COMMITTEE REPORT ON TAX REDUCTION

We have met with the Commissioners' Court several times in regard to the reduction of taxes in Floyd County.

We have investigated the indebtedness and expenses of the county, and are clearly convinced that a great slash can be made in the reduction of taxes.

We have further investigated Floyd County expenses for a number of years, and particularly the year 1913, the year prior to the World War, when times were much better than now. And we have also particularly investigated the Floyd County officials' salaries for the years 1913 and 1931, respectively; and find that the total amount of said officials' salaries in 1931 were approximately four hundred percent greater than for said year of 1913.

In view of the fact that a great reduction in taxes is vital to the tax payers of Floyd county, another mass meeting may be called within the near future.

Respectfully submitted,
Tax Payers' Committee.

TOWN AND COUNTY GOVERNMENT

Professor Thomas H. Reed, director of the Department of Political Science of the University of Michigan, has been making a study of rural local governments in the United States and has come to the conclusion that there are too many of them, that they are too expensive and that they are out of date and unnecessary. In the early days, when it was a day's journey to go ten miles to the court house and back, and a hardship on children to send them more than a mile to school, the nation needed seats of government and of education close to or in every community. Professor Reed points out that it is no more trouble today to go sixty miles to the court house than it used to be to go ten miles, and believes that the answer is going to be found in the consolidation of counties and the elimination of superfluous governments, all of which will tend to reduce local taxation.

The movement toward consolidating country schools and hauling school children from a radius of ten or fifteen miles to a good, centrally located, graded school, is growing all over the country. The little one-room schoolhouses is a survival from primitive times; it was picturesque but on the whole inefficient, Prof. Reed thinks.

We don't expect to see such radical changes in our time as Prof. Reed thinks will come eventually, but we are inclined to agree with him that, taking the country as a whole, the cost to the taxpayers of local government is out of all proportion to the needs, and that one way to reducing this would be to reduce the number of local governmental units and make each one cover a larger territory.

WE'RE COMING BACK STRONG

The economic depression from which the United States is just emerging is the seventh major attack of "hard times" that this country has been through in less than a hundred years. The people who are scared almost to death for fear that America can't come back are not a bit worse scared than were the same type of timid-minded folk in each of these previous panics.

But, as we all know, America came back after every one of them, and came back stronger than ever.

The first great financial crisis was in 1837, when practically every bank in the United States suspended payment, half of the property of the entire nation was sold in bankruptcy proceedings and there was no work for anybody and nobody had any money. But we came back so strongly that in less than twenty years our national wealth had been multiplied by three.

We came back from the crisis of 1857, went through a terrific and devastating Civil War and again much more than doubled our national wealth in the course of sixteen years. Then we had the panic of 1873, and that was followed by another great revival that again doubled our national wealth, until the panic of 1893. We came back from that one richer than before, and we did the same thing after the crisis of 1907 and of 1929. Everybody knows how rapidly our wealth increased between 1921 and 1929, how prosperous everybody was in those fat years.

There is only one way to fortell the future, and that is by studying the past. It is as certain as anything can be that we are coming out of the present crisis toward a greater and more widespread prosperity than we have ever known. And if we have any sense we will take greater precautions against another depression than we did against this one.

MEAT CANNING RECIPES RECOMMENDED BY THE EXTENSION DEPARTMENT

Beef Canning Recipes—
Stew—Generally the thin, muscled pieces of meat are used for stew. Cut into cubes 1 or 1 1/2 inches thick. Cook meat until bones will slip. Add onions and salt. If tomatoes, carrots, parsnips or turnips can be had, they may be diced and added in the proportion of 1-2 cup each to each pound of meat used.

Vegetables should not be added until the meat is ready to go into the can, for pre-cooking and then processing discolors them. Potatoes may be added, but since they can be preserved in their natural state or can be secured at all times, they have been omitted from this recipe.

12 pounds stew meat.
4 tsp celery seed.
3 cups finely chopped onion.
6 tablespoons full of salt.

Fill the cans, seal and process under 15 pounds pressure—No. 1 cans 40 minutes, No. 2 cans 45 to 50 minutes.

Meat Loaf—
5 pounds of meat.
5 tablespoons of bread crumbs.
2 tablespoons of salt.
1 tsp. pepper.
1 tsp. sage.
1 tsp. celery seed.
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion.
2 eggs beaten together.

Grind and mix meat thoroughly, with the seasoning. One or two cups of broth may be added, according to the dryness of the meat. Fill cans while hot. Seal and process under 15 pounds pressure—No. 1 cans 40 minutes, No. 2 cans 45 to 50 minutes.

Soup Stock—
Skim excess fat from broth. Strain, heat and pour into cans. Seal and process. If bones are cooked in the pressure cooker as given above, broth will not need to be concentrated. If covered with water and boiled in open kettle, the broth should be boiled down until it will congeal when cold. Process under 15 pounds of pressure—No. 1 cans 35 minutes, No. 2 cans 40 minutes.

Curing Pork—
Materials to use: Salt—In curing, salt removes moisture and preserves the meat. Sugar—Brown sugar softens the tissues and improves the flavor. Salt-peter—Salt-peter speeds up the curing process. It also improves the color of the cured meat.

Dry Cure—For 100 pounds of meat to be cured use:
8 pounds salt.
2 pounds of brown sugar.
2 ounces salt-peter.

Rub half of this mixture on the meat and pack it down in a barrel or stone jar. Save the other half of the mixture. At the end of seven days repack the meat and rub on the remainder of the curing mixture. Let the bacon cure not to exceed one and one-half days per pound per piece. For example, if your piece of bacon weighs ten pounds each, they should be cured not to exceed fifteen days.

Let the hams and shoulders cure for three days per pound per piece. For example, fifteen pound hams should cure forty-five days. Let the shoulder butts cure 1 day per pound per piece.

