Sell Polled Angus Cattle to North Plains Rancher

Sale was completed last week on 120 head of Polled Angus cattle by A. C. and Bruce Edwards to a Perryton rancher. Transfer and shipment of the stock was made last week end. The cattle, a breed not often found in this section, were purchased some time ago by the Edwards brothers from a cattle company near San Angelo.

Amarillo Picked As Site for Vets Hospital

Allocation of $800,000.00 to construct a hospital for war veterans at Amarillo was announced the latter part of last week through the daily press. The giant general hospital will serve a five state area, the announcement stated. Many Floyd County people, including ex-service men in this section, will be greatly benefitted by the construction of the hospital in Amarillo. Some discussion had been had in recent months concerning attempts to secure the hospital for Floyd County, but no definite attempts were made.

Until the hospital is completed at Amarillo the nearest Veterans hospital is located at Albuquerque, New Mexico. Several ex-service men have received hospitalization at that place from Floyd County. Announcement had not been made, but it is anticipated that the hospital to be constructed in Amarillo would have facilities for 150 beds. The staff, it is believed, will consist of several persons, including laundry men, yardmen, physicians, ordies, nurses, technicians and others. Location of the large government hospital will be near Amarillo in one of the several sites that have been offered.

Reunion of Norman Family Held In Floydada

An annual reunion of the family of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Norman was held here Sunday with several of the family in attendance. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Norman and daughter, Ella Francis, of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lewis, of Roaring Springs; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Norman and children, J. E. Jr., Dorothy Jean and Beth, of Plainview; Mrs. E. J. Norman and daughter Ethra Jean, of Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Norman and sons, Leeman and Buddy, of Floydada; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis I. Norman and son, Glad Lynn, of Floydada; Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Norman and Gerald and Jean, of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Norman and children, Eugene and Joan, of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gound, and children, Joyee Elaine and Norman, Floydada; Mr. and Mrs. Verner C. Norman, and daughter, Sammie Lou, Floydada. Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Norman, of San Antonio and E. J. Norman, of Wellington, were not in attendance.

Floyd County People Attended Health Conference

Several members of the district staff of the State Health Department, in addition to other Floydada people, attended the district health conference held yesterday at the Hilton hotel in Lubbock. County Superintendent Walter Travis represented the Floyd County schools and heard discussions on plans for health improvement in Floyd County.

Miss Emma Lou McKinney left Thursday for Otton where she will teach in the schools.

Applications For Farm Loans Until October 1

Applications from farmers in Floyd County for loans with which to purchase farms under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Purchase Act program will be received from now until October 1, Claude C. Carpenter, County Rural Rehabilitation Supervisor, announced today upon his return from Amarillo, where he attended a two-day school of instructions. Also attending from this county was Fred M. Battey, county committee man, appointed by Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, to check applications in this county.

All farm tenants, sharecroppers, farm laborers, or others who obtain or recently have obtained most of their income from farming, may make applications for one of the several loans to be made in this county, Mr. Carpenter said. It was explained that preference for these loans will be given to married persons or persons with dependent families; to persons able to make a down payment; or to persons who own livestock and equipment necessary to carry on farming operations.

Applicants who will receive loans will be given a wide choice in selecting the farms they want to buy. The price of the property, however, must be in keeping with its value, as determined by the county committee and the FSA. Preference will be given to farms needing a minimum outlay for repairs and improvements. However, loans will be large enough to cover building repairs and other farm improvements.

The county supervisor said the Farm Security Administration will assist applicants who receive loans in developing sound farm and home management plans, preparing operating budgets and maintaining business records.

Loans will be made for a 40-year period at three per cent interest. Annual payments of 4.3 per cent of the sum borrowed will cover both interest and principal. All farmers in Floyd County interested in this program are urged to contact Mr. Carpenter at his office in Floydada at their earliest convenience and obtain application blanks.

C. A. Cass Returns To Floydada

C. A. Cass, recently of Lubbock and formerly of Floydada, has returned to Floydada to become employed as salesman with Geo. M. Finkner's Triangle Garage. Mr. Cass has been employed with Montgomery Ward in Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Tribble, of Hillsboro, Mrs. Wayne Robinson, of Frisco, and Mrs. Wiley Benton of Dallas, visited last week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tribble and family. P. G. Tribble is a brother, Mrs. Benton, a sister and Mrs. Robinson the mother of J. H. Tribble.

Betty Jo Graham, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Graham of Sandhill community, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon about 4:15 when a truck in which she was riding overturned a mile of the Sandhill school. The accident occurred as ten students were enroute to their homes following the close of the Sandhill school for the day.

Other children in the accident, all of whom sustained painful though not serious injury, were: Ouida Pearl, Nita and Oleta Polvadore, children of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Polvadore; Francis, Neida Doris and James Wise Cox, children of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cox; Maxine and Nadine Graham, two other daughters of the Graham family; and Kathryn Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Robertson.

Most seriously injured of the surviving children were Nita Polvadore, who received a fractured ankle and Kathryn Robertson, who also sustained a leg injury. The remainder of the students received only minor injuries, cuts, bruises and lacerations.

Tom Jackson and Clarence Guffee, the latter of whom is principal of the Sandhill school, reached the scene of the accident a short time after it occurred. They brought the Graham child and Kathryn Robertson to Floydada for medical attention.

It was reported that Nita Polvadore was driver of the truck, a 1930 model Chevrolet, when the accident occurred. It was believed that some unseen mechanical difficulty might have been responsible for the truck overturning.

SERVICES NOT COMPLETE
Arrangements for funeral services for the Graham child had not been made complete late last evening. Irving Graham, a cousin of the deceased, and Lee Pope left about three hours following the accident for Mangum, Oklahoma, where they were joined by T. J. Graham, grandfather of the child, who returned to Floydada.

Survivors are the parents, Mrs. and Mrs. J. M. Graham; two sisters, Maxine and Nadine Graham, one brother, Verne Graham. The child was a niece of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Graham, of Barwise community.

Modern 'Holy War' Threatens Over Domination of Palestine

By Joseph W. La Bine

Races

Tiny Palestine is far smaller than the average American state, yet its city of Jerusalem is a religious shrine for Christians, Jews, Arabs. From a Biblical start, Christianity spread over the earth, largely deserting its birthplace. Hebrews also left, driven by the hated Arabs who later fell under Turkey's yoke. Not until the World war was this yoke thrown off with Great Britain's aid.

If Arabs expected Great Britain to hand them Palestine on a silver platter, Lord Balfour outfoxed them. In November, 1917, the foresighted foreign secretary saw Russia persecuting the Jews, possibly foreseeing a coming European revolution against them. So Palestine was favored as a national home for the wandering Jew and in 1923 Great Britain was granted a mandate over the land.

