Big Plans Made For Floydada's Second Neighbor Day

WEDNESDAY, MAY 9th, IS EXPECTED TO DRAW MORE PEOPLE TO FLOYDADA THAN ANY PREVIOUS TRADES DAY IN TOWN'S HISTORY

MANY VISITED EXHIBIT OF FLOYDADA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Many people from all over the county visited the exhibit of work done by students in the Floydada schools held Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Exhibits were placed in the Duncan Building on the south side.

Included in the exhibits of school work were a number of interesting posters and notebooks, sketches and paintings by students in the R. C. Andrews Ward school.

One of the most interesting exhibits in the display was one of a miniature pioneer village, representing the town of Salem, Massachusetts, one of the first colonies in America. This exhibit was made by Miss Lela Baker and Miss Fannie Bolding, and students of the sixth and seventh grade. The pioneer dwellings and houses, the stockade and store houses were all shown as was the public punishment methods, the stocks and whipping post.

O. K. Davis, teacher, and students in the Andrews Ward school had on display a large board showing the government administration process. The board was arranged with the President as the center and the other governing bodies arranged about him and was very interesting and educational.

Exhibits were also made by the commercial department of Floydada High School, the history department, algebra, geometry, civics, home economics, public speaking, foreign language, English and economics.

The exhibit was an outstanding example of the type of educational work now being done in the Floydada schools.

PLAINSMAN "NEIGHBOR DAY" TABLOID 'HITS THE SPOT' SAYS MERCHANTS

"Would I be interested?" "Sure I would," says the merchants. "It is just the paper we need to help Neighbor Day."

So it is, so it is. Again the Plainsman comes to the front with the answer in the form of a tabloid newspaper. 'Tabloid' means small newspaper and as far as that goes we have been considered the 'little' paper for some time and we really are glad to be so termed.

Results, that is what we want, what the merchants want and what our readers want. The Plainsman Tabloid covers the entire territory served by the regular edition, that is to say the entire Floydada trade territory. Local Relief Administration Announce Changes in May

BURL BEDFORD'S RESIGNATION AS COUNTY RELIEF ADMINISTRATOR TO BECOME EFFECTIVE MAY 10; CLIFFORD RHODES APPOINTED

Effective May 10th, Burl Bedford for the past several months administrator of County Relief Funds, will resign this position it has been announced.

Mr. Bedford, who has been administrator through the entire Civil Works Administration and recently during the new government relief plan, filed notice of his resignation the first of last week. Jeff D. Ayres, chairman of the County Relief Board, called a meeting for Friday afternoon at three o'clock when a new relief administrator was appointed.

Clifford Rhoades, for the past several months connected in the office department of the relief work, was appointed to succeed Mr. Bedford and his appointment to become effective on May 11, which is Friday. His appointment was given approval by F. M. Grazier, field supervisor for the state relief commission.

Other changes in the personnel of the county relief administrators office was the resignation of C. C. Huckabay, as certifying officer, and the appointment of J. U. Borum in this position. A reduction in administration expense allowance necessitated the removal of two other people of the office force in the county Wilma Fuller at the local office and Joe Nall at Lockney, Mr. Bedford said.

Under the latest relief plan most of the projects have been under way for several days. The court house lawn grass planting project was completed last week and the City Park Project here was expected to be completed the first of this week.

Expiration date on the projects was thirty days and after this time all work done will be after the pro-

Interest On Farm Indebtedness Is Curtailed By Refinancing Plans

Federal Land Bank and Land Bank Commissioner's far mortgage loans in Texas have refinanced farmers' indebtedness upon which annual interest charges formerly ran from 5 per cent to 9 per cent in most cases, it was shown in an analysis by the Farm Credit Administration of more than half the loans closed from June 1, 1933, through March 31, 1934.

The highest rate farmers now pay on the mortgages into which these debts have been refinanced is 5 per cent and on a large portion it is only 4 1-2 per cent. The savings resulting from reduced interest charges applies, of course, not merely to one year but to the life of the loan.

The analysis dealt only with interest rates paid on first and second mortgages, and upon short-term commercial bank loans. It did not deal with other classes of debt or many other untraceable items bearing upon the cost to farmers of carrying their debts, such as loan and renewal fees. The total of loans closed from June of last year through March of this year in Texas was about $67,400,000.

While the bulk of the loans refinanced carried rates from 5 per cent to 9 per cent, in a number of localities and in the cases of a number of loans, interest rates of 10 per cent were paid by farmers on their debts.