Miss Robbie Archer and Miss Hazel Probasco went to Lockney Saturday for a visit with friends.

How Old?

He doesn't look a day over fifty. And feels like forty. At the age of 62. That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "laxatives" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation.

But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better. You will never need another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way.

THE VERY LATEST BY MARY MARSHALL

Here it is, the new bolero scarf that has just come to town in company of a rakish little hat of the same color and material. The bolero scarf is very, very new, but when you come to look at it closely you may recognize it as nothing more nor less than a smart, up-to-date version of knitted scarf with tubular ends that nice old ladies used to knit and wear under their coats to keep their backs and arms warm.

Perhaps you don't remember them. The trick was to knit a straight scarf wide enough to cover the small of the back and long enough to reach from wrist to wrist when the arms were extended. Then each end was folded over and sewed up ten or twelve inches, so that when the scarf was placed across the back the wrists and arms might be slipped through the tubular ends.

These new scarfs are made somewhat wider at the back and the sleeve extensions are made with deep cuffs that fit snugly from wrist to elbow while the full width of the scarf gives the effect of fullness through the sleeves.

The measurements of the diagram are these: XZ, 43 inches; XY, 29 inches; 1-2, 12 inches; 1-3, 10 inches. The small piece is the cuff, and two pieces like it should be made. The large piece is gathered from X to Y to fit into one ten-inch side of the cuff. Then the cuffs are sewed up along 1-2 and the opposite side. This should be made of some elastic fabric, like wool jersey—or knitted, the cuffs in ribs, made by purpling one, knitting one.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Special to the Plainsman.

There was a period in American history that still is referred to as "The Era of Good Feeling." It was terminated about 1825, after lasting from the start of the War of 1812, by the candidacy of turbulent Andy Jackson. The period was one during which everybody minded his own business and the politicians were shoved into the background.

Not a few students of history are likening the present situation in Washington to that which obtained in those days. The expected cat-and-dog fight between Congress and the President has failed to materialize. Instead, one sees on every hand a sincere desire on the part of the leaders of both big parties to make a very genuine effort to save the country from its present economic ills.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, now beginning to function, has met with hearty approval from everybody. President Hoover's choice of the men who will control its policies is receiving equally warm approval. General Dawes, the whole country feels, is the one man who can cut all red tape and make the new huge financial giant work quickly and efficiently. His work as head of the Service of Supply during the war showed that he is no respecter of traditions when there is a job to be done. Second only in popularity is the selection of Eugene Meyer as chairman of the board. Meyer is a man who can be relied upon, when Dawes outlines a plan, to explain just how to go about achieving it, without going into details as to why it cannot be done.

A third man who will be powerful in the R. F. C. is Ogden L. Mills, Under Secretary of the Treasury and for the past few months its practical spokesman. Secretary Mellon is undoubtedly feeling the weight of his years and is leaving most of his active duties, like appearances before Congressional Committees, to Mills. When Mills was a plain Congressman he was regarded as a "highhat" sort of person. He is descended from a '49er and for three generations has been surrounded with all the trappings of wealth and has become an aristocrat. Lately, his grasp of financial questions and a newly developed geniality have made him a popular figure.

One of the main reasons why the financial world has taken the R. F. C. to its heart is the fact that it is not-altogether a new experiment. It is such a close copy of the successful War Finance Board, that combatted the depression of 1921 and returned a profit of many millions to the national treasury without costing the taxpayers a cent, that whole sections of that Act have been bodily lifted and incorporated in the new Act, changing the name only where it occurs in the Ward Board legislation.

Proof that the money that is being hoarded by the workers through fear of bank crashes can be brought out of its hiding has been demonstrated by the recent offering of New York City's notes for $100,000,000. That amount was oversubscribed in fifteen minutes after the books were officially opened. The public, faced with the low prices of stocks, refuses to invest in any of them, fearing not only a further drop but the risk that they may be entirely wiped out.

Now, with the Government putting its guarantee back of the new capital, the public has shown by its response to the first offering of $350,000,000 bonds under the new Act, that it is ready and willing to put its money back to work. The Treasury was swamped with requests from bankers and private investors asking for blanks on which to bid for the new securities as soon as the first plans for the new R. F. C. were divulged. When the first official bids were asked the Treasury again found itself swamped with tenders for the securities. There seems to be no reason to doubt that the Government can obtain all the money it needs whenever it is willing to put its guarantee back of a loan.

Confidence has returned at last, everybody in Washington is saying, even if it did require the Government itself to lead the way. It is beyond question that private investment channels will be enabled to obtain loans themselves because of the great confidence instilled by the oversubscription to the big public loans. One reason for this return of confidence is seen in the implied determination of Congress not to allow another dollar of American funds to be sent abroad. Lately the cry is American money for American business. Let Europe get from under its financial load as best it can.

France's ability to return to a safe financial basis has been shown in the past six years, at the start of which it appeared as though it never could make a comeback. Now it is second only to the United States in its ownership of gold reserves. Any plan that is destined to relieve Europe before our own troubles have been conquered is almost certain to be killed by Congress. As one public speaker declared the other day, this country cannot be in financial difficulties while it has $350,000,000,000 in prime securities on which to borrow.

A hint as to the Democrats' solution of the way to meet the budgetary deficit of the Treasury was given by the Ways and Means Committee tax bill, offered Congress for passage. The bill avoids imposing "nuisance" taxes and will offer plans to tax telephone users ten cents an instrument; add one cent a gallon tax on gasoline; perhaps levy half a cent a kilowatt an electric current; tax trucks which are competing with railroads; and levy further on luxuries. The big industrial giants, which are said to be carrying all they can afford to right now, are to be let alone, according to the Democrats' plan.
