VIRGIL WILLIAMS HOMER WILLIAMS

Twin Conventin Was Cancelled, but Williams Twins Went Anyway

When twins make up their minds to do something it takes more than just the changing of one mind to do otherwise; therefore, twin convention, or no twin convention. Homer Williams and Virgil Williams, Sweetwater and Floydada twins paid Long Beach California, a visit, despite cancellation of plans for the twin convention there. Homer and Virgil look alike, dress alike, act alike, think alike, and both are telegraphers. Homer Williams is night chief operator of the Western Union traffic department at Sweetwater, Virgil Williams is station agent for the Santa Fe lines at Floydada. They heard of Long Beach's twin convention plans. So enthused did they become, the Sweetwater Board of City Development contacted the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce. Their minds were made up to be there for the meeting when word was sent them it would be impossible to hold the convention this year.

"We'll go anyway," they chorused. So they went. The Williams twins have made a serious study of the relationship of twins; the why and wherefore of similarities, and their contacts have reached from one end of the nation to the other. Their files are bulging with information, while in their own minds are stored the actual experience and knowledge they have gained as twins.

THEY WRITE NOVEL
From this vast storehouse, they briefed their information into 50,000 words for a novel, based on actual experiences of twins; a fascinating, fast moving story of twin brothers. The characters are taken from their childhood days, through the World War and out of the conflict into the changing post-war.

So compact was the information and experience in their minds, however, Homer and Virgil believed their story could be told in fewer words. They rewrote it and now the 5,000 word manuscript has been completed and show scientific similarities of twins who are cast in the principal roles.—Sweetwater Reporter.

Messrs. Homer and Virgil Williams returned to Texas May 16, after a two weeks visit in California, during which time they called on Miss Bess Settle, Twin Convention Editor for the Long Beach Sun-Press Telegram, their pictures were taken to again appear in the paper and were invited back for next year's convention.

These twins also visited the San Diego Exposition and spent more than a week in Los Angeles and Hollywood, where they say they obtained audience's with writers and directors of some of the largest picture producers and were treated royally. Virgil said "Those are as fine a people as we ever met." Their visit in Hollywood included an interview over Warner Brothers broadcast at noon on May 6.

The announcer said their similarities were astounding. Mr. Williams said their business transactions were very encouraging.

Ericsons, Father, Son, Two Famous Discoverers

The story of Herjulfson and Lief Ericson is the story of the Norse discovery of America many years ago, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Herjulfson, sometimes called Bjarni, was a Norse sea captain, a friend of Eric the Red, founder of the first white settlements in Greenland. In sailing from Iceland to Greenland in command of the first colony for new country, Herjulfson was driven to the southeast and far out of his course. He sighted the coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador. This was in 982 A. D., about 511 years before Newfoundland was first seen by John and Sebastian Cabot, from whose discovery present knowledge of it dates.

Knowing the appearance of these new lands did not correspond with the description of Greenland, Herjulfson did not attempt to land, but sailed northward until he reached his intended destination at Ericson.

Nothing was done to explore the new lands seen by Herjulfson until Lief Ericson, the son of Eric the Red, became interested in the story. He was so impressed by the accounts of the storm driven travelers, that he bought Herjulfson's ship, manned it with 35 men, and set sail in 1001 A. D. for the strange new countries.

Lief sailed along the coast of Newfoundland and the mainland of the continent southward as far as Rhode Island, and possibly as far as Chesapeake bay. After many adventures the explorers landed on the coast of Massachusetts, not far from Taunton. From the abundance of grapes and berries found in this neighborhood they named the country Vinland. The old Scandinavian records of these discoveries leave no reasonable doubt of the truth of the story of Vinland and its discoverers.

Tung Oil Extracted From Seeds Produced by Trees

Tung oil is extracted from the seeds of the tung tree, a fast growing ornamental tree with large, dark green leaves and bearing beautiful pink and white flowers in springtime, notes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. The mature trees are usually about 30 or more feet high, with a wide limb spread. The fruits are about the size of a russet apple.

Each fruit bears from 6 to 30 seeds. They ripen in October. The tung tree has long been grown in oriental countries, and was first introduced into America about 30 years ago.