Had Lord Balfour's foresight included Jew-hating Adolf Hitler, he might have been less anxious to guide Palestine's destiny. Since 1923, Holy Land Jews have jumped from 75,000 to 375,000. Arabic population meanwhile standing at 325,000. Led by a Zionist world organization, zealous Hebrews have fostered such projects as Tel Aviv, all-Jewish city just outside Arabic Jaffa.

In 1929, Arab resentment boiled over into riot, again in 1936. This time worried Britain investigated, finally decided to place Jews on one side of the River Jordan, Arabs on the other. Since Arabs got the biggest share and Jews the most fertile share, neither was happy. Upshot was a new series of riots, starting early last July and continuing unbroken ever since. Last week, as harried British troops swept up after Jaffa's latest bombing, the world wondered how peace could ever come back to the Holy Land.

Jews recall that when Moses led their ancestors into the "promised land," some stayed on one side of the Jordan, some on the other. Thus they want more land, yet insist—publicly, at least—that Arabs can remain. Arabs recall the Holy Land has been their home 1,300 years, stolidly threaten to fight unto death protecting their heritage.

What they lack at Washington, D. C., Republicans made up during a week-end of blistering heat and fried chicken at Washington, Ind. Their host was Homer E. Capehart, vice president of Buffalo's Rudolph Wurlitzer company, whose farm was covered with tents until it looked like a circus. Attending were Republicans from 11 states.

Day before, G. O. P. "strategists" met in Indianapolis behind closed doors, emerged with no comment except that they expected 70 more seats in congress after next November's election. Then, headed by Chairman John D. M. Hamilton and New York's Rep. James W. Wadsworth, they headed south to Mr. Capehart's circus tents.

To entertain 25,000 ardent Republicans, Ringmaster Capehart spent $25,000, fried 4,500 chickens, baked 40,000 clams and roasted three truckloads of corn. Said he: "I am sick and tired . . . of hearing business men and men of all other groups complain and talk against the New Deal and then do absolutely nothing about it."

Said Mr. Hamilton, who seemed content with talking about it: "Instead of hurling meaningless epithets at those who disagree with suming nations are this year being offered more grain than they want by a dozen wheat-producing nations. To compete on the low-priced export market, to meanwhile give U. S. farmers a fair price, Secretary Wallace realized that subsidy would be necessary.

From Washington went invitations to grain dealers for purchase of wheat that the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation will sell abroad. Subsidy payments to producers, expected to be 15 or 20 cents per bushel, will come from $25,000,000 now available from customs receipts. To avoid throat-cutting, Secretary Wallace sought an export agreement with Canada, which also has large surpluses. Meanwhile came word of heavy exports from Poland and Argentina, giving promise of a badly glutted world market.

Foreign

As leader of Czechoslovakia's autonomy-seeking Sudetens, Konrad Henlein is admittedly nothing more than Adolf Hitler's mouthpiece. So anxious observers looked behind the mouthpiece last week when Konrad Henlein told Sudetens to "fight back" against "attacks" by the Czech government. Thus arose the latest crisis in a series of crises that has kept Europe jittery all summer.

At little Lanark, Scotland, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon made the bold assertion that Adolf Hitler must not start a war over Czechoslovakia, else he might find Britain on his neck. Coming from a member of Neville Chamberlain's dictator-wooing cabinet, that pronouncement sounded strange. But soon Sir John's boldness was explained. Said he:

"You will have read the striking speech made the other day by Mr. Cordell Hull, American secretary of state, when he laid stress on . . . the necessity for . . . friendly co-operation. What he said, and what President Roosevelt said a few days later in Canada, must waken a responsive echo in many British hearts."

Since Franklin Roosevelt had promised to help Canada in the event of invasion, Great Britain was clearly relying on a far-fetched hope of U. S. support. Two days later, it was plain the bluff had worked. Backing Britain came France, Russia, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia, each warning Germany to keep its hands off Czechoslovakia.

Important goal of Generalissimo Francisco Franco is the Almaden mercury mines of southwestern Spain, where an offensive began August 1. Last week revived Loyalist troops closed in on Rebel Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Liano's advance positions at Cabeza del Buey, regaining practically all land lost since the insurgent drive began. But Loyalists received bad news, too. In the Strait of Gibraltar, a 1,650-ton destroyer was laid by four insurgent warships. Twenty were killed, 14 wounded, and the ship listed to port in hopeless condition.

Still 100 miles from Hankow, Japanese invaders captured Luan and Sukiafow on the Peiping-Hankow railroad, while defending Chinese recaptured three important towns on the upper Yangtze river. Meanwhile, in Washington, a U. S. foreign policy association predicted continuation of the Sino-Jap conflict until the U. S. shuts off supplies.

In 1894, an unconventional American actress named May Yohe married England's Lord Francis Hope, owner of the famous Hope diamond. In 1902, May Yohe tired of English royalty, eloped with Capt. Bradley Putnam Strong, son of a one-time New York mayor. In 1914, May Yohe married again, this time Capt. John A. Smuts. Last spring, the once notorious May Yohe was found on WPA rolls. Last week, aged 69, May Yohe died at Boston.

At Orange, Conn., John Coolidge, son of the late President Calvin Coolidge, entered politics for the first time by getting himself elected delegate to Connecticut's Republican state convention.

Labor

In medieval days, a plagued ship might carry disease from port to port. Last week, a plagued boxcar carried industrial paralysis through San Francisco's wholesale district. Cause of this strange epidemic was a shipment of school supplies which union warehouse employees said was loaded by strike-breakers. At five classifications of warehouses—public, grocery, liquor, drugs, hardware—San Francisco's boxcar was shunted to sidetracks. At each stop workers refused to touch it, employers retaliating by closing shop, discharging workers and abrogating contracts. After five days of wandering, this four-wheeled Nemesis had caused 2,000 workers to lose their jobs, had closed 153 plants.

Fortnight ago, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor talked with Franklin Roosevelt about the Wagner labor relations act. Outcome was a mutual agreement to amend it, providing more equitable consideration for both employer and employee. If this decision pleased William Green, it displeased C. I. O.'s John L. Lewis, who was comforted a few days later by re-appointment of Donald Wakefield Smith to the National Labor Relations board.

Thus satisfied, labor's two warring factions began wooing each other. David Dubinsky announced his International Ladies Garment Workers, now on the fence, would try once more to bring C. I. O., A. F. of L., together. William Green announced his willingness to puff a peace pipe. But overnight these gestures were nullified.

At Cincinnati, C. I. O.'s United Mine Workers and Kentucky's Harlan County Coal Operators association signed an agreement whereby Harlan county's mines will become a closed shop, whereby C. I. O.'s civil charges against mine owners will be dropped. Last month these same operators were prosecuted by the federal government for violation of the Wagner act, the trial ending in a hung jury.

