Floydada Fire Department Organizes Football Team

Floydada's Fire Department members have organized a football squad and within the near future will be seen in grid clashes with outside and professional teams. The first practice was held this week and workouts are being held daily.

Members of the fire department, many of whom are former high school stars and a few college men, together with some outsiders compose the squad. J. C. Wester, ex-coach of the Floydada High Whirlwinds, is in charge of the firemen, being coach and manager.

Negotiations are underway to secure a game with Barksdale's All-Stars of Littlefield. No games will be played until after the season is over for the Floydada High Whirlwinds after which the firemen will use the equipment of the high school team.

Many Ex-Students From Floyd County Attended W. T. S. T. C. Homecoming

The "Silver Jubilee" of West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon attracted from Floyd County many ex-students during the week end. Scores of ex-students from all over the state joined in celebrating the twenty-fifth birthday of the school. Interesting programs, on which appeared a number of nationally known speakers, were featured during the anniversary. Visitors were present from every class since 1912.

Floyd County had one of the largest delegations in attendance. Many of the teachers in Floyd County and the majority of the teachers in the Floydada Public Schools are former students in West Texas State Teachers College.

Also in attendance were students in McMurray college, Abilene, from Floyd County, who with many others witnessed the McMurray Indians and W. T. S. T. C. football game Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harris and family were visitors in Levelland Sunday.

Emergency Crop And Feed Loan Office Weekly News

Wilma Fuller, Committee Clerk.

"Farmers and stockowners in the primary drouth areas may now obtain feed loan allowances for purchased cows, heifers or bulls acquired for breeding purposes since April 1, 1934," according to a statement today by Charles W. Sherrill, regional manager of the emergency crop and feed loan office, Farm Credit Administration, at Dallas. Previously, loans were not made to purchase feed for stock acquired after April 1. "The feed loans for recently acquired stock," Mr. Sherrill said, "will enable cattlemen in the drouth areas to keep up their foundation herds." No advances will be made to purchase feed for newly acquired stock brought into drouth areas from another state or for animals acquired from a person who did not own them prior to April 1. The total number of cattle including newly acquired stock, for which feed loan allowances are now available may not exceed the number owned on October 1, or the number which the applicant will own after culling his herd in accordance with requirements of the cattle purchase program.

Since early in July, when the emergency feed loans were first made available, more than 52,000 of such loans and supplemental advances have been made, totaling over $2,900,000. The loans are disbursed from the drouth relief appropriation approved June 19, 1934. Applications may be made to the local crop and feed loan committee in the applicant's county. The Dallas office serves the states of Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico.

Whirlwinds Win Easily Over Paducah Dragons In Second Conference Tilt

Floydada High School's Whirlwinds easily trampled the Paducah Dragons Friday afternoon to win their second conference game by a score of 32 to 0. The game was played on Paducah High School field.

From the first whistle the game was the Whirlwinds. Leader, Whirlwind stellar halfback, led the scoring for the green and white. Early in the first quarter he galloped almost unopposed for the touchdown. Floydada scored again in the first half when Mathews, who has returned to activity after being out due to an arm injury, run over for another six points. Leader kicked the extra point and the first half ended with the score Floydada 13, Paducah 0.

In the second half Allen caught a pass over the goal line to add another counter. Smith, end, repeated the action again in the third quarter making the score Floydada 25, Paducah 0. Leader kicked extra point bringing the count to 26 to 0. Leader scored again in the second half making the count Floydada 32, Paducah 0.

All in all the game was slow, the Dragons offering very little opposition to the Whirlwinds and the game was marked with very few sensational plays. Practically all the Whirlwind substitutes saw service during the afternoon.

Floydada was well supported by fans, a large number accompanying the team and the pep squad.

Mark W. Duncan, of Lubbock, was a business visitor in Floydada Wednesday of this week.

C. D. Davis Pleads Guilty To Two Burglary Counts, Gets 2 years Each

C. D. Davis pled guilty in Floyd County District Court yesterday and drew two years on each of the two charges of burglary. The case was the outgrowth of the robbery of the Dougherty Q. A. & P. depot and the C. S. Ray Grocery in the same community.