The Chinese have used tung oil for centuries as a waterproof covering for wood, masonry, and other materials which they wished to protect from the weather. Chinese junks or boats are oiled regularly with it. Many other uses are found for this product by the Chinese. In America tung oil is employed chiefly in the paint and varnish industry.

The Oyster's Protection

The oyster's one protection against its enemies is its hard shell and the ability to keep the valves firmly closed by the adductor muscle. Crabs, however, can break it open. Starfish may either pull the shell apart, or by means of a convenient arrangement, when the oyster is too big and strong for this operation, and equally too big to swallow, they may evert the stomach and engulf the unfortunate oyster, until at last, compelled to open its shells for fresh supplies of oxygen, it is attacked, weakened, and finally destroyed by the digestive juices.

Beauty of Person and Soul

A beautiful person is the natural form of a beautiful soul. The mind builds its own house. The soul takes precedence of the body, and shapes the body to its own likeness. A vacant mind takes all the meaning out of the fairest face. A cold, selfish heart shrivels and distorts the best looks. A groveling spirit takes all the dignity out of the figure and all the character out of the countenance. A cherished hatred transforms the most beautiful lineaments into an image of ugliness.

Reason for Buccaneers

The buccaners, who helped to cast the halo of romance about the Caribbean and its emerald shores, were originally men who preserved beef and pork by "drying" it over a smoky fire. This meat was called boucan, and kept in this preserved state for weeks. When their own cattle supply ran out they began to pilfer the cattle belonging to others and soon became full-fledged thieves, gold and wine being their principal objects.

Arsenical Residue Allowed

The provisions of the Federal Food and Drugs act of 1906, as administered by the United States Food and Drug administration, and as accepted by public health authorities, do not permit an arsenical residue of more than one one-hundredth grain of arsenic, in the form of arsenic trioxide, per pound of fruit. This limit is commonly called the world tolerance for arsenical residue.

New Ruling Announced By State Committee To Land Owners

COLLEGE STATION, May 21—Land owners having multiple tenants on a contiguous block of farms may fill out a master work sheet instead of separate work sheets for each farm, it was announced by the State Conservation Committee. They also pointed out that payments among all tenants similar to the way old parity payments were distributed and the land owned will be held responsible for compliance. Of great importance to Texas farmers, members of the State committee commented, is the new rule that two rows of corn or grain sorghum interplanted with one row of cowpeas will count as two thirds soil-depleting crops and one-third soil-conserving. The county committee will determine the percentage of land occupancy.

Sudan grass has been ruled a soil-conserving crop regardless of use and can be harvested for hay or seed, used as pasture, or left on the land. The same is true of oats if followed by a summer legume after harvest. The State Soil Conservation Committee assumed that crops will be grown and compliances will be sufficiently late to allow for this purpose.

It was announced at the same time that the base rice acreage and production for 1936 will be the base that was established in 1935, except where producers are eligible for upward adjustment.

Upward adjustments will be made where the years of 1929 and 1930 were excluded from the previous base calculations; where the producer did not grow rice in one or more years in base period; where production was below a 10 barrel acreage on account of uncontrollable natural causes.

Municipal Ownership Is A Failure
1,929 Communities Say ----
"DON'T DO IT!"
"WE TRIED IT AND WE QUIT"

Since 1923, there have been 1,929 communities which have tried the costly experiment of operating their own electrical business, but they have quit, according to a report by the Institute for Economic Research, affiliated with Northwestern University.

Who paid the bills for these failures? THE TAXPAYERS.

Why did they fail? BECAUSE THEY FOUND OUT THEY HAD TO RAISE ELECTRIC RATES OR RAISE TAXES, OR BOTH. They also found out that politics made for inefficiency and graft.

THEY FOUND OUT THAT THE MACHINERY SALESMAN WHO SOLD THE MACHINERY MADE THE BIG PROFITS. It is easy to make promises and talk about rate reductions, but experience has shown that these promises are merely to get votes.

Only 6% of the electric energy sold in the U. S. comes from municipal plants. More than 94% comes from privately owned plants, according to the U. S. Bureau of Census. The reason is that privately owned plants furnish better service, give lower rates, and pay taxes.