The average rate paid by farmers on mortgage debts refinanced with land bank loans in Texas was 6.3 per cent, while the average paid on short-term, commercial bank loans was 8 per cent. Corresponding figures for mortgage and short-term debts refinanced with Commissioner's loans were, respectively, 6.9 per cent and 8.8 per cent.

The average charge on all the indebtedness refinanced with land bank loans was 6.4 per cent. Against this rate farmers pay on their land bank loans 4 1-2 per cent interest until July 11, 1938, after which the rate becomes 5 per cent. Borrowers who obtained their loans directly from Federal land banks instead of through national farm loan associations pay a rate of 1-2 of 1 per cent higher.

The average interest rate on all debts of farmers refinanced with Commissioner's loans was 7.1 per cent, against which the farmers now pay a rate of 5 per cent.

French Motorists Eschew Blended Fuels; Demand Straight Gasoline

President J. Borton Weeks, of American Motorists Association, shows photographs received from France depicting sale of "gasoline guaranteed pure without alcohol," demanded by French motorists dissatisfied with alcohol-blend motor fuels.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Forcing motorists to use as fuel a blend of agricultural alcohol and gasoline, a so-called "farm relief" scheme now being promoted in the United States, apparently has been an unpopular measure in France. Motorists there have shown a preference for "straight gasoline," according to information received by J. Borton Weeks, president of the American Motorists Association.

The French, who recently demonstrated their dislike for high gasoline taxes by abandoning their cars in the streets, have used equally effective methods in opposing blended fuels. Their demands for straight gasoline forced filling stations to offer "essence pure garantie sans alcool," or "gasoline guaranteed pure without alcohol."

"This plan to compel French motorists to use blended fuels," Mr. Weeks explained, "was supposed to help French farmers get rid of their surplus crops from which the alcohol is made, just as the promoters of a similar scheme in this country say they want to help American farmers. In both cases the 'farm relief' is questionable and entirely at the expense of the motorist. Blended fuels cost more, and in this country a large share of the additional cost would be paid by the farmer, the largest single consumer of gasoline.

"Some time ago our Association translated from the original French and published 40 letters relating the experience of motorists with blended fuels. They were written in answer to a questionnaire circulated by the French National Federation of Automobile, Bicycle, Aeronautical, and Related Trades. The letters indicated general dissatisfaction with the blends, not only because of operating difficulties, but also because of damage to motor parts and car finishes. The one noticeable advantage, reduced knocking, was offset by the many disadvantages.

"This Association is opposed to legislation compelling American motorists to use any one type of fuel. Such legislation, even were blended fuels superior, would be vicious, unjust, and an outright violation of American principles of government and business conduct."

Courses For Oil Field Workers Being Offered By University Of Texas

Austin, Texas, May 1.—Courses for oil field workers, on nineteen different phases of work, have been outlined by the American Petroleum Institute's committee on vocational training in Oklahoma and Texas, and instructional manuals in the various courses are being prepared by the personnel workers who represent the oil companies in the two states, according to Ray L. Martin, foreman conference leader in the University of Texas Bureau of Industrial Teacher-Training, who is chairman of the Texas group of the committee.

Mr. Martin and his committee are at present working on courses in oil field mathematics and in the care and operation of internal combustion engines.

Classes for oil field workers have been established in Kilgore, Overton,

Pine Tree, Ranger, Breckenridge, Eastland and Pampa, Mr. Martin said. It is partly out of these classes that a realization of the need for instructional material has grown and it is to fill this need that the vocational material has grown and it is to fill this need that the vocational committee is planning the instructional manuals. These classes have been under the direction of trained and practically experienced vocational workers, and Mr. Martin expects to get much of the material for the manuals from them. Mr. Martin has also personally conducted eleven foreman conferences in the oil industry, and has gathered much information from this source. In practically every conference there has been revealed the need for employee training and in most cases employees' classes have been organized following the conferences.

Light for the Kitchen

By Helen G. Toland

ing, equipped with a 100-watt inside-frosted or a 150-watt daylight lamp bulb in an enclosing globe of diffusing glass.

Science bids you buy your lamp bulbs with care, for only thus can you be assured that they will be honest servants, giving you full value in light for current received. And remember that bulb finish means something, too. The blue daylight lamp bulbs provide a pure, clear quality of light, but they must be used consistently — everywhere in the kitchen or else not at all. They must also be used the next size larger than the clear or inside-frost lamps recommended for the same place.

In itself, a lamp bulb cannot provide good light for any seeing task. So, as the lamp shades are important for lighting fixtures elsewhere in the house, the enclosing glass globe is important in the kitchen. Through this, the light is sifted and softened, so that our eyes can assimilate and use it for seeing.

