worst possible time. We have a wide variety of granite monuments from which to choose. Come by or call at your earliest convenience.

GREAT MOMENTS IN SPORTS

Brief Stories Of Long-Remembered Triumphs

A great moment in sports occurred in 1889 when William C. Renshaw won his 14th Wimbledon match, a men's record, with 7 singles and 7 doubles played with his twin brother James Ernest.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Both houses of the legislature, with May 30 adjournment deadline closing in, are churning out major bills at a modest pace.

The House, after five days of debate, agreed on a $695 million school finance plan, which included no funds for a teacher pay raise.

Immediately afterward, representatives turned to the issue of property tax reform and passed legislation creating a single countywide appraisal office for all local units of government.

Meanwhile, the Senate in its longest floor controversy of the year, passed 27-4 a medical malpractice bill vastly different from that earlier cleared by the House. The measure must go to conference committee, and whether it can be compromised to suit both houses is in doubt.

The Senate also passed legislation bringing Texas obsolescence compensation benefits in line with federal law and raising maximum payments from $63 to $84 a week with a built in $7 (per $10 average weekly wage hike) annual increase. The bill, sponsors emphasized, is necessary to prevent a $600 million payroll tax increase for Texas employers and to retain for the Texas Employment Commission $60 million in federal administrative aid.

Other major bills advanced by the Senate included a new voter registration system and authority for so-called evidentiary search warrants.

The House this week was scheduled to move right into debate on its $15.7 billion biennial appropriations bill.

'AGIN IT

Texas statewide officials, many of whom campaigned actively for Jimmy Carter, strongly disagree with the president's new energy policies.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe threatens a lawsuit against Carter's proposal to extend federal controls over gas produced and sold within the state. The governor said he expects to speak out strongly against most provisions of the Carter program.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Atty. Gen. John Hill, Speaker Bill Clayton and other prominent Democrats also have blasted intrastate natural gas controls by the federal government.

And Republican Sen. John Tower, delighted at a new issue, said Carter bamboozled energy-producing states during the 1976 campaign with promises to deregulate gas.

Ranch Eyed

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong renewed a plea that Texas buy a 212,000 acre ranch near Big Bend Park for use as a recreation area.

A House bill would provide $8 million to purchase the property from Robert O. Anderson at $37 an acre.

Armstrong translated that as 66 cents for each Texan.

The Senate approved the purchase two years ago, but the final appropriations bill passed by the legislature did not include the funds.

The legislation proposes turning over the land to the General Land Office. Parts of the property could be leased for grazing and other parts for public hunting until the Parks and Wildlife Department is prepared to develop it as a park, Armstrong said.

Courts Speak

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the death penalty sentence assessed the alleged triggerman in a Dallas killing for which another man, Ernest Benjamin Smith, was due to be executed this week. Conviction of Howie Ray Robinson was thrown out due to testimony in the trial about a lie detector test.

The court also overturned the conviction for negligent homicide of a man who ran into an auto at 120 miles an hour killing a woman.

And it rejected the 99-year sentence of a Houston man for aggravated robbery. The man attempted to defend himself after refusing his court-appointed attorney.

The State Supreme Court upheld lower court findings that a suit designed to equalize local school taxes could not be prosecuted without legislative approval.

AG Opinions

The Air Control Board has authority under its standards to grant variances for existing facilities, Atty. Gen John Hill found.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: Harris County must pay jurors from its jury fund, not from a separate fund entrusted to the district clerk.

Dental school professors are exempted from annual registration as long as they work exclusively for the school, as are employees of the U.S. Public Health Service.

An audit report on federal grants is subject to public disclosure.

Mere refusal to deliver property to a secured party is not an offense under the penal code.

There is no visible incompatibility in a part-time college instructor's serving as an adult probation officer, although questions could arise that would make the double job improper.

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: I lost my credit card. Do I have to pay for charges made on my credit card by someone else?

A: If you immediately notify by letter or telegram the company which issued your credit card, you are not liable for any charges made after the card was lost. If you fail to notify the company that your card is lost, the company has the right to require you to pay up to fifty dollars for charges made after the card was lost.

Q: How do I go about getting both my first and last names changed legally?

A: A district judge in the county of your residence can grant a request for a name change. In deciding whether to grant the request, the judge will determine whether the name change is in the best interests of the person seeking the change and whether the change would result in any damage to anyone else. In the case of a person under the age of 18, both parents must be notified of any name change request and the father must consent unless his parental rights have been terminated by a court.

