By Special Committee On Veterans For West Texas

June 30.—A special committee on general medical and hospital for West Texas is expected within the next few weeks, according to Congressman George Mahon. He consulted with Colonel George E. Ijams, Veterans Administration who is a member of the special committee.

The west Texas region is one of two areas designated by the War Relocation Authority to be given particular attention. The special committee was appointed, and consisted of Dr. Thomas J. Newsome, surgeon general of the Public Health Service, George H. Wood, special agent in charge of the administrator of homes for veterans, and George E. Ijams, assistant administrator of the veterans administration. Dr. Parran was unable to attend.

Dr. Parran was unable to attend the meeting, but his acceptance of the committee was given as soon as the committee met. Open hearings will be held to consider the need for new hospitals. He has a bill introduced in Congress which would appropriate for a hospital in the Fifth Congressional District comprising Texas. Bills with more restrictions as to location introduced by Congressman Jones of Amarillo, and Ewing Thomason of El Paso. Congressman Clyde Garrett introduced the necessity of all west Texas effort to secure a favorable recommendation from the Veterans Administration at this time, and competition between industries could easily detract from the argument for all west Texas. The appointment of a committee with designated Texas for special consideration was more definite than had heretofore been by the veterans administration.

Miss Zoie Odom, of Lubbock, Becomes Bride of Winfred F. Newsome

In a simple home ceremony, Miss Zoie Odom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Odom, 1922 Thirteenth Street, Lubbock, became the bride of Winfred F. Newsome, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Newsome, pioneer residents of Floydada, Texas. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at the home of the bride's parents with Dr. W. F. Fry, head of the Bible Department of Texas Technological College, officiating at the single ring ceremony.

The house was decorated with Shasta daisies, asters, and roses. The dining table was covered with Flemish lace cloth and centered with a two-tiered wedding cake. Lighted tapers in amber holders were on the buffet and on each corner of the table. The bride's dress was of Lake Louise chiffon with a Nina Ricci lace redingote in a matching shade. Her hat was blue horsehair braid with velvet trim. Her other accessories were British tan. Her flowers were pink briarcliff roses. In keeping with the bridal tradition of "something old," she wore a cameo lavalier, her father's wedding gift to her mother.

Wedding cake and fruit punch were served after the ceremony. The couple left soon after for a short tour in New Mexico and Colorado. The bride's traveling suit was of natural linen with navy trim and navy accessories. Mrs. Newsome is a graduate of Crosbyton High School and has attended McMurry College, West Texas State Teacher's College and Texas Technological College. She was extended several courtesies there before returning to her home.

Brothers Met Here Last Week For First Time In Twenty Seven Years

Joe Gound of Chickasha, Oklahoma, and C. W. Gound of Weslaco, Texas, met last week for the first time in twenty seven years at the home of their sister, Mrs. G. L. Snodgrass. The meeting was quite a coincidence, for neither knew that the other was to be here. C. W. Gound had accompanied his wife here for the Wilson reunion, which was held at the home of Mrs. Fannie Montague; while Joe Gound was in this section of the country on business. The latter stopped at his sisters to spend the night and to his surprise found his brother there. One can imagine the excitement and joy at the meeting without further description.

Navajo Craft Designs Used in Super Chief

FROM the Navajos of the picturesque southwest, the Santa Fe drew the inspiration for the design of its new stainless steel streamlining train, the Super Chief, newest of the luxury trains in the west. The rich colors associated with the country through which the train travels have been used as the background for decorations, faithfully reproducing the art and craft of the Navajo Indians. Sand paintings, silver craft and weaving have been skillfully combined with rare woods and modern design to give the train all the beauty and color of the desert. The train was built by Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company of Philadelphia. The locomotive was furnished by the Electro-Motive Corporation of Chicago. Throughout the train, each compartment has its own color scheme and arrangement, and each has been designed so that suites may be formed by use of connecting doors. In the cocktail and observation lounges has been preserved much of the beauty of Navajo life. Sand paintings have been used in the pier panels to illustrate the characters which occur in the story of Dsilyi Noyani, the "Myth of the Mountain Chant." All of the figures are executed in native colored sands and charcoal. Coverings are reproductions of rare Navajo museum pieces, and lighting fixtures have been adapted from the fourth painting of Dsilyi Noyani. The "Plumed Arrows" have been fashioned into glow lights and a rear table lamp employs the sacrificial knife stem for a base with its shade fashioned of goat skin.

Mrs. Itasca L. Young, of Philadelphia, a director of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, died in a Dallas, Texas, hospital June 22, according to information received at national headquarters of the society. She held various offices in the society in Texas, which was her home state, until 1919, when she was made state manager of Pennsylvania. She was elected to the national board of directors, in 1925, and was reelected for each succeeding term.