Keep Fixtures Clean

Science advises us further that the unit should be washed often, because if dust is allowed to accumulate on it as well as on the ceiling, you may lose as much as 40% of the light for which you are paying—in two ways. Your pocketbook is paying for current which goes into light that is absorbed by dirt, and so never reaches your eyes. Your poor cheated eyes are paying too, with energy stolen from funds intended for useful work.

To speed the tasks of mixing, baking and washing up afterward, there should be additional light provided at sink, range and cabinet. At each of these places, the unit close to the ceiling, carrying a 100-watt lamp bulb (150-watt daylight) in an enclosed globe is considered most desirable, because it is overhead and out of the way.

If this additional ceiling light is not practical, a wall bracket placed above the sink, about five feet from the floor, will prove a likely substitute. The placing of this bracket—five feet from the floor—is somewhat lower than usual, but it will be found a source of never-ending comfort. It is annoying to have to look into a bright electric light all the time you are cooking or washing dishes. Hence the wall bracket should be placed below (or else way above) eye-level. It should carry a 60-watt inside frost (100-watt daylight) lamp bulb, with the light directed down onto the work in hand by an eggshell or bell-shaped shade, made of glass, and as easily cleaned as a china cup.

"Such lighting is bound to make one's stay in the kitchen brighter and shorter," say scientists.

"Right light will make your stay in the kitchen brighter—and shorter," say scientists who recommend an enclosing glass globe with a 100-watt inside-frosted lamp for the center fixture, with additional lights provided at sink, range and cabinet.

NO matter whether she is her own cook and bottle-washer or not, every woman who manages a home knows that someone must spend several hours of every day in the kitchen. When she knows that good lighting might cut those hours almost in half, she will never be satisfied until she has adequate lighting in her own kitchen.

Light Speeds Work

To prove to her the relation of light to work, science might tell her about the laboratory experiment in which the lighting was doubled and then doubled again, with the result that the rate of working increased 80% for slow workers, 28% for fast workers. So, if Minnie is very slow, good lighting may enable her to do in a couple of hours what she used to take a whole morning to do.

Being eminently practical, science can tell you exactly what you must put into your lighting, to get so much out of it. First comes a center fixture placed close to the ceiling,

Pioneer Round Up At Plainview Saturday, May the 19th

Frontier Days on the plains will be revived at the Pioneer Round Up at Plainview May 19th. The largest gathering of old friends ever held in northwest Texas is expected to assemble to recall the days when they dug dugouts, punched cattle, fought the prairie fires and traveled a hundred miles to attend a square dance. In keeping with the old times there will be covered wagons, cowboys on horseback, packhorses, buggies, buckboards and many other reminders of the early day. This gathering will be held on the afternoon and night of Saturday May 19th. Besides the visiting there will be a parade at four o'clock p. m., a chuck wagon supper at six o'clock, program at eight o'clock, at the city auditorium followed by a square dance. This is the sixth annual gathering of the West Texas Pioneers and is sponsored each year by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Plainview.

Time On Seed Loan Applications Extended To May 15 Is Announced

Final date that applications for seed loans may be made has been extended to May 15, according to Mrs. Dona Covington, secretary. Notice of the extension was given by Fred M. Warren, field supervisor, of Plainview. April 30 had previously been set as the deadline for seed loan applications. Anyone, wishing to make a seed loan application should do so at the office of Mrs. Covington at the court house.

Now in all seriousness, it will profit you to read the Plainsman from page one to page four this week.

J. E. Hammitt, aged 57 years, 5 months and 12 days, died Thursday at his home near Lockney following a brief illness. Physicians said his death was caused from heart ailments and complications.

Jonathan Edward Hammitt was born in Earth County, Texas, September 21, 1876. He was married to Miss Lida McGlasson, of Dallas County, Texas, at the age of 17 years. To this union were born 9 children, two preceding him in death, Mae and Bessie. TWO MORE TEAMS FOR TWILIGHT LEAGUE TO BE ORGANIZED

Members of the board of directors of the Floydada Twilight Soft Ball League, in a meeting Saturday decided to organize two more teams in the league to make a total of 8 in the entire organization.

The other teams, organized of which is under way this week, will start active play on league schedule next week. Remainder of this week will be carried on as before with six teams, playing on the regular schedule.

Under the new organization plan for the two new teams a limit will be set for teams at 20 men. Managers of the six teams, already organized and playing, will select their twenty men and the remainder signed up on their club will be released to a miscellaneous list. These released players, together with those players listed on the secretary's miscellaneous list, will comprise the other two teams.

Rising interest in the baseball league brought about the necessity of two more teams and the board of directors were of the opinion that all players should be given an opportunity in the games.