Q: My wife and I have a large estate. Our wills say that the entire estate will be left to the surviving spouse. We are now retired, and I want to keep control of my property. However, I want to know how we can save money if one of us should die. After we both are gone, we want to leave it all to our children.

Tips For Gardeners
From the Ozona Garden Club
by Mrs. Bailey Post

April did bring April showers. There is certainly evidence from the faces of everyone that the future looks much brighter after the wonderful rains of last week. Everywhere you look there are new blooms of many flowers we didn't see last year. And what a difference to have the whole area green again for our pleasure, and benefit to the ranchers.

Many beautiful vegetable gardens around our city are beginning to produce a nice variety of vegetables, along with the fun it is to grow them, even if it does take time and work.

If you haven't been out south of town to see the beautiful grain field of Gene Lilly's, be sure to do so. Makes you feel like we are in the farming area.

To prevent borer damage, spray tree trunks now. Also, use fungicides to control downy and powdery mildew on vegetables and other plants.

One of the old reliable plants are the impatiens, which make perfect bedding plants for shaded places. They flower almost constantly and their colors range from white to pink to scarlet, with many shades of purple, salmon and orange. In height they average from six inches to two feet. They are not fussy about soil if drainage is good. Water is more important than fertilizer, as plants wilt quickly when soil becomes dry. Impatiens are excellent outdoor container plants. Few other flowers equal them for free blooming. Dwarf and medium types are usually preferred for containers, so let size of container determine your choice of plants. Few insects bother impatiens when growing outdoors, but when confined to a pot or indoors they may need watching. Give them a strong spray of water every week, hitting both upper and lower leaves. Fertilize container grown plants they need monthly feedings.

LADIES GOLF ASSN.

The Ladies Golf Assn. held its regular golf play at the Country Club Wednesday.

Mrs. Jack Baggett and Mrs. Pat Wester won blind bogies for the day. Mrs. Baggett won legs on the low putt, low gross and low net trophies.

Other golfers were Mrs. Byron Stuart, Mrs. Dempster Jones, Mrs. Dixon Mahon, Mrs. Bob Bailey and Mrs. Dick Webster.

At a business meeting following golf play, it was decided to redecorate the locker room with carpet and new furniture.

The Association will host the Annual Ladies Partnership at the Country Club, Saturday, May 7.

MRS. GENE MARTIN ALVEY
...nee Michele Nations

Michele Nations Weds Mr. Alvey In Austin Ceremony

Michele Anne Nations became the bride of Gene Martin Alvey in a ceremony in the bride's home in Austin, Friday, April 22, at 8 p.m. Judge Bob Perkins performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Eddy Nations and the late Mr. Nations of Ozona, and Mrs. Mary L. Alvey of Owensboro, Ky.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Robert E. Nations, wore a traditional wedding gown of white satin and lace. Her veil of silk illusion, was caught by a jeweled Juliette cap. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white daisies, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Carol Smalling of Austin served as matron-of-honor.

John Smalling served as best man.

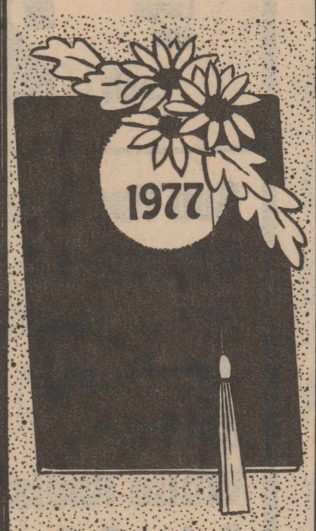

Bouquets of yellow roses and fern leaves were used as decorations, and silver candelabras holding white tapers were used on the altar.

A reception followed the wedding in the home. Yellow roses and white daisies were used in decoration.

Following a wedding trip to Corpus Christi, the couple will be at home at 1817 East Oltorf in Austin. The bride is a laboratory technician for the City of Austin. Her husband is a notion picture processor.

The bride, a graduate of Ozona High School, received her BS and MS from Angelo State University. Her Bridal fashions will likely recall Victorian femininity--perhaps with a dash of bolder color for bridesmaids--to give spring and summer weddings a traditional feeling.

For her gown, today's bride probably will choose a luxurious fabric--and use yards of it for a full skirt. Popular fabrics include lace, eyelet, organdy, chiffon, pique, gauze, linen, batiste, and voile in white, candlelight or ecru. U-shaped necklines will be popular and often have self fabric flowers or cut-out lace appliques.