Semi-Dry Grass Used by Indians to Smoke Meats

Although hickory and oak have long been favored in meat smoking, certain nut shells and aromatic seeds have been preferred by primitive tribes. Semi-dry grass, that develops a "bonfire" smell, has been used by plains Indians, while Western tribes have tossed green sage brush sprigs on their fires. The burning, however, destroyed most of the sage flavor, scientists say.

The use of saltpeter in curing was probably brought about through its being an impurity in the salt employed, or it may be that the early meat curers did not distinguish too well between flavor or pure salt and the bitter-salt rang of saltpeter. The discovery that it preserved the reddish tinge of meat, however, led to its use.

Early salting and curing did not provide for uniform penetration, so that the unsalted, uncolored and sour spots resulted, with which meat curers must contend.

Ear-Piercing Social Event

The young lady of Burma who reaches the age of 12 to 14 years is introduced to the marriageable status by an ordeal which takes courage to endure. This consists of the ceremony of ear piercing which has been arranged by the family astrologer. When the proper hour and minute arrives the young lady is surrounded by happy relatives and friends who enjoy music and feasting and, therefore, help to divert attention away from the ominous needle. Afterward comes the glory of wearing handsome earrings of glittering jewels and heavy filigree work, or if she is of lowly estate, then gaudy glass adorns the ears.

Wrote for Posterity

When Samuel Butler, the English author, wrote his first book the public received it coldly, in other words it remained unread and unnoticed. Butler declared he would write no more for his contemporaries but would write for posterity only. And sure enough, he was right. He died in 1902, and his books almost unknown, and immediately after his death his "Erewhon" took the world by storm, and he was placed among the great writers of his generation.

"Ringside Seats" for Battle

The only real naval battle for which excursion boats sold "ringside seats" took place in the English Channel on June 19, 1864, according to Collier's Weekly. The American Union ship Kearsarge was about to attack the Confederate cruiser Alabama—docked at Cherbourg, France—when French officials warned its captain to do his fighting outside of the three-mile limit. Three days later the battle took place, before thousands of "fight fans" from France and England.

Death Bell of Rovereto

The Death Bell of Rovereto, hanging high in the Dolomites at the scene of some of the most severe fighting in the World war, tolls one hundred times each evening in memory of all those who died in this great conflict. The giant bell says Collier's Weekly, made from cannons collected from every front is dedicated to this service forever and its use for any other purpose however important it may be, is absolutely forbidden.

"Due Process of Law" in Use as Far Back as 1325

The phrase "due process of law," referring to the regular course of legal or judicial proceedings in any case, appears in the Fifth and Fourteenth amendments to the federal Constitution. In the first of these: "no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law," the limitation is on acts of congress. In the other amendment: "no state shall deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law," the limitation is on the laws of the states.

According to Professor Munro's "The Government of the United States," the phrase is an approximate equivalent of "by the law of the land," contained in Magna Charta.

Daniel Webster's definition of due process was "the process of law, which hears before it condemns, which proceeds upon enquiry and renders judgment only after trial. The meaning is that every citizen shall hold his life, liberty, property and immunities under the protection of the general rules which govern society."

The Supreme court in its interpretation of this phrase has, according to Munro, "assumed a considerable censorship over the economic legislation of congress." The Oxford dictionary quotes the use of the phrase "process of law" as early as the year 1325. — Detroit News.

Grape Fruit Came From Spain in 16th Century

Beans have been cultivated since long before there was any recorded history. They are known to have been eaten by the ancient Egyptians and Greeks, and when the first voyagers reached the Western continent, they found beans growing. Natives of this country added corn to give the world a new dish, succotash, says the Kansas City Star.

Remains of apples have been found in Switzerland's prehistoric lake dwellings. North America is the world's greatest apple-producing country, the annual crop exceeding 100,000,000 barrels.

Ice cream, generally thought to be an American invention, originated in Italy in 1600. It spread to France and England, then crossed to the American Colonies. Even the wide diversity of ices and ice creams is neither modern nor American, for when the process of freezing first was discovered it was used for almost every dessert and beverage.

Why is a grapefruit called a grapefruit? Every child at some time in his life asks that question. The answer is that the name originated because of the grapelike cluster or bunches in which this fruit grows. It was introduced into Florida by the Spaniards early in the Sixteenth century, but did not become popular until comparatively recently.

