Harmony Community Residents Sell Their Beef And Can It Too

An old adage that "You can't eat your cake and have it too", may be true but several families of the Harmony community demonstrated last week that you can "sell your beef and have it too" when they saved several cows slaughtered in the government cattle buying program.

Seventeen families of this community, southwest of Floydada, hit upon the idea of a community-wide canning program to save the good beef, that although condemned for shipping purposes was fit for canning. A solid concrete cellar at the R. B. Gary Lakeside home, 13 miles southwest of Floydada, was utilized, it being converted into a refrigeration system.

Each of the 17 families paid in cents and this amount went to buy ice. 1800 pounds was used the first day and 1500 pounds the second day. The beef was hung from scaffolds built in the cellar and the ice blocks were placed between each quarter of beef. The door of the cellar was made air-tight by the use of a wagon sheet and was kept wet down during the day and night. Mr. Gary's cellar is 10 by 12 feet in dimensions and gave plenty of room for a large ice vault.

120 quarters or 30 whole beefs were canned Mr. Gray estimated, the entire number of cans estimated at about 800. As the beef was brought to the improvised ice vault for freezing each quarter was tagged with the name of the owner on it. After freezing the beef was carried to one of the homes for canning.

"By this method we managed to save all of the good beef in the lot not shipped by the government buyers and have plenty of beef canned for this winter," Mr. Gray said.

MAGNOLIA PRODUCTS ARE PROVEN IN RECENT TRANSCONTINENTAL TEST

Using Mobil and Mobilgas exclusively, an Airflow De Soto has just crossed America, from New York to San Francisco at an entire cost of $31.57 for gas and oil, according to data received from the technical staff of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, refiners and distributors of Mobiloil and Mobilgas. No attempt was made to set any speed records, as the trip was purely an economy test, officially supervised and sanctioned by the American Automobile Association, to show how little it need cost the average motorist to cross the country in a modern car, using modern gasoline and motor oil.

The test was followed with intense interest by Magnolia agents and dealers throughout the Southwestern States as it verified their statements regarding the economy of these world famous products.

An official economy mark of 21.42 miles per gallon of gasoline was set on the 3,019 mile trip and the Mobiloil was changed each thousand miles, no other additional oil being used. Harry Hartz, famous racing driver who piloted the car, termed the transcontinental run a real test of Mobiloil and Mobilgas.

"Four days of travel over roads of all descriptions in altitudes ranging from sea level to 7,535 feet, in heat and in cold, showed us that Mobiloil and Mobilgas perform under any and all conditions," Mr. Hartz said. "It is a comforting fact to know that these products are of uniform high quality right across America and will give perfect performance in any climate or altitude without even a minor carburetor adjustment."

Mobiloil and Mobilgas were purchased at Socony-Vacuum stations en route, and the trip was made in about the same time a train would have required for the journey. About 38 miles per hour actual driving time was made, in spite of headwinds, rain, sandstorms and other trials which proved the ability of Mobilgas and Mobiloil to maintain consistently satisfactory performance under any circumstances.

Final date on Emergency Feed Loans from the government has been set as August 15, according to information received by Miss Wilma Fuller, in charge of taking of applications for Floyd County.

"In connection with Emergency Feed Loans, applications for funds to finance the planting of forage crops referred to in the regulations, will be accepted to August 15, 1934", the correspondence reads. After that date the allowance of $1.00 per acre will be withdrawn.

All applications for 1934 Emergency Feed Loans should originate in the county in which the land and or livestock is located. Under no circumstances should a committee clerk accept an application from an applicant whose livestock to be fed and or forage crops to be planted are located in another county. For example, if an applicant lives in Dallas county and his livestock to be fed or land to be planted is located in Collin county, his application must originate in Collin county.

In making supplemental application 25 days after the first check is received, it will be necessary that before application can be approved that the borrower make an agreement with the county representation of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration buying organization of your county that his herds and or flocks have been or will be called according to the A. A. Program.