Roy Snow, implicated in the same robberies, was given a two year suspended sentence. He had been in jail for six months until filing a plea of guilty yesterday.

Last week in the case of Roy Snodgrass et ux vs. Great Southern Life Company et al the jury reported Friday afternoon that they were unable to agree and they were dismissed.

Monday morning a jury was selected to try the case of Claud Thornton vs. Lockney Cotton Oil Company. Presentation of evidence was begun Monday afternoon but after the court was well into the case a motion by the plaintiff to withdraw the announcement that he was ready for trial was made, and the case dismissed. The same case resulted in a hung jury some time ago. The same jury used Monday has been called back for court today.

The petit jury for the second week will be used in the fourth week of court starting Monday morning.

The grand jury reconvened Monday to assume their duties. It dismissed for the term Tuesday after returning four bills of indictment, making a total of 8 bills for felony indictment returned during the term.

Governor-Designate James V. Allred Spoke To County Judges Ass'n

Fort Worth, October 25th.—Fulfilling a campaign pledge to talk frankly with the people about the problems of government, governor-designate James V. Allred delivered a second address in explanation of proposed constitutional amendments relative to taxation. Allred addressed the County Judges Association.

"With a $12,000,000 treasury deficit this state is facing a financial crisis," Allred said. "The present Legislative Special Session is being urged to appropriate many million more. Add to this the ever mounting relief burdens and surely every citizen must realize that something must be done to equalize oppressive tax burdens."

"Real estate and other tangible property simply cannot bear any further increase of the tax load," declared Allred. "Not only that, but the existing tax burden on tangible property and real estate must be materially reduced."

"While real estate and tangible property represent only half of the wealth of the state it bears 97% of the tax burden. The other half such as stocks, bonds, money, notes, mortgages and other intangible wealth bears only 3% of the tax burden. This is decidedly unfair," Allred said.

"This grave injustice in our tax system can be righted on November 6th if the oppressed taxpayers will vote for the constitutional amendment that appears first on the ballot. Amendment No. 1 authorizes a classification of property for tax purposes and will enable the Legislature to add untold millions to the tax rolls that now escape taxation altogether."

"Amendment No. 1 should not be confused with Amendment No. 3 on the ballot. Amendment No. 3 seeks to place a per capita limit upon state revenues and expenditures. If this amendment had been in force the past two years it would have reduced state revenues approximately $40,000,000. That would have been ruinous to our schools and vital governmental agencies. Every friend of the public schools and of efficient state government is against Amendment No. 3.

"I urge that the people be not deceived about these proposed amendments," Allred said. "Amendment No. 1 should be adopted and Amendment No. 3 should be defeated. The moneyed interests and designing politicians are trying to confuse the people either with the slogan 'swat the mail,' or with the absurd statement that Amendment No. 1 might in some manner affect the $3,000 homestead exemption."

"In order that real estate may be relieved of the crushing tax burden it now bears, I urge the people of Texas to vote for Amendment No. 1. In order that our schools may be kept open and the vital functions of government may be efficiently carried on, I urge the defeat of Amendment No. 3."

Floydada Whirlwinds To Meet Lubbock B-Team Here Friday Afternoon

Floydada High School's Whirlwinds are making preparations for a tough game Friday afternoon when they meet the Lubbock High School B-Team on Whirlwind field at 3:30 o'clock.

With two conference victories to their credit the Whirlwinds are only one game off from a stiff conference encounter with the Matador High School Matadors. Lubbock's B-Team is a strong eleven and is expected to show the Whirlwinds some real football tactics Friday afternoon.

At the time Floydada and Lubbock are playing the Matador Bullfighters will be taking on the Spur Bulldogs in a conference battle. Just who Floydada will be compelled to defeat to put them in high conference standing will be determined in that game.

Misses Jesse Mae Wood and Oleta Jackson and Mrs. Douglas Hollums were visitors in Plainview Sunday afternoon.