For sleeve design, expect to see a variety from the traditional long slim sleeve and long billowing sleeve to a three-quarter length or even sleeveless fashion. Bridesmaids attire may go for bolder colors this year, although pastels will continue their popularity.

Use of stripes and solids is the newest idea in color and fabric coordination. Bridesmaids dresses may be stippled while the maid of honor wears a solid to match one of the stipes, and the mother of the bride wears another solid color to coordinate with the stipe.

Fashionable accessories for bride and attendants include picture hats, lacy parasols (for outdoor weddings), lace gloves, simple head scarf, and of course, traditional veils. Silk flowers for bridal bouquets, attendant accessories, and other corsages often take the place of fresh flowers.

The bridegroom and attendants have a choice of various styles and colors in tuxedos. Colors may be white, ivory, dark or pastel blue, soft yellow, plum, camel, or others to coordinate with the bridal party. Shirts may be plain, pleated, or ruffled and usually in a soft coordinating color, or white with colored ruffle trim.

Vests take the place of traditional cummerbunds, while the bowtie may be a traditional cut or a new fuller, and longer, and draping version.

THE SPACE BETWEEN

They reach out, wanting to touch and making a game of it. Who will be the first to give in, so that fingers will clasp in a burst of laughter?

Childhood play. It isn't always this easy. Later on, we want to bridge the gap that separates us from something or someone else. But often we don't have the nerve.

Sometimes we want to speak . . . and can't find our voices. Sometimes we honestly want to go to church . . . but it's been so long.

In anything, the hardest part is the first step. One foot, then another foot . . . which, in the case of the church, leads straight to a wide-open door.

The rest is easy.

All Good Things
 "Everybody is in favor of getting more and better jobs, higher real incomes, and a constantly rising standard of living for all. Unfortunately, all those good things are not to be found under a cabbage leaf, nor are they dropped down the chimney by the stork. They come from business making a sufficient rate of profit both to reinvest in plant and equipment and to attract external capital."

Read Mail Ads Very Carefully

Advertising by mail is an important part of the free enterprise marketing system and so are informed consumers, Lynn Bourland, a family resource management specialist, says.

"Mail circulars do tell specific audiences about new products and special offers—but consumers should read advertisements carefully and know their rights and responsibilities when responding to ads," she advises. "Each word in an advertisement is important. For example, in a recent advertisement I received, homeowners were told of a special offer on aluminum siding. 'Key words were 'Your home can look as beautiful as this for only $795!' A home was pictured. These words are actually saying, if your home is the same size and shape as the one pictured, your cost for our aluminum siding is $795."

"This may be a good price, but shop around and compare prices—before mailing the response card. Our house may be larger or smaller than the one pictured," the specialist cautioned.

"Other important words on the ad were 'Ask about our special offer for steel and vinyl siding.' A postage paid card was attached and a phone number listed.

"When consumers ask businesses to come to their home to demonstrate a product or estimate costs, they lose their right to a 'three day cooling-off period.'"

If a seller comes voluntarily to the home, consumers have three business days after the sale to cancel the contract," Miss Bourland noted.

"The same advertisement also promoted '100 per cent financing, up to five years to pay.'"

"Read any credit contract carefully before signing. Make sure you are not signing a second lien against your home," she warned.

"Shop around for a loan if credit is needed. Other creditors may be able to make a better offer."

Predators, Greatest Menace To Sheep & Goat Industry

Predators have been called one of the greatest obstacles to the rebuilding necessary in the Texas Sheep and goat industry, not to mention their harmful effects on those still active in the business. As such, they have received a large amount of attention, and some producers are beginning to reassess their own positions in the predator fight.

The various traditional trapper systems in use in many areas are beginning to give way to more direct and positive efforts. Though there's a long way to go, a growing number of sheep and goat men have come to realize that no handful of trappers will ever be able to do the job alone.

Brown and Upton counties have seen impressive increases in the number of predatory animals taken since they instituted an improved and refocused bounty system. Bounties run around $25, and ranchers, while still contributing to the area trapping association, also pay one fourth of the bounty for animals taken on their land. The trapping group pays another quarter of the bounty, the county picking up the remaining half. Producers must also certify that a given predator was taken on their land.

The Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association is in favor of this type of participatory program, especially in view of its tendency to organize and involve ranchers. Too often, producers have joined trapper associations, contributed financially according to the size of their ranches and sat back.

Responsibility for clearing the country of predators became the trapper's problem exclusively and when results failed to meet expectations, it was judged the trapper's fault-exclusively.

With the self-help programs catching on, more ranchers are beginning to do some of their own work, with predictably gratifying results. At the very least, many of them are paying for their snares out of their bounty receipts.