All applicants making applications for first loans must have as much as a $25.00 loan. Loans will be made on cows as follows: Cows, 1 to 5 years, $3.00 per head per month; steers, one year and over, $3.00. Hogs, (limited to brood sows, boars and gilts), but no allowance for stags, barrows and small pigs, $1.00 per head.

The Legislature shall fix the compensation of District Judges, District Attorneys, County Judges and the County Commissioners and may provide for a County auditor and prescribe his duties and fix his compensation and the number and compensation of his assistants. The Commissioners Court shall fix the compensation of and determine the number of deputies, assistants and clerical personnel of all precinct officers and county officers except the county auditor.

(e) In any and all cases where provisions of the Constitution of this State are in conflict with the provisions of this Amendment, the provision of this Amendment (Section 2-A, Article IX) shall control; provided, however, should any county adopt a Home Rule Charter under authority of any provisions of the State Constitution or Amendment thereto, this Amendment shall not be applicable to such county.

HEAT TESTED AT DEATH VALLEY

Temperature 130°

here's what happened...

On a sun-scorched desert track at Death Valley, two popular priced automobiles were subjected to the most brutal punishment ever conceived to test the quality of motor oil.

Imagine running 1,000 miles in low gear... 1,000 miles in second gear... then 10 hours without radiator or water... mile after mile without stop!

With the thermometer sizzling around 130 degrees, motor temperatures jumped terrifically... beyond anything you'll ever experience.

Yet, protected by Mobiloil, both motors functioned perfectly. No power loss... no bearing failures... no scored cylinders... no motor trouble!

THE GOAT COLUMN

And the Goat Column has broken another heart and the artist of this column extends deepest sympathy.

Here is how it all happened. Many people have asked why the goat column was lacking in the past two issues and now you can read the heart rending tale.

Someone, we do not know who, staked their goat, a nanny goat, just across the street from the Plainsman office. As the goat column artist hammered away writing the column he was inspired by looking across the street at the nanny goat.

One day, after the column had been written and the proof sheet hung on the file, along came a strong puff of wind and carried the proof sheet along right out the door and across the street to within distance of the staked goat. Missus Goat in the course of her grazing saw the goat column proof sheet with Mr. Goat gazing serenely and affectionately at her from the paper.

Now this particular goat, if you know her as the goat column artist does, is a very sentimental lady. She looked at the goat on the proof sheet and called to him, not so melodiously but effectively, but received no answer. Missus Goat repeated the pleading for Mr. Goat to "come up 'n see her" but received no response. Then amidst many falling tears she plaintively plead with the proof sheet goat for the last time.

After the third attempt to get Mr. Goat from the paper, Mrs. Goat changed her attitude and became angered and downed the proof sheet, goat, political comment and all.

Mrs. Retta Horn, and daughter, Mrs. Willet Waddel, and son Jeff, and Mrs. Clyde Chandler, all of McKinney, arrived Friday for a visit in Floydada with Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Horn. Mrs. Horn is Mr. Horn's mother, Mrs. Waddel his sister and Mrs. Chandler a niece. They return home this mid-week.

Pigeon Roost Settlement Wiped Out by Marauders

What was known as the Pigeon Roost settlement in Indiana consisted of several families that made a little community in what is now Scott county, says a writer in the Indianapolis News. This settlement, founded in 1800, was separated from any other by several miles, and was confined to about a square mile of territory. On September 3, 1812, it was attacked by a band of about twelve marauders, said to have been Shawnees who, scouring the locality, going from cabin to cabin, murdered within an hour twenty-two persons—sixteen of them children and five women. Prior to this general killing two men were shot in the woods. Most of the cabin homes were burned. A spirited fight in the house of William Collings, in which three Indians were killed, probably prevented a greater slaughter, as the check to the savages enabled the rest of the settlement to escape to the blockhouses that stood within a few miles. Several spectacular escapes have been recorded. The news of the massacres was carried to Charlestown, Clark county, and by 2 p. m. the next day, 200 armed men reached the scene, where only one house remained standing. They took up the trail of the savages, but never caught up with them. Two children were carried away by the Indians, Glasey McCoy, age three, and a boy, Peter Huffman. They were later returned to their people, but went back to the Indians afterward. In 1903 an appropriation was made by legislature for a monument of Bedford limestone, 44 feet high, which was dedicated October 1, 1904, at the spot where the massacre victims were buried.