Since C. I. O.'s new pact freezes out A. F. of L.'s Progressive Mine Workers of America, William Green found cause to fire a blast not only at John Lewis, but NLRB and the justice department as well. His charges: (1) that the pact forces A. F. of L. miners to join C. I. O. or get out; (2) that the justice department is playing ball with John Lewis by dropping its criminal charges against Harlan county operators; (3) that the pact conspires to violate the Wagner act.

Domestic

To land-grabbing Mexico, Secretary of State Cordell Hull has sent two notes protesting seizure of $10,000,000 in American-owned farm land, $200,000,000 in American-owned oil land. Latest of these protests was a downright lecture to Mexican President Lazaro Cardenas, who would lose national prestige by back-tracking, who will lose conservative support if he fails to back-track. Though Mexico guardedly admits liability, she refuses to pay, indeed is unable to pay until her grievous economic condition improves. Last week, as observers wondered whether U. S. Ambassador Joseph Daniels had been negligent in allowing an altogether too-complex situation to arise, Cordell Hull heard that $25,000,000 more American-owned property had been seized. Included, said unofficial reports, were 80,000 acres of Publisher William Randolph Hearst's ranch.

At Washington, Franklin Roosevelt announced the U. S. would gladly reduce armaments if other nations would reduce theirs. Next day the U. S. navy department drafted tentative plans for 18 new ships.

Sports

Last November, Capt. George E. T. Eyston came from England to Utah's Bonneville salt flats, there drove an automobile 311.42 miles per hour. Fortnight ago, Captain Eyston returned with his huge new Thunderbolt to race once more. While American Automobile association officials checked him with an electric eye, Racer Eyston zipped through the 13-mile northward run, hitting nearly 350 m. p. h. on the checked mile. But the electric eye failed on his southward run, so Thunderbolt set no record. Three days later Captain Eyston tried again with more luck. This time his black racer, whose tires must be changed after each run, whose thick aluminum cowings are punctured by the terrific spray of salt, averaged 345.49 m. p. h. for his round trip.

President's Supporters Catch Brunt of Opposition Criticism

Roosevelt Personally Under Direct Fire of Enemies Only Twice; Interference in State Primaries Now Subject of Bitter Controversy.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—It has been a matter of frequent reference among observers how President Roosevelt's supporters or subordinates, or spokesmen for him, have caught the brunt of opposition criticism. Mr. Roosevelt personally has been under the direct fire of his enemies only two occasions. He played his political cards so that, when some plan blew up, it was some subordinate or supporter whose neck was found out too far. The President, of course, found himself as the target when he proposed packing the Supreme court with six additional justices of his own choosing and when he sought reorganization of the government, but, generally speaking, the Roosevelt prestige has avoided damage, until now.

Which brings us to the bitter controversy over presidential interference in state primaries, and the second stage—Mr. Roosevelt's declaration that it was a violation of public morality for Republicans to enter a Democratic primary. This controversy is the most heated and has the broadest implications of any of the three in which the storm centered about Mr. Roosevelt's own head. It is likely to be the most far-reaching in its result. The Roosevelt prestige is bound to be damaged whether he wins or loses when the score finally is totaled, and, as far as can be seen now, he will not be able to avoid it.

I remember having written, when the President made his cross-country trip in the dual capacity of President and head of the Democratic party, that it appeared difficult to dissociate the two capacities. I predicted at that time, two months ago, that there were germs of trouble in such an attempt. It was not long before the germs were growing. Mr. Roosevelt's pat on the back for Senator Buckley of Ohio, and his bold command to the Democratic voters of Kentucky to send Sen. "Dear Alben" Barkley back to the senate brought a shower of ripe verbal eggs onto the head of either the President or the head of the Democratic party. I did not know which personality was naming the favorite Democratic candidate in the primaries then, nor do I yet know. From all of the information from those states since, I gather that the voters in the primaries did not know whether they were voting to support the President of the United States or the head of the Democratic party.

Pat on Back for McAdoo, Face Slap for O'Connor

Then, on to the Middle West and the Far West, the pat on the back for Senator McAdoo, who has opposition for the Democratic senatorial nomination in California; and, next, in Georgia where Mr. Roosevelt uttered the now famous "God bless you, Walter—but you're no liberal!" to Senator George, to be followed by a direct endorsement of Lawrence Camp for the senatorial nomination against Mr. George. Later, Mr. Roosevelt gave a vicious political slap in the face to Rep. John O'Connor, in New York, and attacked Senator Tydings in Maryland by saying that Representative Davey Lewis ought to have the Democratic nomination.

In addition to these direct interferences in state primaries, Mr. Roosevelt's subordinates—men like Relief Administrator Hopkins and Secretary Ickes—horned into primaries in Iowa, Oregon, Idaho and elsewhere. They were well licked in Iowa and Idaho, and it was the result in the latter state that has brought up the second stage of the controversy.

Idaho's Senator Pope used to say that if any constituent wanted to know his position on a given question, it was necessary only to inquire whether the President was for or against it. Apparently, the voters in Idaho did not like that; they preferred a senator to vote their views rather than one who consistently voted the President's view. Anyway, they nominated Representative Clark, in their Democratic primary. He had something in excess of 3,500 more votes than Mr. Pope.

The licking administered to Senator Pope did not taste well to the President or the coterie of New Deal advisors. Senator Pope obviously did not like it either, and he did the childish thing of emitting a loud and noxious squawk that the nomination was taken from him by Republicans. He said they went into the Democratic primary and gave Representative Clark their votes in sufficient number to override the will of a majority of the Democrats in the state. Senator Pope went to Hyde Park, N. Y., to weep out his slurs on the shoulders of Mr. Roosevelt, but it has not been made clear whether it was the shoulders of the President of the United States or of the head of the Democratic party. Anyway, there was weeping at Hyde Park.

Takes Important Second Step in Controversy

And after that meeting and when the tears were wiped away so there would be no sniffing, Mr. Roosevelt took the important second step in the controversy. He denounced the Republicans as having "violated public morals" by voting for Mr. Clark in a Democratic primary, although if the ballots were secret as the law requires I have been unable to figure out how either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Pope know that it was the Republicans and not the Democrats who brought about Mr. Pope's defeat. Anyway, Mr. Roosevelt—either as President of the United States or as head of the Democratic party—condemned such terrible things as Republican votes in a Democratic primary. Such a course of action, the President or the head of the Democratic party said, constituted an attempt to destroy the direct primary system. It apparently did not matter to the President or the head of the Democratic party that Mr. Clark had campaigned as a Democrat while Senator Pope was sounding off as a 100 per cent New Dealer.