Slavery in West Virginia

Slavery was still in force when in 1861 the Unionists called a convention at Wheeling to form a new state out of the western counties of Virginia. Records are not detailed enough to show the number of slaves in each county, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, but at that time there were 12,771 negroes in that portion of the state proposed to be included in West Virginia. The question of slavery naturally came up, but the resolution for emancipation was opposed by many "on the ground that it would cause an unnecessary agitation of a question that would in course of time solve itself." It was defeated by a majority of one vote. In political parlance West Virginia is not included in those states which comprise the solid south.

The "Lawyer's Alcove"

The "Lawyer's Alcove" is the name given to a volume of selections of the best poems by lawyers, for lawyers and about lawyers, says the Washington Star. Included in the volume are Shakespeare's "Sonnet CXXIV"; Blackstone's "A Lawyer's Farewell to His Muse"; "Justice," by John Quincy Adams; "The Judicial Court of Venus," by Jonathan Swift; "General Average," by William Allen Butler, and Riley's "Lawyer and Child."

The Albatross

In seamen's lore, while the albatross hovers near, all will go well, but "woe to him who kills the albatross!" That was the theme of one of the greatest of poems, Samuel Coleridge's "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner." Since the bird circles monotonously overhead with no apparent movement of wings, superstitious sailors believe it has supernatural powers. Modern observers, however, say it works its wings in such short, lightning-like strokes that only the keenest eyes can discern the movement.

Chief Colors in Cats

The chief colors which appear in cats are black, white, red, gray, and silver, says a writer in London Answers Magazine.

All the breeds of cats known sprang originally from two types, one of which inhabited Europe and the other Northern Africa. It was the latter type which was tamed by the Ancient Egyptians, the greatest cat-lovers and worshipers in history.

THOMAS B. GALLAHER PASSENGER TRAFFIC MANAGER OF SANTA FE SYSTEM

Thomas B. Gallaher, formerly of Amarillo, was yesterday appointed passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fe System Lines succeeding W. J. Black, it was announced by F. B. Houston, vice president, following a meeting of the board of directors of the Santa Fe in New York.

Mr. Black, long regarded as one of the outstanding passenger traffic men in the country, is retiring July 1, at his own request because of ill health, after 51 years with the Santa Fe. He started to work for the company in 1886, and has been passenger traffic manager since October, 1905.

Advancing from a clerkship to the highest ranking position in the Santa Fe's passenger department within a period of slightly less than 31 years, is the record of Mr. Gallaher, who because of his long connection with the company at Amarillo is well known in its Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico territory.

He came to the Santa Fe in September, 1906, as a clerk in the auditor's office at Amarillo, where he then served successfully as traveling auditor, traveling freight and passenger agent, division freight and passenger agent, and general freight and passenger agent. On August 1, last year, he was appointed assistant to the vice president in charge of traffic.

As passenger traffic manager, a position for which his experience makes him peculiarly fitted, Mr. Gallaher will continue to make his headquarters in Chicago.

5,390 Claims For Old Age Benefits Filed With Social Security Board

Dallas, June 30.—The Social Security Board announced today that 5,390 claims for lump-sum and death payments had been filed with the Bureau of Federal Old-Age Benefits, as of June 1. These claims were received from each of the 48 states and from the District of Columbia. None had been received from Alaska and Hawaii on that date.

The report, issued by E. L. Tutt, manager of the Dallas field office of the Social Security Board, showed that New York, with 776, and Pennsylvania, with 610, lead all States in the number of claims filed. In the southwestern region, 127 claims had been filed in Texas, 52 in Louisiana, and four in New Mexico.

Only 43 claims have been disallowed for payment out of all of those filed, according to the report.

"There has been little delay in the payment of claims," Tutt stated. "The average length of time for payment of lump-sum benefits to eligible employees at age 65 after the receipt of the claim is approximately 3 weeks. However, payments to estates of eligible wage earners take an average of about 1 week longer."

This difference in length of time, it was explained, is due to the necessary variation in procedures. A life claim, it was pointed out, involves little more than checking the name and account number and establishing the age of the claimant and wages received. In the case of a death claim, State laws relating to priorities and exemptions, if funeral and last illness expenses have not been paid, must also be considered. In addition, there is a considerable variation of procedure depending on whether or not a will has been probated and who files the claim.

"Until January 1, 1942, the only claims that are payable are those involving lump-sum and death payments, amounting to 3 1/2 per cent of total wages received from covered employment," Tutt continued. "After that date, the major program of monthly benefits to qualified workers in commerce and industry will begin. Benefits are based on wages received for services in covered employment from the beginning of the year 1937 to age 65, and the wage record in the worker's social security account will be used in determining benefits. Possession of an account number, therefore, is essential in the maintenance of proper wage records."