Water Power Was Used in Mills of Ancient Romans

The origin of water mills is buried in the depths of antiquity, for they are mentioned by Pliny, and are said to have been introduced into England by the Romans, writes R. Angus Downie in the Edinburgh Scotsman. Yet they remained unknown in Scotland prior to the twelfth century, and did not become anything like common throughout the country for a hundred years. Before their introduction wheat was ground by bruising in a quern, a method followed in the Bronze age, and depicted upon the rock tombs of predynastic Egypt. When St. Columba studied under Finian he bruised wheat with a quern each evening, and at Iona caused his disciples so to grind their daily meals.

Up to the middle of the Eighteenth century water power was only applied to the grinding of oats. The other processes of production were carried on by the labor of human hands. After the harvest was cut the grain was separated by the use of the flail. In 1710 James Meikle introduced the use of fanners to remove the loose chaff, but his invention was opposed by religious farmers, who regarded the raising of wind as interfering with dispensation of Providence, and it only came gradually into general use. Barley was ground by bruising in a mortar or "knocking stone," until about 1750, when these humble, crude, and wasteful methods were replaced by mills for grinding barley.

No Envelopes With Letters

Prior to 1845, although postage stamps had been under discussion for several years in this country, their use on letters was not practical on account of the many and varying postal rates then in effect. The old rates were a relic of Colonial times and were based on two factors, distance and the number of sheets of paper a letter contained. Six cents was the rate for a single-sheet letter for a distance not exceeding 30 miles; 10 cents up to 80 miles; 12 1/2 cents, 150 miles; 18 1/2 cents, 400 miles, and for distances over 400 the rate was 25 cents. A letter of two sheets of paper took double these rates, three sheets treble and so on.

In order to secure the minimum rate a letter was written on one side of a sheet of paper, the sheet folded to letter size with the correspondence inside and the outside blank to receive the address. The folded letter was sealed at the post office after the clerk had checked the contents. Prepared envelopes were considered an extra sheet of paper and as such subject to additional postage, which accounts for their almost total absence from mail matter before the rates came to be based on weight.

Argentine Plant "Locust Wall"

Argentina has ordered hundreds of miles of very smooth galvanized iron sheeting to be used in building walls across the country to stop invading locusts. The sheeting will cost $2,500,000 and construction expenses will be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The government plans to fight the locust when he is a crawler, before his wings develop. It is then that he begins his devastating march. A polished wall of iron sheeting will prove too smooth to climb, and if the locusts crawl along the barrier they eventually will land in a trap. Men will be stationed there with rakes to get the unwelcome visitors into large pits, where they will be destroyed.

FAIR PLANS BIG FARM PROGRAM

Barn Dance, Rural Event Featured at Chicago Aug. 11 to 18.

Chicago.—Four million persons have entered the gates of the new World's Fair since it opened here May 26. Most of the throngs that have thrilled to the new spectacle, the new "foreign villages" which offer in themselves a "tour of the world," the new shows and the new free entertainment projects are city dwellers. Chicagoans, visitors from other cities all over the United States and visitors from foreign countries have poured in, in large numbers.

But the real farmer-visitors' invasion of a Century of Progress has not yet begun. It will reach its peak when the Fair celebrates Farm Week, from August 11 to August 18, inclusive. Last year Farm Week accounted for the largest single week's attendance of the entire Fair. Plans to make the celebration interesting and important to farmers are even more elaborate now than last year, according to the events division of the exposition.

W. L. S. Barn Dance at Fair.

Saturday, August 11, will lead off the program with a massive farm parade, including bands, farm implements, machinery and equipment and farm animals. Depicting the modernization of agriculture, it will be one of the longest and most comprehensive pageants of the entire exposition.

Sunday, August 12, will see special music and farm programs interlinked with the observance of Chicago Incorporation day, with Chicago acting as host to the out-of-town multitudes.