"EASY MONEY" IS GONE FOREVER

We hear a good many people talking about "Recovery" as if they believed that the aim and purpose of all the things that are being undertaken in the name of that commendable objective was to bring back the "easy-money" days of the later 1920's. We don't think that any thoughtful men, in or out of politics, expect or desire anything of the sort.

Those days were times when the hope and belief that there was some short-cut to riches prevailed a large section of the American people. We fear that there are many ambitious young men today who cherish the same sort of hope. We believe that most of them are doomed to disappointment.

To be sure, not many people actually did get rich in a hurry, but everybody, figuratively speaking, had a try at it. And enough achieved sudden wealth to inspire others with the belief that it was easy. As a matter of fact, it never was easy.

The public simply didn't hear about the hard, patient work that those who succeeded did before riches began to come their way; they only heard of them after they had won their wealth.

We do not understand that there is a purpose, anywhere, to restore conditions under which anybody can expect or hope to get rich without working even harder for them than those who gained them in the past worked. There always have been, always will be, a few to whom making money is a natural talent, who, under any social scheme, will always accumulate more than the majority. And we believe that there are as many opportunities as ever, perhaps more than ever, for the accumulation of wealth.

It seems to us, however, that for a good many years to come there is going to be a much closer scrutiny of the means whereby men become wealthy, and important riches are not going to be earned except by those who, in earning them, do something which definitely benefits society as a whole.

OLD AGE PENSIONS FOR EVERYONE

The movement for nation-wide old-age pensions seems to be growing with great rapidity. We are not referring now to the California project of giving every person over sixty years old two hundred dollars a month to spend, but to more carefully thought out plans, such as several states have tried, of seeing to it that no person who is past the age of useful, productive work, shall be permitted to starve or freeze to death.

The human race has come a long way up the ladder of moral evolution. Among some aboriginal tribes it is still the custom to kill off the old men and women when they can no longer bear their share of the social burden of subsistence. It is sanctioned by long-established custom and is regarded as neither sinful nor criminal. In some of the islands of the South Seas the elderly, when they feel their powers failing, quietly remove themselves by plunging into the shark-infested lagoons.

In a Christian civilization, however, we cannot contemplate with equanimity a system which permits the aged to drag out their declining years in misery and want. The system of herding them into poorhouses served for a century or two, but it put the stigma of pauperism upon all of the inmates.

Any system of old-age pensions, it seems to us, if it is to conform to the humanitarian spirit of the age, must apply to all alike, whether destitute or not. If a J. P. Morgan or a Rockefeller reaches the pension age, he should get his monthly check just the same as the destitute day-laborer or farm-hand. Only in that way will the stigma of pauperism be avoided.

Electricity in Body, but No Electric Organ

There is no special electric organ in the human body as there is in certain types of fishes—the electric eel, etc. Electric sparks and discharges from the hair and skin are usually symptoms of frictional electricity. For example, the friction of the leather soles of shoes on the woolen rugs in a heated house may produce enough electricity to cause sparks to jump from the person's fingers to a lamp fixture or metal hinge. Atmospheric conditions and differences in the conditions of muscular, nervous and general health may account for individual differences with regard to these electric sparks.

According to textbooks of physiology, every contraction of a muscle, the secretion of a gland, and probably also nutritional changes in the tissues, are associated with electrical phenomena, which may be demonstrated by a sensitive galvanometer and suitable methods. Before any muscular contraction there is a change in the electrical condition of the muscle, and even the heart beats are said to be associated with electrical phenomena. Similar electrical changes are also found in the living nerves.—Detroit News.

Soldier Bonus Demands Traced to Indian Wars

The bonus for former warriors is as old as the Indian wars of the early settlers, according to an authority, who reviews the fight between the English settlers in Connecticut with the Pequots, which occurred in 1637.

The Pequots, most feared tribe in Connecticut, had subjugated the other Indians and the determination of the white settlers on a war, though they were inexperienced in Indian fighting, was a "remarkable action to take," the writer says.

The general court decided on the war at Hartford, May 1, 1637, and by July 13, the same year, the Indian power had been broken. The white men struck quickly, killing men, women and children as they drove the Indians from the state. Then came the aftermath, just as it has in modern days.