I have been wondering, since the Hyde Park condemnation of the Republicans, how Mr. Roosevelt's position in the two phases of his course can be reconciled. It never has seemed to me to be so terrible for the President or the head of the Democratic party (or the head of the Republican party if the President be a Republican) to state his views about candidates. Probably, the presidential office ought not to be used that way, but I can not get so excited about it as some writers and some newspapers and some politicians have done. I am inclined to regard such action as the purest of politics and politics is a game and the voters have to recognize that it is a game. There has been a lot of meaningless gushing going on about Mr. Roosevelt's course that just fails to impress me at all.

But, on the other hand, there is an old, old quotation: Consistency, thou art a jewel. In remembering and applying that thought, it appears to me that Mr. Roosevelt has gone off the deep end of the pool without an inflated rubber tube for an arm rest. Indeed, isn't it a rather silly thing, an utterly stupid piece of business, to claim the right to interfere on his own part and tell the common, ordinary garden variety of voter that he can not take a position because he once played on the other team?

Is Roosevelt's Forgettery Working Well These Days?

Further, I am wondering whether Mr. Roosevelt's forgettery works so well that he fails to recall his appeal in 1932 and again in 1936 for Republicans to follow him, elect him as the savior of the country. It seems to me if it is sauce for the goose, the old gander can eat the same food.

Further, there is a bit of logic about the whole thing that ought to be examined. Take the state of Georgia, for example, where the Democratic nomination means election. A Republican in Georgia would be sunk without a trace, as far as selection of someone to represent him in congress is concerned, if he wanted to have his real choice recorded. His only course, if he preferred one Democratic candidate to another, would be to enter the Democratic primary and vote for one of those candidates. Assume that the Republican voter lives in Idaho. If that voter felt that neither of the candidates for the Republican nomination for the senate measured up to his ideas, why should he not be allowed to vote in the Democratic primary in order to express his preference? It might well be that a Republican voter in Idaho would feel that the Democratic nominee had a better chance of being elected in November than did the Republican nominee. If he felt that way, it appears to me that he would be showing good sense, common horse sense to express his preference on that side of the fence. I believe Mr. Roosevelt's record would look very much better at this point if he had extended his congratulations to Representative Clark in Idaho, and promised him the support of the Democratic national committee in the forthcoming election, as was done by National Democratic Chairman Farley. Surely, that would have been sportsmanship and the attitude of a good loser.

It may be, however—and this is an implication from the indications of the day—that Mr. Roosevelt is trying deliberately to force a realignment of voters throughout the country. He may be seeking to drive radicals into his camp—in case of a third term urge—and the conservatives into another camp.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF

'The Nurse and the Thug' By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Here's a holdup story with a different twist—a tragic one, for, we learn from Augusta C. Goresdale, L. I., "The gunman confessed to Judge Savoy he was about to assault me." Had it not been for a coincidence related below, Augusta's adventure would have had a different ending.

Augusta, who is a nurse, was attending an invalid patient and on the night of April 4, 1936, at 11:20 p. m., she alighted Metropolitan avenue trolley a block and a half from the house she was employed.

The road at that point happens to be very lonely, inasmuch as John's cemetery is but a block away. Augusta felt rather that reason as she was walking that distance from the trolley.

Suddenly, ahead of her, she saw a lengthened shadow, moving in the same direction. SOMEONE WAS COMING BEHIND HER.

She looked back to make certain, and, sure enough, a man was following along toward her. Augusta felt the man might be following her, she figured she would cross to the opposite side of the road to see whether the man would actually follow her.

He did. Augusta looked back once more as she was crossing as she did, the man crossed also. He, too, was looking back whether the road behind him was clear. "I was not mistaken," says.

No Chance to Escape by Running.

Fear came over her. Fighting for control, she realized that panic, that she must suppress her blind desire to outrun the hope lay in that course, she must use her wits instead.

Behind her the footsteps grew louder. At last, unable to restrain herself, Augusta turned. Not a foot away from the man. She attempted to turn back to the avenue, as there were cars going through, but the fellow prevented her from doing so.

The drunken thug was getting rough, and Augusta began to panic. She was to go on ahead of him and obey his orders as he had with a gun and would use it on her if she screamed or made any attempt to call for help.

At the same time, Augusta says, the man pressed his hands against hers so that she might feel that he had a gun.

The man wore a leather jacket, and had his hand in his pocket, concealing the weapon. This was enough for Augusta's thoughts of flight vanished. She knew she must somehow get out of this situation. But she knew in the next instant that she had a choice. The man was under the influence of liquor, and past the reasoning stage.

Augusta Invented a Husband.

As the man began getting rough, Augusta told him she expected her husband along any minute, and that he had a police officer. "You'll be in for an awful lot of trouble!" said the persistent annoyer, hopefully.

Augusta adds in parentheses: "I happen to be a widow." She thought by manufacturing this story the man might get let her alone, but, on the contrary, he seemed inflamed by it. He became rougher, boasting that he could handle the situation. Augusta, seeing now how drunk the fellow was, began to tremble.

And despite her rising panic, she knew that her one hope was in just one thing—SHE MUST NOT LET THIS FELLOW HOW FRIGHTENED SHE WAS OF HIM.

To scream was useless; there was no one who would help. One should happen along.

The man was powerful, and Augusta was powerless against his drunken strength. In vain she wrestled to free herself from the man. He was just about to overpower her when, turning down the street, Augusta saw the headlights of a car.

Her Savior Was a Policeman.

The thug had his back turned. Augusta, recalling her fear of a few moments back, cried out: "Here he comes now!"

The instant's attraction was enough. While the thug watched as he thought, the approaching police officer (Augusta's friend) pulled away from him and threw herself into the arms of the headlights!

The car was traveling at a pretty good clip, and the policeman told Augusta afterward that he did not see her until he was almost on top of her, and actually came very close to running her down.

Augusta leaped on the car's running board, begged the policeman to help her, explaining that she was the victim of a holdup. By this time the thug was making his getaway. He was good headway, WHEN SUDDENLY AUGUSTA HEARD A SHOUT.

And here's the strange coincidence. The very man who had stopped in the car proved to be a police officer in plain clothes who was coming home from a prize fight. He was a total stranger to Augusta, but he must have been just as effective as if he had been an ordinary husband she had tried to scare the thug with. A next scene in this drama shows the thug up before the judge, was commended by the court upon being able to hold the policeman enough for help to come.

Apes Test Coins

As protection against the wave of counterfeit coins in Siam, merchants of Bangkok and other cities have installed large apes as coin testers. Every coin received is given to the ape, which puts it in its mouth. If it is good, the animal drops it into a receptacle behind him. If it is bad he throws it on the floor, chattering loudly. How they know the difference is a mystery, but they are said always to be right.

Honored With 'Great Graves'

Among certain tribes of Indians in Colombia and Ecuador not long ago, the depth of a person's grave was gauged by his former standing and influence, says Collier's Weekly. While ordinary individuals only rated an eight-foot burial, important men such as chiefs, witch doctors and rainmakers were honored with "great graves," often sixty feet deep.