Rexford Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, has been invited to be the principal speaker of the Farm Organization day program Monday, Tuesday will be farm radio day, with the entire W. L. S. "Farm Dance" cast presenting a program in the Court of States; 40,000 persons saw this event in 1933.

Aerial Sham Battle Planned.

The farmer's wife will have her day Wednesday, August 15, which has been named Farm Women's day, with special programs arranged to pay tribute to the women who battled to carve a nation out of the wilderness. Farm Youth day, Thursday, will be full of recognition of the future farmers of the land, with emphasis on 4-H club work.

Programs of interest to rural newspapers and magazines will feature Farm Press day, Friday, Saturday, August 18, will be farm music day, with its high spot the gigantic Chicago Land Music festival in Soldier Field, adjoining the fair grounds. This annual event has attracted more than a half million persons in the four years of its existence. This day will also see many special contests, such as milk-maid, husband-calling and hog-calling contests.

Saturday is also Illinois day. There will be a review of 10,000 troops and demonstrations by anti-aircraft artillery units, shooting with tracer bullets at balloon targets towed by airplanes.

Farm Exhibits Are Many.

During Farm Week parties of farmers will be taken on free guided tours of the fair grounds. Farm visitors, with only a limited time to spend, will this way be able to see everything of vital interest to them.

Henry Ford's industrialized barn, where he shows how the farmer may, at low cost, raise soy beans, obtain the residue and process it himself, making industrial products for which he can obtain a profitable revenue, is one of the new exhibits. Another is the International Harvester company's radio-controlled tractor, which demonstrates how farming may some day be done from an easy chair on the veranda. Model farm homes will attract many rural sightseers, as will the exhibits of the great packing plants and the automobile manufacturers.

The Brook Hill Dairy farm, with its model farm of 1950, shows the last word in modern milk production, from cow to bottle. The International Egg Laying contest is a huge laboratory where the farmer may study the latest egg-production methods first-hand. Scores of commercial exhibitors will have displays of prime interest to Farm Week visitors.

Special Rates Lower Cost.

Special railroad and bus rates will make it easier for the farmer to get to the Fair this summer. Automobile agencies and oil stations will give him assistance in highway travel. At the Fair, he will find costs surprisingly low. Restaurants are cheaper, transportation is cheaper, there is plentiful free entertainment and eighty per cent of all the comfort stations are free.

Probably one of the leading attractions for rural visitors will be the foreign villages, so faithful in their reproductions of life and scenes in fifteen countries that they offer the equivalent of a tour of the world right on the fair grounds.

Improper Pruning Cuts Fruit Yield

Better to Leave Tree Alone Than Follow Program of Butchery.

By R. S. Marsh, Horticultural Specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois—W.S.U. Service.

In spite of the fact that pruning has been practiced for more than 2,500 years, there are still many misconceptions of this horticultural operation affecting the fruit income on farms. In the ten years of 1923-1932 inclusive the state of Illinois' apple and peach crops alone averaged $8,921,100 annually.

Pruning should aid the tree in its natural habit of growth and in its battle against the enemies of disease, insects and adverse weather conditions. However, it is better to allow the tree to go unpruned than to practice some of the popular methods of butchery.

The principal accomplishment in pruning is the modification of the tree form and size, although the practice will affect the color, size and quality of the fruit. The form of the tree should not be changed radically, and its size must not be reduced too much. If maximum yields are to be obtained, on the younger apple, pear and cherry trees, the more wood that is removed by pruning, the smaller the crop produced and the longer it takes the non-bearing trees to come into production.

On older trees the removal of non-vigorous wood thins out the branches so that resulting fruit is of improved color and size. This thinning does not reduce the yield on some varieties, if done carefully, and does permit a more thorough job of spraying for the control of insects and diseases.

When fruit trees are first planted, important training can be accomplished by pruning and disbudding. During the first two seasons of growth, proper training will produce strong trees that will live a long time. Such trees will require less pruning later on.