Their major gain is a lower loss level, the point of predator control in the first place. Joe Jackson, chairman of the TS&GRA Predatory Animal Committee, says control expenses should be weighed against potential losses to predators.

"Dollar for dollar," explains Jackson, "the money is better spent eliminating predators than feeding them."

Jackson adds that farmers spend what may appear to be huge sums of money fighting weed and insect pests, year after year, while some ranchers feel a dollar a section is enough to pay out for predator control. Such control expenses, he claims, should be based on the number of sheep and goats run, not the amount of land they're running on.

Losses on even a modest size operation could easily cost a rancher $250 per crop. Extend such a figure for five or ten years and it's not hard to see that predators, while not cheap to eliminate, are considerably more expensive to board.

TEXAS TECH PROFS--Dr. Paul H. Carlson, left, visiting professor of history, inspects a prized Rambouillet ewe with Dr. Lelf Thompson, animal science professor and sheep specialist at Texas Tech University. While on leave from Texas Lutheran College at Seguin, is preparing a history of the Texas sheep and goat industry from sources available at Tech's Southwest Collection. Carlson discovered major source materials for preparing a history of the Texas sheep and goat industry in Texas Tech's Southwest Collection, historical research center for the region. Carlson's study will be among the first ever undertaken to tell the story of the state-wide industry from Spanish beginnings to the present.

Professor Studying Texas Sheep & Goat Industry

A Texas Tech University visiting professor is beginning a major study of one of Texas' oldest industries.

Dr. Paul Carlson, at Texas Tech on leave from Texas Lutheran College at Seguin, is preparing a history of the Texas sheep and goat industry from sources available at Tech's Southwest Collection.

While teaching history at Tech, Carlson discovered that no major study of the state-wide sheep and goat industry had ever been undertaken.

"Ironically, at times there have been more sheep and goats produced in Texas than cattle," Carlson said. "Yet the number of books on the cattle industry would fill a wall of bookshelves, but those on sheep and goats can be counted on two hands." Carlson said he was surprised to discover that a great amount of basic material was available for research at Texas Tech. "A virtually untapped source for this study is the Southwest Collection," he indicated. In addition to the records of the Mohair Council of America and the American Angora Goat Breeders Association, it holds the files of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association which are just loaded with information.

"The Southwest Collection also has almost every book on sheep and goats," Carlson indicated. "For example, I found a reference to a rare 1900 publication and decided to check the Southwest Collection to see if they had it. Not only did they have the book, but also the author's autobiography and some of his personal papers as well."

According to Carlson, no one has ever attempted to survey the history of the sheep and goat industry from Spanish beginnings to the present.

Sheep and goats have been raised in every state in the union, and I suspect in every county in Texas," Carlson indicated. "Of course, this study will focus mainly in the Edwards Plateau, the Texas Hill country, and Southwest Texas because that is where the industry has dominated."

Carlson indicated that he will use extensive oral history information in his study. In addition to researching the numerous interviews held by the Southwest Collection, Carlson plans to spend the summer tape-recording persons who have been an important part of the development of the industry.

A Texas Tech Ph.D. in history, Carlson taught at Texas Lutheran for three years before taking a one-year appointment at Tech. He is the author of nineteen historical articles dealing with the history of the West.

Mental Health Drive Coming Up In Ozona

Mrs. Thelma Janes of Ozona will lead Bellringer workers in a house-to-house drive during May, Mental Health Month.

"Proceeds will benefit the Mental Health Association in Texas," said Shirley K. Camfield, state President of the voluntary citizens' association.

As a non-governmental agency the association can and does speak for the consumer--the person who needs professional help for an emotional disturbance. "The association is a moving force to get services established where there are none. It also serves as a monitoring agency to see that treatment services are doing what they were set up to do," said Camfield.

The Mental Health Association strongly promotes more community-based care as well as more research into the causes of mental illness.

Seeking to prevent mental health problems through education, the association, in cooperation with the Texas Department of Community Affairs, Early Childhood Development Division, sends out the newsletter series "Pierre the Pelican" to first-time parents in the state. The 28-part series, in English and Spanish, is mailed periodically and deals with the emotional and mental development of children while giving helpful hints to parents.

Additionally, the association offers literature to the public on a variety of topics including depression, alcoholism, and positive mental health concepts. For free information write to the Mental Health Association in Texas, 103 Lantern Lane, Austin.