The Indian fighters demanded bonuses, and were given lands in the former country of the Pequots, now New London county. Taxes were increased and increased interest in preparation for other wars was noted. The leaders then fighting wrote their memoirs, and alterations arose as to who won the war.

Roll Call in Congress

There is no requirement that the roll be called at the beginning of each day's session of congress. It is called at the opening of the term to ascertain whether all the states are represented, and a roll call is directed by the speaker of the house or the president of the senate before an action which requires a two-thirds vote. For the rest of the time, a roll call may be had whenever any member cares to raise the point of a quorum, if a substantial minority supports his request. It requires 35 minutes to call the roll in the house; in the senate, considerably less time. When a part of one of the bodies desires to delay proceedings for one reason or another, frequent and repeated roll calls help to accomplish the purpose.

Public Executions

In the early days of Ohio execution by hanging was public and no step was omitted which might by publicity tend to deter persons from committing capital offenses. Before the condemned man was hanged his funeral was "preached," whilst other means were taken to show the consequences of homicide. For example, in 1825 in Newark a murderer was condemned to be hanged, the gallows were erected, the grave dug, the coffin made, the shroud procured, and the condemned man vested in it. He was then placed within the coffin, while the sermon was "preached" to a large audience, assembled to the services which were to be followed by the execution.

Abyssinians Dance in Churches

In Abyssinia are strangely preserved many forgotten rites of the ancient Hebrews and the first Christians. After the Queen of Sheba's visit to King Solomon, it is said 12,000 Hebrews of the best families in Jerusalem settled in the land. The descendants of these people today form the aristocracy of Abyssinia and are Christian. On the other hand, another contingent of Hebrews came to Abyssinia after the destruction of the Temple at Jerusalem, and have remained faithful to the original Jewish religion. It is an interesting fact that the Abyssinians still dance in their churches, as the Israelites did before the Ark.

Remarkable Descendants

From Jonathan Edwards, president of Princeton university who married Sarah Pierpont in 1727 have descended—12 college presidents, 65 college professors, 90 physicians, 90 authors, 80 judges, 80 state governors, 100 lawyers, 100 clergymen, 265 college graduates, 1 congressman, 2 United States senators and 1 United States Vice President.

Making The Home More Livable

Lamps Must Qualify For Seeing As Well As Decoration

By Jean Prentice

THE living room needs dressing up! This is the decision of many a home maker who, at this time of the year, casts a long critical glance at the center of family life for the longer evenings—the living room—and decides that something must be done.

She does well to give particular attention to the selection of floor and table lamps, because here at her finger tips is a chance to enlist the magic of lovely and adequate light.

Not with just ANY lamp of course! Big strides have been made in the style and lighting qualities of lamps, and the one that Aunt Sue gave to Mary on her wedding day may be wholly inadequate now.

The lamps pictured here have scientific sanction for several reasons. The one beside the chair boasts a brand new feature straight from the research laboratories. In its upper portion it has one single bulb that, by a twist of one's wrist, can be made to give three different amounts of light.

A white glass bowl within the shade sheds a big cone of cheerful light downward. The lamp is not an oasis of light in a desert of darkness in your room, however, for the bowl reflects light upwards also. The three-candle unit showing beneath the shade is mainly for decoration, but can be used for additional reading light.

Points to remember are that a floor lamp should be 54 to 64 inches high, conforming with the decorative scheme. It should radiate light or the rest of the room as well as your book. If it has a light-colored shade, that "certain something" called "tone" will be added. To get the most out of a floor lamp, bulbs totaling at least 120 watts should be used.

Other arrangements of living room furniture call for different types of lamps.

The two bridge lamps at top left illustrate important points. A shade that must be tilted causes glare which is harmful to eyes. These bridge lamp shades make tilting unnecessary. Both can be adjusted by moving up or down. Each takes a 60 or 75-watt bulb.

And you'll want to hear about the floor lamp, below at right. It is the new Reading and Study Lamp approved by the Illuminating Engineering Society. Using a 100 or 150-watt bulb, it not only gives marvelous light to read by, but provides excellent general illumination.