Lack of Iron in Rations Cause of Anemia in Pigs

Anemia in suckling pigs is caused by lack of iron in the ration of the pig, says the department of animal husbandry at Cornell university. It is pointed out that at the present time it is impossible to increase the iron content of the milk by feeding iron to the sow and other means must be used to prevent attacks of anemia.

When sows and litters are confined indoors on concrete and wooden floors, members of the department say, the pigs may become so anemic that they die before weaning time, and recommend the use of a saturated solution of ferrous sulphate to prevent anemia. The iron solution may be prepared by dissolving one pound of dried ferrous sulphate, or an ordinary grade of coppers, in one quart of hot water.

Treatments with this solution as outlined by the department are: swabbing the udder of the sow once daily until the pigs are six weeks old; or drenching the pigs once a week until the pigs are four or preferably six weeks of age. When pigs cannot feed in a creep or self-feeder, probably they should be drenched once a week until they are six weeks old.

Buds on Tree Differ

Botany teaches us that buds and fruits are but the extensions of the twig growth, just as our hair and finger nails are outgrowths of the skin. The old-fashioned theory that all the buds from a tree of certain variety are identical is disproved by literally thousands of instances. Buds partake of the same cell characteristics as the branch on which they grow. A branch whose genetic factor produces solid red apples will produce solid red apples consistently, while a branch whose cell factors are mixed will produce mixed colored apples consistently.—Greening Nursery.

Sudan Grass Popular

Sudan grass attained a high degree of popularity as a summer pasture for cattle last season, and it is to be expected that more farmers will look to it as an emergency pasture crop this next summer, according to the Ohio Farmer. Dairy farmers have found it particularly useful because it makes its best growth in August when bluegrass and other pastures are drying up. It is generally sown in June after the soil has warmed up, and in about six weeks it is ready to pasture.

Habits of Goat Grass

Goat grass is a wild relative of cultivated wheat, a winter annual. The seedlings emerge in the fall, and the plants mature the following spring about the time wheat is ready to harvest. Seedlings and young plants are difficult to distinguish from wheat plants. The leaves are narrower than those of wheat plants, and have hairs along the edges near the base, a character lacking in wheat. The grass tillers profusely, and when abundant it not infrequently crowds out the wheat.

You've seen life's Springtime bring its joys.
You've known its every pleasure;
And all your childhood's happy days,
You're bound to ever treasure.

And, then you've passed the Summer-time,
That marks the patch of life,
And you've shared its pleasures one by one,
And, you've known its care and strife.

And now, today, you've passed the turn
In the path that leads to rest;
And the lengthening shadows that dim the way,
Fall gently from the West.

We hope these shadows as they fall,
Enfold you, free from harm;
And may your yet remaining years,
Hold peace, and joy, and charm.

BILIOUS

Condition Needs Double Action Treatment

Stimulation of liver bile flow is not enough for complete relief, but combined with intestinal stimulation that relieves temporary constipation, quick, soothing results are certain. Herbine, a combination of herbs, combines BOTH actions and so those dizzy, headachy, indigestions, gas, rundown feelings get relieved when both liver and bowels return to normal action. Get your bottle of Herbine from druggists.

WHITE DRUG COMPANY

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW about your TELEPHONE

In 1876 Alexander Graham Bell finally perfected the telephone. The first voice heard over wires was Bell's, when he called through his instrument to his assistant, "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you!"

At the great Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, however, Bell's exhibit was almost unnoticed. His problem was but half solved. He had his telephone. How was he to convince people they could use it?

Bell wisely left that problem to his father-in-law, Gardiner G. Hubbard. Hubbard and a group of friends hit upon the idea of licensing other companies to use Bell's patents. In exchange they accepted stock in those companies. Thus was laid the groundwork for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company of today, parent organization of the 24 regional companies, of which the Southwestern Company is one.

FOR YOU . . . Good Service at Fair Cost

Over more than 50 years of operation the fundamental policy of the Bell group, as guided by this parent organization, has been to give good service at a fair cost.

Behind it is our belief that in an undertaking planned like the telephone service for the long pull, what is best for you as a telephone user becomes in the end the policy that will bring us the sounder, more enduring success.