Farm & Ranch Insurance To Decrease

Fire and other property insurance coverage for farm and ranch buildings will generally decrease in cost beginning this summer, State Board of Insurance Chairman Joe Christie announced.

The Board's new property insurance rates, which will take effect July 1, will cut rates paid by farmers and ranchers for fire insurance by 17.5 percent and rates for extended coverage insurance by amounts ranging from 8.4 percent to 12.3 percent.

Farm and Ranch Owners insurance, which provides a package of coverage including fire, extended coverage, personal liability, medical payments and theft, will cost 1 percent more in some areas of the state and will be reduced up to 3.5 percent in other areas.

"This is the first overall decrease in property insurance rates in more than six years," Christie said.

"It has taken us that long to shake off the disastrous effects of Hurricane Celia in 1970. Now that those losses have been absorbed, it is time to give the insurance-buying public in Texas the benefits of the insurance companies' recovery," Christie said.

Ranchers Receive Wool Pmts.

Payments have been made on all timely filed applications for sales of shorn wool and unshorn lambs made during the 1976 marketing year. According to the ASCS, Crockett and Sutton wool producers had 1976 sales of shorn wool and unshorn lambs that earned them approximately $169,778 under the program.

Producers are urged to file applications for the 1977 program as soon as sales are made, and are reminded to report all unshorn lamb purchases. Reporting of unshorn lamb purchases is not tied to a marketing-calendar-year. A producer must report the disposition of any unshorn lambs purchased in the current year and any purchases made in the previous year that have not been reported.

For any questions concerning the program, contact the ASCS office here.

Annual Flower Show Held Thurs. In Perfect Weather

After several days of high winds and storm warnings, the 19th Annual Flower Show, sponsored by the Ozona Garden Club, got underway Thursday under perfect weather conditions. Club members relaxed as the exhibits were brought in, and the afternoon saw a large crowd of spectators filling the auditorium to view the exhibits.

Guests enjoyed the interpretations of the "Showtime" classics, especially in the artistic classes. These lined the walls of the interior of the auditorium, and for the most part were breathtaking with much creativity and talent displayed. An unusually large number of new members were among the award winners in this category.

The horticulture division fell somewhat short of previous shows in quality as well as numbers. The show came a few days late for the best peonies and irises, in years past these specimens have graced the show in great abundance, especially the iris. The show date was a little early for a good selection of roses. However, the African violet class featured more fine exhibits than usual along with the potted plant section, which was quite spectacular.

The show was judged by National Council Judges in District VIII from San Angelo, McCamey, Big Lake and Del Rio. The judges were guests at a covered dish luncheon given by members at noon Thursday.

Awards went to Mrs. J.W. Howell for the sweepstakes in the horticulture division; Mrs. Bailey Post, sweepstakes in artistic division; Mrs. James Montgomery, tri-color award; Mrs. Glenn Sutton, creativity; Mrs. J.C. Schroeder, nature, art and industry; Mrs. O.D. West, award of merit for rose; Mrs. Charles Williams, award of merit for iris; Mrs. J.B. Miller, arboreal award; Mrs. R.A. Harrell, award of merit for peony, and Mrs. Johnny Hokit, award of horticulture excellence. To receive the sweepstakes award, members are required to exhibit in both Horticulture and Artistic divisions.

Club members and guests winning blue ribbons for their entries were as follows: Mrs. Larry Elliott, Mrs. J.C. Schroeder, Mrs. Glenn Sutton, Mrs. James Montgomery, Mrs. Bailey Post, Mrs. Ginger Lenamon, Mrs. Richard Mayfield, Mrs. Judy Childress, Mrs. J.W. Howell, Mrs. Max Schneemann, Mrs. C.F. Brown, Mrs. Stephen Perner, Mrs. R.A. Harrell, Mrs. George Bean, Mrs. Ben Bohmfalk, Mrs. J.B. Miller, Mrs. O.D. West, Mrs. Troy Williams, Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. James Pagan, Mrs. Johnny Hokit, Pam Young, Mrs. Jeffrey Sutton, Mrs. Jess Marley, Mrs. Leonard Boyd, Margaret Box and Mrs. George Montgomery.

It was most disappointing to note that not one penny was allocated to increase production and nothing was even mentioned about alternate fuels.

If fuel is in such short supply, these measures of conservation will only prolong the agony, should they work.

It seems to me it would be fairer by far to all Americans to ration gasoline in relation to the need, while we go all out to invent or discover a synthetic or alternate fuel.

The suggested taxes in the proposal will cause such an acceleration of inflation, we will be carrying money around in a wheel barrow just to buy a cup of coffee.