Does the table lamp at bottom left seem a little larger than those generally used? It is—and should be generally used? It is—and should be generally used? It is—and should be generally used? It is—and should be generally used?

Regardless of what lamps you finally decide upon, remember that the prime requisite is that they give adequate glareless light for seeing. Otherwise they have no place in an up-to-date living room.

THE SECOND QUESTION A DOCTOR ASKS . . .

Here is some information that has relieved whole families from Constipation

When anyone is "out of sorts" the doctor's first question is about the bowels. And the second, what is being taken to help them. Doctors use laxatives, and expect you to use them. But they prefer a liquid laxative. Do you know why? Doctors and hospitals use liquid laxatives because they've seen the damage sometimes done by highly concentrated drugs in the form of pills or tablets! They know that a properly made liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative) does not do this harm. And they use liquid laxatives to relieve the bowels, because the dose can be easily regulated.

What to Use

There is a preparation of fine herbs, pure pepsin, cascara, and senna which does away with all need of harsh cathartics. The active senna in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is laxative enough for any adult, mild enough for any child. And there are other valuable ingredients in this delightful syrup.

Syrup Pepsin will usually relieve a case of constipation overnight. If a further dose is necessary you give a smaller dose, each time. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all!

If you have a youngster who

My husband, who is a druggist, first recommended Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to me. It has always helped me and made me feel better. I have used it as a laxative for the entire family for 22 years.
Mrs. M. McMaster,
Peoria, Ill.

doesn't eat, doesn't gain, gets upset and bilious no matter how careful you are about the diet—don't resort to strong cathartics which may only make matters worse.

Make this Test!

If you are "not yourself" because of a constipated condition, don't blame it on your blood condition, or your age. Try the help of Syrup Pepsin until you are relieved and nature restores your regularity.

When your bowels continue then to move regularly, comfortably, and completely every day—you'll know why most doctors favor a liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

You CAN BUY NEW LAMPS BUT Not NEW EYES

CHILDREN never think about their eyes. Unconsciously, they abuse them. Any lighting, good or bad, suits them as long as they can possibly see. They don't know the difference. They expect you, the parents, to know. You must accept the responsibility for protecting their eyes during early life.

Check the lighting in your home right now. You, as well as your child, will benefit from the safety and convenience of proper lighting. Always buy Mazda Lamps. They are truly economical. Remember, the true price of any lamp is written, not on the price tag, but on your lighting bill.

Texas' Struggle for Freedom Began 100 Years Ago

Centenary Recalls Parallels in History of Hawaii

By GEORGE TIEMENOR

Exactly one hundred years ago, the civilized world in 1834. Texas began the march toward full Statehood, which, in the space of eleven years brought her into the Union. Observing this centenary year of the meeting of October 5, 1834, Texans look back with justifiable pride upon a long record of illustrious progress and achievement. The history of the Lone Star State, studded with great names and great deeds, is a record which epitomizes the growth of American institutions and ideals from the earliest days to the most recent times.

Since political astronomers now predict that Hawaii will emerge

the community, but Americans in 1835 began the planting of sugar cane, in the face of labor troubles, insecurity of land tenure, inadequacy of machinery and intense competition from countries employing cheaper labor.

Texas Population Grows

While Americans were working within and for the Hawaiian monarchy in the early days of the last century, the Mississippi River proved no barrier to the resistless surge of emigration westward from the southern States into Louisiana and Texas.

would re-enact an absolute monarchy. Her cabinet refused to ratify it. In the meanwhile, a "Committee of Safety" was organized and led by Americans. They decided that the only solution for existing evils was to annex the Islands to the United States. It became a contest between the Committee of Safety and supporters of the queen. The committee became the aggressor, took possession of the Government Executive Building and proclaimed the abolition of the monarchy.

Hawaii's New Government

The Provisional Government of Hawaii followed the precedent of Texas. Sanford B. Dole, "Hawaii's Grand Old Man," was proclaimed President of the new Government, with John H. Soper as general of the provisional armed forces, on January 17, 1893.