Park's Fame Due to Height

South Dakota is unique in possession of the only mountain whose fame is due to its height. It was first found because of a strange whistling noise caused by the passage of air out of its original entrance. The phenomenon is believed to be due to the wind blowing through the cave, as the direction of the wind blows through the mountain, it depends upon atmospheric conditions.

Mount Rainier Third Highest

Washington's Mount Rainier, 14,419 feet high, is the third highest in height in the United States, being topped only by Whitney in California and Elbert in Colorado. Rainier is the highest of the huge range of mountains in the Pacific Northwest. Mount Shasta in California, is 14,549 feet high, and Mount Fuji in Japan, is 19,341 feet high.

Sterley Home Demonstration Club Met Thurs.

"Inviting School Lunches Should Always be Prepared", states Mrs. John Carter in giving a school lunch demonstration to the Sterley Home Demonstration Club September 1 in her home.

Mrs. Carter said that the more tempting your lunches are the more they appeal to your children's appetites. She suggested a sweet sandwich with egg, cheese or meat sandwich and vegetables, fruits, custard or jello and milk for a lunch. Dixie cups may be used for soft ingredients and these cups may easily be discarded by the children. Apples, oranges, bananas and tomatoes are fruits that may be used. Wrap each sandwich separately in waxed paper. Each child should have one quart of milk daily. Cocoa or milk shakes are very good substitutes.

Five new members, Mrs. C. E. Argis, Mrs. Melt Rabbs, Mrs. M. O. Davis, Mrs. Alfred Gordon and Mrs. C. S. Jones, were added to the membership roll. Mrs. Paul Cooper gave an interesting discussion of the last council meeting and Mrs. Hershel Carthel, recreation chairman, conducted ten minutes of various types of games.

A refreshment course of sandwiches and iced tea was served to the following sixteen members: Mrs. Bob Reeves, Mrs. Melt Rabbs, Mrs. John Carter, Mrs. M. O. Davis, Mrs. Alfred Gordon, Mrs. G. A. McAdams, Mrs. C. E. Hargis, Mrs. John Buth, Mrs. C. S. Jones, Mrs. Hershel Carthel, Mrs. Carl McPherson, Mrs. Paul Cooper, Mrs. Ray Tinsley, Mrs. W. A. Cooper, Mrs. Van Brooker and one guest, Mrs. H. LESSON
By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
© Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for September 11
SAUL: MORAL FAILURE

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 10:21-25; 15:20-23; 31:3-6.
GOLDEN TEXT—To obey is better than sacrifice. 1 Samuel 15:22.

Moral failure is the direct result of disobedience to God. This follows from the fact that the moral order established by God. He, then, is the One who knows the right way. "God is always right, and when we are against God, we are always wrong. To walk a road leading away from God is to travel straight to ruin, and this is what Saul did" (Wilbur M. Smith).

The story of Saul's choice as king, his personal qualifications for leadership and his ultimate disgrace and death, is one that should give pause to every young man or woman who has been afflicted with present-day ideas that brilliance of mind, quickness of wit, and apparent worldly success, apart from obedient submission to God, are satisfactory ends in themselves. "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death" (Prov. 16:25).

I. "There is None Like Him" (10:21-25).
Saul was chosen of God to be Israel's first king. God Himself had been their king, but they in their willful unbelief wanted to be like neighboring nations. And the choice of both God and the people fell on Saul, for there was "none like him among all the people."

Never has a man been privileged to enter more auspiciously upon high office. Physically he was well-equipped, head and shoulders above the people (10:23). Mentally he was fitted for leadership. He was humble (9:21). He was spiritually right (10:6-9). He had a tolerant and kindly spirit (11:13). He was a successful military leader (ch. 11).

For two years all went well, but then came the crisis which proved that all was not as it should be, when Saul presumptuously took the place of Samuel as priest and made an offering (13:9-13). This was later followed by his disobedience in sparing Agag.

II. "To Obey is Better Than Sacrifice" (15:20-23).
God had commanded that there must be utter destruction of the Amalekites and their possessions—something like the burning of a disease-infested house—a wiping out of a king and people who were condemned of God. We may not fully understand this act of God, but if we know Him we will not doubt that it was in accordance with His infinite wisdom and love.

Saul chose to disobey, later contending that it was done because of the people, that sheep and oxen had been spared for a sacrifice to the Lord. Samuel cuts through his hypocrisy and declares that God wants obedience rather than sacrifice. This is a lesson that many who profess to follow the Lord have not learned.

"All the sacrifices and ceremonies of religion are to aid and promote obedience, not to be a substitute for it. Disobedience can never be made a virtue, even though attended by thousands of sacrifices" (Stanley). The church or the individual who denies or disregards the teaching of God's Word and attempts to make up for it by sacrifices and ceremonies declares to the world that there has been a departure from true faith in God. Obedience is a virtue all too rare.

III. "The Battle Went Sore Against Saul" (31:3-6).
This quotation from verse 3 relates to a particular battle, but it may well be applied to the entire battle of Saul's life. Having once begun the downward path of presumption and disobedience, the descent became rapid.

The man to whom God had given a new heart and upon whom He had poured out His Spirit fell to such a low state that we find him in 1 Samuel 28 consulting a witch, a spiritistic medium, seeking opportunity to speak with Samuel, who had already gone to his reward.

Spiritism is an evil current in our day, and therefore it may be well to point out that while mediums do seem to have the power to simulate the dead, they bring this about through familiar spirits (1 Sam. 28:7); that is through communication with evil spirits. The dead do not actually return, but they are represented by demonic agents. When the witch of Endor called on her familiar spirit, God intervened and actually brought Samuel from the dead to the great surprise of the witch. No Christian should ever have anything to do with Spiritism. If he does he indicates that his spiritual life is at very low ebb and that he is in real soul-danger.

The death of Saul writes a tragic end to a promising life, destroyed not so much by outside influences as by the moral decay within. The wise man said that as a man "thinketh in his heart so is he" (Prov. 23:7). It may not show today or tomorrow, but eventually the heart that is wrong leads to a life that is wrong. "Keep thy heart with all diligence: for out of it are the issues of life" (Prov. 4:23).

STRICKLY CONFIDENTIAL—Cotton season is here again—just a few days until the gains will start—turning out bales of white lint which represent weeks of hard labor to Floyd County farmers—Everyone enjoys the sight of the light blue haze which smoke from the gins causes to engulf Floydada during the fall.

STRICKLY CONFIDENTIAL—I just can't take it—when the autumn comes I begin feeling morose—hating to see the trees, flowers and grass turning brown and every object of summer beauty becoming bare and unpleasant to the sight—September and October could be worse—but November (the month of suicides)—statistics show that more people take their lives during this month than any other—probably because of their bleak surroundings.