Motoring Tips By J. M. Crawford, Chief Engineer, Chevrolet Division

Not long ago, a party of tourists narrowly escaped mishap when a battered old car coming toward them on the highway suddenly cut across their path into a farm drive. Good brakes on their car, and a wide apron on the road, enabled them to miss it by a hair, and as they backed onto the road again, they remonstrated with its driver, who was just beginning to realize how close to trouble he had been.

"Why in the world didn't you signal that you were going to turn?" one of the party demanded.

"Why, Mister," the other driver answered, "I thought everybody knew I live here."

Whoever remarked that the average car was better than the average driver probably meant that operating technique, as observable on our streets and highways, has not kept pace with the evolution of the motor car itself. Certainly a little heavier stress on the niceties of driving would enable the motoring public to secure a greater measure of the comfort, safety, and general satisfaction that are built into every car today.

In my opinion, that motorist is the most competent who keeps in mind, at all times, the fact that there are others besides himself on the road, and drives in a manner consistent with that realization. The good driver never assumes that others know what he intends to do. He signals every move—not only his stops and turns, but also his intention to pull away from a curb. He is equally careful to give notice, with his horn, when about to pass. Observance of proper signal procedure will automatically do away with one of the most dangerous driving hazards—the sudden, unexpected move.

And if he hopes to qualify among the really top-notch drivers, he will go one step further, and keep his eyes open for the other fellow's signals, so that his own starts, stops and turns may be based on information more reliable than a guess or a "hunch" of what others are about to do.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Cooper of Lubbock visited Saturday night and Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Wakefield. Mr. Cooper is manager of the Lubbock Production Credit Association.

Elton Goen, a junior from Texas Tech, spent the week end visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Goen. He is attending the first six weeks of summer school, but plans to be at home during the latter part of the summer.

Mrs. R. M. Tarpley, of Collinsville, Texas, has been visiting for several days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Jackson.

Helen Dorrell, who underwent a tonsil operation Tuesday morning, is reported to be doing nicely.

Accused Hale Killer
Slashes Throat; Pioneer Dr.
Is Shot to Death in Jail

Plainview, June 25.—Henry E. King, 39-year-old prisoner, this afternoon slashed his throat and left wrist shortly after he was charged with murder in the fatal shooting of Dr. E. F. McClendon, pioneer Hale County physician, in a jail cell here this morning.

King allegedly slashed his throat and wrist with a razor blade. His condition was not regarded as serious, although he lost considerable blood, according to Dr. D. A. Ellsworth, city physician.

Arrested in Disturbance

The suspect was arrested shortly after midnight at Petersburg, 28 miles south of Plainview, on a disturbance charge. His unusual conduct brought a visit from Dr. McClendon, Hale county health officer.

The 69-year-old physician was slain and Deputy Sheriff Bill Shook was wounded as the prisoner struggled with officers for possession of a gun. King grabbed the gun as two officers and the physician entered his cell.

King was praying and shouting after being lodged in his cell, officers said.

As Dr. McClendon entered the cell with Shook and Nath Burkett, city night patrolman, the prisoner reportedly began raving and breaking windows.

Strikes Officer

When Burkett attempted to pin King in order to let Dr. McClendon administer to him, the prisoner struck the officer with a window stick, knocking him against the wall. Before Burkett recovered, King had seized the officer's gun and began shooting wildly.

Shook knocked the gun aside and with Burkett's assistance, threw the man to the floor. Shook called out, "All right, doctor, come in."

"The doctor is dead," called Mrs. Shook, who had come to the head of the stairs from the family's sleeping quarters in the jail.

Killed Instantly

Dr. McClendon had stopped at the head of the stairs, outside the cell. When the bullet struck him, he died instantly, slumping to the floor in a sitting position.

Another bullet struck Shook in the shoulder. His wound was not believed serious.

As Mrs. Shook opened the door to her apartment, a bullet fired by King, jammed it. She grabbed her husband's gun from the dresser, and rushed upstairs. She remained on the scene until King was overpowered.

King, who had been working at a grain elevator at Petersburg, was unable to make a clear statement, police said.

Finds Razor In Cell

He had given Highlands, in Harris County, as his home last night, but today he said he was from the Comanche region. He has worked in this section before.

King found the razor blade, with which he slashed himself, on the floor of the cell to which he was transferred after the shooting, he told officers.

Dr. McClendon came here 30 years ago, and was a former surgeon in the army and quarantine office at Galveston.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Moreland and sons, Bob and Jimmie, spent Sunday in Paducah visiting with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hunt and family.