The long struggle made by Texas to join the Union came to a focus in 1845 with the passage of a Joint Congressional resolution on February 28, promptly approved by President Polk the next day. On October 13 it was ratified by a Texan general convention, and with the President's signature on December 29, the brave and venturesome republic yielded her sovereignty to become the Lone Star State.

War Brings Annexation

As in the case of Texas, it required war with a foreign power to bring two American communities under the same flag. When the United States became embroiled in the war with Spain, Hawaii rendered service to our country by furnishing supplies and rest for the fleet en route to the Philippines. Negotiations proceeded rapidly, and on August 12, 1898, the Hawaiian Republic was formally annexed to the United States. Two years later, Congress passed the act which made the Hawaiian Islands a Territory. This act went into effect on July 14, 1900.

Along agricultural lines Hawaii has pioneered both from the scientific angle and from the standpoint of cooperation. Today, when a limited degree of cooperation is being forced on mainland agriculture in its own defense, we find that the Hawaiian sugar plantations have been drawn together into a closely knit and intelligently progressive organization since 1896. Due to this association, they pay their labor a higher wage than the mainland average, provide year-round work, and assume a degree of social responsibility that is entirely unknown and impossible under conditions of unrestricted cut-throat competition.

But, today, this does not mean that Hawaii is allowed to sell this sugar to the rest of the United States. Under the Jones-Costigan Act, the Secretary of Agriculture strives to shove the Islands off into a "insular possessions," in arriving at a quota for the preponderantly major product—sugar. Strangely and seriously, Hawaii is sugar and sugar is Hawaii.

Texas and Cotton Status

In Hawaii the sugar crop cycle is a full eighteen months. Diminishing the production is no matter of turning a handle or giving an order.

Though the sugar restrictions are sufficiently burdensome in themselves, the significance of the Act itself is the motive of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' suit. They claim that it shows discrimination against Hawaii in favor of foreign nations and insular possessions, falling utterly to recognize the fact that Hawaii by the treaty of annexation is an integral part of the United States, and thus entitled to domestic consideration and treatment. The situation would be identical parallel if the Government laid down cotton restrictions which were generous in Louisiana and rigid in Texas. Hawaii does not seek to avoid her just share of the economic burden; she merely demands that just share, whether heavy or light. She demands her rights to be treated like any mainland State, and viewed in that light, her motives become patriotic rather than commercial. High principles worthy of note in this the 49th aspirant for Statehood!

Two antagonistic cultures came into increasingly sharp conflict, a conflict that could end only in open and decisive warfare. Santa Anna, overthrowing the liberal Mexican government in 1834, established himself as a virtual dictator, and decided to have no more nonsense from the troublesome and too independent Anglo-Saxons who were inundating Texas. He called a conference at which Stephen F. Austin, Mexican general and Mexican secretary-of-state were present. Independence was flatly denied to the land north of the Rio Grande, but at this meeting—held on October 5, 1834—Santa Anna stated that he "viewed with the greatest regard" his unruly Texan subjects. But he decided that his esteem for this stiff-necked and rebellious people needed some reinforcement, so he sent General Mejia with 4000 troops to keep them happy.

The embers of rebellion smoldered and then burst into flame. The legislature of Coahuila, early adepts of the spoils system, sold off huge tracts of the public domain of Texas to distant speculators at prices as low as one and one-half cents an acre. Texans saw themselves economically despoiled and tyrannically ruled. Captain Dimit led the troops and citizens of Goliad in signing a Declaration of Independence on December 20, 1835, and while this document never came into actual effect, it did focus attention on the advantages of complete independence. The story of Alamo needs no retelling here. The blood of Travis, Crockett and Bowie is peculiarly a Texas heritage, but their grim heroism has rightly become a national tradition.

Brutality of Santa Anna

Santa Anna, seeking an excuse to use a firing squad more often, passed a law that any alien entering Texas armed was no more than a pirate and should be treated accordingly. This gave a mere color of legality to his practice of shooting prisoners of war, a practice of unspeakable brutality which failed completely to bend in submission the stiff knees of the rebels.