STRICKLY CONFIDENTIAL—I suppose you have heard the one about the 'nigger in the woodpile'—well last week I was talking with a local business man and remarked to him (concerning a certain issue) that 'there is a colored folk located in the furniture' to which he retorted: 'Yeah, there's an african in the underbrush—and he's not cutting my kindling'—well—to get back to the point—of the world's supply of cotton—The United States will produce this year only about 30 percent—not many years ago the States (about 13 of them) raised 85 percent of the cotton used in world—No remarks about the woodpile—nor the woodshed either for that matter.

STRICKLY CONFIDENTIAL—I haven't had an opportunity to go dove hunting as yet—but several of Floydada's nimrods have reported good luck—bringing in the bag limit for the day—15 birds—Some people are still of the belief that shooting doves is an omen of bad luck—And these superstitious persons are right—If the hunter shoots them between dusk and dark and too early in the morning—or if said hunter is found with more than 15 in his possession—or if said hunter is found with more than three shells in his gun—However—the bag limit does not bother me as I have never been known to do that well but one day in my experience with a gun.

STRICKLY CONFIDENTIAL—The sporting slate has been cleaned to the point of having only two items listed—Football—and hunting—Two big games over the past week have centered the nation's interest on the gridiron again—the All-Star-Rodskins two games—the latter better known as Slingin' Sam Baugh et al)—and now some important games such as the Slaton-Floydada struggle—in the making we lovers of the joint of swinehides should be happy.

STRICKLY CONFIDENTIAL—There is one thing of major importance that these 20 years on the plains have taught me—Never to make a weather forecast—But sometime it is necessary that I receive a bit of financial conviction—just to keep me in condition—I projected my neck the other day to place a small wager on the weather—bet a farmer a drink that he received a rain within the week—the same afternoon showers were had all around him—and he received not a drop—of anything but the Coca-Cola I bought him the following Saturday—I am learning.

STRICKLY CONFIDENTIAL—I have been following a certain weather prophet for several years—the only way I ever win is making my opinion exactly opposite his—perhaps the fellow knows all the aches and signs of approaching precipitation—but something goes wrong with his calculations.

STRICKLY CONFIDENTIAL—We lovers of Drama—well remember Shakespear's line—'all that glistens is not gold' etc—perhaps to change it a bit—'all that listens are not told'—Confidentially yours, Strick.

FLOYD COUNTY FARMERS REPORT DAMAGE TO COTTON BY LEAF WORMS

A number of cotton producers have reported to county agent D. F. Bredthauer, leaf worm damage in their cotton and in several communities farmers are busy spraying and dusting their cotton fields with the hope of keeping the leaf worm under control.

The leaf worm has done serious damage in the past in some of the cotton producing counties in south Texas. In south Texas it is found that at least seven generations of this insect are found annually. The early brood of the worm by destroying the leaves of the cotton may prevent bolls from maturing. Later broods not only reach the leaves but may strip every plant in the field of its leaves and squares and gnaw into the bolls and then crawl away in search of more cotton, their only food plant.

For the first few days after a worm hatches it feeds on the under sides of the leaves and eats clear through the leaves but leaves the upper skin then spots thus made turn brown and are early indications that the worms are present. Later the worm moves to the top of the plant to feed and then they are easily poisoned with arsenicals.

It is recommended that calcium arsenate be used for dusting or a spray. If dusted from 5 to 8 pounds per acre of calcium arsenate should be applied depending upon the size of the cotton. The best time for application is in the early part of the morning when the dew is on the plant and when the air is usually quiet. If the poison is to be applied as a spray, 3 pounds of this material should be mixed with 50 gallons of water and this mixture kept well agitated during the application.

In applying the materials in spray form, any manufactured machinery suitable for the purpose may be used. Growers in many sections improve their own machinery from a spray pump attached to a barrel, with plumbing pipe used to form a boom, supplied with tees and nozzles to direct a spray downward over each of three or five rows. These are generally satisfactory for control of the leaf worm and are not expensive.

Likewise, manufactured dusting machinery is best for making dry application. However, for leaf worm control, other cheaper and more primitive methods of application are usually effective. The simplest form is a cheese cloth bag, filled with the poison and shaken over the rows as one walks along. One tied to the end of a pole to hang over the respective rows, and shaken as one walks between the rows or held over a saddle as one rides on horseback, a stick being used to hit the pole and cause the poison to dust from the bags, enables one to accomplish the work more rapidly. Still another effective method is to fasten a 2x4 across a cultivator carriage, with the bags attached to accommodate three or five rows. Blocks wired to the tires of the wheels at intervals gives a jolting effect that shakes the poison on the plants as the cultivator is drawn along the rows.

Hand-Knits Combine Style, Service for Campus Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

STURDY and protective from the elements were things knitted in the "long, long ago" pioneer days, but they lacked the esthetic. But modern knits! It is as if knitting in this day and generation had become a magic art whereby designers have dramatized the theme to a point of high styling such as our faithful ever-knitting great-great ancestors ne'er dreamed could be.

Back to college in a knit bolero frock such as the stunning model to the right in the group illustrated will cause one's sorority sisters to voice a chorus of oh's and ah's of admiration. It's worth the experiment, just see if it isn't! A bumpy crocheted cotton lends itself beautifully to this knit design because of its resiliency and smart rough surface effect. Boleros come in so "handy" and you can wear this one separately with other frocks if you wish. You'll like the flattery of the figure-molding dress that, together with the bolero, forms as stylish a costume as ever might be.

With fringes all the rage this year you will be right on your toes come autumn if you wear a trim sports outfit as shown centered in the trio. It is knit of a nubby crocheted cotton and what endless wear one does get out of these cotton crochets! Wash them and wash them and it never fades their good looks. Then, too, being handknit, they have style and distinction. It is not only that the fringe that finishes the edges is definitely fashion correct but it gives opportunities for interesting color combinations. The jacket fits snug around the waistline to give a neat line, which is a highly important styling item—that of the fitted defined waistline.

Wouldn't any school girl, business woman, debutante, clubwoman—wouldn't any member of the fair sex that goes motoring, or treks about town love a handknit coat as here pictured? It sure is an inspiration to start knitting needles clicking. It is knit of a nubby crocheted cotton in a striking plaid patterning with immense patch pockets of the darker color. They will tell you at any fancywork department where you get the yarn as to effective color combinations. You can make this colorful coat up very quickly if you get at it with a will. Grand to wear to the early autumn games! Here are a few general items in regard to latest knitting trends. The tendency this season is to knit entire suits or ensembles, the exquisite simplicity of which achieves a smart tailored look. Interesting skirts are ribbed around to simulate pleats. Wear gold jewelry with your new black knit frock. Sweater jackets are "dolled up" with silver buttons of hand-wrought type. Knit-ting combined with woven fabric is very popular, as for instance a cloth jacket with knitted sleeves. Plaid skirt with bright sweater is popular schoolgirl formula.

Sweater and Skirt

Little fashion-correct "Missy" in this picture is dressed in her new sweater and skirt outfit ready to answer first-day-of-school roll call. It's the smart vogue this season for little girls to companion a suspender skirt of handsome wool with a sweater of exact color match. In this instance the skirt of fine Arlingcrest wool (comes in interesting colors of Scandinavian influence) has a novel suspender fashioning that widens as it buttons to the skirt belt.

Muffs Match Hats In Latest Trend

Muffs that match hats are among the latest fads to tempt women seeking the unusual in costume accents. Many different decorative fabrics such as matelasse crepe, embroidered wool and velvets are being used for these as are the numerous fur fabrics. The hats are of the turban type, always high and often draped. The muffs are variously shaped, depending upon the fabric. Fur materials, for example, are cut very simple, while the decorative materials are draped, twisted and bow-trimmed.

Don't Be Deceived By New 'Doll Hats'

It's a fact that doll hats are gay deceivers. They look so impossible off the head you can think you can't possibly wear them. But you can! And to your amazement you will find them actually becoming. Step in to your favorite milliner's, try on a few, and you will find they are irresistible.

Just now the shops are displaying little black velvet types that pose over one eye with a head strap at the back which holds them firmly into place.

Veil Tied Over the Face
That is the way smart Paris women are wearing their veils—tied over the face. They are wearing veils to a far greater extent abroad than we in America are doing.

Huge Jeweled Pendants
The latest is to suspend a handsome antique-looking pendant from a thin necklace. Earrings are very much in evidence, too, and they also follow the pendant motif.

Jet Embroidery
See the hat and bolero "sets" of black velvet that are embroidered in jet. Newest thing out!

MILK IS FAVORED AS POULTRY FEED

Stimulates Birds' Appetites in Hot Weather.

By Dr. W. C. Thompson, Poultry Husbandman, Rutgers University, WNU Service.

Because hot weather tends to lower feed consumption of poultry flocks, resulting in lower egg production, anything which stimulates the appetites of birds is of value in summer. For this purpose there is probably nothing better than milk. Milk can be fed in the liquid form as either buttermilk or skim milk for drinking purposes when available in sufficient amounts. One hundred birds will consume between 35 and 40 pounds of liquid milk daily if they do not have water available, and a large quantity is needed when milk is used in this form. Ordinarily, it is not feasible to give birds milk only and, when a limited supply is available, it can be given the birds for a portion of the day, with water provided after the milk has been consumed.

The semi-solid or paste form of milk is very satisfactory for summer feeding, as it is palatable and the birds will consume it in rather large quantities, even under adverse weather conditions. When first used, it should not be fed to the extent of more than about 2 pounds for each 100 birds daily, but this can be increased gradually until 4 or 5 pounds can be fed without any detrimental results.

Milk in paste form is probably one of the best summer feeds for poultry. It is even somewhat superior to dried milk, unless the latter is used in a moist mash. Increasing the dry milk content of a dry mash does not usually produce any beneficial effects, because the birds do not increase their dry mash consumption during the summer, with the result that the increased milk content is of very little benefit. As a matter of fact, dry mash consumption is noticeably decreased during spells of hot weather.

The use of an increased quantity of milk in the proper form should be continued until late September, or until such time as more satisfactory weather conditions prevail.

Flies Not All to Blame For Drop in Milk Flow

Don't blame the flies for the drop in summer milk production, says H. R. Searles, extension dairyman, University Farm, St. Paul. Your feeding practices may need overhauling.

Summer is the low-cost period for the dairyman, and if cows go down in production when pastures begin to get short, he is losing an opportunity for profit.

The ripe mature grasses have about the feeding value of wild hay, and the dairyman can supplement these through a variety of ways. Second crop hay can be pastured, with some care to prevent loss from bloat when pasturing legumes.

Then, points out Searles, there is always regular barn feeding, which is practiced by the good dairyman every summer. Alfalfa or clover hay, if available, is cheaper than grain. Searles explains that the best dairymen of the state feed hay right through the summer, even when the grass is plentiful. Feed what the cows will eat twice a day, he says. For the fresh, high-producing cows, a few pounds of grain will be needed, however.

Where hay is not available, about a half winter ration of grain will give excellent results. If there is a fair supply of grass, the ration can be any one of the farm grains available—corn, oats or barley. But where there is very little grass, the ration should be supplemented with its regular high protein feed, such as linseed oil meal, corn gluten meal, soybean meal, or cotton seed meal, up to 10 or 20 per cent of the grain mixture.

C. Houston Goudiss Enumerates the Nutritious Values of the BANANA

Explains How Our Most Satisfying Food Fruit Helps to Maintain Health at All Ages.

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th Street, New York City.

BEFORE the discovery of the vitamins and before we knew as much regarding the body's mineral requirements, interest in food was centered around proteins, carbohydrates and fats. Fruits which in general supply little protein and fat, and widely varying amounts of carbohydrates, received scant consideration as a source of essential nutrients.

But with our steadily increasing knowledge of vitamins and of the importance to the body of a long list of essential mineral elements, fruits have assumed a commanding place in nutrition. And those who follow the primary rule of a well balanced diet and serve fruit twice daily have been rewarded with increased health and vigor.

In addition to their minerals and vitamins, fruits are valued because of their bulk or cellulose which helps to insure regular health habits.

The Most Economical Fruit

Many homemakers consider that fruits as a class are among the more expensive items included in the food budget.

But that statement is far too general and indicates a lack of information concerning the comparative nutritive values of the different kinds of fruit. For example, it has been said of the delicious and economical banana, that it gives more nutritive as well as money value than almost any other food.

Fruits, in general, are frequently divided into two classes; they are known as flavor fruits when they contain 80 per cent or more of water and as food fruits when the water content is less than 80 per cent. Bananas are a food fruit of the first order!

Ripe bananas are rich in carbohydrates and furnish the body with splendid energy values, with a minimum tax on the digestive system.

Double Fuel Value

When fully ripened, this fruit provides quick energy because a certain amount of its sugars are almost immediately absorbed by the body. On the other hand, several hours must elapse before the remaining sugars are completely assimilated. Thus, eating bananas provides a continuous supply of energy for a considerable period. They not only help to promote rapid recovery from fatigue but also furnish a continuing supply of energy which keeps one from becoming hungry again too soon after a meal.

The edible portion of one average-sized banana weighs about 3 1/2 ounces and provides 100 calories. It takes almost the same weight of white potato to yield the same number of calories.

Bananas a Protective Food

Bananas take an important position among the protective foods, because they are a good source of four vitamins, A, B, C and G, and contain a total of 11 minerals. They leave an alkaline-ash following digestion.