David Kalakaua, the last Hawaiian king, elected by the legislature, died in 1891 and his sister, Queen Liliuokalani, assumed the crown. She tried to put through the legislature a new constitution which

The glory of the Lone Star State is reflected in the beauty and stability of her Capitol at Austin.

Only ninety-seven years span the gap between Texas' first Capitol and her last.

as the 49th Star in the American Constellation, the event is of particular interest to Texans, for Texas shares with Hawaii, and only with Hawaii, the distinction of having been an absolutely independent and sovereign nation at the time of their admission to the Union. This attitude of courageous self-sufficiency indeed actuated both communities throughout the calm and troubled periods of their histories. In Texas, this spirit displayed itself at all times as an offshoot of the early Colonial spirit of America which adopted as a symbol the coiled rattlesnake, and the slogan "Don't Tread on Me!" Slow of speech and quick on the draw, Texas has never faltered when her name and honor were at stake!

Occasion is Significant

The significant anniversary which Texas will be observing this year has a double significance because another State in the Union is in the process of becoming, a State which has close kinship to Texas, not only by ties of race, but also by a heritage of common experience, which must evoke the sympathy of all who venerate the ordeals and glorious moments of Texas history.

Some straws in the wind are: the President's recent visit to Hawaii which focussed the attention of the rest of the country upon the great strides made by our fellow-countrymen in the Pacific; the large commercial enterprises of the Islands (Hawaii pays more internal revenue than 16 mainland States); the fact that application for Statehood is a live political issue in Hawaii, and that Joseph R. Farrington, Editor of the Star-Bulletin and son of a former Governor, has made it the principal plank of his platform, as candidate for the Territorial Senate.

Compares With Hawaii

For more than four hundred years there have been certain significant and deeply interesting historical parallels between the Lone Star State and these Islands, which, thanks to New England missionary zeal, first turned in friendship toward the United States in 1820. Both were discovered by Spain.

Juan Gaetano, a Spanish captain, brought the first record of discovery fruits, but no gold or silver." There being nothing attractive to a wealth-loving Spaniard, he simply marked the islands on a chart and never visited them again. That record, kept in Spanish archives, is now accepted as marking the real discovery of Hawaii. Captain Cook, who formally claimed the Islands for England in 1778, was almost certainly acquainted with Gaetano's prior discovery.

Early Days in Texas

Then, for more than two hundred years Hawaii fades into historical oblivion, while Texas slowly and falteringly—under Spanish rule—becomes dotted with missions, presidios and pueblos. But twenty-five years before the Louisiana Purchase brought Texas into geographical contact with the United States—in 1778 to be exact—the enterprising Captain Cook, sailing from the South Seas toward what is now British Columbia, sighted quite by chance an archipelago which he called "Sandwich" in honor of his patron, a noble lord of that name. He paid the supreme penalty for his discovery, for within a few months he was killed in a beach battle with the natives, but he gave what we now call Hawaii to the civilized world. Thus Cook, whose country was at that time waging war with the United States, set the Hawaiian Islands on that course of destiny which finds them today an integral part of the United States.

New England missionaries came to the Islands in 1820, and opened the first schools. Within a few years, general education was compulsory, by royal decree, and Hawaii's school system was so outstanding that children of California's gold rush days were sent across the ocean to receive an education in the Islands. Hawaii's first newspaper was printed in 1834.

Americans in Hawaii

From the earliest days, Americans played a part in the government of those Islands as members of the king's cabinets. Americans were the first group of business men to begin constructive work for the betterment of the whole community. Hitherto traders had been content to spoil Hawaii's forests of sandalwood and gradually impoverish

1,416,835 Lbs. Cotton Certificates Sent To National Pool

1,416,835 pounds of Bankhead cotton certificates have been submitted to the National Cotton Pool from Floyd County farmers, according to J. S. Porecher, assistant county agent in charge of the Bankhead plan.

Many farmers in the county have inquired about the certificates on their cotton for 1933 and 1934. Mr. Porecher said that these certificates would come out of the 10 per cent reserve withheld from the state allotment for those farmers who have less than one-third of their farm in cotton and those who had cotton on the farm for the first time in 1933 and 1934. He said that he did not know when these certificates would arrive.