Fully ripened bananas are easily digested and are mildly laxative.

Valuable in Child's Diet

Bananas deserve a prominent place in the child's diet from infancy to maturity. Some baby specialists prescribe mashed and strained ripe bananas as one of the first solid foods to be introduced in the infant's diet. The

OVERWEIGHT.

Spoils Your Looks Impairs Efficiency

... And it may seriously affect your health. If you are over 30, and weigh more than the normal weight for your height at the age of 30, the chances are that you would benefit greatly by a rational program of weight reduction.

You are invited to write to C. Houston Goudiss for his scientific Reducing Bulletin, which outlines the safe, certain and comfortable method of weight reduction by counting calories. It includes balanced reducing menus and a chart showing the caloric value of all the commonly used foods.

With it, you can easily compute the caloric value of every meal you eat.

Just write to C. Houston Goudiss, 6 East 39th St., New York City—a post card will do—and ask for the Reducing Bulletin.

Bananas are always in season and are usually most inexpensive. It is desirable, of course, that only fully ripened bananas be eaten raw. That is because their constituents vary with the degree of ripeness.

Bananas are picked when they are green and hard, and the carbohydrate content is almost entirely starch. As they ripen, the starch is converted into easily digested sugars.

In fully ripened bananas—those in which brown flecks appear on the yellow skins—the starch has almost entirely disappeared and the flavor has been developed to its highest point. The all-yellow banana is also ripe enough for eating and it is likewise firm enough for cooking. Partially ripe bananas—those which are yellow with a green tip—may be cooked and served as a vegetable or as dessert.

Considering their availability, ease of digestion, high food value and economy, bananas deserve to be classed as one of the staple foods in every well planned dietary.

Questions Answered

Mrs. G. R. McK.—When peas and beans cause discomfort, owing to their tendency to form gas, they can frequently be eaten without distress in pureed form.

Miss M. L. A.—Both sweet and white potatoes contain vitamins A, B and C; but sweet potatoes are a much better source of vitamin A than white potatoes.

1,000 SCOUTS EXPECTED TO BE TENTED NEAR TECH CAMPUS SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24th

Special to the Plainsman:

Approximately 1,000 Scouts and leaders are expected to set up camp just north of the Men's Dormitory on Texas Tech Campus for an all day Camporee here on Saturday, September 24, Ralph Stroup, general chairman, announced.

Three definite divisions in the events of the day will be graded. Campcraft, to include making camp, cooking, camp kinks and set up of the troop camp; organization and leadership to include adult as well as junior and patrol leadership; games and contests to include such activities and games as the Camporee Bulletin suggests.

Following the activities of the day the Boy Scouts and leaders of the South Plains Council will be guests of Texas Technological College at their football game with Wyoming. Only registered scouts and leaders on presentation of their credentials will be admitted to the football game without charge. Scoutmasters have received definite information about the Camporee and several troops are making plans now to attend. Prizes will be awarded troops reaching a certain standard of excellence and a cup to the highest scoring troop at the Camporee.

New and Interesting Exhibits Are Planned

Special to the Plainsman:

Many new and interesting exhibits are being planned by the Boy Scouts for the Panhandle South Plains Fair to be held here September 26 to October 1. The Boy Scout Building has been overhauled, relocated and a new layout for the exhibits is being planned, Thord Dockrey, general chairman, announced.

Quite a number of troops, individuals, and patrols have made definite statements that they are going to participate in the fair. Greater participation than has ever been experienced before is expected by the fair committee.

Cash prizes and ribbons for the winners have been definitely arranged for and with advance time to make preparation this year's exhibit is expected to be the best ever held at the fair.

Floydada Gins Preparing to Receive Cotton

Floyd County gins are being put in condition to receive the 1938 cotton crop. Gin men, together with their mechanics and assistants, have been busy for the past several days overhauling machinery and making needed repairs.

Cotton over this section of the plains is rapidly maturing and several farmers have reported open bolls in their fields. Persistent dry weather in several parts have caused early maturity, and light yield is expected this year.

First bales had been received the latter part of last week from several counties east and south of Floyd but none had been received here. The first bale of 1937 cotton was ginned in Floydada Saturday, September 11. This bale came from the Clarence Reddy farm southwest of Starkey.

B. M. Lloyd Goes to Corpus Christi on Sales Position

B. M. "Buddy" Lloyd, salesman with Bishop Motor Company, left Monday for Corpus Christi where he will begin his work with a Ford agency as new car salesman.

Mr. Lloyd has made his home in Floydada for some time and engaged in sales work during that period. Mrs. Lloyd, who is employed with Martin Dry Goods, will join her husband in Corpus in about five or six weeks.

STERLEY HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET WITH MRS. BOB REEVES

Special to the Plainsman:

"In canning you're not running a filling station" stated Miss Ruth Grimes in giving a demonstration on "Bringing Food Preservation up to Date" to the Sterley Home Demonstration Club on August 18, at the home of Mrs. Bob Reeves. Miss Grimes further stated that canning should be done to keep food values and food flavors and not just to fill up the family. She also favors preserving foods in ways other than canning where it is possible; for example, the use of the locker system for the cold storage of meats. This service is offered at a very small cost by the Plains Co-operative Creamery.

During the business session of the meeting Mrs. Paul Cooper gave a report of the county council meeting held at Floydada on August 13.

The following members and visitors were present for the meeting: Mesdames Alfred Hamblen, Lizzie Noaves, John Carter, John Bath, G. A. McAda, C. P. McPherson, Joe Anderson, A. B. Blount, Bob Reeves, W. A. Cooper, R. L. Powell, Jno. McClendon, Bert Bobbitt and Paul Cooper, and Misses Ruth Grimes and Juanita Reeves.

MISS ROBBIE SHEPPARD AND LEWIS HOLLINGSWORTH MARRIED AUGUST 29th

Announcement was made here this week of the marriage of Miss Robbie Sheppard, of Shawnee, Oklahoma, and Lewis Hollingsworth, of Floydada, on August 29. The ceremony was held at Chandler, Oklahoma.

The bride, who is a sister of Mrs. Sam Brewer of Blanco, has visited in Floydada a number of times. She attended Shawnee High School. Mrs. Hollingsworth is the daughter of Mrs. C. L. Sheppard, of Shawnee.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hollingsworth of Floydada. He graduated from Floydada High School and later attended Baylor University at Waco and El Paso School of Mines. At present Mr. Hollingsworth is employed as line-man with Texas-New Mexico Utilities Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth will make their home in Floydada.

LORAN LIEBFRIED FAMILY VISITING IN FLOYDADA

Mr. and Mrs. Loran Liebfried and daughter, LaJuana, are visiting in Floydada this week with friends and relatives. They are making their home at Cunningham, Texas.
